For a time the immigrants won. Then the luck changed and veered the other way. In less than half an hour the immigrants had been stripped of every penny they had. Realizing at once they had been swindled, they turned on their companions and with knives drawn made a furious attack on the cowering sharpers. Before the detectives could rush in and check hostilities the three sharpers had been cut to ribbons by their infuriated victims and all were sent to a hospital for repairs.

Here was a case where all hands were arrested and all convicted. The sharpers as coin matchers and their victims for carrying concealed weapons.

Of course in these coin games the men marked for plucking never have a chance. The swindlers in laying down their coin invariably let their confederate know how the coin lies. For instance, in slapping the coin down the hand flashes the signal of head or tail. If the thumb is kept close into the hand, it means that the coin lies with head up. If the thumb is extended it indicates that the tail is up and the confederate is thus guided as to the manner in which he shall slap down his coin. It is the old game of heads I win and tails you lose, the victim never having a ghost of a chance from the first.

JOHN KELLY, ALIAS ALEXANDER DEVOE

GEORGE WAGNER, ALIAS GEORGE MILLER.

"New York is infested with coin matchers," a clever detective told the writer a day or two ago, "and, strange to say, it is not always the ignorant alien who is swindled.

"There have been half a dozen cases within the last six months where this swindle has been worked to the extent of several thousand dollars at a single sitting. A banker of North Carolina was fleeced out of $9,000 at his hotel here not long ago and he was so ashamed of himself when it was all over that he declined to prosecute when he had the opportunity. Strange to say, we heard of the case through the swindlers, and not from the victim. Elated by the success of the game and surprised by the silence of the victim they had boasted of their achievement while conversing with fellow crooks, and in this party was one of our stool pigeons. He right away reported the case at Headquarters, and I went to the hotel and put it up to the victim. He neither denied nor affirmed it, but his replies were such as to leave no doubt in my mind that he had been fleeced.

"Then I put it squarely up to him and threatened to arrest him as a common gambler. He could not be bluffed, but finally he said:—

"'Now there is no use in making a fuss over this matter. I alone am the sufferer. I went into this thing with my eyes open and I can only blame myself. The fever was upon me and aroused by the excitement of high play I kept on, never suspecting that my new found friends were other than the respectable business men they represented themselves to be. I lost continuously, but inspired by the hope that luck would turn I kept on. When the showdown came I was out a considerable sum. But I am frank to admit I will sacrifice twice that much rather than have my name appear in the newspapers in connection with so disgraceful an affair. The money I lost was my own and I can very well afford to lose it. But under no circumstances can I afford to have it known that I have been such a fool. They got the money and it served me right. I hope they are enjoying themselves on the fruits of their crooked gambling deal.'

"'Gambling deal?' I exclaimed. "'Why, my friend, there was no gamble to it. You never had a chance from the moment you started. It is no gamble when your antagonist simply cannot lose. If we were a plain sucker, that's all, and it would serve you good and right if the whole affair was given all the publicity it deserves.'

"Here is a peculiar case that occurred in New York a few days ago and, strange to say, it never got into print. A young man representing a big concern in Baltimore came over here with a large sum of money with which to close an important business deal. Perhaps he was not accustomed to travelling to strange cities, for upon arriving at his hotel he neglected to deposit his money in the hotel safe. Visiting the bar later in the evening he injudiciously displayed his roll, and of course there were several on the lookout for a peep at just such an easy mark. Two elegantly dressed strangers, affable and polished in manner, approached the Baltimorean and invited him to join them in a bottle of champagne. He accepted the invitation and a second and third bottle were opened. Then all three adjourned to a gambling house, where a faro layout was in operation. The young man from the Monumental City confided to his new friends that he had often 'gone up against the bank' in Baltimore and that he almost invariably won.

"Play started, and for a while it seemed as though the Baltimorean's home luck had followed him here. He won nearly every bet he layed. This went on for a time and, as his run of luck increased, the drinks were ordered and drank with more frequency. After two hours of play the Baltimorean awoke to a realization that he had staked his last bank note and that he was stripped clean. This sobered him and his nerve returned.

"'I want my revenge,' he said. 'I have plenty of money on deposit at the hotel and I will go for it. When I return I will show you how this game of faro should really be played.'

"He was back in less than half an hour. As he approached the table he was warmly greeted and urged to resume his old seat. But instead of seating himself he whipped a revolver out of his pocket and stuck up the table.

"'The money I have lost here to-night,' he said, 'belongs to my employers. I am an embezzler and therefore desperate. I am ruined if this thing is discovered now, rather than face the shame of it all and disgrace my family, I will blow my brains out, but not until I have shot down every one of you in your tracks. Of course, you can take your choice.' Either take back every penny of that money to me on the spot, or I will blow your heads off and mine, too. I have nothing to lose as you see.'

"That discussion was the better part of valor was readily recognized. The money was refunded, dollar for dollar, and the fast youth, with a desperate man's courage, backed out of the room, while he kept his gun trained on his cowering associates. He entered a cab that was speedily driven back to his hotel.

"His first act upon reaching the hotel was to deposit his money with the night clerk. Then he took a stiff drink of brandy and retired to his room, much more sober and far wiser than when he first arrived in New York."

Magazines Want Women Writers, Says Miss Tarbell

MISS IDA TARBELL, successful magazinist, sounds an optimistic note in regard to magazine work as a career for women.

"There is a great opportunity for women in magazine work," says Miss Tarbell. "This is one field in which a woman labors under no handicap. No one asks when a manuscript is received whether it was written by a woman or by a man. Women in the magazine world stand on their own merits.

"This is a very good thing for women. It makes it impossible for them to complain that they are abused because of their sex. I often grow so tired of hearing those complaints I am glad that there is one place where they are not possible.

"There never was a time when there were so many magazines, so that there is a great demand for workers in this field. There are so many different kinds of magazines also that each person can follow his or her special bent.

"There is a tremendous demand for quality in the magazine field to-day. I think I may say that there is no magazine of any standing whatever which is not striving for quality of every kind.

"The despair of the magazines is that they don't get a better quality of material than they do. The day when a brilliant or unusual feature is received is marked in the magazine calendar.

"The idea of writing or editing from a woman's standpoint is, I believe, all poppycock. I don't take much interest in magazines for women only, as I am incapable of differentiating myself from the human race.

"The requirements of a magazine writer are a real interest in things, a great avidity for things and a desire to write on those things. There is no use in trying to write unless there is something about which you really wish to write.

"The magazine writer must know how to see, must have trained powers of observation, must know how to get at facts and must have a real passion for things as they are, whether she is going after fiction or some other class of writing.

"The difference between the magazine writer known and the better. She must get an education, but it doesn't matter how she gets it. She may get it in college or in school. She may get it by reading.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Poorhouse Girl

A Victim of Aphasia

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Selina Dustin's taken a girl from the poorhouse," remarked Elsie Sayles to the assembled Ladies' Aid society.

Fourteen needles were suspended in midair, and twenty-eight eyes sought Elsie's countenance.

"Not the girl that was found sitting by Willow pond last month, the one who couldn't remember her name?" questioned Mrs. Deacon Oliver.

"I guess it's the same one—poor, mishin' looking critter," replied Mrs. Sayles briskly. "Looks like she had consumption."

"I saw her the day we went up to the poorhouse to entertain the paupers," broke in Angeline Petty. "I thought she was real pretty. She had nice blue eyes."

"Angeline's always looking at people's eyes," remarked Fanny Lawson. "What do you think, girls—somebody told me something one of the old men at the poorhouse said after we'd gone away that day!"

"What did he say?" asked Mrs. Deacon Oliver. "I knew they was real pleased at our taking the trouble to entertain them."

Fanny laughed maliciously.

"He said they felt sorry for us—the Ladies' Aid, mind you, girls—and that they were coming down to entertain us some day."

"Why is he sorry for us?" asked Angeline curiously.

"He says we're 'pauper minded.'"

Fanny exploded this bombshell and folded up her work preparatory to going home.

"Pauper minded!" they shrieked in chorus. "What does he mean?"

"Give it up. Goodby, all!" said Miss Lawson, with an airy wave of her hand.

"Do you suppose she made it up?" asked Elsie Sayles after Fanny's trim figure had passed through the front gate.

"She ain't smart enough. She don't know the meaning of pauper minded," snapped Mrs. Oliver crossly. She had been the one to inaugurate a monthly day of entertainment for the benefit of the inmates of the county almshouse, and she had a real grievance not only against the aged man who had voiced the unhappy opinion, but against the institution and all its inmates.

"If that's all the gratitude them paupers have got I guess I won't take no notice of Selina Dustin's poorhouse girl," she added severely.

Angeline Petty moved indolently in her chair.

"I'm going to call on her and ask her to come to Sunday school," she remarked.

"Anybody want to come with me to call on the poorhouse girl?" she asked, tucking her work into the ample black bag in her lap and rising to go.

Mrs. Petty sniffed audibly.

"Angeline, you'll go on your own responsibility," she protested.

"I'm not afraid," retorted Angeline quietly. "None of my relations died in the almshouse. I ain't a bit sensitive about calling on that girl. She's young, and she's nice, even if she is poor and not exactly right in her head. It ain't her fault that she can't remember her name, is it?"

"What do they call her?" asked Mrs. Oliver stiffly.

"Mary Jones. Well, I've got to go all alone, I see. Ma, don't look so sick over it. 'Tain't as if I was going to elope." Angeline waved a plump hand at her faintly smiling parent and waddled comfortably out of the room and down the path to the gate.

At the gate she paused for a few moments and looked uncertainly up and down the road, and then, as if suddenly coming to a decision, Angeline crossed the road and plunged into the footpath that led through the oak woods to the crossroads where Selina Dustin lived in a long white house half hidden among locust trees and lilac bushes.

In Selina Dustin's front yard Mary Jones was sitting on the circular bench under the largest locust tree. She was delicately fair, with deep blue eyes and little white hands that looked as if they had never done a day's hard work. The hands were idly folded on the lap of her blue cotton dress.

"She's fleshing up and growing prettier every day," said Angeline to Selina Dustin, who was sitting on the side porch.

"I ain't the only one who thinks so," murmured Selina, with a satisfied smile at the graceful form under the tree.

"What do you mean?" asked Angelina, sinking into a chair.

"I mean that Raymond Ellis is sweet on her. Don't tell any one, Angeline," pleaded Selina softly. "If you do, sure as fate some of them old tabby cats will talk about her."

"Raymond Ellis!" repeated Angeline dazedly. "Why, Selina, he's never taken notice of a Little River girl before. He's so lofty and proud."

"He's been here a dozen times, sprang up to the front door, and asked for her like a gentleman. Nothing sneaking and underhanded about Judge Ellis' boy," said Selina warmly. "I 'lowed her to entertain him in the parlor, and she played on the old pianner and sang to him in the sweetest voice you ever heard. Sung in some furrin langwidge too!

"Before he went home Raymond came out into the sitting room where I was and he sez to me: 'Miss Dustin, we got to find out about Miss Jones; she's refined and educated, and it's evident that she comes from nice people. Can't you help her remember her name?'

"And I faced him and I says sharply, 'What business is it of yours, Raymond Ellis?'"

"What did he say?" whispered Angeline eagerly.

"He flushed up and looked handsomer than ever, but he spoke firm. 'It's my business, because I'm going to marry her if she'll have me, but I want to give her all the chance there is to find out about her folks if she can remember.' So he told me he was going to bring down a great specialist from the city who would examine her. I told him to go along and do it, but I don't know, Angeline, I hope I'm doing right."

"He's a noble fellow," said Angeline, wiping away a tear. "I came to call on her and ask her to come to Sunday school," she went on.

"She'll be glad to go, Angeline. It's made me real mad to see how the village girls are acting about Mary. It ain't Christian-like."

"They'll get over it as soon as they know her better," said Angeline leniently. "I'm going down to talk to her."

The next Sunday Mary Jones went to Sunday school with Angeline Petty. She wore a plain white lawn dress, and her hat was a cheap white straw trimmed with pink roses. The village choir flushed resentfully when the stranger's trained soprano rose high and sweet above their untutored voices.

This fact, together with the marked attentions of Raymond Ellis to the "poorhouse girl," was the cause of bitter jealousy among the Little River girls, and after she had been snubbed several times Mary Jones remained away from church and Sunday school, much to the indignation of Angeline Petty and her mother, who brought the matter before the members of the Ladies' Aid society.

"There's only one thing you can do to wipe out the sign of pride and jealousy that's at the bottom of your treating Mary so meanly," cried Angeline, stirred out of her wonted calmness, "and that is to gather your daughters and come and call upon Mary Jones. There ain't no other way!"

"If we don't do it I guess we'll be pauper minded," added Mrs. Petty grimly, for she had asked the minister the meaning of the term.

Late that afternoon a company of twenty women and girls trailed along the narrow path through the oak wood and came to Selina Dustin's house on the crossroad. Just as the last one had passed through the gate and the head of the delegation reached the steps of the porch the front door opened and four people came out.

Miss Selina Dustin, Mary Jones, Raymond Ellis and an elderly man of dignified appearance stood on the porch and stared in surprise at the women and girls gathered on the lawn.

"We came to call on Mary Jones," said Angeline rather weakly.

Mary Jones flashed down the steps and threw her arms around Angeline's neck.

"You dear, dear thing!" she cried warmly. "You have been so kind to me, the little poorhouse girl!" She lifted her head and looked tearfully around the softened faces of the women. "I know you will all be glad to hear my good news. I can remember who I am!"

Angeline kissed her. "I guess it don't matter much who you are, dear," she said tenderly. "It's what you are that has suited me right along."

The poorhouse girl kissed Angeline again and then drew that flustered lady up to the piazza, where she stood with an arm around Selina and Angeline. Her fair face was radiant with joy, and it seemed reflected in Raymond Ellis' face and in the countenance of the great brain specialist.

"I want to tell you all how I happened to come here," began Mary Jones. "Dr. Wainwright says I am the victim of amnesia, caused by pressure on the brain from a fall I received some time ago. You see, I was motoring through here with a party of friends. I was riding in the rumble seat, and in some way or other I fell off and was not missed until they were miles away. I must have wandered away at once, for I walked and walked until my shoes were almost worn out, and I had spent most of my money for food and night's lodging at an inn. I couldn't remember what had happened to me. I couldn't remember my name or where I lived. Then I came to Little River, somebody found me, and I was conducted to your almshouse. Then dear Miss Selina Dustin found me and brought me here, not so much because I could help her, but because she was sorry for me.

"Dr. Wainwright has broken the spell of silence that has oppressed my mind. I have remembered my name and my people, and tomorrow I am going home." She clasped her hands joyously.

"But she is coming back some day as my wife," said Raymond Ellis, who had wooed a poorhouse girl and found a wife in the person of Marjorie Dale, the daughter of a New York merchant, who had sought far and wide for his missing child.

And Angeline Petty and Selina Dustin fell on each other's neck and wept for joy, while the Ladies' Aid society filed past Marjorie Dale and tendered awkward congratulations on her restoration to health and name.

And now not one of them begrudges Angeline or Selina her intimacy and friendship with Raymond Ellis' beautiful young wife.

New Amplifier Permits Conversation From Moving Train.

NEW YORK, May 2.—While the eastbound Lackawanna Limited, of the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Railroad Co., was speeding on a non-stop run over the 53 miles between Scranton and Stroudsburg, Penn., yesterday afternoon, C. V. Logwood, engineer of the DeForest Engineering Co., sat in a little compartment of the train and talked easily with telephone engineer Graf, of the Lackawanna Co., who was sitting in the wireless operators' room in the railroad station at Scranton.

This was the first successful trial of wireless telephoning between a moving train and a fixed station, and everything worked without a single hitch. The DeForest amplifier, an invention of Lee DeForest, was used and made possible amplification of speech fifty times above the normal. The wireless telephony is a development of wireless telegraphy between a moving train and a fixed station, which the Lackawanna perfected and put into practical use several months ago.

MOYES ABSENT AGAIN.

Commission Abruptly Closes West Shore Railway Probe.

TORONTO, May 2. — Despite the insistent demands of the Ontario Railway Board that he appear to clear up certain matters in connection with his enterprise, John W. Moyes has left the city, and the enquiry into the affairs of the Ontario West Shore Railway, of which he was president, ended abruptly yesterday morning without hearing him testify. When the session opened the chairman expected the chief witness to arrive, according to intimations from his counsel, but when half an hour later it was learned that Moyes had gone to Algonquin Park, under doctor's orders, the case was closed. A report based on the evidence taken is now under preparation and within a few days will be issued. This report will determine whether or not the criminal proceedings which the counties have sought will be warranted.

William Proudfoot, M.P.P., who was conducting the examination, asked Mr. Moyes' brother if it was correct that Moyes had been working in the garden all week and had left town Thursday evening. The reply was that it was true, but that only Dr. Davidson's orders had caused him to leave. Mr. Moyes had been determined to appear, but had collapsed a week ago while studying papers, said his brother.

"Up to the discovery of the papers we received no assistance from Mr Moyes," said Chairman McIntyre in closing the inquiry, "nor from any other official except Mr. McEwen. The impression conveyed was that Moyes intended to obstruct and thwart the enquiry. Now a flood of light has been let in by the discovery of the documents. We would have liked Mr Moyes to attend after they were found, but were unable to get him here."

Duncan McMartin In Victim of Attack of Heart Trouble.

TORONTO, May 4.—Duncan McMartin, mine owner, real estate millionaire, died on Saturday night at the Wellesley Hospital from heart trouble, brought on by an attack of pneumonia. For a week he hovered between life and death, and it was his strong constitution which enabled him to fight off the end for so long.

Mr. McMartin, who was 44 years old, was born in 1869 at Martintown, Glengarry County, Ont. His first position after leaving school was railroading, then followed railroad contracting, and subsequently gold and silver mining interests, in which he met with great success.

When Alexander La Rose, a blacksmith, discovered the La Rose mine, Duncan McMartin, his brother John McMartin, E. A. Dunlap of Toronto, Noah Timmins and L. H. Timmins of Montreal, formed a syndicate and bought the mine. At that time McMartin was one of the contractors for the construction of the T. & N. O. Railway.

In the last general election Mr. McMartin was candidate in the Conservative interests in Glengarry, but was defeated. His taste, however, never ran toward political life, and he was not a member of any club. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He attended strictly to his business and his home.

In the first regiment he was in there was not a single temperance man.

Gray Hair Becomes Dark, Thick, Glossy

Try Grandmother's Old Favourite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Says Separate School Factions May Destroy R. C. Education.

OTTAWA, May 2.—Rev. Father O'Toole, a local Roman Catholic priest, in a statement yesterday, attacks the leaders of both sides of the local Separate School controversy as demagogues, and declares the interests of Roman Catholic education unsafe in their hands.

He charges Irish Catholics, who, as the result of the conflict with the French, are transferring to Public School support, with putting dollars before religion and censures the French faction for "puerile resistance to the lawfully constituted authority" of the Ontario Education Department.

Father O'Toole declares Catholic education in danger of being destroyed if a more intelligent element does not meet the situation in a conciliatory spirit.

JAMIESON IS SAFE.

Canadian Vessel Not Lost In Tuesday's Storm After All.

KINGSTON, May 2.—The steamer Wm. Jamieson, reported to have been lost on Lake Ontario on Tuesday, coming over from Oswego, turned up safe in Napanee yesterday. On Tuesday night the weather was so rough that the schooner was unable to cross the main gap, and headed for Timber Island, where she lay for 24 hours. As there is no telephone or telegraphic communication there, Napanee could not be notified. The wind changed and the schooner had to make South Bay, and there remained until Thursday night.

Boy Is Set Free.

GALT, May 4.—Before the police magistrate in the juvenile court, with closed doors, the case of Walter Evans, a fifteen-year-old boy, charged with an attempt to fire the C. Turnbull jutting factory, was heard Saturday. A policeman testified to a confession made by the boy that he had purposely lighted a match and thrown it into a bin of inflammable stuff, but had subsequently put out the blaze. His idea was that in case of incipient fire he would be rewarded for detecting and extinguishing it. This admission the accused withdrew, and as there was no direct evidence, the boy was let go on suspended sentence.

Fatal Loss of Bath.

PARIS, May 2.—Because he allowed his friend to make use of his bath, Henri Person, an accountant, yesterday was found guilty of homicide by imprudence. Maurice Lisse, a leather merchant, was found dead in the bath, having been asphyxiated. Examination of the bathroom showed that the ventilation was defective, and the court held that M. Person should not have allowed his friend to use the bath when in such a dangerous condition. The court fined him twenty-five francs, and allowed the widow of Lisse one franc damages.

Part of the broken wire fell on his wrist, and the resultant shock knocked him down, but he soon recovered and endeavored to resuscitate Marriott, who proved to be beyond aid.

MUST LEAVE KIEV.

Jewish Families to Number of 580 Are Ordered Out.

CHICAGO, May 4.—That a fresh anti-Jewish crusade has been inaugurated at Kiev, Russia, whereby 580 Hebrew families have been ordered to leave the city despite the petition of many Christians, is contained in a cable received Saturday by the Chicago Daily News. The despatch, which is dated Kiev, May 1, says:

"After the closing here of three private high schools for girls, 580 Jewish families have been ordered to leave the city. Christian householders petitioned the Government in vain, to revoke the order, as the expulsion of Jews would mean the ruin of many house owners. Notable citizens called on the local governor, Gen. Sokoskin to get his help for the Jews and the community, but they received a curt refusal."

An Exchange of Courtesies.

An amusing incident occurred at Boyle Quarter Sessions, a few days ago. A witness in a case, a Mrs. Rock, was told by Judge Wakely, that she was "a fine-looking old woman." "Do you know," she rejoined, "what I said to myself when I came into court?" "No," said his honor. "Well," she went on, "I said to myself you are the finest looking man I ever saw." "You make me blush," expostulated his honor, amidst loud laughter, and Mrs. Rock went on to say she was seventy-five years of age, and never saw a judge before.

Suffrage In Africa.

Woman's suffrage is making rapid strides in the union of South Africa. A bill for enfranchisement of women was defeated in the House of Assembly of the Union the other day by the narrow margin of 43 to 42. When only one vote is lacking for the adoption of the measure, the aggressive campaigners for suffrage may be relied upon ere the bill appears again to convert the odd man or two whose votes are necessary for adoption.

This Boy And Girl Had St. Vitus' Dance

Boy Lost All Strength and Girl Could Not Speak—Doctor Could Not Help Them—Cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

So great is the strain on the system of the growing child that even with a careful attention to the food supply it is often difficult to keep up vitality.

It is necessary to supply a blood-forming treatment in condensed and easily assimilated form, so that it may be quickly taken up by the blood stream and thereby nourish the feeble nerves back to health and strength. It is difficult to imagine anything so admirably suited to this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. D. Ardies, Brandon, Mann., writes: "My son, aged fourteen, and little girl of three years, were both stricken with St. Vitus' Dance. The doctor told us what the ailment was, but could not keep them from getting worse and worse, so when I received a book about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. The boy had lost eighteen pounds in two months, and could scarcely take hold of anything. The little girl lost the power of her tongue, and could scarcely speak. I now take pleasure in stating that they are both quite well, and you would never know there had been anything the matter. The boy has gained twenty-five pounds in weight. I am very thankful there is such a medicine on the market, and that I happened to get the little book just when I did."

Mild and gentle in action, and yet wonderfully potent in its restorative influence on the system, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a splendid help to children who are pale, weak, and puny, slow in developing or nervous and irritable. Fifty cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ARMISTICE ASSURED.

Carranza Reported To Have Agreed To Suspend Fighting.

WASHINGTON, May 2. — Assurances of peace, with a steady abatement of "war talk" was the dominant feature in the Mexican developments here yesterday. Attention was still centred on the work of the South American mediators, who reported steady progress and the avoidance of any deadlock between the parties.

A despatch last night from Mexico City says: "It is reported here that a tripartite agreement to an armistice was signed here yesterday morning by representatives of the United States, the Federals and the rebels. Joseph Manuel de Oliveira, the Brazilian Minister, confirmed the report, except as to the actual signing of the agreement.

While the gravity and the hopefulness of the situation varied from hour to hour, the envoys of Argentina, Brazil and Chile kept steadily at their work, holding two lengthy sessions at the Argentine Legation.

It was known they were expecting another definite development yesterday, which might lead to a statement later, but its purport was not disclosed. There was reason to believe, however, that it related to the attitude of Carranza, who, having accepted the mediators' good offices, was now desirous of suspending hostilities pending the good offices.

Summing up what the mediators had done up to this time, a well-posted authority said it represented more actually accomplished in a given time than had ever occurred in the history of intermediation.

ST. CATHARINES, May 2.—After the legal argument had been given yesterday in the preliminary hearing of the charge against Leslie Downey of conspiring with H. L. Pearse and others to defraud Dr. Currey of Merritton of a sum of money, Magistrate Campbell reserved judgment until Tuesday morning.

HAMILTON MAN KILLED BY ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRE

Was Handling the Bulb Attached to a Portable Electric Light Wire When Shock Came.

HAND WAS BURNED

Examiner Special:

HAMILTON, May 3.—Leonard T. Stewart, grocer, at the corner of Gage Avenue and King Street, met with a fatal accident Saturday evening while he was handling the bulb attached to a portable insulated electric light wire in the cellar of his place of business.

The store contained a large number of customers at the time, and Mr. Stewart had gone to the cellar for a quantity of coal oil. He switched the electric light on and with the empty coal oil can in one hand proceeded to the place where kept the oil. His little daughter, who was standing at the top of the stairs, noticed her father reach up and take the electric bulb in his right hand. Almost immediately there was a flash of fire, and the unfortunate man, still holding to the can, and the bulb, fell backward against the stairway. The little girl called to her uncle, Robert Stewart, of 101 Erie Avenue, who was in the store. The latter ran to the scene, and found the unfortunate man's clothing on fire. He knocked the burning wire from Stewart's hand and the body fell forward at his feet. Just as the live wire was knocked from the hand of the victim the street lights went out and remained out for the balance of the evening, while the lights in the store and in many residences in the neighbourhood gave evidence that something had affected the lighting system.

A number of doctors were called, but all efforts to resuscitate the unfortunate man were fruitless. Examination of the body showed that the palm of the right hand had been burned almost to a crisp while there were also various burns on the body.

Dr. Hopkins, who was called, decided that an inquest was necessary and empanelled a jury, who, after viewing the body, adjourned until Wednesday evening.

HON. SENATOR GIBSON DIED THIS MORNING

Special Wire to The Examiner:

HAMILTON, May 4—Hon. Senator Wm. Gibson, capitalist and Liberal, died at Beamsville this morning. He was born in 1849 at Peterhead, Scotland. He was a prominent Mason and popular citizen.

Liberal Majority In Senate Decreasing

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 4.—The death of Senator Gibson this morning reduces the Liberal majority in the Upper House to fifteen, when three vacancies now existing are filled. The standing of the parties is now 51 Liberals, and 33 Conservatives. Increased senatorial representation for four western provinces will soon be passed and these appointments will leave the parties about equal in the Senate.

IT WASN'T EVEN A COMIC OPERA DUEL

Special Wire to The Examiner:

PARIS, May 4.—The much-talked-of duel between former Minister Caillaux and his political opponent Falliers, this afternoon was a farce, but the code of honour was satisfied. Caillaux fired his revolver into the air three times and the other man fired his into the ground three times. The combatants were reconciled and it was considered a day well spent.

THE TORONTO JAIL IS WORST ON CONTINENT

Claims Dr. Bruce Smith Who Has Recommended That the Provincial Grant Should Be Cut Off

"OVER-CROWDED, A FIRE-TRAP"

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 4.—Dr. Bruce Smith, Provincial Inspector of Prisons, has condemned the Toronto jail as overcrowded, ill-ventilated, insanitary, a fire trap and the worst jail on the Continent of America. He has recommended to the Provincial Secretary that the Provincial grant be cut off immediately. If this has not the desired effect the Inspector states that the City of Toronto should be indicted for maintaining a nuisance.

He declares that discipline is lax, and that immorality exists on account of that. He reports that the women's quarters are overrun with rats, and has ordered that the underground cells, hitherto used for women, must not be used in future.

BALLONIST NEARLY DROPPED INTO LAKE

Special to The Examiner:

BIDGETOWN, Ont., May 4—After drifting hopelessly about for many hours in a balloon over Lake Erie, fearing they would drop into the water any minute as the supply of gas was running out quicky Ross Upson Harry Moir and Walter Becker, of Akron, Ohio, dropped down here amid the startled citizens last night. They left Akron on Saturday night, and their airship became unmanageable. Fortunately a slight breeze sprang up and blew them in off the lake. They are going back to Detroit to-day with the remains of the balloon.

Provisions Of The By-law

Some days ago the Examiner intimated that it would publish the sections of the Scavenger By-law, which were of public interest. The By-law was engineered by Sanitary Inspector Spence, and was for the object of safeguarding the public, and at the same time improve the conditions relative to the public health.

The sections are appended:

By-law No. 1820—A By-law to make regulations respecting the health and welfare of the inhabitants of the City of Peterborough.

No person shall engage in the business of a scavenger unless he shall first have applied in writing to the Sanitary Inspector, who will issue a certificate that he can comply with the conditions of the By-law.

Each scavenger shall have qualifications, apparatus, and appliances necessary to carry out his duties in compliance with the Public Health Act.

After doing work, a scavenger shall use an amount of disinfecting agents necessary to prevent any odours.

The Sanitary Inspector has provided that a special can, made of galvanised iron, with a tight fitting lid, shall be used. These cans hold thirty gallons, and for this amount, the scavenger is allowed to charge one dollar. Heretofore the scavengers have charged their own prices, and the public have been charged exhorbitant prices. Orders are given only by the Sanitary Inspector to all scavengers, and no scavenger can do any work without having first obtained such direction or order from the Sanitary Inspector.

Their duties also include the removing of carcases of all animals to the incinerator.

Any scavenger contravening any of the provisions of the by-law, relating to matter respecting the public health, or sanitation, may have his appointment revoked, or his right to act as a scavenger suspended, by the Sanitary Inspector, for such a time as he may declare.

Further, anyone guilty of a breach of the by-law, is, upon conviction, liable to a penalty not exceeding $20, and costs, or to a term of not more than six months in the common jail of the County of Peterborough if the fine is not paid.

EXPENSIVE ON SUNDAY

Over-Indulgence in Liquor on the Sabbath Results in Several $5 Fines Being Inflicted

AN INTERPRETER NEEDED

With the aggregation of Italians that we have in the City it would be well if some of the Police Department would become acquainted with the Italian language. This morning Matteo Borelli was charged with being found drunk on Rubidge Street, last evening. The charge was read over to him by Magistrate Dumble, who asked the usual question, "are you guilty or not guilty."

A jumble of incomprehensible phrases was the only reply the Court received.

"No comprehenz vous," said Magistrate Dumble.

Yet another outburst of the Italian language left a feeling of failure with the Chief.

Chief Thompsen then told Constable Hayward to ask him if he was drunk yesterday. The constable then got conditions mixed up. He must have forgotten that the man was a foreigner and thought he was deaf, for he bawled the question into the man's ear. Again an answer was received which was not understood but Chief Thompson, acting as interpreter, gave the meaning as the following, which was as near to English as could be gathered. "He had six glasses of beer yesterday, Your Worship." There is no doubt," said His Worship, "that the man was drunk. I fine him $5 to be paid in five days.

John Sieney, the same old John Sieney, as he was termed, from Havelock, was also charged with being found drunk yesterday evening. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5. "Nothing less for a Sunday drunk" said the Court. "People here go to Church on Sundays and do not like to meet drunken people on the way."

Wm. Hamilton was charged with being found under the influence of liquor while on the black list. He pleaded guilty and was assessed $10, to be paid in ten days and also divulged where he got his liquor.

William Sloan was fined $2 for being drunk on Saturday, and Robert Nixon was assessed $5.75 for being drunk in charge of a horse and rig. Both pleaded guilty.

WILL NOT TRY TO STOP DUEL

Special Cable to The Examiner:

PARIS, FRANCE, May 4.—The authorities are making no effort to prevent a duel between Caillaux and Failleres, his political opponent, and it will take place this evening on the outskirts of Paris with pistols at twenty-five paces.

CRITICISM FOR WILSON

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4. — Wilson's administration is to have further severe criticism this week, commencing to-day in the Senate, when the bill repealing the act exempting the United States vessels from Panama Canal tolls comes up for discussion. The Republicans will fight hard to have the bill sent back to the House of Representatives for further consideration. The prevailing tone of the speeches will be that Wilson is showing tendency to weaken the dignity of the United States in response to British feeling.

MAY MEET IN CANADA

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The mediators between Mexico and the United States are meeting to-day, trying to get down to details. In the meantime government officials say they are taking no chances of General Huerta's fighters suddenly breaking the armistice, and General Funston has made his lines around Vera Cruz practically impregnable. Some of the mediators are in favour of transfering the seat of negotiations to some neutral territory, probably Canada. In case this is done it is not known whether Ottawa, Montreal, or Toronto will be selected for a meeting of mediators.

LUMBER COMPANY COMMENCE WORK

Peterboro' Lumber Co. Started Their Mill This Morning—McDonald Mill in a Few Days

A GOOD SEASON

The Peterborough Lumber Company opened their mill at Burnham's Point this morning for the summer's operations. Last week the plant was made ready for resuming cutting, steam was up several days and a good summer is expected. There was no scarcity of men for the various departments, and it is understood that the company begins with a complement of one hundred employees. All the departments are running and the recommencement of this industry will doubtless be welcome to the men usually engaged in the work.

Hhe McDonald mill is expected to be opened during the present week, or at the latest on Monday next. The shingle mill is under way, and it is expected that in a few days all the departments will be in full swing.

SPAWNING LUNGE HAD MANY FISHERMEN ON THEIR TRAIL YESTERDAY

The fishing inspectors had their hands full on Sunday watching the men who were suspiciously near the creeks in the vicinity of the locks, where the lunge are spawning. Every lurker along the banks at this time of the year is usually put down as a suspect, and there were many of them out yesterday. It is a rather easy to carry a snare or gaff in one's pocket, or to conceal a spear under your coat. The number of men around the creeks render the work of the fishing inspector a real job at this season. While it might be expected that some fishermen would prefer to let the fish spawn for the good of future seasons, there is a lure in beating the inspector during the closed season. The inspectors probably feel that some fish were pulled out, even on Sunday, and at that they are not miles astray. While the inspectors are covering a certain section there are others claiming the attention of the spear and snare men, and there would be doubtless fish hauled out even if the inspectors were an army in number. Inspector Watt had a place of vantage on Sunday, from which with glasses he swept the two creeks above the Locks on the east side of the river. But no glass can see through a railway bank to what is happening on the other side. The work of a fishery inspector at this season of the year is no sinecure.

NO LICENSE FOR MAPLE LEAF

Certificate of Electors Declared to Be Not in Proper Form and Therefore Application is Not Valid

WORD FROM DEPARTMENT

Geo. Lipsett will not get a license for the Maple Leaf Hotel in East City this year. Although the License Commissioners of West Peterborough granted him a license at a recent meeting it was only on condition that his petition was in legal and proper form. The matter was referred to the provincial authorities, and Dr. Morrison has received a letter from E. Saunders, Chief Officer of the Provincial License Department that the certificate of the electors is not in proper form, and that therefore the application is not valid and no licence can be granted.

63 Baptisms Since Easter Sunday Morning

There were large congregations at both services at the Park St. Baptist church yesterday. At the morning service the subject of Rev. Mr. Conners' interesting sermon was "Christian Constancy." At the close of the service six received the hand of fellowship, after which the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed. The attendance at the Sunday School in the afternoon totalled 235, there being 31 men in the pastor's class. In the evening Rev. Mr. Conners' preached on "The Ample Provision of the Gospel," a strong appeal to the unsaved. At the close of the service seven more were baptized, making a total of 63 baptisms since Easter Sunday morning.

FOUR MUTES BECOME MEMBERS OF THE T.A.S.

An unusually interesting feature of the reception of new members by St. Peter's T.A.S. was recorded on Sunday afternoon when four mutes were among the new members enrolled. Mr. Dan Sheehan interpreted the pledge in the sign language, and the new members were given a cordial welcome.

Mrs. George Carruthers, Aylmer street, was the victim of a painful accident on Friday. While descending a flight of stairs at her home, her foot slipped and she fell the length of the stairs, sustaining fractures of the collar bone and arm.

HUERTA'S MEN BROKE ARMISTICE SATURDAY

Demanded Surrender of Tejar Waterworks—Big Attendance at Bull Fight on Sunday.

TROOPS IN POSITION

VERA CRUZ, May 4.—After Saturday's acute alarm, when it was reported a considerable force of Mexicans had attacked the American outpost at the water plant, nine miles out, all was quiet here yesterday. Many of the American soldiers attended mass in the old cathedral in the morning, while in the afternoon great crowds attended the bull fight.

The question of the food supply still occupied general attention, but it has not reached a stage which may be regarded as critical, although many products have run short.

Strict orders were issued yesterday from headquarters for the American soldiers and marines in Vera Cruz and the vicinity to remain in the same positions and not to advance or to bring on an encounter with the Mexican troops.

During the alarm over the flurry at the waterworks at El Tejar Saturday, detachments of marines and bluejackets were prepared for an immediate landing. Field guns were put into readiness for conveyance ashore, but at the last moment, when headquarters had established the fact that there was no need for assistance from the fleet, all orders were cancelled.

Official reports declare not a shot was fired, but other sources are persistent in their opinion that shots were exchanged by the outposts.

Fight Must Go On.

EL PASO, Texas, May 4. — Gen. Carranza has formally declined the suggestion of the mediators, that he cease hostilities against Huerta, pending the outcome of the plan of mediation. His note, sent to Washington Saturday, was made public here yesterday.

Mine Has a Friend.

MEXICO CITY, May 4. — A despatch said to have come from Manzanillo on the Pacific coast, announces that the Mexican steamship Luella was sunk yesterday in the harbor by the explosion of a mine which had been planted for the U. S. protected cruiser Raleigh. No loss of life is mentioned. The steamer belonged to the Pacific Railway Co.

Food at Tampico Red.

VERA CRUZ, May 4.—Conditions in Tampico are daily growing more serious, according to Capt. Blackadder of the Ward liner Comanche, which arrived here yesterday flying the Cuban flag. He said the water supply had been entirely cut off and that conditions in the city were very filthy. The inhabitants were benefiting on famine and prices were continually increasing, eggs fetching $1 apiece, potatoes and tomatoes 50 cents a pound and other foods in proportion. With the exception of U. S. Consul Clarence A. Miller, and his assistant, there are probably not half a dozen Americans in Tampico, according to the captain.

7000 RAT PELTS WERE PURCHASED

Wm. Lech and Sons State That the Bulk of This Year's Catch is Out of the Hands of the Trappers

QUALITY IS EXTRA GOOD

Messrs. Wm. Lech and Sons have purchased over 7,000 muskrat pelts during the past week paying from 37 to 40 cents each for them. About two thousand were secured from the Georgian Bay district, but the remaining 5,000 were trapped around Peterborough and adjoining counties. From the Indian River, Rice Lake and dawn the Otonabee, also from around Chemong Lake came the bulk of the pelts. While the catch is a little lighter than usual, the pelts are of a superior quality. The trappers have until May 10th to dispose of their catch, but trapping ceased on May 1st.

NEW SECRETARY IS IN HARNESS

Mr. C. N. Meserve, General Secretary of the Local Y.M.C.A. Has Taken Charge

On Friday Mr. C. N. Meserve, who is to be General Secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., took charge of that institution. Mr. Meserve arrived in the city on Thursday, and the following day, entered upon his duties in connection with the local "Y." He comes from Kingston, where he has been general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., but he has also seen service in the Y.M.C.A. work in more than one New York State institution.

On Saturday night he was given a warm welcome by the Leaders Corps at their regular Saturday night banquet, and his chief address to those present at the affair established at once a deep respect and liking for him. Mr. Meserve will reside at 188 Dublin street.

One of the immediate aims of the new General Secretary, who is already in harness, is that of establishing a "Cabinet" from the members of the institution, which, with the Board of Directors as the Senate, will endeavour to look after the welfare of the "Y." Mr. Meserve is already planning to arrange for tennis and other sports during the summer, and taking steps to have the tennis court put in shape immediately.

"I don't think there is another branch of the Y.M.C.A. in the world," said Mr. Meserve this morning, "that has the advantages of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., and charges a membership fee of only $5. Why I was astonished, after I had seen the equipment, to learn that the full senior membership fee was only $5. Of course some of the equipment is slightly out of date, but considering the membership fee I repeat that it is not paralleled anywhere."

Mother Found Baby Boy Dead in Yard From Strychnine

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Ont., May 4. — Harold Kirkland, aged three, was picked up dead by his mother, who saw him lying in the yard, and thought he had fainted while playing. The lad found a number of strychnine tablets and ate them and died in a short time.

C. N. R. Details May Be Given to Committee Of The Opposition

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 4.—It is not expected that the Canadian Northern legislation will come up before Parliament until Thursday at least, and probably not until the beginning of next week. Sir William MacKenzie is in the capital to-day discussing with the government the question of providing information required by the Opposition. It is stated that certain portions of this information is not desired to be made public by the company, and the question of submitting it to a committee of the Opposition is said to be under consideration.

EAST CITY NEWS

A good story is being told in East City in which Rev. Mr. Cragg is connected. Mr. Cragg as is known, has also a country charge, and keeps a horse and buggy. Some of his neighbours keep fowl, and as it turns out they used the buggy as a meeting place. On Sunday a short while ago Mr. Cragg made his usual trip to Bethel and on getting out of the buggy was surprised to see a hen fly out at the same time, and on investigation had laid her regular daily egg. The minister was unable to catch the hen and one of the parishioners brought it back to the owner a few days later.

Mr. Wm. Graham, Hunter Street east, intends to build a residence on the lot on the west side of his present home.

It is understood that ex-Alderman Morgan, who purchased the Irwin property on Robinson Street, intends to run a street north and south through the property and build a terrace of five houses on either side.

An East City resident has been talking of buying the Clancy property corner Hunter and Mark Streets, and of putting up a block of stores on the corner and some houses facing Mark Street. It is not known yet if his plans have materialised.

It is understood that a handsome residence is to be erected on the Calcutt property fronting Sophia Street, during the summer.

Last Ball of the Season.

Mr. J. A. Faulkner, who has held two very successful dances in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, will hold the last dance of the season on Wednesday, May 7th. Tucker's Orchestra. You are invited to come and bring a friend. Mr. Chas. A. Vass, Floor Manager. In case of warm weather electric fans will be used. 2d-103

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

We have daily evidence of the necessity of the work of street tree planting and pruning being undertaken by some competent and intelligent authority, that is if the best results are to be obtained. We have advertised conferences upon city planning for other cities and here Peterborough muddles along without any plan or even any manifestation on the part of the city authorities, of interest in public improvements of this kind. The city doesn't plant a tree and takes no atom of interest in the trees planted upon the streets by public-spirited citizens except to occasionally destroy and mutilate by improper trimming. This should not be. We have beautiful residences and fine lines of permanent sidewalk. These cost money and a good deal of money, but the more beautiful, the more grateful and in the hot season the more comforting thing, that costs comparatively nothing, is neglected. If man will only second the good Lord he will make the trees grow in beauty such as in many parts of the city has made Peterborough a famed beauty spot in this regard.

The necessity of the city taking some interest in the street planting is shown on Wolfe Street. After seven years delay the authorities of Knox Church have planted trees in the streets surrounding their beautiful church building on three sides. In the first place this work should not have been done by the Church. The members and the general public taxed themselves rather heavily to provide a beautiful architectural ornament in the south end of the city, whose dignity and grace are to the credit of the city and a delight to the eye of the public. It naturally became the duty of the city to give this church building the setting of trees planted in the streets. This would not only be a fair thing to do, but it would be encouraging the expenditure of money on the architectural enrichment of the city. No matter how fine a church structure is built, it is only a pile of bricks and stones without dignified ornament of stately trees. Stately trees are mentioned, for without the proper kind of trees, adapted to the soil of the neighbourhood, we don't have dignity or lasting results in the matter of trees.

The necessity of the city or some authorative body, like a commission, undertaking the planting of trees on the streets is shown by the planting of trees on the streets in front of Knox Church. With a view of securing uniformity of effect, continuous and lovely lines of foliage, one authority alone should be concerned in the planting of these street trees.' A competent authority would also select the proper kind of trees. On the streets in front, and on the flanks of Knox Church the variety chosen is the hard maple, on soil and subsoil about as suitable for growing maple trees as a gravel pit would be for growing tulips. The trees have been well placed as to space and distance, and though their conspicuous neglect of proper trimming, the trees will grow for a space, and thrive for a season, but before long they will begin to illustrate the parable of the sower and the seed—

"Some fell upon stony places where there was not much earth and forthwith they sprang up, because they had no deepness of earth. And when the sun was up they were scorched because they had no root, and they withered away."

While perhaps the minister within the church may have been preaching the gospel of proper selection, others outside were violating the principles as far as tree planting with permanent and satisfactory effects go. If the persons who were planting the hard maples had, when straightening their kinks for a rest, cast their eyes to the left, less than a hundred feet away, they would have seen living, or rather, dying, evidences of the unsuitability of the hard maple for ground, with a hot, dry gravel subsoil. They would have seen hard maples planted years ago, but still stunted, gnarled, unhealthy, struggling travesties of trees, agonising to an untimely end on the arid soil of the vicinity.

There are more than a dozen hard maple trees within a stone's throw of Knox church, that are a living death, and soon will be dead, because they have "no deepness of earth." A little further west, upon the same kind of soil, there are stately, strong, thrifty elms, self seeded, that are a beauty and a delight and, if they ar not molested, will be growing and green a century hence. No doubt the hard maple is a beautiful, if rather formal tree, but only when it is planted in proper soil.

It would be a nice thing to grow pineapples in our back gardens, but the climate forbids. And it is just as reasonable to expect success and long life for hard maples, planted upon a shallow soil, with an underlying subsoil of gravel; for the roots of the maple grow directly downward in search of food. On the other hand the elm is a surface feeder and will grow and thrive and soar, where there is "no deepness of earth." An elm is like a Scitchman, it will grow and be lusty and successful as a tree under hardships, where other kinds of trees or other breeds of men would starve.

We need to have our street tree planting done better. The right kinds for the vicinity should be selected, and the size and lines should be uniform. Without these conditions we cannot have beatuiful lines of street trees.

Yesterday in front of a narrow lot, on Park street, was seen a pitiful effort of a lot owner to do the city's duty, in planting street trees. One was a little seedling elm, branching in three or four places, within a foot of the ground. The other was a ghastly Manitoba maple throwing out several straggling, crooked branches, from the ground up. Neither of them was any more fit for a street tree than a tomato vine would be.

But what would you do? The lot owner did the best he knew. He shouldn't have done anything at all; the city should have planted the trees and planted proper ones. There is said to be a movement to have set apart a series of drives about the city, including the most beautiful streets — with the finest trees and residences. The city should do its share in planting trees on every street where they are not now planted. Fine, growing trees increase the value of the property; and the city would have an excuse —though the Lord knows, they don't need much encouragement in this direction — to increase the city assessment and the city revenue; and what is rare, in this case the increase would mean something; represent value to the individaul and the public, for the trifling expenditure made.

Our city fathers are full of schemes for improvement of the city that will cost pots of money. But they are neglecting—year after year—to add an asset in the shape of tree beauty and tree comfort, worth scores of bridges; something that will cost little money and be growing in beauty and value while we sleep, paying interest on the investment a hundred fold and contributing to doing what we are all trying to do, to make Peterborough a desirable and attractive place of residence.

FAULT IN PAVEMENT REMEDIED

Work was commenced this afternoon to remedy some of the "bad spots" in the pavement that was laid on George and Hunter Streets last summer. The first one to disappear under the picks of the workmen was the section on Hunter Street, a few feet west of George Street. Although the fault itself was not of any great area, several yards of the asphalt had to be taken up in order that the new pavement when put down will knit firmly into the old. The work was done at the instance of City Engineer Parsons, and all of the faults in the pavement will be remedied at once.

Cyril Maude Returns to England After Winning Affections of New York

Played "Grumpy" 207 Times at Wallack's Theatre, Where All Box Office Records Were Broken

PLAYED IN PETERBORO'

Mr. Cyril Maude sailed on the Mauretania from New York on Tuesday of this week, returning to England after an exceptionally successful season in New York. Several references have been made in these columns to his visit to America, but the fact that he and his daughter played at the Grand Opera House early in the present season, gives him more than a passing place in the memory and interest of Peterborough people.

On Monday night Mr. Maude gave his 207th performance of "Grumpy," a comedy which, he stated to the Examiner on the occasion of his visit here, his representatives in New York advised him to use. The Liebler Company has given out that "Grumpy" has broken all records from the point of view of the box office at Wallack's Theatre. The following from the New York Times of last Sunday gives an idea of the success he achieved:

To-night Mr. Maude will be the guest of honour at a farewell dinner given by the Friars, who will assemble festively to wish him a good voyage and an early return. Doubtless many pleasant things will be said to Mr. Maude to-night, for in various phrases those who speak can say that he has indeed within the limits of one engagement, succeeded in cutting his name to a respectable depth into the tablet of the nglish players, that in this one season he has fairly established himself as a favourite of the American theatre-goers.

He will come back. London is waiting to see "Grumpy," but so is Boston and Chicago. The call of the road is agreeably audible, but it would be no very surprising thing if Mr. Maude managed to slip back to New York for a brief visit next season, possibly in one or more of the classic comedies.

The long engagement at Wallack's is interesting because the success of "Grumpy" is dependent less on the fleeting thrills of the diamond theft and the camelia chase than on the considerable and sturdy gifts of Cyril Maude as a comedian and as a character actor of unusual skill. In playing that wily and lovable old tartar, Andrew Bullivant, Mr. Maude has been able to stir not only the interest, but — what is far more valuable to him—the affections on the other side of the footlights. Such a hold as Joe Jefferson had upon the hearts of the playgoers cannot be taken in one year or a few years, but it is that sort of hold, apparently, which Mr. Maude has started to take in this, his first New York season.

The engagement opened on Nov. 3, 1913. The English actor elected to make his first New York appearance as Kit Bingham in Robert Marshall's sentimental comedy, "The Second in Command," which John Drew had played here before him. Then came "Beauty and the Barge," which Mr. Maude as the susceptible bargee in the play by W. W. Jacobs and Louis N. Parker, a part which Nat Goodwin had already tried here with indifferent success. The piece was preceded at Wallack's by "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," a grim one-act play that served, at least, to show something of the actor's versatility. That was on the night of Nov. 13. Many cordial things were said, but the big, popular response did not come until in the fourth week of the engagment Mr. Maude tried "Grumpy." He has been playing it ever since—more than 200 performances. Wallack's in the thirty-two years of its history has known some memorable successes, but, according to the statement made by the Liebler Company, "Grumpy" has broken all records from the point of view of the run in the box office.

To the genial ability of his success on the stage at Wallack's must be added the fact that Mr. Maude has been a very sociable visitor in these parts. He has gone about much. In friendly fashion he has joined in all manner of ceremonies, from the commencement exercises of a dramatic school to the business meeting of a drama society. He has given his services to many a programme. When, on the afternoon of Friday, April 17, more than a score of theatres here gave matinees for the Actors' Fund of America, there was only one player who arranged a special entertainment for the occasion. That was Cyril Maude. And to-day, when the Shakespeare memorial services are held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, it is Cyril Maude who will read the lesson. Some such friendliness Charles Frohman must have had in mind when he spoke in London of Mr. Maude's season here, for the English papers quote him thus:

"Cyril Maude has established himself as the most popular actor who has ever come to America. The citizens of New York have given him the keys of the city."

LOST IN WOODS FOR TWO DAYS

HALIFAX, May 4—Alone in the woods for two days and nights and nearly driven insane by fear, were the experiences suffered by Mrs. Owen, aged 60, when she tried to walk from Windsor Junction, N.S., to the home of some friends near Sackville, N.S. Mrs. Owen belongs to Maple Grove, Hartsport, N.S.

After walking five or six miles from the railway station at Windsor Junction on Thursday, Mrs. Owen strayed off the track, and during the night got lost in the forest. Without sleep she wandered around, falling into a pond and getting out with difficulty. Her boots were torn from her feet, while her clothes were torn to ribbons.

To-day Mrs. Owen, hysterical with fright and exhaustion, reached a road near Fairview, where Rupert Purcell, employed by the I. C. R., discovered her and sent her to Halifax.

Mrs. Owen was taken care of by the women of St. Paul's Church here, and she will be sent to relatives at Truro as soon as she recovers from her experiences.

Militia Department Will Pave Streets Near Lindsay Armouries

A Lindsay deputation waited on Col. the Honourable Sam Hughes last week, and one of the questions broached to him was the paving of the streets around the town armouries. The Minister said that it was his intention to have the armouries and its surroundings placed in a condition that would be satisfactory to Lindsay's citizens, and as it had been the custom of his department to pave the streets surrounding the armouries in towns where paving was used he could promist the delegation that their request would be granted.

28c. ON THE DOLLAR FOR DEPOSITORS

Speculation in Stocks the Cause of Collapse of Dale Bank

MADOC, Ont., May2.— Speculation in stocks and in real estate are assigned as the causes of the collapse of the J. C. Dale private bank, while with deposits totalling $478,000 on its books suspended payment three weeks ago by the report of the auditors, Webb, Read, Hogan, Callaghan & Co., who have just concluded a survey of the books of the assets of the bank, the discrepancies between the actual state of affairs and the books amount, according to their statement, to approximately $201,955.56. The annual statements of the bank taken from the books presented to the shareholders and certified as correct by "J. C. Dale, Jr., accountant," and "J. C. Dale, manager," are misleading to that extent, the liabilities to the partners reduce the loss to the depositors to $132,431.29, or approximately 28 cents on the dollar.

The discrepancies are clearly shown by the auditors in a table showing the real amounts, the amounts as shown in the books, and the deficiencies as follows: Debtors for overdrafts, $33,778.80, $30,597.12, deficiency $3,231.77. Current loans and bills $201,468.65, $143,107.57; $58,331.28. Osler and Hammond, $21,014.48, $23,830.60, $2,816.12; debenture account, $168,018.50, $62,-083.60, $128,035.30; mortgage account, $86,188.33, $76,411.02, $10,011.31; J. C. Dale's account, $35,433.41, $23,943.58, $11,489.83; less miscellaneous collections, $9,508.41. Total, $201,955.56.

One Legitimate Loss.

"In the debenture account the discrepancy is accounted for by loans incurred in speculations on the stock exchange, the only legitimate loss we could trace was one of $10,000, in connection with stock in the defunct Ontario Bank. In 1903 several speculative stocks were purchased and operations with stock brokers commenced that in the long run have proved disastrous. Referring to the bank's statement of May 31, 1911, certified as correct by Messrs. J. C. Dale and J. C. Dale, Jr., the auditors say, 'It would be instructive to hear these two gentlemen explain how they account for a surplus of assets over liabilities of $66,000 odd being converted into a deficiency of over $132,000 in the course of ten months."

DOES YOUR STOMACH CONTAIN A GLASSFUL OF ACID?

98 OUT OF 100 DYSPEPTICS HAVE DANGEROUS ACID IN THEIR STOMACHS, WHICH MUST BE NEUTRALIZED IF GOOD HEALTH IS TO BE MAINTAINED.

If you hold a teaspoonful of hydrochloric acid in your mouth for only a second you would not be surprised at its burning and inflaming all the tissues; yet an eminent specialist states that 98 out of 100 dyspeptics go about with a glassful or more of this powerful acid in their stomachs, and then wonder what causes the burning and aching and why they suffer the discomfort after meals. To put wholesome food into an acid stomach only increases the discomfort, because the acid mixes with the fresh food and turns it sour, making a lot more acid. The acid condition causes food fermentation, which irritates, distends and inflames the tender stomach lining, and it is not surprising that specialists say acid stomachs are dangerous. This decidedly dangerous and uncomfortable condition can be overcome either by following a strict diet or, and this is far easier and more quickly effective, by taking a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a quarter glassful of water after meals to neutralize the acidity. The latter course is much more satisfactory because it corrects the acidity and banishes discomfort without any need for diet.

WORRY IS A HABIT THAT KILLS: DON'T LET IT GET YOU

We have often heard that worry can kill even the nine-lived cat but we have only half believed it, and until now we have had no scientific proof that it was so.

Medical science has recently confirmed the fact and explained how worry commits its murders. It has reached the conclusion that in many instances of what has been regarded as lunacy, and from which the victim finally dies, the case has simply been one of acute worry. Instead of the person dying of mental breakdown he has worried himself to death.

Worry, medical science now defines as the dominance of one idea, usually that of fear. There is a fear of some existing condition or dread of what may happen. The idea crowd, all others from the mind, or permits them only the feeblest and occasional activity. The most terrible tyranny is the tyranny of an idea.

This one idea pounds hammer-like upon one set of brain cells. It overstimulates them, causing an unusual flow of blood to those portions and a dearth of it to other parts of the brain. This would not be serious if it happened only now and then, for every brain cell should be replenished by more than the usual flow of blood at times to keep it properly fed and nourished.

But a constant overfeeding of these cells causes a congestion there. The cells become more and more distended. The worry grows more and more acute. The pounding of the blood against the sides of the cell acquires a hammer-like violence. The sides of the cells wear thin. A cell bursts. There is a so-called "clot on the brain." Death follows.

REFUSE TO WORRY.

The cure of the worry that kills is prevention. Refuse to worry. Do your best, and, having done this, decline as positively to fret about the results as you would decline to drink a draught of poison. Worry comes as an occasional visitant to everyone, but as we shut our doors to unwelcome visitors, so we close the portals against the entrance of worry. Admitted, it ceases to become a visitor—it is a habit, and a habit that destroys. The action of worry upon the brain cells is most like the constant dropping of water upon a stone. At first it makes not the slightest impression upon the stone, but in time it wears it away. The cells of the brain are of more delicate tissue, and the steady wear and tear of the extra blood supply in time quickly wears them out.

Or, according to medical science, it is as though a garment worn day after day without change soon falls into tatters. Examinations of the brain after death have shown a group of nerve cells at the crown of the head that have perished in the same way the nerve of a tooth dies. While every other brain cell seems to be in ordinary condition this group has shrunken. It is a curious coincidence, and science says a consequence, as inevitable as effect after cause, that the hair on the portion of the scalp just above this brain area is the first to grow white. Heat in the scalp causes hair to grow grey, and an excess of blood in any portion of the brain causes the scalp above that portion to be overheated.

Writes Characteristic Letter Regarding Loss of Appetite.

He says:

"Vinol is just the thing
For summer, winter, fall or spring.
Follow directions, take it right,
It will save your lagging appetite.

"I know for I have tried it. For weeks I could scarcely eat enough to keep a snake alive. I have taken three bottles of Vinol and now it looks like I will eat my head off. I am at the table three times a day eating as I did in the good old days when I split rails, dug wells, toped trees, plowed corn and hoed cotton. Try Vinol and see how good it feels to be real hungry."

When you ought to be hungry and are not it is because your stomach does not feel strong enough to ask for food—a sure sign of impaired general health. Better than dosing the stomach with pepsin for temporary relief is taking Vinol, our delicious tonic, which has the strengthening and blood-making power of iron, and the building-up value of cod liver oil. It quickly restores appetite and perfect digestion. If Vinol does not help you it costs you nothing.

FIRST FINE SUNDAY GAVE NEW FASHIONS A CHANCE

The city's enlightened electorate and his wife and family answered the first cordial call of Spring on Sunday, sought the open and tried to evade the dust. Having passed the customary salutation with some sixty or seventy acquaintances yesterday, one feels safe in saying that the opinion was unanimous in respect to Old Probs' offering. It was a great day. You felt glad you had survived the winter. Not that the winter had been more severe than usual, or the milliners' bills higher, but when you feel that it is good to be alive, memory recalls some of the old guard who have been let in on the secret of immortality.

However, this is remote from the new fashions. Yesterday they were on foot, in cars and behind perambulators. Some how or another, the class is less pronounced behind the perambulators. Of course, there are exception: but they are negligible when compared with the other two subdivisions. The highest average of class, according to yesterday's observations, ranges in the feminine gender from fourteen to one year after marriage, and the latter limit is quite variable and indefinite.

Yesterday the acute angled hats were out in force. There must be something fetching about them other than the price ticket, but it is not plain enough for the average male passerby. Evidently the designers have been laying down on the job during the winter, or mayhap they worked overtime for a bright idea and exhausted themselves. But as long daughter goes out with a feeling that the neighbours have to admit the stylishness of her chapeau which is a couple of weeks' wages tacked on to just plain hat, everyone should be satisfied, including the milliner, if fatheer has cashed in. It should be remembered that no one blames the designers.

Getting down to exact statistics it may be said the most class was on foot. 'It spins not neither does it roll by, for the reason that speed leaves only a general idea, and there is no satisfaction to miladi if she pays real money for a chapeau while her friends imagine that what they say was a mere hat. Not at all. Anything will do in a car, especially a flutter of gauzy stuff that catches the breeze and indicates the registration of the speedometer. Clothes are worn to be seen, especially spring clothes from the shops Mrs. Money visits. And what goes for the aforementioned lady and her daughter serves also for oftentimes the equally good-looking daughter of the man on the outskirts who is trying to build a little home for himself and permit his girls to dress as if he owned half a dozen homes.

Strange to say there are quite a number of people who seek the pastoral quiet of the countryside, while the rest are sizing up each other around town. For them, a gravel road where the autos are few! the non-skid tires leave too much of the roadway in the air after they pass along Concession, Romaine or Wolsly street. And so it was yesterday, that the many of the gradually decreasing majority who still walk hied themselves to the haunts of the hypatica, the dog's took violet. Others betook themselves to the silent beauties of Little Lake cemetery, and quite a few wandered through Jackson's Park.

Yes, it was a great day, one of those whose sands you would wish might clog in the hour glass and hold the noon-day sun at its zenith. This would have been all very well for the man who was challenged observation while he did a bit of innocent gardening, but what about the after church roundabout way home under the May moon for the young folk? And there they were, laughing along the streets, safe in the knowledge that no policewomen would shoo the youngest of them home to parents. But why suggest the need of female Pinkertons at the close of a perfect day.

"Two Salvations, But No Second Chance" Subject of Bible Lecture

Delivered in the Royal Theatre Yesterday Afternoon by F. G. Hammes of Haliburton.

WHAT IS A CHANCE?

"Two Salvations, But No Second Chance," was the subject of the I. B. S. A. Bible lecture delivered Sunday afternoon in the Royal Theatre, by F. G. Hammes, of Haliburton.

Th speaker was emphatic in his declarations against a second chance, though he admitted the possibility of viewing the matter from different standpoints. Some hold that every time the infidel hears the church bell ring he has a chance to be saved, that most of them have had thousands of chances. Others claim that about the time the poor infidel has heard the church bell and makes up his mind to go to church and learn of God, his ears are nearly deafened with the din pealing forth from many other church bells, each with a different doctrine. All is confusion. What shall he believe? Which is right? Will he ever get a chance of hearing the Truth read from God's Word without its being warped and twisted to suit the many human creeds and traditions of Christendom? Has such a man had a fair chance to believe and be saved?

What Is a Chance?

A chance for salvation, according to the lecturer, implies a chance of attaining perfect life, a life uncontaminated with death and its concomitants, a life therefore which will never end. Such a life was originally bestowed upon the human race, but the father of the race by sin brought upon himself and consequently upon his posterity the curse of death; for "the wages of sin is death." Death has reigned ever since, and would continue until the whole race is extinct, were it not that Christ became a man like Adam, to satisfy the claims of Justice against Adam and his offspring—"that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man." (Heb. 2:9.) It follows therefore that every man should have a chance to benefit by the provision made for his redemption from sin and death. Those who would cut off the poor heathen at home and abroad without even an opportunity of hearing and accepting the salvation provided for them, are most heartless and unmerciful. Such are proving themselves quite unworthy of the favour of God.

The audience seemed quite agreeable to the thought that God would in justice inform all His creatures of His Plan of Redemption by which they might obtain Eternal Life, and that to cut them off forever without letting them know anything about their privileges in Christ would show either sad neglect or lack of interest on the part of the Great Creator. God's love, the speaker explained, has provided a fair chance for every one. The Lord said: "I will draw all men unto Me"; and again we read, "That was the True Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." (John 1:9.) Every man will get the light. Some have it now, and they consecrate themselves unto the Lord and are begotten of the Holy Spirit, enabling them to see and appreciate the Plan of God and His spiritual promises to the Church. All others, whether in heathendom or bewildered by the many conflicting creeds of Christendom, will receive that True Light in all its fullness of understanding when the mists have rolled away. During the thousand year Resurrection Day, when Satan is bound, "they shall teach no more, every man, his neighbour, saying, know the Lord, for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them."

Two Salvations Provided.

The speaker endeavoured to point out from the Scriptures two salvations, entirely separate and distinct, the one for the Church and the other for the World. He thought that it would be difficult in our day and time to find any one so narrow-minded as to believe that only the few saintly ones will be saved, while the great mass of mankind, good, bad and indifferent, will be heartlessly consigned to eternal torture. Those who study their Bibles are coming to see that while the Church will be rewarded with a place in the Heavenly realms with the Lord, there will be a salvation provided for all who will, in Paradise, the Earth brought to the full beauty of perfection. The great salvation pertaining to the Church, the Scriptures say, "began to be spoken by our Lord," at His First Advent. All therefore who lived before that time, together with all since who are not of the Church class, will after the close of this age, be granted a chance for eternal life on earth.

The lecturer presented a most beautiful picture of Paradise, explaining that the Garden of Eden was a little spot prepared by God and that it might be considered a sample of what the whole earth will be when perfected; for they shall say, "This land that was desolate is become like the Garden of Eden." (Ezekiel 36:35.) "Every man shall sit under his own vine and fig tree," and "the Lord shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

In conclusion, the speaker appealed to his hearers not to be lax, thinking that if they sin in this life, they will get another chance. He said that every wilful sin must be punished, that in the world's Judgment Day some will receive few stripes and some many. Those who are getting their full chance now will never have another. It is wise, therefore, to come into full relationship with the Heavenly Father as soon as possible. Understanding His wonderful love, we should feel all the more like drawing near to Him. It is the gross misrepresentations of His character that have driven the masses away from God in fear.

MEETING TO BE HELD TO-NIGHT

The Retail Merchants will decide a number of questions to-night. A meeting is to be held at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock and a large attendance is expected.

A committee will no doubt be appointed to wait on the City Council to-night with respect to the proposed half-holiday which the Mayor is being asked to proclaim. The secretary has enough questions on the slate to make a busy evening.

NEW ORGAN MAY BE OPENED ON MAY 17

Although the date of the opening of the new organ in the Church of the Sacred Heart has not been definitely announced, Rev. J. J. O'Brien stated yesterday that May 17th would likely be the occasion. The organ will probably be formally opened at vespers on that Sunday, with Bishop O'Brien present to sing Pontifical vespers. The church choir is preparing special music, and Mr. John Armstrong, the organist, will doubtless preside at the new instrument.

1914 CROP OUTLOOK IN WEST IS THE BRIGHTEST ON RECORD

SASKATOON, May 3. — Prospects better than ever before in the history of the district, is the feature of almost all of the reports sent in by 45 correspondents of the Western Associated Press, through central and northern Saskatchewan in regard to the crop outlook for 1914.

Abundance of moisture is recorded in every district, and there is not a single complaint that rain is needed, in fact, in some districts seeding has, if anything, been retarded slightly by an excess of rain. Except at a few points in the north and east of the province, the progress of the crop is on about a par with last year's crop, but in a few places the correspondents state that work is perhaps a week late owing to inclement weather which has delayed seeding.

In the majority of cases, however, from 60 to 80 per cent. of the wheat seeding is done and the farmers are expected to complete the sowing of wheat within the next week, and to have made a good start with sowing their other crops.

A marked tendency toward more careful preparation of land is almost invariably recorded. Correspondents unite in saying that the farmers have learned the lesson that careful preparation of land is well worth while and, as a result this year have their summer fallow in a condition that in few previous years has been equalled.

No large increase, except in some of the newly-settled districts, is reported in wheat, but many districts will this year produce a larger amount of coarse grains than in previous years, due to the almost universal desire of the farmers to go into mixed farming to a greater extent than heretofore.

A CHANCE FOR SOME OF THE LOCAL TEAMS

The following letter has been received by Mr. G. L. Galley at the Y. M. C. A.. It affords a chance for some of the local soccer fans to get busy:

The Secretary, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I am writing to ask you if you are running a football team this year, and if so, could you give us a couple of games. Our average age is 21 years. I should be very much obliged if you could let me know as soon as possible as we are anxious to get a good programme. We have any date you like. If you have not a team, would you mind referring me to the Secretary of any team in Peterborough. Thanking you in anticipation, I remain,

Yours faithfully,

SHOULD CEASE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I would like to call your attention to one thing and that is the standing of women and baby carriages on the main street. That is one thing that should be eliminated. They can talk about the English women standing on the main streets, blocking the passage-way, but what about the residents of this City. The English people do, as a rule, stand in the middle of the street, with a baby carriage, but then even so you will find a lot of Canadians doing the very same thing, themselves. Now, in fact you cannot blame the English for doing this when Canadians set the example for them. It seems the more the streets are crowded the longer they stand. Besides, you will find some of our very best and most highly respected citizens standing in the midde of the sidewalks, talking and gossiping as unconcerned as though they were in their own home, and never thinking of the inconvenience they were putting a lot of people to. When any man or young fellow wishes to pass a group of these so-called gossipers he has to get off the sidewalk for fear of getting his eye torn out, on account of the hat pins which extend so far out over the edge of the women's hats. Now, another thing, the middle of the sidewalk is no place for women to talk about the weather or any other society affair. How is it that you but very seldom see any poor, humble, hard-working woman standing in the middle of the sidewalk, talking about this or that. A woman with brains knows enough to keep moving because she can reason things out for herself. The brains that some people have you could put in a peanut shell very easily and then there would be any amount of room left. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for yiur most valuable space in your paper, I am

Yours most truly,
"Lonelydale."

ASSOCIATIONS AMALGAMATE

At an executive meeting of the Ontario Grocers' Association, and the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, which was held in Toronto last week, it was unanimously decided that there should be only one strong Association with the result that the Grocers' Association will be known as the Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada.

It was also decided to leave the officers of the Grocers' Association in charge of the Grocers' Section.

Mr. N. C. Cameron, the local secretone of the executive officers for 1914.

Mr. N. C. Common, the local secretary, states that the Association is now in a position that it never enjoyed heretofore in the matter of righting wrongs between the wholesaler, manufacturer and retailer, as well as in legislative and other matters.

WANTS TO IMPEACH AMMONS

Special to The Examiner:

DENVER, COL., May 4.—A resolution to impeach Governor Ammons as being directly responsible for the "massacre" in Southern Colorado during the mine strikes will be a feature of legislature which convened here this afternoon at the call of the Governor to provide special funds to pay the soldiers used in the strike region. Ammons will be hotly attacked by the laborites and others. In the meantime the federal cavalry now have the strike region well under control. Sunday was very quiet as compared with recent startling events.

SUFFRAGETTE SMASHES A $10,000 PICTURE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., May 4.—A suffragette to-day in the National Gallery threw a hammer at Sargent's ten thousand dollar portrait of Henry George, smashing the glass and seriously damaging the picture. She was immediately arrested, and the Gallery was closed for the day.

SAYS IT WAS ONLY AN ACCIDENT

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir.—Permit us space in your paper concerning the Police Court case on Saturday morning. Now we wish it plainly understood there was nd case whatever, only an accident, and if your magistrate would look for our previous records instead of the evidence of P. C. Reid, we would not have had a hearing whatever. One of us merely tripped the toe of his boot on the plank on Hunter St bridge.

When we met the young ladies, whom we know, we had no intention whatever of even speaking, to them, and had we known as much then as we do now we would have had a lawyer to defend us.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your paper.

Anniversary Of St. Andrew's Church Was Observed Yesterday

Forcible Sermons Were Delivered to Large Congregations by Rev. J. G. Potter, a Former Pastor

SPECIAL MUSIC

The eighty-first anniversary in connection with the founding of the Presbyterian Church of St. Andrew in Peterborough, was observed yesterday at that Church. The Rev. James G. Potter, M.A., of McVicar Memorial Church, Montreal, and former pastor of St. Andrew's, was the special preacher at both the eleven o'clock, and the seven o'clock services, while he addressed a special session of the Men's Bible class in the afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Potter was pastor of the local Church for some fourteen years. In accordance and in harmony with the day, the services were of an exceptionally bright character. The music was well rendered by the choir under the direction of the organist, Mr. H. Treneer, and included, Prelude, "Under the Leaves" (Thone), solo, "The Ninety and Nine" (Campion) Miss May Laing, duet, "Thy Will be Done" (Gerome) Miss Olive Howell and Mr. John Anderson; Postlude, "Offertorie to St. Cecilia" (Batiste).

The Rev. Potter delivered a very able address in the morning. His characteristics are known to all the old members of St. Andrew's, and as if again on old ground, his discourse was both eloquent, interesting and instructive.

He chose for his text, 10th chapter of the second book of Samuel, and the twelfth verse, "Be of good courage, and let us play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God; and the Lord do that, which seemeth him good."

We have here to consider, he said, the conduct of two out of a family of three boys. The mother was a woman of great courage and character. The father evidently had very little thought for the boys. He was one of a large class who seldom think of offering any consideration on the mother's behalf. He was a man wh cared and thought little, as far as we can understand condition of those times. These boys, however, were not going to turn down the offers of such a woman as the mother. They were going to reflect honour and were going to fulfil her ideas with encouragement and enthusiasm, were going to manifest their love, and assume and bear the honours he had gained for them.

Before many years had passed away, the brighest of these boys was carried away by death. He went with many others, where his spirit rejoices with God in glory.

With honours the mother still retained, she gave it to the two remaining sons, and they were going to be a source of joy to the widow mother, and they would reflect all these traits that had been distinguished soldiers, dependable men, and were honoured as such. They were examples of the bright young life in many particulars, and were influenced by a superior Christian character, like those described in this portion of God's word.

Imagine everything is in readiness, everything completed, for the battle with the Syrians. One thing, however, reamined unsaid, and in that would be found the best equipment for the young generals. They may have worked on the enemy's plans, but what if they had not the presence of God? "If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me; but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will come and help thee." "Be of good courage and let us play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God; and the Lord do that which seemeth him good. I think we can readily see the great work that was entrusted to these two brothers. The [illegible] and their courageous appearance.

courage, recognizing the claims of God, which was upon them. The confidence in Almighty God and a determination to do all we can for the encouragement and the spirit of love and service, and with all made one strong and combined force, we will be able to carry out the will of God.

And so it is that which most helps us to go forward, into years, and to do the Master's business, in this world of ours. If other men would remember these expressions what bliss there would be in the face of Almighty God. He can go forward with the feeling that he is a contributor to the peace of the world, and the feeling of the great will of God, wherever in God's providence, his lot may be cast. How very often this is seen in the commercial world. How many men there are to-day who have felt disheartened in a City that is called Christian. How many men are there to-day that are influenced by the social life. But it is that great fellowship and co-operation, that will make the Church a success. Lots of us would be ashamed to receive mutual help from one another. Brethren, as long as I shall ever live I cannot forget those members who did the work in this congregation. How the fathers of the Church sat thinking over how they could fetch the young life, and make a demand on its constant service. They decided that they would do all they could to encourage the energies of the lives of the young men of this congregation.

The spirit of co-operation must be present in the individual. There are a lot of people getting old, and dying in the hateful attitude. Shall we not, as Christian men and women, bind ourselves more closely together, in this great, and mighty work. We are brothers together in this work. How many people are there who after struggling for years, at last get on easy street, and then forget former years, and forget their God. Not merely must be co-operate, but must also show courage and confidence. Think of Kitchener, and Roberts, in the South African war, when they were given command of the army, to push forward, and take a certain town, where other of their comrades were imprisoned. They recognized their work, and recognized it to be for their God, King, and Empire. They would rather have died than overshadowed their individual selves. The tidings came to us afterwards, that they hade become the victors. As Davidson once said: "He was only a chisel which cuts the wood, while the great carpenter directs it." There is a time in the history of the boys and girls of St. Andrew's Church, and the future is young. Fit yourselves for it. Generals in the army, and captains in the navy, are not in it with the men of to-day who have to fact the onslaught of business temptations.

The Rev. Potter made suitable references to the anniversary of St. Andrew's. He referred to the noble work which had been carried on since he left the church, and hoped it would continue. Tis special plea, was to get the young people, active workers in the interests of the church, and that he termed, as one of the greatest working powers which a church could possess. He refrained, he said, from offering any suggestion as to the church's welfare, as that part had been so admirably looked after by the members of the church.

The Rev. Potter delivered another very interesting address in the evening, to a very large congregation.

This evening a social will be held in connection with the anniversary, and it is hoped that there will be a large and representative gathering.

SPLENDID ADDRESSES AT MEETING OF ST. PETER'S T. A. S. YESTERDAY

At the meeting of St. Peter's T.A.S. yesterday afternoon a number of the members spoke upon the general subject of opportunities that should not be neglected by the individual who hopes to make somethinig of himself. The idea was an extension of the value of total abstinence. It was pointed out that this provided a good foundation for a man to build upon, and was one of the pillars for the superstructure of a good character. The discussion was for the benefit of the young members. The value of character was emphasized by all the speakers and without any repetition of points brought out. Not only does it give a man confidence in himself, but he represents a clean force among men. Character is even reducible to dollars and cents regarding it from another angle. A man of good character will have a decided advantage in business. Capital is more freely extended to such a man. On the whole it was an inspiring meeting. The principal speakers were His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, J. J. Duffus, Jos. Begley and M. H. Quinlan.

REPAIRING DAMAGE DONE

Mr. Johnston Greer had a number of men at work to-day searching for a "ground" in the Hydro-Electric conduit near the corner of Dalhousie and George Streets. The leak was discovered when the lights were first turned on last fall, and it was concluded that one of the workmen putting in a gas or drain service had stuck his pick into the cable. The present search is to tighten up the service before the cement paving base is laid.

HERMIT OF BIG ISLAND IS SICK

Old Man Greenie Found in Weakened Condition

Alf. Greenie, an aged recluse, of Big Island, Balsam Lake, was brought to Lindsay this morning by Constable J. Jones of Fenelon Falls, and placed in the Ross Hospital for treatment.

Greenie has resided on Big Island in Balsam Lake for 27 years, gaining his existence by hunting, trapping, and the raising of vegetables from the two or three acres of and which the Isand contains. The man was in a serious condition when relief,, in the person of Constable Jones, reached him on Thursday. The Constable got his information through trappers who returned to the Village of Fenelon Falls, bringing the tidings that Greenie was in a weakened state on the Island, and unless haste was made he could not long survive.

Mr. Jones at once procured his launch and proceeded to the island, where he found the old hermit as the trappers had stated. He was in bed when Constable Jones entered the cabin, the door of which is fastened with the real old style of latch which we read of in Little Red Ridinghood, and was told to pull the string and enter, by a feeble voice from within.

The old man had plenty of provisions and was comfortably surrounded, but was unable to cook his food or keep on fires for some days. He had taken sick about the time the ice broke up and was unable to either reach the land in a canoe or walk the ice.

He was delighted to meet Constable Jones, who placed him in his launch and took him to Fenelon Falls, and afterwards conveyed the old man to Lindsay.

Greenie is 72 years old and had about $115 in bils in the house when the Constable found him.— Lindsay Warder.

CATERPILLARS SHOULD BE DESTROYED

Mr. C. E. Hubbs of East City, stated to the Examiner to-day that the fine weather had brought forth the caterpillars again, and many of their tents are noticeable in the trees. He suggested that immediate attention be given them if the pest is to be prevented from reaching serious proportions. Mr. Hubbs felt that the Council might engage men to look after different sections of the City, and also that the citizens be urged to wage war on the crawlers while they are in the tent stage. The damage caterpillars can do if they are unmolested is simply enormous and it is for the good of the whole City that something should be done.

To Supply An "Indian" With Liquor Means Trouble in Future

In the amendments to the liquor license act there is one clause aimed at the man who provides an "Indian" with liquor.

The proposed change makes if possible to place those who supply a person on the "Indian List" with liquor liable themselves to be Indian listed. This, it is expected, will cure the kind friends of those under prohibition law, from getting them into trouble again.

Fines are in future to be kept in one fund for each Local Option district and expenses of enforcing the law in each district will be paid out of that district's fine fund. It is also to be made compulsory for any one found under the influence in a local option territory to tell who gave the liquor or sold it. The fine for refusing to tell is fixed at $50.

Help for Districts.

For counties and districts under the Canada Temperance Act there are to be changes helping the enforcement of the law. In future the province may supply half the amount found necessary to enforce the law in counties, over receipts in fines, this amount to come from consolidated revenue. Formerly the Province paid only one-third of this amount. Unorganized districts will have the whole cost borne by the Province after the fines have gone as far as they may.

SIXTY-FOUR WERE RECEIVED AS MEMBERS OF GEORGE ST. CHURCH

Yesterday morning sixty-four persons were received into the membership of the George Street Methodist Church, at a special service, which was conducted by the Rev. R. G. Peever Pastor of the Church.

One of the largest communion services ever held in the George Street Church was participated in by a very large number after the regular servce yesterday morning. In this service the Pastor was assisted by the Rev. J. G. Lewis and the Rev. Mr. O'Hara.

Before the morning service a Love Feast was held in the Sunday School room of the Church. This was very largely attended and was a profitable one for all who were present.

CHOIR ENTERTAINED

The Choir of the George Street Methodist Church enjoyed a pleasant evening on Friday of last week, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Renwick. Games, refreshments and music combined to make a very enjoyable evening. The members of the Choir appreciate very much the thoughtfulness of their hosts in providing such a delightful evening's entertainment.

NITROGEN STREET LAMP IS NEWEST ON THE MARKET

The nitrogen lamp is possibly the newest type of street amp on the market and before deciding upon their street lights, Berin (Ontario) are giving the citizens a chance to compare them with a few magnetites they have in operation. The Berin Telegraph says:

The magnetite amps cost $65 each, while the nitrogen amps can be purchased at a cost of $3.46 each. The cost of maintenance of the two lamps is about equal. The current consumed by the nitrogen lamps is about 20 per cent. ess than that consumed by the magnetite amp, and about 60 per cent. ess than that consumed by the tungsten lights now in use throughout the City. The nitrogen light has only been on the market for a short time and is still being improved. If the magnetite lights are installed it would mean an outlay of approximately $7,000 for new machinery at the power pant.

The chief objection heard on the street against the nitrogen lamp is that it casts shadows, leaving several feet of darkness. This is due to the shades now in use, and to overcome this, and to give the lights a fair trial, new shades have been ordered, and will be put in in the course of a few days.

Frost Is Delaying The Street Paving

Foley and Gleason, the contractors who are in charge of the local street paving work expect to begin the work early this week, possibly on Tuesday. The night frosts have prevented them from beginning the cement work, but it is felt that the work may be safely undertaken in a short time. It is understood that the company have contracts in Belleville and Kingston, and a gang of men will likely begin work in the former city this week.

Lacrosse Deserves The Interest Of Canadian Youth And Manhood

It is Canada's National Game and Gives Young Men Every Chance to Show Their Brilliancy in Stick Handling—Fred Jacob Tells Why It Should Be Given Every Support by Canadians.

COMPARED WITH BASEBALL

In the April McLean's, Fred Jacob, an old lacrosse player and member of the Caughnawaga's, makes a strong plea for lacrosse, Canada's national game. It is reprinted herewith, and should interest the lovers of the game in Peterborough:

A love for the national game of lacrosse is firmly implanted in the breast of every healthy, normal Canadian. The fascination that the strenuous, picturesque game of the gritted stick exerts is as strong as ever. And yet to a certain extent lacrosse as a sport has been put on the defensive in Canada.

The condition is undoubtedly a temporary one, but it is nevertheless real. It can be traced back to the time, a few years ago, when professionalism was openly adopted by the National Lacrosse Union, popularly termed the "Big Four." Since then many lovers of amateur sport have turned their backs on the national game, giving their interest with strange inconsistency to baseball, which is the most purely professional sport in the world. A tendency has developed among sport enthusiasts and newspaper writers to dwell on the rough features of the game, to overlook its virile strength and manliness, and to concentrate on its occasional casualities.

This carping attitude has not only served to prejudice the minds of sport lovers in other countries against a game presented to them in the light of a close approach to medieval warfare. It has also undermined to some extent the popularity of the sport in Canada. It is time that we found a true appreciation of our national pastime.

Some day a man who likes to juggle with ideas will set himself the task of explaining why certain sports have become the national games of certain peoples. What an opportunity it is going to give him to toss about quaint conceits! He will find how closely the outstanding characteristics of the nations that have adopted them. With elaborate historical detail it can be demonstrated by any artificer of words who likes to take the time, that they could not help coming together, the nations to express the games and the games to express the nations.

England will be seen symbolized in cricket. The man who does not know the game looks on and thinks it is slow, but if he examined it closely he would find there was purpose behind every stroke from start to finish.

BASEBALL MACHINES.

Baseball stands forth as the national game of the United States. There is nothing about it that requires patience or stubborn persistence, for the two things most in demand are dispatch and efficiency. The baseball fan has a lively contempt for the man who takes his sporting entertainment in half-day doses; he believes in having the thing cleaned up in an hour or two with some result to show. Baseball teams are so constructed that they work like machines on the field, and if some detail in the working goes wrong, you can point at once to the cog that slipped. It becomes naturally the game of the people who have spelled the word "efficiency" with capital letters. There is another side to the game that might be dwelt upon as considerable length. On this continent we have developed a mania for letting somebody else play our games for us, while we sit back and tell how it ought to be done. Baseball offers greater opportunities than any other sport ever invented for the experts of the grand stand, and at times they are almost more entertaining than the exponents on the field. Surely baseball was bound to become the national game of the people who invented the slang phrase, "Let George do it."

Shall we say that bull fighting suggested pain with its colour, its medievalism and its luxurious cruelty? Who could not find some resemblance to Scotland in a curling match?

So the symbols may be continued until Canada is reached, which has been expressed in lacrosse, a hardy game demanding speed, condition, grit and an ability to think and act quickly. One would not now expect to find a northern people playing an anaemic game.

WHAT LACROSSE DEMANDS.

Lacrosse is a game that brings out the best qualities of the athlete. To become expert, a player must not only acquire the speed of the sprinter and the staying powers of the Marathoner, but must have a quick eye and an alert mind. And he must know how to handle his "stick,"—that pesky imitation of a fish net which is so difficult for the amateur to handle, but which in the hands of an expert becomes the means to a dazzling display of skilful balancing.

Perhaps no player is better known than John White, the Cornwall Indian. The long, lank and brown figure of John White has been seen on every lacrosse field in Canada more or less, and one still hears tales of his prowess. John was there all the a great worker. One moment he would be seen back on his own area valiantly essaying to get the ball into safer territory; and a few minutes afterwards he would be found in front of the enemy's goal.

"I wonder how far that Redskin would run in the course of a game?" said one lacrosse man to another, as he watched the seemingly tireless player.

A test was made. During the next game every move of the Indian was watched, and the number of times that he traversed the field was counted. It was reckoned at the finish that on a conservative estimate, he had covered over ten miles. And this was not straight-away running. Most of the time he was sprinting at full speed with his eye on the ball, and his mind on the other fellow, turning, twisting, dodging, with many intervals of titanic struggle for possession of the sphere, short stop and sudden starts, handling the "stick" all the time.

BRILLIANT WORK.

To old-timers the name of "Billy" Aird will be a familiar one. Aird had reduced stick-handling to such a fine science that his stick seemed as much a part of him as his arm. He could catch the ball on the dead run at any angle of pick it off the ground with the surest ease. He could shoot from either side; above his shoulder or with the "scoop" stroke. His work seemed little short of marvelous to the onlooker.

Who could see "Henny" Hoobin, late of Shamrock fame, and perhaps one of the greatest home lacrosse players ever known, skim with the speed of a runaway locomotive through the ranks of the opposing defence carrying the ball on his stick, or perhaps run in from the side, leap into the air to take a pass or shoot the ball with unerring direction at the goal, before touching the ground again, without realizing that lacrosse is a game which gives as much scope for truly great work as any other pastime? Who, seeing Albert Dade, erstwhile of Shamrocks, Brantford and Montreal, shoot from any angle and put the ball within a few inches of the same spot each time, could say that lacrosse does not call for as high a degree of skill, of trained efficiency, as, say, baseball.

There is an everlasting controversy in professional circles regarding the relative attractiveness and value of lacrosse and baseball. When considered calmly, this argument must seem stupid, for the two games are too far apart to be compared. It is not too much to say that the sciences have not a single point in common. One consists of a long series of separate plays, each one complete in itself, and each one commencing and concluding at almost a given second. It furnishes a spasmodic excitement with moments of rest for the crowd. In lacrosse, like hockey, the play is continuous and the thrills do not follow one another, but are prolonged for an indefinite period, with here and there a break in the action of the game. There are people who like to have their nerves jolted while others prefer to have them tingled. But who can decide by any process of logic which is the better game to watch? That is a mere matter of opinion.

Regarding the commercial value of the two games, there can be little room for argument. In the first place lacrosse is as strenuous and makes such tremendous physical demands upon the players that one game a week is about all the ordinary man can stand. Baseball, on the other hand, puts the bulk of the strain on a single individual, the pitcher, and by carrying a staff of batteries the team can make daily appearances without growing stale. In these two facts, the comparative worth of the two sports to the magnates controlling them may be seen. With a game being played every day and the constant changes in the standing of the league, baseball has a natural advertising value that can never belong to a game that is played less frequently. People tell you that the public will line up behind anything which is sufficiently well advertised. If baseball got nothing more in the daily papers than the scores of the leading leagues, it would still receive more publicity than any other organized sport. There remains no doubt that the American national game is one that lends itself peculiarly to commercial exploitation. In that respect there is no sport like it in the world. When these contrasts between lacrosse and baseball are examined, even briefly, one begins to realise how impossible it is to argue with any hope of coming to a definite conclusion regarding the respective merits of the two games. The best attributes of one are practically never duplicated in the other.

GIVE IT A FAIR DEAL.

Lacrosse has been subjected to a great deal of censure because of its roughness. The national sport is undoubtedly a strenuous game, and no one will attempt to deny the assertion, but it does not deserve the continual carping on the one string by critics. Oddly enough, some of the persons who condemn the rough work most severely make good-humoured fun of the gentlemanly brand of the game played by the English. All the lacrosse enthusiasts ask is that the national game be treated with the same fairness as has always been shown in the criticisms of the other two strenuous Canadian sports, hockey and rugby. If an authentic list had been kept, it is possible that hockey and rugby might both show a worse record for serious injuries than lacrosse. This is not said to injure the other sports, of which Canadians have a right to be proud, but merely to suggest that there should be a little less emphasis on this aspect of the national sport.

A BIG LACROSSE BOOM.

At the present time, there is a big boom in amateur lacrosse going on in all parts of the Dominion west of Quebec. It has received a great deal of backing from men who desire to see the national sport occupying its proper place in Canada. They are not trying to make out of lacrosse a rival for soccer or lawn-bowling, baseball or cricket, but they want to have the game established on such a firm foundation in the Dominion as to make it certain that the country to which the game belongs will always lead the world as the best exponent of how it ought to be played. One great factor in the national life of any country is its distinctive games and amusements. They make for individuality, and the people who are purely imitative are never worth visiting. That is one of the great reasons why lacrosse should not only be kept clean, but should be developed and fostered. Then it will be universally recognised as something peculiarly Canadian, and a man visiting this country is bound to feel that he has not seen it properly unless he has witnessed a lacrosse game, just as a man visiting Niagara will not come away satisfied unless he has viewed the falls.

The Game Is Booming Both in Spain and in Holland

Quite a number of people are interested in the proceeds of English cup ties and possibly a short explanation of the way the Football Association is financed may be interesting and instructive. The F. A. keep three accounts, namey, the International, the Investment, and the General. The first deals with all the International matches, the second is meant to build up the financial solidity of the F. A. and the third covers the general working for the year. So far as the cup ties in the qualifying competition are concerned, all the net proceeds go to the clubs. From the ties in the competition proper prior to the semi-finals, the F. A. receives 5 per cent. of the gross receipts, which goes to the general account. With reference to the semi-final and final games the F. A. takes the lot, and first of all places 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of the investment account and the net balance to the general account. At the end of the season the baance standing to the credit of the general account is divided amongst the clubs competing in the semi-final and final ties pro ratio to the gate receipts of each particular tie, but the sum to be divided cannot be greater than the net gate receipts of such ties. It is, therefore, impossible to ascertain how much the clubs will receive until it is known how much of the semi final and final gates the F. A. requires to make its general account of income an dexpenditure balance.

Football in Spain.

Spain has been infected with football fever, and at Bilbao a couple of weeks ago, a game was watched by eight or nine thousand spectators. A Spaniard, commenting on the game afterwards said: Sir, we are a fickle folk. This is but a passing fancy. We shall return to our old love by-and-by." But a correspondent says he does not agree with this, and if, as is reported, a team of Engish professionals is sent out to Spain during the period of the great corridas in August, the visit wil tend to the detriment of the corridas. In the meantime the od patrons of the bull ring are sniffling the air with alarm.

Football in Holland.

Football in Holland is also on the boom, and I. T. Howcroft of Bolton, England, who refereed a recent game at the Hague between Holland and Germany, states that the game was first-class fro mevery standpoint. The result was a draw of four goals each. The turf was in grand condition and there was an enormous crowd, no fewer than 22,000 tickets having been disposed of before the day, with the result that two hours before the start the ground was full.

Stand seats could not be bought. "The game," says Mr. Howcroft, "stood 3 to 1 for Germany sixteen minutes from time, and the excitement was tremendous when the Dutch payers began to make up their lee-way. The crowd broke in and crowded to the touch lines when Holand finally equaized. I have never witnessed such a scene before as followed when Holland drew ahead five minutes from time, but in the last minute a long shot skidded off the fullback's boot and beat Gobell, the Dutch goalkeeper.

Germany was once more in clover, much to the delight of the linesman and the Secretary, who turned a somersault. Football is the game in Holland and all records should be marked when the English team visits here."

Burnley's Mascot.

We live in age of belief in mascots, and Burnley, the English Cup winners, are no exception to the rule. Their mascot is a toy black cat and it has been on all grounds where the Turf Moor Club has been engaged in this season's cup tournament with the exception of Old Trafford, when it wa sforgotten. Everyone who follows football knows how near Burnley came to losing that match. In going to Liverpool, the mascot was almost left behind, for just prior to his departure for the Mersey City, the Secretary's eye chanced to fall on the toy feline as he glanced round the office of the Cub. He hurriedly wrapped it up in brown paper and carried it all the way to Goodison Park. Burnley won, which was lucky for the mascot, as there is plenty of water around Liverpool. The cat was also present at the final at the Crysta Palace a week ago.

The Petes Win Both Exhibition Battles Catcher Miller Is Out Of The Game

First String Catcher Hurt By Foul Tip and May Not Be Able to Work in the Opening Games--Blountmen Won Easily Saturday But Had a Real Battle Yesterday, Winning Out by a Strong Finish--Gaffney is Released.

Special Wire to The Examiner:

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 3.—Curly Blount's gang of Canadian Leaguers were successful in capturing both their week-end engagements, beating the Barons, a strong local semi-professional team, 7 to 2 on Saturday and winning from the Girard team, one of the best known independent teams in this section, by 5 to 2 to-day. The Petes showed good form in both battles, and the games should do a lot towards rounding the Canucks into shape for their League opening at Erie on Thursday.

The only regrettable feature about the games was an accident to Catcher Mully Miller, the first string backstop of the Blountmen, which may keep the veteran receiver out of the first couple of League fixtures. In the second innings of Saturday's game, a foul tip struck Miller's right hand inflicting a painful gash between the middle fingers. He had to retire and may be out of the game for a week. Kelly replaced him in Saturday's game, while Ryberg used the big mit in to-day's struggle.

WON EASY ON SATURDAY.

Saturday's game with the Barons was easy for the Petes. Sterling and Tracey divided the pitching task between them, and they held the Barons to two runs and four hits, while twelve of the local semi-pros. fanned. Moran, a left-hander, who tried out with the Petes, did the twirling for the Barons, and the Canadian Leaguers bunched hits on him, bagging four runs in the fifth innings, and three in the seventh. Manager Blount tried out Schrage at shortstop in place of Price. The Peterborough line-up was:

Sterling, Tracey, pitchers; Miller, Kelly, catchers; Gorman, 1st base; King, 2nd base; Schrage, shortstop; Byrne, 3rd base; Fox, Blount, Swartz, outfield.

King, Gorman and Byrne led with the stick, getting a pair of hits each, while Swarts, Kelly, Sterling, Fox and Schrage had one each.

A REAL BATTLE.

The Girard club produced a classy team for to-day's game, and the Petes found themselves with a real battle on their hands. The Independents had big Pat Griffin, a protege of Connie Mack, on the rubber, and the Petes found difficulty in solving his delivery. Griffin is a husky twirler with a world of stuff, and during the first six innings he held the Petes to six scattered hits. Meanwhile the Girard team had bagged two runs in the fifth. When the Petes went to bat in the seventh they were 2 to 0 behind, but they started a rally that netted them three runs, a timely single by Frank Fox driving in the first two counters. Two more runs were added to the Petes' score in the eighth, and the game wound up 5 to 2 in the Petes' favour.

Louie Schettler was on the slab for the Blountmen, and although he worked easily, he showed good form, fanning seven men and allowing but six hits. "Louie," who is one of the best hitters in the club, and who led the Inter-State League with the stick last season, helped himself to three hits in four trips to the plate. Eddie Price, who was back at shortstop, also had three safeties in four times up, while Ryberg, Blount, Fox, King and Gorman also were represented in the hit column.

The defensive ability of the Petes was illustrated in the first innings, when Girard filled the bases with only one out. A score looked certain, but the batter rolled one at Schettler who shot the ball to the plate getting the man from third, while Ryberg's lightning throw to Gorman beat the hitter to first and completed a pretty double-killing. The Petes lined up as follows:

Schettler, pitcher; Ryberg, catcher; Gorman, 1st base; King, 2nd base; Price, shortstop; Byrne, 3rd base; Fox, Blount, Swartz, outfield.

Score by innings—

Peterborough	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	2	*	— 5

Batteries—Schettler and Ryberg; Griffin and Lewis.

Outfielder J. J. Gaffney was released by Manager Blount to-night. The big fellow lacked experience, although he appeared to be fast and promising.

Ty Cobb Is Away Down

CHICAGO, May 2.—Ty Cobb has dropped nearly out of sight among the batters of the American League, according to averages issued to-day and including all the games played up to last Wednesday. The Detroit slugger, who struck a snag in the St. Louis pitchers early in the week, ranks thirty-eighth, and has an average of only .240. Ford, of Cleveland, is leading the batters with .467 for five games, and then in the first eleven come Williams, St. Louis, .429; Demmitt, Chicago, .417; Crawford, Detroit, .412; Jackson, Cleveland, .305; F. Foster, Washington, .390; C. Walker, Et: Louis, .356; Collins, Chicoga, .341; Ainsmith, Washington, .333; McInnis, Philadelphia, .333; Leliveit, Cleveland, .333.

St. Louis, batting .255, leads the clubs, and Cleveland is next with .253.

Hitting the ball at a rate of .700, Art Phelan, the Cub's pinch batter, is heading the National. Gonzales, of Cincinnati, is next with .500. Then come Dalton, Brooklyn, .468; S. Mcgee, Philadelphia, .412; Gibson, Pittsburg, .400; Byrne, Philadelphia, .394; Gowdy, Boston, .370; Wagner, Pittsburg, .367; Paskert, Philadelphia, .353; Catchers, St. Louis; Killifer, Philadelphia; Cheney, Chicago; Viox, Pittsburg, and Evers, Boston, .333.

Philadelphia and Brooklyn are tied for first place, with .29 each.

Steve Evans, of Brooklyn, is on top in the Federal with .583. Next are: Campbell, Indianapolis, .455; Mattie, Pittsburg, .444; Agler, Buffalo, .23; Murphy, Brooklyn, .387; Wilson, Chicago, .382; Laporte, Indianapolis, .372; Pottsam, Kansas City, .371; Wickland, Chicago, .368; Easterly, Kansas City, .364. St. Louis and Chicago are first and second in club batting, the former with .261 and the latter, .279.

E. Zimmerman, of Newark, is ahead in the International, batting, .533. Then come: Tooley, Newark, .526; Daniels, Baltimore, .500; Barry, Jersey City, .412; Strait, Jersey City, .400; O'Hara, Toronto, .387; Schultz, Rochester, .381; Vaughn, Buffalo, .364; Bues, Jersey City, .350.

Toronto leads the clubs in batting with .287, and Jersey City is next with .283. Newark is third with .278.

PARK ST. JUNIORS WON FOOTBALL GAME

A keenly-fought game was played on Saturday between the St. James Junior football team and the Park Street Junior football team, the score being 2 to 1, in favour of Park Street. The next game will be played on Saturday, May 9th, at the Exhibition Grounds, with the kick-off at 3 o'clock. These two teams ask other churches to aid in forming a Church Junior Football League. There is a Senior Football League, why not a Junior League?

Sketches of The Blountmen

FRANK KELLY, Catcher, born at Erie, Pa., in the year 1892, height 5 ft. 11 in., weight 165 lbs. Frank broke into organized ball in the season 1911, with the Erie Club, in the Central League, and finished the season with that Club. Was again with Erie in the same league the following year. In 1913 he again tried out with Erie but had a couple of veteran catchers in Shang and O'Leary to beat out for the position, and was let out at the start of the season. He played semi-professional ball throughout the State the balance of the season. Kelly has the ideal build for a catcher, is very fast, and has shown good form in practice this spring. He will battle it out with Ryberg for second string catcher.

MATTY TO MANAGE CARDINALS

Such is the Story But It is No Believed in New York

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK CITY, May 4.—Christy Mathewson, probably the most famous baseball player in the world to-day, who has pitched the Giants to five National League pennants, will become manager of the St. Louis Cardinals on June 15th, according to a despatch received here to-day. Although no authoritative statement is available it is not believed here.

PLAY BALL

"Athletic organizations of the Peterborough Churches are requested to send a representative to a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. to-night to discuss the advisability of organizing a baseball league for the coming summer. The meeting is called for 7.30, and every Church planning to enter should have its representative on hand.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Speaking of favourite grounds on which to hit, Frank Shaughnessy and Cosy Dolan claim Peterborough has the boss park for fattening up averages.—Ottawa Free Press.

Brantford Expositor: The arrival of LeCroix reminds us that the Rube, beg pardon, the Chief, was the first responsible for introducing into the Canadian league those two sterling catchers, Dunn and Matteson. Dunn, it will be remembered, went to Baltimore at the draft price the first year of the Canadian league. He sure looked good, but for some reason or other, went back. When Dunn came back to the Canadian league Deneau did not want him for the reason that he does not want those fellows who have acquired the habit of drawing big league pay without the ability to stick around the said big league. But in his first year Dunn was good, no mistake about that. Then again, Deneau introduced Matteson, first to Berlin and then to London. Matteson was a valuable force in both connections. Now Deaneu brings in LeCroix, and from the new catcher's first appearance yesterday, it is believed that he will prove another Matteson that is as far as rendering valuable service to the club is concerned.

ST. THOMAS, May 1. — President Charles O. Stanley is in receipt of a letter from Secretary Jack Chantler, who is accompanying the team on its training trip, stating that the Saints are a stronger aggregation han any he has seen a Pinafore Park during the three years of the Canadian League, and that the other clubs will have to go some to keep the club from perching on the top rung. He is enthusiastic over the Indian backstop, "Nevitt," and believes he will treat the fans on the circuit to something before the season is over. The team, with the exception of Nevitt, who has a sore finger, is in good condition, and it is expected the chief will be all right for the opening game.

Andy Kyle, the former London outfielder, has written to Manager Craven, asking for a berth on the club. As the manager has all the outgardeners he needs, it will be impossible to sign him.

Hamilton Spectator — Hamilton fans were out in large numbers yesterday for their first peep at the Canadian League team rounded up by Manager Yates. The team went down to defeat in a rather poor game, and while one or two of the old anvil chorus were on the job, the majority of the fans realized that it was the first game of the season and the first time on a baseball diamond for the players, who, in addition, were all strange to each other, as far as team work was concerned. This, coupled with bad pitching, was responsible for the defeat, the pitching being exceptionally bad. Dougherty went along in good style for three innings, although even in those rounds he showed signs of wildness, and in the fourth took a regular ascension. Dwyer, who succeeded Dougherty, was easy pitching and it was while he was on the mound that the visitors put on the clean-up act. Dwyer seemed to have little or nothing.

BRANTFORD, May 4.— The Brants had a very good workout Saturday, when they lined up against the Stars and Stripes of Niagara Falls, winning by 7 to 0. It was not because of the fact that they were there heavy with the willow, however, that they scored the victory, for they got but four hits off Brightweiser and only one counted in the run getting, and that a scratch one. Walks and errors were responsible, the Brant getting six runs in the third without a hit.

Taylor and Carroll pitched for the locals, the former showing up well. The latter was the poorest of the Brant staff, and was let go on Sunday. Pitcher Molineaux was also sent home to Niagara Falls to-day, while Coose will likely go to St. Thomas as a first baseman. Pitcher Worfel has notified the management that he will report tomorrow, while Duff Slemin will also be home then. Beltz and Wagner are still fighting for second base. Jack Fryer, formerly fence-buster of the Canadian League, was the manager of the Stars and Stripes and received a warm welcome from the fans.

HAMILTON, May 4. — Hamilton Canadian League played an exhibition game with the Lackawannas of Scranton, Pa., here on Saturday at Britannia Park and showed great improvement in form compared with their game with the Strollers of Toronto, who defeated them. They outplayed the visitors and won by 9 to 4.

Donohue pitched the first five innings and held the visitors scoreless. Yates then went in and the Lackawannas scored four from him in the sixth, bad infield errors being principally responsible. After this he shut them out. Fisher caught.

TORONTO, May 4. — The Beavers had another hitting bee at the expense of the Niagara University nine on Saturday afternoon. That "Knotty" Lee has gathered a good hitting team has been demonstrated in all their exhibition games to date, as their 19 to 4 score on Friday and 19 to 2 score on Saturday would indicate. Burns, the local backstop, did the receiving for the Beavers, and made a good showing. Ort had a home run to deep centre. The teams:

Niagara University — Keenan, 2b.; Gleason, 3b.; Cushing, m.; Blake, s.s.; Fitzgerald, c.f.; Brenycock, l.f.; McCann, 1.b.; Kavanaugh, r.f.; Ondavocock, p.

Toronto — Burrell, m.; Loud, r.f.; Isaacs, 3b.; Shults, 1b.; Ort, 2b.; Burns, c.; Killian, rf.; Purtell, s.s.; Schwab, p.; Kirley, p.

Umpire—Hallinan.

Score by innings:

Here's a partial list of men who have seen big league service at some time or other and are now holding down jobs in the Casadian: Frank Shaughnessy, Ottawa, formerly with the Athletics and Washington; eGo. Nill, Ottawa, with Cleveland and Washington; Doc. Reisling, London, with Washington; Kustus of St. Thomas, with Brookyn; Hall, of Ottawa, with Cleveland; Shockor, with Ottawa, with Detroit; Dr. Yates, Hamilton; Dumy Taylor, Erie, with New York Giants; Heinie Smith, with Erie, with Boston; Butler, Erie, formerly with New York; Luie Schettler Peterborough, with Philadephia Nationals.

WOODSTOCK, May 1—The Woodstock W. O. B. L. team will hold their initial workout on Victoria Park tomorrow afternoon, and it is expected that a large number of fans will be on hand to see the new men in uniform.

Bradley, who has been on a still hunt for palyers during the past week, has succeeded in securing Chapdelaine, a catcher, who played for Peterborough Canadian League team last year. It is expected that a new pitcher will be brought along. There are about eight good men in the City at present, and if Jimmie succeeds in landing a couple of good pitchers and an infielder, he will have a pretty fair team to open the season on the 16th. The men behind the team here are determined to place Woodstock on the map this year. The following players will likely turn out to-morrow: Scott, Dingwell, Harvey, Small, Davis, Stone, Shea, Chapdelaine, Kennedy, Galla way, Thompson and Bradley.

Scottish News

A little girl named Maggie Miller, aged 2 1-2 years, died in Kilmarnock from serious burning injuries, the result of playing with matches in the absence of her mother.

The Rev. John Lewers, M.A., Regent Park Church, Glasgow, has been offered an unanimous call to the pastorate of Hope Park United Free Church, Edinburgh.

FIRST LACROSSE PRACTICE WAS WELL ATTENDED

The unusual spectacle of a dozen and a half men cavorting around Central Park equipped with lacrosse sticks attracted quite a crowd of people on Saturday afternoon. It was the first practice of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club, and was a splendid success. A bunch of the older players, Ed. Dillon, Geo. Robertson, Geo. Mein, F. C. Weber, Jack Crough, and others, were out and they put in a useful practice. After the first squad got through a number of beginners got hold of the sticks and soon got into the spirit of the game. Altogether some twenty-five worked out during the afternoon, and it is expected that the youngsters will take hold of the game. Weather permitting, there will be another practice to-night, and any one who wishes to play the game is invited to turn out.

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

Latest developments point to a gradual clearing up of the general market situation. We find strong evidence pointing to the outcoming of favourable news from time to time during the next few weeks, including the rate advance decision. Pools are preparing for bullish operations later and insiders are accumulating certain specialties of this, but reports are such that there can be no doubt.

Union Pacific is understood to be strongly bought with good support towards 150. Southern Pacific is an excellent purchase for a pull.

Sympathy of Province Is Cabled to the Princess Louise.

TORONTO, May 5.—The death of the Duke of Argyll, a former Governor-General of Canada, has called forth a message of condolence from Sir James Whitney on behalf of Ontario. The following message was cabled last evening to H. R. H. the Princess Louise of Cowes, Isle of Wight:

"The Government and people of the Province of Ontario desire respectfully to tender you their warm sympathy in your bereavement. The services rendered to Canada by your deceased husband are gratefully remembered.

BIG PROGRAMME YET

Prorogation of Commons is Still Far Distant

C.N.R. DATA INCOMPLETE

OTTAWA, May 5.—Premier Borden proceeded yesterday afternoon to lay before the House the sessional program which proved to be quite voluminous. He said that in addition to legislation already noted upon the order paper, bills would be introduced respecting the election list for voting under the Canada Temperance Act, to amend the Superannuation Act and the Civil Service Act, the Dominion Notes Act, and the Drydocks Subsidies Act.

Also would legislation be introduced, the Prime Minister said, respecting the terminals of the National Transcontinental Railway at Winnipeg, respecting the storage of explosives, and to amend the Joint Stock Companies Act.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier smilingly said that the program submitted was an ambitious one. It not only made prorogation impossible for May 24, but any other date in the near future.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham asked whether it was the intention of the Government to proceed at this session with its bill to amend the Insurance Act.

Hon. Mr. White said in reply that the bill would stand over until next session in view of the representations made by many of the insurance companies.

There was tabled in the House yesterday information concerning the Canadian Northern Railway, including cost of completion and trust deeds of 1903, 1910 and 1913, also a statement of floating liabilities of various companies, and statement of the securities pledged as collateral to loans.

Summing up the statement gives the following figures:

Amount required for construction, $41,987,565; amount due to subcontractors, western lines, $8,948,280; eastern lines, $6,606,424. Total $16,954,714.

Rolling stock required, $27,441,056; amount needed, betterments, $160,379,009; proceeds of securities earned or available against the above, $58,473,982; balance required, $41,905,127.

Floating liabilities of the railway companies contracted in general title of Canadian Northern Railway system amount to $10,408,121.30.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, upon the conclusion of the day being called, asked for additional data. He desired copies of all correspondence between the Government and the company which preceded and led up to the resolution now before the House. He also desired a list of the liabilities of said companies. Some of the subsidiary corporations, it was stated, he said, were owned outright by the Canadian Northern, while as to others the Canadian Northern had the controlling interest. He desired a list of the companies owned by the C. N. R. and its holdings in the companies. Information was also requested as to the gross and net earnings of the parent road and of the other lines.

The Prime Minister said that all information available would be furnished at the earliest possible moment. He intimated, however, that there was no correspondence on file.

The House yesterday adopted the resolution respecting rebates upon improved pig iron used in manufactured goods for export, and a bill founded upon the resolution was then introduced and read a first time. The measure does not change the existing rate by which a drawback of 99 per cent. is allowed to the importer of raw material who converts the same into manufactured goods for export but it seeks to clear up some confusion in the existing practice and indirectly to encourage manufacturers to use more Canadian pig iron.

During the debate upon the resolution, E. M. Macdonald (Lib., Pictou) charged that the iron and steel schedule had been revised to suit the Ontario steel mills, and that the big mill at Sydney had not benefited at all except incidentally through the placing of a duty upon wire rods.

Mr. White replied that if the Nova Scotia steel men wanted more protection why did they not say so, and not attack the Government with veiled insinuations?

Mr. Macdonald said that the Government had held out hopes to the iron and steel industry that bounties would be reimposed, and thus created a condition of uncertainty which had demoralized all business in Canada.

Bisley Team To Get Fares.

OTTAWA, May 5.—The council of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association has decided, for this year, to pay the first-class railway fares of all members of the Bisley team, from their homes to Montreal and return. It has been the custom in the past for all members of the team to pay their own railway expenses to the place of mobilization. All transportation from their homes to Bisley and return has been provided for.

MEDIATION LIMITED

Carranza is Finally Left Out of Peace Negotiations

HUERTA IS IN A BAD FIX

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Gen. Carranza and the Constitutionalists yesterday were practically eliminated from the proceedings of the three South American envoys who have undertaken to solve the Mexican problem by diplomacy.

In a telegram to Gen. Carranza, the mediators announced that, in view of his refusal to agree to an armistice with Gen. Huerta, they withdrew their invitation to him to send a personal representative to participate in the mediation negotiations.

The language of the telegram sent by the mediators leaved open to Carranza, however, the privilege of sending a special representative to participate in peace-negotiations whenever he is willing to arrange an armistice with Huerta.

This new turn in events ended, in the view of many officials the chance of solving the entire Mexican problem immediately, though it did not lessen the enthusiasm of the mediators, who will continue their efforts to solve the differences between Huerta and the United States, which directly brought about the present crisis.

Reports of the desperate condition of Huerta at Mexico City continue to circulate, and with such circumstantial detail from authentic sources as to leave no doubt of his critical condition.

At the same time the military aspect of the situation became increasingly prominent again. Gen. Funston reported renewed demands by Mexican Federal outposts and the surrender of the water works supplying Vera Cruz. No shots were fired and the Mexicans fell back.

Gen. Funston voiced the prevailing spirit in military quarters in enquiring as to what steps the United States contemplated in view of the threatening situation.

Secretary Garrison conferred with his military chiefs, but said no further orders had been given for the movement of troops, and none are contemplated during the period of negotiations.

Woman Shot To Death.

CHATHAM, May 5. — Mrs. Alex. Pheasant, an Indian woman living on the reserve at Maraviantown, was instantly killed Sunday when a charge from a shotgun entered her neck. Her husband was working with a shotgun when it exploded. A physician from Bothwell was called and an investigation is now being made. An inquest will likely be held.

NAILED TO A CROSS.

Mexican Bishop Refused To Give Money to Zapata's Men.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—Among the tales of atrocities told yesterday by the refugees from the west coast of Mexico, who arrived Sunday on the steamer City of Sydney, is that of the crucifixion of the Catholic Bishop of Chalapa.

According to the account, a detachment of the rebel Gen. Zapata's soldiers called on the bishop to surrender the funds of his church. He refused, whereupon the soldiers are said to have nailed him to a cross and left him to die.

INCOME TAX RISES

Lloyd George Makes Rich Men Pay Britain's Deficit

ABOUT $49,000,000 NEEDED

LONDON, May 5.—David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, introduced the Budget in the House of Commons yesterday, and estimated the deficit for 1914-15 at $26,650,000. Adding to this a charge against the Exchequer of $21,000,000 arising from readjustment of the relations between Imperial and local taxation, and a necessary margin of $1,000,000, the Chancellor showed the need of increasing the national income for the coming year by about $49,000,000.

Mr. Lloyd George's proposals to raise this money include a material increase in the rate of the tax levied on earned and unearned incomes, and the raising of the death duties to the maximum of 20 per cent.

He plans also to reduce the tax burden to the man who expends money on his property to improve in proportion to the amount so spent.

He proposed an upward revision of the graduated income tax, increasing the levy upon earned incomes over $5,000 a year.

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

There would be levied a supertax on incomes of $25,000 a year and upwards, instead of this supertax beginning, as it does at present, with incomes of $75,000 a year.

With this new graduated scale of income tax rates risin finally to 16d. in the pound, the total income tax, in certain cases, would be as high as 23d. (approximately 46 cents), in the pound sterling.

The allowance for children of parents whose incomes do not exceed $2,500 a year would be doubled.

The Chancellor declared he proposed to make Englishmen who made investments abroad in order to escape the income tax pay their dues, and he said that the death duties on estates over $200,000 would undergo a graduated increase until the maximum would be 20 per cent., instead of the 15 per cent. collected at present.

IS ANGRY WITH HUERTA.

Gen. Velasco Who Defended Torreon May Start a Revolt.

VERA CRUZ, May 5.—The outbreak of another military revolt in Mexico, headed by Gen. Jose Refugio Velasco, who was recently driven out of Torreon by Francisco Villa, would not cause any great surprise in the Federal capital, according to conservative observers among the refugees who arrived here yesterday. Gen. Velasco is said to be grievously discontented concerning the failure of the Government in Mexico City to support him properly in the defence of Torreon, and he is declared to have stated that he would never again lead a column of troops against the rebels.

The fall of Torreon and the subsequent disaster to the Federal troops are asserted by Gen. Velasco to have been entirely due to the failure of the War Department to heed his appeal for small arm ammunition at a time when he says it was perfectly feasible for it to have reached him.

Caillaux fired in the air.

SPECULATION DISASTROUS.

Stock Trading Responsible For Dale Bank Goods Say Auditors.

MADOC, May 5.—"Speculation on the Stock Exchange, which in the long run proved disastrous," is given by auditors as the cause of the failure of the Dale private bank here. It is said that ever since 1902 trading in stocks has been going on, sometimes unsuccessfully. Discrepancies of $202,355 between the last annual statement of the bank and the actual assets are reported by the auditors, Webb, Read, Callaghan, Hogan & Co., made public yesterday. The discrepancies are on the following: Overdrafts, $8,321,787; current bills and loans, $58,321.29; Osler & Hammond, $284.48; debenture account, $128,025.30; mortgage account, $10,011.31; J. C. Dale's account, $11,489.88. From these amounts $9,508.41 is subtracted for miscellaneous collections and cash, leaving the shortage at $202,859.56.

Western real estate investments also proved unfortunate. Fifty thousand dollars is tied up in this way and cannot be realized till prices again reach their height.

No More Reimbursement.

OTTAWA, May 5.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux asked if it was the intention of the Government to reimburse the depositors of the bank which recently failed at Madoc.

The Finance Minister said it was not. The bank in question was a private bank.

Mr. White, in reply to a further question, said it was not the intention to recoup the depositors of any bank except the Farmers' Bank of Canada.

To Stop Street Spitting.

MONTREAL, May 5—The spitters, park disturbers and loafers in future will get small comfort in the local recorder's court. A number of offenders yesterday were all fined. "Montreal is notorious for spitting," said Recorder Semple. "It is quite impossible for ladies to walk on the streets in some parts of the town without being subjected to serious annoyances from this habit, and the thing must be stopped." Five dollars and costs is the preliminary stopping price.

GETTING A START

By NATHANIEL C. FOWLER JR.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Borrowed Capital.

I addressed the following question to 273 prominent and successful business and professional men:

"Would you advise a young man of experience and ability, now receiving a fair salary, to go into business for himself in the line of his experience upon borrowed capital?"

The replies were as follows:

"Yes," unqualifiedly	40
Equivalent of "yes"	12
"Yes, under exceptional circumstances	24
"Yes, if only half of his capital is borrowed"	11
"Yes, if he has great ability"	8
"Debt is sometimes a good thing"	7
"Yes, if he can get the money on easy terms"	6
"Yes, if he has reason to be sure of himself	6
"Yes, if he has pluck, health, and energy, and wise men have advised him to do so"	15
"No," unqualifiedly	58
Equivalent of "no"	27
"Ordinarily no"	16
"If he has a good salary, seldom"	16
Indefinite	27

Omitting the indefinite replies, the opinions stand:

"Yes," or practically so	40
"Yes," under conditions	89
"No," unqualifiedly	58
"No," qualifiedly	59

The affirmatives and the negatives of the foregoing figures substantially balance; but the qualifications, comments and advise given in the votes would indicate that borrowed capital is both safe and unsafe, both advisable and inadvisable, and that it is in the majority of cases attended by considerable risk.

It is a fact, however, that comparatively few men enter business on capital wholly their own, and that the large majority of them borrow from 25 to 75 per cent. of the money which they propose to use in establishing and developing their business. It is also a fact that a very large proportion of those entering business for themselves fail, although the best of them recover and continue.

There are as many arguments in favour of borrowed capital as there are against it. Most of our ablest financiers favour moderate indebtedness, but none of these experts would advise any one to take an undue risk. Borrowing is to be recommended only when the capital, either borrowed or otherwise obtained, is sufficient for the enterprise, and then only when backed by practical and long experience.

Failures are due, for the most part, either to lack of experience or lack of capital. Lack of experience stands for almost certain disaster, irrespective of the man or capital involved, and too little capital is seldom sufficient to allow even extensive experience and fair opportunity to succeed.

If you are enjoying a fair salary, with prospects of promotion, I should advise you to consider long and carefully before you embark in business for yourself. After you have obtained sufficient experience, and have proved to yourself and to discriminating others that you have good business capacity, then you may consider going into business for yourself if you have sufficient capital or have some capital and can borrow the balance on favourable terms.

It is better, however, for you to wait too long than to be premature. It is very difficult correctly to diagnose the future, to foresee emergencies. Practically every business, and particularly a new business, strikes a dead centre; and the wheel of trade will not turn unless lubricated and propelled by experience and capital. Either without the other is not likely to revolve it.

I say, therefore, to the young man who would go into business for himself. Perfect yourself in your line, study it, and experience it from every standpoint. Consult with others, and wait.

"Complexion Secrets Of An Actress"

In a recently issued volume bearing the above title, the author says: "Continuous use of grease paints, rouge and the like, had ruined my complexion. My skin was colourless, wrinkled, coarse and punctured with large pores. In England I heard of the virtues of mercolised wax; my first experience with this marvellous substance convinced me it was more valuable than all cosmetics combined. Now whenever my complexion begins to go wrong I get an ounce of mercolised wax at the nearest drug store, spread on a thin layer of it before retiring, washing it off next morning. The wax, after a few such treatments, seems literally to absorb the worn-out cuticle, when a brighter, healthier, younger-looking skin appears.

"For the wrinkles and enlarged pores I began using a solution of saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this every day for a while soon relieved the condition most wonderfully."

Compound Division.

A Berlin chauffeur named Paul Kugelmann found £6,500 in notes and gold in his taxicab. No one came forward to claim the money, and the chauffeur, setting aside temptation, reported the matter to the police.

This huge sum remained, according to German law, in the police's keeping for a year, after which the finder could claim the fruits of his good fortune. But when Paul Kugelmann presented his claim he was told that various other claims would have to be settled first. Since the money had been found in Berlin, the Berlin municipality was to receive £1,500. Because the absent-minded fare hailed the chauffeur in the suburb of Wilmersdorf, the Wilmersdorf municipality claimed another £1,500. The municipality of Charlottenburg, not to be outdone, demanded a similar sum, as Kugelmann lived within its limits.

And while the disgusted chauffeur was reckoning up the balance his employer came forward and asserted that the whole £6,500 belonged to him, because the automobile in which it had been found was his property.—London Answers.

True Economy.

A certain old housewife believed in "having clothes appropriate to occasions," and she boasted that she could "get more wear out of a dress" than any one else. When a garment was past its first, second and third stages of usefulness for public wear it was relegated to certain seasons of domestic stress, from which it passed eventually to the rag-bag. One gown long dear to her heart had reached this last stage, and she acknowledged it one day to the village seamstress.

"Don't seem as if I'd had half the good I expected to out of it," she said ruefully. "'Tain't but eight years since I had it made up. Two years I wore it Sundays, the next two sewing circle afternoons, next two when I went errands to the village, and these last two round the house common. But now"—and she regarded the bundle sorrowfully before stuffing it into the yawning bag—"now 'tain't even fit to hang out washing in on Mondays!"—Exchange.

HEART OF A CHILD

Have you any boys?

I was accosted thus by a mite of a lad with dusty shoes and lunch box in hand at 4 o'clock, as I walked along a quiet country road. I was on my way to the post office half a mile distant. He was going home from school, I inferred from his box and the time of day.

Now, I have no boys, and I love boys, and I did not like to tell the truth about it and answer directly, so I fenced. "Why are you out looking for boys, laddie?" I amilingly questioned in return.

His blue eyes looked up into mine with the sweetest, shyest look from under the longest of curved lashes, and his little round freckled nose was tipped sideways in the friendliest way, while the lips began to draw down in proper shape to make a business reply. "Yes, ma'am, I have some tickets to sell. They're ten cents, and you can see the ball game."

"Oh," said I, "are you going?"

"No, I guess not. It's way down town, an' the big boys are going to play, some from our own school."

"Oh, I see. And if you sell five, perhaps you could have a ticket for yourself," said I.

"Oh, yes, teacher said if any one sold five he could have a ticket free. But I don't guess I'll sell five—I do not know anybody 'at has five boys.'

I became more interested. I didn't want to miss that ball game and I wanted him to see it. So I thought I would try to get a boy. "Do you know of any boy I could get to take me to that ball game?' said I, with all the intensity I could put into my manner.

"Well, no ma'am, I don't know any just now—'less Jim could go — he works for Mr. Ward next house to us," he said with such a sweet concern, hoping to sell a ticket."

"But you see I don't know Jim. I'd rather take some one I know, and we could both see the game. Now, I don't suppose you could take me, could you, if I bought the tickets and paid the street car fare and all? You see, I don't like to go alone, and I don't know any boys but you.'

Downcast eyes fringed with black lashes gave a proper modesty to the eagerness of his reply. "Yes, ma'am I think I could do it, if you'd like to see the game."

So the time and place of meeting was arranged, the two tickets paid for, and I went on my way to the post office. I was really happily excited.

That boy had awakened a feeling of youth in me that had been a stranger for some years. I wanted to see the ball game—I wanted a child's companionship—I was impatient for appointed day.

My escort arrived early on Saturday, just as I finished my lunch, ringing the bell with a timid hand. I spied him through the window and went to the door myself. I did not want any one to come between our new and growing confidence. That shy lifting of the eyes greeted me, and I at once brought out Felix, my little terrier, who is friendly and a good entertainer. I left the two on the porch while I got my hat, gloves and my pink tickets.

When I returned, Felix had a new friend. "I like your dog,' said 'my moy.'" (I had never asked his name.) "You don't want to sell him, do you?" he asked in a truly business tone.

"No," said I, "he's my burglar alarm."

"Oh, course," said he.

We boarded a car and I was more delightfully entertained during that half hour than I had been for many a day.

"Pa said for me to be sure and thank you for my ride and the ticket and I guess I better do it now, I might forget, you know, if I have a perfectly splendid time."

"Your papa is a gentleman, and you give him my best wishes for many happy returns of the day."

He looked earnestly at me. "I guess I can remember all that."

"Then tell him you did not forget" I said, and he was satisfied.

The excitement of passing the charmed ticket man and walking up that long road to the benches with his little warm hand in mine was delightful. My pulses beat with his, my eyes saw with his eyes, my feet kept time with his.

And then the game—how we did shout and wave our handkerchiefs, and stand up to get the best view! I was as merry as my boy of eight. I didn't want the game to come to an end—but alas it did. We went home, tired, but happy.

"Good-bye, laddie," said I. "Come in and see Felix next Saturday."

"All right,' he called, as his feet kicked up the dust on the road.

I was alone with my thoughts. "And whoso shall receive one, such little child receiveth me.'

LISTEN TO ME

"I would like to bear testimony to the wonderful healing properties of Zam-Buk," says Constable R. B. Nunn of Vernon, B.C., "For over two years I suffered acutely with a sore on my leg which, despite all treatment, turned into an open ulcer. I tried all kinds of medicines, ointments, liniments, etc., but the wound seemed only to get worse. Finally it became so bad that I was at the point of going into a hospital, when a friend persuaded me to try Zam-Buk. I did so, and the first few applications made the ulcer less painful. I continued the treatment, and in a short time was completely cured.

"This was a year ago and there has been no sign of the ulcer returning. It seems to me wonderful that the cure could be effected in such a short space of time. I shall be glad if you will publish my statement for the benefit of other sufferers who do not know of Zam-Buk."

The Constable's report was accompanied by permission form for its publication which was witnessed by the Chief of Police of Vernon.

Zam-Buk is equally good for piles, eczema, cuts, bruises, sores, blood poisoning, pimples, etc. It is unexcelled as a First Aid. 50c. per box at all druggists and stores, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price.

URIC ACID SUFFERING

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

A FEW DON'TS

Don't for goodness sake, put everything you don't want downstairs, into the attic or the spare bedroom. Your husband weeds and finds it pays well, and why can't you, who fondly imagine no one can keep house quite as well as you, do a little weeding among your household effects. The saving mania affects most housekeepers in a greater or lesser degree, but there isn't one woman in a hundred who can cite many instances where saving old household effects did a whole lot of good.

If you don't want a thing, give it away at once. The "it-may-come-in-handy-some-time" method means nothing but clustered up attics, spare rooms and closets, that are eyesores to the whole family.

Give away what you don't want right now, when it may do some one some good. And if you can't find some one among all the folks you know who wants what you have to give its about time it was destroyed, for its useful days are gone.

Stop saving useless articles around the house and half the work of housecleaning will be saved. Just take a peep into attic or spare room and I'll wager you'll find but few things good enough to pass along, and a lot of things fit only for a nice big roaring bonfire.—Farmers' Review.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys. Then the Back Hurts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have headache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralises the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming trouble while it is only trouble.

MACHINE OIL STAINS.

If machine grease of any kind gets on either coloured or white clothes cover the spots well with lard and let stand a half-hour or so before washing and every particle will come out. Vaseline or olive oil stains can be removed by soaking spots in gasoline before washing.

TO DRIVE AWAY RATS.

Poisons are the usual way of getting rid of rates. Place on the floor where they come, a thin layer of moist caustic potash. When the gats travel on this, it will make their feet sore, which they will lick with their tongue, which likewise turns sore. The consequence is that Mr. Rat will shun the locality. Pouring chloride of lime down their holes will also drive them away. It is said that when they refuse to be caught with cheese and other baits, a few drops of the highly-scented oil of rhodium poured on the bottom of the trap will be an attraction which they cannot resist. Be very careful in using poisons, as other animals or children may get it. A rat biscuit comes already prepared.

CHOICE RECIPES

Take one quart of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar. Sift flour, soda and cream of tartar thoroughly together, add salt and enough sweet cream to make a soft dough, just stiff enough to handle with floured hands.

Mix, roll and cut out, and bake in a moderate oven. If sweet biscuits are desired add a cupful of granulated sugar. Graham biscuits can be made in the same way only we use three heaping cups graham flour and one cupful of white flour.

One egg, one quarter cup sugar, two tablespoons molasses, one cup sweet milk, one table spoon melted butter, two cups graham flour sifted, one cup of white flour, three teaspoonfuls baking powder (or one and one-half teaspoonfuls soda and three teaspoonfuls cream of tartar.) Mix in the order given and bake in a moderate oven. It can be mixed as sponge cake or moulded into a loaf. I prefer the latter.

GRAHAM GEMS

One egg, one half cup sugar, four tablespoons butter, two cups of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful salt; mix with graham flour, making batter thick enough to drop from spoon into gem tins.

Best results are had with cakes by using pastry flour, instead of the common bread flour; as pastry flour contains more starch and less gluten than the bread flour and therefore makes lighter, more tender cake.

The gluten is more apt to be tough unless yeast ferments are used.

Cakes are also lighter if beaten instead of being stirred. It is all right to stir the first ingredients evenly, but when blending the mixture, beat, so as to take in as much air as possible.

Lard as shortening makes a more tender cake, but butter gives a better flavor. Half of each is a very good rule.

Try This Treatment
For Superfluous Hairs

(The Modern Beauty)

Beauty specialists are greatly interested in the new treatment for removing objectionable hairs, and the success of this treatment (which is positively assured), means the abandoning of the painful and time-consuming electric needle treatment. A paste sufficient to cover the hairs not wanted is made with powdered delatone and water and applied; after 2 or 3 minutes remove and with it comes every trace of hair. Washing the skin to remove the remaining delatone leaves it clear and firm. Be sure you get delatone.

Washing Bedspreads.

Heavy white bedspreads, if much soiled, may be soaked over night in warm soap suds and washed in the usual way next day, first hot water, then clear cold, and lastly slightly blue water. Spreads dry best when pinned up to the line doubled, the wrong side out of course. By doubled I mean taking the edges together, not pinning up through the middle.

It hardly pays to wash thick, heavy cotton comforters, but those filled with soft cotton, eiderdown, and lamb's wool will wash perfectly. First, the comforter should be put into cold salt and water to set the colours and then be transferred to hot suds, as directed, for blankets. Do as little wringing as possible, letting the article drip from the line. Squeeze the water from the edges from time to time, and change the position on the line as found necessary. One should also shake, pat, and gently strike so as to restore the spring and fluffiness.

Feather pillow can be washed with far less trouble than those imagine who have never tried it. Have the water in the boiler very hot. Add half a cup of borax and two tablespoonfuls of ammonia. Wet the pillow in warm water and soap it all over, then plunge into the boiler and boil for 15 minutes. Remove to the tub, and if the ticking is still soiled scrub with a stiff brush, laying the pillow over the wash board. When quite clean rinse in two or three warm waters and pin up to the line where the pillow will dry in the shade. Contrary to general belief, the sun is not good for feathers.

GARDEN NEWS

With the Household Flock

How many of our readers celebrate Arbor day on the farm? This week no doubt the children have been telling you when they come from school in the evenings what they are planning to do on Arbor day how they intend improving the school grounds by planting flower beds, planting trees or by a general clean up.

It is true that as much time has to be given on the farm just at this season of the year planting the things that are necessary, that we often fail to realize the fact that just a little more time spent in planting would do as much to beautify the home surroundings. But why not plan to have an Arbor day around the home this year? The farmer is busy from morning to night in the fields, and his wife is just as busy house cleaning and performing the multitudinous duties around the home. Would it not be possible, however, by a little foresight, planning and cooperation between the two to spend a few hours preparing the grounds and planting a few flowers and vines around the home to make it more attractive?

Vines and flowers have their place on the farm as well as around the city home, and a very little extra care and extra expense will make the home surroundings many times more attractive than they would otherwise be. By planting climbing plants, such as clematis or roses, and training them to run up the verands or on a trellis, they will add much to the beauty of the home. These climbing plants can be used also to grow around an old stump of a tree, as an ornament for the gate-posts or to conceal some unsightly object and transform it into a thing of beauty. Flowers planted along the house will give much pleasure, not only to the members of the family, but to passers-by as well. Give this Arbor day idea a trial this year and see how it works out.

When the world's a-goin' crooked,
Or it looks that way to you—
Somehow seems to be a tangle
To 'most ever'thing you do;
When you start out of a mornin'
With your luck a-runnin' wrong,
The birds along your pathway
Have a harshness in their song,
And the grass, though soft and velvet,
You will sort o' stumble through.
Sich times, if you want things better
Friend, it's mostly up to you.

'Taint hard smilin' with the sunshine,
But it's during stormy spells,
When our weary feet are slippin',
That the stuff what's in us tells.
No—you won't have flowers always
In the paths you travel through.
Still, if you would have things better
Friend, it's mostly up to you.

The time for sowing vegetable seeds out of doors varies greatly. First of all have the ground well prepared and enriched. Before starting to sow, remove all stones and rubbish and pulverize the soil thoroughly. Be neat in all you do.

Onions, peas, spinach, carrots, parsnips and other hardy vegetables may be planted as soon as the ground is fit. Leave cucumber, squash and corn until danger of frost is passed. Sow the seeds in moist or freshly stirred soil. Do not plant too deeply. Sow radish in good rich soil in order to have quick growth. For a succession, sow every two weeks.

Cauliflower seed is very expensive, so when I do not plant in the hot bed but out in the open garden I always put in with it about a cupful of turnip seed, mix them and sow. The turnip plants may be removed before they smother the cauliflower plants. Early Snowball or Dwarf Erfurt are fine for the garden. A great many sow cauliflower and cabbage in the hot bed. It is all right to plant a few seeds so as to have early ones to use, but as a rule the better plan is to sow them directly in rows in the garden as soon as the weather will permit. Mix cabbage seed with turnip seed the same as with cauliflower. This saves time, and I have had good heads just as quickly from plants grown from the start out in the open, although it is hardly considered possible by some. Try both ways.

Cabbage is a gross feeder, and needs lots of rich manure. Most of the best growers apply manure broadcast. In growing early cabbage it is an excellent plan to apply a little dry hen manure around the hills when the plants are half grown. This should be put close to the plants, but scattered over a radius of a foot or more from the plants and then cultivated into the soil. The Early Winningstadt, Early Express and Glory of Enkhuisen are good varieties.

Corn should not be planted until the soil is warm as the seed is apt to perish if the season is backward and wet. I have tried several varieties and have found the Malakoff and Squaw to be the most suitable for the west.

D. Johnson, Forest, Ont., has been selected to head the newly formed Fruit Division at Ottawa. Mr. Johnson has had a wide experience in fruit growing and marketing and will fill the position admirably.

Currant bushes should be dusted with white hellebore or paris green; or sprayed with a decoction of hellebore, at the first appearance of cur rant worms. Thorough cultivation should be practiced at all times.

Baked Sweetbreads.

Wash and trim the sweetbreads. Cover them with boiling water, add a tablespoon of vinegar, a teaspoonful of salt, a slice of onion, and a bayleaf. Cook slowly for three-quarters of an hour. Cool quickly, remove the membrane from the outside, without breaking the sweetbreads, and put them in a baking pan. A half hour before serving time brush them with melted butter; cover the bottom of the pan with a cupful of the liquid in which they were boiled, and bake in a hot oven, basting once or twice. Heat French peas, season them with salt and pepper and butter, and pour them upon a platter, arranging the sweetbreads neatly around them and serve.

FRENCH DRESSING.

Mix together one-half teaspoon salt, a little pepper, a tablespoon vinegar and two tablespoonfuls olive oil, adding the last drop by drop, beating thoroughly until the ingredients have blended.

How Many Times Have You Heard the Remark
"I Must Take a Spring Medicine"

Do You Know Why This Remark is Made?

The reason for this is that your liver is sluggish, your bowels inclined to be constipated, and your blood thick and impure.

This is caused by the amount of rich and heavy food you've eaten during the winter months to keep your body warm.

"Is it not enough to clog the sytem up with waste and poisonous matter"? What you need is something to put the blood into proper shape and prepare it for the hot summer months.

Burdock Blood Bitters

will entirely eliminate that dull, weary, tired, worn-out, don't-care-to-exert-myself feeling which creeps over you at this time of the year.

Try it, and you will find that it will give snap and vigour to the entire body.

The parties had a grievance, as their gardens were laid in black ruin. A deputation was appointed to wait on the Department.

THIN FOLKS WHO WOULD BE FAT

Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"I'd certainly give most anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every emaciated thin man or woman. Such result is not impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood, all the fat and flesh producing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy, normal amount of fat the nutritive processes must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them. This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving, fat-producing elements known to the medical profession. Taken with meals, it mixes with the food and turns the sugars and starches into rich, ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable. Reported gains of from ten to twenty-five pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless. Sargol is sold by good druggists everywhere and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Caution:—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous indigestion and general stomach disorders, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-producing effect, be used by those who are not willing to increase their weight ten pounds or more.

BURNS' SKULL.

Scottish Poet Had a Head of Remarkable Dimensions.

It has taken almost a century for certain facts concerning the cerebral development of Robert Burns to become generally known. A writer in The London Sphere refers almost timorously to the fact that in the nineteenth century, in the year that Jean Armour, Burns' widow, died, the family of Robert Burns gave their consent to having a cast made of the skull of the poet, dead thirty-eight years previously. The science of phrenology had just then been interesting Scotch physicians, and a paper was drawn up containing the results of the phrenological examination of Burns' skull, with drawings of the cast. It is these memorials of the poet that Mr. Arthur Keith now examines, beginning with some generalizations about the present method of drawing conclusions from physiological aspects, and using a tone almost deprecatory in fear that the sensibilities of Burns' worshippers will be hurt by what may be regarded as an unreverential way of treating the poet's physical remains:

"Most of us have lost faith in the size of head or expanse of brow as an index of mental ability; our speculation along such lines have been upset by our daily experience. We place our trust rather in the eye, the mouth, the expression, the manner in which the countenance lights up. Burns had an eye. 'I never saw such another eye in a human head,' said Sir Walter Scott. Had Sir Walter shared Dr. George Combe's predilection for the study of heads I am quite certain he would have discovered that the poet's brain was quite as remarkable as his eye. In recent years Miss Lee and Prof. Pearson have invented a fairly accurate method of calculating the size of the brain from the dimensions of the skull. Their method indicates that Burns had a brain measuring 1,720 cubic cm.—1,500 cm. being the size of brain for an average Scotsman. The great size of the head gives a key to the remark made by Sir Walter Scott, viz., 'His countenance was more massive than it looks in any of his portraits.' ... .

"Unfortunately the cast of the skull leaves off at the lower margin of the eye-sockets, hence I am unable to give any exact measurements relating to the lower part of the face. The width of the face, however, one can state definitely. The widest part of the face, taken just below the eye-sockets, measures 134 mm., fully a quarter of an inch beyond the width of the average man's face. Yet the cheek bones, as may be seen from the various portraits as from the skull cast, were neither high nor prominent; the greatest width of the face lay well behind the eye sockets. Anatomists do not include the forehead in measuring the length of the face, because its upper limit is hard to define; they measure from the root of the nose to the lower margin of the chin. The well-developed average man has a face length of 120 mm. From the various portraits I infer that the poet's face was of average length, about 120 mm., but his face was above the average width. When, however, a face of rather more than normal dimension is painted as part of a head of altogether abnormal dimensions it appears dwarfed; hence Sir Walter Scott's remark that artists had not done justice to the massiveness of Burns' features."

THE ASTOR WEDDING

STAATSBURG, N.Y., April 30.—William Vincent Astor, son of the late Colonel John Jacob Astor, and Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, whom he has known since childhood, were married here shortly after noon today in the big oak-panelled library of Hopeland House, home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Huntington. Less than fifty persons witnessed the ceremony. Plans had been made for an elaborate church wedding, but Mr. Astor's recent illness, which threatened pneumonia, interfered. Eighteen hundred wedding announcements were sent out after the ceremony, but the small company present had been invited by informal notes.

A fine rain was falling when the guests arrived at the 400-acre Huntington estate. Guards had been posted at the entrances, and only those whose credentials were unquestioned were admitted. Even reporters and photographers were barred.

Mrs. Eva Willing Astor, mother of the bridegroom, was among the wedding guests. The young widow of Colonel Astor, although invited, was not present.

Floral Decoration.

Green foliage and spring flowers hung everywhere throughout the rooms of Hopeland house. Buried in blossoms was the marble mantelpiece in the library, before which the couple stood. Miss Huntington entered the room on the arm of her father. At her throat gleamed a gorgeous necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Her bridal gown was of white tulle, with a train of white satin. Her lace veil had been worn by her grandmother, Mrs. Dinsmore and by her mother before her.

Herrmann Oelrichs, of New York, was best man. Miss Alice Huntington, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honour and the little Misses Muriel Astor and Margaret Dows were flower girls, garbed in corn-coloured chiffon and dotted net, with blue sashes. Small flowers wreathed their hats, and each carried an old-fashioned bouquet. Mrs. Robert Huntington, the bride's mother, wore blue taffeta and chiffon. A screened orchestra of twenty pieces played the Lohengrin Wedding March, and Rev. Charles H. Duncan, rector of St. Margaret's Church, Staatsburg, read the Episcopal marriage service.

The Young Couple.

Vincent Astor is 22 years old; the bride is 20. She is tall and blonde. He, too, is tall. Both are lovers of the out-of-doors, and if his health permits they probably in a month's time will take an extended honeymoon voyage on his yacht, the Noma.

Robt. Huntington is a multi-millionaire and the young bride is said to have a private fortune exceeding a million.

The Huntington family declined to give out any list or description of the presents.

NEW NECKWEAR

The ready-made collar has reached a wonderful state of perfection— or near perfection. There was a time when most of us thought that even we ourselves, unskilled as we might be in the use of a needle, could make better work of a collar than we could find in the ready-made variety. But that day has gone by. A stitch or two is all that is needed to make the ready-made collar an integral part of the frock with which we desire to wear it.

One of the stitches must always be taken to keep the buttons from popping off in the first wearing. And as the buttons used to trim collars are usually of a decorative nature, they are hard to match, and if once lost cannot be easily replaced. So always sew on the buttons on a ready-made collar. They are usually held by a single strand of thread.

The new organdie collars are a boon, now that warm weather is coming. Nothing is so desirable in warm weather as dainty neckwear. The high, boned net collar of several seasons ago was attractive when it was fresh. But it was almost impossible to keep it fresh. Didnt we used to struggle with soapsuds and small brushes over those collars, stretched over bath towels spread on marble and procelean wash basins? And then we were always getting the soapsuds on the fabric of the frock itself. The new organdie collars are moved from the frock with which they are worn quite as a matter of course, and they are so simple in construction that their laundering is a very easy matter.

The use of organdie, untrimmed with lace, and of sheer linen, hand embroidered, is a pleasant change from the befrilled collars of the last year. And of course the new collars are far more durable than was tulle ruffling. Ruches and ruffling of tulle and net have not by any means gone out of style. They are too becoming, too attractive, to leave us for a long time. But the other neck finishes have to some extent taken their places—at least divided th duty of making the neck dainty.

The flaring organdie collar should not, strictly speaking, be boned. It should be made stiff enough with starch to hold its position. Sometimes even starch is not necessary. If the collar is ironed while it is quite wet it will often come out crisp and stiff.

THE PERFECT ICE.

With the orange season at its height, if sherbet, frappe or ices are desired, these proportions stand correct: One quart of fruit juice, two lemons, to three quarts of water, three pounds of sugar.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

TEACHER'S GARDEN

"TEACHER! Teacher! Teacher!" rose the loud and insistent chorus of wails just as Miss Emily Vance turned the bend in the road. Teacher! Teacher! Teacher! Something awful's happened!"

Miss Vance quickened her steps, thinking that one of the children must be injured; as she came in sight of the little school yard she discovered that all the pupils were wailing over something, she could not tell what. When she came near the little building in which she had taught for three successive years, she saw that something awful had really happened.

"How did this happen?" she asked, looking at her precious work, which was ruthlessly destroyed.

"John Dean's cattle!" shrieked the childish chorus. "He was gettin' them out when we came this morning."

It was one of those rare, delusive days in very early spring when Nature would coax the inhabitants of earth into thinking that summer was right at hand, but which experience has taught men and women will be followed by stormy weather. The birds were filling the air with melody, the roadside grass was green and the sights and sounds were enough to lift the slowest and dullest mind above the common duties of life. Emily Vance had been humming a gay little air on her way to school, but it died out of sight of the ruined school garden, over which she and the children had spent so much care and loving work.

The people of this neighbourhood believed in trees thoroughly for their commercial value, but when Miss Vance, during the first year she had taught there, proposed making the forlorn school yard beautiful, they looked coldly upon the project. They had no time to waste on flowers and vines for the school yard. In its present condition it had been good enough for them and it was good enough for their children. However, Emily Vance was young and full of enthusiasm, so she bravely undertook the task with the help of the little children. She could not paint the dilapidated looking building nor repair the sagging fence, but she could, and did, dig out weeds and briers, plant trees and vines, encourage the children to take pride in the beautiful things that came springing from the soil and make the very most of the unpromising acre of land that had been neglected so long.

"What on earth is all this row about?" asked John Gaines, stopping his automobile at sight of the bowling children. "Is anyone killed that you kids are making such a racket?"

'Our school garden is all destroyed," explained Miss Emily, rising from trying to comfort the weeping little tots.'

"Oh, I beg your pardon!" said John, much abashed at sight of the teacher. "I thought the kids were here alone and something dreadful had happened. Well, it's too bad, Miss Vance, that your work is all ruined. This was the prettiest school yard in the whole community last summer. I took a snap shot of it to show to our professor at the agricultural college, and he made a slide from it to use in his lecture on school gardens. John Dean ought to be prosecuted for having the rickety old fences that he has.

"No, thank you," said Emily, wiping tears promiscuously with her handkerchief and patting the loudest howler on the shoulder. "It will be useless to try to do anything unless that fence is repaired. I've been afraid of this for two years. I have spoken to the authorities about the fence several times but nothing has been done."

Wind, rain, snow and mud followed the beautiful period of premature summer and Emily Vance felt in harmony with the weather every time she looked at the forlorn school yard. She had planned a little Arbor day programme for the children with the planting of trees and new shrubs which were already ordered from a reliable nursery and paid for out of her slender salary, and now everything was lost. She had found the school at Brier Hill rough and unrefined, but her gentle influence and the interest she had inspired in the little garden had worked wonders. She determined to give up at the end of the term and seek more congenial surroundings, for surely it was work wasted to try to do anything when the parents were so unresponsive. Not a soul but the children and John Gaines had said a word about the great loss to the neighborhood when the garden was ruined.

Arbor day dawned clear and warm and sunny and the little programme was to be carried out, but Emily had little heart in the matter. "What is that noise, teacher?" asked a little tot shortly after school had begun that morning. "I hear pounding."

"It isn't anything," said Emily. "Go on with your lesson, Bessie!"

But when the pounding continued Emily looked out and there were two teams unloading wire and fence posts. "We're sorry to disturb you, Miss Teacher," said Joe Forbes, good naturedly, when the young lady answered his knock at the door. "but we're going to put up that fence you've been wanting so long. Maybe you'd better dismiss for a little while to show us about your shrubs if John Dean's cattle left any. We want to put this fence up to suit you."

"And we want to set out these trees where you want them," said another man coming up with an armload of freshly dug forest trees. "I suppose you'll have to dismiss and come out to boss this job."

"What does it all mean?" asked Emily in surprise.

"It means that we're sorry you've had a hard time of it trying to make the school grounds pretty alone and we've come to celebrate Arbor day."

Emily joyfully dismissed the school for the morning, and presently it seemed to her that all the men of the neighborhood were busy setting trees, digging post holes, repairing ruined flower beds, making fine, straight walks, and in every way making the place more beautiful than it had ever been before.

At eleven o'clock the mothers mysteriously appeared and everyone had to pause long enough to eat the delicious luncheon they served. It was a delightful social gathering for all, and the happy neighbors wondered why they had not enjoyed more such meetings in days gone by. Then another period of work for the men while the women cleared away the tables and finally they all gathered in front of the little shabby building to listen to the children's songs and recitations.

"Pretty good for boys and girls, wasn't it?" said Joe Forbes, trying to keep the pride out of his eyes and voice.

"I should say it was," said Fred Brooks. "I didn't know my youngsters could do so well. I'll have to begin taking more interest in school from this on."

"I guess we'll all have to do that. We have a good teacher and we ought to do something to help her. I'm going to stir up the authorities to have this schoolhouse painted inside and out right away," said Richard Dolliver. "I'm ashamed of it this way."

That evening after the kindly neighbors had all gone home and Miss Vance and the children lingered to rejoice over the transformed school yard, John Gaines drove up with a broad smile on his face.

"Looks quite different, doesn't it?" he said as soberly as he could. "Miss Emily, I'm going to Fairview on an errand and I'll be glad to have you go with me. I'll get back before supper time if you'll go."

So Emily stepped into the little runabout and John laughed as he said: "I've been aching to tell you all about it, but I never could get a chance. I have been telling all around that our agricultural professor is coming up soon to see this modern school yard and to hear how it was all done. I tell you that scared them. They keep their farms in fine order and they would like to have some man from the college to see them, but this yard frightened them. I'm going to ask Professor Hutchins up next month so they'll see it was no idle tale. Are you satisfied?"

"Perfectly," said Emily, "and I thank you ever so much for your kindness. I am glad you have so much interest in the school and making its surroundings beautiful. This has been one of the happiest days of my life. I thought my work was all unnoticed and worthless here, but to-day everybody has been kind to me."

"It was a selfish reason that prompted me," said John, bringing the machine to a halt under a beautiful tree that overspread the country road. "I didn't care much for the school yard. I wanted to make you happy, Emily. I want you to stay in this neighborhood always, but not as a teacher. Please make it the happiest day of my life by saying you will be my wife, dear."

"I'll—I'll think about it," said Emily softly, and John Gaines was satisfied.

The economical decoration of your home is largely a matter of knowing the right finishes to use.
For the exterior of your home there is no better paint than Sherwin-Williams Paint (Prepared) SWP. It is made of the purest of materials, combined in correct scientific proportions with the aid of special machinery. The result is a far spreading, long wearing paint in liquid form, all ready to apply.
For floors, the easiest finish to apply is S-W Inside Floor Paint, and this gives particularly good results even on old worn or discolored floors. On a good hardwood floor the best finish is S-W Mar-not, a hard-drying waterproof floor varnish.
For the walls of your home, while water paints, such as S-W Decotint, give pleasing effects, they have not the durability which means true economy, Sherwin-Williams Flat-tone is unquestionably the best paint for walls. It is an oil paint that dries with a soft, flat, velvety finish. It is very durable and can be washed with soap and water. S-W Flat-tone comes in twenty-four beautiful colors, the selection of expert decorators.
For the varnishing of interior work such as wainscotting, doors, furniture, etc., we recommend S-W Excello Varnish, or S-W Kopal, an old fashioned, general purpose varnish, which can be used inside and outside and is just the thing for varnished woodwork in kitchens, bathrooms, or for front doors, porch ceilings, etc. For floors use S-W Mar-not, a special waterproof floor varnish, will not turn white when water is spilled on it, nor does it show scratches and heel marks readily.

Regrets.

I was a baseball player.
Why did I ever quit?
Now they are making fortunes
At very little wit.
The shortstop and the banker,
The fielder and the prince—
They have become as one, it seems,
In rank and fortune since.

I thought it was for persons
Who won't assume the cares
Of doing business, but it seems
To be for millionaires.
I struggled to forget it
And be a man of worth,
But, lo, the boys who stuck to it
Possess the very earth!
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Cruel Woman.

"I shall never believe in women again," he said with a sigh that seemed to come from a broken heart.

"Why?" she asked.

"You ought to know, after the way you have treated me."

"I don't see why you should complain. I told you at the start that I didn't love you."

"That's what I'm kicking about. If you had told me at the start that you loved me I shouldn't have cared for you, and all the money I've spent trying to make you think you never could be happy without me might have been saved."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Distinction.

"I'm not a millionaire," said he;
"I own no motor stocks or land,
But you may still be proud of me—
I play the tuba in the band.

"I cannot bring you wealth or fame,
Nor promise you a life of ease
If you consent to wear my name,
Nor furnish all life's luxuries.

"But such distinction as is mine
I gladly place within your hand.
Not every dub along the line
Can play the tuba in the band."
—Detroit Free Press.

System will simplify a mass of perplexing "little things" and give time and incentive for some of the bigger things.

Peel the potatoes intended for roasting with beef and boil till half-cooked, then put them in the roaster and baste often with the beef gravy.

A nice way to thicken gravies for pot roasts or stews is to put a piece of brown bread in with the meat, and when you want to make the gravy rub it up for the thickening.

To prevent jelly, preserves, apple butter, etc., from scorching, put a few small marbles in the bottle. Their continual rolling around answers the purpose of stirring.

Before breaking eggs for frosting let them stand in cold water for a short while until the eggs are cooled through, and the frosting will be much stiffer and nicer.

Nerves Were on Edge She Could Not Sleep
Great Change Brought About Dr. Chase's Nerve Food --System Built Up---Nerves Strong---Sleep Natural and Refreshing
Nothing can give you so good an idea of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will do for you as reading the letters from persons who have been benefited by its use. That is why we are publishing such letters daily in this paper.
Diseases of the nerves are manifested in different ways. With some it is sleeplessnes and inability to rest. Others have frequent headaches and neuralgic pains. Indigestion is a common symptom, and depressed spirits and discouragement are usually manifest. Whatever may be the warning, the principal thing is to restore the wasted nerves before paralysis or locomotor ataxia claim you as a victim.
Ms. Edson Brock, Trenholmville, Que., writes: "I want to state that have never taken anything to do me so much good as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am never without it in the house. I have been using the Nerve Food for months now and am still taking it, as it just suits my needs, and is building up my system wonderfully. I was so nervous I could not sleep, but now I sleep soundly at nights, and wake up feeling refreshed and ready for the day's work. I know it is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that has brought about the great change in my condition, and am change for it. My husband was a great sufferer from itching piles, and has been entirely cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Naturally and gradually vigour is restored to the nervous system by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food until you find yourself again feeling and looking well and ready to fight the battle of life. Radium Mines in England.

England may yet prove to be the richest producer of radium ore in the world.

Pitchblende was discovered ever so long ago in the Trowwith tin mine, Cornwall, but it is only quite lately that one of England's most eminent scientists, Sir William Ramsay, and his assistant chemist, Mr. Whitehouse, have really got down to work there. Now radium is being turned out in a dingy back street in Limehouse, London. It is valued at $3,750,000 an ounce.

It is anticipated that at the end of March an output of something like 4,000 milligrams a year, valued at $80 a milligram, will be placed upon the market.

The mine may be the greatest source of pitchblende in the world and within a stone's throw of it is another similar mine worked by a French company. Other mines are thought to exist in the middle and west of England.

Relic Goes Into Museum.

A head of a crosd-staff, in ivory, probably dating from the early twelfth century, which was dug up in Water Lane, in the City of London, about 30 years ago, has been acquired by the Victoria and Albert Museum.

SHE GAINED 36 LBS.

Mrs. George Bradshaw, Harlowe Ont. writes: "I was troubled for many years with weak, watery blood and dropsy. I had nervous headaches, dizziness, and sinking spells, and was, in fact, a semi-invalid. Doctors told me my heart and kidneys were diseased and gave me up. By using 19 boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been cured of many of my old complaints and gained 36 pounds in weight."

STEAMER BURNS AT SEA

Crew of Tramp Missing and More Probably Been Saved.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 5.—An unknown steamer, on fire from stem to stern and with no signs of life on board, was discovered 200 miles south south of Cape Race yesterday by the steamer Seydlitz from Bremen for New York. Her position was given as latitude 41.37 north and longitude 51.07 west. The Seydlitz immediately called by wireless for assistance and response came from the Franconia, 50 miles to the eastward, bound for Boston, and the Olympic 200 miles to the west, headed for New York.

The Seydlitz circled around the burning vessel, but the smoke hung so heavy about her that her name could not be distinguished.

As no small boats were discovered in the vicinity, and as the Olympic had passed not far from the scene 12 or 15 hours before, it was believed here last night that the unnamed vessel caught fire some time after midnight, and that all hands were rescued by some ship which had no wireless.

The weather on the Grand Banks yesterday was moderate, and it was thought that any transhipment could have been accomplished with no great amount of difficulty or danger.

The Marine and Fisheries Department last night received a wireless despatch from Sable Island station from the steamer Seydlitz stating that the hulk of the burning ship was high out of the water. The funnel and the foremast were gone. The steamer had evidently been burning for some time. The burning ship has a high poop.

The wireless station at Sable Island Sunday night picked up part of a message that was evidently passing between two steamers equipped with wireless. The message read:

"Hurry up; we are on fire." Atmospheric conditions then interrupted and no more details of the ocean tragedy could be learned.

It is believed that the ill-fated ship was a tramp steamer.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Two thousand immigrants for the west were landed at Quebec yesterday by the ocean steamers Megantic, Ansonia and Tunisian.

The fire squad of the militant suffragettes resumed its campaign in Ulster yesterday by burning the new grand stand of the Cave Hill Tennis Club.

J. Vernon McKenzie, a Montreal newspaperman, formerly of Toronto, has been appointed secretary to N. W. Rowell, K.C., Opposition leader of Ontario.

More than 50 lives were lost in a fire which broke out in the commercial section of Valparaiso, Chile, Sunday night. Several buildings were completely destroyed.

Edward Tilson was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Magistrate Denison in the Toronto Police Court yesterday on charge of perjury and bigamy. He pleaded guilty.

The Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Asia, which arrived at Vancouver Sunday, lowered the record for the Yokohama-Victoria trip by two hours, making the trip in 9 days 3 hours.

Wm. C. Clark, son of George E. Clark, of Martintown, Glengarry County, has won the Ricardo prize scholarship at Harvard University, a much coveted reward for special ability and merit.

Michael O'Mahoney, who on April 17, shot at Mayor Mitchel and wounded Corporation Counsel Frank L. Peak, of New York, was yesterday sentenced to Matteawan Asylum for the criminal insane.

Senor Terreros of the Washington Mexican embassy, who is making Toronto his temporary residence, expressed the opinion yesterday that Toronto would be a natural place for the A. B. C. powers peace commissioners to hold their conference.

The Hatter and the Earl.

"The late Earl of Cork was a very pious person and extremely solicitous as to the future salvation of his fellow men. One day, finding himself in a crowded railway carriage, he delivered a homily as earnest as it was unasked, exhorting every one immediately to set about insuring his happiness in a future life. Presently one of the passengers, who had been listening very attentively to all that Cork said, arrived at his station," says Lord Suffield in his memoirs. "When he had got out on the platform he turned round and, leaning through the carriage door, said:

"'Thank you, sir! One good turn deserves another. You've put me up to a wrinkle in your profession; now let me give you one in return. I'm a hatter. Put a piece of blotting paper inside the lining of your hat and it will last twice as long. Good day!'"—London Globe.

Pretty Homely.

London used to have an Ugly club. On his admittance to the Ugly club a short descriptive sketch of the new member was entered in the minute book. We find the picture of a claimant to the title of the ugliest man on earth in "Joseph Farmer, merchant," whose description reads as follows: "Little eyes, one bigger than ye other; long nose, thin lantern jaws, large upper lip; mouth from ear to ear, resembling a shark's; a rotten set of irregular teeth, which are set off at great advantage by frequent laughing; his visage long and narrow; his looks upon the whole extraordinary, haggard, odd, comic and out of ye way. In short, possessed of every qualification to render him the phenomenon of ye society, as the like won't appear again this one thousand years."—London Chronicle.

Good Time Lost.

"Why do you insist upon having the biggest piece of pie, Harry?" asked the mother of a small boy. "Isn't your older brother entitled to it?"

"No, he isn't," replied the little fellow. "He was eating pie two years before I was born."—Chicago News.

Comes a Tribute to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

William Nash, Well-Known Farmer, Tells How They Cured Him After Two Years' Suffering.

Marshbank, Kings Co., N.B., May 4.—(Special)—After two years' suffering from Kidney Disease, William Nash, a well-known farmer here, is a well man and, like many another in this neighbourhood, he is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started from a strain" Mr. Naish says, "and for two years it gradually grew worse. My appetite was fitful. I had dark circles around my eyes and my skin had a harsh, dry feeling and itched and burned at night. I was troubled with headaches, cramps in the muscles, and stiffness of the joints. Rheumatism finally developed and I was a sick man generally, when I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. They helped me almost from the start, and two boxes cured me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills simply cure sick Kidneys. They cured Mr. Nash because every one of his ailments is a symptom of Kidney Disease. Anybody who has any two of these symptoms needs a Kidney remedy, and the greatest of all Kidney remedies is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The Boy Witness.

Mr. F. E. Smith, the Unionist M.P. and lawyer, was engaged in a county case, and one of the witnesses was a little chap of eight who had to give evidence on behalf of his father. The child appeared in a hat that almost hid his face, his trousers so big that the knees were at his ankles, and in a coat that swept the floor. His appearance was so grotesque that the court was dissolved in laughter. The judge, as soon as he could control his amusement, asked the little fellow why he had appeared in such garb. He fished in his pocket for a moment, and then produced the summons, and with a grave look of concern pointed out the words, "To appear in his father's suit."

Farmer Falls Dead.

GUELPH, May 5.—Thos. Weatherston, of Everton, a retired farmer, 71, fell dead just after climbing into his buggy at the close of a church service at Ospringe. He had been troubled with a weak heart for some time, and death was due to a hemorrhage of the heart.

Farmer Ended His Life.

LONDON, Ont., May 5.—Archibald Campbell, an Alvinston farmer, who came to the London Insane Asylum on April 11 as a voluntary patient, because, as he explained, he was afraid he might commit suicide, ended his life during the temporary absence of the guard by cutting his throat with a table knife he had obtained from the kitchen of the institution.

SIMPLE CURE FOR LA GRIPPE

First Used in Vienna.

Unfortunately most of us have had some experience with "Grippe" or influenza. When you feel the first symptoms — don't wait — take a dose of "Kephaldol." A tablet or two will check the cold and the fever and headache will quickly disappear. "Kephaldol" was first used by Dr. Stohr in Vienna and so successful was his prescription that the world's best doctors endorse its use for the cure of Feverish Colds, Influenza and Nervous Affections. "Kephaldol" is harmless and will reduce the temperature without the bad after-effects which follow the use of many drugs. Should you find it difficult to procure locally, send 50c. direct to the Manufacturers for a large tube. Address:—Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal. 22

A Tree of Many Peculiarities.

The mangrove tree, which is found in Trinidad, British West Indies, has many peculiarities. For one thing, it seeds germinate on the branches, and when the shoots are considerably grown they fall off and take root in the mud. As the young tree grows it sends out fresh roots from its trunk and lower branches, until at last the tree seems to be supported by a network of roots, or complicated series of arches, in the midst of which crabs, aquatic birds and insects take up their abode.

Tailor On the Tramp.

Many years ago jobbing tailor went about the north of Scotland working at private houses by the day much on the same lines as some modern dressmakers.

These visits often lasted a week and were familiarly spoken of in the trade as "whipping the cat." In addition to their board and lodging, the tailors received liberal wages, and often made up material supplied by their hosts. They usually arrived armed with lap-boards, thimbles, scissors, and needles, and last, but not least, they brought with them all the news of the country-side.

A Tiny School.

A report of what is believed to be one of the smallest schools in England was presented at a meeting of the Lancashire County Sub-Educational Committee at Lancaster. His Majesty's inspector reported that he visited Aughton school, seven miles northeast of Lancaster, and found two children present out of five on the books. The report added, "The master continues to give careful attention to his duties."

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE ALWAYS CREATES ENTHUSIASM

Thousands Endorse It

Thousands of ladies throughout the world are thankful for Newbro's Herpicide, because it is to that wonderful hair remedy and scalp prophylactic they owe their soft, long, beautiful hair.

Mary J. Terry, of Lovejoy, Ill., writes: "My hair comes out until there was just a scanty cover for the scalp. I tried everything I ever heard of or read about until I finally used Herpicide. There is nothing like it. My head is now covered with new hair. I shall forever praise Herpicide."

Most hair troubels come from dandruff. Newbro's Herpicide removes this dandruff and prevents further accumulation. It also stimulates a flow of blood which nourishes the follicles. The scalp being healthy the hair does not come out and the new hair is allowed to grow.

There are other preparations which they say are "just as good" as Herpicide. It is not advisable to try them. Instead of doing any good they may do positive harm.

No one is ever disappointed in Newbro's Herpicide. The results are almost always the same, highly satisfactory, as is indicated by the fact that Herpicide has been sold for years and has thousands of satisfied friends. It is the only "ghoulish, original dandruff germ destroyer." There is nothing "just as good."

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantees it to do all that is claimed. If you buy and not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications at good barber shops. Send 10c in postage for samples and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Go Light on Rouge.

A good rice powder is harmless if used with sense, but a reliable cold cream should be applied before. To have a face that looks whitewashed is bad taste, and to indulge in rouge in the daytime is vulgar and common. A faint touch at night dusted over with powder will very often make a homely girl quite attractive—but, remember, just a touch.

Another thing. Have clean hair. Soap is cheap and water costs nothing. A dirty looking head will spoil the best looks and detract from the most careful costume. The style of dressing the hair is of equal importance and should suit the individual rather than follow the latest mode.

ELEVATOR IN SIDEWALK AT BARRIE'S NEW STORE BACK TO BOARD OF WORKS

Ald. Stratton Claims That the Council Should Determine its Policy on This Question Now—Says Other Merchants Will Ask for Goods Elevators in the Sidewalk

ALD. GREEN'S SUGGESTION

By a vote of six to four, the Council sent back to the Board of Works for further deliberation the recommendation from Ald. Duncan's committee to permit Barries, Limited, to place a goods elevator in the sidewalk on George Street in front of their proposed new building next to the Customs House.

The entire clause as read by the chairman of the Board of Works in moving the adoption of the Board's report was: That the application of Barries, Limited, for permission to place prism glass in the sidewalk and to use the space under the sidewalk in front of a building they propose erecting on the east side of George Street, south of Charlotte Street, for storage and goods elevator be granted on the same conditions as embodied in an agreement with the Toronto Savings and Loan Company for a similar concession.

ALD. STRATTON'S OPINION.

Ald. Stratton pointed to this clause and stated that at the meeting of the Board of Works he expressed the opinion that it was not in the best interests of the City to grant the request in regard to the goods elevator in the sidewalk. Let us make up our minds, he said, whether we are going to give this privilege to all those who may ask for it in future. "I interviewed a number of the business men on George Street, and nine-tenths of those I saw thought that this move was not in the best interests of the City. One man said that of all the cities in Canada of the same size as Peterborough, there is no street more travelled than George Street. He said that if this request were granted to Barries he would make an application for a goods elevator, and he knew of ten or twelve others who would do likewise. If the Council decides in favour of the request then it should grant the others. I would move an amendment that this part of the clause be referred back to the Board of Works and that the opinions of some of the business men on this point be obtained.

Ald. McIntyre seconded the amendment.

MAYOR BULLER.

Ald. Stratton said he had no objection to the use of the ground under the sidewalk, nor to the coal hole.

Mayor Buller stated that there was a clause in the agreement with the Toronto Savings and Loan Company that the goods elevator for the Turnbull building would be removed whenever the Council demanded it. If we are going to stop one, he said, we should begin now before the Turnbull people build their elevator.

SHOULD BE ASSISTED.

Ald. Duncan—Mr. Barrie told us that he had tried to buy a right-of-way across the Customs House property and also from the Comstock people. He is opening up a factory and is asking no aid in money matters. I think we should grant him the use of an elevator in the side walk. If it is used up to 10 or 11 a.m. only I can't see that it will be dangerous. The factory will employ quite a number of hands, and Mr Barrie promises to remove the elevator when the Council says so.

SITUATION IN TORONTO.

Ald. Green — I get some information from Toronto and I learn that there are no goods elevators on Yonge Street, King Street nor on Queen Street. We were considering what Toronto had done. I'm of the opinion that it would be well to take another week to consider the proposal before passing it through the Council. It is worthy of more thought than we have been able to give it. If 10 or 12 are likely to be put in on George Street then the matter becomes a serious one. We might grant Barries the privilege, but it might be more in the form of a bonus. The company will manufacture all their goods here. Ald Stratton has thought the matter out well, and for the sake of a week or two, I will vote for the amendment.

ENCOURAGE THE COMPANY.

Mayor Buller said he was sure there was an elevator in front of the Salada Tea Co. at the foot of Yonge Street. The Mayor said he agreed with Ald. Duncan and also with Ald Stratton, but the company should be encouraged. It is the least we can do to grant this request.

AN "AD." TO MERCHANTS.

Ald. Duncan stated that with so many lanes he did not understand how 10 or 12 merchants would ask for the privilege.

Ald. Stratton—Several told him that they would have it if for no other reason than for advertising purposes. Some merchants feel that it is good for business to let the people see the quantity of goods coming into their stores. We are legislating, not for the present, but for the future. I do not want to cause any detriment to the City's business nor to any part of it. If all the men are in favour of this idea I certainly will be."

The amendment carried by 6 to 4, and will receive further consideration from the Board of Works.

THE STORES WILL CLOSE AT 3 P. M. FOR BALL GAME

Merchants Decide to Do Their Part to Make Opening Day, May 14th, a Grand Success

OTHER BUSINESS DONE

At the meeting of the merchants, held last night at the Y. M. C. A., a large attendance was present. Among the different questions that were dealt with were the summer Thursday half-holiday, and after a full discussion it was unanimously decided to close July and August, excepting the first week in July.

The half-holiday to boost the ball team along and thereby advertise Peterborough came in for considerable discussion and in order to make it unanimous it was decided to close the stores at 3 p. m., which was thought sufficient time to allow merchants and clerks to see the game, and a recommendation to that effect will be sent to the Mayor and the City Council.

It was also decided to again hold the annual picnic this summer and a committee was appointed to act with the Executive officers to select the whole committee to operate the same which is expected to be much larger than last year.

The Committee will consist of T. C. Elliott, F. L. Boy, as. Lynch, D. H. Kernighan and Robert Fair.

A committee was also appointed consisting of J. H. Connal, James Lynch, H. E. Morgan, J. R. Bell to inquire into the present market restrictions and conditions.

It was also suggested that a printed report be made of the work the ocal association has ecomplished, so as to put it into the hands of every retail merchant in the City, as it was thought that if they all knew what was being done for them they woud all become members.

The Secretary was asked to enroll would all become members.

THE NEW STYLES IN WOMEN'S WEAR

See the New York Models in Elliot's Windows

The styles this season are drawn from the great masters of portraiture of the eighteenth century, Reynolds, Gainsborough, Watteau, Romney, Raeburn, etc. It is a revival of the fashions of the latter part of the eighteenth and early part of the nineteenth centuriesfl. For this season, it is the picture period and the picturesque that will prevail in women's and misses' dresses.

All sorts of shapes are evident, those of the rounded effects, graduated and novel cut. There are scarcely two alike so varied is the assortment this season. The styles are a modification of the styles that have been shown during the past season.

Most of them are shown coming from the sides front and extended in the back. The corkscrew tunics are most fantastic, but pretty, and will no doubt be the novelty feature. Flounces are also called tunics, but these are often cut circular and fuller in effect than the ordinary tunic is.

Elliot's are showing some of these models in the new Drun de laine, Shot silks, Tango and other shades and materials.

The styles are very unique and novel in effect.

GEN. DURYEA IS MURDERED BY HIS SON

Seven Shots Fired into Body of Veteran of American Civil War After Family Argument

FRATICIDE CONFESSES

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 5.— The grim family skeleton of a prominent family was again uncovered with the murder at two o'clock this morning of General Hiram Duryea, millionaire starch manufacturer, aged 81, by his son, Chester Duryea, aged 43, in their beautiful Brooklyn home. The servants say both men were sleeping in an outside sun room and after a bitter argument over family affairs, things quieted down for a time. Later they heard shots. Chester fired seven bullets into his sleeping father, any one of whom would have caused death. The murderer summoned the police, saying he had had some trouble with his father and had killed him. It is supposed he went violently insane. Chester's wife divorced him in 1902, saying it was impossible to live with him owing to his violent temper. At that time General Duryea stoutly defended his son. The general had a distinguished career in civil war.

CITY SOLICITOR CLAIMS DUTIES ARE LIMITED

Does Not Consider That He Should Be a Prosecutor Under the Chief of Police for Breaches of Criminal Code

City Solicitor Gordon is of the opinion that he should not be expected to act as prosecutor in cases preferred by Chief Thompson under the criminal code, or in appeals from criminal code convictions. The matter was discussed last night at the Council meeting, when Mayor Buller stated that Chief Thompson had mentioned the subject to him. "The Chief said that the City Solicitor drafted the by-laws, and it was not fair that the solicitor should defend any persons who break them."

Mr. Gordon stated that he had refused charges laid under the City by-laws and Provincial laws. He did not regard it as consistent to take such cases, and he mentioned a number that he had refused. But cases coming under the criminal code were of a different nature and were under ordinances of the Dominion Government. The City Solicitor considered that he was directly identified with the public's and the City's interests in pertaining to cases coming under City by-laws and Provincial laws, but he did not consider it his duty to be a prosecutor at large under the Chief of Police. He had a right to appear for parties charged with breaches of the criminal code.

"Neither Mr. Hall nor myself have ever attempted to break a City by-law."

Mr. Gordon stated that since taking over Mr. Hall's duties as City Solicitor he more than ever appreciated the services which Mr. Hall had rendered the City. His services had been given at less than half the ordinary cost. Mr. Gordon had kept an account during his first month of the cases passing through his hands as City Solicitor, and under the regular fees the City's legal bill would have been $480. The gist of the situation is simply that the City Solicitor claims the right to defend cases under the criminal code, at the same time holding himself to represent the City's interests under local by-laws and Provincial laws.

NEW SERIAL WILL BEGIN IN SATURDAY'S EXAMINER

The Examiner will offer a new serial to its readers on Saturday in a sparkling story by Louis Tracy, author of "The Pillar of Light," "Wings of the Morning" and other favourite romances. "The Terms of Surrender" is the name of Mr. Tracy's latest and probably best story.

Louis Tracy has struck a new note in "The Terms of Surrender," one that will startle every reader, as well as leave him "up in the air" till the very last page. Imagine such a plot as another man's wife eloping with a girlhood sweetheart, the twain having a few weeks' summer idyl in the midst of isolated mountains, then being torn asunder—and this experience being worked out perfectly logically and for the good of everybody—and all told in a manner and full of such devices as to make it rarely entertaining.

Tracy has done just this,—written a book as modern as can be, with a plot that is luring with its contrasts and magnetic in its sympathies.

PROPOSAL TO CONSOLIDATE THE CITY'S ENGINEERING DEPARTMENTS

The consolidation of the engineering departments of the various City utilities under one head is a proposal which the Council has in contemplation, and to consider which a special meeting will be called in the near future. The members of the Utilities Commission will be asked to be present.

An engineer for the Hydro-Electric work will be needed; there is also the engineering department of the waterworks and there is the City Engineer. Mayor Buller suggested that Mr. Parsons might take the head of the whole engineering work of the City with subheads appointed under him for the several departments. He felt that the City Engineer was well qualified for the work and the step would mean the saving of time and money for the City. The Utilities Commission have full power to determine their own plans, but Mayor Buller felt that the members would recognize the saving to the City, and would probably assent to giving the matter a trial.

Ald. Stratton felt that the plan would not work out as desired, but further discussion was deferred to the special meeting of the Council.

COMPANIES DO NOT KNOW OWN POLES ON GEORGE ST. AND CITY MUST WAIT

Alderman Johnston sees the approaching dawn of a new day in the city's authority over its streets, and last night he worked off a somewhat fiery speech along the lines that the city would soon be in a position to dictate to those corporations which have after receiving concessions turned around and given the city a merry "ha ha."

His remarks grew out of a letter from W. Marshall, superintendent of the C.P.R. Telegraph Company regarding the removal of poles from George street and from Charlotte street to the Grand Trunk Railway.

A few weeks ago it appeared that this work would be done by the company who proposed to come up the spur line and across to their George street office. Last night's letter from Mr. Marshall was:

"I would like if you would without prejudice advise me by return mail just what expense your Corporation is willing to incur in this matter."

City Solicitor Gordon explained his investigation into the situation. In short the C.P.R. and the Peterborough Light and Power Company claim the much talked of poles, which are so old that they could not be reset along the waterfront as suggested. Mr. Marshall stated that it would cost $1,000 to salvage the line. If the city would pay this the C.P.R. would move them. But, said Mr. Gordon, the City Engineer had found out that the C.P.R. had erected poles in 1888, and the Power Company had erected some in the same year. The latter company claims that the poles are their property, and neither company apparently knows exactly what of the disputed poles they do own. There is a dispute as to title. The Dominion Railway Board will not deal with a question of property in dispute. The city would be asked to find out who owned the poles.

Another Knot in Tangle.

The expropriation proceedings with the Peterborough Light and Power Company adds to the present tangle. If the city paid the C.P.R. now, it might be called upon to pay the Power Company for them later on.

Mayor Buller stated that he did not feel that the city should pay a cent for the removal of the poles. The city could put up with the inconvenience until the Power Company matter has been settled.

Alderman Johnston—We will soon be in a position to dictate to some of these people. The Machine Telephone Company is practically the only one that has acted fairly with the city, and I am glad the Bell Telephone Company is coming into line. Some of these people get heaven and earth, and then block us and laugh at us. The people should be glad that we are getting back some of their rights. We will get what we are bargaining for and we will then be in a better position.

Mr. Gordon stated that the Peterborough Light and Power Company refuse to move the poles on the ground that the plant practically belongs to the city. They claim that they are only giving light at the suffrage of the city.

The Council will wait until the proceedings with the Power Company have been settled. In the meantime the street paving on George street south will be continued and the poles moved afterwards.

POLICE MATRON CHOSEN BY THE COMMISSIONERS

Responsible and Important Position Will Be Filled by Mrs. (Adjt.) McElhiney, Who Refuses to Accept Salary for the Work.

NEW OFFICER APPOINTED

Resignation of P. C. Phimister accepted.

H. D. Lawrence appointed as police constable.

Appointment of P. C. Downes confirmed.

Accounts passed.

Mrs. (Adjutant) McElhiney appointed as police matron.

The above was the business transacted at a meeting of the Police Commissioners held last evening in the committee rooms of the City buildings, when His Honour Judge Huycke, chairman, His Worship Police Magistrate Dumble, and His Worship Mayor Buller were present. The first matter dealt with was the resignation of P. C. Phimister. He tendered his resignation on the grounds that he was returning to Scotland, his native land, at the request of his father, who was in poor health. His resignation, to take effect on June 1st, was accepted.

Another Appointed.

An application for position of constable on the local Police Force, was read from Harold L. Lawrence, who resides at 220 Park street, and describes himself as being a young married man, 27 years of age, weighing two hundred pounds, six feet one inch tall, and a Protestant. Five other old applications were on file, but on the recommendation of Chief of Police Thompson, Lawrence was appointed to commence his duties on June 1st, at the initial salary of $650 per annum.

Appointment Confirmed.

The appointment of P. C. Downes as a probationer was confirmed. He, too, will receive a salary of $650 per year.

The New Police Matron.

The question of the appointment of a police matron was then brought forward for discussion and consideration. Chief Thompson opened the subject by describing the duties that would be entailed in the position. The views of the various members of the board were heard, and all pointed to the fact that the police matron was better than a police-woman, or, as His Honour Judge Huycke added to the sentence, in a place this size. During the past several months, the matter of the appointment of a police-woman, has been strongly, and continuously agitated, by the local Council of women. The local council, as well as other working bodies, waited upon the Police Commissioners in regard to this matter, and met with a flat refusal from the board, re an appointment. A controversy, lasting for some time was carried on through the medium of of the press. As other controversies generally terminate, the matter was eventually dropped. Though staunch on their refusal to appoint a police-woman, the Commissioners were eager, in some way to oblige the public, to which body the agitation had spread, and therefore decided to place in the ranks of the police department, a police matron, who has proved very successful in many other places where the experiment has been tried.

Her Duties.

Chief Thompson stated that her duties would largely consist of making investigations, in conection with homes, and girls. The reports, he said, would be made by his men, from the streets. Her time would be taken up a great deal, making investigations. Then she would have charge and care of female prisoners who were brought to the Police Station, and would be in attendance in the court, in such cases.

Satisfy Public Opinion.

Magistrate Dumble—It will satisfy the public opinion, that we have a woman on the force in some capacity. We have found that a woman can get information when a man cannot, and they are useful in searching. There is an under-current of information that can be got by a woman, which will help the police very much. As the chief says, she can go into the homes, and find out the secret, and find out what the wrong was, and perhaps would be an influence in suggesting better conditions in the homes. Perhaps it is the fault of the mother in the home. Though she might do a great deal of work, it would be practically secret, and would be little spoken of. It is very confidential.

CHURCH PARADE, CONCERTS

Belleville's Volunteers Will be the Guests of the 57th on May 24th and 25th

The Council granted $100 toward the entertainment of the 13th Regiment of Belleville, which will be the guest of the 57th Regiment in Peterborough on May 24th and 25th.

Colonel Clegg and Major Vincent Eastwood waited on the Council last night. Colonel Clegg stated that there would be a church parade on Sunday, May 24th, with probably a band concert in the afternoon and evening. There would also be a big parade on Monday, and the militia would provide an interesting occasion for the citizens.

On the last visit of two regiments to the city, the Council made a grant of $300, but the expenses of entertaining the men requiree an additional $200, which the regiment had to make up. Colonel Clegg asked for $200 to help entertain the visitors this year.

Major Eastwood stated that the celebration would help keep the people in the city, and would also attract visitors. It was desired to have a trip over the Lift Lock for the men, and other forms of entertainment that would leave a good impression with the Belleville Regiment.

Alderman Langford Was Willing.

Alderman Langford, himself an officer, was a smiling Barkis on this item of expenditure. He thought the Council should be as liberal as possible. It would be a patriotic celebration and was in a sense a duty to make it a fitting one.

Alderman Anderson—I am in favour of helping the officers. The city never spent $300 with so much satisfaction returned as on the occasion of the grant for the entertainment of the two regiments several years ago. But we have only $265 left for appropriations of this kind. I would move that $100 be granted. The officers probably did not expect to get the entire amount.

Alderman Stratton seconded the motion.

Alderman Anderson remarked that the gift would help some.

The motion carried.

As the two officers were departing, expressing their thanks, Major Eastwood remarked that a little more would have been welcome. "It's hard times boys," said Alderman Johnston.

FURNITURE DEALERS WANT EARLY CLOSING

A number of the furniture retailers of the City have petitioned the Council to pass a by-law requiring the furniture stores to be closed every night at 7 o'clock excepting Saturdays and the days immediately preceding public holidays.

Ald. Stratton moved, seconded by Ald. Dobbin, that the request be granted if the petition is sufficiently signed. The City Clerk stated that the petition requires to be signed by three-fourths of the furniture dealers. The names affixed to the petition were as follows:

E. B. Clegg, J. D. Craig, M. McFadden & Son, E. G. Taylor of the Empire Furniture Co., A. Comstock, A. W. Cressman, D. Belleghem, Lane & Fano, R. Begley, M. T. Butcher, Zacks Bros., W. C. Bejound.

"NO ENGLISH NEED APPLY."

This unfortunate sentence in an advertisement has provoked a storm of protesting correspondence. Some of the letters have, in fairness to those concerned, been published, and others are coming but as acrimonious letters on the other side threaten to arouse a most undesirable controversy, it is thought better that no further letters on either side should be printed. We do not want the harmony of our citizenship disturbed. We must all live together, and all classes will be acting the part of good citizenship by refraining from recriminations. Thinking Canadians will remember how much we owe to English institutions and English capital, and sensible Englishmen will recognise how great opportunities Canada has provided them and will make allowance for the prejudices of a few who form their judgment of the whole from a few undesirables. We shall be at our best when we strive to be good Canadians. Every man, worth his salt, has his pride of race, his pride of country; but with all that in this country we put all nationalities in the melting pot, and turn them out good Canadians. That we should all strive to do—become good Canadians—and so doing we shall be doing the best for one of the chief elements of national progress—harmonious citizenship, which is evidently not to be promoted by acrimonious recrimination. The greatest enemy, the greatest traitor, to genuine Canadianism, in its national sense, is he who, under any pretext, sows the seed of discord in the community. We must live and let live; we must respect the feelings, beliefs and national pride of each other. Take a pick, and, if you haven't one, borrow one from your English, Irish, Scotch, or Canadian neighbour and "bury the hatchet."

CATERPILARS.

Eternal vigilance is the price of plums and other fruits; and of our comfort and enjoyment of the fruits of our planting. The caterpillars have come. A stroll in the country reveals the tents of the pests, the young rascals hatched out, about the size of a quarter inch of strong thread. But they will grow rapidly and begin to devour the leaves as fast as they unfold. The favourite place for the deposit of eggs is the utterly useless and utterly bad, "choke-cherry" tree. This and the scrub seedling apple bushes that are wickedly allowed to grow along fence rows, are the places where the caterpillars come first into evidence. Why the legislature neglects to legislate their destruction is a mystery. The sitting member for West Peterborough was told that if he wanted to link his name to a worthy act, that act would be the introduction of a bill to compel the removal of these vicious shrubs and compel the destruction of caterpillar bracelets and tents. But he had his excuse. He claimed that such a law could not be enforced. Why not such a law as well as other laws that are passed by hundreds every session? It is true that the strong point of the Whitney government is not the enforcement of law; but public opinion would force the application of a law that would remove or lessen the pest of caterpillars. Order, by law, the destruction of these shrubs and caterpillar tents; and, if the owner of the land wouldn't do it, empower the municipality to do the work and charge its cost against the property. That does not seem a difficult thing to do; and one can be sure that a law like that, fairly enforced would be effective in at least keeping caterpillars within bounds. In default of such legislation the individual is forced to take the best measures possible. Spraying fruit trees is one effective way. Spraying the trees where the caterpillars feed, would destroy them in battalions. Detail measures consist in a vigilant watch of all trees and shrubs and the destruction of the colonies before they are big enough to do damage. Everybody needs to be on the watch, ready to destroy. The destruction of caterpillars at every stage of their development is a duty that everybody owes to himself and to society.

MISMANAGEMENT.

In politics, as in everything else, it is better to do right than wrong, especially when the cost is counted. The Borden government has added to the rolling stock of the National railway, the Intercolonial, political enginery. It has made the railway an exploiting ground for party profit, and now it is reaping the penalty. It is a pretty "raw deal" that will not secure the endorsation or at least the excuses of the partizan press. The Colchester (N. S.) Sun, a staunch Conservative journal, can't stand the Borden government's political manipulation of the Intercolonial railway; though it is most concerned with the reaction upon local party interests. This valiant and virtuous Conservative journal says:

As things stand to-day there is not a constituency through which the Intercolonial passes, and that means about ten counties in Nova Scotia, that can be counted safe for the government.

This statement is not made in a spirit of carping criticism, but rather in that of the candid friend. Did we want to see the government defeated, we would hold our peace in respect to these things, knowing that they are working to that end, but we do not want to see the government defeated, hence we speak out in "meeting'," and we know what we are talking about.

Unless there is a change right soon, Conservative representatives representing Intercolonial constituencies better resign now, and thus save themselves the humiliation of being turned down by the people when election day comes around.

Let us still further say to the government that our friends, the Liberals, are wisely making capital out of our difficulties.

Their emissaries are going quietly about declaring to railway men that if they get back to power all their present grievances will be removed.

That is a fact that the leaders of the government can bank on.

Things in regard to the management by the government of our national railway must be of a very bad character when a strong party journal speaks out so plainly. It does not speak much for public ownership, when its administration in party interests defeats these purposes and threatens the defeat of the government. But one can't always tell. Electors who voted to the air of waved flags and swallow Nationalism, and stand for what it stands for, would require a good deal of Intercolonial maladministration to induce them to mark their ballots honestly.

100 Years Is Man's Normal Longevity

Dr. Smith Says That All Men Should Live to Be 100 Years

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., May 1.—"One hundred years is man's normal longevity!" The words are those of the best authority in all America! If it were a mere scientist who asserted that all men should live to be 100 years old, we would smile, "Why doesn't he do it himself?"

If a man who had done it should tell us that, we would discredit him, because centenarians are too often of the mentality which attributes long life to a favourite brand of cut plug, and doesn't know much about science.

But the words quoted are those of Dr. Stephen Smith, A.M., LL.D., of New York—who is both a famous man of science and—almost—a centenarian! Dr. Smith is 92 and New York has officially demanded of him that he live to be within two years of 100! At least, it has just reappointed him vice-president of the state board of charities—a six-year term!

Very Much Alive.

At his rare old age, Dr. Smith is still so much alive that besides active performance of his duties on the charities board, he is busily engaged in the new York city tree planting association; and he was the very energetic and much admired president of the "race betterment" conference just concluded at Battle Creek.

Ever since this first eugenics convention in America, two words, eugenics and authenics—"right birth" and "right living"—have been much discussed throughout the country. I went to Dr. Smith for an explanation of what these two words mean to us—us people who are neither scientists nor students, but who would like to know what "race betterment" is really all about. As president of the conference, and as one whose own life points the moral both of eugenics and euthenics practically applied, there could be no better authority.

Dr. Smith answered the question in a quiet yet assertive tone.

"Being well born and living well!" he said. "When I sum up the whole race betterment movement in that way, it sounds very simple — too simple. But the truth is that neither of these injunctions is easy to follow. Of course, in the first place, we haven't any option at all as to our birth. But we have a great deal of choice as to the percentage of our children. The future of the race betterment movement, then—and the parentage of the individual—rests at bottom with each one of us individually. Young people should have enough social conscience to marry into strong, clean, intelligent families.

Excesses Poisonous.

"Then they should live very simply—which they don't. We have, each one of us, many little indulgences—which are really excesses. And in the aggregate they make a pretty considerable force of destructive habits. They poison us, make our lives shorter — and injure our race, as well! My great age unquestionably is due to the fact that I observed both these things.

"But race betterment demands aid from organized society, as well as from each individual. First, society must prevent the birth of defective and undesirable types which drag our civilization into the mire with their weight or their perverted acts of the crime. Secondly, society must tend to the care and cure of those defectives who have already been born.

"I am sure that when Americans will all co-operate in the eugenic movement, we will soon evolve a race of men who will live to be 100 years of age — which his physical structure shows is man's natural longevity."

AN OLD BIBLE

What is undoubtedly one of the oldest and at the same time one of the most treasured heirlooms in the western part of Canada is that possessed by Mrs. H. Clive Fisher, of 411 Twelfth avenue east. It is a Bible, dated 1625, which has been in Mrs. Fisher's family since 1677 and contains a complete record of the marriages and deaths in the Mills family—Mrs. Fisher's maiden name was Mills. Mrs. Fisher has had the Bible for the past five years, it having been given her by her brother, D. W. Mills of St. Catharines, Ont.

Their father was Joseph Mills, who was born in England, but spent the greater part of his life in St. Cathaines.

Other than the leather cover, the Bible is in fine condition. It was published at Oxford by special order of his majesty King James, and is nine inches wide and three inches thick.

Mrs. Mills was recently offered $450 for the Bile, but has declined to part with it.—Calgary News-Telegram.

DOMINION TRADE IS DECREASING UNDER BORDENISM

OTTAWA, May 3 — Revised trade figures for the past fiscal year and for the month of March last tell a story of steadily decreasing trade in the Dominion. While the figures for the fiscal year show an increase of $26,697,554 in the total trade of Canada, this growth falls short of being commensurate with that of the previous years, the increase for the fiscal year ending March, 1913, being in the neighbourhood of $218,000,000. It is evident also that but for the opening months of the past fiscal year, there would have been a decrease in total trade instead of an increase. The total trade for March last, for instance, shows a falling off of twenty-three millions as compared with March of 1913.

The total trade of the Dominion for the past fiscal year is given at $1,078,796,098, as compared with $1,047,008,544 for the preceding fiscal year. The total trade for March was $80,873,598, as compared with $103,555,778 for March, 1913. This is exclusive of coin and bullion.

An analysis of the figures for the fisca year show an increase in exports over the preceding year of $78,383,869, and a decrease in imports of $51,671,315, the total exports being $456,437,224, and the total imports being $618,329,874. For March alone there is a decrease of fifteen millions in imports and of eight millions in exports. It was stated by the Minister of Finance in the Budget that trade commenced to fall off during the month of October last, but that there was every prospect that the end of the downward movement had been reached. Mr. White's prediction is apparently not borne out by the March figures, which show a heavy decrease in both exports and imports.

An interesting commentary upon Hon. George E. Foster's search for wider markets for the Dominion in lieu of those offered to the south is found in the figures for the twelve months ending February last, during which the West Indies treaty recently consummated by the Minister was in force. Much was said of the possibilities of this market under the new agreement and of the stimulation which Canadian trade was to receive from it. But the figures show that during the time the new treaty has been in force there has been a falling off in the total trade of Canada with the West Indies of $1,978,603. The total trade with the West Indies for the twelve months ending February was $9,094,625, as compared with $10,073,228 for the twelve months preceding.

Many Imports Declined

The dropping off of Canadian imports during the twelve months occurs in a great many important commodities. Of breadstuffs Canada imported during that period nine million dollars' worth as against eleven million for the preceding period, or a decrease of two millions; of metals, minerals, etc., $155,000,000 as against $167,000,000, or a decrease of twelve millions; of iron and steel $124,000,000, as against $135,000,000, or a decrease of eleven millions; of provisions ten millions as against twelve millions, or a decrease of two millions; of settlers' effects fourteen millions, as against sixteen millions, or a decrease of two millions; of sugar and molasses seventeen millions, as against twenty-one millions, or a decrease of four millions; of furs, skins, etc., four millions, as against eight millions, or a decrease of four millions.

Stimulus of Underwood Tariff.

The effect of the Underwood tariff is strongly reflected in the export figures for the twelve months ending February last. The tremendous stimulus given to the animal export is shown by an increase of nearly seven millions over the preceding year, the total value of the animal exports for the twelve months being nine millions, as against two and a half millions for the preceding period. Of the total export of nine millions, over eight millions are accounted for by export to the United States. Cattle account for over seven millions of the total export of animals for the twelve months. The total export of bread stuffs for the twelve months was $172,000,000, as against $115,000,000 for the preceding twelve months, or an increase of fifty-seven millions. Of this increase the export of barley accounts for four millions, the export of oats for nearly nine millions, the export of wheat for thirty-nine millions, and the export of flour for one million.

An increase is shown of nearly seven millions in the export of paper, of nearly half a million in the export of potatoes, of eleven millions in the export of seeds, and of one million in the export of wood pulp.

NAVIGATION IS OPENED

Water is Very Low Between Young's Point and Lakefield

YOUNG'S POINT, May 5—Navigation was opened in Clear and Stony Lakes on the 25th of April, when the ice disappeared, which makes it about on an average with other years.

The water is very low in the river here, between Lakefield and the Point, but there is a good supply above, in the Lake. One good feature of this is that it will protect the fish spawn in the river. In the spring time of previous years the water was very high in the river and it was lowered after the fish had spawned, and a great deal of it was lost.

Automobiles have again made their appearance in this locality, quite a number having passed through here last week which reminds us that summer is here once more.

Mrs. Clarence V. Osborn of St. Catharines is the guest of Miss Lottie Kearney for a few weeks.

Miss Mary Walsh of Rochester is spending a vacation at her home here.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Joseph Walsh is improving after his recent illness and will be glad to see him in our midst again.

Mr. Arthur Heard paid us a visit on Sunday.

Mr. Wiliam Brooks is making extensive improvements at South Beach and expects to have a awn tennis court on the grounds this year.

Mrs. J. E. Kearney of the Lake View is prepared to receive her summer guests and expects a busy season.

Mrs. Joseph Record who happened with an accident last week, having been kicked by a horse, is improving.

Capt. Scollard returned from a short visit from Buffalo this week.

NOT UNDULY ELATED

LONDON, May 4—Notwithstanding the fact that but a few legal technicalities lie between her and the possession of a fortune of over a million dollars, Mrs. Harriett Shunn, of Brydges street, is not at all unduly excited or elated over the event. Mrs. Shunn, as was announced in The Advertiser of a few days ago, is one of the beneficiaries in a large estate in Ireland recently released by the court of chancery, two others being her sisters, Mrs. Annie Jones, of Stratford, and Mrs. Burdick, of this city.

Seen in her cottage home yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Shunn discussed the matter with an Advertiser reporter who called.

"Never Built On It."

"While I have always known the money was there, and that we'd likely get it some time or other, I never built upon it," she said. "My late husband used to talk about it sometimes, but I always made him stop. It seemed so far away. Even now I am not building on getting it, although the last letters from the lawyers said it would be paid over within the month."

"But haven't you been planning how to spend some of it?" asked the reporter.

"No, I haven't. For I didn't count on getting it. When we do, though, I guess we'll find enough ways to spend it," said the heiress.

"And what does the baby think about it?" asked the reporter, picking up Mrs. Shunn's little granddaughter, who was creeping shyly towards her. "Goo-good-da," gurgled the little one, reaching with chubby hand for the gay picture cover of a magazine in the reporter's lap. The disposal of the long-looked-for family fortune did not bother her any.

Give to Poor.

"One of my sisters says she will give her share to the poor," resumed Mrs. Shunn. "I just have two sisters living. My three brothers died and three sisters. Some of my sisters left children, and I expect that they'll get their mothers' shares."

"Goodness," said the reporter, "I think I should have been building castles in the air right along. So you've no idea how you will dispose of the money. What you'll do with it first of all?"

"No, I've made no plans. When it comes, no doubt, I'll find ways to use it."

THOMAS MARK

GENERAL AGENT

SHE IS HUMOURED

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—She entered the door of one of the large local trust companies' banking rooms. There was a determined cast to her features. There was distinction in her carriage and in the faultless cut of her tailored suit. There was something in the manner in which she breasted the revolving door that told of high resolve. Once inside, she fumbled with her handbag and drew forth a passbook. She opened it and glanced at a page. Then she walked to a desk and made out a check.

It was for the exact amount to her credit there—$23,087. She blotted it carefully. Then she carried it to the paying teller's window. That functionary glanced casualy at the figures and counted out 23 $1,000 bills, one $50, one $20, one $10, one 5, and one $2. He handed them to her. She carried them in her hand to a retiring room. She counted them carefully, four times. Then she carried them to the reciving teller's window and handed them through the wicket, together with her pass-book. The teller counted them and entered the amount. Then she left.

"Three times a year she does that" said one of the attendants. "She wants to see if the bank has the money her bank book shows she has deposited. We humour her. No interest is subtracted because of the momentary withdrawal. We always know that after she had counted it she will re-deposit every cent. One bank lost her account trying to explain the foolishness of her caution. We don't try that. We simply look dignified while she's here—and then we smile when she goes away satisfied that her money is safe."

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause greatest distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.

CANADA'S SHARE IN THE FINANCING OF THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

Looking at the Canadian Northern deal as a business proposition, it is surely reasonable to insist that the people who take the financial risk of establishing a business should have the largest interest in it and the determining voice in conducting its affairs. Applying this principle to the deal, let us see what Mackenzie & Mann and the people of Canada respectively have put into the building of the C. N. R. system and what they take out.

Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann have put in the greater part of their time for eleven or twelve years on the project. They have not put in a dollar of their own money. It has been frequently asserted that they have taken out much money in the form of construction porfits obtained by awarding contracts to themselves without calling for tenders in competition. Under the deal now proposed by Mr. Borden they take out sixty million dollars' worth of stock and retain control of the company, because they have the power to appoint all the directors except one.

What have the people of Canada put into the road and what do they take out? In their capacity as Canadians, and through the Dominion Government, they have put in $28,354,000 in the form of cash subsidies to railways now incorporated in the C. N. R. system. They have put in over four million acres of land worth at the lowest valuation over $20,000,000, and they have guaranteed— or will guarantee under the deal—bonds totalling $104,746,000.

But these colossal sums are only a part of what the people have put into the C.N.R. system. The Provinces have been drawn upon to an amazing extent. Ontario has given two million acres of land, $1,825,000 in cash subsidies, and $7,860,000 in bond guarantees. Quebec has given $3,502,600 in cash subsidies. Manitoba has put up $641,000 in cash and assumed the enormous obligation of guaranteeing bonds for $24,498,000. Saskatchewan is down for $8,258,966 in bond guarantees, Alberta for $8,719,000, and British Columbia for $33,175,000.

What do the people of Canada get in return for these huge outpourings of cash, credit and land? They get common stock of the face value of $40,000,000, but which may never pay any dividends, and certainly will not do so for many years. They get the right to appoint one director on the C. N. R Board, while Mackenzie & Mann, by virtue of their ownership of $60,000,000 of common stock, appoint all the other directors. And that is all the people get for over $200,000,000 in cash and credit put into the C.N.R.

Your individual share of the cash and credit put in—averaged over the country—has been $25. Your individual share of the ownership is $5 in common stock that may never pay a dividend. That is the bargain Mr Borden has made as your representative. Do you think you were well represented?

RIFLE WAS IDENTIFIED

Chief Thompson received a letter to-day from a storekeeper in Midland, describing the large Winchester rifle which was taken from the possession of the two youths who were arrested here in connection with burglaries in Lindsay and elsewhere. The description being an accurate one, the property will be returned to its rightful owner.

COUNCIL APPROVES OF HALF HOLIDAY FOR OPENING DAY OF BALL SEASON

W. H. Bradburn, E. G. Patterson and Herb. Stenson, representing the Peterborough Baseball Club, and incidentally the ball fans of the City, waited upon the Council last night and asked that a civic half holiday be officially announced on Thursday, May 14, the opening of the Canadian League in Peterborough.

Ex-Mayor Bradburn addressed the Council, and possibly had he asked for a week his former associates would have given it serious consideration at least. Mr. Bradburn stated that the deputation had met the merchants and they had agreed to close their stores at 3 o'clock. The baseball club was a good advertisement for Peterborough, and it was hoped that 1914 would be a good year. The sport is a clean one, and deserves the interest and support of all the citizens. All the directors of the club ask is that they break even in the expenses. Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that the request be granted. Carried.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID AT THE APRIL MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the City Council was held last night with all the members present and most of the communications cleaned up at the special meeting held last week. In spite of the previous industry, however, it was eleven o'clock before an adjournment was called.

REQUEST FOR BOAT HOUSE AT DALHOUSIE.

Napoleon Trombley wrote, asking for permission to build a boat house north of the present house on the Otonabee's shore north of the end of Dalhousie Street.—Referred to the Property committee.

SALVATION ARMY BAND EXPRESSES GRATITUDE.

A letter of thanks was received from Adjt. McElhiney, the officers and corps of the Salvation Army for the City's grant toward the expense of printing Peterborough booklets. The Adjutant stated that the band would endeavour to make the name of Peterborough more familiar in parts of the Old Land next month (D.V.)

ASKED FOR MORE LIGHT AND WATERING CART VISITS.

W. H. Moore wrote stating that the arc light at the corner of London and Reid Streets gives little light on London Street, east of Reid for the reason that trees thickly filled with leaves are directly in front of it. The trees should be pruned and some of them removed. Mr. Moore suggested that the light be hung at the centre of the intersection of the streets. He also asked that that locality receive a little attention from the street sprinkling apparatus.

MR. BANKS WILL MOVE HIS BOWSER OIL TANK.

Mr. Chas. Banks stated that he intended to move his business from his present premises to one of the stores in the Braund building, now under construction. He asked permission to install his gasoline tank on Charlotte Street in front of his new location. The request was granted on motion of Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Johnston.

CARELESS ATTITUDE TOWARD THE ROADS.

Ald. Johnston asked if there was not a by-law preventing carters and others from dropping on the streets, stones, shavings and such stuff they cart. You see them sowing these things right and left, he said. It's a case where an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Surely we have some means of preventing this. Some one stated that there probably was a by-law, but no one seemed impelled to support the North Ward alderman's move for cleaner streets.

MAYOR INVITED TO GO TO WESTON, ONT.

The town of Weston has extended an invitation to the Mayor to attend the formal opening of the new civic sewage disposal plant on Saturday, May 9th. His Worship stated that in view of the City's problem of sewage disposal there might be something to learn by a visit to Weston. On motion of Ald. Johnstone, seconded by Ald. Duffus, the invitation was left with Mayor Buller, who may also take Engineer Parsons.

METROPOLITAN CHURCH HAS FINE ORGAN

Mr. Cyril Devey has returned from a pleasant week-end visit to Toronto. The organist of the Metropolitan Church kindly allowed him half an hour on the fine organ which has no less than 94 speaking stops. He was greatly impressed with the $40,000 new organ in St. Paul's, Bloor street, and the fine playing of Mr. Healey William, F.R.C.O., the organist. This magnificent instrument ranks with the finest in the world, as the following list will show:

Ely Cathedral, 69 speaking stops.
Durham Cathedral, 73 speaking stops.
University of Toronto, 76 speaking stops.
St. Paul's, London, 77 speaking stops.
Westminster Abbey, 77 speaking stops.
St. Stephen, Vienna, 90 speaking stops.
Metropolitan, Toronto, 94 speaking stops.
St. Sulpice Paris, 100 speaking stops.
St. John's New York, 106 speaking stops.
St. Paul's Toronto, 107 speaking stops.
Riga, Russia, 124 speaking stops,
St. Michael's, Hamburg, 163 speaking stops.

The specifications for St. Paul's organ was prepared by Messrs. Palmer and Dixon, of London, England, consulting specialists of world-wide reputation. A few interesting particulars are here given.

There are 4 manuals, 3 electric motors 25 h.p., 7,384 speaking pipes, 5 swell boxes, and 263 miles of wiring.

The comparative list given above is with respect to church organs only. In some very large halls, larger organs are of course to be found.

POLICE MATRON CHOSEN, ETC.

The Street Walkers.

Mayor Buller—In laying out these duties, would she have anything to do with these street walkers?

Chief Thompson—I would not settle it that way, I would notify these girls to come to my office, as it would not be wise to enter into a conversation with them on the street.

Mayor Buller—I guess a lot of ladies would report to the matron, and she in turn would report to you.

Chief Thompson—Exactly. When these girls are brought to my office, the parents are also instructed to be there. It has a good effect. The police matrons have always been a success.

Judge Huycke—Yes. Police Matrons have been a success, but policewomen have not, in a place this size.

Had Worked With Him.

Chief Thompson stated that Mrs. McElhiney had worked right along with him since she had been here, and had practically as good a knowledge of the work as an officer with many years' experience. When she is sent for information said the Chief, she knows just what to get, and the way to get it.

Didn't Want Wages.

The question of payment for services was then brought forward. It was explained that both the Adjutant and Mrs. McElhiney were both strongly opposed to receiving wages for the work done. In fact they would refuse to accept wages. The only remuneration they wanted, was the actual expenses that were incurred. The Adjutant in speaking of the matter also said, that if Mrs. McElhiney was not appointed, both of them would be most willing to render what aid they could, to whoever might be matron.

Help in Any Way.

This, in the opinion of the Board, was a very gratifuous offer. Magistrate Dumble suggested leaving that matter with the Board, and they would give her what remuneration they thought proper. Adjutant McElhiney, in speaking for his wife, said they would be pleased to help in any way they could. The only consideration in the way, he said, was Mrs. McElhiney's time, and her having to be away from home.

"All I Live For."

Mrs. McElhiney stated that she was fully convinced that whoever was appointed police matron, the work would fall greatly on her anyway. Even now, she said, people come to me with their troubles.

I go round for the benefit of the city, and in fact, that is all I live for, and to benefit the people around me.

His Honour, the chairman, said he thought the offer was reasonable, in fact, too reasonable.

I think the Board will recognize your intentions in this matter he said.

Secret Service.

Magistrate Dumble, in expressing himself said: It is a sort of private, secret and confidential service. We would have her known in the town, as one to whom any woman could go. I should like to have her keep a diary, and full records, and in that way we shall know to what extent she was used in the town. I think I can say that she will be fairly compensated for her services. There she is in communication with a great many people, and will apply herself accordingly.

The Young Life.

She will get at the young life. That is my view of the position she would take, and I think she could trust the Board to use her right.

Judge Huycke said he agreed with three-quarters of what His Worship had said, but thought that Mrs. McElhiney should know how much she was going to get for her services.

Mayor Buller also concurred with that idea, and said that every cent would be judiciously spent.

To being paid a salary, however, both Adjutant and Mrs. McElhiney strongly objected, and so it was finally agreed that she should receive a certain sum for expenses.

The formal appointment was then made, creating Annie E. McElhiney, Police Matron. She would also receive $25 per month for current expenses.

Accounts Passed.

A large number of accounts, making a large total, were then passed, after which two or three minor matters were discussed.

Books Bought.

It was decided to buy an edition of the Criminal Code, to be chosen by the Magistrate, for the use of him, and Chief Thompson, and which will be a great help in the prosecutions. A copy of Daly's Canadian Criminal Procedure, was also ordered.

The Board then adjourned.

MARRIED 10 YEARS AND DIDN'T KNOW IT

NEW YORK, May 4.—The girlhood romance of Lillian D. Post, daughter of a wealthy Jersey City business man, who lived for 10 years a block away from her husband without knowing she was his wife, culminated in the supreme court, New York when Justice Bijur annuled the marriage.

The young woman and George Lester Lary, an insurance broker, believed all along they were merely bethrothed.

According to the testimony, Miss Post and Lary were in love as children. He proposed marriage, but she asked him to wait. Lary was stricken with typhoid fever in 1903.

"If you will go through a formal betrothal with me I will feel much better and so will you," she told Justice Bijur the young man said. "We will go and see a minister."

Miss Post agreed. Lary arose from his sick bed and they went to the home of a preacher. Neither understood the ceremony meant more than a betrothal and they returned to their respective homes.

When her father died a few years ago, Miss Post discovered the ceremony performed 10 years previously made her Mrs. Post.

Lary did not oppose the annulment.

"AN IRISHMAN'S HOME."

Carson's Son and Redmond's Nephew Collaborate as Dramatists.

LONDON, May 4.—The dispute over Ulster in regard to Home Rule has produced many family quarrels and much division of opinion between men and women formerly good friends, but the situation is not without its sumours, as shown by the friendship and co-operation of Harry Carson, the son of Sir Edward Carson, and L. M. R Howard, the nephew of John Redmond.

Although the father of one and the uncle of the other are leading rival political armies, they have just collaborated in a one-act play, entitled "An Irishman's Home," in which they criticise all parties and speak freely as to the senselessness of dividing a country by political passions. It will shortly be produced.

EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD.

Provided by Boy's Exhibition as a Symphony Conductor.

LONDON, May 4.—Wilie Ferrero, the seven-year-old symphony conductor, whose mother has been congratulated by the Tsar for having a son of "unequalled genius," gave a private exhibition of his powers in London last week, and is now the talk of the town.

Experts like Dr. Nikisch and Landon Ronald declare that his performance is the eighth wonder of the world. "I am unable to account for it," said Mr. Ronald. "It is an amazing, mysterious gift he possesses."

Young Ferrero was taken to Marlborough House to see Queen Alexandra, and gallantly kissed the Queen's hand. She responded with a salute on his forehead.

Queen Alexandra asked how he liked conducting, and Willie replied that he liked playing with toys just as well.

"WITHIN THE LAW"

Local theatregoers are to be congratuated on securing in the forthcoming production of "Within the Law" the splendid company who will appear in the principal roles. This is identically the same Company that played earlier in the season in Toronto, Buffalo and Montreal, and so great was their success in these three cities that they were compelled to return within four weeks' time for another engagement. It is seldom indeed that the small cities are fortunate enough to secure a cast like this. Everyone in the company is a metropolitan favourite seldom seen in the one-night stands.

"Within the Law" comes to the Grand Opera House on Saturday, May 9th, for Matinee and Night, and is too well known to need but a passing word, being as it is, right up to the minute in its treatment of modern conditions, it has an appeal for all classes of people that has stamped it at once as one of the century's greatest successes, and this success is international in its scope. Besides capturing the heart of the theatregoers in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, and all the principal cities in the "States" it has duplicated this success in London, England, where it is now in its fifty-third week and in Sydney, Australia, where it has almost finished a year's engagement.

As this will positively be the last appearance of this play in this City, local theatregoers are earnestly requested by the management to make their seat reservation as early as possible, as it has been the history of this play heretofore to have the demand for seats greater than the supply. In every city it has appeared many disappointed theatregoers who have waited until the last moment before placing their orders, have found all of the seats gone.

Clean-Up Day For The City

Mayor Buller Makes a Suggestion and Will Ask the Citizens to Unite in a General Spring Cleaning

A spring cleaning up of the whole City was suggested by Mayor Buller at last night's meeting of the Council, and as it was at a late hour, His Worship did not go into the details, but stated that he would depend upon the press to make his plans known to the citizens. Mayor Buller stated that practically every city is adopting this idea, and it was in line with the desires of everyone to make Peterborough as neat and clean looking as possible, and he expected a general support throughout the City. The Mayor will outline a general plan in a day or two, and presented the matter last night in order to secure the support of the Whole Council.

All the aldermen were in favour of the idea, and Mr. Parsons suggested that part of the programme include an attack on the caterpillars.

Use 9 In. Wall

Permission to use nine-inch walls for dwellings of two storeys and under in the fire limits was granted by the Council last night to J. H. Taylor, Mrs. Reid and J. Rossel. City Engineer Parsons will not have the new building by-law completed for two months yet, but this provision will be included in the new by-law, and for this reason it was decided to grant the request in these cases.

Mr. Taylor intends to build a 12-inch hollow wall, and the City Engineer considered that it was satisfactory for a dwelling within the fire limits.

Ald. Johnston explained that this wall, instead of being solid, consists of two walls, the inside of each being plastered and every six courses of brick are bound together with tying hoops of iron. A four-inch space intervenes between the two walls, the hollow section is a nonconductor of heat and cold, and is desirable both in summer and winter.

Mr. Parsons stated that this would be a good wall to keep out heat and cold. The only question was in regard to the bonding, and this should be properly done.

Mr. Harry McDonald and Mr. John McCoy, local builders, spoke in favour of the 12-inch hollow wall. Mr. McDonald considered it better than a nine-inch wall, and he had built many of them in Peterborough during the past thirty years. It was a firm, solid wall, and could be depended upon. He regarded it as being between a 9 and 14-inch wall in point of strength and durability.

U. S. CABINET WILL SIMPLY MARK TIME

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 5.—After a brief Cabinet meeting at which the Mexican situation was discussed to-day, Secretary Bryan said it was agreed that the best the United States could do at the present time was to mark time and await the developments of the mediators. Both the army and navy are ready to fight if needed, but their primary duty at present will be protective.

BURNT STEAMER IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

HALIFAX, N.S., May 5.—There is still no definite identification of the steamer which was burned to the water's edge in the Atlantic, about one hundred miles south of Sable Island. It is thought the crew was saved by some vessel not equipped with wireless, and on her way to Europe.

Murdered In Barber Shop

After being shaved in a barber's shop in Great Howard Street, Liverpool, a man named Sweeney is said to have jumped out of his chair and struck another customer named Ore, with whom he had been arguing, a heavy blow under the jaw. Ore collapsed and when picked up was found to be dead.

TWO EMPTY CARS

The summer service between Peterborough and Lakefield commenced on Monday, and the Belleville train hereafter will steam right through to the northern Village. The result is that the schedule time for the trains in the morning is about an hour later. This, however, gives connection with the trains from the East, and passengers are able to go right through without waiting for the noon train. Instead of leaving for Lakefield as heretofore at 7 o'clock and arriving again at 8.15 the train now leaves at 8.10 and arrives here again at 9.55.

The change to summer schedule has brought to light in a unique manner a condition that typifies the present dullness of trade in this section of the country at least. Last spring, when the Belleville train crew invaded Lakefield for the first time there were lines of box cars on the sidings for the lumber and cement mills. This year they could find only two cars in the Village and both of these were empty. The mils that were working full blast last spring are not turning a wheel.

Gypsies Coming

Peterborough may expect a visit from gypsies at any time now. They are at present in Lindsay and following is a clipping from the Lindsay Post. The knights of the road usually "hit thetaril" to this City from Lindsay. The Post says:

The gypsy camp near the Ops swing bridge was the Mecca of several thousand curious people on Sunday. All day people wended their way along the dilapidated sidewalk to the camping ground and inspected the camp at their leisure. The female portion of the gypsy tribe remained in their tents practically all day, a number of them plying their vocations as fortune tellers. They found plenty of "easy" ones among the crowd who handed over their loose change in order to find out what the future had in store for them. P. T. Barnum knew what he was saying when he made the statement that "people liked to be fooled."

The gypsy outfit has quite a number of horses and some of them look as if they had not gazed upon a whisp of hay for months. The others are fairly good specimens.

Race suicide is evidently not practiced by this gypsy band, as children were everywhere in evidence, and they are a heathy lot. Sunday morning a man and woman could be seen out in the centre of the camp ground busily engaged giving a youth a bath. The youngster was naked and when the father poured a pail of cold water over him, he came up smiling for the count.

There was great rejoicing in the camp on Saturday night, when the stork visited one family and brought a bouncing baby. The christening of a baby in a gypsy camp is always an occasion for rejoicing.

"WESTENDER" WAILS OVER STREET DUST

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I say, down with the dust. A Peterborough child will get its life-time allowance of a peck of dust before it can walk if dust entering the body by the lungs counts. It was simply awful on Sunday. I stood on the pavement in front of my place, and two passing autos raised clouds of dust, and it poured into the houses on the north side of the street in clouds. The perfunctory sprinkling of water this street receives once a day is omitted, and on Sunday it is awful. On Saturday evening after the street had been supposed to be watered, five or six rapidly driven autos raised such a dust that if the sun had been shining it would have been impossible to see it. Why can we not have our streets watered on Sundays, especially as that is the day people have a chance to sit out on their verandah? If we all have to pay for street watering some of it should be done properly so as to be of some use. I remember the use of oil on the streets and that was the time the dust was almost entirely absent. Why not try oil again? The auto owners and bicyclists say it injures the tires. But doesn't the dust injure every householder and every housekeeper? There's nothing makes so much dust and wears out our streets like the auto; and they should make compensation. The dust they raise forces the housewife to work harder or pay more for having her house kept clean, and spoils curtains and furniture. Any one who can afford to own an auto can afford a new tire once in a while. I don't think it's right for one small class of our citizens to punish others for their own enjoyment. One or two men in a thousand of the city's population has an auto, and the dust injures 20,000, people for the enjoyment of a few. As the street watering is done, outside of the paved streets, it seems to be useless. An hour or so after the little sprinkle put on the outer streets, the hot sun brings back the dust. The street watering needs to be a great deal better to be worth what it costs. Compare the pace of a watering cart rapidly driven to make the load go further, with the pace of teams working by the day for the corporation. Give us more water and less dust, or turn on the oil again.

Yours truly,

West-Ender.

SPECIAL NOTICE

DRUNKS IN POLICE COURT

At this morning's session of the Police Court drunks formed the greater part of the docket.

An old man who resides in the north part of the City was charged with being found drunk on George Street. Acting Detective Paterson, in giving evidence, said that he, in company with Detective Newhall, found the prisoner on George Street, opposite Madill's drug store. He was very drunk and fell on the sidewalk. This morning the old man denied he was drunk. Too drunk to know anything about it, said the Court.

Accused—"I was never drunk in my life."

The Magistrate—"God help you."

Accused—"I hope He will."

As this was his first appearance, he was allowed to go.

Here We are Again.

John Sweeney of Havelock who was charged before the Magistrate yesterday, with being drunk, was again a guest behind the steel bars last night On Sunday night he had to be brought to the police Station in a hack, and last night he shared the same luxury.

"John Sweeney again," said the Court, "you are charged with being found drunk in a public place, yesterday. What do you say to that?"

"Oh, I guess I'm guilty" was the yawned reply.

"Well, $2 and $4.25 costs, to be paid forthwith, or in default, 15 days in jail with hard labour."

In a Fight.

Thomas Donnell was also charged with being drunk yetserday. He pleaded guilty. Chief Thompon asked for a remand, as Donnel was mixed up in a fight which took pace at the King George Hotel, yesterday, and as a result of which a man named Charles Price sustained a badly broken leg. The remand was granted in order that investigations may be made.

Each Fined $5.75.

Two local youths were each charged with being found drunk yesterday. Each pleaded guilty and were assessed $5.75 to be paid into the City treasury forthwith, or in default, 15 days in jail.

The Gas Range For Healthy Homes

Interesting Exposition of the McClary Gas Ranges and Gas Appliances

The store of Messrs. Adamson & Dobbin on Simcoe Street, has been attracting large numbers of our citizens the past few days, witnessing the demonstration of the McClary gas ranges. Mr. W. J. Thompson, the expert representative of the manufacturers, seems to have the happy faculty of explaining in a simple and clean manner, the economy, simplicity and sanitary advantages of these ranges to his audiences. The leading features of the McClary gas ranges are: First, proper depth of the burner for the cooking surface; second, proper style of burner; third, proper valves or gas cocks. The ranges are finished in a bright, black enamel and the burnished taps save a lot of work in blacking, requiring only to be rubbed over with a soft cloth occasionally. Chief among other claims for these gas ranges is that they combine sanitation, with long wear, positive labour-saving as well as absolute economy. The gas range has come to be recognized as both attractive and healthy, and an attractive kitchen at reduced cost is what every housekeeper aims to secure.

The McClary gas ranges are shown in various styles and designs to suit any kitchen or any general purpose. They have incorporated the latest scientific principles, and a visit of inspection will enable any one to realize the advantages to be gained in using them.

TURNBULL'S

Lloyd George's Speech Was A Disappointment

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., May 5. — (Special cable.)—The Unionists were this morning plainly disappointed that Lloyd George's budget speech did not contain more to criticize. The Times says to-day: "On the whole the expectation that the new budget proposals would contain some fragrant election coup was wrong." The fact is Lloyd George dealt very tactfully with matters and said nothing that laid himself open to drastic comment. It is agreed on all sides that his provision compelling the governing bodies of municipalities to carry out reforms of education and sanitation before getting a government grant will go a long ways towards getting a cleaner and better educated Great Britain. If there is any criticism of bill it is from the wealthy classes who are again face to face with the prospect of having their incomes squeezed just a little more to provide better environment or privileges for the "common people." They will have to pay from six to ten per cent. more for this purpose.

DEATH TO THE CATERPILLARS

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The caterpiar nuisance comes around with all the regularity of the season. The pest is now upon us and it seems incredible with what indifference it is treated. The amount of damage that is done annually to shade and fruit trees and even, forests, is incalculable, and yet there is no pre-concerted system of dealing with the matter. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure a month hence. Their favourite breeding places seem to be in the branches of such trees as the chokecherry and wild plum, from which they sally forth in teeming millions to devastate other trees. Evidence of that fact was afforded me in June of last year when I took a walk of several miles down the old Cobourg Railway track and saw the branches of such bushes and trees literally bent down with the weight of their nests all along the route, commencing in East City. If such useless trees were destroyed it would go far towards the extermination of the pest. I am surprised that the Government and Municipal Councils do not wake up and take some action to abate the nuisance. It need not cost much, with the co-opetration of the individual citizen.

Yours etc.,
Arbor.

Jimmie has studied the question deeply and admits that the stand he took years ago is the same now, that he is the people's premier choice on the Toronto Board of Control. Both organized and unorganized labour should hear him on Wednesday.

FOLEY & GLEASON ARE DELAYED BY INJUNCTION

BELLEVILLE, May 4.—The Corporation of the city of Belleville was this afternoon served, in the person of Mayor Wills, with an injunction to restrain the municipality, its officials or its Council, from signing or entering into a contract with Messrs. Foley & Gleeson, of Ottawa, for the construction of permanent roadways on Front and Bridge Streets. Notice will be served in a day or so to be heard before a High Court judge in Toronto on Monday next, to continue the injunction until trial.

The following letter, respecting the arrangements of the pending visit of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, and Princess Patricia, to Peterborough on June the first, was received by the Mayor to-day:

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge recipt of your letter of the 25th ultimo, enclosing suggested programme, and copy of address to be presented to the Governor-General, and to thank you for the same.

I regret I have not been able to answer it before, but now write to say that His Royal Highness will arrive in Peterborough at 10 a.m., and leave at 1 p.m., on Monday, June 1st. As this is the case, would you kindly send me a programme that would suit the above mentioned time. If time permits, His Royal Highness would much like to visit the hydraulic lift-lock. No mounted escort, or artillery salute would be required. I presume the guard of honour would be drawn up at the station.

Their Royal Highnesses would have luncheon on their train after leaving Peterborough.

Yours truly,
Arthur F. Sladin,
Private Secretary.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

The stock market will probably show a combination of short covering. We would not climb after stocks. Sentiment in financial circles is being very favourably affected according to those with whom we come in contact by the prospects for an early rate decision in favour of higher tariffs and by the tendency towards efficiency exhibited in the appointment of the most important federal reserve currency board by the administration. It must not be overlooked that there is a fundamental of great weight on the side of constructive effort lying in this brilliant government.

Main crop report due Thursday afternoon.

Reading is quietly absorbed by important interests. The buying of Union Pacific is considered excellent.

Missouri Pacific is oversold and may respond to the meeting Tuesday.

Shorts are steadily buying U.S., B. O. and N.Y.C.

Offerings will be found on further rallies in C.P.R. and Lehigh Valley.

Manager Blount Putting The Finishing Touches On His Squad

Bunting, Batting and Signal Practice the Order of the Day at Youngstown Yesterday--Eight Batterymen Will Be Carried for a While.

Special Wire to The Examiner:

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 4.—With the League opening only three days away, Manager Blount devoted to-day's drill to polishing up his squad in those little points of inside baseball that make the difference between a good and a fair club. The Blountmen are in good physical shape to start the season. Although the weather on the whole has not been of the best, the squad did not lose much time and Curly has kept the bunch on the jump.

This morning the Petes were out as usual, and with Belting and Cresswell on the rubber, and Ryberg catching, a valuable batting practice was gone through. This was followed by the usual infield drill, the infielders pulling off some very snappy work.

Batting and signal practice opened the afternoon's grind. Manager Blount gave the signals from the coaching lines, and the players exchanged signals, working all kinds of inside plays. This department of the game is one that Blount demands proficiency in, and the player who mixes up or misses a signal may expect a call. Signal practice to-day was followed by bunting practice with all the pitchers on the mound, each taking his turn in delivering the ball and fielding bunts. There has been quite a bit of this work during the training season and all the pitchers have improved in their fielding. Another infield drill wound up the afternoon's workout. King worked at short in place of Price who was the victim of a slight accident in the morning, and did some stellar fielding. King is equally good at second and short, and promises to be a most valuable man to the club.

Catcher Miller's injured hand is healing rapidly ,but it is doubtful if he will be able to workthe opening games. If Miller does not get into action, Ryberg or Kelly will do the receiving. Manager Blount will carry three catchers and five pitchers for the present.

The squad that will move over to Erie on Wednesday will likely consist of Miller, Ryberg, Kelly, catchers; Schettler, Sterling, Belting, Tracey, Cresswell, pitchers; Gorman, King, Price, Byrne, Schrage ,infielders; Fox, Blount, Swartz, outfielders.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Erie Despatch: The Yankees are in shape for the opening of the season, as they demonstrated yesterday in the game against the Buffalo Bricks and Enos team, which was shut out with five hits by Fitzpatrick, Osborne and Dorbeck. The score was 11 to 0. While the pitching was hardly the kind they will face in the Canadian league, the Yankees showed their batting ability by getting ten hits, among which were three two-baggers and a home run.

Schaeffer cleaned the sacks in the seventh with a drive over the centre field fence, and Wiltse, Smith and McNeal gathered two hits apiece off the Buffalo pitchers. Except for a wabble by Smith, the Yankees gave their pitchers splendid support, although Buffalo got but five hits and a few infield grounders off the delivery of the Erie trio.

With a few more practice sessions, Manager Smith declares his squad will be fit for their campaign in the Canadian league on May 7 against Peterborough, and yesterday's line-up seems to be about the right combination for greatest effectiveness.

Ottawa Free Press:

The surprise in the Canadian training camp this spring has been the wonderful improvement of Frank Smejkal and Pete Powers, both of whom are stinging the ball to all corners of the Park. Smejkal's great fielding has been improved upon by the addition of last year's experience and it is that reason that prompted Shaughnessy to switch him over to short when George Nill was signed up. Smeck's arm is steel riveted and he should have no difficulty cutting the pill across to first. If he weakens Eddie Fried is there to fill the vacancy, this young phenom now playing the regular utility role. Reading between the lines, Spicer the Denver shortstop, is having a hard time keeping step with the other infielders and may be farmed out. Teach, who has shown great speed in the field, is another listed for a place in another league.

Shaw's defence has made a great impression and if it comes up to press notices, the champs look a one-two, three aggregation with a reasonable chance of copping Pennant .0.3. The hitting strength is well known and has been considerably added to by the addition of Nill, who should have no trouble pelting the ball for an average of .300 in this League. With Powers and Smejkal hitting any at all, the champions will be the hardest batting team in the League.

The pitching staff last season consisted of Renfer and Rogers. This year Rogers is back with three fine additions in Hall, Shockcor and Peterson. To these are added Frank Kubat, whom Shaughnessy avers is showing fifty per cent. better form than he ever did, and Tom Kane, a steady right hander with lots of nerve Kane has not yet reported, but is only awaiting word from the Ottawa boss, when and where to join the club. All three of the new pitchers hav been south for some time and are "ready."

Hamilton Spectator—Sheckard, the outfielder purchased from the Allentown club, of the Tri-state League, reported at baseball headquarters this morning. Sheckard was expected to make his appearance last week, but was delayed. He will be found in the exhibition game to be played to-morrow afternoon at Britannia Park, with Niagara University. The game will start at 3;30 sharp.

Manager Yates voiced his first opinion of his squad this morning. The two victories in the last two days have proved highly pleasing to the local leader, who also finds much to satisfy him in the showing made by Donohue and Dougherty. These two twirlers are just about ready to go the route in a league game and this means two dependable and experienced men ready to start the league season on Thursday. Yates also expects to be ready by the end of the week for regular mound duty. The doctor has not had the same chance as his youngsters to work out and also takes somewhat longer to round up, but another week should put him right.

Yates anounced this morning that he would place Sheckard in left field and move Jack White over to right field. Barrows going to the bench. He also stated that he was well satisfied with the manner in which Dolan has come along. "Dolan did not do very well at the cricket field," he said, "but I figured that he would come as soon as he got on a good diamond." There is no doubt but that the big fellow has earned every consideration by his recent work

CHATHAM, Ont., May 4.—Manager Shaughnessy, of the Ottawa Club, this morning announced his batting order for the opening game of the Canadion League season at St. Thomas next Wednesday. Hall or Shockcor will do the twirling. The Senators will hit in the following order:

Bullock, 3rd base.
Nill, 2nd base.
Shaughnessy, centre field.
Rogers, left field.
Dolan, 1st base.
Powers, right field.
Lage, catcher.
Smejkal, shortstop.
Hall, pitcher.
Shockcor, pitcher.

Hamilton Spectator—The life of any ball game depends upon the pitching. On Friday the Hamilton Canadian Leaguers tackled a Toronto semi-pro. team in the first exhibition of the season and were beaten simply because two of the Hamilton twirlers were bad. On Saturday the Athletics stacked up against a fast semi-pro. organization from Scranton, N.Y., and furnished with the best kind of pitching and playing snappy ball behind that pitching, went out and won a most enjoyable game by a score of 9 to 4.

LONDON, May 4.—The Indians, back from their Southern training trip, had a hard time this afternoon trimming the Stratford W.O.B.L. team, winning by a score of 3 to 2. There were about 500 bugs on hand to witness the opening performance. The weather was threatening all day. The work of Sharp, the kid pitcher of the visitors, was the outstanding feature of the pastime. The youngster had fine hooks, and should have had the decision. Bad baseball behind him caused the trouble. Jeffries, his catcher, was weak, the Tecumsehs stealing everything but his breath. The locals worked under wraps most of the time. Their hitting was light, the curves bothering them considerably. Bobby Heck stuck them over, and was combed plenty. "Doc" Reisling used a lot of speed, and had the visitors banging the breeze for four innings.

The teams lined up as folllows:

Stratford—Nuns, rf; Mackbush, 3b; Bryce, lf; Anderson, 1b; Farquhar, m; Johnson, 2b; Jeffries, c; Fitzmaurice, ss; Sharp, p.

London—McGonagle, 2b; Long, lf; Lamy, m; Bierbauer, 1b; Whitcrafe, ss; Reidy, rf; Mullin, 3b; Snyder, c; Heck, p; Reisling, p.

DRAWS MUST BE PLAYED OFF THIS WEEK

Members of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club are requested to have their draws for the Stratton Trophy played off during the present week. Those appearing first on the list of the draw, a copy of which is in the Club House, are expected to notify their opponents and arrange with them as to the dates of play. Saturday, May 9th at 4 p.m., marks the close of the first round and on no consideration save that of unfavourable weather will any game on the first draw be allowed after that date.

The first games in the mixed foursome will take place on Saturday, May 9th at 4 p.m. It is hoped that as large a representation as possible will turn out to take part part in this match. All desiring to compete are requested to be on hand sharp at 3.30 p.m.

Sketches of The Blountmen

LOUIS SCHETTLER, pitcher, was born at Pittsburg, Pa., in the year 1886. Height 5 ft. 10 in., weight 165 lbs. He started his professional career with the Milvale Club of the Pennslyvania League in the season of 1903. In 1904 he was with Edna Club in the same League; in 1905 with the Sharon Club of the O. & P. League, and in 106-7 with Youngstown in the O. & P. League. In 1908 he again started out with Youngstown and was sold to the Lancaster Club of the Tri-State League. He was sold to Philadelphia National League Club at the close of the season, and played with the Phillies during 1910, and until June of 1911, when he was transferred to the Birmingham Club of the Southern League. The climate did not agree with him down there and they sold him to the Lancaster Club of the Tri-Stat League, where he finished the season. In 1912 he sold to the Erie Club of the Central League, where he played that season. In 1913 he was with the Erie Clu bof the Inter-state League until the League disbanded and then finished the season with Grenville, playing independent ball. Although a veteran of the game, Lou is still young, being only 28 years of age. He started in organized ball when 17, a youngster in knee trousers. Since that time he has been on 7 pennant winners, and led most of the Leagues in pitching. Last season he hit 393 and was leading batter of the League when it disabnded. Schettler is often referred to as the iron man, having the reputation of being a hard working pitched, and having worked in as many as 44 games in a season. He will be very popular with the fans. Lou is showing fine form this spring and expects to add another good season to his already excellent record.

MORE MILITANCY.

A fresh type of militancy has been discovered on the branch line of the Great Western Railway Company at Pertheawl, England. Scratched on the glass of a coach door, apparently by means of a diamond, are the words: "Votes for women. You cannot govern women without their consent."

Largely as a result of the disastrous storms on the Great Lakes, losses at Lloyd's and by the principal marine insurance societies on the chief shipping casualities during November reached the huge aggregate of £1,-205,000, making a total of £6,868,500 since the beginning of the year.

TENNIS

Monday afternoon marked the opening of the Sacred Heart tennis season, the first ball being served by the honourary president in a game of singles. The members of the club anticipate a very interesting and successful season.

JOE KELLEY, a new picture of the Captain of the Toronto International League team, which is showing great form since the opening of the season. The raids of the Federals does not seem to have had much effect on Kelley's Klan.

WHAT DREAMS MAY TELL.

Remarkable evidence of a dream which came true was given at Wolverhampton at an inquiry into the death of Benjamin Plimmer, labourer, whose body was found on Monday in the cellar of his father's house, where it had been hanging for a fortnight. His sister dreamt that her brother had committed suicide in the cellar and this led to the search and discovery of the tragedy.

Five photographers who have been working in Peterborough for the past few days, may think themselves lucky that they have not had to pay a penalty of some $50 for the privilege.

The men were rounded up at the Police Station on Saturday morning last, but as they were only taking the photographs and not taking orders they were allowed to go, as they were not transient traders, or pedlars, in the sense of the word, and were not selling goods, wares, or other merchandise.

Merchants Will Meet Farmers On Saturday

A special committee appointed by the Retail Merchants' Association to investigate the local market for the purpose of finding out why the market has not been as largely attended as in the past, has already covered some ground.

One of the members stated this morning that Mr. Spence had recommended that all horses should be detached from the vehicles and many of the farmers were under the impression that this had been made law. The farmers are assured that there is no regulation to this effect, and they may leave their horses on the market as long as they like.

The committee interviewed City Clerk Armstrong in regard to what alterations had been made to the market by-law. Farmers are compelled to sell fowl by weight and market baskets must bear their names. It is found to be very inconvenient to sell fowl by weight. The farmers' scales may give too much or too little. The recent regulations cause extra trouble and many are disposing of their produce to agents from other cities and as a correlative are purchasing from other cities. The merchants are making a close investigation and will decide on recommendations which they will present to the Council.

It is their idea that the more people come to Peterborough the more business will be done here, and the more populous and prosperous will the City become. Every person will be benefitted by reason of the increased prosperity. Property will increase in value as the number of people coming here increases. The people who work will benefit in the greater demand for their products.

The members of the committee intend to visit the market for a half hour next Saturday and will approach farmers with a view to securing their opinions and suggestions. In short the merchants intend to go over the whole ground, believing that the market is one of the City's best assets and as such it deserves and requires careful attention and support.

"I WANT MY MONEY BACK"

Henry Thare Causes Some Excitement on George St. This Morning

Mental depression through being out of work, coupled with religious mania, were responsible for the strange actions of a man named Henry Thare, who resides on Stewart Street, on George Street, shortly before noon today.

He was walking south on George Street, on the east side, and when opposite Haggis' store, made a leap for the middle of the road, and flinging his hands high into the air, began to rave and shout. "I want my money back, I want my money back," he said. I have given it all to the Church, and now I want to buy a good wheel, a roadster, and I haven't got enough money." As soon as this scene was witnessed, a crowd began to gather and had soon assumed large proportions. The public were, however, noticed to keep at a fair distance in case his actions should prove to be directed against them. Acting Detective Paterson and P. C. Hayward followed the man to the market hall, where he was taken into custody.

At the police station he told the same story that he had made public a few foments before. He seemed to be deeply impressed with religious matters. It is understood, also, that he has been out of employment since November last, and that too, has doubtless acted on his mind in no small degree. He will be detained until he is medically examined.

Thare, it may be remembered, caused a disturbance in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church two or three months ago, when he rose and interrupted the Rev. Mansell in the course of his sermon.

A DIRECT AND MOST EFFECTIVE TREATMENT For Cold in the Head and Catarrh

Some internal remedies, such as Nu-Dro-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, undoubtedly help a great deal in checking a cold in the head, but you get the quickest action from Nu-Dro-Co Fossal Balm.

This is applied directly and conveniently through the new nozzle-shaped end of the collapsible tube in which it is put up. This little nozzle reaches well up into the nostril, and a gentle squeeze on the tube discharges enough of the Fossal Balm to spread over the membrane lining the nasal passages, kill the germs of the cold or catarrh, soothe the smarting inflammation, make breathing through the nostrils free and easy, and check the cold or relieve the catarrh at once.

The fact that this new means of applying the Fossal Balm is so handy, and gets it right up where it is needed, adds much to the value of this splendid remedy.

CENSURE DEFEATED

Resolution Regarding the I. C. R. Management Voted Down

NEW BILLS INTRODUCED

OTTAWA, May 6.—At an early hour yesterday morning the House voted down a resolution proposed by Hon. H. R. Emmerson censuring the Government for its oppressive and inefficient management of the Intercolonial Railway.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson in opening said that the present management of the Intercolonial Railway was deserving of criticism in several respects. During the past year or two the roadbed had been allowed to deteriorate and the passenger and freight service became less efficient than formerly.

He vigorously criticized what is known as the Gutelius-Bosworth agreement under which the I. C. R. moves C. P. R. trains (four hundred tons) from Halifax to St. John for $300 claiming that such service was worth at least double that amount.

Hon. J. Reid, acting Minister of Railway, defended the management of the I. C. R. and analyzed the accounts to show the correctness of the sum claimed by the Government.

R. M. Macdonald (Pictou) quoted from the Truro Citizen, which he said was the organ of the Chief Whip Stanfield, to show that there was much dissatisfaction among Conservatives in the Maritime Provinces with the present management of the Intercolonial.

Premier Borden said that the only criticism of the present management of the Intercolonial was that it was too business-like. Mr. Cochrane had administered the road with firmness and ability, with little regard to party politics. The rates charged under the Gutelius-Bosworth agreement are better justified by comparing them with the rates long established for the carriage of flour from Montreal to Halifax and the carriage of grain from Montreal to Halifax and the carriage of grain from Georgian Bay points to the Atlantic.

Mr. Borden said that his observation and information were that the Intercolonial was never in better shape for giving more satisfactory service than at present. He and Mr. Cochrane alike desired to make the road a credit to Canada. Any complaint would be promptly investigated, and if justified it would be cured. The I.C.R. needed feeders and branch lines, and would be acquiring them to-day had the Senate not killed the legislation passed by the House of Commons at the last session.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who followed, said that the Government could acquire all the branch lines it wanted without any general legislation. He said that the branch lines bill as first introduced by Cochrane would have enabled the Minister of Railways to purchase the Canadian Pacific Railway without consulting Parliament.

In the House yesterday afternoon the Minister of Justice, introduced his bill respecting British nationality and naturalization. The object of the bill, he said, was to conform to the agreement between the United Kingdom and the governing states.

Under his bill, Judge Doherty went on to explain, the Secretary of State would issue naturalization papers which would entitle the bearer to citizenship in the United Kingdom and in any of the self-governing states of the Empire which had legislation in conformity with the agreement above mentioned. At present, to acquire naturalization in Canada, three years' residence in the country is required, but only one of these years need be spent in the country. Applicants must also have an adequate knowledge of either French or English.

The Minister also introduced a bill to authorize the appointment of a deputy judge to administer the juvenile delinquents act. A third bill amends the Supreme Court Act. The legislation passed at the last session authorized appeals from the inter-locutory judgments where substantial rights are affected, there being some uncertainty as to whether the amendment applied to pending cases the present bill makes it applicable to them.

Hon. Mr. Doherty has also given notice of an act to amend the criminal code. The purpose of it is to make those who knowingly publish or cause to be published, false and fraudulent advertising criminally responsible.

LARUE SAYS THIS TIME.

Alleged Murderer Changed Last Trial Has Now Faces Jury.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 6. —The spring session of the High Court convened here yesterday with Mr. Justice Britton on the bench, and H. D. Gamble, K.C., of Toronto, as crown prosecutor. Three criminal cases will occupy the attention of the court. The first case is that of Joseph Larue, charged with the murder of his wife in March, 1913. Her lifeless body was found in the St. Mary's river. Larue was to have come up for trial at the assizes of last autumn, but just previous to the sessions of the court he effected a sensational escape from the jail, remaining at liberty for two months.

NINETEEN MISSING

Thirteen Out of Thirty-two in Crew of Steamer Saved

MYSTERY SHIP IDENTIFIED

BOSTON, May 6.—The mystery surrounding the identity of the steamer which has been on fire in the westbound transatlantic steamer lane south of Sable Island, for 48 hours, was solved last night when wireless messages from the Cunard liner Franconia, told of the burning of the freighter Coningsby, from Antwerp, and the rescue of 13 members of her crew from a small boat. The death of Chief Steward Matthews, whose body the survivors had in charge, and the disappearance of a second boat, in which were 19 men, including the first and second officers, were also reported.

Whether the number of missing was represented by those said to be in the second boat, was still uncertain last night. Estimates by officials of the Leyland and Phoenix lines, placed the number of the crew at between 45 and 50. The messages from the Franconia told of only 32 men, represented by the occupants of the two boats. It was thought possible that there was a third boat, commanded by Captain McDonald of the Columbian.

The survivors were so exhausted by their experience that they could tell little of what had happened, and steamship officials expressed the opinion that the omission in the wireless messages of mention of the captain, might be laid to this fact.

After rescuing the occupants of the first boat, the Franconia searched until night fell for the rest of the crew, but without result. Then Captain Miller of the Cunarder sent word ashore that he had given up the search and would proceed for Boston with the survivors and his 1,733 passengers. He said he expected to arrive at Boston Lightship at midnight Wednesday.

Search for the missing men of the Columbian had not been given up, however. Before turning for his destination, Captain Miller had notified the steamers Manhattan and Haverford, both eastbound, of the missing boats, and they sent word that they had changed their courses and were heading toward the burning steamer.

Survivors On Franconia.

ON BOARD STEAMER FRANCONIA, via Sable Island, N.S., May 6.—Those on board the Franconia are: James Drehan, wireless operator; Antone Elas, carpenter; Ivar Iverson, boatswain's mate; Ungus Prinse, Jens Jensen, A. Abelnik, quartermaster; Gustav Schriborm, donkeyman; Thos. Qeaner, Juri Lei and Arthur Brantik, able seamen; Antony Cordones and Bennett Rother, firemen, and Frank Wedskind, messroom steward.

The Columbian caught fire Sunday night, when about 300 miles south of Cape Race. A series of violent explosions followed almost immediately. Captain McDonald gave orders to the wireless operator, James Drehan, to send out calls for assistance, but one of the explosions put the wireless apparatus out of commission, cutting off the Columbian from communication with nearby ocean liners which might have gone to the rescue.

With the vessel belching flames and torn by the explosions, it soon became evident that the crew could do nothing to control the fire, and the order to abandon ship was given.

The men left the Columbian in two boats. Chief Steward Matthews was in charge of the first. This boat put away from the steamer and lay to for a time, but in the dense smoke which surrounded the burning vessel the other boat was not visible, and the steward's boat finally drifted far from the scene.

Fishermen Are Rescued.

LIVERPOOL, N.S., May 6. — The Gloucester fishing schooner Jorgina, Captain Rose, arrived here yesterday and reports having picked up in a gale of wind six men and their dories off the French fishing vessel La Normande of St. Pierre, on Bank Quero, May 3. The captain states that half an hour longer and the men would have all perished. The rescued men were sent to the French consul at Halifax.

Found Body In River.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 6. — The body of a man believed to be John Davis, Walkerville, who disappeared from his daughter's home on April 3, was found just off Fighting Island in the Detroit river. Davis left home without telling his daughter where he was going, and after a thorough search throughout the county and surrounding cities, had been given up for dead. He was over eighty years of age.

LLOYD GEORGE'S WAR MILD.

But London Papers Deal Severely With Budget Proposals.

LONDON, May 6.—The speech of Lloyd George in presenting his budget to the House of Commons yesterday, is said to have been one of the most unLloyd Georgian he has ever delivered, being particularly free from offensive language, attack, or invective, and simply confined to facts.

The Morning Post's comment is that it is a cleverly drafted electioneering document, while The Daily Telegraph charges the Chancellor with setting before the nation a system providing new and numerous benefits for one part of the community entirely at the expense of the other, and remarks that if anything will produce a population of greedy and irresponsible spongers instead of an industrious working class, it will be statesmanship of this sort.

The Financial News says that the prolific nature of the 1909 taxes might have suggested that their subject should have been allowed a longer close time before being harried again.

WHITE MEN MASSACRED.

Rising of Natives in Portuguese Congo Territory Causes Alarm.

ANTWERP, Belgium, May 6.—Confirmation of a reported native revolt in the Portuguese Congo and the killing of twenty white men, including some Protestant and Catholic missionaries, was received here yesterday. Many other missionaries are said to have fled from the affected districts, according to a despatch from Boma, Belgian Congo.

The natives are led by a chief from San Salvador. The governor of Angola attacked them, but was forced to retreat, and the natives continued their march toward the left bank of the Congo, burning all the stations on their way, and causing the small garrisons to flee before them.

Passengers who arrived from the Congo yesterday on board the steamer Anveraville declared the situation in the Portuguese colony to be desperate, and that the revolt would be extremely difficult to suppress.

NIAGARA IS CHOSEN

Canadian City to be Scene of Peace Negotiations

SESSIONS BEGIN ON MAY 18

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The three South American envoys who have undertaken by diplomacy to settle Mexico's civil strife, as well as her international difficulties, announced last night that the first formal conference with representatives of the "different parties interested in mediation" would be held at Niagara Falls, Ont., on May 18.

Secretary Bryan made the announcement for the three diplomats in a brief statement, which read as follows:

"The mediators have notified the different parties that Niagara Falls, Canada, has been selected as the place where the mediators will confer with representatives of the different parties interested in the mediation, and that the 18th of May has been fixed as the date when the conference will begin."

Developments in the Mexican situation yesterday were divided between the diplomatic and the military status.

The South American mediators continued their sessions throughout the day, and for the first time it became authoritatively known from them that they considered the whole range of Mexican affairs as properly embraced in their work. Their reply to Carranza had made this clear, and, while eliminating him from the mediation for the time being, it still left the door open to him to come into the proceedings later.

At the War Department it became clear that the status quo at Vera Cruz would be maintained with no advance of the U. S. troops unless to repel attacks.

Congress after a considerable period of silence on Mexico again came into the situation. In the Senate Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island introduced a resolution calling on President Wilson for information as to published reports that it was the administration's purpose to aid Gen. Villa to secure the Presidency.

During a brief but spirited discussion Senator Lodge read from a London paper a scathing denunciation of Villa. The Lippitt resolution went over until to-day under the rules.

Villa Scores Huerta Most.

VERA CRUZ, May 6.— Francisco Villa, the rebel commander, may not make his intended descent on Mexico City before the lapse of another three months, according to a prominent business man who arrived here from the capital yesterday. The refugee who had just completed successful negotiations with Provisional President Huerta for the removal of a large quantity of bullion from the mining districts in the vicinity of the capital says Gen. Huerta is still sending Federal troops northward, as he apparently dreads more the possible approach of Gen. Villa than an advance of the Americans.

ASQUITH TAKES INITIATIVE.

He Seeks Recognition of Conversations On Home Rule.

LONDON, May 6.—The Times is able to state that Premier Asquith has taken the initiative in opening conversations on the Irish issue. A private meeting took place at Downing street yesterday between Bonar Law, Sir Edward Carson and Mr. Asquith to discuss questions of procedure and the possibility of bringing together the various parties in the controversy. Significant also is the activity that is taking place among the federalist back benchers on both sides of the House, more than one hundred of whom have signified their support to a federal solution as a way out of the present deadlock.

THEY BELIEVE IN PRAYER.

But English Divines and Doctors Warn Against Faith Healing.

LONDON, May 6.—Spiritual faith and mental healing are dealt with in a report published yesterday by a committee, consisting of ten representatives of the Church of England and ten medical men, under the chairmanship of the Dean of Westminster, Dr. Ryle. The conclusions of the committee are: "The committee desire to express their belief in the efficacy of prayer. They reverently believe, however, that Divine power is exercised in conformity with and through the operation of natural laws. Spiritual ministration should be recognized equally with medical ministration as carrying God's blessing to the sick. Health, bodily and mentally, is capable of being influenced for good by spiritual means.

"The physical results of what is called faith or spiritual healing do not prove on investigation to be different from those of mental healing or suggestion. The committee recognize that suggestion is more effectively exercised by some persons than by others, and this fact seems to explain the gifts of a special character claimed by various healers. While the religious influences do not essentially differ in operation from the non-religious appeals to the mind, yet the former may often be a most potent form of suggestion. The committee is forced to the conclusion that faith or spiritual healing is like all treatment by suggestion. It can be expected to be permanently effective only in cases of what are called functional disorders as distinct from organic ailments.

"Those who resort to healers therefore, are warned that they may thereby be postponing until too late to arrest organic disease. The committee desire to see increased importance attached to spiritual ministrations as a contributory means to recovery, but they strongly deprecate the independent treatment of disease by irresponsible and unqualified persons."

Semi-ready Tailoring

A Thousand Clerks in a Semi-ready Store

Actually a man can wait upon himself—sell to himself—and know just what he is buying in a Semi-ready Tailoring Store.

That is what plain prices on the pocket label mean to you.

This help-yourself plan is another economic factor in efficiency methods that make for modern merchandising.

You are splendidly paid for helping wait on yourself by the close-to-cost prices of Semi-ready Tailoring.

Semi-ready systems are built on Cash—same prices everywhere—sizes and physique types to fit every man—descriptions on the ticket—and other helpful ideas in "waiting upon yourself" make our part one of assistance and suggestion, rather than insistence and bothering you—in quiet, peaceful selection.

Walking Sticks.

Many ingenious attempts have been made to increase the usefulness of the walking stick. Sticks containing a sword were common enough in less peaceful times, and some were even made to conceal firearms. Henry VIII., for instance, had a stick containing three matchlock pistols, and a clumsy affair it must have been. More recently sticks have been fitted with snuff boxes, scent bottles, watches, compasses, spirit flasks and even telescopes. A decade ago there was a short lived craze for a stick the knob of which unscrewed and formed a pipe.

They All Did.

One predicts a future for the schoolboy who wrote the following terse narrative about Elijah:

"There was a man named Elijah. He had some bears and he lived in a cave. Some boys tormented him. He said: 'If you keep on throwing stones at me I'll turn the bears on you and they'll eat you up.' And they did and he did and the bears did."—Everybody's.

Not Fast.

"By Jove! I am glad to see you looking so gay and festive!" said Mr. Olde Frend. "You were all in black the last time I saw you."

"Yes," demurely replied Mrs. Brown, who had just taken a second husband, "but it wasn't a fast black."—Magazine of Fun.

The White and Black Pebbles

By SARAH BAXTER

"Bob, my dear boy, I congratulate you heartily on your engagement to Clara Deane."

"Thank you, Dave. I appreciate your congratulations more than those of any other of my friends."

These two sentences were spoken by two cadets of the graduating class of 182— at the Military academy at West Point. Robert Harker did not know what the congratulations cost his friend David Warfield. Both cadets had been attentive to the same girl, but neither knew that the other had proposed to her. She did not tell the one she accepted that she had been obliged to decide between him and his friend.

And so it was that the woman was the only one who knew the fact.

Eighteen years passed, during which time the two officers had not served at the same military station, though once they met at Washington. Harker's family was not with him, and Warfield was still unmarried. Nineteen years after they had graduated the Mexican war broke out, and both were ordered south—Harker to the Rio Grande with General Taylor, Warfield to Vera Cruz with General Scott.

During Scott's advance to Mexico City, involving a series of battles in which the Americans were always victorious, Warfield was of great value to the commanding general in all matters pertaining to the science of engineering. When the army approached the City of Mexico, desiring to get a view of the enemy's defenses, he appropriated the uniform of a Mexican officer who had been made a prisoner and worked his way to the rear of the Mexican army. He took with him a young soldier barely eighteen years of age with a view of sending back any information he might acquire, in case he could not get back himself. The youngster put on the uniform of a dead Mexican corporal. It was arranged between the two that they should address each other as "captain" and "corporal" only.

One day Captain Warfield was standing on the edge of a wood, behind a tree against which he was resting a spyglass which he had leveled at the fortifications of the City of Mexico. The corporal stood behind, walking to and fro in the wood with a view to warning the captain against surprise. Suddenly a troop of Mexican horsemen came galloping toward them. The corporal gave a warning signal, but too late. From a distance the Mexicans saw a man examining their fortifications through a spyglass.

Riding up to the captain, the commander of the troop questioned him. Warfield spoke but little Spanish and could give no satisfactory account of himself. Both he and the corporal were taken into the capital and brought before the Mexican commander. After an examination a drumhead court martial was convened, and they were tried as spies. They were soon convicted and sentenced to be garroted, but owing to the fact that they were Americans, where garroting was not practiced, the sentence was commuted to shooting.

The two were confined in the same prison. The night before their execution the corporal called for writing material that he might write a letter of farewell to his mother. He had finished and addressed it when Captain Warfield saw it and read the address.

"Great heavens!" he exclaimed, paling.

"What is it, captain?" asked the other.

"You are a son of Robert Harker of the ——th cavalry?"

"I am."

"And your mother as a girl was Clara Deane?"

"She was."

The dialogue was interrupted by the entrance of a Mexican officer, who said to the two condemned men:

"Our commander has decided that but one need suffer in order to carry out the necessity of striking terror into an enemy for such illegitimate warfare. He has directed that you two men draw lots to determine which shall be shot. I have a white and a black pebble here which I place in my hat. The one drawing the white pebble will be exchanged as a prisoner of war; the other will be immediately executed."

"Being a commissioned officer," said the captain, "while my fellow prisoner is a private, I demand the right to draw the pebble to decide which of us is to suffer."

The officer held out the hat to him; he thrust in his hand and immediately drew it out clinched. Going to a window, with the other hand he drew forth a pebble and held it up to the light. It was black.

The Mexican officer in the excitement of the moment of life and death forgot the other pebble and placed his hat on his head without withdrawing it.

A platoon of soldiers was waiting without for the loser, and Captain Warfield was immediately led out and shot. A few minutes later the man who had placed the pebbles in the hat remembered the white stone. Taking off his hat, he did not find it. He searched for it and at last found it in the dead officer's pocket. Warfield had taken out both stones and showed only the black one.

In the Harker family Captain Warfield's name was ever after spoken with a great depth of reverence, but only Mrs. Harker knew all the reason for the sacrifice he had made.

The mind may aid digestion, as Dr. Aichorn states, but it takes a square meal to satisfy it.

HAD TO STOP WORK FROM THE PAIN

Suffered Ten Years Until "Fruit-a-tives"-Cured Him

ST. THOMAS, ONT., May 22nd, 1913.

"I was troubled for ten years with the most distressing Constipation and Indigestion of the worst form.

No one could have been worse with these troubles than I was for this long time.

The pain from Indigestion was so severe that many times, I have had to stop work and lie down until the acute spasms passed away.

I took a lot of medicine—in fact, I guess I took about everything that was advertised—and gave them all a fair test—but got no relief. About a year ago, however, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives". I am mighty glad I did so for they seem to be made exactly for me.

They gave results in a very short time and I am now free from these diseases and enjoying perfect health.

My wife also used "Fruit-a-tives" and we both think they are the best medicine ever made."

CAUSE FOR INDIGNATION.

Why Should a Man Return Home Too Late Safe and Sound?

An Oak Park man who has not been married a dozen years and who is engaged in a business that seldom keeps him in the city late at night recently attended a dinner that lasted longer than he had expected it to. In fact, it was after midnight when the last speaker closed his remarks. Then one of the Oak Park man's neighbors offered to take him home in an automobile if he would wait a few minutes. The few minutes were multiplied several times, and a punctured tire added to the delay, the result being that the man who was seldom out late at night reached home at 2:27 a. m.

He let himself in as quietly as possible, but he might as well have been as noisy as an auction bridge party. His wife was awake and had all the lights in the house going. She had telephoned to a number of her neighbors for their advice and was about to communicate with the police department for the purpose of letting it be known that her husband must have met with some terrible mishap. When he got inside the house the lady rushed toward him, crying:

"Charles, dear, what has happened? Are you hurt?"

"No; I'm all right," he replied.

She stopped, looked him over hastily and critically and then exclaimed:

"What do you mean by coming home at this time in the morning with nothing the matter with you?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Playing the Piano.

Millions of people play the piano. Few people listen to them. Why is that? Let me remind you of a little story. One summer Joseph Jefferson, the dearly beloved old actor, spent a part of his holiday near a lonely little village. Early on Sunday morning he met the clergyman of the place. Church and stage instantly became friendly and Jefferson was asked whether he would care to read a part of the service. He consented to read the Lord's Prayer. After the service the white haired clergyman shook his hand. Tears were in his eyes as he said, "Ah, Mr. Jefferson, you ought to have entered the church!" "Why?" asked the great actor. "Because what you read sinks into the hearts of your hearers. I thought I had never heard the Lord's Prayer before, you read it so beautifully." "Well," said the modest old actor, "you know, don't you, that hardly one person in a million is ever rightly taught to read."

Similarly, few people are ever rightly taught to play. That is why, perhaps, so few care to listen to the average player.—Woman's World.

When the Full Moon Lights Sahara.

The following description of the Egyptian full moon is quoted from "It Happened In Egypt:"

"The stars spoke to us as we walked soft footed through the sand, and the pure wind of the desert spoke other words of the same language—the language of the universe and of nature. Here and there yellow lights in a distant camp flashed out like fireflies; far away across the billowing sands rocks bleached like bone gave an effect of surf on an unseen shore; now and then a silent, swift moving Arab stealing out of shadow might have been the white woman who haunts the sphinx hurrying to a fatal tryst, and the great pyramid seemed to float between desert sand and cloudless sky like the golden palace of Aladdin being transported through air by the genie of the lamp. There never was such gold as this gold of sand and pyramids under the moon!"

TRAVELS OF COLUMBUS.

His Record Dead May in Time Outdo His Record Alive.

The proposal to take the body of Christopher Columbus to Panama for exhibition recalls to mind that this would be the pioneer's sixth resting place since he died in 1506. He is more traveled in death than in life.

Columbus was buried in Valladolid, Spain, his body being exhumed a few years later and recommitted to earth at the Chartreuse convent, Seville. Here it was only allowed to rest a very short period, being taken across the Atlantic—then, of course, many months' journey—in 1536 and buried for the third time in the cathedral of Santo Domingo.

After a lapse of 250 years, in 1795, part of the island passed to France, so once again the patriotic Spaniard interrupted the national hero's rest to rebury him at Santiago. Then when Cuba was lost to Spain the body was taken back to Seville, where it now lies in the cathedral.

If Columbus is taken across to Panama this year he will have beaten his own Atlantic record in life.—Madrid Cor. New York World.

A Pessimist Defined.

The real pessimist is not the man who calls out when he thinks things are going wrong, but he who says "Going wrong? Of course they are!" then shrugs his shoulders and does nothing.—Dean Inge.

Wisdom.

Wisdom is knowledge, sound judgment and good conduct running together in harness and keeping step.

His Favorite.

When a girl asked Mark Twain his favorite motto he promptly answered, "Not Guilty!"

Cat and Dog Convicts.

Beyond the lovely vale of Kashmir, across the Indus, lies a desolate settlement where convicts are transported.

Probably one of the quaintest convicts who crossed the passes and entered this penal settlement, writes Captain H. L. Haughton in "Sport and Folk Lore in the Himalaya," was a fine tabby cat. This cat was convicted of no less offense than that of killing and devouring a parrot and a pet myna belonging to the old maharajah and was sentenced to penal servitude for life. A very old officer of the Kashmir army told the writer that he remembered this cat in Bunji, and that it was allowed a ration of flour daily by the state.

Captain Haughton alludes also to a case where a dog and a pestle were brought to trial:

A dog playing in the courtyard of a native house ran against a big wooden pestle used for pounding grain, which in falling killed a baby sleeping underneath it. The dog and the pestle were both brought before the judge, who convicted them both and sentenced them to a term of hard labor.

MORE HOWLERS.

Accidental Wit of the School Room and the "Exam." Paper.

Very merry and bright is the modern schoolboy's idea of history, judging from the list of joyous "howlers" published in the current issue of the University Correspondent.

This periodical recently offered a prize of one guinea for the best collection of twelve amusing mistakes, and the result has been a whole budget of "howlers" calculated to make a stone dog smile. Here are some valuable bits of historical information:

"Finally James II. gave birth to a son, and so the people turned him off the throne."

"Wolfe declared that he would rather repeat Gray's 'Elegy' than take Quebec."

"The courage of the Truks is explained by the fact that a man with more than one wife is more willing to face death than if he had only one."

"The Minister of War is the clergyman who preaches to the soldiers in the barracks."

"William the Conqueror defeated Childe Harold at the Battle of Hastings, which was so called because the English hastened away from their enemies."

"Julius Caesar was murdered at the Cinema House."

"When the last French attack at Waterloo proved a failure Napoleon turned very pale, and rode at full gallop to St. Helena."

Among "howlers" on general subjects were the following:

"Ambiguity means telling the truth when you don't mean to."

"The flannelette peril means petticoat government."

"Much butter is imported from Denmark, because Danish cows have greater enterprise and superior technical education to ours."

"The mineral wealth of a country is ginger-beer and lemonade."

"A triangle is a square with only three corners."

These "howlers" might be supplemented by one or two sent to us by a Welsh schoolmaster:

"The principal vegetable and mineral products in America are tinned meat and borking strictors."

"The temperate zone is the region where no one drinks too much."

"'Name a town in Warwickshire.' Answer, 'Rugby.' 'Right. Next boy, another.' 'Association!'"

The English lesson is not altogether free from humor.

"The masculine of sultana is raisin; of heroine, kipper."

"The feminine of he-goat is she-went; of hero, shero."

"A corps is a dead gentleman; a corpse is a dead lady."

"Construct a sentence to show the use of the word 'seldom.' 'My father bought some potatoes last week, but mother "eld 'em."'"

"To the question, 'How would you divide four potatoes among five persons?' came the answer, 'Mash 'em.'"

Unintentional Irkness.

The Bishop of London recently told a story of a visit he paid to Buckingham Palace to see King Edward.

As he was going in he passed the late Lord Salisbury coming out, but the statesman did not seem to know him.

In the course of conversation he mentioned the meeting to King Edward.

"Oh, Lord Salisbury never recognizes anybody," replied the King, and going to a bureau he took out a new photograph of himself and handed it to the bishop. "What do you think of that?" he asked.

"A very excellent likeness, sir!" replied the bishop.

"Well," said the King, "when I showed it to Salisbury he looked hard at it for a minute and then said:

"'Poor Buller! I wonder if he is really as stupid as he looks!'"

Terribly Afflicted With Lame Back.

Could Not Sweep The Floor.

When the back aches and pains it is almost impossible for women to do their housework, for every move and every turn means an ache or a pain.

Women are beginning to understand that weak, lame, and aching backs from which they suffer so much are due to wrong action of the kidneys, and should be attended to at once so as to avoid years of suffering from kidney trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong with the back Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken.

They go right to the seat of the trouble.

Mrs. Wilfrid Jolicoeur, Nouvelle, Que., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About three years ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back, and was so bad I could not sweep my own floor. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I only used three boxes, and I am as well as ever. I highly recommend these pills to any sufferer from lame back or kidney trouble."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a Spring Tonic

We have on file thousands of letters telling of similar cures by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Skeptics are invited to write to Mrs. Scarbo for confirmation of her cure.

Mrs. Jules Scarbo, Moulinette, Stormont Co., Ont., writes:—"I think it is my duty to write and let you know the great benefit I received from taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Early last fall I became greatly run down, could scarcely eat anything and could not sleep at night. The least sound would make me start and I was so nervous I could hardly bear to have anyone talk to me. I tried many medicines but none helped me and I was in this extremely nervous condition for five months.

"I read in the almanac about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and bought 3 boxes from Mr. Armstrong, druggist at Mille Roches. Before completing the first box I felt the benefit and now believe the cure to be thorough and complete. I am feeling fine and eat and sleep well, thanks to the wonderful good, accomplished by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I wish everybody troubled as I was knew of this grand medicine, which is so quick in action and so permanent in results. It will always have my praise."

You can avoid the feelings of fatigue and depression which make spring so dreaded by very many who are not in robust health. Sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion and headaches soon disappear when you increase the vitality of the mind and body by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Her Game Blocked.

The timid looking little woman on the car noticed that her purse was not in her bag, where she had placed it. Instead it was hanging from her arm on a chain—hanging in full view where it would tempt the nimble fingers of the pickpockets assigned to that beat. With great forethought she picked up the purse and started to put it in the bag. But the purse didn't go in, because it was attached to the arm of the penniless faced woman standing next to her. Of course the woman with the bag stopped right there and dropped the stranger's purse.

"You'd better let that alone," spoke up the penniless faced woman. "I've been watching you ever since you got on, and you needn't think I didn't see what you were trying to do."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fresh Air.

There is throughout the civilized world an increasing knowledge of the value of sunlight and of fresh air. Benjamin Franklin in 1754 wrote: "Physicians have discovered that fresh air is beneficial to those who are ill. Perhaps in 100 years they will find it does not hurt those who are well." It has taken over the century prophesied by Franklin, but at last boards of health, bureaus of charity, trustees of schools, commissions on housing, intelligent bodies in all phases of civic life urge the need of securing all possible sunlight and fresh air.—Exchange.

Why the Major Went.

The picture of the army as a career for all reminds one of the short way to enter and rise of the highly born in the eighteenth century. Commissions then were not even paid for by the aristocracy, and companies were often commanded by children. Thus wrote Lady Dorothy Neville on one particular instance of the custom: "Lord Armadale, one of the Scottish judges, had a son, who, at the age of seven or twelve rose to the rank of major. One morning his mother hearing a noise in the nursery rang to know the cause of it. 'It is only the major greeting (crying) for his porridge,' explained the nurse."

To Clean Ships.

Mr. F. G. Browne, of Melbourne, Australia, has invented an ingenious machine for cleaning the hulls of ships below the water line, in this contrivance a watertight dynamo drives a revolving brush that is held firmly against the hull of the ship by a small propeller. After the machine has been lowered by a crane from a small boat alongside the steamer, the end that holds the rapidly revolving brush is worked up and down the sides of the vessel. It is stated that the machine can clean an 8,000-ton steamer in six or seven hours.

THE SPEEDER.

He jumped into his motorcar
And opened up the gas.
He hadn't journeyed very far
Before he tried to pass
Some one who drove a buzzing six,
And, though at last he did,
He barely missed a pile of bricks
When he began to skid.

He almost ran a woman down,
But faster still they flew.
He struck the center of the town
While doing thirty-two.
A horse took fright and ran away
When he whizzed by his nose,
And everybody stopped to say:
"See how that fellow goes!"

"It must be life and death with him,
The way he tears along.
Suppose a tire should jump the rim
Or something should go wrong!"
But in and out he squirmed and turned,
Still putting on the power,
And down the crowded street he burned
At forty miles an hour.

At forty miles an hour he sped—
He seemed in dreadful haste—
As one along the road he fled
Who had no time to waste.
But with a final whizz and whirl
He stopped before a flat
And went to call upon his girl,
And there he sat and sat.

Mutual Satisfaction.

"I hear your married," he whispered, leaning over her.

"Yes. A nobleman. Papa has spent a million dollar on his castle. But I—I remain the same. You are also married, I believe?"

"Yes. I married a Kansas girl with a large and growing set of gold mines. I have everything I want."

Then she smiled up at him:

"You see, we were both right. For have we not both of us fulfilled our destinies?"—Life.

Prepared.

"My dear," said the young man with a sob in his voice, "I should like to ask you to marry me, but I cannot for a long, long time, I fear. Two people would starve on my salary."

"Oh, George," said the beautiful young thing, throwing her arms around his neck, "don't let that worry you for a minute. I'm a militant suffragette and have been on four hunger strikes."—Baltimore American.

Proud of His Infamy.

When the Volturno burned in mid-ocean a few of the men rushed the boats and were knocked down by the captain. What becomes of such men in after days? Do they hide in shame from their fellows, fearful that they may be recognized and their infamy proclaimed? Not necessarily. A pub in Tibbertura was once visited by a man who came to him for a book on notable shipwrecks. He searched the pages eagerly, then pointed out a passage referring to a seaman who tried to take a woman's place in a lifeboat and had been shot by the captain. "I'm that man," he declared, proud that his exploit should appear in print, and offered to show the shot wound to support his claim.—Chicago News.

From Many, One.

"This is our most valuable fowl," said the amateur hen farmer.

"A fine bird," remarked the visitor, trying to look wise.

"Yes, indeed. We have named her E Pluribus Unum."

"Why the name?" the visitor questioned.

"She came from the only egg that hatched of fifty in the incubator."—New York Times.

Bird Ballast—a Storm Sign.

"What is all that great crowd of crows doing?" we asked the aged lighthouse keeper.

"Them crows there," the old man answered, "is tukin' on ballast—a sign of storm."

The beach, white in the winter sunshine, was covered with crows. They seemed to be feeding busily.

"No; they ain't feedin'," said the keeper. "They're swallerin' sand; ballast, you know—ballast for the high winds that are comin'. Yep, a storm is doo."

The crows rose, a trifle heavily, and flew back inland again. Soon, however, a fresh lot made a second great black blot on the white beach.

"Yep, them's my barometer," said the old keeper; "crows swallerin' sand for ballast—a sign a storm is doo."—New York Tribune.

The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pigeon holes and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

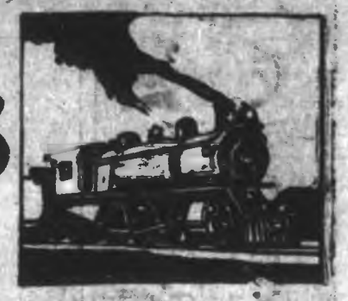
How American Farmers Move to Canada



"Galvanized Europeans"—such is the description of the American made by a recent writer. The dry electric air of the North American Continent seems to infuse a new vitality into the immigrant from older civilizations, and from the harassed, slow-moving economic slave, he becomes the brisk, independent American business man or farmer of to-day.

It is because he is brisk and alive to a good thing that the American farmer (in eight cases out of ten really an Americanized German, or Norwegian, or Britisher) is moving across the International Boundary to take up land in Western Canada. It is because he realizes that the land was are much the same as the land and climate of Alberta and Saskatchewan and climate of the Dakotas, whereas the price per acre is just about one-fifth. It is because he sees that taxes are light, that schools are good, that religion is free and that law and order are maintained that he thinks Canada a good country to make a home in.

Here are some figures to illustrate the extent of this peaceful American invasion of Canada. The movement started sixteen years ago in the season of 1898-99, when twelve thousand came to Canada, mostly repatriated Canadians returning to Canada.

1903	49,472
1904	45,229
1905	43,652
1906	57,919
1907 (nine months)	34,659
1908	58,312
1909	59,832
1910	103,798
1911	121,451
1911-12 (fiscal year)	133,710
1912-13	139,000

The total up to March, 1913, from the beginning of 1900, was 891,129, or about one-seventh of the present population of the whole Dominion.

A very large proportion of these American immigrants are farmers, accustomed to very similar conditions of agriculture and therefore easily assimilated. The remarkable increase of this immigration in the last few years might lead one to expect that the homestead entries by Americans would show a corresponding increase. As a matter of fact, these entries show a decrease, as follows:—

Homestead entries in Canada by Americans—

12,485	10,577	8,295

The reason for this is not far to seek. It means that the American farmers coming into Canada can afford to buy land near the railway, and prefer to do this rather than select land, even if it free, at a distance of 40 or 50 miles from the nearest station. The American immigrant of to-day is not a poor man. He brings with him considerable livestock and plenty of cash to buy more. He has made money out of farming in the United States, and he comes to Canada because he believes that he can make still more money out of farming there.

Here is an extract from the Chicago "Daily News" of March 11, 1914:

"The Canadian Pacific Railway claims to have made a record for the transportation of a party of settlers when it moved a train that represented an entire community across the border into Western Canada from Colorado. The train consisted of twenty-two cars, both passenger and freight, and in addition to the families of the settlers it carried all their household goods and everything they needed along the journey. Even the cows which supplied the milk for the passenger coaches, box cars and stock and church services were held on one of the cars on Sunday. The party of seventy-nine persons were received at Bassano, Alberta, its new home town where extensive preparations had been made for its arrival. This was the first 1914 train load of American settlers taken to Canada."

"There probably never was anything just like it," said M. E. Thornton, Colonization Commissioner for the Canadian Pacific. "The train crossed the boundary at Portal, March 9, twenty-two cars in all. There were passenger coaches, box cars, and stock cars. The settlers included seventy-nine persons, old and young, including forty-five children and grandchildren—three pairs of twins among them.

"The box cars were loaded with implements and impediments of this moving town's population, even to the dogs, cats and canaries. The cows were being milked as regularly as though the rails were not clattering away beneath them, and the chickens produced some of the eggs that were needed. On Sunday the children attended Sunday School and church service was held for the older people.

"The live stock list included seventy-five horses, fifteen cows, 2,000 chickens with turkeys, and pets of all the migrating families."

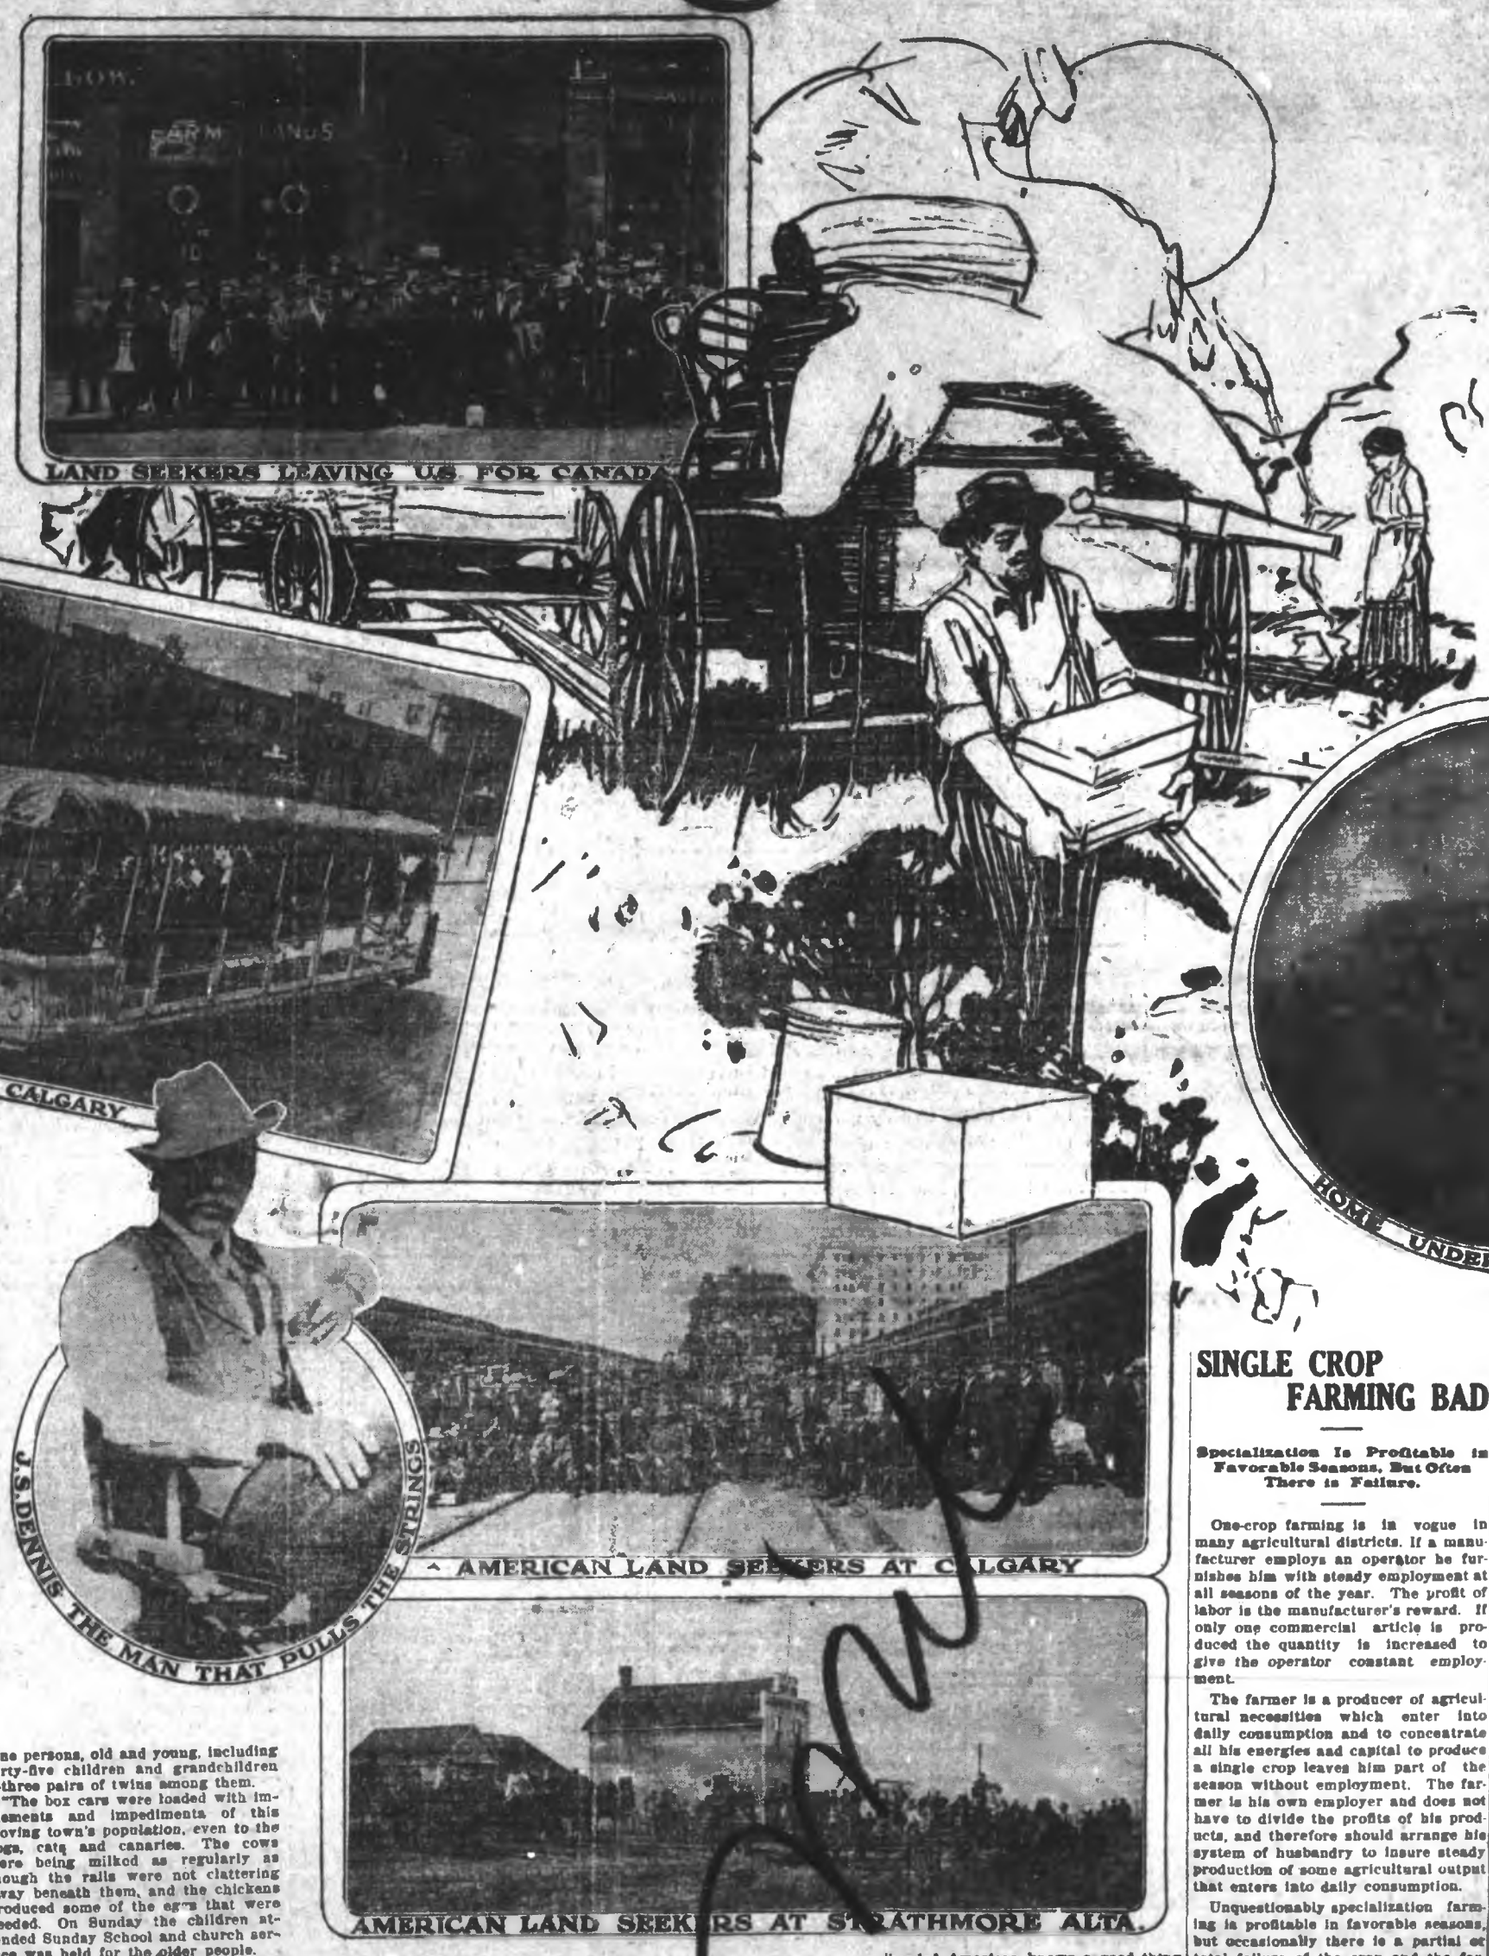
What a difference is this from the days of the old prairie schooner, creaking its laborious passage along the buffalo trails at the imminent risk of onslaught from marauding Indians! And how different are the conditions under which he settles. Instead of having to dump his household goods down on the open prairie, with nothing but the sky for a roof, he finds in the railway company a partner which has built, if requested so to do, a house and barn for him in advance of his coming, perhaps even built his fence for him and prepared fifty acres of land for the seed which he is to sow. The "Loan Farm" policy of the Canadian Pacific is indeed the lodestar which is drawing the American farmer with such magnetic pull to Canada. Under this policy the practical farmer desiring to settle in the Canadian West on the C. P. R. lands may obtain an advance of two thousand dollars toward the cost of buildings and improvements, and another one thousand dollars to pay for livestock, so that he may practise mixed farming—the best kind of farming in the West.

The man who pulls the strings in this great colonization is undoubtedly J. S. Dennis, of Calgary, a typical Westerner, who still carries in his shoulder a bullet received in the days of the Louis Riel rebellion. Mr. Dennis was at one time in the land department of the Hudson's Bay Company, but left them to take a position in the Dominion Government. Many of the roads across the prairies were built under his direction, and he is one of the few living men who has walked from Winnipeg to Edmonton. From road making he passed to irrigation work, and investigated for the Government the problem of irrigating the so-called dry belt on the prairies east of Calgary. This was pronounced perfectly feasible, but the Government was afraid of the cost. Then came the C. P. R. requesting a transfer of land under its contract with the Government which permitted it to refuse any bad land and to hand to the railway out of the 25,000,000 acres which formed the original land subsidy. This bad land was exchanged for the irrigation block, and J. S. Dennis was taken over from the Government by the railway to carry out irrigation scheme into practical effect.

The original areas had to be colonized, and from an irrigation expert Mr. Dennis became one of the most successful colonizing propogandists ever known in the West. This success in the United States has been so pronounced that no less than seven States of the Union have collected funds to carry on a counter propoganda in the vain endeavour to prevent their farmers from flocking to Canada. Their efforts must be in vain. The hard-headed American knows a good thing when he sees it. If he can sell his American farm at $100 an acre and buy just as good land in Canada at $20 to $30 an acre—"Me for Canada," says he, and off he sets for Alberta or Saskatchewan. A dispatch from St. Paul, dated March 16, appeared in a large number of American newspapers, which history is proving true. It read as follows:—

St. Paul.—The Canadian Pacific Railway expect to transport 100 cars of emigrants and their possessions in colonist trains from the Middle West to Canada every week from now on through May. The majority of these trains will be assembled here, to which point cars will be sent from Chicago and other central points in the Middle West.

Seed in well-prepared soil which has been compacted will germinate much quicker than where the soil is too coarse and loose.



SINGLE CROP FARMING BAD

Specialization Is Profitable in Favorable Seasons, But Often There is Failure.

One-crop farming is in vogue in many agricultural districts. If a manufacturer employs an operator he furnishes him with steady employment at all seasons of the year. The profit of labor is the manufacturer's reward. If only one commercial article is produced the quantity is increased to give the operator constant employment.

The farmer is a producer of agricultural necessities which enter into daily consumption and to concentrate all his energies and capital to produce a single crop leaves him part of the season without employment. The farmer is his own employer and does not have to divide the profits of his products, and therefore should arrange his system of husbandry to insure steady production of some agricultural output that enters into daily consumption.

Unquestionably specialization farming is profitable in favorable seasons, but occasionally there is a partial or total failure of the crop and the farmer wants some reserve product to tide him over a disastrous season of special crop exploitation. In some localities the soil is admirably adapted to potato culture. In another section to onions, and still another to horticulture. When any of these lines of husbandry are followed they pay large profits in favorable seasons. Another class of farmers are interested in wheat or corn production, both of which are profitable branches of agriculture.

The farmer engaged in specialization crops finds himself unemployed a part of the year, if his labors are reasonably rewarded for time devoted to raising and marketing a crop of wheat, corn, potatoes or fruit, it should be his ambition to add to his agricultural operations the production of other things that will pay a profit the balance of the year around. To obtain profitable recompense from agriculture the farmer should arrange for steady employment the year around.

Special crops can be exploited in conjunction with live stock husbandry. If the farmer raises a crop of clover it leaves the soil in elegant condition for a crop of potatoes, while the clover will make excellent feed for live stock. A crop of potatoes leaves the ground in prime condition for wheat seeded down to clover. Live stock industry in conjunction with special crop production will not only give the farmer remunerative employment at all seasons, but the rotation of crops and feeding live stock will keep up the fertility of the land.

Hog House Floor.

The hog house floor may be cement one part with six to eight parts gravel for a foundation and covered with one inch of a thin mixture containing one part cement with two of clean, sharp sand. Roughen the surface; otherwise it will be slippery.

Value of Ewe.

If a ewe dies her fleece will pay her funeral expenses; if she lives, her spring wool and fall lambs pay double revenue.

Money in Sheep.

Some men have cleared 100 per cent. on their money in sheep for years; but these are the real sheep herds. Not every man has the sheep herd instinct; but we may all do better than we do.

MAKING GATE IN WIRE FENCE

Plan for Making Opening that Can Be Varied to Any Size to Suit—By H. H. Bryant.

In making a gate in a wire fence, use 6x6's for the gate posts and 4x6's for the rest of the posts in the fence. The brace shown at A should be a 4x4, and should be placed two-thirds of the height from the ground on the gate post and one-third of the distance from the ground on the second post. At B is shown a brace made of wire which should be placed around the bottom of the first post, and nailed so that it will not slide. The other end is placed near the top of second post from the gate. By placing a stick in the two strands they can be

The gate frame shown at H, C and F should be made out of 1x3 well put together. Stretch the fence wire across the gate, and cut after stapling firmly to the frame of the gate. Of course, this plan can be varied to any size of length to suit the builder.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE MOTOR GHOST

It Took a Busy Little Woman to Lay It

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Did you see it go past?" shrilled Miss Ducey from her bedroom window.

"Yes, without a sound. My, it gave me such a start!" returned Mrs. Weems from her bedroom window next door. "Whatever can it be?"

"I don't know. Don't seem natural, whatever it is, streaking past here every night for a week without a sound, going up the street and never coming back again. Who ever saw a motorcar behaving like that? I never did till a week ago."

"No more did I."

"Shall you tell Mr. Weems?"

"Of course, but he won't believe a word of it," said that skeptic's fat wife as she closed her window and retired for the night.

Finally Miss Ducey went to bed, determining to arise early and trace the black automobile to its lair wherever it might be.

It was shortly after daylight when Miss Ducey swallowed a hasty breakfast and marched up Block street.

IT WAS THE HIDDEN LOOT.

Block street was rightly named,—for, although once it had been a small thoroughfare in the heart of the village, when the railroad had built a stone viaduct and the trains raced through the place over the heads of the distracted populace a great stone wall had blocked the street a few hundred feet beyond the boundary line of Nettie Ducey's land.

"Drat the blocking!" muttered Miss Ducey as she hurried through her orchard toward the railroad embankment.

"Drat the automobile!" she added in a little while as she stood at the grass grown end of the street, where there was not the faintest sign of wheel marks. "I'd like to see one of them city detectives down here. I'll bet he'd be stumped! Good land! I don't believe I'll ever get out of this hole. I'll not be able to pay off the mortgage now that my boarders have all left, and what shall I do?"

Miss Ducey forgot all about the black automobile as she tramped back to the house. Absorbed in her own troubles, she cared not what became of the mysterious machine. She did not even attempt to pursue the white hen that had stolen a nest somewhere toward the railroad, at the very edge of the orchard, among a heap of old, broken down wagons and the shed that crumbled on top of them years and years before.

"Likely as not the dratted critter's laying eggs on the railroad track and the trains are breaking 'em, and eggs 60 cents a dozen! If I don't have the worst luck!" groaned Miss Ducey pessimistically.

Mrs. Weems bustled in with a New York paper of the day before.

"I brought this over, Nettie; thought you'd like to see it. Did you see the car come back?" she asked eagerly.

Miss Ducey shook her head.

"Not a sign of it. Did you tell Mr. Weems?"

"Yes; as soon as he came in from lodge meeting. What do you suppose he said, Nettie?

"He just laughed and said if we wimmen didn't drink so much strong tea at night we wouldn't be imagining such things."

Mrs. Weems exchanged indignant glances with her friend and then departed to prepare dinner for her lord and master.

Nettie Ducey, who had no lord and master save the mortgage on the house—and she would have added the railroad for good measure, so strongly did she hate it—picked up the newspaper and read it from the scare head on the front page to the little advertisement of Linderholm's cough balm in the lower right hand corner of the last page.

And reading so conscientiously brought reward to Nettie Ducey, although she did not dream of it when she read a little item of news just above the cough balm advertisement:

"A large reward has been offered by Buffam & Jiggs, the jewelers, for the discovery of the valuables stolen from their shop last week. There is a quantity of solid silverware, gems worth many thousands of dollars, and the reward of $10,000 for the apprehension of the thieves and the recovery of the stolen property should attract the attention of all detectives, amateur and professional. It is believed that the job was accomplished with the aid of a motorcar."

"Ten thousand dollars reward!" groaned Miss Ducey, tucking the paper away. "One thousand dollars would be a whole lot to me. Wish I lived where things were going on. Nothing ever happens at the end of a blind street. I declare, if that white hen ain't cackling again!"

She tied a veil over her sandy hair and darted out to the orchard and beyond the fruit trees to a little grove of young locusts that had grown up around the heap of broken down wagons.

Miss Ducey poked around in the rank grass, now flattened in a peculiar way. Certainly those were the marks of wheels.

How did they come there? Were they the tracks of the black automobile? Nettie Ducey ran to and fro like a hound on the scent, and in fifteen minutes she had discovered the mystery of the motorcar that disappeared at the end of Block street every night.

From Block street the machine turned into the lot beyond her orchard, and some one must have been there to carefully obliterate all traces of its passing. Through the lot it had gone to the farthest confines. A fence rail had been lowered and replaced, and, lo, the machine had aped through another vacant lot into a street that ran parallel with Block street and so disappeared.

"Ha!" cried Miss Ducey, just like a great detective who has made a marvelous discovery. Then she added in a puzzled tone, "But what in time does any man want to cut such capers for?"

After awhile, finding this question unanswered, Miss Ducey went back to the heap of old wagons and nosed around in search of the white hen's stolen nest. She crept down on all fours and jeopardized life and limb among the weather worn vehicles, but there was no sign of the hen's nest.

Miss Ducey sat down on the grass under her father's old buggy and rested.

"I'll have a spell of rheumatis after this!" she groaned, bowing her head in her hands.

Presently she lifted her head and looked up at the bottom of the box body of the old buggy under which she sat. Her gaze became fixed on something bright that was wedged in a crack. She put up a hand and pulled, and down into her lap there tumbled a silver spoon—a solid silver teaspoon!

Nettie Ducey scrambled out from under the buggy and peered under the lifted lid of the box. In order to do this she had to raise the decaying hood of the vehicle.

In the box was what looked like a pile of dirty canvas. Nettie Ducey investigated and discovered that they were bags filled with solid silverware, and a small leather bag containing jewelry hastily huddled together.

It was the hidden loot of thieves!

What thieves? Why, the ones she had read about in the paper, of course! Ten thousand dollars reward! Almost any of her modest dreams might come true—she might take a trip to Washington some day!

Nettie Ducey never ran so fast in all her life as she did when she left the rubbish pile in the lot behind the orchard.

At last she reached the constable's office, where she poured out her marvelous tale, exhibited the newspaper and before witnesses laid claim to the reward. The constable telephoned to the city police, and then he swore in a score of deputies.

Constable Bigley, accompanied by Nettie Ducey and trailed by twenty deputies all armed to the teeth, swarmed up Block street, through Nettie's orchard to the rubbish pile.

And when the constable and his men had brought out the missing stuff and identified it beyond doubt as that belonging to Buffam & Jiggs Miss Ducey told them the story of the motor ghost and showed them the mysterious tracks across the lots to the parallel street, establishing beyond a doubt that the black car was the vehicle of the thieves and that the cleverness of the observing spinster had resulted in her finding the hiding place of the thieves.

The city police arrived by an afternoon train, and at night, when the motor ghosts essayed another mysterious flight through Block street, they met a warm welcome.

It was a happy day when Nettie Ducey met Messrs. Buffam & Jiggs in their palatial offices and received the promised reward. There was money enough to make her comfortable the rest of her life and to help many of her relatives and friends, and that was what Miss Ducey had always wanted to do, only she couldn't afford it. She didn't sell the cottage after all, but she rented it and went to live in a quieter street.

When Miss Ducey took the trip to Washington Mrs. Weems and her husband went along as her guests, and it is a matter of interest to note that Mr. Weems handsomely apologized for his remarks concerning "tea drinking wimmin," "because," he added suavely, "if you and Annie hadn't indulged in strong tea and sat up late at night you would never have discovered that there motor ghost, and we wouldn't be sitting here now."

And Miss Ducey and her friend were so happy that they didn't care a bit because Mr. Weems had the last word after all.

Useless Noise.

Hargis was lying on the couch very ill. The servant in the next room knocked down some dishes with a tremendous clatter. Hargis' nerves were quite unstrung, and he called out in a rage:

"I suppose you have broken all the plates?"

"No," replied the servant meekly, "there isn't one broken."

"Well, then," growled the enraged invalid, "why did you make all that noise for nothing?"

Progress.

"My wife knew nothing of housekeeping to begin with, but she's learning fast."

"That's encouraging."

"Oh, she's a bright little woman, if I do say it! It has taken only two cooks to teach her to keep away from the kitchen, and I suppose that's at least half the battle."

Which Is Some Distance.

"You are a relation to the Richleighs, aren't you?"

"Yes, a distant relation."

"How distant?"

"Well, as distant as they can keep me."

The Passing Face.

Where are the ears of yesterday?
Her hair has hid them all away.
Those shell-like ears I once adored,
In whose pink curves my vows I poured.
To hirsute wads I cannot pray.
Where are the ears of yesterday?

Some one, I think, should interfere,
Lest other features disappear.
Next year perhaps eyes will be gone,
Then chins, then noses won't be worn,
Until regretfully we say,
"Where is the face of yesterday?"

Thought She Would Go Mad WITH HEADACHE.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to remove the cause, for with the cause removed the headache vanishes for all time. Headache powders just relieve for the time being, but what is necessary for a permanent cure is something that will go right to the seat of the trouble. For this purpose it is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of all descriptions than Burdock Blood Bitters, acting as it does on every organ of the body to strengthen, purify and regulate the whole system.

Mrs. Althea Bowman, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I have suffered terribly with my head for weeks at a time till I thought I would go mad. A friend advised me to give Burdock Blood Bitters a trial, so I got a bottle and found relief. I have used four bottles in all and I am glad to say that I have had no more headaches since. I would advise all sufferers to give it a fair trial."

A CONSTANT MENACE.

The Game of Chance Played by the Ocean Liners.

The presence of ice is a constant menace to the navigator. Its movements, often fairly rapid when propelled by wind and current, make its position always uncertain. One ship may see immense fields of ice which another, passing over the same route a few days later, may never encounter. Only those who have stood on the bridge of an Atlantic liner with her officers on a dark night when in the region where ice may appear can appreciate the anxiety of those tireless men, who know that collision with even a small floating ice mass means damage to the ship. The small masses called "growlers" often mean great danger. They float low in the water, leaving little above to be seen by the lookout.

Arctic ice is of great solidity and very irregular in shape. Frequently it presents sharp edges which can cut the plates of a ship, shear off rivets or drive a hole through the bottom as readily as a steel knife. The game of chance is therefore played by every ship that speeds through the ice area at night or in a fog.

To those skippers who have had many years of experience in navigating its presence is made known by a number of effects. Before ice can be actually seen there is a peculiar whiteness observed around the berg on a dark night, except in the case of dark bergs. Mariners call this the ice "blink." It is caused by the reflection of the scattered rays of light from the sky by the white surface of the berg. Thus it is a contrast between the black surface of the water, which reflects none of the light, and the ice, which scatters nearly all of it. A dark berg is one casting a shadow toward the ship When the light comes more strongly from any particular part of the sky the iceberg often cannot be seen in certain directions, while clearly visible by the ice blink in others. This is said to be the reason why the officers of the ill-fated Titanic did not see the berg soon enough to stop.

As ice is approached, too, the temperature of the air usually falls and the mariners describe a peculiar damp cold, as distinguished by the cold caused by a change of wind. Icebergs are sometimes detected, also by the echo from the steam whistle or fog horn. Then they are frequently heard for many miles by the noise they make in breaking up or falling to pieces. The cracking of the ice or the fashing of huge chunks into the sea cause a noise like distant thunder.

Yet despite all these ways of discovery, the presence of ice during certain seasons is a constant menace to those who cross the sea, as the wreck of many a good ship goes to prove.

Radway's Ready Relief
Chas. H. Bittner, 27 E. 17th St., writes: "For years I have been suffering from asthma and bronchitis. A week ago I purchased a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief and have taken it frequently in water before retiring each night. The relief I have experienced is marvellous. I most heartily indorse R. R. R."
CURES ASTHMA
The specifics for this disease are the Ready Relief, the Resolvent and Radway's Pills. The Relief must be rubbed on the chest and throat until a burning sensation is produced, and the Pills must be taken frequently, to keep the bowels thoroughly open. The Resolvent must be given at short intervals, in small doses, and a determination on retiring reported. Give a teaspoonful of the Resolvent whenever a paroxysm occurs. RADWAY & CO.

Broke It Gently.

A miner got killed and a tactful associate was delegated to break the news to the widow. So the tactful fellow called at her house and said:

"With your golden hair, blue eyes and pink and white complexion, ma'am, you'd break every heart in town if you were widow's weeds."

The young woman laughed and blushed for pleasure.

"Oh, go on," she said.

"And you are a widow, too," said the tactful miner quickly, seizing his chance. "Bill's head and legs and arms was just blown off in an explosion. But you're goin' to look good in black, though!"

Ancient Posters.

It is probably the general impression that posters and handbills are modern inventions, but it has been discovered that the ancient Romans practiced this method of advertising. In digging at Herculaneum there was brought to light a pillar covered with bills, one on top of another. The paste used to stick them was made of gum arabic. The bills, when separated and examined, were found to be programs and announcements of public meetings and even election proclamations.

DUKE OPENS TOUR.

Series of Western Ontario Visits Begins In Windsor.

WINDSOR, May 6.—For the first time since 1860 Windsor entertained royalty yesterday in the person of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, and his daughter, the Princess Patricia. The welcome of the city was a whole-hearted one. The weather, which in the early morning hours was threatening, broke towards noon, and the sun shone out bright and warm. It was an ideal afternoon, and the streets of the city were thronged by a gaily dressed crowd, in which Canadians and Americans fraternized democratically.

The formal proceedings were opened by Mayor Clay, who read a brief address of welcome on behalf of the municipalities of Windsor, Walkerville, Sandwich, Ford City, and Ojibway.

Following the civic address, Hon. J. O. Reaume, Commissioner of Public Works for Ontario, read an illuminated address in French, expressing the welcome, the thanks and appreciation of the French-Canadian people of Essex.

The Duke of Connaught then replied to both addresses, speaking in English and later in French.

MUST CUT RATES.

Hydro Commission Insists On Obedience From Toronto.

TORONTO, May 6.—Hydro-electric rate reduction in Toronto has won out. After a controversy extending since last November, an order was issued yesterday by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for a reduction of rates to consumers of all classes approximating 10 per cent., to take effect June 1 next.

While the officials of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission were entirely non-committal on the events connected with the final passing of the order; it is generally understood that the situation arising out of the refusal of the Toronto Hydro-Electric Commissioners to carry out the recommendations contained in the letter of Hon. Adam Beck of Nov. 14 last, engendered much bitterness. For some time the matter was in statu quo, and then about six weeks since a conference was arranged between the Hydro-Electric Power Commission and representatives of the local commission to go into the question. That conference was anything but harmonious, and on its conclusion the local Hydro-Electric Commission undertook to submit data to back up their contention against a reduction of rates. This statement was received about ten days go and there was another meeting of the commission which was characterized by more fireworks.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

George J. Thorp was notified of his appointment as collector of customs for the port of Guelph yesterday. He succeeds the late Jeremiah Hallett.

Alex. Marriott, 36 Palmer avenue, Toronto, died yesterday from a broken neck received when thrown from a wagon he was driving Monday afternoon.

The Thorold assessors have returned a population of 4,784 for the town, which makes the aggregate population for St. Catharines, Merritton and Thorold 23,500.

An explosion yesterday morning at the Government of Panama dynamite magazine resulted in the killing of eight persons. Nineteen others were seriously injured.

Joseph Frechette of St. George De Windsor met his death while trying to save his hired man from the dwelling house which was on fire. The man had already escaped.

Kathleen Robb, the pretty St. Thomas girl, who was charged with attempting to defraud banks in Toronto, was yesterday found guilty and released on suspended sentence.

Three hundred Bulgarians, who joined in the exodus from Canada at the time of the Balkan war, returned to Toronto yesterday, and were welcomed by their fellow-countrymen.

In an endeavor to create interest in potato growing, the County of Frontenac Board of Trade has arranged a contest which will be conducted by C. Mains, B.S.A., and for which the board will provide the prize money.

HYDRO RATES GOES DOWN.

Guelph Gets the Benefit of a Ten Per Cent. Reduction.

TORONTO, May 6.—Consumers of Hydro-electric power in Guelph will profit by a reduction of ten per cent., which was decided upon at the meeting of the provincial commission last evening. This has been under consideration for some time, and the announcement was made by Hon. Adam Beck that a lowering of rates in that municipality was due.

In addition, arrangements were completed to set at work gangs of construction men at different points in western Ontario. The points which will be centres of activity in the near future include Port McNicol, Strathroy, Waubashene, Tilbury and Creemore.

The rates of several municipalities in the Niagara district were fixed by the board after investigation of conditions. These include the townships of Lough, Pushinch and Muscoing.

She complained of darkness, became unconscious and died before a physician arrived at her father's house. Her death was caused by a hemorrhage of the brain, due to excitement.

SEVERE BRONCHIAL COUGH

Doctors Feared Lung Trouble, Restored to Health by Vinol.

The medical profession does not believe that lung taroubes are inherited but a person may inherit a weakness or tendency to them.

Mrs. Kate Heckman, Springfield, Ohio, says: "A few years ago I was in a very bad run-down condition, and the physician told me I had consumption. I tried another physician, and he told me I had ulcers on my right lung. I quit the physicians and started on 'Vino.' To-day I am perfectly healthy, and that is why I recommend 'Vinol'."

Vinol soothes and heals the inflamed surfaces and allays the cough. Vinol creates an appetite, strengthens the digestive organs and gives the patient strength to throw off incipient pulmonary diseases.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

Objections Overruled.

OTTAWA, May 6.—The Dominion Railway Commission, yesterday afternoon, overruled the four chief objections made by the city to the Toronto Union Station plans.

In giving judgment it was ordered that the work go on as originally drafted.

Work must commence at the earliest possible moment. The contract, if let by units, is to be started within thirty days; if "en bloc," within ninety days.

Cut Spine; Cord Not Hurt.

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—By an operation so delicate that a slip of a hairs-breadth would have meant death, the life of James Keith, a student in the medical department of Jefferson College, has been saved. Three vertebrae were removed without injury to the spinal cord to relieve the pressure of a broken rib. Keith is recovering. He had fallen out of a second-storey window.

Sold Liquor To Indians.

CORNWALL, May 6.—Joseph Lafaivre of Martown, who has been under the eye of the police for some time, was arrested by Officer Crites yesterday on a charge of supplying liquor to Indians. He was brought before Police Magistrate Davis and fined $50 and costs or three months in jail.

Webster's Home Squadron.

A few days before his death Daniel Webster wished to leave his sickroom once more to look upon the little paradise which his taste had adorned about his mansion. Dressing himself with the utmost care, he went through the house on the arm of a servant and finally reached the library. The night before there was a terrific storm, and the great statesman expressed solicitude for the safety of the fishermen off the coast. As he looked from the window his eye fell upon a number of pleasure boats which had been moored to a little mound in the artificial pond in the rear of the house. "Well," said he, "the home squadron is safe. I think I will go back." It was his last playful remark. He never left his room again.

Quick Change.

"I would rather see my daughter married to a poor man whom she really loved than to the richest man in the world if she didn't care for him."

"Well, you get your wish. I saw her about ten minutes ago eloping with one of your underpaid clerks."

"Good heavens! Where? Speak, man! Maybe I can head them off before it is forever too late!"—Chicago Herald.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Raw Meat Juice Cure.

Professor Charles Richet, to whom the Nobel prize for medicine was awarded last year, declares that if a person suffering with tuberculosis will go to a slaughter house daily and drink the fresh juice extracted from eight or ten pounds of raw beef he will be cured within three years.

FREEZING HOT.

Where Ice Was Once Used to Warm Things Up a Bit.

Keeping things warm with ice sounds absurd, but it is now becoming an established practice. Eggs—and other perishable goods that would be ruined by freezing during shipment in the winter—are often kept good during cold snaps by placing ice with them in refrigerator cars. Why it works in this manner no one positively knows. At the last congress on refrigeration this queer freak was brought up for discussion and a few theories were offered.

One man told of shipping two carloads of eggs last winter on the same day by the same route to the same destination and in similar cars. One car was packed thoroughly with straw to keep the eggs from freezing and ice was placed in the other car with no straw. There was severe cold weather during the railroad trip, and when the destination was reached it was found that none of the iced eggs had frozen, but most of the eggs protected by straw were spoiled by the cold.

An Ohio engineer offered the opinion that, with ice in a car, the air mixes less with the outside freezing air through crannies and so keeps a low—but not too low—temperature fairly constant.

Though ice never gets above 32 degrees in temperature and hence can have no direct heating effect, he suggested that the peculiar qualities of ice may cause it to absorb surrounding cold in a house. Another opinion offered was that, with ice in a car, the air inside the car circulates freely, much more freely than without ice, and that freezing is hastened in moving air.—Saturday Evening Post.

English women who marry must still promise to "obey," the bishops having taken no action to modify the marriage service. But it is still possible for British wives to go on domestic hunger strikes or adopt other militant methods.

The Paper Knife.

Perhaps the earliest mention of a paper knife on record is that in Swift's work (1755): "I said to Lord Bolingbroke that the clerks in his office used a sort of ivory knife with a blunt edge to divide a sheet of paper, which never failed to cut it even, only requiring a strong hand, whereas if they should make use of a sharp penknife the sharpness would make it often go out of the crease and disfigure the paper."

Living Rent Free.

In Sydney street, Chelsea, England, people are living rent free. But this is not the only place so distinguished. When the lease of a house in parts of England is running out the owner sometimes finds it more economical to abandon his property and avoid paying the ground landlord £500 or so on which are termed dilapidations. Meanwhile the tenant lives happily without a landlord. Some houses are formation even when the leases are not expiring. Here the explanation is that the owners are mortgaged up to the extreme limit. If tax rates go up and rents go down there is no balance left to maintain the property and so it is not worth keeping. Should the property require heavy expenditure for repairs the mortgagees refrain from claiming it. Occasionally, too, owners die, leaving no one to succeed them, and then tenants with sufficient audacity can live low and "quiet" until twenty years' undisturbed possession gives them permanent ownership.

Picked the One Fitting Word.

In the opinion of fastidious judges as well as in that of the public John Bright was the best parliamentary speaker of his day. He had all the physical attributes of a great orator, including a splendid voice. His diction, drawn largely from the English Bible and Milton, was further enriched by a knowledge of all the great English poets, and his most recent biographer, George Macaulay Trevelyan, claims for him the additional distinction of an intuition for the right word that was almost unerring.

In the house of commons at the crisis of the Catmesh war Bright daringly said:

"The angel of death has been abroad throughout the land; you may almost hear the beating of his wings."

He carried it off triumphantly, but Cobden afterward said to him:

"If you had said 'flapping' the house would have laughed."

Curious Ball Play.

A ball club in a regular game made six hits in one inning, one of them a triple, and yet not a single run crossed the plate. This terrific bombardment with freakish result was pulled off in the first inning of the game. The first man to face the pitcher smashed the ball to the corner of the lot for a triple and was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch his hit into a home run. The second batsman swatted a single and, like his predecessor, tried to make an extra base and was heaved out at second. The third batsman and the fourth and fifth also singled, filling the bases. The sixth man at the plate hit the ball between first and second base, and the runner who had been on first was hit by the batted ball, retiring the side without a run scoring.—Chicago Tribune.

Ever Eat It?

There is a dish of the olden time that has been crowded almost out of memory by the restless tide of common events. It was a cold weather food that came with the snow and hog killing time and then vanished with the angry clouds and howling winds.

When one ate it the green grass melted away the snow, the birds sang in the blossoming cherry trees and old frigid winter became the middle of May. It was so easy to eat. It melted in the mouth like ice cream, it was so soft and delicate. Let a person fully satisfy his appetite on it, and he could go out in zero weather and enjoy a tropical blooming. This food did not last long, for it was part of an event that soon hurried by, and this was a grateful dispensation, too, for a person would be apt to eat too much of it if it lasted long. But it is well it passed away. This degenerate generation, filled with caramels and angels' food, couldn't appreciate it. But in those beautiful days before the war it was a beloved diet. We refer to hogshead cheese.—Ohio State Journal.

UNIONISTS ARE DIVIDED OVER HOME RULE

Bonar Law and Carson Trying to Bring About Settlement But the Die-Hards Still Plan Opposition.

NO COMPROMISE, SAYS LONG

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., May 6.—Two diverse forces are working among the Unionists over the Ulster problem. The leaders, including Bonar Law and Carson, supported by a large section of the party, are honestly striving to bring about a settlement, and Asquith, sinking all personal considerations, yesterday met Bonar Law and Carson for the preliminaries of a survey of the steps towards peace. There are evidences, however, of recrudescence of activity by Unionist die-hards who are holding meetings and planning unifying opposition to Home Rule. Walter Long, speaking last night, echoed their views, saying, "Nothing would induce the leader of the Unionist party to make any compromise about Home Rule." So much uneasiness is still felt concerning the Nationalist's attitude that significance attaches to the fact that John Redmond took no part in yesterday's conference of the leaders. His friends say Nationalists are holding entirely aloof for the moment biding their time.

THE TERMS OF SURRENDER

"The Terms of Surrender," the Examiner's new serial story, which commences on Saturday, is widely different in theme from some other romances by Louis Tracey, but it is stepping in its hold upon the reader. Some very interesting characters are introduced and the situations are unusual and full of interest. The Examiner confidently prophesies that "The Terms of Surrender" will be voted one of the best serials that has appeared in these columns.

FOURTEEN MORE PICKED UP

Captain MacDonald and Thirteen of The Crew of the Columbian are Rescued By Steamer Manhattan

FEARED THIRTY LOST

Special to The Examiner:

SABLE ISLAND, May 6—A wireless message received here this morning from the steamship "Manhattan," reports that Captain MacDonald and thirteen of the crew of the burned steamer "Columbian" were picked up in an open boat, some so badly exhausted that death will probably ensue. They suffered terribly from thirst and hunger. This makes two boat loads picked up. There are two more adrift somewhere in the open Atlantic and half a dozen steamers are searching for them. It is feared at least thirty are lost.

TYPEWRITERS AT $7.50 A MACHINE

This is Price Board of Education Will Pay For Ten New Underwoods

Mr. John Crane suggested to the Board of Education last night that the offer of the Underwood Typewriter Company to supply 10 new machines to the Collegiate Institute, here, for $75, be taken up. He had been speaking to Mr. Jamieson, head of the commercial department of the Collegiate, and he was strongly of the opinion that it would be impossible to teach the pupils the "touch system" unless the machines were all of the same make. Heretofore there have been three makes of typewriter in use at the P. C. I., and these will be turned over to the Underwood Company, who will supply new ones at the rate of $7.50 each.

At the last meeting of the Board considerable opposition was offered to accepting the offer of the Company It was contended that the pupils should be taught to run more than one make of machine, and that it was the purpose of the Typewriter Company to secure a monopoly in the schools by offering the machines at such prices. Last night, however, the motion to accept the offer passed unanimously.

CIVIC RECEPTION TO ROYAL VISITORS

Committee Decided Last Night Upon Big Gathering in the Central Park.

REQUESTS SIMPLICITY

The Reception Committee of the City Council met last night to decide upon the details of the civic reception and entertainment for the occasion of the visit of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia.

Alderman Stratton presided, and those present were Mayor Buller, Aldermen Saunders, Dobbin, Duffus, Johnston, Colonel Clegg, Major Walker, Mr. B. D. Hall, Mr. A. Mowat and Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald.

The programme provided for three hours which will be spent in Peterborough. On arriving at the station the Governor-General will inspect the guard of honour. A reception committee will receive the ducal party and there will be a drive around the city in cabs or automobiles to enable the crowd to return to Central Park where the next item of the programme will be staged.

A civic address will be presented and a public reception held on a specially erected dais. Should the weather be unfavourable the address presentation and reception will be held in the armouries.

Afterwards there will be a trip over the Lift Lock and return to the train. The Royal party will dine in their cars on the way to Port Hope.

Committees Appointed.

To decide upon the route of the drive—Alderman Duffus, Alderman Johnston and Mr. Basil D. Hall.

Reception Committee — Alderman Johnston, Alderman Duffus, Colonel Clegg and Major Walker.

Preparation of platform, decorations, etc.—Alderman Saunders, Alderman Dobbin and Alderman Langford.

To consult heads of school children—Mr. Mowat, Major Walker, Mr. Fitzgerald.

To Decorate the City.

The Council will provide for the decorating of the streets, and will ask the Retail Merchants to join the Decorating Committee. The citizens will also be requested to decorate their residences.

It was also decided to ask the Dominion, Provincial and County authorities to decorate their premises for the occasion, and Mr. Killsly, of the local Trent Canal office, will be approached in regard to securing the Bessie Butler for the trip over the Lift Lock.

Colonel Clegg suggested that the Boy Scouts be given an opportunity to participate in the day's proceedings, and Rev. Mr. Sawers will be asked to provide for this feature.

At the Mayor's suggestion the first names in the above committees will be convenor, His Worship and Alderman Stratton are ex-officio members of each committee.

Children May Sing.

It was thought that the school children might be secured to sing several patriotic songs at Central Park at the commencement and conclusion of that part of the programme.

Alderman Stratton stated that Stratford was spending $1,100 on their decorations and entertainment. The city provides $500, the business men $600, but it is not likely that a large sum will be required for the local demonstration.

The street decorations will probably include an umber of arches, but this point will be decided by the particular sub-committee.

THE "MAPLE LEAF" BAND DISCOURSES SWEET MUSIC

There are many things—like the modest violet, "born to blush unseen"—or unheard. How few people appreciate the fact that twice, weekly an Alfresco Concert, of good quality, is given outside the Royal Theatre by the Maple Leaf Band, the members of which, under the able conductorship of Mr. A. Armitage, have been brought to a high pitch of musical attainment, and this is all free gratis and for nothing! It may not be generally known that this Band is open for engagements for picnics, moonlight excursions, garden parties, and entertainments of all kinds, by arranging with the Conductor at 186 King Street.

THE TEMPERANCE PEOPLE WORKING

Possibility of Early Provincial Election Makes Temperance People Get busy.

MEETING MAY 19th

In view of the possibility of an early Provincial election the temperance workers of Peterborough County are hard at work completing arrangements for the County Temperance Convention to be held in Peterborough on May 19. Efforts are being made to have practically every congregation and temperance organization in the county represented at this convention. The temperance sentiment of the county is known to be very strong as shown by the fact that only two municipalities in the county have any licenses.

While it cannot be predicted in advance what will be done at the Temperance Convention, it is anticipated that representative delegations will be appointed to wait on both the Liberal and Conservative nominating conventions to urge the appointment of candidates that will be acceptable to the temperance interests. Should both parties nominate candidates satisfactory to the temperance interests who will pledge themselves to vote for the abolition of the bar, the County Temperance Association will not take any part in the campaign. Should neither convention nominate suitable candidates the advisability of placing a third candidate in the field will then be considered. It will not be satisfactory to the Association to take a candidate agreeing to vote for the abolition of the bar if that candidate's personal record is not one which will create confidence in the fulfillment of such a pledge. It is generally felt that the character of the candidates will be as important as their platform.

REV. SILVESTER HORNE, M.P. President of the National Brotherhood of Council of England, who dropped dead on the steamer "Corona" just after the vessel entered Toronto harbour. He was on his way to address a mass meeting of the Brotherhood in Canada at Metropolitan Church, and to appear before several other organization, but in every case the services were turned into memorial services. The result of death was due to overwork and a weak heart. The remains are being taken to England by Mrs. Horne and friends.

HUERTA AND VILLA ARE OUT

Constitutionalist General Announces His Intention of Marching on Mexico City at Once

HAS STRONG FORCE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORREON, Mexico, May 6.—All peace negotiations between Huerta and Villa are off and Villa no longer recognizes Carranza as his Chief, but will run his own show. Yesterday Villa reviewed ten thousand of the best men of the Constitutional Army and said it was his intention to capture Saltillo, immediately, and push on to Mexico City, so that if the United States marched into the Capita at any subsequent date, it would be Villa's Constitutionalists they would have to deal with, not Huerta's Federals. Villa's force seems well provisioned and ready for a big fight.

Children Must Go To School

Three Mothers Appear in Police Court To-day

James Smith, who claimed he hailed from Toronto, and was here on a visit, was charged before Magistrate Dumble this morning, with being found drunk in a public pace. Smith caimed that he was only partially under and was creating no nuisance, but merely walking up street when he was arrested. His Worship thought that if the man could afford to come here on a visit, he could afford to pay a fine of $2, and that forthwith, or, if he chose, he could pay a visit to the hotel on the hill for ten days.

Charles of Glengarry.

Charles Knight, a knight of the road, a tinker and umbrella mender, was charged with being drunk, yesterday. He pleaded guilty but, like everyone who is brought before the authorities in a strange place, said he had never made such a fool of himself before. P. C. Hayward made the arrest and fairly had to carry the man to the Station, so helpless was his condition.

Send Children to School.

Three women were charged with neglecting to send their children to school. It was stated that one of them had to be taken every time, and he was a lad of thirteen years. Such conditions, said the Magistrate, would have to cease to exist. It was decided that the children must bring a report to Chief Thompson every week, and if they defaulted, the parents contented that the authorities might deal with them. Magistrate Dumble, in one case, said it was the fault of the parent, in not having mastery over the child. If they continued running away from school like this, he said, disregarding the education, which is given free, the result would be that they would grow up in ignorance and would eventually lead a criminal career. Judgment was reserved.

NIAGARA FALLS IS TICKLED

Examiner Special.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 6.—This little city is already sticking its chest out in anticipation of being the birthplace of the treaty of Niagara Falls, which is to ward off war between the United States and Mexico. Great preparations are being made for the reception and entertainment of the Argentine-Brazil-Chici mediators who, according to the morning's despatches are to meet here to adjudicate the vexed point of saluting the flag, etcetera. The city is prepared to offer its City Hall or any other public buildings for the use of the mediators, but it is expected that Clifton House will be used for the accommodation of the distinguished visitors and their meetings.

THE TRIAL OF LIEUT. BECKER

Justice Seabury Promptly Denied Application of Prisoner's Lawyers For A Change of Venue

PHOTOGRAPHERS BARRED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y. May 6.—Justice Seabury promptly and definitely denied the application by the lawyers for Lieut. Charles Becker for a change of venue in his second trial for the murder of Rosenthal. There will be no delay and the trial has already started. Crowds thronged the courthouse and admission was by secret ticket only. All the press photographers and other camera fiends were evicted from the building and Seabury promised a term in Jail for any who sneaked a photograph by any new-fangled pocket camera or teescopic device.

TO PURCHASE CAPS FOR LOCAL CADETS

P.C.I. Cay's Will Likely Take Part In Welcome to The Duke of Connaught

At the meeting of the Board of Education last night Mr. C. E. Jamieson waited upon the Board to suggest that steps be taken to provide the Cadets of the Collegiate Institute with caps to complete their uniforms. The Board has taken advantage of the Government grant for the purpose, to purchase uniforms for the Cadets, but the hats that came with the uniforms were merely paper ones and supplied only in the smaller sizes, so that they were not satisfactory. The matter of getting caps was more important in that he had been informed that the Cadets would in all probability be called upon to take part in the celebration and welcome to the Duke of Connaught on June 1st.

As a result of his request the Board decided to purchase caps for the Cadets, and the matter was left in the hands of the Chairman of the Supervision Committee with power to act. The caps will be ordered immediately and will cost, approximately a dollar each, and the outlay will be made up by the Government grant this year.

Big Time Vaudeville At Low Admission

Manager Clayton is Preparing a Special Programme at the Royal During All Next Week—Eight Vaudeville Acts

Before the alterations to the Royal Theatre are begun, Manager Clayton had decided to test whether the people of Peterborough want to see a good vaudeville circuit brought into Peterborough. To that end he has arranged for a programme of eight big time vaudeville acts for next week. They include the famous Dixie Minstrels, compriaing twelve people, and, in addition, a fine line of pictures will be shown. Mr. Clayton believes that vaudeville is wanted in this City, but has decided on a test week to get an idea of the public feeling. Next week will therefore be vaudeville week. A special matinee will be given each afternoon with the admission 10c, but the night show will be 20c. Remember the pictures will be the regular lines, and the eight vaudeville acts from Big Time will give a splendid entertainment.

DEMONSTRATION DRAWS A CROWD

Large crowds have attended the demonstration of the McClary gas ranges at Adamson and Dobbin's store which opened on Monday and closes to-day. The visitors were shown how the range does its work and were also given a chance to sample the baking done. There were many excellent points to admire in the McClarry range and this week's demonstration will have its results in a demand for this most useful household article.

CHIEF THOMPSON TO GIVE PAPER

Police Chief Thompson, is at present busily engaged writing a paper to be read at the Police Chief's convention in Winnipeg on June 23rd, 24th and 25th. CONSTITUTIONS.

The republic of China has a brand new constitution which replaces another. Made to order constitutions for republics, especially one like China, where the people are utterly unfit for self government, are necessarily defective. The only real effective and satisfactory constitution is that like the British constitution, which is a development, not a manufacture. It works satisfactorily, because it is the result of experience; every article of it has had and stood test. It is just about as feasible for man to undertake the making of a two hundred year oak tree as of a stable, national constitution. The tree has come through centuries of stress and trial, and the storms that have beat upon it have only served to fix its roots more deeply in earth. Constitutions are a good deal like ourselves. We will not learn from the precepts, examples and experience of others. It is only the hard lessons of personal experience we lay to heart. A constitution that has suffered all sorts of trials and grown strong under them is the one that lasts, that works without patching. It may grow by small accretions like the cambium layer of the oak, but essentially at heart and in spirit it always stands the strain.

PREACHING AND PRACTICE.

When Premier Borden was in opposition he was a valiant champion of purity in politics, of straight, honest government. When he got power to put his virtuous theorems into practice he did, and is doing, exactly the opposite. The civil service has never suffered such bedevilment, such prostitution to party purposes as under Mr. Borden; the most corrupt by-elections in history have been conducted under Mr. Borden's rule. He declared the public expenditure under Sir Wilfrid Laurier was so extravagant as to be prima face evidence of corruption. Yet Mr. Borden has with lessening revenue, virtually, more than doubled the public expenditure in three years. Under Mr. Borden, party favourites have been allowed to make big profits in deals at the expense of the public. The latest case is brought out in the Public Accounts committee. A prominent Conservative in Fort Frances, was employed by the Borden government as purchasing agent for a post office site. He purchased two lots, which cost him, net, $8,350. Instead of being honest and turning them over to the government at the real value, plus a reasonable commission, he sold them to the government at $16,500, a genuuine cent per cent. profit that Shylock would have been ashamed to take. This was a repetition in principle, if not in amount, of the robbing of the public treasury to enrich a political favourite, in the purchase of the Dorval military site. A friend of the government bought property for $84,986, and when the government wanted it for a military site, he knew what to charge, for the Minister of Militia had announced that the government would pay $180,000 and the government paid its favourite, Major Rodden, $180,000, for what had cost him a fortnight before $84,986, considerably more than cent per cent. profit. These are some of the ways the money goes. They account in part for the extraordinary growth of the public expenditure. In 1911, the last full year of the Laurier government, the public disbursements on every count, amounted to 122 millions. Mr. Borden said this was extravagance, so great as to be prima facie evidence of corruption. Under the economical Borden government, only two short years later, the total expenditure for 1913-14 jumped to 251 millions, more than doubled, in two years. What a world of difference there is between preaching and practice!

SHOULD CONFINE THE SALE OF CIGARETTES

Sheriff of Montreal Thinks Cigarette Selling Should Be Confined To Licensed Tobacco Dealers

OTTAWA, May 6.—The Special Committee of the House of Commons which is considering Andrew Broder's Cigarette bill this morning, had before it as witness Dr. Lemieux, Sheriff of Montreal. Dr. Lemieux dealt at length with the evil effects on the health of the people who use tobacco to excess. He emphasized the belief that cigarette selling should be confined to licensed tobacco sellers. They should not be sold in corner grocery stores. Dr. Lemieux said that no serious attempt was being made to enforce the anti-cigarette law to-day. He was not in favour of the proposal as contained in Broder's bill to abolish entirely the manufacture and sale of cigarette. He did not think that public opinion was strong enough to ensure the enforcement of such a law. The remedy was to be found in the regulation and education.

PARLIAMENT MAY ADJOURN

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 6.—Parliament may be adjourned for the Ontario Provincial campaign. The government and its followers find themselves in a peculiar situation. The Ontario elections are coming on. Seventy-two of the leaders of the Conservative party or province are Federal members. They feel that they must take part in the campaign, but cannot conveniently do so while parliament is sitting. The recently disclosed measures are of such importance that the cannot be hurried and can hardly be abandoned. The government must see that they go through and the opposition must see that they are thoroughly discussed. Therefore an adjournment over the month of June and resumption of sittings in July is suggested.

EXTRAS ON NEW SCHOOLS LOWEST FOR MANY YEARS

Members of Board of Education Were Satisfied That Sums Allowed Contractors Are Very Reasonable.

A CYCLONE SESSION

The grinding done by the committees of the Board of Education since the last meeting enabled the Board to put through the business in one reel last night. There were present Dr. Eastwood, Messrs. Hill, Crane, and Smith, Dr. Burnham and Col. Miller.

Communications.

A letter was received from Mr. S. B. McCrady of the Educational Department, calling the attention of the Board to the question of introducing the subject of agriculture into the Schools.

It was pointed out that there was a growing feeling in the Province in high and continuation schools, particularly those catering largely to rural communities, and further that there is a need for readjustment in the programme of studies which will bring to country people at large (and other people, too) instruction in matters that vitally concern them, such as the subject of agriculture.

The work has been commenced this year in the schools of Arthur, Drayton, Essex, Ridgeway, Vankeeks Hill, and Weston.—Referred to the Supervision Committee.

Miss Blanch Hales of Millbrook applied for a position on the Public School staff. Miss Clara G. Adams of 50 Rochester Street, also wrote requesting a similar appointment should vacancies occur.

The attendance at the P. C. I. was reported as follows:

BRISK BUSINESS IN REAL ESTATE

As an evidence of the brisk movement in real estate in Peterborough, it is learned that Messrs. A. Brown & Co., during the past week, have sold five houses, seven lots and one farm. This live real estate firm are not anxious to do any boasting, but this record of transactions within so short a period, looks like "going some." Evidently their advice has been much sought after, and their judgment has influenced the closing up of these properties promptly. Several of these transactions have been handled so skilfully that they have four of their clients moving today as a result of their shrewd arrangements.

KATHLEEN ROBB IN TORONTO TO IMPROVE HER ART

A stay of a day and two long nights in the Toronto jail, and the severity of Police Magistrate Denison in convicting Kathleen Robb, the St. Thomas girl, of attempting to defraud banks, is her punishment. The girl's father and mother arrived in the city and supplied the money to bail her from jail Monday evening, and they were in the Women's Court yesterday morning.

The charge against her, which was laid by the three banks involved, concerned three clerks, through whom cheques had been passed. None of these appeared in court, and no representative of the banks was present. For the prisoner, who was not capable of speech, her counsel, Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., pleaded guilty on each court, and elected to be tried summarily by Colonel Denison.

"There was no real intent to defraud," pleaded Mr. Robinette. "This young girl is an artist, and had sent several water-colours to New York, where they had been purchased for $58. She needed this money, and had received a letter from the purchasers, saying a cheque would be sent on immediately. The total amount of her cheques was within the $58,

MISS KATHLEEN ROBB, the St. Thomas girl, who has been accused of defrauding several Toronto banks. She said she knew the manager of the bank. The pay-tellers who were victimized preferred to pay the amounts of the cheques than to let it be known that they were victimized by Miss Robb's good looks.

and she knew she could cover it immediately."

"We cannot allow that kind of thing," said Col. Denison. "If she is not punished it will encourage this in other people. We must protect the banks. It was too well thought out."

Says She Didn't Understand.

"But she didn't realize what she was doing," said Mr. Robinette. "She knew her parents were behind her and she didn't understand."

"You mean she is insane?" returned the Colonel. "Well, in that case she had better be locked up in the asylum."

The girl, dissolved entirely in misery, placed her head on the table, and sobbed quietly while her mother came over from the side of the room, and stood with a hand on her daughter's shoulder.

"Why did you let her come away from home?" enquired the judge.

"We thought she would have better advantages for her art study," said the mother, a gentle-faced, grey-haired woman with dark eyes. "We thought her strict training at home would keep her from ever going astray."

As her mother's voice broke unevenly on the words, the daughter moaned wtih her face still buried. Most of the local visitors and some friends of the family contributed to the general misery of the scene.

Hard on Artistic Temperaments.

After some scathing words from Colonel Denison on artistic temperaments, helped out by Crown Attorney Corley, the sentence was pronounced.

"She did not realize her position on Saturday," said Mr. Corley. "She appeared to consider that there shouldn't be any trial at all. She thought she hadn't committed any offence, because she had money and her father had money. Now she realizes that she has committed a grievous error. She seemed then to think we were ill-treating her."

"Yes; that is a habit they have," commented the Colonel. "They think everyone is against them. You will be remanded for sentence until called on."

Even the unfortunate drink victims on the prisoner's bench appeared relieved. Miss Robb rose, buried her head on her mother's shoulder, and was led still crying from the room. Restitution has been made by the girl's parents.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CHARLOTTE STREET W.M.S.

Annual Report Showed That The Society Has Had a Busy and Most Successful Year

OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church met yesterday afternoon in the Guild Room of the Church. The meeting was opened with a most impressive prayer by Mrs. T. J. Mansell.

The annual report prepared by Mrs. J. K. Moore, as follows, was read by Mrs. Lane, Secretary protem.

The year just closed has been in some respects a banner year. Ten monthly meetings were held. After the summer vacation our esteemed and capable President, with members of the Executive, formed committees to conduct the study of one Text Book, "The King's Business." This study has been most intelligently conducted and enjoyed by the members. Each meeting was an inspiration, and those who took part felt doubly repaid for time spent in study. Some of the homes were kindly opened for our monthly meetings. Those were largely attended and a social half hour was spent at the close.

In October one district meeting was held in Millbrook. The reports were encouraging. At the evening session our sainted Rev. Mr. Mansell delivered an eloquent address on "Our Work." The address was pronounced the best ever heard on the subject in Milbrook. Since that event, our Auxiliary meetings were indeed a benediction. It certainly was our banner year until called upon to part with our dearly beloved Pastor, who frequently expressed the desire to have every lady in the Church a member of the W. M. S. Accordingly, a number of the members canvassed the membership of the Church, which resulted in the addition of 79 members, as a tribute of love to our departed Pastor and friend, "he being dead, yet speaketh."

Mrs. M. A. Morrison then referred in a few beautifully chosen words to the year's work, the spiritual progress, as well as the financial side being very atisfactory.

As a Society we realize that very much of our success, spiritual and otherwise, is due to the work of our President, who has proved such a worthy exponent of the "Beautiful Life." It is with deep regret that we are so soon and under such lamentable circumstances to be deprived of one who has been so true a guide, counsellor and friend. Mrs. Mansell has endeared herself to the women of our Church as few have done:

Her costliest present brought
To crown His head, o r grace His name,
No gift too rare, she thought.

The financial report was given by Mrs. Alum:

Average attendance, 45; annual members' fees, $153; life members' fees, $75; Rest fund, $6.65; Platt Memorial Fund, $5.85; Easter Thank offering, $79.46.

These amounts, supplemented by the Mission Circle and Band and other sources, make a total of $511.44 from a total membership of the three societies of 253.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. A. Parker.

First Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. C. Switzer.

Second Vice-President — Mrs. Joseph Walsh.

Recording-Secretary— Mrs. J. K. Moore, with assistant, Mrs. Thos. Cruikshank.

Cor. Secretary—Mrs. Mary S. Lyle.

Treasurer—Mrs. Allum, with assistant, Mrs. A. Clegg.

Supt. of Systematic Giving—Mrs. W. C. Austin.

Pianist—Mrs. Lightfoot.

President of Olive Mission Band—Mrs. A. F. Brooks, with assistant, Mrs. James Lillico.

Mr. A. F. Bookhout was appointed Auditor.

Mrs. Mansell, in retiring from the chair, thanked the Society for the kindness and hearty co-operation they had shown during her term of office.

Mrs. A. Parker, President-elect, brought an inspiring message, striking a keynote which should mean continued success for the coming year.

The Mission Circle under the leadership of Mrs. F. C. Neal, reports a good year's work. One very laudable feature was that nearly all the money raised has been straight giving on the part of the Circle members. The Circle provided an evening's entertainment at the Old People's Home, and also donated about twenty quarts of fruit to the institution.

A splendid box of children's clothing was finished and sent to Winnipeg All People's Mission.

They provided good cheer at the Christmas season. A successful food sale was held last fall, and later in the winter, an intructive evening, with lantern slides, was enjoyed.

The study of China has proved an educative feature of the year's work. The Circle numbers thirty, and has raised $67.

The Olive Mission Band was represented by the Misses Agnes Neil and Ethel Morrison, who gave most interesting and business-like reports of their work.

For convenience, the Band was divided early in the year into Junior and Senior, each taking up study books suitable to the ages of the members.

There are 75 names on the roll, 40 of these are annual members, 17 life members; the latter is an increase of 8.

The Band provided Christmas cheer for 85 children. They have also made talent money from the sale of cake, candy, etc. In April they realized $16 from a Talent Tea, given by eight of the Seniors at the home of Mrs. Robert Neil.

The total amount raised for the year was $95.

A WEDDING REPORT IS CORRECTED

Frobisher, Sask., April 28, 1914.

The Peterborough Examiner,
Peterborough, Ontario—

Dear Editor,—In a recent issue of your valued paper, there was an item published, an account of the wedding of Miss Margaret Miller, formerly of Keene, Ontario, to Mr. Russell Goodfellow, of Saskatoon, and the account stated that the wedding was in the new Presbyterian church, Frobisher. We wish to correct this very erroneous mistake.

No doubt the Examiner was misinformed, as there is no Presbyterian Church in Frobisher. This wedding was very pretty and was solemnized in the handsome new Union church of Frobisher. The ceremon was performed by the Rev. T. A. Munroe, B. A., who is the esteemed pastor. We would ask that this error be corrected, through the columns of your paper, as it is not desirable that our friends in the east should labour under false impressions. Doubtless the majority of the well informed people of our fair Dominion know that there is but one church in Frobisher, and that is, "The New Union Church," of which the Rev. T. A. Munroe, formerly of the city of Brandon, Manitoba, has been the able pastor since its organization five years ago.

But we take this oportunity of informing any of your readers who may not be so well versed in Church history.

Thanking you in advance for the printing of this article.

Respectfully yours,
"A Subscriber."

32 Children Sent Home

That in the past month thirty-two children have been sent home on account of their uncleanliness from the local Public schools is one interesting feature of the report presented by Miss E. P. Kennedy, school nurse, in her report to the Board of Education last night.

The number of inspections was 406.

Number advised to have medical attention, 33.

Number referred to dentists, 124.

Number referred to eye specialists, 43.

Number excluded for uncleanliness, 32.

A pupil's name was submitted for the recommendation of the Board to have his eyes tested, and glasses provided, as his family was not able financially, to give his boys the necessary attention. The matter was referred to the Supervision committee with power to act.

PETERBORO' APRIL 30th, 1914

W. H. HILL, Esq.,
Agt. for Fidelity & Casualty Co.,
of New York' Peterborough.

Dear Sir—

Re Policy $420186

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of the cheque of the Fidelity & Casualty Company of New York for the sum of $5000.00, being the amount of my claim for double liability under my policy in this company, arising out of the accident which resulted in the loss of the sight of my left eye. I wish you would be kind enough to convey to the Company my thanks and warm appreciation for the prompt and entirely satisfactory manner in which my claim under my policy has been settled in full.

It may be of interest to you to know that when I first took this accident policy in your Company it was due solely to the very friendly and cordial relationship that has always existed between your agent, Mr. George E. Elliott, and myself, but when I received the Company's cheque this morning, through your office, I was deeply impressed with the fact that I, in common with the vast majority of people, never before realized how prudent and important it is to carry an Accident Policy in a Company that settles so promptly, Yours faithfully,

Stray Shots From the Firing Line

As was shown in the orders issued by the officer comanding the 57th Regiment at the weekly drill held in the Armouries, or rather on the outside parade ground, last night, no more recruits, or at least no more recommendations for recruits who intend to take in the 1914 drill season will be accepted, last night being the latest date for any recommendations to be made.

This action is taken for the reason that recruits accepted after this date would not be efficient, in any way whatever, when they went to camp, and efficiency rather than numbers is the aim and oobject of the commanding officer of the 57th.

The parade slate showed that last night there were 305 of all ranks on parade. That is less than the records of last week showed, but the enthusiasm shown in the work, was more decided and pronounced than it has been for some time.

It is of course recognized that the time for drill on the nights set apart is limited and that only a certain amount of work can be done. Then, again, the men cannot be expected to be driven at the point of command, for two hours, without taking a rest. The officers recognise this fact, and allow ample time for the men to take their wind, and indulge in a quiet smoke, should they so desire.

It has been the aim of the officers of the 57th to get the young men of the City interested in military work, and it cannot be denied that they have succeeded and that in no small degree. As an instance, Capt. McPherson says that his men are almost all young fellows connected with the Y.M.C.A. and are most eager and enthusiastic about the work. He has, of course, one or two old hands. They join, he said, partly for the love of the thing and partly for the purpose of gaining military instruction and going to camp.

The following orders were issued last evening:

Orders by the Officer commanding 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers:

1. Leave of absence from parade is hereby granted to Major Bennett, Captain Hounsell and Lieutenant Hall.

2. Lieut. G. G. Lech is hereby transferred from F. to D. Company.

3. The regimental rifle ranges will be opened on Saturday, May 9th, for the season. Busses will be provided to convey men to these ranges, on Thursdays and Saturdays, leaving the Armouries at 1.30 p.m. Score cards, ammunition and rifles will be issued at the Armouries to all men who require them.

4. All recruit recommendation forms for men enlisting for the 1914 drill season should be forwarded to evening's drill. Men may be sworn in evening's drill. Men ma ybe sworn in later, but the forms should be in the office immediately.

5. The commanding officer has been pleased to make the following promotions.

C. Co. To be Lance Sergeant, Corporal Nichols. To be Corporal, Pte. Hartshorn: vice-corporal, Wm. Norrie, left limits.

D. Walker, Adjutant.

The opening of the rifle ranges will present unlimited opportunities to every man in the regiment, and it is up them to take adavntage of the opportunity thus presented. Last year, but few of the men were ever at the ranges, and Thursdays and Saturdays alike the same four or five could be noticed as being occupants of the busses provided free of charge.

The art of shooting is undoubtedly the most important part of the men's training, and the necessity of becoming efficient in the art, cannot be too strongly impressed upon all. Squad and company drill may be in line, but in case of actual warfare, where would our militia be, if they could not use the rifle to the very best advantage. They must be able to shoot straight. Among the great military authorities it is a generally recognized fact, that the body that can gain a cover, or a position five hundred yards from the enemy and direct a good aim at them is the victor.

Lt.-Col. Clegg himself, at the conclusion of the drill, spoke as to the importance of shooting, and urged not only the men, but also the officers, to see that they did not neglect the practice which it was possible for them to obtain. Though perhaps, somewhat inconveniently situated, the ranges are well adapted for such, both for minimum and maximum range shooting. As it is, and has been usual, prizes will be offered for shooting, and as it should be generally known by this time that practice makes perfect, the men are thrown entirely on their own metal.

The arrangement of the programme which will be followed during the time that the 15th Belleville Regiment is here on May 24, and 25, has not yet been definitely completed. The City Council have made a grant of $100 to help entertain them. On Sunday, May 24th there will be a Church parade, and probably a band concert in the afternoon and evening. Altogether an interesting occasion will be provided for the citizens. A trip over the lifelock is also anticipated as well as other forms of amusement.

As was announced in last night's Examiner a guard of honour will be expected on the occasion of the visit of the Governor-General, and Princess Patricia, to this City. Lt.-Col. Clegg announced this fact to the regiment last evening, and stated that volunteers would be called for for this work. He requested the officers of the companies to pick out their best, and smartest men, and have them report to the Sergeant Instructor at next Tuesday's parade, when he would make a selection of 100 men. Sergt. Instructor Dunkerley will then lick them into proper shape, so that they will be smart and efficient, when they are inspected. There is no doubt that a selection of 100 of the best will be made, who will reflect credit not only on the regiment, but on the whole City.

All the men are looking forward eagerly to the time for going to camp. This is one of the joys of a militia man's life and might well be so. During the past two or three years, the conditions have not been such as they might, but with the conveniences of a standing military camp, such as Petawawa, the arrangements are perfect in every sense. Food, and water have been the two main points which have proved disagreeable to the men before, but they can be assured that those conditions will not be met at Canada's largest training camp.

As was mentioned some time ago in these columns, Lt-Col. Clegg was asked to supply several sergeants to act as musketry instructors in camp. This is an honour to the regiment, as the authorities must have recognized that the non-coms of the 57th were efficient in musketry. It is understood that Col.-Sergt. Dodds, Col. Sergt. Sucee and Col. Sergt Dawes will be in attendance at Petawawa for two weeks, to act in the capacity requested.

Though, perhaps, not active at this season of the year, it is noticed that the officers of the artillery are deeply interested in the weekly parades held by the local regiment. Last night Col. Young of the 10th Brigade C.F.A. stated that the Battery had received orders to proceed to camp, on June the 13th, for 16 days. It is evident then that activities in that line will soon be in evidence. It is believed that the Brigade will go go to camp almost, if not at full strength. Applications from men with horses who are desirous of going to camp, are being received at the rate of three and four a day.

The usual March down George Street was diverted by another route last night owing to the paving operations on the main thoroughfare, and the people in another section of the City had the opportunity of hearing the bands and witnessing what was really a smart parade.

Sergt. Webb of the staff signalling corps gave the signalling corps some practical work in taking and transmitting messages, both by flag and lamp. The work in this department is progressing rapidly.

MAY ADMIT THE COUNTRY PUPILS

The proposal to revert to the old plan and allow country students to enter the Collegiate Institute without paying the present high fee was brought up at the Board of Education meeting last night by Mr. W. H. Hill. Mr. Hill said that by doing this the revenue from the country pupils would be doubled. All other Collegiates were doing the same thing, and there would be ample accommodation for the scholars from outside of the City. The proposal, said Mr. Hill, had been discussed a few years ago, but at that time the Institute was overcrowded and it would have been impossible to receive any outside pupils. For that reason no action was taken in the matter. If the Collegiate were opened to pupils all over the County the County would pay, according to the statutes, 80 p.c. of the total cost of maintenance per pupil. This would amount to more than double the present fee of $25.

Col. Miller also spok in favour of the scheme. Mr. Crane expressed the opinion that the County would have to pay 80 p.c. of the average total cost of the maintenance of all the Collegiate Institutes of the Province per pupil. The cost of maintenance per pupil had gone up much of late. The average cost per pupil of maintenance of the Institute of the province would be about $96.54. Eighty per cent. of that amount would be $80. So that the City would get about $80 per pupil instead of $25 as at present.

The matter was referred to the Supervision committee.

He pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and $9.81 costs. Taylor paid up.

He has appeared before the Court several times on different charges.

NEW SCIENCE MASTER AT THE COLLEGIATE

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, reported to the Board of Education last night that Mr. Holt, the new Science Master had taken up his duties, and that the gap caused by the resignation and departure of Mr. Firth had thus been filled. He also reported that Mr. H. H. Adamson, who recently received his degree at Queen's and who won the gold medal in mathematics, had been secured to take the place of Mr. W. L. Taylor, who has been seriously ill. It was necessary, as Mr. Adamson was not yet a duly qualified High School teacher to secure a permit for him to teach in the local School, from the Department of Education.

On the motion of Messrs. Hill and Eastwood Mr. Wilson Taylor, who is ill, was granted a month's leave of absence, and the Secretary was instructed to write at once to secure a permit for Mr. Adamson.

DUST AND AUTOMOBILES

"Centre Ward" Has Some Interesting Things to Say About Both

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It is all very well for Mayor Buller to suggest "a clean up day," but had he not better be consistent and set an example in his official duty, if he means what he says, by having our streets watered, without waiting until we have swallowed two months of dust before letting the contracts for that purpose; and even now the streets are only occasionally watered, and that too, in the most perfunctory manner.

How can we clean up, with the microbe ladened dust gaining access to every building and open space, and finding a lodgement in every recess and crevice therein.

I had occasion to go down Aylmer Street on Sunday evening, but had to retrace my steps before going far, owing to a black atmosphere of dust in which it was difficult to breathe, apart from its being charged with the deadly microbe; and so it was on other much travelled streets. And here let me say that it is also a source of danger as long as automobiles are allowed to go at such a terrific pace. One was going at the rate of thirty miles per hour at least, when it was impossible to see fifty yards ahead in the volumes of dust. Let a fatality happen as one certainly will before long, then the citizens will commence to advocate "Safety First," and dire punishment for the offender after the harm is done, as if we had no foresight. It is said, "Give a beggar a horse and he will ride to the d——l." This seems to apply with even more force to some of the automobile owners. For the special privileges which they enjoy, there should be a by-law compelling them to pay an annual license of at least ten dollars, and if, as is reported, there are two hundred automobiles here and that money were applied to the extension of the watered area, with a more constant supply of water, then there would be more equal handed justice, and a chance for one's life by breathing pure air.

"West-Ender" in your yesterday's issue writes along the same line, and there can be no doubt of the strong feeling of our citizens against the impositions referred to.

The press has done much to arouse the Council from its lethargy to a sense of duty, but the necessities of the case demand a still greater effort.

Yours truly,
..Centre Ward.

Big Doctor's Bill For Premier Whitney

That any newspaper should so far disregard the privacy of patient and physician as to publish the fact that Dr. Alexander McPhedran sent Sir James Whitney a bill for $6,750, and received a cheque in payment of $5,000 from Ontario's Premier, is resented both by Dr. McPhedran and Sir James Whitney. The members and others have discussed the size of the bill among themselves, and contrast this with the services of Hon. Dr. Pyne, who not only declined payment, but paid his own expenses while attending the Premier

IDEAL JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT

Accomplishment of Warne Bros' Ambition for Co-operative Establishments

Warne Bros., the progressive jewellers, 349 George Street, announce the completion of their important enlargements and improvements to their new "Diamond Hall," which have been in progress for some weeks past. The store, as completed, embraces the premises formerly occupied by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., as well as the compactly equipped "Diamond Hall" next to the Warne Drug Co. The result of these changes means a doubling of their former capacity, and the securing of one of the finest jewellery establishments between Toronto and Montreal.

The stock and interior as it is now presented in its entirety, will take precedence for effective display. The specially designed furnishings, show cases and silent salesmen of such an elaborate character as enhances the beauty and artistic effect of their attractive premises. A visit to this store will reveal to the critical taste a wealth of fascinating jewellery goods and dainty novelties of an extensively varied character.

The two show windows are admirably arranged for display demonstrations—the north window for presentation gifts and wedding presents, and the north window for fine jewellery. The newest show cases have been installed, making two circular end counters. Four handsome wall cases are used for sterling silver and cut glass, etc.

The store is fitted with prism lights which produces excellent light, and a fine, new metallic ceiling lends additional beauty. The floors are to be covered with a special design of linoleums. All the work has been executed by skilled artisans. Fitzgerald & Padget had the contract for the carpenter work; Grant & Thorpe for the electric wiring operations; and Mr. Howell the painting and graining.

"Some people never make a mistake because they never make a move"—other people never make a dollar for the same reason. Warne Bros. have had such a sense of security and confidence in their business that they have never hesitated to make the move essential to their growing business. And in the accomplishment of this their laudable ideals, their ambition, will doubtless receive full compensation.

Sanitary Inspector Required To Spend Hours at Incinerator When Regular Work is Busiest

From inquiries in regard to the working of the incinerator it is ascertained that a great deal of the Sanitary Inspector's time of late is required to superintend the firing of the incinerator with the result that his usual work at this time of the year can scarcely be given the attention it should receive. Not that the Inspector has voiced an objection, but to an observer of the situation the circumstances are rather apparent. The regular duties of the Inspector surely do not include the superintending of the firing of the incinerator. The fact that Mr. Spence has taken up this work indicates that he feels it is expected of him, and the attitude of the Council at the special meeting it held last week bears this fact out. The Council does look to the Sanitary Inspector for the supervision of the incinerator at the present time. And yet the City Engineer is given a certain authority through a motion passed at the same meeting. In short a certain responsibility is placed upon the Inspector and yet he is deprived of the necessary authority to enable him to fulfill that responsibility.

If he has the confidence of the Council to the extent that the responsibility is imposed, then why draw the line and withhold giving the authority pertaining to the work in question? Recalling that special Council meeting the members will understand the reference. Then there is the main point which the Property Committee of the Council should decide at once, whether the Inspector is also to spend hours assisting in firing the incinerator. Was it intended that the fireman engaged for the work should look after it, or that some one else should step in as an assistant to him?

The Council surely does not forget the extent to which the Inspector's duties increase at this time of the year. His position practically defines his duties, and the whole city requires him at this season. A little common, ordinary business sense should smooth out the situation.

Assuming, as it is natural to assume, that the Council looks to the Sanitary Inspector to superintend the incinerator, where was the practicability in giving City Engineer Parsons the deciding word in connection with the use of man holes? There is enough red tape without that link. Surely Mr. Spence could have been trusted with the same authority in this instance? The men who would use the man holes do not meet Mr. Parsons, and the particular wisdom to be employed in this instance should be expected of average common sense. The Council seemed to think the Sanitary Inspector was responsible for the Perry street affair, and drew the City Engineer into the ring giving him the final word. Let it be understood that the Inspector has made no complaint to the press, although he did verify reports as to the time he was spending at the incinerator, and to say the least the Council seems to imagine that they doubled his salary some time ago by the way his work has increased.

Mr. Spence's name was dragged into a salary debate when as a matter a fact he did not apply for an increase. However, this is aside from the present point which is simply this, that it does not appear to be sound business to demand of the Sanitary Inspector that he spend hours at the incinerator with the inevitable curtailed attentions to his regular work, and a very important work during the spring months.

Mayor Buller Names Period For General City Clean-Up

Mayor Buller has decided upon May 23rd as the last day of the special clean-up campaign in which he urges all the citizens to do their little share. All the cities of any importance and self-respect have had brisk house-cleanings. Others are just arranging for them. There is nothing compulsory about the movement, it is simply a request from the Mayor, who in his official capacity, gives the proposal its initial impulse and sanction.

Everyone Can Help.

The assistance which the press can lend is by pointing out certain features, focussing attention on some necessities with the hope that everybody will respond. There is no reward except the knowledge that the individual has helped to make Peterborough a neater and a cleaner place of abode. If a better and cleaner city is not a sufficient reward then the whole idea might as well be abandoned at the outset. But with many new undertakings to be proud of, with the numerous visitors who will pass through the city this summer, there should be a united effort to do at least the apparent things that will help in beautifying the whole city.

Is Not a Fad.

The idea is not a passing fad. The element of common sense wrapped up in it must commend the matter to everybody. If house-cleaning during the spring is desirable in the home, in the same measure it should apply to the whole city. If to clean up the garden and yard is a recognized duty to the ratepayer, the same should apply to the whole city. The manner in which the idea can be worked out involves no great undertaking, and can be easily worked out during the appointed time.

The first necessity is to arouse public sentiment in favour of the idea, to bring home to the citizens the value and need of a general civic house-cleaning and the actual work will follow as a consequence.

In another column of to-day's Examiner there is a little story that emphasizes what can be done. Every citizen should read "Making Over Maybridge" on page twelve. In particular is it recommended to the members of the Council for perusal.

174 TOOK ADVANTAGE OF THE NIGHT SCHOOLS

Dress-making, Millinery, Domestic Science, Electrical Work and Other Departments Were All Well Attended.

FOUR NIGHTS A WEEK

A very interesting report from Mr. A. F. Hagerman, the principal, of the work done in the night schools during the term ending April 2, was submitted to the Board of Education at its meeting last night by the Industrial Committee of which Mr. V. Eastwood is chairman.

The report was as follows:

Mr. Hagerman's report, mentioned above, was presented as follows:

The Board of Education, City:

Gentlemen,—As Principal of the Industrial Night Schols, I have the honour to report as follows:

Classes were resumed on January 12th, 1914, after Christmas holidays, and continued four nights per week ending on April 2nd.

Owing to insufficient number the Tuesday Drafting Class was discontinued and a class in Mathematics substituted therefore. Mr. W. Taylor, of the Collegiate Institute staff, was engaged and the attendance and interest show that Mr. Taylor's efforts met with the hearty approval of the class.

On the advice of Mr. Merchant the nature of the work in the electrical class was changed. Mr. A. Gates, B.Sc., of the C.G.E., was engaged to conduct the practical work of this Department. That this was a good thing was shown by a constant growth in attendance.

Miss E. Ferguson continued to conduct three classes per week in Domestic Science.

The Dressmaking classes were all run under the management of Miss Webb, Miss Howell not feeling in a position to continue in the work. In these classes (three in number) limited in attendance to twenty, some idea of the work may be gained from the fatc that at least thirty-five dresses were completed, twenty separate skirts, eighty waists or blouses, and a large number of other articles of apparel consisting of coats, kimonas, underwaists, fichus, etc., were made.

The class in millinery was conducted by Miss Dawson of R. Hall & Co. In this class some twenty-six hats were completed, besides twenty-one shapes in wire or nuckram.

The total number of men in attendance reached fifty.

The total number of girls and women reached one hundred and twenty-four.

The total fees paid in for all classes, $295.00.

The total fees returned for all classes, $266.30.

The total fees on hand for all classes, $28.70.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

Yours faithfully,
A. F. HAGERMAN,
Supervising Principal.

Trying to Oust Countess Of Aberdeen

Examiner Special:

ROME, May 6.—The second day's meeting of the International Council of Women under the presidency of the Countess of Aberdeen, developed an effort to depose the Countess from this position which she has held for twenty years. Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Maine, is at the head of the faction favourable to the change in the presidency. She maintains that the principle of the organization cannot be international if one nationality monopolizes the leadership.

CITY BUTCHERS TO HOLD MEETING

A meeting of the butchers' section of the local Retail Merchants' Association is called for Thursday night.

The proposition of the Public Abbatoir, which has been placed before the City Council, will be fully discussed. Also the present injustice of allowing regular retail dealers to come to Peterborough and use the Public Market and sell meat without a license of any kind or without paying their fair share of the taxes as the permanent butchers have to do. In other words, they are transient traders, who should be made take out a license to do business. This does not apply to farmers selling their own produce, but to regular retailers who are not residents.

Another injustice is the present high license for which the butchers have to pay, and which should be greatly reduced.

It is also expected that one of the best known butchers from Toronto will be present and give an address.

City Fathers Will Wear Morning Frocks And Lofty Lids

Although it may sound somewhat impertinent to intimate the correct dress for the City Fathers on the occasion of the visit of the Duke of Connaught, Mayor Euler, of Berlin, has been instructed that His Royal Highness will wear a morning frock coat and top hat, which was a hint to the Berlin Council to do likewise. The Governor-General will be asked to plant a memorial tree in the Victoria Park, Berlin. Those who will meet the Royal party in Berlin will be specially invited. From the above it will be expected that Peterborough's Aldermen will wear their morning frocks and toppers for the reception.

BRIGHTENING UP WITH SAW AND PAINT AND HAMMER AND SAW

Making Over Maybridge

"Brighten Up Maybridge. Have your boxes or barrels near the street. This waggon will haul it away without charge."

"What is it the song sings?" the young man murmured. "'The old home ain't what it used to be.'"

He paused long enough to look up and down the main thoroughfare of the little town.

"The song's wrong," he said; then he quickly added, "more's the pity."

The young man had not reached his thirtieth year, was of slender, wiry build, and his walk, the keenness of his expression, and each of his mannerisms, bespoke enthusiasm and vigour.

It was dusk when he had left the train, the only passenger to alight at the dingy little station.

"Back home?" the venerable stationmaster drawled.

"Yes, for the first time in ten years, Jim," the young man answered.

"Ain't nobody to meet you," said the official with a yawn.

"They don't know I've come," the traveller explained. "It's a surprise."

"Uh-huh," was the acknowledgment the stationmaster gave as he picked up the mail bag.

And now the young man was walking briskly up Main Street on his way toward the old home.

"The Perkins block is still standing," he said, as he looked up at a three-storey, dilapidated brick building, "and I predict that in years ago that the ramshackle old place would fall down before another winter."

He looked across the road.

"Upon my word I don't believe they've painted old Calvary Church since I left home, and there was an agitation then to paint it."

At the next corner he stopped for several minutes to look into the windows of the hardware store. A smile of mingled pathos and humour crept over his face.

"I don't believe father has changed the windows since I saw them last," he said. "There's the old farm implement picture on the side wall; there's the same old pyramid of paint cans, and I suppose that tray of jackknives is the one he bought in 1900."

He turned the corner and walked up the side street, making comments as he went.

"Bill Graves' fence looks a few pickets more shy than it used to; the vacant lot at the corner of Centre Street continues to be the main depository of rubbish, and Hiram Jenkins' barn is still waiting for its first coat of paint. The song is wrong," he murmured again, "The old home's just what it used to be."

Then his gaze turned across the street in the direction of a pretty park.

"I've been a little harsh," he said. "There isn't a more attractive town anywhere than Maybridge would be if the few rusty spots could only be brightened up. There's Grace Park, with its fine old trees and pretty flower gardens; there's the Spencer home with its magnificent grounds; and here's the row of fine old residences along Elm Street. Why, Maybridge has all the essentials of an ideal town, but it sure does need a little making over."

Then the young man's thoughts turned to the dear ones he was about to surprise, and a few moments later there was a fond greeting in the old homestead.

Ten years before George Hollister, then out of his teens, had left Maybridge to make his way in a large Western city. Starting with a small position, the income of which barely kept him alive, he had risen rapidly. Each year he wrote home that at the first opportunity he would return for a visit. But new and grater responsibilities forced him to defer the homegoing until a decade had slipped by. His last advancement had made George's time his own, and without warning he had quietly returned to surprise and delight his parents and younger sister.

Renewing acquaintances occupied the larger part of the next day, and in the evening his proud father took him to the monthly meeting of the Men's Club of Calvary Church.

"Maybridge will be Brightened up This Month."

After a long drawn out and uninteresting talk on foreign missions by a visiting minister, the president of the club, Josiah Subbs, arose and said:

"It's been a pleasure for many of us to-night to meet again Sam Hollister's boy, George. George has been workin' in a big city for some time, and I'm goin' to ask him to tell us how it seems to get back to good old Maybridge. Mr. Hollister, will you 'bilge us?'"

The young man went forward and stood on the little platform. In a few minutes he gave a brief description of his experience in the business world and told how glad he was to meet again his old friends.

And then he abruptly changed the subject.

"I've always felt," he said, "that I would like to do something for Maybridge. I haven't prospered to the extent of being able to endow any of your, or rather our, institutions, but, during the month I am to spend at home, if you so desire, I will make my donation in the form of service."

He paused, and the forty-two members of the Men's Club looked puzzled.

"May I ask," inquired the president, "of what this service would consist?"

"Certainly," replied George. "It would be an effort to brighten up Maybridge."

He paused again, and the puzzled look of the assembly was changing into an expression of resentment.

"I don't understand," interposed Abner Wethersbee; "in fact, I didn't know that Maybridge was in need of brightenin' up."

"I will try to make myself clear," George went on. "When I stepped from the train yesterday, the dilapidated old station, the junk piles along the tracks, the broken walk to Main Street, and the mud on the sidewalk and pavement, gave anything but a favourable impression. Even before I left the train a travelling salesman told me he had business here, but that he was going on to Montclair to spend the night. In a joking way he said he was afraid to stay here because the few street lamps were so dirty he might get lost on the way from the station to the hotel."

The look of resentment was giving way to an unfriendly frown on the part of most of his hearers. George noticed this, and his tone became softer as he talked on.

"Don't misunderstand me, please," he said. "I'm not here to criticise the old town just because I've been living in a big city. I'm here to put myself at your service in an effort to improve conditions. My business has taken me into a number of small towns where there was no more wealth nor industry nor good citizens than we have here in Maybridge. But these towns realized that appearance is a practical asset for a city or village, as well as for an individual. They knew that favourably impressing visitors meant business. But more than all this they recognized the fact that brightening up their towns stimulated public spirit; and public spirit is the force that determines the progress and prosperity of any place."

George hoped that his last statement would arouse some enthusiasm, but in this he was disappointed. So he merely added, "I've had experience, gentlemen, in a clean-up campaign in a large city, and I offer you my services in a campaign to brighten up Maybridge."

He bowed and sat down.

There was no applause, and the silence was finally broken when President Stubbs dryly asked, "How would you propose to begin?"

"First of all, there should be an organization," promptly came the answer. "We should have a big committee, including yourself and the mayor and the editor of the newspaper and the superintendent of the schools and the representatives of all the town's interests."

"Then what would you do?" asked Ezra Galpin.

"I'd formulate a set of rules," replied George, "and I'd ask every resident to co-operate in seeing these rules enforced."

James Dunkle, the town's oldest lawyer, arose.

"I move, Mr. President," he said, "that a committee be appointed to look into this matter and report at the next monthly meeting."

"Pardon me for interrupting," put in George, "but I will only be here a month, and in order to make my service effective, the campaign should be commenced at once."

The conservative Dungle shook his forefinger as he vigorously retorted, "Young man, don't think that you can come back here to your old home and force city ways on us just to show your smartness. Maybridge has done without you for ten years and got along pretty well, too, and now if we propose to go along in the even tenor of our way, that's what we'll do. Young man, you're a disturber, and, Mr. President, I desire to withdraw my motion and put another one. I move we adjourn."

"Second the motion," called Ezra Galpin.

The chairman arose.

"You've heard the mation, gentlemen. Have you any remarks?"

George was on his feet in an instant.

"I very keenly regret," he began, "that my purpose is so grossly misunderstood. I sincerely trust that you will defeat this motion and organize here and now a committee to brighten up Maybridge. I have told you I want to do something for the old town. I have explained my willingness to serve you in the campaign. But, gentlemen, if you reject this service, I propose to go about the work just the same without you. Maybridge will be brightened up this month."

He sat down.

"Any further remarks?" asked the chairman.

Herbert Newberry, one of the youngest members of the club, arose.

"I am heartily in favour of Mr Hollister's suggestions," he said. "They are in keeping with progress. Of course, they may be found objectionable by the owners of some ramshackle old buildings that ought to be torn down or fixed up." He looked unflinchingly at the chairman. "And the agent of some vacant property that resembles a rubbish heap naturally would be disgruntled at the thought of having to clear it off." His gaze turned toward Lawyer Dunkle. "But just the same there are enough good citizens in Maybridge who love and respect their town to see this movement put through."

As he sat down, the chairman cleared his throat and announced nervously, "We mustn't adjourn, gentlemen, with any feelin' of bitterness toward each other. We're all members of the same club, the same church, and, for that matter, the same town. If some people in Maybridge want to improve the appearance of their property, that's their business. If others don't want to, I don't believe anyone can make 'em. And so, unless there's further remarks," he looked around the room, "the meetin' stands adjourned."

The next morning here was a brisk conference in the office of the editor of "The Daily Chronicle."

George Hollister did most of the talking, the editor showing his interest and approval with an occasional "I see," "Of course," "Undoubtedly," and "Just so."

At the end of the meeting the two shook hands, and the editor sat down to look over the papers the young man had left.

For several days Lawyer Dunkle proudly boasted of how he had "laid out cold that fresh young Hollister and his fool ideas." Reports of this boasting talk reached George, but he only smiled grimly and said, "We'll see."

It was a week after the memorable meeting when "The Daily Chronicle" came out with a first-page news story and a long editorial headed "Brighten Up Maybridge." The news story stated that a campaign to improve the general appearance of the town would be waged for one week and commence the following Monday, and the editorial called upon all loyal citizens to co-operate in the movement. The editor asked for suggestions as to the furtherance of the campaign and promised to print worthy communications. He recommended that all residents of the town become members of a Brighten Up Club, in which there would be no dues, nor fees nor meetings. The rules of the proposed organization and its purposes were printed in a frame and read as follow:

BRIGHTEN UP MAYBRIDGE.

RULES.

1. Do not allow rubbish to accumulate.
2. Do not throw anything on sidewalks or streets.
3. Do not let piles of ashes or trash remain in back yards.
4. Do not mark or deface sidewalks, fences, buildings, or public property.
5. Apply paint to fences, sheds, and buildings.
7. And when Maybridge is brightened up, keep it so!

The general purposes of this crusade against rubbish and for beauty are: To help the whole city life, to protect against fire, to improve the general health, to exert an educational influence upon the school children, to advance business conditions, and to impress favourably all visitors to Maybridge.

But George wasn't chortling; he was busy.

Monday morning the campaign was inaugurated. There was no ceremony and but little sign of activity. A large waggon passed through Main Street carrying a placard on either side. On each was printed the following notice:

BRIGHTEN UP MAYBRIDGE.

Have your rubbish in boxes or barrels near the street. This waggon will haul it away without charge.

Two hours later, when the waggon return on Main Street, it was full to overflowing. The little crowd in front of the post office watched it go by.

"Looks as though some of the folks were gettin' into the Campaign," said Joshua Newton.

"There's always plenty of people to take advantage of gettin' things done free," sneered Lawyer Dunkle.

"You don't think much will come of the campaign then?" asked young Joe Wilcox.

"No," came the vigorous answer. "Nuthin' 'll come of it."

"And what's more," put in Josiah Stubbs, "Young Hollister will be so ashamed that you won't see him again."

There was a brief silence.

"What's that?" spoke up Joe Wilcox suddenly.

The others loked in the direction he was pointing. There, three blocks away, was a man rapidly climbing up the steeple of Calvary Church.

"Who is it?" asked James Dunkle.

"It's George Hollister," answered one of he younger members of the group.

"What's he up here for?" asked Josiah Stubbs.

"We'll know in a minute," said Ezra Galpin.

The little group saw the young man reach the top of the steeple and pause at the base of the faded wooden cross. They saw him produce a pail which he hung on his belt. A few moments later he stood erect and moved his arm rapidly up and down. And then in the sunlight came the sparkle of gold from the upper section of the cross.

While the little group watched, a boy came running up the street from the direction of the church.

"Papa!" he called to Josiah Stubbs. "There's a lot of women with Jim Terris and Ed. Parker painting the old church.

"They haven't any right to," growled Josiah Stubbs. "I'm the chairman of the finance committee and the President of the Men's Club, too."

"It's ridiculous," observed Lawyer Dunkle. "Speakin' legally, the women can't do it."

Willie Stubbs looked up at the two men. "But they are doing it," he observed.

"Come on, boys," called Joe Wilcox, as he started up the street.

"Where are you goin'?" asked the irritated Dunkle.

"We're going," said Joe, "to stop the women from painting the church."

"Good!" cried the lawyer.

"Good!" echoed the chairman of the finace committee.

"And then," Joe called, "we're going to finish the job ourselves."

The two older men started to protest, but the others, following Joe, were already on their way.

"The Chronicle" did justice on Tuesday morning to the first day of the campaign and annouced that $65 had been contributed to a fund for promoting the work.

The rubbish waggon was unable to cope with the demands, and a second waggon was pressed into service.

The sidewalks and streets were cleaned; pickets were adjusted on fences, and gates made to swing instead of lean. Vacant lots were cleared of debris; lawns were trimmed, flowers set out and seeds planted. Buildings, fences, sheds and walls were painted, and, from the constantly increasing general fund, men were employed to improve the section near the station and to further carry on "the crusade against rubbish and for beauty."

The school children were active agents throughout the campaign, and when the conservative element was overcome and the movement became a popular one, practically all Maybridge joined in the crusade.

George Hollister counts the last night of his vacation a memorable one. He was once more the guest of the Men's Club of Calvary Church.

He smiled when the chairman in introducing him said, "This young man talked to us just a month ago to-night." He put up a scheme that some of us old fogeys called a fool idea, and when he said he wanted to do something for the town and offered his services, we sneered and turned him down. But he's done more for Maybridge than any other citizen, livin' or dead. You all know how he brightened it up and how paint has freshened weather-beaten boards. It's wonderful what a little paint will do! You all know how grass and flowers have taken the place of rubbish, and how business in general has improved. You all know how the spirit of the town has been sort of changed, how we're proud to live here, and how we've begun to plan bigger for the future. But there are some things you don't know. The editor of "The Chronicle" told me this morning that eight other towns in the state have heard about our brightenin' up, and have written for rules for brightenin' themselves up. Gentlemen, that's good advertisin', and it pays to advertise a town just as it pays to advertise a business.

There was a Brisk Conference in the Office of the Editor.

THE BRIGHTEN UP CREED

To Brighten Up myself—to be optimistic, cheerful, and good natured.

To Brighten Up my home and spread the Brighten Up spirit among my neighbours.

To Brighten Up my business, and take pleasure as well as profit from it.

To Brighten Up my town and promote its social, industrial, and commercial progress.

To preserve the love of Nature, cultivate fresh air.

To adopt Brighten Up as my motto.

And then in the sunlight came the sparkle of gold from the upper section of the cross.

Petes May Open Season Shy Of Two Of Their Regulars

Miller Out With Injured Hand and Short-stop Price is Ill and May Not Be Able to Play---Outfielder From the Western League Has Joined the Club and May Break In To-morrow.

Special Wire to The Examiner:

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 5.—The Petes will probably open the season at Erie on Thursday with two of their regulars missing from the batting order. It is a certainty that First String Catcher Miller will be unable to play as his injured hand will not have healed sufficiently to permit him getting into the game. In addition there is a strong probability that Shortstop Price will also be an absentee. The youngster has been ill for the past couple of days and may be prevented from donning the spangles to-morrow.

If Price is unable to start King will be shifted over to shortstop, while Frank Fox, who is looked upon as the utility player of the squad, will be moved into second base. This should give the Blountment a good infield as King is a splendid short fielder and Fox has often performed around the middle cushion. Fox's place in right field will be taken by Wilcox, a new fielder who joined the squad yesterday. Wilcox was with Youngstown in the Inter-State League last season and had a try-out this spring with the St. Joseph team of the Western League (Class A). He is a big fellow, weighing 170 pounds, is fast and has the reputation of being a good hitter.

Infielder Schrage, who has given the regulars a hard battle for a place, will be released by Manager Blount, who says the white-haired boy's lack of experience is against him. Curly will start the season with sixteen men and will cut down later.

Rain prevented both workouts to-day and the players busied themselves in preparing for the jump over to Erie, where they will be quartered at the Fisher House during their stay. Weather permitting there will be the usual morning workout on Wednesday with a light practice in the afternoon.

Schettler will likely be Manager Blount's pitching selection, with Tracey and Sterling as first aid pitchers. Ryberg will catch.

FRANK FOX
Who may be used in the infield at the opening game at Erie to-morrow, owing to the illness of Short-stop Price.

PETES PLAY FIRST LEAGUE GAME TO-MORROW

Party of Prominent Local Fans Leave This Afternoon to Attend Opening Fixture at Erie--Ottawa and St. Thomas Inaugurate the Season To-day.

The Canadian League season will be inaugurated to-day when Ottawa and St. Thomas clash at the latter town, although the other six clubs do not get away until to-morrow. The Saints-Senator go has been hastened a day by reason of the visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Railway Town. To-morrow the Toronto Beavers play at London, Dr. Yates' Hamilton Athletics at Brantford, and our own Petes have the honour of playing the first Canadian League game on United States soil, when they meet the Sailors at Erie, Pa.

The Blountmen will not lack for support to-morrow with a delegation of twenty-five or thirty enthusiastic fans from Peterborough in the stands at Perry Field. The Peterborough party, composed of well-known business and professional men, leave on the 4:33 C.P.R. train this afternoon. A special Pullman car has been secured which will go through to Erie, and Mr. Jas. Skinner, C.P.R. agent, will accompany the party to look after their comfort. They will return to Peterborough at noon on Friday.

The Petes are scheduled to play four games at Erie, starting to-morrow and winding up on Sunday. Then they move over to St. Thomas and play three games with the Saints, coming to Peterborough early Thursday morning to open the season here with London.

And judging by the enthusiasm being shown around town it will be some opening too. The announcement of the half holiday for May 14th has been received with unqualified approval, and with good weather a record crowd may be expected at Riverside Park to greet the Blountmen. An automobile Parade, with the band in line, and other ceremonies will feature the opening, and the lid will bep ried off with proper eclat.

Lid Comes Off At St. Thomas

St. Thomas, May 6—St. Thomas and Ottawa Canadian League teams are here for the opening of the League season to-day. Manager Craven of St. Thomas made a ast-minute shift in his line-up in order to strengthen his infield at first base, which was a weak spot owing to the failure of Mills to report. Craven to-day put a deal through for "Stoney" Henger, thirdbaseman for Battle Creek, last year champions of the South Michigan League. He will report at once.

Thrailkill, who is at home at either corner, will be moved over to first-base. With this change Craven believes he was a winning combination. He will send his star hurler, Wilkinson, into the box, and Nevell, the Indian, will make his first appearance behinde the bat. Shaughnessy of the champions has selected Hall, a new man, as pitcher for the opening game.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Youngstown Telegram:

Jimmy Lewis' Girard Independents threw a fine, health scare into Curly Blount's Peterborough Canadian League club at Wright field Sunday afternoon, and for eight innings nobody could be found who was willing to risk even a car fare on the outcome. As it turned out, however, the leaguers won, scoring three runs in the seventh and two more in the eighth, making the final count 5 to 2.

For five innings the scene was transformed into one similar to classy pitching duels staged here in the good old days. Pat Griffin was on the firing line for the Girary boys, while Louis Schettler was serving them up for the Blountties. Although Louis was hit harder in the first five innings than was Griffin, neither team scored. Both twirlers were going well and were being afforded nifty support.

But there was a little fire works in the sixth and the Girard fans took advantage of the opportunity to do real, big city rooting. The noise accompanied T. Reese's single, a double to the left field fence by P. Reese and singles by Woods and Lewis, which netted two large, juicy runs that took on the appearance of a commanding lead before Schettler applied the brakes and lifted himself from a bad hole.

The seventh and eighth stanzas were disastrous ones for the visitors Blount, Price, Ryberg and Schettler were the chief cannonaders with the willow in these innings, and with a little help from Fox, King and Gorman and a few clinkers by the Girard boys Peterborough overcame the two run lead, forged ahead and added two more. But they had to hustle to do it and no doubt breathed easier after it was over.

Girard presented a line-up that looked like one of the best independent teams ever seen here. Barring an incident here and there they played as consistently as the more experienced leaguers and at no time looked to be inferior or outclassed. No doubt the excellent work of Griffin had much to do with their success although the team as a whole is competent to hold its own against any independent or minor league club in this vicinity.

In the practice game Saturday Blount's boys defeated the Barons by the score of 8 to 1. Sterling and Tracey were on the mound for the leaguers, while Edgar Moran worked for the tailors. Moran's pitching was better than the support he received, although in spots he was given able assistance.

BASEBALL.

Last night at the Central School a game took place between Queen Alexandra girls and the Central girls, the score being 31 to 14 in favour of Central School.

Batteries—Irene Knapman and Hazel Davidson for Queen Alexandra; Hazel Morrow and Lula Elcombe for Central School.

Sketches of The Blountmen

MULLY MILLER, Catcher

Was born at Massillon, Ohio, in the year 1882. He is 5 feet 9 inches in height, and weighs 185 lbs. Mully started his professional career in the year 1903, with the Mount Vernon Club of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League, and was with the same club the following year.

In 1905-6 he played semi-professional ball around his home town. In 1907-8-9 he was with Dallas in the Texas League, and in 1910-11 with Sioux City in the Western League (Class "A"). In 1912 he played with Youngstown in the Central League, and in 1913 with the same club in the Interstate League.

The League disbanded in mid-season, Mully going to Greenville where he played Independent ball for the balance of the season. He signed to play with Peterborough this spring.

Miller is a veteran catcher, and has a lot of baseball left in him yet. He has shown good form this spring and has easily landed the first string catching position with the Petes. Mully takes a powerful cut at the ball, has always hit around the .300 mark, and should about lead the catchers in the League this summer.

Red Caps Organize

A very enthusiastic meeting of the C.G.E. Red Caps baseball team, which has been entered in the Mercantile League, was held last evening, when the following officers were appointed:

Hon. President, Mr. Robt. Anson.
President, Mr. J. Lowes.
1st Vice-President, Mr. W. Nellis.
Secretary Treasurer, Mr. G. B. Wilson.
Manager, Mr. J. Pilling.
Captain and Assistant Manager, Mr. H. O'Hearn.
Executive Committee: Messrs. E. Rahmel, J. Mahoney, W. Nelson, A. Primeau and F. Derocher.

Went Over Falls In A Row Boat

Special to The Examiner:

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT., May 6.—Standing up with his hands in the attitude of prayer, an unknown man in a rowboat was seen to go down the cataract and over the Horseshoe Falls this morning. Passengers and crew of a passing street car were horrified at the sight, but could do nothing to help.

SIX TEAMS FOR THE MERCANTILE LEAGUE

Each Club Will Be Allowed the Privilege of Signing Three Outside Men Which Should Provide Better Ball--Games Will Be Played at the Exhibition Grounds.

The Mercantile League this year will consist of six teams—the Bankers, De Lavals, C. G. E. Drafting Room, C. G. E. Red Caps (Machine Shop.), Printers, and the William Hamilton Co. team. This was decided upon at an enthusiastic meeting of the Executive last night in the Y. M. C. A. The Auburn team which was represented at the first meeting, withdrew last night and the Wm. Hamilton Co. was admitted. Manager Pilling has changed the name of his Machine Shop team to the C. G. E. Red Caps.

After a long discussion it was decided to allow each team the privilege of signing three outside players. This will allow quite a number of players who would otherwise be barred, an opportunity of playing while it should result in stronger teams all around.

The League will play its game, this year, on the Exhibition Grounds and an effort will be made to have the field put into first-class condition before the League opening. It is possible that a skinned diamond may be arranged for. The management of the Radial Railway Company will be approached with a view to having the players carried free of charge.

Gun Club Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Gun Club was held last evening in Mr. A. Hall's office, Simcoe Street. Although there was not a very large attendance, all arrangements were made for the coming season. A most favourable report was received from the secretary as to the good financial standing of the Club at the present time.

At the election of officers, all the officers of last year were re-elected:

President—L. Hall.
Vice-Pres.—W. M. Lang.
Captain—H. Cook.
Secretary—C. Wood.

Many new members are joining and some good sport is looked forward to during the summer months. Several prizes will be competed for under the same conditions as last year, including the two silver cups presented by Mr. O. E. McGaw of Toronto and several others by the Dominion Cartridge Co., Peterborough Hardware Co., Kingan Hardware Co., Morgan Hardware Co., the Club and probably others. These prizes will be competed for under the following conditions: Open to all members. Each member competing must shoot at 200 birds during the season, from May 1st to August 31st. The regular shoot will be held on the first, third and fourth Thursdays in each month of May, June, July and August. Members to be in the competition must shoot at 50 birds in each month, 25 on the first and 25 on the third Thursday. However, should he be unable to attend one or the other of these shoots, his score out of 25 on the fourth Thursday may be recorded. Any members who wish to shoot on other than the regular shooting days may do so by applying to any of the following officers: President, Vice-President, Captain or Secretary. The Secretary to be advised at all times, who will attend if convenient. Shooting will commence at 6 o'clock sharp on all regular shoots, the first to be held to-morrow evening. This being the opening shoot of the season, all members should attend.

Mr. Cutting—I am opposed to intoxicating liquor as a beverage, yet I believe that liquor rightly used is a benefit to humanity. I am fully convinced that whiskey was once the means of saving my life.

Miss Indoubt—Perhaps it did, but I fail to see how it that proves it's a benefit to humanity.

"Here's another think you don't know. This afternoon the representatives of a big manufacturin' plant employing fourteen hundred men, came here to look us over. Maybridge is one of five towns they're considerin' for their new plant. The shippin' facilities and the location may have had a good deal to do with it, but I want to tell you that it was the signs of progress and prosperity in the business and residence districts that impressed them most. The papers ain't signed yet, but the president whispered to me that here's where they're comin'. There are more things you don't know, some we'll find out about from time to time that are due to our recent crusade, but there's only one more that I'm goin' to mention. Amos Parsons, the best-known man that ever lived in Maybridge, came home yesterday to spend a few days with his old mother. I had the pleasure of ridin' 'round with him, and he told me that this is the neatest, cleanest, and best little town that he knows. And he said he would like to add $50,000 to the Spencer School endowment."

There was vigorous applause after this announcement.

There was even more applause when George Hollister was introduced, and still more when he concluded, expressing his appreciation of the united spirit that made the Brighten Up Campaign possible.

It was a proud family that saw George off next day. There was a twinkle in his father's eye, as he said to him: "Incidental to the general good, my boy, you certainly have helped your father's business. I've sold more paint and nails and tools durin' the campaign week than in any six months since I've been in business."

When the train pulled out, the young man stood on the back platform to wave his good-byes, and then he took a sweeping glance about and noted the many evidences of his Brighten Up Campaign.

He smiled.

"The old home ain't what it used to be!"

AN ACTIVE SUMMER FOR BOYS OF LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

Plans for Next Three Months for the 300 Boys who are Members of the "Y"

THE ANNUAL CAMP

The summer activities for the boys of the Y.M.C.A., according to the plans which have been formulated by the Secretary of the Boys' Department, Mr. G. Galley, will be exceedingly profitable and enjoyable ones. Although the summer season is often the slowest of the year for the members of the junior or senior departments of the "Y" the summer of 1914 has been arranged so that it will be a memorable one.

Tournaments.

The checker tournament which was begun in April is now drawing to a close, and there is a good deal of interest being manifested in the final games. Three leagues of baseball are being formed, for the High School, Employed Boys, and School Boys, and seventy-five boys have been signed up as members of the different aggregations. This afternoon a meeting of the boys is being called to form two cycle clubs. These clubs will take journeys to Chemong and other places during the summer and a good time is anticipated for their members.

Other Activities.

Beginning in the 18th of May a swiming campaign will be held, and every boy in the city, who cannot do so already, will be given a chance to learn how to swim. Last year Mr. Galley gave over 500 lessons in swimming, and this year a large number are expected to take advantage of the offer. The Boys' Annual Camp will be held from June the 29th to July 11th, and a number of members are eagerly looking forward to this event.

The Programme.

The programme for the coming summer is as follows:

May.

1. Hike to the woods or country every Saturday.
2. Baseball Saturday mornings.
3. Bicycle runs Thursday night for older boys.
4. Employed Boys' Club Monday and Wednesday nights 7 p.m.
5. Swimming campaign, May 18th to 22nd.

June.

1. Saturday, June 6th, School Boys' Athletic meet.
2. Monday and Wednesday, June 9 and 11, Older Boys' Athletic meet.
3. Saturday, June 13th, trip down the river in war canoe.
4. Saturday, June 20th, observation trip to the circus, 6 a.m. in the morning.
5. Saturday, June 27th, preparation for Boys' Camp.
6. June 29th to July 27th, Boys' Camp.

July and August.

1. All the summer activities will be kept up.
2. Saturday, September 5th, Flower Day, when the boys will take flowers to the sick of the city.
3. The following are some of other of our activities: Baseball, lacrosse, Harrier Club, hikes, paper chases, Bicycle Club, war canoe trips, swimming classes, aquatic sports, picnics, athletic meets, game room, reading room, swimming pool, summer camp, Flower Day, Bible Classes, Gymnasium Classes, observation trips, game tournaments, Glee Club, Literary Club, story telling, vocational talks, illustrated lectures, hobby exhibition, banquets and church parade.

WEDDING BELLS

DOLAN—CURTIN.

On Tuesday, April 28th, the Church of Immaculate Conception, Galway, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Mary, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Curtis, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Father Guiry to Mr. William Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dolan. The bride was becomingly attired in a grey suit and shadow lace blouse and wore a black lace hat. She was assisted by the groom's sister, Miss B. Dolan, who also wore a grey suit and hat to match. The groom was assisted by Mr. Robert Curtin, brother of the bride.

The many costly gifts received by the young couple showed the high esteem in which they were held.

After a very enjoyable evening the young couple left on a short trip and on their return will reside in Kinmount. The Examiner joins with their many friends in wishing them a happy and prosperous married life.

Charlotte Street Merchant Was Badly Injured

Runaway Team Ran into His Rig, Inflicting Serious Injuries to His Head

Mr. Louis Florence, the popular Charlotte Street furniture dealer, narrowly escaped death this afternoon. He was seated in his rig, outside of his store and was facing west. A runaway team of Kinnears, came dashing down Charlotte Street and ran right into the back of the rig in which Mr. Florence was seated, and their fore feet came right down on his head. Serious wounds were inflicted, and his nose was badly broken. He was immediately removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where his injuries are being attended to by Dr. Cameron.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Misses Ethel and Mabel Graham went Tuesday in the City, visiting friends.

Mrs. Mark Payne has returned to Peterborough after spending the last two years with her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Abbott, Mission City, B.C. She will reside with her granddaughter, Mrs. Jas. A. Spencer, 819 George Street.

Mrs. Wm. Rowe and Mrs. Oscar Rowe of Lakefield, spent a few days visiting friends in Peterborough.

WHY IS THIS?

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Mr. Editor,—I see that the new pavement on Hunter street near George, has had to be repaired already and has only been down about six months. A space of about twenty square yards was ripped up and repaired promptly. Now, Sir, I am not kicking or knocking, but I am writing for information. Was putting down the pavement late in the season or improper material the cause? If it is that is satisfactory; but if it isn't the cause, it seems to me that this kind of pavement is not the best. It may be put down all right, but if it doesn't last, then is it the best and cheapest? The concrete pavement on Chambers street has been down two years, and the last time I saw it it didn't show any particular sign of wear. I understand it costs about 98 cents a square yard, while the asphalt costs two and a half times more and seems to need repair after only six months of use. I should like to have the city fathers tell me and other ratepayers why the concrete kind of pavement is not used. I am a pretty heavy ratepayer, and think that if one dollar will go as far in making a pavement as two and a half dollars for another kind, that we will have a much greater length of paved streets for the same money. Will somebody tell me and others like me whether it is not better to go a little slow with asphalt pavement? We rushed into lighting George street with a great flourish of brass bands and the like, and now we only use fifty out of the hundred costly lights we have paid for. We worked hard and are working still to get poles off the streets; yet we have several light poles that are standing idle. It seems to me that when we have a 26-mill rate, and a chance of a higher one, we should think a little before we decide about the best kind of pavement. We don't want to pay a dollar that is not necessary and which isn't good value. Every dollar should count and so we should look before we leap, we should count the cost before making the plunge. We started out on a pretty extravagant scale in the matter of street lighting, and if we do the same in getting the Hydro down to business we won't be able to stand it. Are we sure that we are getting the best thing we can get in permanent pavement? If the Council has good reason to think that the asphalt is the best, that it will be the cheapest in the long run, then we can go ahead. But it will have to last pretty long to be worth itself. It costs two and a half times more than concrete and it should last twice as long. How is it? Let us have some official statement upon the subject. As I wrote before, I am asking for information. We have to pay and we'd like to know.

Yours respectfully,
TAXPAYER.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

To-morrow's outlook promises some irregularity in the Stock Market on account of reduction of shortage, but on reactions of moderate extent good buying is expected. There is a strong professional inclination to sell active stocks on spurts from the current prices, and opposition to improvement will be seen from that source. Betterment may be along specialty lines, while backing and filling is going on. There is no need, as we have stated, to climb for stocks, but we are of the opinion that on weakness, after reactions, buying opportunities ought not to be neglected.

Offerings in C.P.R. appear on advances at present. The Traction stocks are being bulled and it is stated by floor traders that the short interest is large. Stock appears in New Haven at 70. The Room sells N. P.

Profit taking is reported in Union Pacific on firmness. The shorts may have to bid higher to retain U. S. notwithstanding trade conditions.

Second Of Columbian's Boats Rescued---Search For The Third Fruitless

Two Officers and 17 Men May Be Still Adrift in Mid-Atlantic—23 Saved Already.

FINDING OF SECOND

BOSTON, May 7. — Search by several steamers in the waters south of Sable Island yesterday and last night had failed, up to a late hour, to add to the list of 27 known survivors of the burned liner Columbian. The total of known dead remained at three.

Somewhere in or near the westbound transatlantic steamer lane probably is a small boat were the chief and second officers, and from 17 to 24 men of the crew. At midnight, 72 hours had elapsed since the boats cast off from the blazing steamer. Its crew left hurriedly with little food or water, and some were suffering from burns. This boat was still the object of search last night.

The result of the search is therefore as follows:

Rescued—Captain McDonald and thirteen men, by the steamer Manhattan on Wednesday, and thirteen men and the dead body of Chief Steward Matthews, by the steamer Franconia on Tuesday.

Missing—First and second officers and seventeen men. An engineer was killed and one man was drowned leaving the ship.

Occupants of the two other boats which put off from the Columbian are safely aboard other vessels. The steamer Manhattan, bound for Antwerp, picked up Capt. John MacDonald and 13 men yesterday. The Cunard liner Franconia, which has on board 13 other survivors, will land them to-day. The story of their experiences preceded them to port in a narrative sent by wireless by Captain Miller of the Francenia.

The steamer Haverford searched all day for the missing third boat of the Columbian, without success, according to a message by wireless from Captain Mendus last night. His message said:

"Six p.m.—Have searched everywhere in the vicinity where No. 1 and No. 2 boats were rescued, also where Columbian was abandoned. Sorry to say saw nothing of No. 3 boat, nor of Columbian. Several steamers still searching."

The Haverford was bound from Philadelphia for Liverpool.

MEN IN MINORITY.

Therefore Votes For Women Wouldn't Do Says St. Aldwyn.

LONDON, May 7. — The woman's suffrage bill was rejected last night by the House of Lords by a vote of 104 to 60.

Speeches in favor of the bill were delivered by Baron Courtney of Penwith, the Earl of Lytton and Baron Willoughby de Broke, while Baron Weardale, the Marquis of Crewe and Viscount St. Aldwyn spoke against it.

Viscount St. Aldwyn said the arguments for the extension of the Parliamentary suffrage to women, which were based on the results obtained in those states of the United States where it had been tried, did not apply in the United Kingdom, because in those states men were in the majority, while in the British Isles they were in the minority. Consequently, he argued, the granting of the Parliamentary vote to women in the British Isles would mean the handing over to the female electorate the destinies of the Empire.

Among those who voted for the bill were Viscount Mersey of Blackburn, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of London, Hereford, Bangor and St. Asaph.

Those who voted against the bill included the Marquis of Lansdowne, Viscount Esher, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Malsbury and the Duke of Northumberland.

DUKE AUCTIONS LANDS.

His Grace of Marlborough Proves a Successful Salesman.

LONDON, May 7.—Peers are numerous in various lines of business in Great Britain, but the Duke of Marlborough entered an entirely new field at Oxford Tuesday afternoon when he appeared as a fully licensed auctioneer to dispose to the highest bidder of a number of lots of his Oxfordshire estate.

The novelty aroused a great degree of public interest and the titled auctioneer worked up spirited bidding, disposing of most of the lots at good prices.

In explaining his unconventional course the duke says he desires to lessen the cost of transferring the land—sale by auction does away with the expense of cataloguing—and to make it clear that any applicant for land he owns will receive prompt and business-like treatment at his hands.

Mexican Dictator Faces Rebel Attack From Three Sides

PEACE PLANS ARE GOING ON

WASHINGTON, May 7. — While the Mexican situation was outwardly calm yesterday, pending the formal opening of the conference of South American mediators at Niagara Falls, Ont., on May 18, there continued an active undercurrent of discussion and preparation for the peace plans, and at the same time definite reports reached the Constitutionalist headquarters here of sweeping victories of their forces near San Luis Potosi and other points far south of Saltillo, where it was thought their next big battle would occur.

The news of Constitutionalist successes reached here in despatches from Gen. Carranza to Raphael Zubaran, Minister of the Interior in the Constitutionalist Cabinet, who had a direct wire set up to the headquarters of Gen. Carranza in Chihuahua yesterday. Gen. Carranza's messages showed that three converging campaigns were in active operation each within 300 miles of Mexico City. Gen. Obregon, with 15,000 men operating from the Pacific coast side, had captured all the intervening territory, was besieging Maxatlan and was threatening Mexico City from the west.

Another division, Gen. Carranza reported, had fought a battle at Penjacos, near San Luis Potosi, which is 300 miles north of Mexico City. This is the southernmost point which the Constitutionalists have reached in Central Mexico, and with the army now attacking Tampico, they declare that the general advance on the Mexican capital is to be made within a few weeks from three sides.

The significance of these Constitutionalist successes lay in the fact that San Luis Potosi is far south of Saltillo, and only 300 miles from Tampico on the west and Mexico City on the south. Gen. Carranza's report of the desperate condition of the Federals at Maxatlan was coincident with reports from Rear Admiral Howard, who stated that a land and sea engagement was carried on there throughout Tuesday, the Constitutionalists firing rifles and field guns from Piedra Island, while the Federal gunboat Morelos was supported by the Federal shore batteries.

Aside from the notable Constitutionalists successes, the chief military development of the day was the authorization to Gen. Funston to extend his lines at Vera Cruz, as might be required for defensive purposes, without, however, undertaking any aggressive operations. A report also came from Gen. Funston that he could secure no definite information as to active movements by the Federals under Gen. Maas, but he construed what they were doing as being merely defensive. No further reinforcements have been ordered to Vera Cruz, nor has there been any sign of Gen. Wood moving to the front to assume command.

The naval situation was shown in reports from Rear-Admiral Badger as to the Atlantic coast points, and from Rear-Admiral Howard as to conditions on the Pacific coast side. Admiral Badger stated that sharp fighting had occurred between Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists between Vera Cruz and Tampico, and he added that rumors reached him through Admiral Mayo that some of Villa's forces intended to take and burn the City of Tampico. Admiral Mayo put no faith in reports of a truce between Federals and Constitutionalist elements about Tampico.

Premier Borden Tables Further Details on C.N.R.

SOME QUESTIONS ASKED

OTTAWA, May 7. — The Government yesterday afternoon made its first step towards hurrying prorogation. Upon the motion of the Prime Minister it was ordered that morning sessions shoul? commence next Monday.

The joint committee of both Houses appointed to consider the new Railway Act have petitioned for permission to sit while Parliament is in session. In this connection Hon. H. R. Emmerson announced yesterday morning that no Liberal members of the House would not submit to being called to committee meetings while the House was considering the Canadian Northern legislation.

In the House yesterday afternoon the Prime Minister tabled more forms respecting the Canadian Northern Railway Co. He explained that the presentation of copies of the returns was delayed by the fact that his typist had been pressed for time. Hon. Frank Oliver thereupon asked (1) What effect the agreement between the Government and the C. N. R. would have respecting provincial guarantees of C. N. R. bonds? (2) Would the contract between the Government and the C. N. R. override the provincial contracts with the road respecting rates, and so forth? (3) What amount of the money to be raised by the Government guarantee was to be expended in paying old debts and in protecting the provinces from bonds they had guaranteed?

The Prime Minister replied that many returns were being tabled which would no doubt answer every question asked by the member for Edmonton (Mr. Oliver). In any event all information asked would be promptly furnished by the Government.

The latest returns contain a statement of issued securities and the Government auditor's report as to receipts and expenditures on the C.N.R. system, as well as the relations towards it of Mackenzie & Mann.

The statement of C. N. R. receipts which have been available for construction, betterment, equipment, shows a total of $284,591,304.

The amount due on construction is $21,262,527.

The totals of expenditure have been $305,853,832.

Another statement shows the expenditures on the system to the contractors, Mackenzie & Mann, up to Dec. 31, 1913. The summary shows receipts from Federal, provincial and municipal subsidies, guarantees and other securities, totalling $223,407,-641. Against this are expenditures for construction and equipment of $244,670,169. The amount still due for construction is $21,262,527.

The total of principal payments by the company is $23,746,000, and the interest $4,382,027.

The House yesterday was mainly occupied with a discussion of the bill introduced by Hon. Dr. Roche, Minister of the Interior, amending the Dominions Land Act. The bill in effect remitted the interest due from settlers who had pre-empted land and allowed such "pre-empts" to substitute for the ordinary homestead duties the keeping of cattle upon their land.

The Opposition approved the legislation in the main, but Hon. Frank Oliver said that the legislation was made necessary by the faulty fiscal policy of the Government. If the western farmers could send their wheat to the United States market, he said, the value of western lands would be so increased that homesteads and pre-emption entries would enormously increase in value.

Several western members participated and at times the debate was heated.

At the evening sitting the bill went through the committee stage and was given its third reading.

During the evening Col. Sam. Hughes presented his bill to extend the time for filing Fenian Raid veterans' bounty claims.

Mr. Hughes (Kings, P.E.I.) objected, and said that Prince Edward Island was excluded in the scope of the bill.

Hon. Mr. Hughes said that he doubted if extending the operation of the bill would benefit anybody in Prince Edward Island, but if Mr. Hughes thought it would be would be glad to amend the bill so as to include any veterans of Prince Edward Island.

Mr. F. B. Carvell (Lib., Carleton, N.B.) characterized the administration of the Fenian Raid Bounties Act as one of the most contemptible scandals in the political history of Canada.

Major Fowler (Kings, N.B.) called upon the Liberal members from Nova Scotia to resent Mr. Carvell's insinuation that 15,000 Nova Scotians had committed perjury.

Hon. Mr. Nantel's bill to prevent frauds and impositions in the sale of maple sugar and maple syrup went through the committee stage and was given a third reading in the House last night.

HAYTIANS PAID UP.

British Subject Soon Got Money When British Ship Arrived.

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, May 7. —The National Bank yesterday advanced to the Haytian Government $62,000, the amount of the indemnity claimed by Mr. Peters, a British subject, whose sawmill had been destroyed by fire during the Leconte revolution. The payment had been demanded yesterday in an ultimatum from the British diplomatic representative.

The incident is regarded as closed.

Consternation has been caused in the capital by the British ultimatum, whose time limit expired at 6 o'clock last evening, and which was supported by the presence of the British cruiser Suffolk.

A joint session of the Senate and Congress was called immediately, but was soon dissolved owing to the inability of the legislators to reach a decision.

Bitter criticism was expressed as the Cabinet for not being in a position to meet the payment, which had previously been awarded to Mr. Peters by a court of arbitration.

A resolution was adopted calling on the President of the Republic to demand the resignation of J. N. Leger, Minister of Foreign Affairs, or to dismiss him from the Cabinet, as he was held responsible for the incident.

Later in the evening the resignation of Mr. Leger was announced, and this brought about an abatement of the excitement.

In the northern part of the Republic the partisans of the revolutionary leader, Senator Davilmar Theodore, still offer resistance to the Government troops in the vicinity of Ouanaminthe.

Girl Told Pitiful Story.

ST. CATHARINES, May 7.—Richard Boyle, agent of the Children's Aid Society, told the board of a pitiful case in Thorold. The father of a family has been ill in a hospital for two years, and the eldest girl, aged 13, after being beaten cruelly by her mother because she refused to work cleaning up hotels, had resolved to end her misery by drowning herself in the canal.

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. Augustus Lyon, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for women's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for women's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

FAITH IS ONLY A CONTRIBUTORY MEANS OF HEALING

LONDON, May 5.—Spiritual faith and mental healing are dealt with in a report published to-day by a committee, consisting of ten representatives of the Church of England and ten medical men, under the Chairmanship of the Dean of Westminster, Dr. Ryle. The conclusions of the committee are: "The committee desire to express their belief in the efficacy of prayer. They reverently believe, however, that Divine power is exercised in conformity with and through the operation of natural laws. Spiritual ministration should be recognized equally with medical ministration as carrying God's blessing to the sick. Health, bodily and mentally, is capable of being influenced for good by spiritual means.

"The physical results of what is called faith or spiritual healing do not prove on investigation to be different from those of mental healing or suggestion. The committee recognize that suggestion is more effectively exercised by some persons than by others, and this fact seems to explain the gifts of a special character claimed by various healers. While the religious influences do not essentially differ in operation from the non-religious appeals to the mind, yet the former may often be a most potent form of suggestion. The committee is forced to the conclusion that faith or spiritual healing is like all treatment by suggestion. It can be expected to be permanently effective only in cases of what are called functional disorders as distinct from organic ailments.

"Those who resort to healers, therefore, are warned that they may thereby be postponing until too late medical treatment which might serve to arrest organic disease. The committee desire to see increased importance attached to spiritual ministrations as a contributory means to recovery, but they strongly deprecate the independent treatment of disease by irresponsible and unqualified persons."

GETTING A START

By NATHANIEL C. FOWLER JR.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

We have teachers of bookkeeping, of stenography, of typewriting, and of everything which pertains to business; but so far there are no instructors in the art of telephoning; and yet the telephone is used more than any other instrument of business save pen, pencil, and paper.

Over eight and a half billion telephone connections were made in America during the last year, a daily average of over 26,000.

Not one person out of a thousand knows how to answer the telephone or to talk on it. Telephonic communication is about as follows:

"Hello! Give me Main 406."

"Is this Main 406? (or, is this John Smith & Co.?) I want to talk with Mr. Smith."

Seldom does the speaker tell who he is or give any information which will enable the person answering to reach him, if the line, by accident, is disconnected.

The telephoner should not only ask if the number is the one called or the name the one asked for, but he should say, "This is William Brown. I should like to talk with Mr. John Smith."

The receiver should reply, "This is the John Smith Company," or "This is Mr. John Smith's office. Who is talking, please?"

If the caller refuses to give his name the receiver is justified in hanging up the receiver and refusing to hold further conversation.

Misconnections frequently occur and are of ten the fault of the caller. Frequently we ask for, say, "Main 26," when we mean "Main 27." We are connected with "Main 26." Instead of telling who we are and what we want most of us say, "Is Mr. Smith there?" Naturally the answer is "No." Instead of apologizing for calling the wrong number, the average person continues, "Whom am I talking with." What is your number?" and the like, instead of saying briefly, "I have the wrong number. Excuse me."

The person who answers the telephone is usuall ytoo brusque, and forgets that telephoning needs a code of courtesy as much as does conversation.

I recall an incident. Recently the telephone bell rang. My secretary answered, and told the caller that I was out and would return at 3 o'clock.

"Who is calling, please?" asked my secretary.

"Tell him to call Main 47," snapped the caller.

Again my secretary requested the name.

"I'll answer the call" was all the satisfaction she obtained.

Upon my return I assumed that a disagreeable solicitor, who was in the habit of telephoning without giving 'tis name, and whom I had been trying to avoid, had called me. I did not call up Main 47. As a matter of fact, Main 47 was the number of an important client, which number I did not recognise as it has been recently changed.

Perhaps I may be criticized for not calling, but I was busy and I wanted to avoid another telephonic communication from the solicitor.

Refusal to give your name on the telephone, or the name of the firm for which you work, lays you open to suspicion.

Another thing. Ninety per cent. of those who telephone to a business house unfairly demand that the proprietor answer the telephone, when the information can be obtained from any intelligent clerk.

So important has the telephone become, and so absolutely necessary is it, that it would seem to me a good thing for chambers of commerce and boards of trade to frame a code of telephone laws and insist that they be enforced.

A WEAK CHESTED BOY

"My boy Frank seemed weak-chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Niagara, Man. "The many medicines used did not seem to benefit him, until we tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and found it to be exactly what was wanted to cure him." No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

KILLING DANDELIONS.

Cut the dandelion roots off below the surface of the ground.

Gasoline or kerosene, applied at the crown of the dandelion, will kill individual plants.

When only a few stray plants appear persistently use the spud, or knife.

On badly infested lawns, good results may be obtained by spraying with sulphate of iron.

Use 1 1-2 pounds of iron sulphate, which can be purchased at any drug store, to 1 gallon of water, remembering that it will discolour clothing and cement walks.

Apply the spray three days after the lawn is cut, on a bright day when the possibilities of rain are slight.

The solution should be applied with a sprayer which gives a fine mistlike spray—a sprinkler is not satisfactory.

The lawn should be sprayed about once a month during the summer and not cut or watered for three days after the solution is applied.

Whatever method of eradication is used, it is always well to reseed the lawn in April, June and September.

For reseeding, eight or ten pounds of seed should be used on a lawn 100x150 feet. The seed should be sown broadcast, raked in, then watered.

A good lawn-grass mixture is 14 pounds of Kentucky blue-grass, 2 of white clover, and 2 of redtop seed—buy good clean seed and mix it yourself.

With the thickening of the grass and the use of fertilizer, many of the dandelion plants will be crowded out.

Besides this reseeding, it is well to scatter nitrate of soda over the lawn before a rain or just before the lawn is sprinkled. Fifty pounds will fertilize a lawn 100x150 feet.—W. L. Oswald, Assistant Agricultural Botanist, University Farm, St. Paul.

EUROPE REVEALS "CANCER HOUSE"

LONDON, May 4.—Medical men and sanitation experts are taking a great interest in the problem as to whether a person can become infected with cancer through living in a house in which a cancer victim has lived. For years the question has been a matter of debate, and medical literature abounds in references to "cancer houses."

In Great Britain there are numerous "cancer houses." There is a vicarage in the north of England where two successive incumbents have died of cancer. In a large house in Somerset, where a man died of cancer many years ago, his wife, his wife's second husband, a member of his family by his first wife, and a house keeper have since fallen victims. In another house in Scotland the cancer history extends back three generations. An experiment was made there by confining mice in a trap. Several of them contracted the disease.

Sir Thomas Oliver's View.

Sir Thomas Oliver, the distinguished physician and writer on medical subjects, in a recent address declared that the germ theory of cancer was only doubtfully accepted; still it was known that cancer could be conveyed from man to lower animals. Moreover, it was regarded as probable that just as some persons might inherit a peculiar vulnerability of the tissues whereby at a particular age they become liable to cancer. Could this inheritance of vulnerability expain some of the facts about cancer houses? In his annual report to the Insurance Institute at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Sir Thomas said:

"My attention has been drawn to a series of cases in a street not one-twelfth of a mile long in a small town. The houses are entirely residential. In the fifteen years from 1893 to 1908 there died from cancer in this street nineteen persons and one dog." In some of the houses there had occurred two or three cases. As in all the cases there was no hereditary history of the disease, the large number of deaths among successive occupants of the houses has suggested that the matter is more than a coincidence."

Due to Coal Fires.

C. E. Green, another scientist who has studied the subject of cancer, believes that it is largely due to coal fires. Nairnshire has the highest cancer death-rate in Scotland. Mr. Green reported in 1912 that the districts of Nairnshire which were free from cancer were those where peat is burned, not coal. So frequently has he observed this fact that he is disposed to attribute the prevalence of cancer to the combustion of coal rich in sulphur, especially where the houses of the people are on sloping sites or in hollows."

BRIDE OF 40 STONE

Heaviest Girl on Earth to Wed Weight Lifter.

Described as the heaviest girl in the world, Nellie Lambert, a 19-year-old giantess, who weights over 40 stone, (516 lbs.) is shortly to be married. The bride, it is stated, possesses a waistline of 7 ft. 4 in., her approximate diet each day consisting of—

Three pounds of meat,
Four pounds of vegetables,
Three pounds of bread,
Six pounds of fruit,
One and a half pounds of chocolate,
Three pints of cocoa and tea.
A quart of milk.

Miss Lambert, who hails from Leicestershire, is a great grand-daughter of the famous Daniel Lambert, who weighed 52st. 11lb. Once at Humberstone Gate, Miss Lambert fell through the floor of the carriage in which she was riding. At Victoria Hill, Henley, the axle of the taxi she was in broke, and once a cab step gave way while she was geting into the vehicle. To prevent similar accidents in New York her agent hired a huge gilded closed concern on massive wheels. Her future husband is Mr. Albert Ensell, an inn-keeper, of Dale-end, Birmingham, a professional weight-lifter. After the marriage the bridegroom contemplates making his debut on the music-hall stage, and, unlike Sandow and Hercules, who lifted horses, he will life his mammoth bride by his teeth right up on to a silver trapeze. Considering that, by all accounts, the lady, whose biceps measure 27 inches, can scrub and cook without the slighest inconvenience, and that she makes all her own clothes, Mr. Ensell may be congratulated upon gaining a bride "among ten thousand."

STANDISH

For Sallow, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

If you have any outlandish ointment, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercolized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, blackheads, moth-patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches, or any surface eruptions. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for an ounce of mercolized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple and harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles or crow's feet, a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel will prove remarkably effectual.

A MESSAGE TO THIN, WEAK, SCRAWNY FOLKS

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say: "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of fat-building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting joint. Your druggist has Sargol, or can get it from his wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly effective.

Caution:—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh builder.

LONDON AS A HEALTH RESORT ❁ PRINCE OF WALES ❁ PARISIAN MODES

LONDON'S ATMOSPHERE UNSURPASSED FOR HEALTH

At Least That Is What a Writer in the Times Says and He Produces Volumes of Statistics to Substantiate His Claims.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

"LONDON as a Health Resort" is the title of a long and interesting article in the Times. Visitors coming across may not agree with that publication anent the health producing qualities of London's atmosphere or climatic conditions, but the article, nevertheless, is well worth reading.

"London has been described as 'the pick-me-up of the world,' says the Times. 'Its range, its variety, its infinite freshness superimposed upon a splendid tradition, its color and sound, even the smell of its streets, strangely characteristic though infinitely various, make up a prescription for despondency and nerve weariness unsurpassed in any of the pharmacopoeias of the world. Horace Walpole wrote advisedly and from a great experience, 'Were I a physician I could prescribe nothing better than 'Recipe ccqlxv. drach. Londin. per annum' (365 doses of London a year).

"The joy of living, which is so characteristic a feature of the London 'atmosphere' is not, however, the city's only claim as a health resort. London is in fact very healthy. The story of the Member of Parliament who never passed its borders and who acquired a summer tan in Hyde Park which made his friends from the country envious and curious as to its origin—is no fiction.

"In a lecture recently read before the Royal Society of Medicine and reported in the Medical Magazine, Dr. E. D. Clippingdale gave some interesting information regarding the health value of London. The general mortality from all causes was stated to be 14.3 per 1,000 per annum, a ratio which compares favorably with that of other large towns, while the mortality of Hampstead was notoriously the lowest in the country. The libel that a native London family is not heard of after the third generation, Dr. Clippingdale added, was disproved in his own person, he being a member of the twelfth generation of a family living in London since the days of Queen Elizabeth.

"The healthiness of London is to some extent due to its situation and soil. Its nearness to the east coast insures a constant supply of fresh air, 'drawn straight from the North Pole, where it has been purified by contact with the ice and drawn south by the vacuum created in the equatorial region.' The soil is for the most part clayey, curiously enough, where gravel is found, as in the watercourse of the Thames—a lower degree of general health prevails. This is quite contrary to popular belief, but can be proved by reference to the Registrar General's statistics. Hampstead, Highgate, Harrow and other places in Middlesex and Wimbledon, Streatham, Sydenham and other places in the south, which are situated, as it were, on the rim of the clay basin, are the most healthy residential parts of the city.

"London is rich in open spaces. The County Council controls 168 of these spaces, of 2,000 acres. Paris has only 540 acres, and Berlin 1,328 in a corresponding area. In addition to these spaces London has about 1,000 acres of 'Royal parks,' many private squares, and a number of vast open spaces like Epping and Hainault Forests and Hampstead Heath. Moreover, through the heart of London flows the Thames, noting, as was pointed out by a foreign doctor during the course of a trip from London Bridge to Richmond on Good Friday, 'like a huge lung to the city.'

"Since the disappearance of the 'London ague' there has been no endemic disease in the capital. This affection was of a malarial character and gained considerable notoriety owing to the illustrious persons who from time to time fell victims to it—among others, Oliver Cromwell, Charles II., William III., and Queen Anne. In a paper read some time ago before the West London Medical Society upon 'The Rivers of London' it was suggested that the disappearance of the 'London ague' might be due to the closing in of many little streams, such as the Fleet, that formerly intersected the city.

"London has for long enjoyed a reputation as a good resort for asthmatics. This was due to some extent to the prevalence of fogs, now happily less frequent. The late Dr. Blasius Williams found that if a fog occurred while country patients suffering from asthma were waiting in London to consult him, they were relieved and went home without seeing him. Patients affected with rheumatism do well in London as a rule (a medical man stated the other day that he knew of several cases where persons who had suffered severely from this affection in other places were cured on coming to London). Hay fever, bronchitis, and whooping cough are also said to be amenable to the city atmosphere.

"This affection, however, for which London may be regarded as a specific is neurasthenia, or nerve weariness. The curative agent here is the power of the city to call a patient out of himself and so free him from his morbid anxieties and broodings. Dr. Clippingdale's prescription is as follows:—

"'In addition to submitting your patient to the internal diversions of London, send him for a tour round the city. Let him stand upon the Tower Bridge and contemplate the mercantile and pleasure craft passing beneath him, and let him think of the scene three centuries ago, when Elizabeth's ships left that spot to meet the 'Armada.' Let him pass into the East End and study the customs and costumes of Whitechapel. Let him go into the heart of the city and exercise his ingenuity in crossing seathless its crowded roadways. Let him pass westward to the haunts of Johnson and Goldsmith and Garrick and Lamb. Let him listen to the chimes of Bow Bells, and to the bells of St. Clement's and St. Martin's and be reminded of his nursery days; and at night send him to the Thames Embankment to see the homeless getting a night's lodging there . . . there. If a few days in London does your neurasthenic patient no good, his case may well be helpless and hopeless.'

"The general use of gas and electricity and the reduction in the number of horses employed—with consequent reduction in the number of stables and manure heaps and the flies which breed therein—have done much to increase the healthfulness of London and make it a formidable rival even of the famous health resorts. It is interesting to recall the fact that there were formerly a number of medicinal springs in London—Bagnigge Wells, Sadler's Wells, Clerkenwell and Shadwell."

Prince of Wales Expert on Skis

During Trip to Norway He Astonished Companions by His Energy and Endurance.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

MEMBERS of the royal family, including the Princess Royal, Prince and Princess Christian, Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyll, Princess Henry of Battenberg, the Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, have given their patronage to a big bazaar to be held in aid of the Wennington Homes for aged deaf and dumb people at Rainham, Essex, to take place at Claridge's Hotel on May 13 and 14. It is to be opened on the first day by Queen Amelie and by Princess Henry of Battenberg on the second.

Many other well known persons also are acting as patrons and patronesses, and among the presidents and helpers at the stalls will be the Duchess of Marlborough, the Duchess of Somerset; Katherine, Duchess of Westminster; Princess Munster, Lady Chesterfield, Lady Llangattock, Lady Clifden, the Dowager Lady O'Hagan, Lady Dunpiln, Lady Phyllis Windsor-Clive, Lady Maxwell-Lyte and Mrs. Grahame-White, while Lord Chesterfield, Lord Combermere, Lord Torrington and Mr. Claude Grahame-White are among those connected with the tobacco stall. Sir Arthur Fairbairn, who is himself deaf and dumb, is the chairman of the committee and is officiating as honorary treasurer.

The Prince of Wales, who astonished sportsmen at Finse, Norway, by his wonderful powers of endurance as a ski runner, has just smoked his first pipe in public. The Prince's pipe—it is probably one of his first—is of the solid, square stemmed variety, with a silver mount, and is something of the bulldog type, with a rather heavy bowl.

At Oxford the Prince is occasionally seen smoking cigarettes, but never while at college was he seen smoking a pipe out of doors.

During his short stop at Finse the Prince was an enthusiastic ski runner, and was seen gliding over the snow from early morning until late in the afternoon. Once, when accompanied by the Major the Honorable W. Cadogan and Mr. Andreas Klen as guide, the Prince was skiing for eight hours, outdoing everybody in endurance.

WOMEN AS MOTORISTS.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

THE great and increasing interest which women take in motoring is illustrated by the fact that there now exists in London a school of motoring for women which is owned and managed entirely by a woman. The principal is Miss Aileen Preston, whose devotion to motoring led her to enter a motor works, where she received a complete training in motor engineering. Subsequently she took a post as chauffeur to a woman, and finally, convinced that the number of would-be women motorists justified the action, she opened a school of motoring for women in Kensington a few months back. Its success has amply fulfilled her expectations.

A woman who is associated with Miss Preston in her enterprise said that the number of applications for tuition were numerous. "More and more women want to learn to drive their own cars," she said, "and they come more readily for instruction to a woman than to a man. The reason is that a woman understands their difficulties better than a man and is a more patient teacher. My own experience in a workshop, where I was the only woman pupil, was that men expect a woman to grasp and understand a thing thoroughly before she has received an adequate explanation of it. But once a woman knows how to drive she can manage her car as well as any one, and the larger a car the easier it is to drive in traffic—at least that is my experience. I should say there was quite an opening for the woman who wants to teach motor driving to other women."

IS SHE A SUFFRAGETTE?

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

THE Liverpool Watch Committee has appointed Mrs. Hughes, matron of the main Bridewell, to be an inspector in the Criminal Investigation Department of the city. This is stated to be the first appointment of the kind in England.

Her main duties will be the taking of evidence in charges concerning women and children. It is felt that women will more readily give statements to their own sex than to men. Mrs. Hughes may also be sent out to obtain evidence in cases concerning women, but as the appointment is an experimental one her duties have not yet been strictly defined.

Mrs. Hughes is a widow about thirty-five years of age, and for two years as matron of the main Bridewell has been in charge of a number of wardresses.

"THE BEAUTIFUL UNKNOWN"

A MYSTERY IN WAX; THE EXQUISITE WICAR "TETE DE CIRE" OF WHICH THE ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN

The discussion which arose over the famous "Leonardo da Vinci" wax bust bought by Dr. von Bode for the Imperial Museum, Berlin, brought to public notice the great treasure of the Wicar Museum at Lille, which has long been the admiration of all lovers of works of art. This head of a beautiful unknown, of which the reproduction here is from the Illustrated London News, was the subject of one of Mr. Paul Bourget's essays; while Alexandre Dumas fils was so enraptured with this head that it is said he had a perfect copy made and that it became for him his Egeria.

ODDS AND ENDS OF NEWS AND GOSSIP CABLED FROM EUROPEAN CAPITALS

THE KAISER'S BUST.

(Special Dispatch.)

PARIS, May 2.

A GOOD deal of excitement has been created by the announcement that the president of the Committee of the Salon des Artistes Français has declined to receive the bust of the German Emperor sent in by a German sculptor named Besner, who claimed a prescriptive right to exhibit without the consent of the committee because he once obtained a medal of the third class.

The incident, if sharp, was short, as Besner himself has now given his word that he will not forward the work. His account is as follows:—"This is the first time in the sixteen years in which I have lived in France that I have had the slightest difficulty. Last January I was fortunate enough to carve a bust of the Emperor in Berlin, and when I begged permission to exhibit it was immediately granted. I was, therefore, quite in good faith, and I swear that I did not think that the fact of presenting to the public a portrait of the sovereign would be likely to give rise to unpleasantness.

"This is why I hesitated before yielding to the president, Mr. Mercie, but now the affair is settled, and I give my word that I will not send in my bust. I have consulted many who do not agree with Mr. Mercie, but, nevertheless, I yield as I do not forget that I am a German in a foreign country."

It seems a pity that such an incident should have arisen, but most persons will agree that the president was right in avoiding even the remote chance of a Chauvinistic outburst from some irresponsible visitor at an essentially French exhibition.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS INCREASE

(Special Dispatch.)

BERLIN, May 2.

AS the result of the recent eight-days' campaign known as the "Red" week, the German socialist party is now able to count more than one million paying members. The German socialists have polled far more than a million votes at the Reichstag elections for nearly a quarter of a century, and in 1912 polled four millions and a half; but in every case the majority who voted for their candidates were not of their party. Representing a standing and absolute opposition to the Prussian régime of to-day, the party is always favored by a mass of voters who are also opposed to it, but who yet cannot find a candidate otherwise responding to their views.

The real importance of the figures, therefore, lies elsewhere. In the first place, the party has been able to raise about 10,000 new adherents a day during its not too strenuous campaign; and, secondly, in spite of the recent successes of the Junker-conservatives, the progress of their numbers remains unbroken. The party's figures, showing the year and the number of members paying subscriptions, are:—

Year.	Members.	Year.	Members.
1910	730,088	1906	384,327
1911	836,562	1907	530,468
1912	970,112	1908	587,336
1913	982,850	1909	633,309

The new members who have joined during the Red week, numbering approximately 70,000, are now to be added to the figure, making well over a million. Simultaneously the Vorwarts boasts of having received many thousands of new subscribers.

ART IN THE AQUITANIA

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

THOUGH the Aquitania will not sail from Southampton on her maiden voyage to New York on May 30) is not to be the biggest liner in the world, the Cunard company have made it a floating picture house of arts and crafts, and have thus begun a new era in the adornment of great passenger carrying liners.

Masterpieces of art, old and new, from all parts of the United Kingdom and Europe have been copied by the best experts. Eight extensive suites of rooms or flats are named after eight famous artists—Reynolds, Gainsborough, Romney, Holbein, Van Dyck, Raeburn, Rembrandt and Velasquez—and each is adorned with costly prints of the best works of the master after whom it is named.

The first class smoking room, adapted from a Charles II. room at Greenwich Hospital, makes an especial appeal to English and Americans, for its walls are hung with engravings of those who made Anglo-American history. The first class drawing room is a reproduction of work of the best period of the brothers Adam—1760. The wrought iron balustrade of the main staircase and the Corinthian columns have been reproduced from a famous French chateau.

KNIVES AND FORKS NOW WORRY TURKISH SOLDIER

(Special Dispatch.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 2.

THE Turkish soldier is experiencing at present great difficulties, perhaps greater than the ones he had to go through during the Balkan war against a formidable enemy.

Young Djemad Enver Pacha, the Minister of War, has ordered that the soldier must use fork and knife at his meals. Now, this Western innovation finds almost insurmountable difficulties. Accustomed, through long usage and habit, to squat on the ground at his repast and to employ only his fingers in breaking bread and enjoying his traditional pilav (a rice dish), the crude Anatolian soldier considers fork and knife not only superfluous but cumbersome, and tries, with every possible means at his disposal, to avoid this new "barbaric" custom.

It is rather amusing to see him employing these utensils. He does it as long as his superiors supervise him. No sooner do they disappear from the field of observation than he reverts to his old habit of squatting and of using his fingers. When the evening comes announcing the approach of the superior he jumps up, takes his seat at the table and makes efforts as best he can to eat "à la Franca."

The former War Minister, Mahmoud Shefket Pacha, tried his best to improve the soldier in this direction, but in vain. Will young Enver Pacha succeed? Time, however, is the best teacher.

Another perplexity of the Turkish soldier is the necessity of learning reading and writing. The Turkish language is anything but easy. It has no vowels, but a number of signs replacing them. The word is very often more guessed than read, and considerable intelligence is required in this.

Now, the Turkish soldier is far from being naturally intelligent, and learning to write and read is to him a tremendously difficult task. Here, too, much time and great patience on the part of the teachers are needed. Enver Pacha recognises this fact and, to his credit, is lenient and indulgent in his attempts at reforming his subordinates.

FRENCHMEN'S TRIBUTE TO THEIR MOTHERS

(Special Dispatch.)

PARIS, May 2.

THE great parts that mothers have played in the lives of famous Frenchmen are shown in an interesting symposium made by "Femina." Many great men eulogise their mothers and declare they owe to them the greatest influence of their lives.

Mr. Anatole France remembers the deep impression made on him when his mother said:—"The world itself punishes your sins. The trees, the moon, the sun will not be gay if you are naughty. The world is the mirror of yourself."

Pierre Loti says:—"My mother's influence has never ceased. Everything that belonged to her has assumed importance in my life. When I touch the treasures of her that I have I regain peace and confidence and faith."

Mr. Loubert says:—"I had the joy of my mother being with me for many years, and I mourn her now. That is the most precious influence."

Mr. Bleriot says that his mother wished him to be a priest. "When she learned that I had flown the Channel she wrote me just as ordinary letter. Her chief desire was to make me an honest man and to give me a sense of duty."

FASHION EXPERT'S VIEWS OF THE GOWNS WORN AT GAY LONGCHAMPS

Amazing Creations of the Parisian Are Described and Show That Freakish Styles Are Still the Rage—Turkish Trousers Are Worn by Some.

SKIRTS SO TIGHT WALKING ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE

(Special Dispatch.)

PARIS, May 2.

A VERY charming woman in the eighteenth century once said:—"Beaucoup de petites choses qui ne sont rien lorsqu'on en rit, deviennent des afflictions si on les considerent dans un esprit trop serieux." I think we may apply this bit of delicate feminine philosophy to present fashions and not go wrong, for their eccentricities certainly run the risk of becoming quite painful. It is better to laugh at our mistaken endurance of tight skirts, high heels and complicated draperies than to turn them into imaginary tragedies or signs of mental degeneration. Fashions, if we are honest enough to own it, always have been a medium in which women express the lighter side of their nature; one may even say they have often proved a safety valve for much foolishness; and if women ceased to be foolish the world would be wanting in charm. Life would become stale and unprofitable indeed; and it is an abiding comfort to know that any such disaster is not likely to happen yet at any rate. If proof were needed we have only to remember what we saw women wearing and suffering with complete self-satisfaction at the reopening at Longchamps.

There were skirts so tight that walking was out of the question, and their wearers just shuffled along amiably but not with any grace. Over the skirt flowed a tunic so full that a ballet dancer would not have despised it. There were also Turkish trousers worn with a short jacket bodice, buttoned closely, from throat to waist, where a sash girdled the hips, and, thrown open with a certain swagger, was a voluminous cloth race coat with the skirt slightly stiffened round the edges to emphasize the évasé movement. There were narrow, straight, brightly striped skirts worn with short, shapeless little boleros fastening on the left shoulder and crossways to the waist, with limp lingerie collars tickling the ears and almost meeting the close fitting little toque which dipped over the left ear and aspired high above the right one with a sheaf of prickly leaves like those of the artichoke.

There was a charming person with overbright eyes in red cloth with a huge mousmé bow of black ribbon in the middle of her back, a small black straw hat shaped like the sea shell that is supposed to sing to one, and which was, apparently, fixed to the head by a row of enormous cherries across the brow. White stockings, black shoes, white gloves and black stitching carried on the black and white notes, and the cut of the coat and skirt was of the most fantastic kind; a skirt slit high at the back, a tunic which dipped in front and ran up behind, and, a coat which had double basques behind and was cut away in front from a sort white piqué waistcoat fastened with black and red stone buttons.

Another amazing creation was in banana gabardine with a tunic of closely kilted red and yellow tartan, a bolero trimmed with tartan, and a tartan toque trimmed with banana straw bands. A yard or two away from this apparition was an exaggeration of a Victorian maiden as Leach might have drawn her. A frilly petticoat, which looked like trousers, clipped the ankles, a flounced dress of bright green taffetas, flounced sleeves, a full bodice with a round, low neck, and, surmounting all, a tiny little hat tilted over the nose, trimmed with a weird mixture of fruit, flowers and leaves. I forget if the gloves had only one button, but it is probable.

Nevertheless, the Parisienne manages to achieve success this season where race cloaks are concerned, and it seems impossible to imagine a woman who has the intelligence to dress as well as this ever allowing herself to be led away into foolish fashions which are hopelessly unbecoming, and yet one has to confess that she is not to be relied on. She is so much a thing of moods and caprice that she seems to enjoy looking her worst now and then, maybe for the sheer pleasure of proving afterward that she can look lovelier than ever. We shall never understand her, so we must try to accept her as she is, and when we cannot admire her we must be satisfied to smile ironically if we will, and wait for the time when we can once more say that she is good to look upon.

The same striking contrasts are to be seen in evening dresses as we have already noticed in those worn by day. Daring follies, discreet smartness, dignity that is almost dull, and abandoned frivolity all meet together in the market place of dress. But what could be more charming than a pale buttercup chiffon dinner dress, draped with Greek simplicity and, floating loose from the shoulders, a chiffon train, soft and fugitive as a summer cloud? At the waist a big bunch of pale buttercups, and no other ornament. Then again, for a tall, slender woman, a straight, narrow-skirted under-dress of white satin, with three flounces of white Chantilly over very fine black net, and a waist belt of roses shading from palest to deepest pink.

A corsage of Chantilly over black and white net completed this very dainty and most correctly smart little gown. For a stately woman to wear on a ceremonious occasion there was a white satin dress with a long, pointed train which had a three-quarter tunic of jet and silver and a corsage of the same. In something the same style was a short white satin dress with a long jet tunic. In neither of these two dresses was there any hint of a waist line, yet the slimness and graceful line of the figure seemed to be the main suggestion of the designer. It is pleasant to see dresses which do show line and simplicity, and it is encouraging to find, as the season advances, that women are choosing them in preference to the bunched up, overtrimmed models which were thrust under our notice early in the year as being the only things to wear.

MUSICAL PRODIGY A GIRL OF FOURTEEN

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

As it is a well known fact that many musical prodigies have been discovered by accident, so there is every reason to believe that the West Ham Board of Guardians have found in a little workhouse girl of fourteen under the provisions of the Union one who may in the near future be rivalling Mme. Clara Butt, or Miss Kirkby Lunn on the opera stage or concert platform.

"She is a marvel," said a member of the guardians, when asked about their discovery. "Several of the Board have heard her singing some popular ballads, and have been charmed by her voice. She possesses also a remarkable range—three octaves and a semi-tone."

She has a rich contralto voice, and a love of music seems ingrained in her heart. The guardians sent her to a professor at the Royal College of Music, who reported that he could say without any reserve that those critics who listened to her at the college were greatly impressed by her gifts.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that the girl shows very great promise;" but urged her guardians that as there is plenty of time before her, she must not be allowed to practise her highest notes, as she has been doing. "She ought, properly trained, to do very well indeed, as she has the making of a very unusual contralto voice."

A NOISELESS WORLD.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

RUBBER, which is being employed in increasing quantities to meet a popular demand, is being used for all purposes—notably for domestic service. Later it may be employed for street purposes in cases of illness.

What is probably one of the first rubber floors in the country has been laid down at the offices of the Rubber Growers' Association, in Eastcheap—made from surplus rubber from that subscribed for by the big companies for Guy's Hospital flooring.

A member of the association informed your correspondent that rubber will become much cheaper in the course of the next year or two, and that when the plantations are yielding what they should rubber will be used in the home and elsewhere to a great extent.

"We are proposing, among other things," he said, "to manufacture a rubber street covering, to be laid out in cases of illness, instead of laying down straw, as is done at present."

This new flooring material costs 6d per square yard, but will, it is asserted, last forever; can be easily cleaned, is noiseless, and it is warm in winter and cool in summer.

ENGLAND'S BREWERIES.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 2.

A WHITE paper was issued recently which states that the number of brewers for the purposes of sale in the United Kingdom in the year ended September 30 last was 3,887. The materials used were as follows:—Malt, 42,267,627 bushels; unmalted corn, 91,628 bushels; rice, &c., 1,631,256 cwt.; sugar, &c., 2,279,614 cwt.; hops (including a small quantity of "preparations of hops"), 66,941,870 pounds, and hop substitutes, 18,685 pounds.

The number of barrels of beer produced was 37,078,709 and the amount of beer duty charged £13,771,888. During the year 68,708 barrels of a declared value of £23,154,579 were exported, the principal customers being the British East Indies, £4,615,000; Australia, £3,350,000; Belgium, £2,990,000, and the United States, £2,290,000. Germany took £46,857 worth of English beer.

GERMAN COURTS DENY TANGO IS SUGGESTIVE

(Special Dispatch.)

BERLIN, May 2.

THE State has just been condemned to pay costs in an amusing case. The authorities recently confiscated, wherever exposed for sale, a postcard representing a couple dancing the tango. The man was depicted in evening dress and the woman as wearing an extremely low cut dance toilette.

The Public Prosecutor maintained that the card was immoral, inasmuch as the dress not only did not conceal the figure of the woman, but, on the contrary, drew attention to it in a most daring manner. The decollete, he said, was also so cut that it could not possibly represent reality, and was calculated still further to call to be suggestiveness of the picture. Furthermore, the pose of the dancing couple was unnecessary to good taste.

For the defence counsel said:—"If the Public Prosecutor demands a ban against a picture which does not excite interest in the viewer, he asks for something impossible. He would then be called upon to interdict in the court halls, where dancers appear in specially low cut toilette by day and night. The idea of the Public Prosecutor that the pose of the dancers is suggestive is very far fetched."

The prosecution lost its case, and the card in question, as a result of the advertisement it has obtained, is now in great demand.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

IT MADE SOME DIFFERENCE

"I think it is perfectly dreadful," began the girl, with the pale blonde hair, "the heartless way some girls have in regard to men! They don't seem to care about anything except the money a man has!"

"I know it," agreed the young woman with the curling lashes. "All they want is a good time. Take Fredrick Ringle, for instance."

"I was just thinking about him," said the blonde girl. "He is the best looking fellow we know and yet he always gets the short end of it because he can't spend money like the others. And he has such a fine character!"

"But character won't take a girl to the theatre," said the girl with curling lashes. "Of course, I am at present speaking from most girls' point of view. As for me, I appreciate a man's true worth. I'm just as glad to see Frederick as any one! I—"

"Why, Daisy!" cried the blonde girl, "I was there myself when you broke a date over the telephone with Frederick because some one else had asked you to the opera!"

"Well, that's different!" declared the young woman with curling lashes. "Frederick was merely going to call on me, but the opera is an education, and one should seize the chance to enjoy it whenever possible! And it was Mr. Nippert who asked me, and you know he is so quick to take offence if one doesn't jump at his invitations. And he is such a big man socially! Why, his auto is lined with—"

"I always made a point of asking Frederick to my Sunday night teas," declared the blonde girl. "I think it really is more of a compliment to invite any one informally like that than to a dinner. I've always wondered if Frderick's dress suit were really his or just rented. Of course, that's nothing against him, only—"

"A man of real fine feelings would hate to wear a rented suit, I should think," interrupted the other. "It's odd that Frederick doesn't get on faster in business. Sometimes I think he must have a weak spot in his nature. Maybe he is cut out for one of these unsuccessful men!"

"Perhaps," agreed the blonde girl. "He really is too handsome to amount to much. I've always felt that about Frederick. Yet he has such a way of looking serious as though he were planning great things!"

"I think it would be an awful mistake for a girl to get interested in him," said the young woman with curling lashes. "He never could afford to run a house properly and think how his wife would have to dress! Yet, of course, he is a very fine man!"

"He has such high aspirations," sighed the blonde girl. "Of course, I understand that he can't afford to bring me five pound boxes of candy. Still, it would be nice if he could—"

"That was why you ditched him in favour of Tom Walsh," suggested the girl with curling lashes. "Tom seems to have credit with a candy factory. However—"

"Why, the very idea!" cried the blonde girl, indignantly. "I have every respect for Frederick! But I certainly am not going to miss a chance like Tom Walsh out of foolish sentiment! Do you realize what dividends his father gets from his mine? Anyhow, I think it unkind to let a man gradually fall in love with you when you know it's hopeless, and Frederick had been dropping in pretty often. I had to give him a hint."

"He came just as often to see me!" declared the girl with curling lashes. "I'm sure I've always tried to be nice to him, but I think he might have had better sense than to persist in sticking around when Mr. Nippert was calling! He seemed to think he had just as much right to be there as a man who could buy and see him 50 times over! Sometimes I think Frederick is pushing!"

"There certainly is something crude about him," agreed her friend. "Maybe it is the result of the narrow, retired life he is forced to lead. I presume he means well. He—"

"Girls!" cried a third as she dashed in. "Have you heard? Frederick Ringle has been appointed secretary of his company at a perfectly shameful salary, it's so big—and is going to take charge of the Paris branch!"

The blonde girl recovred first. "Dear Frederick!" she murmured. "I always thought he was made for great things! I believe I'll telephone him to come to dinner to-night—he'll want to see me before he goes away!"

"How fortunate," cried the girl with curling lashes, "that I hadn't asked anybody to the club dance! I'll ask Fred! I always knew something like this would happen! It just serves the girls right who have treated him so because he hadn't plenty of money! I hope he will realize that I have always been his friend!"

Farm and Dairy Market Report

Toronto, Monday, May 4.—There is lots of the "come back" spirit to Canadian business, and as spring advances trade reports become more optimistic in tone. Foreign trade has made a good start. Throughout the country the building trade is active, giving employment to many men out of work, and wholesale dealers report that orders are now coming in more frequently. At the heels of this new optimism is found the impression that Canada is to have good crops this year. Soil conditions are just right for the spring season. Canadian business shows signs of recovering from the evil effects of the real estate boom.

The most noticeable feature of farmers' markets has been the strengthening of the cattle market, consequent upon light receipts. Grains show a tendency to worde lower levels. Butter, both dairy and creamery make, has stumped seriously.

WHEAT

Reports indicate an increase of 27,000,000 bushels of fall wheat in the United States over the record crop of last year. The crop to date, both in Canada and the United States, is in fine condition. Seedings of fall wheat are proceeding actively in the Canadian West. Locally there has been a slight decline in quotations in both Western and Ontario wheat. Quotations: No. 1 Northern, 96½c; No. 2, 95½c; surrenings, 65c to 66c; Ontario, 90c to $1.02.

COARSE GRAINS

The tendency here is toward lower levels, noticeable particularly in Western oats and in barley. There is a rumor that Argentine corn, which has had a depressing effect on United States markets, may come into Canada: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 45½c; No. 3, 43½c; Ontario oats, 38c to 40c; corn, 73½c to 74c; peas, 89c to 90c; rye, 63c to 64c; buckwheat, 76c to 80c; malting barley, 56c to 58c; feed, 51c to 53c. Montreal quotations are: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 45½c; No. 3, 42½c; No. 2 feed, 41½c corn, 75½c to 76c; barley, malting, 56c; feed, 49c to 50c; peas, $1.70 to $1.75.

MILL FEEDS

The price continues steady, but the tendency is towards lower levels. Bran, $23 to $25; shorts, $25 to $26; middlings, $28 to $30; feed flour, $34 to $35. Montreal dealers ask for bran, $23; shorts, $25; middlings, $28.

HAY AND STRAW

The hay market, which advanced on the strength of U. S. demand, continues strong on light receipts. Farmers are too busy to market the surplus they have. No. 1 hay is quoted $14 to $14.50; No. 2, $13 to $13; No. 3, $9 to $9; baled straw, $6 to $6.50. At Montreal receipts are light. It is believed that farmers have a great deal on hand, but are not satisfied with the price. No. 2, $15.50 to $16; No. 3, $13 to $15; No. 3, $10 to $11.

EGGS AND POULTRY

Egg prices have reached the bottom: the willingness of dealers to buy for storage would seem to indicate that prices will not go lower. Receipts continue to be of good quality and are placed in storage at 21c to 22c. Eggs retail at 24c to 25c. Montreal dealers report the quality exceptionally good at 19c to 19½c f.o.b. In some districts where Toronto and Montreal dealers compete, farmers are receiving as high as 20c.

Poultry, alive or dead, is hard to get. Dressed fowl have gone up from 17c to 20c; alive, 15c to 18c; yearling chickens, dressed, 18c to 20c; alive, 15c to 16c; turkeys, 22c to 25c.

POTATOES AND BEANS

Farmers continue to hold their supplies and quotations have again advanced. Ontario's selling at 85c to 87½ in car lots and New Brunswicks, $1.05. At Montreal the market is firm at 95c to $1 for Green Mountains.

Beans here are quoted $2.10 to $2.20 for primes and $2.15 to $2.25 for hand picked. At Montreal hand picked beans are quoted $2.25 to $2; one-pound pickers, $1.85 to $1.90; three-pound pickers, $1.80 to $1.75.

HIDES AND WOOL

Quotations are: Hides, cured 14½c to 15c; part cured, 13½c to 14c; green, 12c to 13½c; horse hides, $4.50 to $5; horse hair, 30c to 40c;; calf skins, cured, 17½c to 18c; deakins, 85c to $1.40; tanner skins, 90c to 95c; sheep skins, $1.30 to $1.70.

The new clip is arriving and wool prices have advanced. Unwashed, coarse, 15c; fine, 18c; washed rejects, 23c to 25½c; coarse, 25½c to 26½c; fine, 28½c to 29½c.

SEEDS

Wholesale seed merchants are selling to the trade per cwt. as follows: Red clover, No. 1, $19 and $21; No. 2, $17.50 to $18.50; alsike, No. 1, $21; No. 2, $17 to $18.50; timothy, No. 1, $6.50 to $7.50; No. 2, $7.25 to $7.50; alfalfa, No. 1, $14 to $15; No. 2, $13 to $13.50.

DAIRY PRODUCE

The bottom has fallen out of the butter market in the past week. Receipts are increasing continuously, while no satisfactory market offering. Alberta creamery is being reported as better than down in Vancouver at 28c, hence there is no market in that direction. United States prices do not admit of export and apparently the only outlook is the Montreal market. Wholesale dealers are quoting farmers' separator prints at 28c to 29c; dairy prints, 26c to 27c; fresh creamery prints, 30c to 32c, and bakers, 24c to 25½c. If the situation does not improve many factories may be induced to turn over to cheese for which there seems to be a fairly good export demand. Quotations here are: New large, 18½c to 19c; twins, 19c to 19½c; old large, 20½c; twins, 21½c.

HORSES

Quotations on the horse exchanges average about as follows: Heavy draft, $220 to $260; agricultural horses, $140 to $200; express horses, $200 to $250; light delivery, $125 to $175; roadsters, $140 to $250; serviceably sound, $80 to $90.

LIVE STOCK

Shippers seem to have discovered the wisdom of small shipments. Last week it will be remembered heavy shipments the first of the week depressed the market and lowered quotations. This past week every day has been characterized by small receipts and quotations have risen stiffly. The demand seems to be for handy weight steers, which, the butchers state, cut up better to meet the requirements of their customers. A few choice steers have been purchased to go to the States.

Quotations are as follows: Choice heavy steers, $8.15 to $8.50; handy choice steers, $8 to $8.25; butchers' steers, com. to good, $7 to $8; heifers, $6.75 to $8.10; choice cows, $7 to $7.50; com. to good, $4.50 to $7; butcher bulls, $6 to $7.75; feeders, $6.75 to $7.50; stockers, $5.50 to $7.00; canners and cutters, $3.50 to $4.50.

Choice milch cows are at $85 to $90; com. to med., $45 to $65; springers, $45 to $100. Calves range from $5 to $10.50, according to size and quality.

Spring lambs are arriving in greater quantities and are quoted at $9.50 to $10 each; yearling wether lambs, $9 to $10; buck lambs, $6.25 to $9.25; light ewes, $7 to $7.50; heavy sheep and bucks, $5.50 to $6.50; culls, $4 to $5.50.

Western hogs have been arriving on the market in considerable quantities and quotations have been depressed to $9.50 to $9.65 f.o.b. country points.

The Montreal cattle market reports the week ending with prices steady. The local demand was good and choice steers brought $8.25 to $8.60; good, $7.75 to $8, and from that down to $6; cows ran $6.50 to $7.50 and bulls, $5 to $7.25. Offerings of spring lambs were not large at $9 to $9 each. Other quotations are: Yearling lambs, $8 to $9; sheep, $6 to $7. Calves range from $3 to $10 each.

MONTREAL HOG MARKET

Montreal, Saturday, May 2.—There was no change in the condition of the market for live hogs this week, on account of the fact that the supply was small, for which there was a good demand from packers and an active trade was done in Ontario selected lots at $9.75, weighed off cars. The trade in abattoir fresh-killed dressed hogs continues fairly good and prices are unchanged at 13½c.

Nervous Prostration And Heart Trouble

For Three Years Doctors Struggled With This Disease, and in Vain---Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The complete breakdown of the nervous system as in nervous prostration is usually the result of overwork, worry or "burning the candle at both ends."

There are always warnings if you will only recognize them. You find yourself easily fatigued and annoyed. Little things make you irritable. You do not enjoy your work or find yourself forgetful and lacking energy. Headaches may return about the same time each day; there may be nervous indigestion and distress caused by even the simplest food. Gloomy forebodings and hysteria are other symptoms. You may look strong and well and yet be on the verge of nervous collapse.

When threatened by nervous breakdown begin at once the use of Dr Chase's Nerve Food and escape such serious developments as nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scott Lake, C.B., writes:—"I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors without satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and was completely cured by the treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my house work with pleasure and comfort and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr Chase's Nerve Food 50c. a box, 1x for $2.50, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE FREIDMANN VACCINE RESULTS

The second medical report on the Friedmann treatment of tuberculosis to be published in this country is that of the New York Board of Health, recording that of forty-seven cases "injected" last year twelve have died and twenty-wo are still in the city's hospitals. Seven are attending clinics for further treatment, one is being privately treated, and only five seem to have recovered. There were seventy-nine cases in all, but thirty have been lost sight of by the board, and upon the remaining forty-seven it says briefly: 'Comment is unnecessary; the figures tell their own story.".

The story is that fewer, among those whose history is preserved, have recovered than was to be expected under usual conditions of treatment.—New York Times.

A FREE TRADE CONSERVATIVE GIVES CONTRASTS

To the Editor,—I have been looking for some editorial refutation of an amazing speech recently made by Mr. Weichel in the House of Commons, wherein he glorified protection and compared Great Britain with Germany, much to the disadvantage of the former. The word "amazing scarcely does justice to the speech, and courtesy alone prevents an adequate characterization of a most inaccurate deliverance. His assertion that the British Board of Trade "had to admit that for every German unemployed there were three or four British," cannot be verified, and no one knows it better than its author. As to this, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, M.P., the Labour leader, says in a report on conditions in Germany: "No falsehood has been more wicked than that told about German unemployment. Every trade union that keeps a record can show unemployment figures higher than can be produced by English unions." Referring to conversations with labour leaders, he adds: "They shuddered as they looked back on the terrible days of 1908. There was no question of two and three per cent. (official figures) but of 10, 20 and 30 per cent. of their members being unemployed." These men were absolutely unanimous in their assertions that protection in no way advanced wages, or created employment. As to wages, the British Board of Trade yellow book gives the following comparisons:

Trade.	Germany.	England.
	s. d.	s. d. s. d.
Bricklayers	26 11 to 31 3	37 6 to 46 6
Carpenters	26 11 to 31 3	36.2 to 39 4
Plumbers	24 0 to 28 0	35 4 to 39 4
Painters	24 0 to 29.6	31 6 to 37 6
Compositors	24 0 to 25 11	28 0 to 38 0

But this is not all in this comparison, for the German worker pays much more for food, clothes, and rent than does his English brother under free trade. The Board of Trade report shows that with these facts in mind it will be seen that "the British workmen earns one shilling where the German workmen earns ninepence," a difference of 25 per cent. In favour of the Englishman. There are some facts in the premises that Mr. Weichel did not mention in his protection speech, one of which is that there is absolute free trade in all materials entering into the building of ships. No wonder that in shipbuilding, therefore, Germany has made such marvellous progress. But even in this industry she is a long way behind free trade England whose mercantile shipping represents a tonnage of 20,275,791 as compared with her nearest competitor, Germany, of 4,998,746. How is it that our protection champion forgot to mention this trifle and also the incident that Great Britain's foreign trade exceeded Germany's last year by $1,250,000,000, despite the fact that her population is twenty million less.

Yes, sir, free trade in England is an awful economic fact. Why, the country is literally flooded with cheap food from every clime, and actually the working classes are found eating delicious New Zealand lamb and Argentine beef, while the German is buying horse meat and dog! "In grocers' windows" says Mr. Macdonald, "you see toasted corn which is sold as coffee, in the butchers' shops horse meat. Both are evidences of the poverty of the German working man. Everybody admits that." And whereas the free trade worker in Great Britain can buy his two-pound white oaf for five cents, his eGrman brother at a higher price contents himself with the forbidding-looking staff called "black bread." It is a rough, unpalatable mixture, but "baker and workmen agree that they would choose to eat something else if they could afford it." And these conditions, be it observed, are the rule in one of the most progressive countries in Europe. Perhaps Mr. Weichel would oblige still further by giving us some economic facts from other countries such as Spain, Portugal and Russia, where the gories of protection are to be seen in full blast.

USEFUL HINTS ON ADVERTISING

Newspapers the Best Medium

The Hamilton Spectator says:

B. A. Trestrail of the R. S. Williams Company, Toronto, related some of the experiences he had had as advertising manager of the firm and how he mapped out a campaign of advertising which gave the best results for the money expended. Mr. Trestrail told of the various mediums he had tried in order to get the desired publicity, but said he found that columns of the daily newspaper afforded the best and cheapest advertising he coud get.

He impressed upon his hearers the advisability of mapping out an advertising policy and sticking to it. He showed that there was little to be gained by trying out one scheme today and another to-morrow, as there was no way of reaching an estimate as to which gave the best results and nine times out of ten a merchant or firm would find themselves back where they started. He said that his firm had tried many advertising schemes and found that few of them brought the desired results outside of the newspaper advertisements.

On thing was necessary, he claimed, and that was to size up the class of people a merchant wants to reach, find out the paper that has the best circulation among that class and use it. His firm had gone to considerable expense in getting an idea of how the papers circulated in Toronto, and it is the intention to do the same thing here. Each ward of the city was carefully canvassed and an idea of the circulation each paper had in each ward was arrived at and in that way the advertisements were inserted in the paper which circulated among the class of people that the firm desired to reach. It meant that a great deal of money was saved and at the same time the ground was well covered.

He believed in personality in advertising and said that when a merchant was writing an ad. he should write just as he would talk to a man of the class he wanted to reach. He believed in an advertising man being given a rather free scope, as interference in one part of his plans might break up his entire campaign. He also expressed great faith in the results to be gained from window displays. The speaker put the argument in such clear, concise form that every person who heard derived some benefit from his ideas that will no doubt prove of great value later on. The dining room of the hotel was given over to the Club for the luncheon and the menu was the best the club has yet had at any of its gatherings.

Pirates Seized Ship.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—Details of a raid made by Chinese pirates on the steamer Shingtai, on March 31, in which a number of the ship's officers and crew were killed and $30,000 stolen, are brought here by the Japanese liner Nippon Maru.

The Shingtai, a Chinese-owned vessel which flies the British flag, sailed from Hong Kong with 170 passengers, who proved to be pirates. Three hours out of port a pre-arranged signal was given and the pirates drew pistols and knives and attacked four soldiers who had been supplied by the Canton Government to guard the vessel's treasures. They then seized the ship.

There was some demand for choice cows at $7.25 to $7.50, but the lower grades sold slow at from $6.50 to $6.90, and bulls brought from $5 to $7.25 per 100 pounds.

THAT $50 GRANT

Editor Examiner:

Mr. Editor,—An item of news appeared in the Examiner last Saturday which immediately attracted the attention of women, both voters and non-voters and aroused their ire. An indignation meeting was hastily called and a by-stander happened to hear, without being seen, the following snatches:

"Now just listen to this" (reading from the Examiner). "Such cheek!" "Did you ever hear the like?" And the City already overloaded with taxes," were the indignant exclamations at the conclusion of the reading.

After the first outburst of indignation had subsided an emphatic denunciation of the actions of the Woman's Council followed, which the listener found difficult to understand. The indignant women took their breath and then turned their spleen on the men. One woman made this remark:

"What sort of men are the Finance committee anyway to allow a bunch of women to make such a request? Were not these men put into office by the ratepayers to attend to such matters? Have they no brains or sense of their own anyway? In consenting to give a grant they are acknowledging their incompetenc to discharge the duties entrusted to them."

The women then wandered down from the subject (as women are apt to do) and one of them told the following story as a hit at the men. 'A middle-aged woman of seventy-five years, and after she had gone on for some time she ended by saying, 'What is the use of me telling you all this, for you will not understand it. In your day there were "men" and in my day there were "some" men, but nowadays there are "no men."

Another woman broke in with:

"Yes, it is disgusting how men nowadays let women make fools of themNobody, not even the women themselves, can respect them for it. The majority of men are looked upon as so much machinery to make the income for women."

At this crucial point it was thought fitting to have the opinion of a male on the subject, so the man of the house was called in and the item from the Examiner read to him. Shades of Mrs. Pankhurst! He paced the floor in a temper while the women sat up and took notice.

"Now see here, this sort of thing has got to be stopped. These women will have to be told to go home and mind their own business or babies, and not go meddling in matters they do not understand. It's no joke when they are getting after the public funds for their fads. Who did you say moved that $50 be granted? Alderman Langford! One would suppose he was a man who knew how to do business. People nowadays seem to have no judgment, common sense or reasoning!"

He strode through the open door and left the women under the impression that there are still "some" men.

One woman inclined to take a charitable view of the matter remarked, "Oh well perhaps after all they do not intend to give the $50. It is just their way of getting rid of the women. You know, men sometimes do that."

Others were not inclined to take this view of the matter and the discussion was about to become vigorous again when the door bell loudly rang. One woman sprang to her feet, exclaiming:

"Oh, my, I forgot to take off my kitchen apron before I came in and must make my escape."

The announcement of an evening caller was a signal for the breaking up of the meeting and the women departed.

Yours sincerely,

Domesticated.

Makes Hairs Disappear Almost Like Magic

(Toilet Tips)

Advocates of the electric needle for removing stubborn hairy growths now advocate that a similar result may be with powdered delatone and water is fully as efficacious and is devoid of pain, while the cost is trifling. The delatone paste is left on the hairy surface about two minutes and when it is rubbed off all traces of hair vanish. Washing leaves the skin soft, smooth and spotless. Be careful to see that it is delatone you get or you may be disappointed with the result.

"Wait and See" Policy Means Wait and Suffer to Belfast Business Men

HOME RULE EXPECTED

Special to The Examiner:

BELFAST, Ireland, May 7.—(Special Cable.)—The wait and see policy regarding Home Rule, which seems to be now followed out, is to business men of this city practically "wait and suffer." There is a general lull in trade and business is much affected. One prominent business man, discussing things this morning, said that business men here however Unionist they may be, recognize the principle of arbitration and think the question might be amicably settled that way. "We believe," said he, "that Home Rule is bound to come shortly in some form or other, and if not put into effect by the Liberal Government the Conservatives will in their own interests do something for Ireland in the form of Home Rule. In the meantime business boycotts are being put into effect all over Ireland, and manufacturing Ulster is already feeling the serious result of it."

GIVES RECOMMEND FOR MR. J. J. JEFFRIES

The appointment of Mr. John Jeffries, B.A., for 7 1-2 years head of the English department of Jarvis Street Collegiate, as principal of the school is recommended by Dr. L. E. Embree, retiring principal, in a letter to the Board of Education.

Dr. Embree says: "As four of the present principals in the seven Collegiates, exclusive of Jarvis Street, have been associated with me, either at Parkdale or at Jarvis, I have been in a position to form judgment as to their respective merits, and it is no disparagement to any of them to say that Mr. Jeffries is their equal in scholarship, in teaching power, in the fact necessary to manage pupils, and in ability to co-ordinate the work of a school."

SUDDEN DEATH OF WARSAW LADY

WARSAW, May 7.—The village was startled this morning by the news of the sudden death of one of the most respected ladies in the person of Jane Hannan, wife of Joseph Edwards, Esq. Apparently in the best of health last evening the deceased suffered an attack of acute indigestion which developed during the night, and passed away about five o'clock.

The surviving family consists of Mr. Edwards and five sons, namely, Cephas, of Ottawa Normal School; David, of Toronto; Arthur and Allan, who reside on the farm near here, and Frederic, who for the past year has resided with his parents.

Arrangements for the funeral are not yet completed.

LOOKING FOR A WIFE.

"Nice, Jolly Girl" Asked for by a Canadian Settler.

An English paper says: Once again a board of guardians has been implored to act as a matrimonial agency. A Woolwich man, 26 years of age, who has been in Canada seven years, is in want of a wife, and has written from Northern Ontario to Woolwich Board of Guardians on the subject. He says:

Will you be kind enough to find me a wife? You could hunt for a true girl up in this northern country and not find one. The few there are would sooner flirt than get married. I have a timber farm of 160 acres, but work on the railway all the summer and on the farm in the winter time. My wages on the railway are from £10 to £14 a month. I want a nice, jolly good, natural girl, not over 20 years old.

The letter was read at the meeting of the Guardians and provoked some amusement, but the Board resolved to take no action.

SENATORS HAVE A BILL TO MAKE TIPPING AN OFFENCE

Senator Davis Supported by Others Are Latest to Struggle With the Problem the Waiter Fosters--Looks Like a Hopeless Endeavour.

DOLING OUT BRIBES IS GROWING

OTTAWA, May 7.—Tips will be abolished within a month if Senator Davis, Prince Albert, and a number of other Senators and members of Parliament have their way, and it looks as if they might.

Senator Davis' bill, which provides for a fine of imprisonment for tipping, and making the employer, the employe and the person offering the gratuity liable, was given second reading in the Senate to-day.

In moving the reading, Senator Davis said that within recent years an intolerable system of petty bribery had grown up all over the world known as the tipping system. It had become such a nuisance that it was time it was grapled with by legislation, and he believed his bill would have the support of 90 per cent. of the people of the country, who were now subject to a growing scale of graft and tips in order to obtain accommodation and service. A person on a journey had to constantly have his hand in his pocket and had to bribe his way throughout his trip.

The Senator said that tips had a demoralizing effect on persons who received them. It had a tendency to pauperize waiters, porters and other persons who should stand on a plane of manhood above the servile position which they were placed in through the acceptance of gratuities. Employers should pay their servants and not expect the public to pay their help. Tipping also developed a spirit of arrogance on the part of those serving the public.

Senator Ross of Middleton, sympathized with the object of the bill, and said: "Every man should pay once, but no law of God or man should make him pay twice."

Will Oppose the Militia Estimates

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 7.—The estimates of Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, come up in the House this afternoon and House officials are prepared for an all-night session. The Opposition has decided to put itself on record as against the expenditure of so much money on militarism, and rural members in particular will put up a strong fight. On many items Colonel Hughes anticipates that he will have some trouble, but appears to be a little daunted at the prospect. It is stated that all objections to twelve million odd dollars to be voted will not come from the Opposition side.

Chief Howard On "Clean-up" Day

Chief Howard, head of the local Fire Department, to-day expressed his approval of the project of having a "Clean Up" day in this city.

"Mayor Buller," he said, "will have my hearty co-operation, and if the paper wishes it I will be only too glad to give an interview on fire prevention in this city. For years I have been harping on that very thing. Many of the fires in Peterborough are the direct result of carelessness or ignorance.

"The people should be instructed in the way to prevent fires; they should be taught to keep their yards and houses clean, and that rubbish heaps are lurking places of disease and a constant danger, as fires generally originate in such places."

Chief Howard is greatly in sympathy with the approaching clean-up day in Peterborough.

PRESENTED LAND TO LOCAL CHURCH

The Examiner was informed this afternoon that Mr. Joseph Bell, of this city, has presented the St. George's Anglican Church, of which the Rev. Jas. Price is rector, with two or three pieces of land. According to the information received the lots are just across the southern boundary of the city in North Monaghan, and are given to the South End Mission unconditionally. They are not adjacent to the present church so that they could not be used for enlarging the church.

A vote of condolence and sympathy with the Princess Louise, on the death of her husband, was carried by all the members standing.

BELLEVILLE WILL FIGHT INJUNCTION.

Many spectators were last night in attendance at the City Council meeting, it being expected that the session would be one out of the ordinary owing to the injunction which was issued yesterday restraining the Council from giving the contract of paving Front and Bridge streets to Foley and Gleeson. There was, however, no discussion upon the subject but Mayor Wills stated that the Council would fight the injunction. This was the outcome of a conference held with City Solicitor Masson previous to the Council meeting.—Belleville Int.

PRUDENTIAL LIFE OF CANADA GET DOMINION CHARTER

OTTAWA, May 7.—After one of the hardest fights ever put up upon a measure, the bill of the Prudential Life of Canada passed the Banking and Commerce Committee this morning, unamended. The bill incorporates under a Dominion charter the Prudential Life Insurance Company of Manitoba, and was opposed to the Prudential Life Insurance Company of America. The company undertook to satisfy the Finance Department that it had $100,000 of unimpaired capital before applying for a license. The bill then passed.

(By Staff Reporter.)

ERIE, Pa., May 7.—The weather is warm and like midsummer for the Canadian League opening here this afternoon. All indications point to a big crowd at Perry field, and it is expected six or seven thousand fans will see the game.

The Peterborough team arrived from Youngstown last night and are in fairly good shape, although the weather conditions during the training season have not been the best. Manager Blount, while not inclined to make predictions, stated that his club was well balanced and would be fighting all the time.

Louie Schettler has been selected to do the twirling and with Miller unable to catch, Ryberg will work behind the bat. Manager Smith, of the Erie team, has decided upon Brown, a pitcher turned back by the Buffalo International as his pitching choice with McNeill, formerly with Peterborough, behind the mask.

Big Time Vaudeville At Low Admission

Manager Clayton is Preparing a Special Programme at the Royal During All Next Week—Eight Vaudeville Acts

Before the alterations to the Royal Theatre are begun, Manager Clayton had decided to test whether the people of Peterborough want to see a good vaudeville circuit brought into Peterborough. To that end he has arranged for a programme of eight big time vaudeville acts for next week. They include the famous Dixie Minstrels, comprising twelve people, and, in addition a fine line of pictures will be shown. Mr. Clayton believes that vaudeville is wanted in this City, but has decided on a test week to get an idea of the public feeling. Next week will therefore be vaudeville week. A special matinee will be given each afternoon with the admission 10c, but the night show will be 20c. Remember the pictures will be the regular lines, and the eight vaudeville acts from Big Time will give a splendid entertainment.

NO MEDICINE FOR THESE CHILDREN

It is no vain boast to say that Christian Science children, if left to the wise care of loving parents, if exempted from forcible treatment by materialistic methods, will be no menace to the public welfare, and will be at least as "efficient social units" as their fellows who trust to medical theories to keep them well. For over forty years, thousands of children and adults have chosen to let their loving Father-Mother God guide their steps and guard and preserve their health. They have chosen what they think is the better way, and their daily experiences, in man homes, have proved that God is indeed a "present help in trouble," and that His grace is sufficient for them in sickness no less than in health. They do not obtrude their religious or medical views on others, but they claim a freedom of thought and religious action which governments accord all classes of citizens, and they point with confidence to the verdict of the king in the case of Daniel and his friends, for it was said that "he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologists that were in his realm."—Sentinel.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

Mr. Louis Florence, who was injured in an accident on Charlotte street yesterday, is improving. His condition is not serious. The chief injuries were to his nose and chest.

OPENING OF LIFT LOCK

Will Take Place on or Before the 15th of This Month—Ice Has Left Upper Lakes

WATER NOT HIGH

Both above and below the canal, navigation has been opened already, but the real commencement of the transportation of freight and passengers on the waters of the lakes of the vicinity cannot take place until the opening of the lift lock. The Examiner was informed this morning that the lift-lock would be opened on or before the 15th of this month. This means that the real opening of navigation will take place in the next few days, and the regular interchange of freight and passengers from the lower waters to the upper lakes, via the the canal, will be permitted. There are several local launch owners who are anxious to get their craft up through the canal before the 24th of this month, and they will be relieved to learn that the lift-lock according to present plans, will be opened within the next few days.

For several days now the lakes north of Lakefield have been furrowed by the passage of the steamers Stoney Lake and Islinda, and steam tugs. The water is not as high as usual in Clear or Stoney Lakes and little damage will be done by it this spring. The wharf at Kawartha Park, however, has been carried away with the ice. The ice, however, is completely gone from Stoney and Clear Lakes now, and the chief bar is completely free of ice. The water in the canal is low.

Splendid Growth In The Country

The country side is smiling at the farmer, and the farmer temporarily smiles back at the land. His cattle have been turned into the meadows where the grass is beginning to show signs of luxuriant growth. Once more does nature provide grazing for which some farmers are truly grateful. Seeding is steadily progressing, the warmth that calls forth buds has come to stay, the price of spring lamb is out of sight, and all is promising. No wonder the farmer is wearing a satisfied smile.

ELEANOR WILSON PROMISED TO OBEY

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 7.—Eleanor Wilson, youngest daughter of the President, was "quietly" married this afternoon to Thomas Gibbs McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury. It was quiet, however, only in the fact that the diplomatic corps and outside guests not being present there was more room than usual to get about. The marine band in full dress was there to make lots of musical noise. Rev. Sylvester Beach, family pastor of the Wilsons, conducted the ceremony, and the promise to obey was not omitted from the bride's obligations. It was a double ring service. Where the honeymoon will be spent is still a mystery, but it is stated that the couple will sail for Europe from New York to-morrow morning returning on the same boat immediately.

A contingent of three hundred rifles and twenty thousand rounds of ammunition now on the way from New York consigned to the strikers wil be intercepted by the troops. There is a bitter feeling all through the district and settlement will probably be soon.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Temperance in the use of strong drink, tobacco and municipal ownership are equally indicated. In Edmonton, the principle of municipal ownership has been carried to excess. The city has established a municipal gazette for the publication of reports of its Council and other civic matter, the advertising of by-laws, notices, etc. On the face of it such an enterprise is rightly regarded as an expensive municipal joke. Such a publication has about as much chance to replace the newspaper as a wheel barrow, a steam locomotive engine for traction and traffic purposes. It is also fatal to economical administration of civic matters to have the public depend for information regarding their affairs upon censored reports that do not reach the mass of the people. An honest and efficient city council will welcome, as the people have a right to demand, the greatest publicity. And the greatest publicity can only be secured through the legitimate newspaper. It is true that the newspapers sometimes give embarassingly illuminative reports of the doings of civic councils. But these are given in the interet of the people who pay, and are chiefly to be considered.

Municipal ownership is still very much in the experimental stage and whatever merits it may prove upon fuller experience to have, will be lessened by freak experiments, like the Edmonton Municipal Gazette, which was born with failure written across its title page. Indiivdual enterprise is the very foundation of prosperity and progress. If, by exaggerating the application of municipal ownership we discourage private enterprise, whether in the shape of newspapers or otherwise, we may be securing a problematical benefit at the expense of, private enterprise. The greatest danger in governments, civic or other, is centralization of power and administration. Blood has been shed to secure the benefits of autonomy, and it is a treasure that should not lightly be parted with.

The Provincial Hydro-electric system is a great thing, it can be made a great public boon if properly administered. It is a progressive enterprise due to Liberal initiative and Conservative development. It is not a party policy, it is a public benefit. It is a great means to an end; but it is not an end. It can most beneficially co-operate with municipalities, but cannot profitably and advantageously replace municipal administration. In its administration it can easily become an undesirable centralizing influence, and neutralize municipal initiative and independent municipal administration of purely local matters of immediate concern to the ratepayers and, legitimately, to nobody else. It may be right, it may be in fact the best thing, in isolated cases, for a provincial commission to over-ride a municipal commission, and compel the latter to reduce rates, but this, in principle, is fatal to the essential principle of municial autonomy.

Municipal ownership is good only within legitimate limits; it must, to be a permanent advantage, be kept within reasonable bounds. We must have newspapers to give public information on civic doings; no municipal gazette can supersede the newspaper as a means of holding our civic representations to their reponsibility by giving the widest publicity to a record of their municipal acts. We cannot hold them to this responsibility if we do not fully know what they do that is meritorious, or what wrong-doing they may be guilty of. Nor can a body of civic ratepayers hold a civic body to responsibility if its acts and policy are too much dictated by a central body which owes no direct responsibility to any body of ratepayers.

BORDEN'S BACK NOT EQUAL TO THE BURDEN

When the Borden Government is in trouble its supporters declare that the blame ought to be thrown upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues. It is a line of defence which a strong Government could hardly adopt or sanction. Mr. Borden and his colleagues were returned to power three years ago with a working majority, which they declared, with some exaggeration, to be an overwhelming majority. It was, at all events, a majority large enough to give them power and office. With power and office, under the British system comes responsibility. A Government cannot excuse itself by saying that its predecessors created insuperable difficulties. The answer is that the new Ministers are not bound to take office, and ought not to have done so unless they felt themselves competent to deal with all difficulties, and to transact the business of the country.

When the Laurier Government entered upon its duties in 1896 it found troubles enough—the Manitoba school question unsettled, commerce and industry depressed, heavy deficits, Western Canada almost unpopulated, immigration coming in a small stream. But it did not sit down and sigh over the failings of its predecessors. It worked. Here are some of the results:

In 1896-7 the total immigration to Canada was 21,716. In 1910-11 it was 311,064— fifteen times as great. In 1901 there were fewer than 600,000 people in the four Western Provinces. In 911 there were more than 1,700,000 in the same Provinces. Alberta grew fro m73,000 to 300,000. Saskatchewan grew from less than a hundred thousand to nearly half a million.

The East felt the impulse that came from the growth of the West. The population of Montreal was nearly doubled in ten years; the population of Toronto was just about doubled in the same period. New industrial centres arose. Dead old towns sprang into life, largely because of industrial growth. Between 1900 and 1910 the output of Canadian manufactures increased from $481,000,000 to nearly $1,166,000,000. Foreign trade was more than trebled between 1896 and 1911. Deficits in revenue gave place to huge surpluses.

Between 1896 and 1911 Ministers were not trying to account for difficulties and excuse themselves by the acts of their predecessors. The thing that had to be explained was not difficulty, but success. Laurier's friends naturally claimed credit for at least a share of the marvellous progress of the country. His opponents said that it must be due to the N.P.—the tariff framed by theConservatives in 1879.'

History may serve a party purpose when ingeniously perverted. But the only plain way is to hold each Government responsible for its own acts. If the Borden Government is to-day in difficulty because of the Canadian Northern Railway, it must solve the difficulty. It cannot clear itself by bewailing the acts of its predecessors. Such a plea is a confession of weakness.

THE GENERAL ELECTIONS.

There is still much speculation as to what the Provincial Government will do regarding an election. The return to the scene of activities yesterday of Sir James Whitney seemed to indicate the necessity of a master mind. There is reason to believe that the Cabinet is by no means a unit on the question of an early appeal to the country, in spite of a general report that the date of June 29th has been selected.

One in the confidence of the party leaders said last night that the following Ministers are in favour of an early election: Messrs. Hanna, Reaume, Duff, Hearst and Lucas, while opposed to it are Sir James Whitney and Messrs. Pyne and Beck. The same informant said Mr. Beck, had fought the early dissolution idea almost alone until Sir James came back yesterday? Mr. Beck left for London early in the afternoon.—Gobe.

NOT FOR VIVISECTION.

The fact that an American surgeon stated in New York with apparent pride that he had kept a brainless dog alive for eighteen hours looks as if ordinary men had nothing over ordinary dogs. There is no trouble to keep brainless men alive. The trouble is to get them killed.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

THE SPIRIT NEVER CHANGES.

If Dick Turpin were alive now, probably the Tory party would make him Premier of New Brunswick. He used to put the pistol to the heads of the 'King's subjects on the King's highway, and demand their money or their lives. The Tory leaders in this Province have merely made the system up-to-date.—Moncton Transcript.

NOT AFRAID OF THE TRUTH.

N. W. Rowell, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, did not wait a minute in demanding a royal commission to investigate anything as to his past dealings as a lawyer with either the Federal or Provincial Governments. He challenged inquiry. His sincere desire for the truth to be made known is in striking contrast to that of the Provincial Secretary.—Kingston Whig.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

ERIE SQUAD IN GREAT SHAPE FOR TO-DAY'S OPENING GAME

Big Automobile Parade and Other Fussing—Smith Has All His Men in Finished Condition.

THE BATTING ORDER

ERIE, May 6.—Erie is going to crack open its first season in the Canadian league with a grand flourish to-morrow afternoon. Practically everything is in readiness for the big demonstration by the fans, and, best of all, every man on the Yankee team is just itching for the chance to get out on the field when the bell rings and show the local enthusiasts that they have a real ball club.

Judge Emery A. Walling will start the long season's race by throwing out the first ball when the squad of Manager Heinie Smith faces the Peterborough aggregation of Curley Blount on Perry field. The exercise at the grounds probably will take place between 3 and 3.30 o'clock and the dopesters will miss their guess entirely if the place isn't packed to capacity, nice weather permitting.

Fifty Autos in Parade.

Promises of automobiles for the huge parade prior to the game have been pouring into Thomas O'Connor, and about 50 are expected to be in line when it leaves the Chamber of Commerce, the assembling point, at 2 p.m. Heading the procession will be over a score of musicians of the Moose band in a big auto truck. Directly behind will be the players and officials of both the Erie and Peterborough clubs, followed by city and county officials and a large delegation of the city's best known sport lovers.

The route that has been selected will take them up State to Eighteenth, to Peach, to Twelfth, and thence to the battleground. There the combatants and band will spread out into a long line and march to the flagstaff in deep centre field, where Old Glory will be unfurled to the tune of patriotic airs. After that hostilities begin.

Manager Smith Confident.

Erie is regarded as one of the strongholds of the league for patronage, and Manager Smith has gathered about him a team that he is confident will also make a strong bid in the pennant chase from the beginning. Every man is feeling fit, and there isn't a sore arm in the bunch, although the weather has interfered materially with practice. That the local leader feels that he has the goods is evinced by the fact that he is carrying 18 men just now, all of whom are too good to let go. The line-up for Thursday's contest was given last night as follows:

Harris, right field.
Dawson, centre field.
Gygli, first base.
Smith, second base.
Behan, shortstop.
Wiltse, third base.
McNeil, catcher.

Brown is the best pitching bet, followed in turn by Dorbeck or Morris.

The batting order and battery of the Peterborough nine will probably not be known until the play is called. Manager Blount is still watching his men work out at Youngstown, O., and will not arrive here until this evening. The Hotel Fisher will be the headquarters of the invaders from the Dominion.

Chance to See Donlin.

A new departure in methods for announcing the games to busy fans will be tried out by the Erie management. Daily at 3 and 3.15 p.m. bombs will be exploded in the heart of the city if there is to be a game. The explosions will be harmless, but will serve to notify the fans.

Eddie Sichenlaub has received a telegram from Mike Donlin, famous outfielder of the New York Giants, saying that the latter would positively be here, together with the full regular bunch of National League penannt winners, when they play the Yankees on Thursday, May 28. This is Mike's home town, and the bugs are anxious to see him perform.

Big Supply Of Lacrosse Sticks Received And Boys Can Get Into The Game

Four dozen junior lacrosse sticks were received to-day by Trebilcock Bros. from the Lally Lacrosse Manufacturing Company and the immediate demand of the youngsters will be met. These sticks are suitable for the senior players and some of the members of the lacrosse team are using them. At 50c. each they are excellent value, and it is expected that this supply will soon be grabbed up. It is now up to the senior members who are eager to foster the game among the youngsters to pull the wires towards building up teams in the various wards. The waiting list for sticks has grown steadily, but it is thought there will be a sufficient supply for the present week. The contagion of the old game is spreading throughout the whole country, according to reports in various papers, and Peterborough will not be behind the others. There is no doubt as to the boys liking the game.

In lacrosse everyone has a chance to be in the game all the time, and is working in all the plays. As a result the individual boy has as much chance to shine as any of the others. It will be understood that the Lally company are placing these sticks at a low figure for the single purpose of rejuvenating the game. They are looking forward to future demand more than to the present, and the quality bound up in these sticks represents a great deal more than the nominal price of 50c.

Parents who want their boys to get into a game that will develop their running and staying powers without violent effort should encourage their boys to get into the game. In the different parts of the City old players will help to organize teams and will show the juniors the fine points of the game.

A meeting of the executive is called for this evening at 8 o'clock at the Examiner office when the disposal of the new sticks will be decided upon.

The English Cricket Season Has Opened

NEW YORK, May 6—A London cable to the Tribune says:

The opening of the county cricket season took place last Saturday with only four of the counties engaged. They ended their first games yesterday.

Leicester opposed Essex for their first match at the county ground, Leicester, and began the season in brilliant style with a fine win by 259 runs. Leicester was nineteen runs behind on the first inning, but at their second attempt ran up the big core of 387, to which C. J. B. Wood and Coe contributed 120 and 116, respectively. The Essex men were set with 369 to win, but came to grief before the Leicester bowlers, and were all dismissed for 129. The score follows: Leicestershire, 124 and 387; Essex, 143 and 129.

Ship man scored 65 runs for Leicester, and King took five wickets for 26 runs.

Surrey entered upon the first game of the season at Kensington oval against Northampton and made a bad start in the championship games losing by 164 runs. With a load of 140 on the first inning, Northampton gave a fine display at the second attempt, an, running up 287 for five wickets declared, left Surrey with 428 to win. Although giving a better show than in their first inning, they were put out for 263. C. N. Wooley just missed the century for Northampton, making a brilliant 92. The score follows: Northamptonshire 297, and 287 for five wickets, declared; Surrey, 157 and 263.

The top scorers were: For Northants: Smith, 66 and 77, not out; Haywood 60; Denton, 61; and Thompson, 56. Haywood made 86 and Wilkinson 62 for Surrey.

"I'm Satisfied The Old Whip Is Right At Last"—L. Schettler

LOUIE SCHETTLER

Almost on the eve of beginning the championship battle, says the Youngstown Telegram, Manager Curly Blount of the Peterborough club of the Canadian league is congratulating himself, his employers and the club in having such a dependable twirling staff. It is one of the best hurling corps Curly has ever had and he is expecting no setbacks in this department with such talent as Schettler, Creswell, Tracey, Sterling and a few others upon whom he has not yet passed final judgment.

Manager Curly is indeed fortunate in having such a pitcher as Louis Schettler with him. The former Youngstown, Lancaster, Philadelphia National and Erie moundman is just now enjoying about the best form he has ever shown. His salary whip has been freed of the kinks that bothered him a little in the early practice and he does not expect any more difficulty this season.

Schettler had his first real workout of the season Sunday when he pitched his first full nine innings this year. While he did not care to cut loose at top speed throughout, Louis did put on some steam in the tight places and never felt a strain.

"I'm satisfied that the old whip is right at last," said Schettler after the game, "and believe me this old arm is going to make history in the Canadian league this season. Just wait till the weather warms up and if you happen to read of any unusual pitching feats in our circuit you will find the Dutchman is getting his share."

Sketches of The Blountmen

EDWARD PRICE, infielder, born at Youngstown, O., in the year 1894. Height 5 ft. 9 in., weight 1[illegible] lbs: "Eddie" played semi-professional ball throughout this state a couple of years before signing with Youngstown Club of the Interstate League last season. Hit 240, field .932. The League disbanded about mid-season, Eddie going to Fond-du-lac Club of the Illinois and Wisconsin League, where he finished the season. Hit 280. Signed to play with Peterborough this year.

Price is a fast man, and a good fielder, and if he can hit, should be able to land an infield position with the team.

KING EDWARDS HAD EASY TIME

The King Edward and Queen Mary Junior Public School teams met last night on the south end grounds and the visitors were trounced to the tune of 9-0. Milton Frost and Mendel Braund formed a good battery for the King Edwards, and the kids behind them batted in a heap of runs. Queen Mary's battery was Williamson and Flowers. The King Edward youngsters will give them all a struggle.

An interesting game of baseball took place between King George P.S. Juniors and South Central P.S. Juniors last evening resulting in a win for King George by a score of 14 to 7.

IN THE DAY OF THE OLD GUELPH MAPLE LEAFS

Writing in the Canadian Courier about baseball in the old days, when the "Maple Leafs" of Guelph, were semi-professional champions of America, ohn M. Copeland says:

"In those days boiling out at hot springs was not in style, and liniment artists were not carried on tour. Bare hands were 'an fait,' while the amputated kid glove of Her Ladyship was 'de rigeur,' and did duty in place of the various padded soft cushions now apparently essential. The distance between pitcher and catcher was shorter than now, and the knee-high, underhand throw the only style permitted. They say that between '77 and '90 the great 'Silver Flint' caught 833 games without a chest protector or glove. Some chroniclers aver, however, that Charles Maddock, at Guelph, resorted to the use of a piece of rubber between his teeth when backstopping to relieve the tension at moments of extreme strain Despite the absence of artificial armament, injuries were less frequent than now. C. P. McDonald says:

'Why, I recall the days when we Played ball just like it ought to be;
The first mild day of spring we'd go
To some big lot and stake the show.
No gloves in them days—just the hand
That nature gave us—no grand stand.
No hold-outs, contracts, legal scraps,
No magnates owned the old-time chaps.'"

Old Residents Of Emily Were Well Remembered

Mr. and Mrs. Garret Guiry Held in High Esteem By Their Neighbours

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garret Guiry, on Monday, April 27th, when about one hundred old friends called to spend the evening and to wish them good-bye, before their leaving for Lindsay, their future home. Mr. and Mrs. Guiry are highly respected in Emily Township where they have spent the best part of their life time and from which they are oblized to remove owing to the present state of Mr. Guiry's health. To say they will be missed is putting it mildly, as their home was open to all, especially in the pioneer days. Church, school and township affairs received Mr. Guiry's careful attentions, while the school training was augmented by a mother blessed by a great amount of judgment and common sense, as is evident, when we consider that two of their daughters are members of St. Joseph's Community, and their son, parish priest of Kinmount. Mr. Guiry was born in Ireand and was possessed of a great deal of genuine Irish wit which made him a real favourite with those who had the pleasure of meeting him. He was a Home Ruler from his childhood and is jubilant at the thought that he may ive to see parliament re-established in College Green. Mrs. Guiry belonged to the old and respected Crowley family of Otonabee. In leaving active life they leave their children in independent circumstances on the old homestead and other valuable property procured for them.

No wonder, then, that friends, old and young, in the Township in which they lived so long, and are held in high esteem gathered around them to say good-bye.

The following address was read and valuable pieces of house furniture presented, after which the Rev. Father Fergus O'Brien. In the absence of Rev. Father Guiry, eloquently responded for the family. Little speeches were also delivered by Rev. Father McGuire and a dozen of Emily's most eloquent citizens. After a most sumptuous supper was served, there was music and songs, more speeches and the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Address.

To Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Guiry.

Dear Friends, — We, your neighbours and associates for so many years, having learned of your contemplated removal from our midse, gather around you this evening, to express to you, the high esteem in which you are held in the community.

As members of St. Luke's Church, where you have worshipped for a life time, you will be greatly missed. In season and out of season you have laboured for the cause of religion, and to you, the Church in this parish, owes much. Your zeal in this respect, together with the exemplary home life, must have brought a blessing on you, granted to few families, since you have the happiness, to have three of your children called by God, to serve Him in Holy Religion.

While we regret saying good-bye, we congratulate you at being in a position to retire from active life, to spend a little while in serious contemplation, before the final call to Eternity.

In matters concerning the welfare of our country, we owe much to Mr. Guiry. As a pioneer in the district, he has always taken a most active part in things pertaining to education, the development and well-being of our township, serving as a member o fthe schoo board, in the township council and other responsible positions. His sound judgment, excellent debating qualities, and genuine Irish wit made him a person sought for by friends and much dreaded by foes. Permit us to add here, that we, her friends, will very much miss the companionship of your daughter, Ada, and we wish her many, many years of happy life, during which time we shall have the happiness of mingling together as usual.

Our address would be incomplete, without reference to your great hospitality. Every one knows that the stranger, passing on the roadside was always welcome to a mug of fresh milk, and that, too, if he so desired it, flavoured to suit his taste. He was welcome to be best in the house, should he be benighted, and in the morning he is sent cheerily on his way. All these things combined make us feel that we are parting with very sincere and generous-hearted friends, whose youthful life in our midst, will always remain fresh in our memory.

In saying good-bye, we ask you to accept the accompanying presents, as a token of our esteem and affection for you. We all join in wishing you peace, happiness and length of days, in your Lindsay home where you have friends and acquaintances.

Signed in behaf of the members of St. Luke's congregation—Rev. P. J. McGuire, Wm. Herlihey, Wm. O'Brien.—Lindsay Post.

Marriage Case Refers To Law of Henry VIII

LONDON, May 5.— An appeal of considerable interest to Roman Catholics was heard by the Privy Council today. Mallvana Despatie Tremblay of St. Victoire, Quebec, appealed against the decision of the Court of Review confirming the decision of Judge Bruneau, who granted the husband, Napoleon Tremblay, a declaration that his marriage was null and non-existent. The facts were undisputed. The parties are both Roman Catholics, married in 1904. Neither of them then knew that they were cousins of the fourth degree. No ecclesiastical dispensation was applied for. The husband, six years later, ascertained this relationship and applied to the Bishops, under the rule of the Council of the Lantern, for decree of nullity. This was granted. The arguments for the wife rested largely on article of the civil code. She further contended that the code provided for no declaration of nullity because of the existence of ecclesiastical impediments even un- of Galway and Cavendish will hold the Lantern.

Solemnization Enough.

An impediment case such as the present was not an absolute one, says Mrs. Tremblay. It had been the usual practice to grant dispensations for such impediments. In any event, it was further argued for Mrs. Tremblay that if the marriage was actually solemnized, it could not be annulled. Any penalties that might be necessary could only be Ecclesiastical penalties. Reference was made also on behalf of the wife to the statute of Henry the Eighth which declared all impediments, "except these mentioned in God's law," shall not render any marriage unpermissible within the King's realm or any of His Majesty's other lands and Dominions."

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

CONDITIONS WHICH ARE NOT AS THEY SHOULD BE MUST BE CHANGED

Said Controller Jas. Simpson of Toronto Who Addressed a Large Meeting in the Trades and Labour Hall Last Evening. Workingman Must Have a Fair Wage

SOME COMPARISONS

A large representation of the working class of Peterborough more than filled the Labour Hall last evening, on the occasion of the visit of Controller J. Simpson, of Toronto. His visit had long been looked forward to by members of the local Trades and Labour Council, and other labour organizations.

Controller Simpson has a very forceful and eloquent delivery, and paid attention last evening, more particularly to outlining the betterment of the conditions for working men. He kept his audience interested for nearly two hours, and the following constituted part of his address. He introduced some decidedly good humour right from the start, by saying that when he was introduced as a great speaker, etc., etc., it always reminded him of the old story, he had heard, concerning Watt, the inventor of the first steam locomotive, of terminal facilities. When he had completed his wonderful achievement, he felt so overjoyed, that he had to tell his wife, and get her to come and look at it.

Never Go—Never Stop.

As soon as she saw it, she said: "It will never go, it will never go." But when she saw it going, she said: "It will never stop, it will never stop." Controller Simpson said he possessed those terminal facilities, which could be almost termed peculiarities, but did not intend to suffer them to "control" his speech on this occasion.

Ready For It.

He stated that he was there for and inspiration, in connection with thep urpose of giving information the Labour movement. I find that wherever I go the labour forces are always ready to receive information that could be got about the movement, so that they could go out, with that inspiration, which would enable them to bring in other men of the community into the field, so as to effect these very necessary and important changes, in the interests of the working classes generally.

Progressive Movement.

You are not standing on only the great threshold of the great progressive movement in th labour world, but the greatest time that has ever been known in the history of the movement, the world over.

In fact, politicians and statesmen are regarding the work, and the spirit of the movement to-day, more than at any time else in tne world. The labour forces are now being recognized, with a recognition to which they are justly entitled. All men interested in the labour movement, should understand what it is, because it has suffered much misrepresentation, through the desire of those who did not wish to see it grow.

A Prevailing Spirit.

But the labour movement was like other social and moral reforms. It had a beginning, and has gone on, until it is what it is at the present time, and what has come, came because of the united force. It was the spirit of independence, which dominated the men, in the early times, of the labour movement. In connection with the labour movement in England, Scotland and Ireland, we know how men stood out for their wages, and proper money, for the children, and their wives, had to submit themselves to imprisonment, and later as we saw exile, from their own country, and those opposed to the movement were hopeful that by sending these men to Australia, they would end the trouble which had been started by the working man asserting his own rights, and insisting upon better conditions.

The Reflection.

The reflection is seen in Australia, where the mind of the working man is seen, and which, no doubt, dominated from these men that were sent to that country, for proclaiming their rights in the Old Land. Let us all work for the protection of the working class, and, as you will notice in some of the states and Provinces of Australia, they are now going in for the control of railways, and their success will be dependent upon the workers of Australia.

In Germany Too.

You would ask, how it was that the labour of Germany has that spirit of revolt against German industry. Because the men with the capital persist in using the same policy as they did with the men who were exiled from England, Ireland and Scotland. They too were placed in penetentiaries, and subjected to horrible miseries, but the wild onslaught of those who thought to stop the movement only had the effect which led to the growth of the movement beyond the expectation of those who hoped to suppress it.

An Experiment.

Bismarck said he thought that if the men were released from the penitentiaries, then there would be satisfied conditions, and the revolt of the working class would be stayed. This action was carried out, but it was found that it did not in any way stunt the growth of the labour movement in Germany, because the men looked at it in this way, and reasoned it out.

Legislative Reform.

If, they said, it is the power of our movement makes them give us concessions, then much more should they give us legislative reform. And, the work of the labour movement of Germany, is a repetition of the labour movement of the great countries where industrialism has developed.

Alike in Japan.

If you were to read some of the descriptions of the industrial developments of Japan, you would see the same developments as in this country. The class of men, women and children, working in Japan to-day, are receiving from eight to ten cents a day for their labour.

Another Reflection.

You always find the labour movement facing its purpose. What is being done by the churches, Methodists and Presbyterians, Anglicans and Catholics along social and moral reform lines, is but a reflection of the labour movement, in all parts of the world to-day; and I want to force that home to you working men to-night. Take the dispensing of charity for the relief of the poor. Our movement sinks deeper than the mere fundamental basis of society, and with it, the ideal of dispensing charity to the poor.

Henry Ford has shown what is meant by surplus value that has been given to the industrialism of this country, and is the biggest revelation that has been made for years. It is known that men only receive from twenty to thirty per cent. of the value of their product, and the remainder of the profit, after all has been paid, is expropriated by the employers of that labour.

Capital and Labour.

It has always been said that capital is essential to labour, and that labour is essential to capital. But, said the speaker, where is the capital without the labour. Capital is dependent upon the labour. Henry Ford has told capitalists of industry, that two millions of dollars were invested in that enterprise, but the profits from that enterprise were twenty-five millions of dollars last year. The working man got too little for his labour, and the employer got too much profit. Henry Ford wishing to be so per cent. right, said to himself, "I will give my men half of the profits that have been made by this enterprising concern, by an increase in their wages." Now, men who used to receive $2.60 per day, receive $5 per day. Henry Ford has returned some of the profits of the labour of these men, which would have otherwise gone into the pockets of the seven men who form the company.

Exact a Fair Wage.

The object of our organization, continued the speaker, is that we may have some means of exacting a fair wage. The labour movement stands for brotherhood in the field of labour. More, he continued, the movement bears out Biblical injunctions. The strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and this they did. Take for instance, he said, the Typographical Union. They have founded a home for the old and feeble members of their society, who have worked for years at their trade, and who have not put anything by for a rainy day. One-half of one per cent. of the wages of each man belonging to the union, is given every week to help maintain this institution, and the man who is earning forty dollars a week, and thus paying more for the upkeep than a man who is earning $12 a week, does not receive one little bit more benefit. Then again, a printer, who has for 20 years worked at his trade, and then, on account of incapacity is unable to follow his work any longer, receives a pension of $5 a week for the rest of his life.

The Man and The Ape.

We are tremendously different to the lower forms of life. By the lower form of life, I mean for instance, an ape. When you come to measure up its intelligence, as compared with the intelligence of a human being, it is of lesser degree in the lower forms of life. At birth the ape has more intelligence than the baby, but as they begin to grow, you will notice that the intelligence in the human life, is more marked, and decided than in the lower forms of life. Both men and animals are forced to adjust themselves to their own environments.

Must Change Conditions.

The conditions under which you men are working are not as they should be, and it is up to you to have those conditions changed. Anyone knows that no forty men have a mortgage on Canada, yet the wealth of the country is controlled by forty men at the most. How is it done, you might ask. If you take the history of the French settlers, you will find that they expropriated wealth. These French settlers bought skins from the Indians. The Indians in return, got rum, whiskey, and other alcoholic beverages. They got intoxicated, and the French settlers got their skins for nearly nothing, and made a large amount of money on them, in the foreign markets. Then the fur companies started in, controlled first by French and then by English concerns, and made handsome dividends.

Good Rum—Good Whiskey?

When the trading first started, the Indians received good whiskey, and good rum, but later it was brought in big barrels, and out of one big barrel, they would make ten or twelve small barrels, by the help of water. The Indians, however, got wise to this, and tested it, by pouring it on the fire, and if it blazed up, it was good, but if it put the fire out, it was bad, and that is how the name "fire-water" originated. And so it went on until it became necessary for railways to be built, as without these facilities, the country could not make any progress. For this purpose, millions of acres of land were given to them, and millions of money.

Competition.

Then the Grand Trunk tried to stop the C.P.R. from getting into the country, and to-day, both the G.T.R. and C.P.R. are trying to stop the C.N.R. from making any progress. The land along the C.P.R. in the west was not taxed, and when settlers went there to start schools, there were no taxes to maintain them, and consequently, the education of the children, was stayed. So you see what share the working man has in the building of empires. You would stand aghast if you could see, and realize the great potentialities of the country.

The labour movement gets men increased wages, but while they receive it in the one hand, the increased cost of living takes it out of the other.

The speaker continued giving graphic descriptions of the hardships met by the working man, giving numerous illustrations. He kept his audience interested till 11 o'clock. Controller Simpson has been to Peterborough several times before, but was never heard to better advantage than he was last night.

Mr. J. J. Hartley acted as chairman.

HURLED FROM BRIDGE AT CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, May 6. — Caught in the middle of the G.T.R. bridge, George Staton, an employee of the Weston Shoe Company here, was hurled to his death in the Trent River to-day by being struck by a freight train. The body had not been recovered to-night. Mr. Staton, who had only recently come here from Toronto, was walking over the track from the factory to his boarding house to save a few minutes' time. He had got well on the bridge when the train rushed along and struck him before it could stop, throwing him into the river 30 feet below. The body was not seen after, although several people saw the accident.

The Trent river below the bridge is shallow, but the current is very rapid, and the body has no doubt been carried far down stream. There will be an inquest. Staton leaves a wife and family in Toronto.

SAYS OUR EATING HOURS ALL WRONG

PARIS, May 2.—Professor Bergonie, of Bordeaux, the eminent authority on dietetics, declares that the least suitable hours for meals are between noon and 1 p.m. and between 7 and 8 p.m. —precisely those hours which modern usage has set apart for meals.

According to the professor, the meal hours that a rational hygiene would prescribe would be as follows:

The principal meal of the day should be taken at 7.30 a.m. or as soon after as possible, so as to obtain all necessary energy for the days work and to restore the liver, emptied by the night's abstinence. A second meal, a light luncheon of milk, sugar and cakes, should be taken about 4 p.m. Finally, a third light repast at 6.30 or 9 p.m. would complete the alimentary regime.

The Professor adds that in a family which has accepted his views this regime has been followed for six years, furnishing excellent results as regards the general health of all the members.

Chemong Indians Say George Taylor Is Not Of Their Tribe

Tangled Relations at the Reserve Voiced in County Court Yesterday—Were Advised to Consult the Federal Member—Supposed to be of Scottish Descent.

THE HISTORY

After George Taylor had been fined $20 by Magistrate Edmison yesterday for being drunk in a local option district, John Jacobs, police officer on the Indian reserve, applied to His Worship for advice. He stated that Taylor had been continually getting drunk, and wanted the court to report him to the Governor-General of Canada, as his being fined had absolutely no effect upon him.

The latter action, it is plain to see he could not take, but recommended the men to interview the Federal member, who would champion their cause.

The Story.

The following story is told by Constable Jacobs, and Ex-Chief Whetung regarding the history of the Taylor family, who they claim, are not of Indian descent, and are therefor not entitled to any of the rights, which the Indians are supposed to exclusively enjoy. The feeling between the Indians and the Taylor family discloses a relationship not at all harmonious, which has existed for some time on the reserve.

First at Scugog.

From papers which have been preserved by some of the old Indians, and handed down to their descendants, it would seem that somewhere around the years of 1846-7, a man named George Taylor and his wife, of Scotch birth, settled down to live his life with the Indians on the Scugog reserve. By his wife, several white children were born, characteristic of an Indian in their mannerisms, yet none the less of a pure white breed. The Taylors grew to young manhood and then trouble began. Missionaries who sought the recovery of souls in that secluded district, found this family of whites living with and among the Indians; and also receiving the money and privileges granted the once rulers of this continent. These missionaries believing that the presence of white people among their wayward band would assist them in their work, raised no objection to them being there.

A Secret Meeting.

As of old, the whites and Indians themselves could not get along very well, with the result that when the Taylors became of sufficient number they attempted to lessen the powers of the Indian Council. Naturally, the Indians became suspicious, and holding a secret meeting decided that the Taylors had no right to live with them, so they ordered them off the reserve. The complete band, numbering between twelve and fifteen, were forced to quit their land, and it was sold by the Indians and the money used to pay several debts which the Taylors had contracted.

Settled in Chemong.

This band of whites had grown accustomed to Indian ways and manners, and naturally they could not seek the cities, so they wandered around till they finally settled at Chemong. There they settled down and once again formed part of the Indian tribe. The latter were at that time uneducated and unacquainted with the laws of the country, so it was very easy for the Taylors to secure all the rights they wished. George Taylor, a son of George Taylor, senior, married a white woman, and took her to the Chemong Reserve, and has lived there ever since.

The children of George Taylor, Jr., white by birth but Indian by nature are now men and women at Chemong. Of late, however, the Indians of Chemong have gained knowledge of laws governing their life.

Was Much Surprised.

His appearance in court has, as the records show, been a very common ocurrence, yet the fines imposed have had very little effect on him. The Magistrate was always of the opinion that he was an Indian, and was greatly surprised this morning when he learned otherwise.

Chief Objected.

This sort of conduct on the part of Taylor has been going on for some time, and in 1909 their Chief Joseph Whetung applied to the Department of the Interior for advice, but he was treated in a very abrupt manner. He sent a letter to the Chief at Scugog and found the history of the Taylors, which was as stated above.

Tried to Keep Peace.

The Indian Constable, John Jacobs, has done his best to keep the tribe at Chemong in peace, but he finds that the Taylor faction is continually causing trouble. He arrested George Taylor on May 1st, but is seeking some means whereby the complete Taylor gang might be sent off the reserve and cease obtaining the annual grants for Indians, while they are really white men.

Magistrate Edmison advised that the Federal member for this constituency, Mr. J. H. Burnham, be consulted, and undoubtedly something would be done. In explaining his platform before His Worship this morning, Mr. Jacobs spoke not only for himself, but for the younger element on their reserve. They don't want members of their tribe coming home the worse of liquor for it sets a bad example, and then their reserve is brought into disgrace by the appearance in police court of men who have no right to live on the reserve.

WILL USE OIL ON THE DIRT STREETS

City Council Decides to Purchase a Half Car to Start With.

CHATHAM, May 6.—As an experiment the City Council last night decided to purchase one-half carload of oil for use on a number of the dirt streets in the city this year. The matter was taken up by the committee a short time ago and has been thoroughly investigated, and last night Alderman Cowan reported for the Board of Works recommending that half a carload of oil be purchased. The motion was seconded by Alderman Brisco and carried.

For the present the oil will be used only at the end of a few streets on the outskirts. In the last it has been the practice to sprinkle the northerly ends of St. Clair street and Victoria avenue on the north side and then it is necessary for the sprinkler to travel a long distance to get to the south end of Queen street. Park avenue and other streets in that vicinity. If oil is used it will be necessary to treat the streets twice a year and it is estimated that the cost will not be as great as under the old system. The oil is specially prepared for the work. The carload costs in the neighbourhood of $400. The oiling will be done under the old frontage system.

Toronto's Clash With The Provincial Hydro-Electric Commission Re Rates Reduction

Conservative Mayor Hocken Says Order For Reduction is a Move to Make Party Capital

CONTRARY TO BUSINESS PRINCIPLES

The Provincial Hydro-electric Commission has ordered the Toronto Hydro-electric commission to reduce it is probable that the order will be this. It claims that the reduction will create a civic deficit, but as it appears the provincial Hydro-electric Commission has power to impose a penalty for disobedience—to penalize the city for wanting to manage its own business on business principles. It is probable that the order will be obeyed. As Peterborough is coming—it may be very slowly, but surely—under Hydro-electric, the statement of the Mayor of Toronto, in reference to the matter of Toronto rates, may be of interest and is printed below. Mayor Hocken's statement appears in the News, as follows:

"It is a purely political move, based on no business principle." Such was the declaration of Mayor Hocken to-day, respecting the order of the Provincial Hydro-Electric Commission to the local Commission to reduce rates ten per cent. He further regards the order of the Provincial body as nothing more than an indication that the Provincial Commission has decided to speculate upon the operation of the Toronto system for the current year. With a surplus of only $36,000 from last year's operations and a deficit of $94,000 carried over on sinking fund charges during the period of construction, Mr. Hocken stated that the reports of the manager and auditor of the local system show that the local body is not in a proper financial position to reduce rates. A ten per cent. reduction, as ordered by the Provincial Board, means a loss of $160,000 revenue to the Toronto Commission.

Fine Not all Loss.

The Mayor could not say whether or not the Toronto Commission would accept the order. If it refuses it is liable to a penalty of $1000 a day payable to the municipalities comprising the Power Union. The total penalty for the year, $36,500, however, would not be a dead loss, for the payments are divided among the municipalities according to the amount of power used, and Toronto, which contracts with the Provincial Commission for approximately half the total amount of power used, would receive some $18,000 of the amount for which it would be penalized by the refusal to reduce rates.

Saving to Consumers.

The saving to the consumers and to the city itself, the Mayor estimates at about $100,000 a year. The average cost of house lighting to-day is $1.20 a month. The householder would save 12 cents a month, or $1.44 a year. On street lighting the cost would be cut from $9 a month per light to $8, or a total saving in the city's lighting bill of approximately $50,000. In power for the water services and civic railway lines, Toronto will save about $10,000 a year.

Likely to Comply.

"I cannot say what the local Commission will do," Mayor Hocken declared to-day, "but the order is based purely on a speculation as to what the total amount of the Toronto Hydro business will be this year. We earned a little over $1,000,000 in 1913. The loss on a 10 per cent reduction will be approximately $100,000. We will likely comply with the order. The Provincial Commission must bear the responsibility if rates have to be increased in 1915 to meet the 1914 deficit."

THE SITUATION.

The Toronto Star says:

The local Hydro Commission are faced with the problem of cutting $120,000 off their revenue, losing all hope of a steam reserve plant to guarantee continuous service, holding over sinking fund payments on the capital cost of the system and yet getting enough new business to return a surplus at the end of the year. This is the result of the peremptory order of the Provincial Hydro-electric Commission, issued with the Provincial election impending, to reduce the rates charged for power and lighting in Toronto to an average extent of 10 per cent. The manager of the local system has already reported that such a reduction at this time would not be good business. The local Commission, who will have to bear the responsibility of any deficit at the end of the year, were against it, but the Provincial Commission have taken the easy and popular course of ordering lower rates.

The Factors.

The surplus of the Toronto Hydro-electric system last year was $34,575. If the rates for last year had been the same as the rates now ordered by the Provincial Commission, $120,000 would have been lopped off the revenue of the city Hydro system, and there would have been a deficit of $86,425.

The sinking fund payments on the debentures of the system are behind $94,617, because the instalments which fell due while the system was under construction, have not all been paid off.

The loss incurred in the floating of the Hydro debentures at a discount of 20 per cent. has imposed an additional burden of $3,913 a year on the local system in interest and sinking fund.

When the local commission were asked to reduce their rates ten per cent. they got a report from Mr. H. H. Cozens, manager of the system, on the effect of such a reduction. Mr. Cozens' report has not been made public as yet, but according to Mayor Hocken, his finding was, in brief, that the reduction could not be carried out without running very serious risks. It was not good business. It was against ordinary prudence.

Work and Credit Separated.

With this report in their hands and also, significantly, with a Provincial election looming up in the near future, the Provincial Commission have persisted in their attitude of forcing lower rates immediately. The local commission is faced with the task of making ends meet with $120,000 lopped off the revenue side of the balance sheet, and $54,000 added to the expenditure side. If they fail, they will have to bear the blame. The Provincial Commission, and especially the Hon. Adam Beck, get all the credit of making power cheaper in Toronto, at least for the time being. The local Commission have all the worry and work of making it practicable.

Quietus on Steam Reserve.

The rate reduction puts the quietus on any hope for a steam reserve plant. After the interruptions to the Hydro service last summer, which caused serious inconvenience to the citizens, the commissioners decided that a steam reserve plant was necessary as a safeguard against the breakdowns which are more or less an inevitable feature of the operation of a long transmission line, especially in the summer time, when severe electrical storms are frequent.

The local system is, therefore, faced with the task of getting $400,000 a year more business from commercial users to whom they cannot guarantee uninterrupted service.

Recruiting For 45th Regiment

Peterboro' Will Likely Be Largely Represented at the Annual Camp Next Month

Lieut. Clarence Henry of this City has received word from Headquarters that the annual Camp of the 45th Regiment will be held from the 15th to the 29th of June, this summer. Recruiting for the camp is already in progress and indications are that a larger Company will be recruited from Peterborough for the camp this year. The local boys will be given an opportunity, as in the past, of joining with "D" Company of the 45th Regiment. In the year 1912 the Company went to camp over 100 strong, and last year the Company was the largest Company of Militia in Canada to attend camp.

Although the whole of "D" Company is not made up of local men, there are usually about fifty Peterborough soldiers in the Company when it reaches camp, and it is expected that when the 45th lines up on the commons of Petawawa, next month, there will be at least that number representing this City. The men know from experience that they will be well looked after if they accompany the 45th to camp and the popularity of the officers is a by word among all who know the Regiment.

PAVING BRICKS ON SIDEWALKS

We know the penalty for leaving any obstruction on the streets, whether it be a storekeepers' bale of goods or the labourer's wheelbarrow, or what not. Yet we see hundreds of tons of bricks piled along the concrete sidewalks of our main thoroughfares to remain there a month or more before they are required for use, without any effort being made to confine the nuisance to its narrowest possible limits, to the great inconvenience of pedestrians and storekeepers. But this is not all. Some of the piles must weigh eight or ten tons, and such a ponderous weight must seriously affect the stability of the concrete which was never intended for such strain, but only intended for people to walk upon. There are signs of depression under the heavier piles in some places, such as in front of the G. T. R. ticket office and the Dominion (Chinese) restaurant. It might be well for the City Engineer to look into it.

Yours truly,
Citizen.

May, 7th, 1914.

Note.—"Citizen" is within his duty in bringing this matter up; but he forgets that sometimes we have to submit to inconveniences for the sake of ultimate benefit. We have our pavements blocked and glad to have it so, with hoardings used for public protection in the case of new buildings. For the sake of the building and improvement of public streets we submit to the inconvenience. The contractors for the street paving have placed the bricks upon the walks and cannot use them until the places they are to go in are ready. It will be noticed that the work of placing them between the rails is now progressing between Charlotte and Brock Streets. There seems to be some necessary delay when the street railway, who do the work of relaying their tracks have to depend on the progress of paving work, but it is probable that there is no unnecessary delay on either side. The bricks on the walks are the penalty we have to pay for improvement.

STREET PAVING WORK RUSHING

The street paving work is in full swing now with two cement mixers above Brock street, covering long stretches of the roadway. A gang of men are engaged in filling between the street car rails with the regulation bricks.

Steamer Burned To Water's Edge On Lake Erie

Special to The Examiner:

ERIE, Pa., May 7.—Steamer City of Rome, bound light from Buffalo to Toledo, was burned to the water's edge off Ripley near here about two o'clock this morning. All hands were called on deck at one o'clock, after Mate McNamara discovered the flames between the decks. Under Captain Dunn the crew of sixteen fought valiantly for one hour, and finally the vessel was run on the rocks and all on board escaped in boats, but lost all their belongings. The vessel was owned by James Mitchell, of Cleveland.

ALL ON TIME

On a system so intricate as that of the C.P.R., where the troubles of the tram dispatcher are added to by the problem of having in many cases only a single track for both freight and passenger trains going both ways, the record of a perfect day showing all trains ran on time gives the same feeling of satisfaction that a patient player feels who wins out in a game of solitaire. Imagine then the genial smile which diffused itself like summer sunshine over the face of Mr. Miller at Windsor station when he could point to the blameless records of May 3 and 4—every single train on the eastern division marked "O. T." May 3 was a Sunday, on which it might be expected that trains should be good, but May 4—a Monday—gee whizz!

AND THER SAID COBB WAS GOING BACK

CHICAGO, Ma 6.—Cobb's base running and Crawford's brilliant catch of Alcock's fly in the fourth inning, helped Detroit defeat Chicago 4 to 2 to-day. Cobb stole three bases and scored two of the visitors' runs, and came very close to scoring the first inning, when he attempted to count from second base on a sacrifice fly. He would have stolen home in the eighth inning if High had swung at the ball, but when the batter stepped back Cobb was caught a few feet from the plate.

A HOME THRUST.

"All sorts and conditions of men have excellent explanations for their positions in life," said the Senator. "A tramp, however, came under my observation who had no illusions about the cause of his own condition.

"A fine looking and fashionably dressed woman had just alighted from h erlimousine at the hotel entrance, and was suddenly approached by this shabbily dressed man who requested a dime.

"'No, I have no money to spare for you. I do not see why an able-bodied man like you should go about begging.'"

"'I s'pose ma'am,' replied the lazy tramp, 'it's fer about the same reason that a healthy woman like you keeps at a hotel instead of keepin' house.'"

CANNOT RESIST THE CALL OF THE SEA

TORONTO, May 6. — Fresh from the sea and with the sting of invigorating salt air still in his nostrils, J. Daniel Sexton landed down on his mother's home at 29 Fuller Avenue, Toronto, over three years ago.

He had just completed four years' of service as a seaman in the United States Navy. But being a Canadian by birth his native heath possessed many attractions for him and he averred that he would sooner be hame than bucking the seas on the U. S. battleship Nebraska. "Yes," said he to the reporter three years ago "yes, there is an influence which the sea has over sailors. I have felt it. It is a sort of a call."

"And that call will get you again, will it not?" asked the scribe three years ago.

"Not much chance," said Mr. J. Daniel Sexton.

But it has got him. For to-night the big, jolly fellow, known to scores of friends as "Red Wescott" leaves for New York. He has enlisted in Uncle Sam's navy once again and for the next four years he has promised to serve the United States faithfully and to obey all orders. Mr. Sexton will go to New York and in two weeks' time he will take up his duty on the new battleship "New York."

The Call of the Sea.

The reporter who met Mr. Sexton on his homecoming three years ago, greeted him to-day with an "I told you so."

"Yes," smiled the sailor, "you were right; I have felt the call of the sea and I must answer. It has been making me feel restless and I can't refuse to go. Probably in a year or two I may come back on a visit, but I may not see dear old Toronto again for four years and probably not then."

Although Mr. Sexton is a Canadian he had no difficulty in securing a berth in the navy. Probably his physical assets had a lot to do with it. He weighs 207 pounds, stands 6 ft. 1 in. in his socks and is 26 years of age. In addition to this, his friends say that he is as strong as a horse.

Will be "Jimmy Legs."

"What post will you get in the navy? Will your past experience assist you any?" queried the reporter.

"Yes; this time I am going to be jimmy egs'".

"What's that?"

"Well, it means master-at-arms. I am the ships bobby. I go around and see that every sailor is behaving and that there is no disorder. If I find anybody breaking rules I put them in the breaks." Mr. Sexton explained that "breaks" meant the ship jail.

"Do you think that you will like it?" asked the reporter.

Mr. Sexton shook his red head.

"Yes, I'll be a little lonesome for home at first, but I'll soon get over it. I will probably know some of the officers or sailors on the new boat. I don't know where she will be ordered to and I don't care much."

Was Once Captured.

In his four years in the American navy, Mr. Sexton had some thrilling experiences. He was with the fleet that made the trip around the world. The Nebraska called at one island inhabited by savages in the Pacific during the tour and Sexton and a group of boys went ashore. Sexton on that occasion became separated from the others and was captured by the natives. He was kept in a cave for two days and the Nebraska at last fired several shots over the island. The natives then rushed Sexton down to the shore and allowed him his freedom, but the battleship fired a few more shells before departing. The native chief explained that the reason he wanted to keep the sailor was because he was redheaded. They had never seen a redheaded man before.

And that crop of red hair got Sexton into more trouble. On another island at which the ship called the natives wanted to purchase Sexton to rule over them and the chief offered one of the girls of the island to him for his wife. After these experiences young Sexton was content to remain aboard.

On the tour of the world while the Nebraska was several days out of Honolulu a typhoon struck them and three men were washed overboard. The Nebraska was fighting for her very life and they were forced to see the men go down without offering assistance.

During the three years that he has been out of the navy, Sexton has worked on the railroad, but tired of this in the end and decided to enlist again.

Stock Markets

A. E. Ames & Co., Bankers, report the following:

To-morrow does not hold out any promise of general activity, but bull specialty operations are likely. Washington advises bearing upon the adjournment of Congress, are more and more interesting to the important speculative channels. We find them laying stress upon the possibility that before summer the legislature may give the country a rest. Wilson is not so antagonistic to business, however, as he was months ago. This statement is made on high authority.

OTTAWA, May 8. — The Haynes murder case at Sydney, N.S., is out of the hands of the Justice Department, which about a week ago decided that the man must be hanged. Though representations were still being made to the Department by the condemned man's lawyers, J. M. Madden and A. R. Gunn, of Sydney, it was officially stated that the proper course in view of the confession, implicating others, was to make the application for a stay of execution to any judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, who has the power to act.

The value of the exports this year is less than the previous season by $5,079,026. This year the manifest values totalled $24,277,350 and in 1913 the total was $29,356,380.

HUGHES UNDER FIRE

Militia Estimates Come in For Vigorous Assault in House

COLONEL "MILITARY MAD"

OTTAWA, May 8.—Hon. Col. Sam Hughes presented his long-expected Militia Department estimates in the House yesterday and a vigorous debate ensued in which the Minister and several Opposition members participated.

Col. Hughes, in opening, said that the general preparations now going on for the celebration of the centenary of peace between Great Britain and the United States, so absorbed the attention of many well-disposed people, that they had not a thought to spare for the elementary duty of national defence.

Col. Hughes denounced as a bogie, the danger of militarism. We had in Canada a standing army or permanent force of only three thousand men. Canada's expenditures upon military and naval defence absorbed only five per cent. of her revenue to the upkeep of the army and navy, and the expenditures of the Federal Government of the United States, for army and navy (including pensions), absorbed forty-seven per cent. of the revenue, and this apart from the state militia.

Twelve hundred school teachers had been trained to instruct the school children through the course and drill halls were being erected as rapidly as possible where really needed. Of drill halls, perhaps fifteen hundred will be erected in the next five years, but the Government only intended for the present to erect fifty such halls. The drill hall in a town or village was the rendezvous for the boys and girls who heretofore ran wild and wasted their time in moving picture shows. Since Confederation Canada had only expended five million dollars upon drill halls, although the single state of New York had spent ten times that sum.

The Minister then touched upon the fact that he had created 85 honorary colonels and pointed out that his predecessor, Sir Frederick Borden, had created 170.

The Minister then explained that the apparent increases in the Militia estimates was largely due to the fact that the Borden Government had had to pay for guns, cannons and other armament obtained by the Government in 1911 upon the recommendation of Sir John French.

Col. Hughes, after defending his administration from the charge of extravagance, went on to say that the primary object of military training was not militarism, but physical, intellectual and moral improvement.

Mr. McCrea (Lib., Sherbrooke) complained that a house belonging to Mrs. Worthington in Sherbrooke had been rented by the Militia Department at $100 a month as an officers' mess. He claimed that the building was being occupied by the St. George's Club, although the rent for it was being paid by the Government. Col. Hughes doubted this was true and promised an enquiry.

Mr. Carvell, who followed, said that whisky flowed like water at every instruction camp in Canada last summer. He was astonished to hear the Minister say that the morals and manners of young Canadians would be benefited by joining the militia. Mr. Carvell's impression was to the contrary. He regarded the Minister as "military mad." His European trip last summer was simply a big junket at the expense of the country.

The Minister, Mr. Carvell said, had stated that he had 77,000 men ready to take the field and 76,000 more ready to join the militia. As a matter of fact few corps were up to strength and there was no rush of men to enlist. Personally Mr. Carvell could not understand against whom we were arming and why $4,000,000 had been expended on artillery. He believed the entire artillery service might well be abolished, because our artillery would not be a protection. The engineering corps he also regarded as utterly unqualified and worse than useless. In conclusion, he said that only two million of the fourteen million asked by the Minister would be spent on the real militia. The great bulk of the money would be wanted on the headquarters' staff and on gold lace and military millinery.

"The Canadian militia," said Dr. Neely (Lib., Humboldt) "is nothing more or less than a vast bootorium." He also said the average Canadian did not view with favor the military policy of the present Government. If the Minister kept increasing the construction of military works of various kinds Canada would have to double her revenues in order to meet the fixed charges on these works.

Canadians Detained by U. S.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 8—Nineteen Canadian sailors are being detained at the Erie County Jail under orders of the United States immigration officers. They are to be used as witnesses by the Government in the prosecution of vessel owners who are alleged to have violated immigration laws covering the shipping of men from foreign nations to American ships.

The sailors were taken from the fleet of steamers that brought down the last cargoes of wheat from the elevators at Fort William, Ont., where most of the steamers wintered. Under the law it is said the men should have been discharged upon their arrival here.

Wedded Sixty Years.

KINGSTON, May 8—At the village of Portsmouth, J. W. Henstridge and his wife celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday. Mr. Henstridge, who is village clerk, taught school many years, and served as chairman of the Public School board. They were married in London, England, in 1854, and came to Kingston in 1859.

Huerta Regime May Fall at Any Moment Says Refugees

U. S. OFFICIALS CONCERNED

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Upon receiving a long cipher cablegram from Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz last night, Secretary Garrison called into conference at the War Department Major-Gen. Wotherspoon, chief of staff, and the entire staff of the army.

The conference lasted until nearly midnight, and when Secretary Garrison finally left his office he said there would be no announcement. He and the army officers wore grave faces, and it was no secret that news of importance had been received.

Later Secretary Garrison said Gen. Funston had transmitted some information which refugees had brought from Mexico City as to conditions in the Mexican capital. The Secretary declined to comment upon them. He said, however, that no aggressive movement of any kind by the American forces was ordered.

It was understood that the refugees from Mexico City had informed Gen. Funston of the critical aspect of affairs in the Huerta regime; that a collapse might be expected momentarily and that conditions of anarchy might ensue. The purpose of Gen. Funston in making known these reports to the War Department was believed to be to advise the Washington administration of the possibilities that might develop from a fall of Huerta in order that if the American army is compelled to rescue foreigners or restore order it may be fully equipped for such an expedition.

Though not officially stated, it is known that the high officials of the War Department are anxious to place at Vera Cruz or on transports within striking distance a large enough force, perhaps 50,000 or 60,000 men, to make an expedition to Mexico City if it becomes necessary.

The American army officers also regard the situation at Vera Cruz as likely to become desperate in the event that anarchy breaks out in Mexico City, or the forces of Gen. Maas should make an attack on their own initiative irrespective of the Huerta Government's promise of a suspension of hostilities against the United States.

A large number of bluejackets could be landed from the warships to reinforce the seven thousand troops and marines in Vera Cruz, but in order to hold the positions outside of Vera Cruz up to the waterworks, more infantry is believed to be required by Gen. Funston. There have been persistent reports that he has asked for more men, but the War Department has not made any announcement on the subject.

WOMEN FOR ARBITRATION.

International Council Commend Wilson's Stand.

ROME, May 8.—At yesterday's meeting of the quinquennial session of the International Council of Women, now being held in Rome under the presidency of the Countess of Aberdeen, the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, of New York, presented a report on woman suffrage.

Dr. Shaw delivered an effective address in which she describes the results of the woman suffrage movement in the newly-enfranchised countries, and her remarks were received by the delegates with much applause.

It was decided to urge the American Congress and the women of the United States to support President Wilson in this attitude. Numerous letters and cablegrams have been received by the delegates from American women, favoring arbitration of the controversy between the United States and Mexico.

The two-year-old daughter of R. F. Keyes, Bath road, Kingston, died yesterday morning as a result of falling into a pail of boiling water. She was terribly scalded about the shoulders and arms.

King George and Queen Mary yesterday opened a new wing of the British Museum which has just been completed at a cost of a million dollars. It is the first part of a large scheme of extension.

FATHER GNAM LOSES.

Appeal From Justice Britton's Finding Is Denied.

TORONTO, May 8.—After hearing a warm plea from D. S. McMillan, of Sarnia, for Rev. Father Gnam, who declared that the decision of the court meant ruin for his client, over whose head hung the threat of excommunication, a penalty in comparison with which hanging would be light, the Appellate Division dismissed the appeal of Father Gnam from the decision of Mr. Justice Britton, dismissing his action against Archbishop McNeil. Mr. McMillan urged that owing to the death of his brother, Mr. Justice Britton at the time of the trial was neither mentally, nor physically fit to try the case.

Prince Alexander of Teck Comes to Canada in October

BROTHER OF QUEEN MARY

LONDON, May 8.—Prince Alexander of Teck, third son of the late Duke of Teck, and brother of Queen Mary, it is officially announced, will succeed His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of Canada. He assumes his new duties in October of this year.

The prince was married to H. R. H. Princess Alice of Albany, daughter of the late Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany, youngest son of Queen Victoria. Their children are Princess May Helen Emma, born dec. 23, 1906, and Prince Rupert Alexander George Augustus, born August, 1907.

Prince Alexander of Teck is personally quite popular and is said to be the favorite brother-in-law of King George. He has had little practical experience in administration, but has had distinguished service as a soldier. In England he has striven to further the cause of charity, especially in the way of hospital extension and cancer research.

The Princess of Teck has great personal popularity and is declared to be the prettiest and best dressed of the British royal princesses.

Prince Alexander is the descendant of soldiers. His grandfather was an Austrian general of cavalry, and his father, who began his military career in the Austrian army, served in the British army in the Egyptian campaign. The present Prince Alexander of Teck entered the army as second lieutenant of the 7th Hussars in 1904. This corps is one of the most distinguished in the British service, was formed in 1690 as the Queen's Own Regiment of Dragoons, and has fought in Flanders, Germany, Holland, the Spanish Peninsula, Canada, the Indian Mutiny and South Africa. It also fought at Waterloo. With the regiment, Prince Arthur served in the Matabeleland and South Africa campaigns. For his services in the army he was honored with the distinguished service order, which after the Victoria Cross, is the most desired by British soldiers.

At home, Prince Alexander, three years ago, took up the work of freeing the Great Middlesex Hospital from a big debt, and making its finances sound. This task had been undertaken by his brother, Prince Francis of Teck, who left it unfinished when he died in 1911. As a result of Prince Alexander's efforts a large addition was secured to the annual income of $35,000, and the Prince Francis of Teck memorial fund was founded to aid the institution.

The prince resides at Windsor Castle and takes considerable interest in sport. He is one of the best shots in the United Kingdom.

As Prince Alexander was born on April 14, 1874, he is now forty. He is a Grand Commander of the Victorian Order and Knight of Justice of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. He is a major in the 2nd Life Guards.

Shanghai Paper Confirms Rumors Current In Victoria.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 8—Shipping men here are looking for the arrival of the Komagata Maru, on which there are said to be some seven hundred Hindus, within a few days. There has been a good deal of doubt as to the existence of such a craft as there is no record of the vessel's name in the shipping lists, but the Shanghai Mercury of April 16, a copy of which has just been received, says that the steamer "with between 500 and 600 Indians on board, about 70 of whom are from Shanghai, left port yesterday for British Columbia. She is expected to pick up 50 more Indians in Japan, who are also proceeding to Canada."

Railway Strike Begins.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 8. — In response to an order issued Wednesday night by the brotherhood of federated employes calling a strike on the Pennsylvania Railroad system, shopmen at Harrisburg and vicinity struck yesterday. A statement issued by the railroad said that 200 men had "left the service of the company." Brotherhood officials claim 2,000 on strike. Officials of the State Department of Labor and Industry are trying to bring about an adjustment of differences.

Roosevelt After Wilson.

NEW YORK, May 8. — A cable from Para, Brazil, says: In an interview yesterday Col. Roosevelt bitterly attacks President Wilson's proposed surrender on the Panama Canal tolls. Roosevelt also attacks the proposed treaty by which the United States apologizes to Colombia, and gives her $25,000,000 — as "blackmail" he says—in settlement of the Panama Canal controversy. He insists on coupling the two issues and considers the administration's course as infamous.

Posse Chases Slayer Band.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Three masked bandits who killed and robbed Hamilton Harris, a Wells Fargo express agent at Middletown, Lake County, Wednesday night, fled through the mountains yesterday pursued by constantly increasing posses. Harris was shot dead without warning. His brother was gagged and tied. The robbers paused to ride the dead man's pockets, and got about $50. Then they rode away without attempting to rob the safe or cash drawer.

Messages of Four Provincial Premiers Tabled In House.

OTTAWA, May 8.—Appeals to the Federal Government to come to the assistance of the Canadian Northern Railway have been made by three Liberal Provincial Premiers and one Conservative, according to a return placed on the table of the Commons yesterday by Premier Borden.

Premier Murray of Nova Scotia, Premier Sifton of Alberta, Acting Premier Calder of Saskatchewan and Sir Richard McBride of British Columbia made the appeals.

On March 14 last Premier Murray sent Premier Borden a telegram which concluded as follows:

"The Government feels that any reasonable assistance, consistant with the public interest that can be accorded by the Dominion to the Canadian Northern would be a policy which would be acceptable to our people, as it would enhance provincial credit."

Sir Richard McBride wired Mr. Borden on March 16, pointing out the work done by the C. N. R. in B. C., and saying: "Considering that the undertaking is of national importance, I do not hesitate to say if representations made to you for aid to enable them to complete at once arrangements for first-class transcontinental service are based on fair, reasonable grounds, there should be ample justification in extending support."

Premier Sifton cables from Paris, in part, as follows: "With present financial conditions, I would consider advisable a Federal guarantee with proper safeguards sufficient to ensure the early completion and operation of the main line of the Canadian Northern."

Hon. J. Calder, who came to Ottawa to discuss the question with Mr. Borden, wrote to him on April 17, in part, as follows: "If upon thorough investigation by your Government it is ascertained that the company in question must have further Federal aid to enable it to complete the undertakings to which it and the country are already committed, it appears to me that there is but one course to follow, namely, to grant the aid required."

American Humor.

Frank Gould says that American humor is like nothing else under the sun—so droll, so grotesque and often so solemn in expression.

Mr. Gould gives this account of a half minute comedy enacted in one of the corridors of a Chicago hotel.

It was played by two millionaires. One of them, waiting for the elevator, was struggling into his fur lined coat. The other, an acquaintance, took hold of the coat and assisted him into it.

The first man turned, saw who it was, gravely put his hand into his pocket, took out a dime and handed it to his helper, who, with equal gravity, pocketed it. Then the first man went down in the elevator, and the other passed on to his room. Not a word had been spoken and neither man smiled, except inwardly.

Would a foreigner have understood the pantomime, even if he had known the standing of both men?—Buffalo Express.

Shirts From Trees.

It is comforting at least to know that the sad "Song of the Shirt" does not apply to all parts of the world. In the forests of Dronoko, situated on the slope of New Granada, nature has provided what serves as a ready made shirt for the natives. It is obtained from the marina tree, a species of tropical palm, which has a thin, fibrous red bark. When a native wants a shirt he simply cuts a piece of one of these trees about eighteen inches in diameter and takes off the bark, managing so as not to cut it in any way, and thus obtains a hollow cylinder of flexible bark somewhat resembling a rough sack without any bottom. He then makes a small slit in each side for his arms to go through and puts it on. It is only during the rainy season, however, that natives conform to the requirements of civilization sufficiently to wear garments of any description.—New York Sun.

A Penalty of Genius.

It seems to be the frequent penalty of genius that it is denied the privilege of perpetuating its name and kind beyond a few generations at most. Thus it is said that there is not now living a single descendant in the male line of Chaucer, Shakespeare, Spenser, Milton, Cowley, Butler, Dryden, Pope, Cowper, Goldsmith, Byron or Moore; not one of Sir Philip Sidney or of Sir Walter Raleigh; not one of Drake, Cromwell, Hampden, Monk, Marlborough, Peterborough or Nelson; not one of Bolingbroke, Walpole, Chatham, Pitt, Fox, Burke, Graham or Canning; not one of Bacon, Locke, Newton or Davy; not one of Hume, Gibbon or Macaulay; not one of Hogarth, Sir Joshua Reynolds or Sir Thomas Lawrence; not one of David Garrick, John Kemble or Edmund Kean.—London Standard.

The Use of Slang.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler declares that the widespread use of slang is threatening the purity of English speech. The president of Columbia university has uttered a timely warning that all thinking persons should heed. Slang springs from the uneducated classes and, like disease and other unwholesome things, is contagious. Evil communications corrupt speech as well as manners. It is only by reading good literature and associating with the cultivated classes that we can become masters of good English. Our educators should labor for the maintenance of the highest standards of diction in order that the English language may be preserved pure and undefiled.—New York Herald.

Bending Metal Pipe.

In order to bend metal pipe without buckling, it is necessary to fill it with some substance which can be easily removed after the bending is accomplished. Sand or rosin is commonly used, but in Germany a new method has been originated which consists in filling the pipe with water under pressure. Not only does the water keep the pipe from buckling, but a test of water tightness and pressure resistance is thus applied at the same time.

A Native New Yorker.

He joined the New York police force the other day. Height, six feet six inches; weight, 220 pounds; chest measure, forty-three inches; age, twenty-two years; physical rating, 100 per cent; mental examination rating, 97 per cent—a man fit to shake hands with John Ridd himself. Those who decry city life will please note that he was born and has lived in New York city and was until recently a clerk in an express office.—Collier's.

Straw Hats Without Straw.

Straw hats may be bought in which there is not an atom of straw. They are made of narrow strips of paper, dyed yellow. Artificial sponges are made of paper pulp, and an inventor has taken out a patent for paper thread to be used in sewing shoes.

Out of Harm's Way.

"And you say you never attend weddings any more?" asked the sweet young thing.

"No, I do not," replied the bachelor.

"And why not, pray?"

"Why, don't you see what's happening every day to innocent bystanders?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Testing a Man.

An epigram of Myrtle Reed's seems to have made a hit with New York women. In "Threads of Gray and Gold" she writes:

"The only way to test a man is to marry him. If you live, it's a mushroom. If you die, it's a toadstool."

Sarcastic.

"I try to mind my own business," said Mrs. Slothington.

"I never saw any one," replied Miss Cayenne, "who endured failure with greater fortitude."—Washington Star.

Life's Little Sorrows.

"Rich women have no real joys."

"No; the stores never have a clearance sale of diamond necklaces."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Eggs That Croak.

That young unhatched crocodiles utter an audible croaking cry within the eggs in which they are laid is averred by Knowledge, and it adds that the cry is so loud and distinct that it can be heard when the eggs are buried under one or two yards of sand.

Dr. W. A. Lamborn tested the fact at Lagos, on the West African coast. He heard a croaking noise from below a dry path, and, digging in the path to investigate the cause, he discovered thirteen crocodile's eggs at a depth of about 18 inches. All the young crocodiles hatched out within half an hour of being dug up.

So far back as 1899 Dr. Vosikow noticed that unhatched Madagascar crocodiles uttered a cry from the egg at a depth of two yards, and that any shock, as of a heavy tread, near the egg caused the baby crocodiles to produce this sound "with the mouth closed, as we produce hiccup sounds." In this way they inform the female crocodile when she visits the nest that they want her aid, whereupon she scrapes the sand away and they emerge.

Weather To Order.

Is it possible to make weather to order? In the opinion of that eminent scientist, Sir Oliver Lodge, it is by no means beyond the powers of man, and he advances the suggestion that exploration of the upper regions would result in discoveries which would enable us to control the weather.

The latter, he contends, is merely a matter of electrical conditions, and the ingredients necessary for fine weather are an upper atmosphere charged with positive electricity and a negative charge upon the earth's surface. Much, he says, could be done by placing a copper rod round the earth parallel to the Equator and discharging millions of amperes (units) from this rod. Sir Oliver points out that we have spent millions on building railways, and why not invest capital in controlling the weather by this means?

"English Deforms Mouth."

Lord Ashbourne, whose father was a Tory Lord Chancellor of Ireland, but who himself is an advanced Nationalist and who always dresses in ancient Irish kilts, speaking at a recent Gaelic league meeting, declared that the continuous speaking of English deformed the mouth.

As a result, he said, Englishmen have thin, prominent lips, long front teeth and the general appearance of a measly rabbit. The German language is strong and vigorous, but English is in a state of rottenness, weakness, decay.

Dogs' Teeth as Currency.

Litigation in a London court has revealed the fact that a considerable trade in dogs' teeth has sprung up in the Pacific islands, where they are used for currency and ornaments. The best tearing and corner teeth for the Pacific trade sell here for a guinea ($5.25) a hundred.

The contract about which the litigation arose concerned 40,000 teeth at $3 a hundred. The chief source of supply of the teeth are the tanneries, which buy the carcasses of dogs for their skins.

Protection.

Two patrolmen were sitting in front of the steam heating plant in the basement of an apartment house. Suddenly the door opened and the sergeant stalked in.

"I suppose this means we're going to be busted," said one of the cops.

"Not necessarily," said the cold sergeant coldly. "You stay right here and watch the janitor and see that he keeps the boiler sizzling. If you fail I'll prefer charges against you. I happen to live in this house, and I'm going up to bed."—New York Press.

Warning Signs.

Mr. McCann went to have his photograph taken and took on a very grouchy expression.

"Try and look pleasant, please," said the photographer.

"Not on your life," answered McCann. "Me for the sullen ferocity thing. This is for the wife's mother, who wants to come and stay a month with us."—New York Post.

A Better One.

At the monthly meeting of a certain hunting society, one of the members related an interesting experience. He had recently sold a couple of "squeakers"—very young pigeons—to a man whose coop was 200 miles away. He sent them off by train and was astounded to find them back in the old coop two days later.

There was a painful silence, broken at length by the president's "Wonderful!"

"You doubt my word?" demanded the narrator of the story.

"Not a bit of it," was the reply. "It's a strange coincidence, that's all. I sold the very same man a setting of eggs in the middle of June. Before the end of the month those birds had hatched out and had flown back to me! Homing instinct's a wonderful thing!"—Youth's Companion.

The Order of the Seraphim.

The Order of the Seraphim is the oldest and most famous of the decorations in the gift of the king of Sweden. Originally it was instituted by Magnus IV., some 600 years ago, to commemorate the siege of Upsala, the ancient capital of the Swedish kings, and its statutes bound the recipients of the order to fight to the death for the maintenance of their religion and to constitute themselves the special protectors of the widow and the fatherless. When it was revived about the middle of the eighteenth century by King Frederick the obligations laid upon the members were somewhat less onerous. The decoration consists of an eight pointed star in white enamel with cherubs' heads of gold and is worn on a broad band of pale blue ribbon.

Banana Meal.

It has been proved in India and the Malay peninsula that the produce from one acre of bananas or plantains, as the fruit is termed in that region, will support a much greater number of people than a similar area under any other crop, and the immense yield may be preserved for an indefinite period by drying the fruit and preparing meal from it. Plantain meal is made by stripping off the husk, slicing the core, drying it in the sun and then reducing it to powder, and finally sifting. It is calculated that the fresh core will give 40 per cent of meal and that an acre of average quality will yield over a ton.

Extinct.

Moods of the Bay of Fundy.

The bay of Fundy is full of strange and contradictory features. Grand Manan island, which lies to the port hand of a vessel entering the bay, is one rocky graveyard—on the reef to the southeast an impaled ship is a common sight. Every indentation, nay, every rocky cranny, bears some terrible and suggestive name descriptive of some maritime tragedy. On the island, twelve miles in length and scarcely inhabited, is a graveyard filled with the bodies of unknown sailors. A little above Trinity rock the coast of Nova Scotia rises in rocky parapets from the sea and a narrow inlet admits to the Annapolis valley where, strange to say, the eye rests on a fertile valley of apple orchards which raise the highest priced fruit in the world. In this sheltered space is a climate which, owing partly to the gulf stream and partly to position, differs altogether from the arctic cold of the stormy sea without.—Westminster Gazette.

"I know, I know," he hastened to apologize. "But it's all right with you. I mean it's a shame when a girl's young."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LIGHT OF THE SON

In Its Pure State We on the Earth Have Never Seen It.

SOME RAYS DO NOT REACH US.

If They Did They Would Probably Destroy Life as It Exists on Our Planet. Daylight and Sunlight Differ Almost as Much as Do Wine and Water.

"As clear as daylight" expresses in ordinary language a maximum of plainness and obviousness. Nevertheless daylight is one of the most complicated and capriciously variable of all natural phenomena.

Almost everybody you meet will tell you that daylight and sunlight are different names for the same thing. They think they know that much of astronomy anyway. But astronomy does not teach anything of the kind. Astronomy simply tells us that the sun is the primary cause or source of daylight, but it does not say that daylight and sunlight are identical. In fact, they differ almost as much as do water and wine.

But the degree of difference varies. Daylight is a mixture of two kinds of light, and its quality is continually changing, as everybody who has ever had anything to do with photography knows. The proportions of the two kinds of light that make daylight are not the same from hour to hour and hardly from minute to minute.

In clear weather, under an open sky, with the sun high in the heavens, daylight, says Professor Nichols of Cornell, is almost entirely sunlight. A white surface exposed to an unobscured sky receives directly from the sun 85 per cent of the light that illuminates it and only 15 per cent from other parts of the sky dome.

This other part of the illumination is called skylight, and it consists of light, nearly all of which came originally from the sun, but which has been changed in quality by reflection from the earth, from the clouds and from dust and vapor in the air. Many of the rays that characterized the original sunlight have been absorbed by the reflecting substances, so that what remains is no longer the same thing as before.

On a completely overcast day there is no sunlight, properly so called, but only skylight. Whether the sky is overcast or not the intensity of daylight varies with the hour of the day and with the season. This is due to differences in the elevation of the sun. These variations in the intensity of daylight are surprisingly great. The intensity is on the average ten times as great in midsummer as in midwinter, but this average comes far from expressing the utmost difference that can exist, for investigation has shown that between the clearest summer day and the darkest day of winter the ratio of the intensity of daylight may be as great as 300 to 1.

Besides, the quality of daylight is continually changing on account of the variations in the relative amounts of the different rays of the spectrum that are mingled in it. The spectrum of light is a gamut of vibrations, and the result of the selective action exercised by the substances and vapors, from which the light has been reflected and through which it has passed is to produce variations of color and of intensity of color, as well as of the quantity of invisible radiations present, and these variations are not the less real and important because the eye is not always fully aware of them.

As to pure sunlight, we never see it on the earth. The light that arrives to us from the sun has neither the color nor the intensity that it possesses before it enters the atmosphere. The ultraviolet rays especially are almost completely screened off by the atmosphere, and if they reached us in their full force it is probable that life as now organized on this planet would be destroyed by them.

Every different world has its own daylight, although all may be illuminated by the same sun. Not only does relative distance affect the intensity of daylight on different planets, but the constitution of their various atmospheres has an equally great effect. Venus has a daylight twice as intense as ours; Mars one-half as intense. On Jupiter the intensity is 1-25 of that on the earth; on Saturn, 1-90; on Neptune, 1-900.

But each of these planets has an atmosphere peculiar to itself, and thus the differences of daylight upon them are made still more remarkable. This is one of the first things to be taken into account in all speculations about the habitability of those other worlds. —Garrett P. Serviss in Spokane Spokesman-Review.

ALGERIANS ARE LIARS.

They May Tell the Truth at Times, but You Are Never Sure.

The chief fault of the native Algerians seems to be a certain predilection for lying. It appears to be an instinctive desire to deceive, not so much for the sake of profit as for the sake of deception. Albert Edwards, in "The Barbary Coast," tells us that he asked his French host why one of his workmen wore green braid on his turbans, since in Persia only those who have made the pilgrimage to Mecca are thus attired.

"Mohammed!" my host called. The tall, dignified native left his plow and came over to us.

"Have you been to Mecca?" M. Gardet asked in Arabic.

"No, Sidi," the Arab said and went back to his work.

"He says 'No,'" M. Gardet translated to me. "But like as not he has been there six times. If they would always lie you could understand them. But sometimes they tell the truth. Perhaps he hasn't been there. If I should ask six of my workmen about it three would say that Mohammed had been to Mecca, three would say he hadn't."

So I stopped asking my host questions about the Arabs. But in all the time I have been in Algeria I have never found a Frenchman who felt differently about it. Guy de Maupassant, whose eyes pierced so deeply through the lies of French life, could not fathom the Arabs. "They are incomprehensible," he writes. "They lie."

Birds That Fight Eagles.

In Foula, one of the Shetland islands, the natives make a business of rearing skau gulls in order to rid the island of the eagles that congregate there and commit many depredations. The magnificent red sandstone cliffs that skirt the northwestern coast became a favorite haunt of the eagles, and in this inaccessible spot they increased so rapidly that they became a terror to the farmers and fishermen who dwell on this isolated spot. The skau gulls are also strong and fierce and the inveterate foes of the eagle. In battle the gulls are nearly always victorious, and so the inhabitants of Foula hit upon the novel plan of feeding and caring for the skau gulls, which, though formidable to their feathered enemies, are very peaceful and docile when brought in contact with man.

St. Petersburg and the Neva.

When the river Neva rises St. Petersburg is always in danger of inundation. The city was built upon a swamp, and the land has been laboriously reclaimed and is liable to overflow by the Neva. That river divides and forms a delta, and this delta is embraced within the city limits. Although the main portion of St. Petersburg is situated on the mainland (a peninsula washed on the east by the Neva and on the northwest by the Great Neva), parts of the city stand on islands formed by the arms of the river. The islands, with their gardens and villas, are a pretty feature of the capital. The various parts of the city are connected by over 100 bridges, the longest being the Troitsky bridge, about a third of a mile in length.—Westminster Gazette.

The members of the choir of the cathedral of Alexander Nevski in St. Petersburg are all monks. They are thirty in number and are chosen from the best singers in all the Russian monasteries. When the possessor of a fine voice appears among the novitiates he is sent to the monastery of Alexander Nevski, which adjoins the cathedral, where he is trained as carefully as an opera singer and remains there, doing little beyond assisting at the music at mass in the morning and vespers in the afternoon, until he becomes aged, when he retires on a pension. Many of the voices are of marvelous power and sweetness. The monks are all vegetarians. The rules of the orthodox church forbid them to shave and their hair is worn like a woman's.

"Yes," retorted Margaret: "you're a regular carry van."—Indianapolis News.

THE WORLD'S WATER POWER.

Forces That May Be Utilized When Our Coal Is All Gone.

The following figures may prove of interest to those fearing the exhaustion of the world's coal supply, says the American Machinist. In a summary of the water power of the world the possible horsepower of France is estimated at 4,500,000, of which only 300,000 is utilized. About an equal amount of power is available in Italy, but only 30,000 horsepower is utilized. Falls of 10,000 horsepower are abundant in the Alps.

The estimate in Switzerland is incomplete, but about 300,000 horsepower is in use. Germany has 700,000 horsepower available, with 100,000 applied. Norway has 900,000 horsepower available, with a large part already developed. In Sweden there is 700,000 horsepower available.

The resources of Russia are estimated at 11,000,000 horsepower, of which only 85,000 has been developed. The United States is credited with 1,500,000 horsepower, while Japan has 1,000,000, of which 70,000 has been exploited. In India 50,000 horsepower has already been developed, mostly at a considerable distance from any industrial center. In Great Britain there is 70,000 horsepower already utilized, and an equal amount in Spain.

Promoting the Janitor.

They were joint owners of an apartment house and one day the junior partner sought his colleague in some trepidation.

"The janitor wants $10 more a month or he'll leave. I hate to give up the money, but we can't spare him."

The senior partner disappeared and returned in a few moments.

"It's all right," said he. "I've satisfied him, and it didn't cost us anything."

"How's that?"

"The janitor is now the superintendent."

"Good work!" declared the junior partner. "But why didn't you make him superintendent in the first place?"

"Because," answered the senior member, "I knew he'd want a promotion eventually. Every man wants a promotion some time and, to my mind, a good man deserves one."—Judge.

Smoky Cities Also Foggy.

The relation between smoke and fog is ably set forth in a bulletin issued by the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, University of Pittsburgh, and written by Dr. Herbert H. Kimball, professor of meteorology, United States weather bureau. He sums up the matter by saying:

"City fogs are more persistent than country fogs, principally because of their increased density due to the smoke that accumulates in them.

"In consequence of the above there are fewer hours of sunshine in the cities than in the surrounding country.

"The sunshine is less intense in the city than in the country, the light of short wave lengths, or the blue light, suffering the greater depletion."

Saving Time.

"Say," exclaimed the excited young man with the discolored optics, "I want you to strike me off a few thousand cards."

"All right, sir," responded the printer. "What shall I put on them?"

"Just print 'None of your business' in big type. Then when the next person asks me how I got this black eye I can just hand him a card and say words."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Horseradish.

The cultivation of horseradish is a thriving industry, a writer in the Country Gentleman says, and he describes a three acre farm devoted to this industry, which keeps two men busy, one of them making good money out of his miniature farm. One advantage of this crop is thus described: "The horseradish farmer can well lie back and rest in easy security, for he has a crop that only insects with suicidal motives attack."

Not on the Play Bill.

Miss Mary Moran, the English actress, tells of an incident that occurred when she was playing Belle, the wicked lady in H. C. Carton's play, "The Tree of Knowledge," to a holiday audience. At the end of the fourth act Belle leaves her husband and goes away with the villain of the piece. In a moment of remorse she bends over her sleeping husband, kisses him and, taking from her neck his mother's chain, she places it beside him, remarking as she exits: "The least and the worst of us are fools." On this particular occasion the clasp of the chain refused to unclasp. Twice she tried to remove it, when a voice from the gallery exclaimed: "Keep it, Belle. You'll want something to pawn if you're going to skip out with that other bird!"

BLACK HAND SECRETS REVEALED BY CHIEF OF SECRET SERVICE

ON THE TRAIL OF LUPO THE WOLF AND MORELLO

BOSCARINI PURCHASED A SPECIAL DELIVERY AND A TWO-CENT STAMP

ANTONIO CECALA ONE OF MORELLO'S MOST TRUSTED LIEUTENANTS

Synopsis of Previous Articles.

After telling how he solved the baffling mystery of the barrel murder, Chief Flynn describes the organization of the Ignatz Florio Association of Corleone, a dishonest real estate scheme originated by Lupo and Morello, who controlled the stock of the company. Pushed by creditors, Lupo and Morello decided to make counterfeit money and offer it to those to whom they were indebted at the rate of one dollar for every thirty-five cents they owed. The Secret Service men were certain that Lupo and Morello were at the head of the work, and they knew certain of those under them, but no arrests were made because the evidence was not sufficient to convict the whole band, and, especially Lupo and Morello themselves.

By William J. Flynn,

Chief of the United States Secret Service

Like malignant spirits, Lupo and Morello lurked in the dark and directed the movements of the pawns under them in the great counterfeiting scheme which was to make them wealthy and get them out of the difficulties into which the Ignatz Florio Association had plunged them. They took no chances—at least they thought they took none—and certainly they were not in the danger to which they exposed their aids.

It was they who pulled the strings and their puppets responded. Many of these men who carried out the plans of the leaders did not even know for whom they were working. Their system was mysterious, baffling, almost perfect. But there were flaws in it and the Secret Service found them flaws.

Through my men I learned that an Italian from Corleone, Antonio Cecala by name, was the most trusted lieutenant of Lupo and Morello. He was the chief distributing agent of the counterfeit money. He made frequent trips to various cities, establishing agencies for the circulation of the bills. It was he who appointed an agent in each place who was personally responsible to him. These agents did not come in contact with Lupo and Morello—in fact, did not know that they were in any way connected with the scheme.

In order to facilitate his work Cecala appointed six deputies, who in turn appointed six others, and so on. It was necessary for these deputies to vouch for any person before Cecala would allow them to have any of the bogus money. When the deputies had given their O. K. to a request for money, Cecala made a report to Lupo and Morello, and if they in turn approved the bills would be delivered at the rate of one dollar for thirty-five cents in good money. Thus the notes passed through at least three hands before they reached the purchaser, and sometimes the transaction was even more complicated.

The deputies were really "pushers of the queer" or distributers of counterfeit money, and it was they who did the bulk of the dangerous work and who ran the greatest chances of arrest. Many of these men were known to us, but had we apprehended them the counterfeit plant would have been closed and the leaders and their aids would escape. The arrest of a "pusher" would have in no way incriminated Lupo and Morello for the prisoner, even had he desired to testify against the counterfeiters, would not know that they were at the bottom of the whole affair. In fact, so far as these "pushers" were concerned, Lupo and Morello did not exist. I have no doubt the names were unknown to some of them.

Again, if arrested these men would not dare to incriminate any one above them. Cecala saw to that. To each of the deputies he gave warning that to betray any member of the Black Hand meant death, certain and swift. This warning was repeated by the deputies to the men to whom they sold the counterfeit money.

There were examples aplenty to make the warning effective.

While I was in Pittston, Pa., at work on my case against Lupo and Morello I heard of a man named Sam Locino who knew Boscarini, one of the deputies appointed by Cecala. I had a little talk with Locino. It ended by his telling me that Boscarini had made several trips to Pittston and had offered to sell him counterfeit money at the regular price charged by the Lupo-Morello gang.

The moment Locino mentioned Boscarini's name I knew immediately that he was talking of the man standing next to Cecala himself with the leaders. I believed that if I could trap this Boscarini I would be just so much closer to the leaders, and I believed that I could do it without frightening them off and without letting them know that I so much as suspected them.

Accordingly at my direction Locino wrote to Boscarini in the Sicilian dialect, asking for a sample of the counterfeit money and suggesting that if it was a good enough imitation he could pass some of it in Pittston.

I myself took the letter to the post office and registered it in the presence of the Mayor of the city and the Chief of Police. On the same train which carried the letter I went to New York.

One of my operatives was present when Boscarini received the letter and signed for it.

From that hour he was shadowed. Next day he went to a sub-post office in the Bowery and purchased a special delivery and a two-cent stamp. So close did the Secret Service man stand to Boscarini in the post office that he saw him place the stamp on the envelope upside down and was able to read the return address he had written on the envelope as he dropped it in the chute. This return address, by the way, was a fictitious one.

Again I travelled on the same train with the letter, this time to Pittston, where I went with Locino to the post office, and he claimed the letter, which had been sent general delivery. He opened it in my presence and found inside a counterfeit two dollar and five dollar bill, of the kind manufactured by the Lupo-Morello band.

Locino showed fear when I wanted him to go to New York to meet Boscarini, but I persuaded him that it was best for him. I gave him $35 to buy $100 in counterfeit money from Boscarini. The genuine bills were marked, although Locino did not know it. This was to identify them if they were in the possession of any of the men I contemplated arresting.

Always under the eyes of the Secret Service, Locino met Boscarini at the corner of Mulberry and Prince streets, and after a short conservation they agreed to meet again the same day. After leaving Locino Boscarini went directly to the store of Lupo and Morello in East Ninety-second street. This store was the headquarters for the distribution of the spurious money, as I well knew, though for the reasons I have often repeated I was not ready to raid the place and arrest the leaders of the band.

In the window of the store there were piled many boxes of macaroni, and behind these Morello, Cecala and Lupo held many secret conferences. Sometimes other trusted members of the society were present, but the conferences, matters now important, never lasted more than fifteen minutes, for too lengthy conversations might excite suspicion.

The small Italian grocers of the district were forced to buy their supplies at this store. If they did not their establishments were in danger of being wrecked by bombs or burned. Even worse, their children might be kidnapped or themselves slain. By intimidating the local grocers into trading at their wholesale store, Lupo and Morello accomplished a double purpose. They swelled their so-called legitimate profits and were able to get rid of some of the counterfeit money.

Boscarini again met Locino after the conference in Mulberry street and he received from the hands of Boscarini a roll of bills. Later they were found to be counterfeits of the same make as those sent to him in the letter. At intervals of a week Locino journeyed to New York and purchased more of the bogus money, always paying for it with bills which I had secretly marked.

When I considered I had evidence enough to convict Boscarini and others I proposed to Locino that he should go on the stand to testify against them.

The man was seized with a fit of trembling. He had been told what it meant to "squeal" and he remembered the battered body of Marietto Benedetto, which was found in the barrel with conduct and cigar stumps. I let Locino think it over, however, and in the end he saw the light and declared that he would testify at the trial.

Boscarini and Cecala were arrested and two of the genuine bills which I had secretly marked were found in the possession of Cecala, thus proving to my own satisfaction that Lupo and Morello were the brains of the counterfeiting plot, for I knew that Cecala was their most trusted lieutenant. Still there was no evidence which would have held in court to connect them in any way with the manufacture or distribution of the bogus money. They remained serenely confident that the law could not reach them, and this was as I wished it to be. In their feeling of security lay my hope of rounding up the whole band.

Boscarini and Cecala were sentenced to fifteen years each in the Federal Prison in Atlanta as a result of Locino's testimony.

Not long after this sentence was pronounced Locino went to visit a friend in Pittston. He was obliged to walk across a vacant lot in which was a clump of bushes. As he drew near the bushes Locino thought he saw something move. Perhaps it was only a shadow, but Locino had heard of shadows taking life and hurling death to those who had incurred the wrath of the Black Hand. The man had nerve. He proved that when he testified against Boscarini, but he knew the methods of the Sicilians.

Very quickly he turned on his heel and started to walk back in the direction from which he had come. Out of the shadow of the bushes crawled a man.

Crang! Crang! Two leaden slugs sped from the shadow, and Locino dropped with two ugly gashes in his head.

Men were close at hand and they ran to the aid of the Italian. Others searched for the would-be assassin, but he had escaped—disappeared as though the shadow had absorbed him again. Boscarini had been in part avenged, but Locino recovered and has reason to believe that he is well protected from the Black Hand for many years to come.

All this time the net was drawing closer to Morello and Lupo, the men whom, above all others, I wished to involve so that they could not escape, for I knew them to be the leaders of the counterfeiting band.

My men watched continually the houses where we knew Black Handers to live and the cafés and eating places where they were wont to congregate. In this way I learned that a letter, undelivered, had been returned to No. 8 Prince street, the address which was written on the back of the envelope. The name written with the return address was Giuseppe Conti. Now, Lupo, and Morello had a store at No. 8 Prince street, and when the letter was returned there they declared that they knew no person by the name of Giuseppe Conti, and that he had never lived there. The letter could not possibly have been sent from that address, they said.

The postman had nothing to do but to take it away with him again, for no one in the Prince street place would accept it.

It was addressed to Andrea Pollara, Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, Canada. In it was a counterfeit five dollar bill, which was evidently a sample asked for by the man who called himself Andrea Pollara. The writer of the letter advised Pollara to buy five cents' worth of griciria and rub the bill and his hands with it. Griciria is a Black Hand term for glycerine, which, when rubbed on a new counterfeit bill, gives it a remarkably natural appearance of age. The letter, which was written in Sicilian, closed by saying that if Pollara thought the bills would go well he might have as many as he wished.

My problem was to find the writer of the letter, and I hoped to connect him with either Morello or Lupo. This is how we went about it—showing the great amount of detail work involved in running down criminals of this type.

The note was signed with the initials "I. P." It was a registered letter, sealed with black wax, stamped with the name "F. Acritelli, No. 243 Elizabeth street." The cancellation mark showed that it had been mailed at substation No. 78, which is in the Italian bank of Pasquale Pati, in No. 240 Elizabeth street. This was just across the street from Acritelli's, where the letter had been mailed.

The initials with which the letter was signed were those of Pietro Inzerillo, who kept a café at No. 226 Elizabeth street, in the same block with the places where the letter had been mailed and mailed. Inzerillo's café was a popular place with the Lupo-Morello crowd, and just around the corner from No. 8 Prince street, the address to which the letter had been returned and at which the two leaders conducted a café and restaurant.

It was, of course, merely a guess on my part that the letter had been written by Inzerillo, but I set about to make sure of it. The whole affair had been conducted in that neighborhood and there was no doubt in my mind that one of the men we were watching had written the letter. I managed to obtain a specimen of Inzerillo's handwriting, and my theory that he had penned the Pollara letter was exploded. The penmanship was entirely different.

There were at that time several of the Black Hand members in the Tombs prison. Many of their friends visited them, and at my request Marshal Henkel required all these visitors to sign the names which he issued to them permitting them to see the prisoners. In this way I obtained numerous signatures of the counterfeiters, but none matched the writing in the Pollara letter. Hints which reached my ears finally led me to believe that Lupo himself had written the letter, but I seemed unable to procure a specimen of his handwriting. He did not visit any of the men in the Tombs.

Now, I was aware that Lupo at that time was engaged in the importation of olive oil, which, of course, had to pass through the Custom House. John Hughes, brother of former Police Inspector Hughes, was in the customs service.

Through him I had a consignment of olive oil to Lupo held up by the customs authorities. Before they were released it was necessary for Lupo to write out a list of the goods, their value and sign the papers. This statement was taken to a handwriting expert, who after careful study declared that it was the work of the same person who wrote the Pollara letter.

At last I had evidence which would hold in court to establish the fact that Lupo himself was active in the distribution of the bogus money. But the trap was not yet to be sprung. There was much else I wanted cleared up. Before I spoiled everything I desired to be in a position to arrest and convict every man, if possible, who was in any way concerned in the counterfeiting.

Investigation showed me that Andrea Pollara was a laborer in a railroad camp at Portage la Prairie and I soon learned that he was the agent for the counterfeiters and had been sent there to investigate the camp as a field in which to get rid of some of the spurious money. When the letter to Pollara reached Portage la Prairie the camp had moved to another place and so the letter was returned to the address on the back. The fact that it was refused caused it to fall into my hands.

Further investigation showed me that the agent in Canada had only assumed the name Pollara and that he was really Salvatore Maccari, who lived with his wife in New York city.

Secret service men immediately went on the trail of Maccari. Meantime the barrel murder occurred and among others Lupo was arrested. While he was in custody his house was searched and there was found a letter postmarked Portage La Prairie, addressed to Pietro Inzerillo, No. 226 Elizabeth street. In the letter the writer asked to be remembered to Ignazio (referring to Lupo), and requested him to send five dollars. This was evidently the letter in response to which the Pollara letter was written and the specimen bill sent. Although the letter was signed Salvatore Matisi, another alias of Maccari, it asked that the money be addressed to Andrea Pollara.

On Lupo's person was found a note book in which was an entry, "S. Matisi, sent to Canada $5.00, to his wife, $5.00, ditto $4.00."

This book was taken to the handwriting expert who examined the Pollara letter and the customs statement of Lupo and it was declared by him that the entries were written by the same hand—Lupo's. We were on the warm trail of the wolf.

Agents of the secret service followed Maccari from Canada to New York without him so much as guessing that we knew of his existence. When all was ready he was arrested in his home, No. 70½ James street, and in his apartment were found many letters written from Portage La Prairie and addressed to Andrea Pollara. These letters were rich in what we call "riveting evidence."

Maccari denied that he knew Lupo or Morello. He said that never had he seen any counterfeit money, to his knowledge, either in America or in Italy or Canada.

With a great show of emotion he made the sign of the cross and swore that he could not read or write and that all his statements were true. Fear of the Black Hand was strong within him. The quiet in the barrel was fresh in his memory. It was not until Maccari felt that the grip of the law was more terrible than the mailed fist of the Black Hand that he told the truth.

Then he confessed that he knew Lupo. He said that his father and Lupo's father had been the closest of friends, but he steadfastly denied that Lupo that written the letter which was addressed to him as Pollara in Portage La Prairie and which had been returned to No. 8 Prince street. However, I held the expert opinion of a handwriting specialist as to that, and, moreover, I discovered that the paper on which the letter was written bore the same watermark as did the billheads which Lupo used. The envelope which contained the letter and was returned to Prince street was of the same make as envelopes found in the café of Pietro Inzerillo.

The net was drawing close about Morello and Lupo. The arrest of Maccari brought us closer to the latter than we had been before. Still we were obliged to wait.

A GREAT HOTEL

When the Canadian Pacific Railway erected the huge hotel, Royal Alexandra at Winnipeg, in 1899, there there were many who shook their heads, saying that the City was too small and the prospective growth of the West was not sufficient to warrant such a magnificent structure. Winnipeg, at that time, was the size of Calgary to-day. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, the then newly-elected president, however, opened the hotel amid most propitious circumstances, declaring that the development of the West would far exceed even the most optimistic dreams of those who knew it best.

Sir Thomas' statement has not only been proved to be absolutely correct but the judgment of the C. P. R., directed by him, has been shown to be faultless. To-day several hundred artisans are rushing to completion an addition to the structure which when finished, will make the building one-half as large again. It is the desire of the company to open the new portion to the public on May 1st of this year. Everything points to this being accomplished.

The new portion will consist of seven stories with 177 guest rooms and 129 baths. It will be fire-proof throughout, and, in that as well as in all of its other details, will conform with the older portions. It will rise 105 fee above the round. It is of steel frame construction, with floors of hollow tile and roof of cement. Buff pressed brick will form the exterior facing of the walls. This will be trimmed with native stone from Tydall, Manitoba.

The addition is L shaped. On the ground floor will be a large grill room, 45 feet x 45 feet, and nine private dining rooms. A banquet and a ball room, each 45 feet x 100 feet, will be situated on the second or mezzanine floor.

The kitchen of the existing structure will be enlarged 200 per cent. when the addition is competed.

There will be approximately nine acres of floor space in the hotel, considering the addition and the older portion as the same building. Twenty-seven hundred tons of steel have gone into the frame of the new portion. There were 13 girders each weighing 38 tons, placed over the grill, banquet, ball and dining rooms. These are the heaviest individual girders used in building construction in Canada. Concealed lighting will be in effect throughout the entire addition. The heating and the ventilation will be made a part of the system which supplies the older portion. In old and new parts there will be about 500 guest rooms, making the Royal Alendra Hotel the largest in Canada.

STOPS BOY'S HEART IN ORDER TO REMOVE BULLET

NEW YORK, May 4.—The living, throbbing heart of a human being has been taken out of the body itself, a bullet embedded in it cut out, the violently beating heart sewn up and replaced! That is modern surgery's greatest triumph.

The boy whose heart was so mended is alive to-day and is working again—as if nothing had ever happened to him.

Modern surgery announced its greatest triumph of the twentieth century in the accomplishment of two celebrated surgeons, before the American Surgical Association in New York City.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, winner of the Nobel prize in 1912, told the assembled surgeons of his success in interrupting the circulation of blood in a dog for two and a half minutes, in which time he performed delicate operations, which, if duplicated in the human heart will enable surgical science to repair injuries to that delicate organ, which are now invariable fatal.

LIFE THROUGH HEART STOPS.

Heart operations have been impracticable because of the impossibility of arresting circulation without stopping life itself. But Dr. Carrel has proved that life may go on while the heart itself has stopped.

Dr. Carrel stopped the hearts of the dogs by clamping rubber tipped clamps to the arteries, restoring the circulation nearly three minutes later by removing the clamps.

Dr. Robers Proust, the distinguished French surgeon, interested the assemblage by the statement that he had extracted a bullet from the heart of a boy four years ago. The boy is now earning his own living.

"On Feb. 20, 1910," he said, "I found a boy of 13 years at the Trousseau hospital, who had been accidentally shot by a playmate. An examination showed a bullet in the heart and I decided an immediate operation alone would save him.

TRACES BULLET'S COURSE.

"I traced the course of the bullet and made an incision, lifting the skin and soft parts along the breast bone. I found the cartilage of the fifth rib shattered by the bullet. I raised it and found bubbling blood. sectioned the fourth and sixth rib cartilages at the breast bone, completing the flap of flesh and turned the flap back, unfastening and pushing back the pleura (membrane of the thorax).

"I applied compresses to the breach, cleansed the operative field and distinguished the wound in the pericardium (the membrane sack around the heart), from which the blood had spurted.

"I enlarged the wound to three inches and explored the pericardiac cavity (surrounding the heart). I could not see the heart apex because of a huge clot of blood.

"I removed this clot and with it the bullet, loose in the pericardium (membrane around the heart.)

HELD HEART IN HIS HAND.

"Then I found a wound in the heart itself, allowing blood to escape with each contraction. I grasped the violently beating heart with difficulty and sewed up the wound as it beat in my hands. The first stitch perforated the heart wall and stopped the hemorrhage, but blood continued to escape along the needle and thread.

"I made three other non-perforating stitches with a smaller needle, covering this seam with another series of stitches. Then I stitched up the pericardium repaired the shattered breast wall and completed the operation.

A month after the operation the boy took up his work as messenger. He shows no sign of heart trouble beyond a slight panting when he ascends stairs. He is now a bookkeeper."

Dr. John B. Murphy, Chicago's great surgeon, in commenting on Dr. Robert Proust's report to the American Surgical Association, stated the possibilities of accidental surgery on the heart were almost limitless.

CAN SAVE MANY LIVES.

"The story of Dr. Proust's successful operation on the heart of a boy is correct in every detail," said Dr. Murphy.

"The progress of accidental surgery on the heart has been almost unbelievable in the last ten years. Now it is possible to sew up a cavity penetrating the wall of the heart if the surgeon is enabled to start work before the patient has lost too much blood. The arresting of the circulation makes such an operation possible.

"It would be foolish to say that surgery has reached its highest point in that branch, even though it looks so at this time. Surgery has accomplished such wonders that nothing seems impossible."

Thin, Weak, Nervous Headaches, Indigestion

Was Easily Worried and Excited, and Generally Run Down --Marked Benefit From Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Thinness and nervousness usually go together and arise from the same cause—thin, watery blood. The digestive system is failing to supply the required nourishment to the tissues and the nerve cells.

A concentrated, easily digested tonic treatment such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is necessary in order to get the required nutrition into the blood stream. It is truly wonderful what this great restorative will do for thin, weak, nervous men and women.

Mr. Fred Carstens, farmer, Laird, Sask., writes: "I was very thin and nervous, and as I was continually grieving worse, decided to give Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a trial. I would suffer from headaches and indigestion, was easily worried and excited and felt generally run down. The benefit obtained from this food cure has been very marked, and I can recommend it with the greatest confidence to persons who are thin, weak and nervous."

Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and even insanity result from neglect to heed the warnings which tell of an exhausted nervous system. Nervousness, irritability, frequent nervous headaches, tendency to worry, indigestion; such are the danger signals which come to warn you of approaching trouble.

While Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is frequently successful in curing nervous prostration, partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia, it is wise to avoid these very serious diseases by keeping the nervous sytem in good condition at all times. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help you as nothing else can. Fifty cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

HOW COWPER WROTE "JOHN GILPIN"

"John Gilpin" was written in a greenhouse at Olney, whose dimensions have been given as 6 feet by 9 feet by 5 feet five inches. This was the poet Cowper's favourite spot. "Having furnished it with a table and two chairs," he says, "here I write all that I write in summer time, whether to my friends or the public." Later in a letter to Mr. Unwin he describes this 6 feet by 5 feet paradise as a place "so silent, so shady, where no human foot is heard, and only my myrtles presume to peep in at the window." The beauties of the spot he finds an interruption to his work, "My attention being called upon by those very myrtles, by a double row of grass plaks just beginning to blossom, and by a bed of beans already in bloom." Here "lived happy prisoners," the two goldfinches celebrated in "The Faithful Bird," and here he wrote "The Task," and it is to the stimulating influence of its myrtles and mignonettes, Austin Dobson says in his "Eighteenth Century Vignettes," that we owe, if not the germ, at least the evolution of "John Gilpin."

Everyone knows how, in the current story, Lady Austen's diverting narrative of the way in which a certain citizen "of famous London town" rode out to celebrate the aniversary of his marriage, gradually seduced her listener from the moody melancholy which was fast overclouding him "into a loud and hearty peal of laughter." It "made such an impression on his mind that at night he could not sleep; and his thoughts having taken the form of rhyme, he sprang from bed and committed them to paper, and in the morning brought down to Mrs. Unwin the crude outline of 'John Gilpin.'" All that day and for several days he secluded himself in the greenhouse and went on with the task of polishing and improving what he had written. As he filled his slips of paper he sent them across the Market place to Mr. Wilson, to the great delight and merriment of that jocular barber, who on several other occasions had been favoured with the first sight of some of Cowper's smaller poems.

This version of the origin of "John Gilpin" differs, we are aware, from the one generally received, which represents he famous ballad as having been commenced and finished in a night; but that the facts here stated are accurate we have the authority of Mrs. Wilson; moreover, it has always been said in Olney that "John Gilpin" was written in the "greenhouse," and that the first person who saw the complete poem, and consequently the forerunner of that noble army who made merry over its drolleries, was William Wilson, the barber.

IF THE KITCHEN IS SMALL.

It is a splendid idea, if you are crowded for room in the kitchen, to tack a piece of oilcloth round the edges of the kitchen table. You can then screw hooks into the under surface and use the space under the table for cooking utensils.

THREE NOTCH ROADS.

Name Originated From the Name of George III.

In Missouri and some other central western states there are roads that are called "three notch roads." They are public highways as distinguished from the roads that lead to a sawmill, a schoolhouse, a church or an isolated farmhouse. A three notch road "goes somewhere." Proceeding along such a road, the traveler is bound, in time, to reach a town.

There lies behind the custom title an interesting story. It appears that King George III. decreed that all English public roads, as king's highways, should be marked with his name. In the colonies it was often impossible to mark the roads with the care and thoroughness that were used in England, and in the wilderness it was enough to cut three notches on the largest trees along the roads.

After the Revolution, of course, the name of King George was omitted, but the three notches proved useful as a means of marking public roads. Virginia colonists, it is said, carried the practice into Tennessee, Kentucky, and Indiana, and their children, in turn, carried it into Missouri.

Originally Missouri had no counties. Later, when they were formed, the state decided that if the task were left to the counties there would be little road building. Accordingly, the state constructed the roads and marked them with three notches. Later, when the counties undertook to build roads, they were designated in the timber country by two notches. Prior to and during the war between the states the distinction was preserved, and three notch roads were always "through roads" that led from one town of importance to another. Two notch roads were less important highways, and roads not notched at all were either rail roads or plank roads. A rail road was a road leading to a camp where men split rails, and a plank road led to a sawmill.—Youth's Companion.

The Ship's Rat.

The black rat is the ship's rat, and it travels from country to country. The animal is found universally over the Monte Bello group of islands, even on the small outlying islets which are never visited, on which it occurs most abundantly. Its presence is attributed to a schooner which was wrecked some twelve years ago, for it is well known that this rat is a good swimmer. It is curious to find that this animal, which is now so rare in its native countries as to be looked upon as a great curiosity, should mainly be one of the first species to populate new lands where it is comparatively free from competition. Driven from all civilized countries by the brown rat, it has taken to the sea, being better adapted for a life on board ship than its otherwise victorious rival.—P. D. BAD BLOOD
IS THE DIRECT CAUSE OF Pimples.

Pimples break out on the face and body, and it is impossible to get rid of them, unless you cleanse the blood of all of its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt, the very best medicine for this purpose.

This old, and reliable medicine has been in use for nearly forty years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other preparation for removing all the impurities from the blood and banishing the pimples.

Mr. Edward Paquette, Navan Centre, Ont., writes:—"One month ago my face was covered with pimples and a rash. I had tried a number of these so called blood purifiers with no avail. Seeing an almanac of yours in which you strongly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to try a bottle, and after I had taken it I could see a decided change, and after using three bottles more all the pimples had completely disappeared."

ECCENTRIC DE QUINCEY.

He Often Greeted Visitors While Half Dressed and Bare Footed.

De Quincey's habits were so simple as to be almost ascetic, and he subsisted upon the lightest possible diet. His digestive trouble and neuralgic suffering, which first led to his taking opium, caused him early to lose his teeth, and from the extreme delicacy of his system he could eat nothing less capable of mastication than bread, so that article with a little soup or coffee was apt to comprise his whole dinner.

In reference to his manner of dress his daughter has said:

"His dress, unfortunately, he neither cared for himself, nor would he let others care for it. I say unfortunately, because his carelessness gave rise among punctilious people, unaccustomed to eccentric habits, to an impression of poverty for which there was no foundation. It might be that a thought occurred to him in the midst of some of his irregular processes of dressing or undressing (I should say some thought did generally strike him at that time), and he would stop with his coat just taken off, or not put on, without stockings at all, or with one off and one on, and becoming lost in what grew out of this thought, he would work for hours, hardly even noticing the coffee which was his chief support at such times.

"In the midst of this absorbing work would arrive visitors, of whom there were many, probably from such a distance that they could not be turned back without sight of the object of their long pilgrimage, upon which my father, with the unaffected courtesy which was one of the great charms of his character, would appear at once rather than keep them waiting while he put on his stocking, or whatever may be wanting or which was just likely in the wrong place, giving rise to awed impressions of poverty with some, while those who could withdraw their unchristian thoughts from the nakedness of the land, as expounded by his feet, might have seen in his surroundings signs of scrupulous neatness, sufficient comfort and refinement enough to reassure them on this point.

"His presence at home was the signal for a crowd of beggars, among whom, borrowed babies and drunken old women were sure of the largest share of the sympathy he refused to none." — From Caroline Ticknor's "Hawthorne and His Publisher."

HE IS A LOVER OF LIFE

ROBERT BRIDGES IS NOT MERELY A HIGHBROW BARD.

Britain's New Poet Laureate Is a Writer of Passionate Lyrics With a Fascinating Rhythm and He Believes Fully in Enjoying Life—He Approaches More Nearly to Shelley Than to Any Other.

For through the many years Robert Bridges has been writing he has been acclaimed so exclusively by the illuminati, owing largely to the fact that his books have often been privately printed and inaccessible to the general public, that a sort of tradition has grown up that he is a "scholar's poet," a "poet's poet"—anything but a people's poet. When he was made Laureate, the reading world was divided into the usual three parts; a very few who had long known his merit, and who immediately puffed out with pride in their superior sagacity; a larger group who had read

I have loved flowers that fade,
Within whose magic tents
Rich hues have marriage made

With sweet unremembered scents—

and who, at news of the appointment, plunged off to a public library to find out what else he had written; and the vast majority, who merely asked one another "Who is this man Bridges, anyhow?" and were satisfied with the reply, "Oh, a highbrow poet that nobody but college professors ever heard of."

The man in the street may not care much about the classical poems, to be sure, or the studies in prosody, nor even for the sonnet sequence, "The Growth of Love." If he has a natural sense of rhythm and it has not been spoiled by the schools, he may be a little irritated, too, at the occasional accents, placed to show that a line should be read so as to convey an idea, and not artificially. But the lyrics are bound to charm him. If he has imagined that Robert Bridges is merely the sort of poet that we usually associate with the word "classical," that is, faultless but cold, there is a surprise in store for him in the passionate

My delight and thy delight
Walking, like two angels white,
In the gardens of the night;

My desire and thy desire
Twining to a tongue of fire,
Leaping live and laughing higher;
Thro' the everlasting strife
In the mystery of life.

Love, from whom the world begun,
Hath the secret of the sun.

Love can tell, and love alone,
Whence the million stars were strewn
Why each atom knows its own,
How, in spite of woe and death,
Gay is life, and sweet is breath:

This he taught us, this we know,
Happy in his science true,
Hand in hand as we stood
Neath the shadows of the wood,
Heart to heart as we lay
In the dawning of the day.

The nature poems have an intimacy, a glow that distinguish the lover from the botanist. "The Idle Flowers," considered from a purely technical standpoint, is one of the most remarkable poems in the language, but it is far more than a floral catalogue in rhyme. We feel that the man who wrote

Thick on the woodland floor
Gay company shall be,
Primrose and Hyacinth
And frail Anemone,
Perennial Strawberry-bloom,
Woodsorrel's pencilled veil,
Dishevel'd Willow-weed
And Orchis purple and pale,

had lived with flowers as with children until the wisdom of them had entered his heart; there is none of the didactic superiority of Tennyson's "Flower in the crannied wall" about his attitude toward them.

In fact, Robert Bridges is as little didactic as a serious poet may be. In this, as in several other respects, his affiliations are more with Shelley than with any other poet before or since. Among his contemporaries Browning, Swinburne, Tennyson, all preach far more than he does. To our Puritan tradition, "hedonist" is a word of ill-savor; but Mr. Bridges stands with the two or three great men of the nineteenth century who dared to say with Samuel Butler, "He has spent his life best who has enjoyed it most; God will take care that we do not enjoy it any more than is good for us."

"The Growth of Love" opens with a declaration of independence from the Carlylean doctrine of genius:

They that in play can do the thing they would,
Having an instinct throned in reason's place,
—And every perfect action hath the grace
Of indolence or thoughtless hardihood—
These are the best.

Neither is happiness to be found by painful seeking. Robert Bridges has little patience with

* * * that sad
Backsliding herd, who cry
That Truth must make man Sad,
And pleasure is a lie.

But, of course, there are various definitions of pleasure. In Mr. Bridges' poetry there are none of the artificial fervors that too often pass for its flames, but rather the still light of stars and the glow on a hearthstone. Pleasure to the author of the "Shorter Poems" is something that comes when we simply open our hearts to the beauty of the world and of life, and wait.

One Million Blind.

It is estimated that there are about one million blind people under the British flag who are only able to read with their fingers. The Braille books are an inestimable boon, but so expensive as only to be enjoyed, without some practical assistance, by the well-to-do.

PRONOUNCING ENGLISH.

Going Astray on the Genius the "r" May Have Sounds.

A curious feature of the English language as it is spoken in this part of the United States is the prevalence of a dual system of pronunciation. The dictionaries tell us unequivocally that we should pronounce "dew," "knew" and "stew" as we do "few," and that "student," "stupid" and similar words should be enunciated as if they were spelled "stiudent" and "stiupid."

Nobody, apparently, disputes the correctness of this manner of pronouncing "u" and "ew"—yet here is a rule very much more honored in the breach than in the observance. Except for stage folks, the faculties and some of the students of schools and colleges and a few persons who make a point of precise speaking, the academic sound of "u" is disregarded almost universally.

It is by no means through ignorance that people say "stoo" and "stoopid." There are worthy persons who seem to feel that a good American really ought to say "stoo" and "stoopid." They think, apparently, that the orthodox "u" and "ew" are Anglicisms and are used in this country only by persons pedantic or "affected."

Of course, for all practical purposes one way of pronouncing is as good as another and usage has made both forms correct. Nevertheless, the right use of "u" and "ew" adds music and variety to the English language, and the younger generation might do well to pronounce according to the dictionary and gradually overcome an "Americanism" that has no real good excuse for being.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Spoiled Musicians.

Rubinstein disapproved of marriage for musicians. Just before his death he spoke sadly of his Russian lady pupils. "What have I wasted all my time on them for?" he asked irritably. "Every one married! It's too provoking! Here they are, spoiled forever for art life. What did they study for?"

The London Musical World remarks that "those who ask why we have no great lady composers may be left to think of these things."

FELL IN A FAINT

Mrs. Edwin Martin, Aver's Cliff, Que., writes: "Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor. I could not sweep without fainting. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has so built up my system that I can wash and do my housework. Your medicine cured me when doctors had failed."

Tree Roots.

An article by A. Howard in the Agricultural Journal of India describes the attempts made at the Pusa experimental station to protect field crops from injury by the roots of neighboring trees, by digging a deep trench each year between the trees and the adjacent cultivated area. In the case of some trees this plan proved successful, but not in the case of others, such as the pipal, banyan and teak. When the trenches were opened up it was found that the several roots had become connected again. New roots had been formed at the cut extremity. They had grown across the trench, which was twenty-four to thirty inches wide, and united with the severed portion of the root by a process of natural grafting, followed by a rapid thickening of the connections, which attained a thickness of .8 to 1.1 inches in twelve months.

Left Her Excuse Home.

One of the chorus girls came upon the stage after the rehearsal had been under way more than a half hour. The manager said, with all the tenderness of a buzz saw:

"Do you know that you are very late? What excuse have you got to offer?"

"I didn't bring it with me," she answered.

"Bring what?" thundered the manager.

"My excuse. I left it at home. You see, I got married yesterday, but I didn't think you wanted to see my husband."

The manager tried to suppress a grin. "We'll proceed with the rehearsal. Your excuse is overruled."—Exchange.

Mosques in England.

There are magnificent Mohammedan mosques in England. Those at Liverpool and Woking are noted for their exquisite appointments, and there is one situated at Bayswater. The domes are gilded in a similar way to those of the world famous Taj Mahal at Agra, built by Shah Jehan. In the east end there is a sacred temple to Al Ahmed, where the faithful meet once a year to go through a curious ceremony in honor of the prophet.—London Spectator.

Cup Custards.

Six eggs, half a cup of sugar, one quart of new milk. Beat the eggs and the sugar and milk, and then add the extract or flavouring you like. Fill your custard cups, sift a little nutmeg or cinnamon over the tops, set them in a moderate oven in a shallow pan half filled with hot water. In about 20 minutes try them with the handle of a teaspoon to see if they are firm. Judgment and great care are needed to attain skill in baking custard, for if left in the oven a minute too long or if the fire is too hot the milk will certainly whey.

Curried Eggs.

Cut hard boiled eggs in halves; then fry one small chopped onion and one fourth apple in hot butter; add one-fourth cup of pounded almonds and one pint of milk, mixed with one-half tablespoonful of cornstarch. Season with salt and a dessertspoonful of curry powder. Let cook ten minutes; then add the eggs. Let all get very hot. Serve with croutons; garnish with fresh parsley.

Tomato Jelly.

One can tomatoes, one sliced onion, one clove, one-half teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons gelatine, one-quarter cup water. Boil all together 15 minutes, strain and add gelatine dissolved in water. Let stand until firm, cut in cubes and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

MATCHMAKING IN INDIA.

One Scheme That Gave a Missionary the Surprise of His Life.

Almost every one who has friends in mission work in India knows that one very important function of the missionary is to play the part of matchmaker to his flock. But few if any have heard of the conditions being reversed and the flock turning matchmaker for their missionary. That does occur, however, as the letter written by a missionary who lives at Tuticorin, south India, tells:

On New Year's day, 1911, as I was seated in my little mud cottage at Tuticorin a number of people entered the veranda and unceremoniously came into my room, bearing trays of flowers, fruits, raisins and sugar, which they placed at my feet like suppliants who desire to gain the hearing of a petition. After all due Oriental etiquette had been observed and I had indicated my willingness to hear their petition Brother Arulana Dravium, a prominent lawyer in Tuticorin, began reading in Tamil an address to which the others gave strict attention. It ran like this:

"Reverend Sir—You have now for nearly two years bestowed great care and labor upon us, ministering to our spiritual welfare and striving for the health of our souls to such an extent that you have greatly impaired your own physical health, and we feel that you need some one to care for you since you do not care for yourself. We fear lest your zeal in our behalf may deprive us at once of your life and services. Therefore, with profound humility and sincere respect, we venture to request you to marry a good woman, who will both care for you and help us."

This was naturally a confusing thing to happen, but I was bound to respond to such an eloquent appeal, and when the applause died away I rose and answered with considerable effort:

"Your affectionate regard for my welfare is so overwhelming that I have no words in which to express my appreciation," and sat down, quite faint from the exertion. But the novelty of the situation overcame my fatigue, and, turning to one of the elders, I asked if they had any particular person in mind as one who would be willing to become my helpmeet and be equal to all the responsibilities they had outlined. Immediately Miss W.'s name was mentioned. "But," said I, "I don't believe she would have me." This seemed to me like matchmaking with a vengeance. What a high handed act, to be sure! To order their pastor to marry, and then to choose the girl besides! But the worst was still to come. "We have already seen her and told her she must have you," said Brother Rajappan.

So it was settled. I may add that my wife and I have reason to observe highly of the Indian method of matchmaking, but it should be combined with the western method of courting, as in our case, to secure the best results.—Exchange.

BUSTER

Ever since the day when, as a freshman, Davis Fitzgerald had arrived on the college campus with Robert Fitzgerald, his younger brother and classmate, and an altogether bull terrier following in his wake, he had been known as Fitzie One. His brother, who had amazingly developed as far as studies and athletics went, was Fitzie Two, and the dog was Fitzie Three.

Fitzie One liked the girls, and because of his liberal and sympathetic taste in the matter, he was kept in a constant state of indecision.

At first he had been moved to frenzied raptures over the 30-year-old daughter of the Greek professor. Then it was the library stenographer, and then—but no one save Fitzie One himself could recount the full number of his charmers.

But every one knew about Georgie Marston. Fitzie One came back in college as a senior with a free and ready heart, and he had speedily and even with more enthusiasm than usual centred his thoughts upon the daughter of the new vicar of the college chapel, the bewitching Georgie.

"Do you know, Miss Marston," he told her one Sunday afternoon as they were walking through a woodland pathway, with the faithful Fitzie Three, "do you know, Georgie, it isn't just because you're pretty. It's something more deep, more intangible than that."

Georgie, because of her inexperience, blushed and felt uncomfortable. She tried to think of some suitable way to change the subject, when her eye caught sight of the dubitiful Fitzie Three plodding on ahead. Isn't he a perfect dear of a dog? I am just crazy about bulldogs."

"Oh, are you?" exclaimed Fitzie One, whose enthusiasm at this point was mounting to alarming heights. "You can have him if you like."

"Oh, Mr. Fitzgerald," she exclaimed in a way that made Fitzie One feel a thrill of age and manliness. And then she continued: "I don't believe father would let me keep a dog, but perhaps I could borrow him sometimes."

The idea met with Fitzie One's entire approval.

"Oh, I'm so glad to have him now," she went on. "He'll make such a nice mascot for our Browning society." Then as Fitzie One looked interested, she explained:

"It's a club that some of us girls have just made up. We suggested all sorts of things—cards and embroidery and things like that—and finally we agreed on Browning. We read together once a week, and as the meetings are to be held at my house they said I could decide about the mascot. If you don't mind, I'll make it your dog."

"Your dog," Fitzie One generously corrected.

"Yes, my dog," said Georgie, "and of course, I won't tell anyone where I got him. Oh, it will be perfectly lovely," she cried, as she knelt before her newly acquired pet and looked into is trusting dog eyes.

So it was that the Browning society acquired for its official mascot George Marston's new dog.

But as the winter came on and the excitement of college festivities detracted from the milder amusement of reading poetry Fitzie Three's visits became less frequent. Finally the forgotten mascot, who shared his master's fondness for girls, quite gave up hope of ever being stroked by a fairer hand or coaxed and teased by a gentler voice than his master's.

In this state of resignation he found himself one late winter afternoon walking on the frozen country road with his master and someone with a gentler voice.

Fascinating dog of yours, he heard, and then as his master and the girl who had spoken—a girl with a rippling laugh and not at all like anyone he had ever heard of before—got down before him, he heard his master say:

"If you really think so, Cynthia, you can have him. Cynthia, dear, I would do anything in the world for you."

And then Fitzie Three, who was carried away at the idea of being admired, jumped up and gave his new mistress a dog kiss on the end of her nose.

That was how Fitzie Three happened once more to be in the possession of a girl. Only this time he never went to the dormitory at all, but had to stay at Cynthia's all the time, and, excepting when his former master came to see her, he was forced to stay in the kennels with several other dogs. On the whole Fitzie Three would have much preferred being back in the dormitory.

In the meantime, with the coming of early spring, college festivities abated and the members of the Browning class sought to reunite.

"Be sure and have our mascot," said the president of the society to Georgie.

Georgie had told Fitzie Two—for it was Fitzie Two instead of Fitzie One who now walked through the woodland pathway with the bewitching Georgie.

"You've got to get hold of Fitzie Three somehow, because the meeting is to-morrow, and if the girls don't find him, they'll wonder, and, oh, it will be just dreadful."

"But Georgie," Fitzie had explained, "asked Fitzie One about it, and he said he simply couldn't get him. You know he gave the beast to Cynthia Standish, and he's in pigs and needles about asking for him. He's really hit this time and he wouldn't spoil his chances for anything."

"Of course," agreed Georgie, "and I'm not a bit cross, only it puts me in such a fix. Really, I don't see how Fitzie ever had the courage to make advances to Miss Standish. She's so dreadfully rich, and she never mixes with the college crowd at all."

"That's just the trouble. If she was one of you girls she'd understand, but he hates to explain to Cynthia." Fitzie Two sighed from the depths of experience.

"But I know how he feels, Georgie. When a fellow is really, really in love he's on pins and needles about everything. Say, Georgie," he added, suddenly bringing up the subject which only the day before he had promised to drop forever. "I was thinking last night that if you'd promise to hold off and not marry any one for one, two or three years and give me a chance to do something worth while, you might feel different then. You said you weren't sure I loved you enough. But if I should do something great to prove it, something that no one has ever done before, and you knew I did it just for you, wouldn't that convince you?"

"If you get Fitzie Three I'll say yes, now," Georgie said gravely.

Fitzie Two's vision of glorious worldly accomplishment faded into the humble dickering over a dog.

"It's a go, Georgie. I'll manage it somehow," he said, and then he hurried the girl back to the vicarage, and with a friendly "See you later, Georgie," he went out upon his knightly errand.

It was unnecessary putting him to the test, for in spite of her professed doubts Georgie was sure in her heart of the depth and single-mindedness of Fitzie Two's devotion; and as the afternoon passed she began to doubt her own wisdom in forcing him to undertake such a task.

Her misgivings were for the moment put aside, however, when at 8 o'clock Mr. Fitzgerald and Miss Standish were announced by the vicarage housemaid. Georgie hurried into the little drawing room and beheld not only Fitzie One and the dazzling Cynthia, but the much coveted mascot of the Browning society.

Fitzie One had brought Miss Standish—they were engaged, but only secretly, and Georgie promised not to tell—because Miss Standish wanted to apologise for keeping the dog. "I have so many at home," she explained, "that really I shan't miss this one at all. And Davis was so foolish not to tell me sooner."

"And then you told Miss Standish because Fitzie Two asked you?" queried Georgie.

"Oh, yes, to be sure," said Fitzie One. "He's been after me for two days about it. He's downright foolish."

Georgie smiled, blushed and embraced the bewildered dog. "Oh, I know he would," she cried.

A heavy step on the vicarage verandah and a plaintive howl made Fitzie Three look up with sudden expectation. Then the front door swung open and Fitzie Two was seen in the hall.

"Helo, Georgie," he called, "I've got the beast. Hauled him in on a rope. He's on the porch."

Georgie, without excusing herself, rushed out of the drawing room.

"I had to steal him from the kennel after dark," Fitzie Two went on. "And honestly, I don't know what the Standishes have done to him. You wouldn't know him for the same animal. I tied him to a rope and he's been yelping all the way in."

"Oh, my poor, dear Buster," cried Miss Standish, who had overheard. "He's stolen Buster by mistake."

The explanation was brief and hilarious, and after enthusiastic pledges of friendship on the part of the two girls, Fitzie One and Cynthia and the abused Buster started for home.

Then when the little vicarage door was closed, Fitzie Two and Fitzie Three were happy, for Georgie Marston gave her heart to one and a lump of sugar to the other.

WOULD PASS BILL FIRST.

Redmond Opposes Compromise Until the Last Minute.

LONDON, May. 7. — John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, is understood to have opposed any negotiations for a compromise on the question of Home Rule for Ireland until the bill reaches the House of Lords. He had a long conference yesterday with Premier Asquith on the question of a settlement, and as a result of his opposition to negotiations the Government agreed to hasten the final stages of the bill in the House of Commons, which will be completed the week after next.

The Irish Home Rule bill will thus become law as it stands under the operation of the Parliament Act, and should any compromises on the question of Ulster be arranged afterward as a result of negotiations between the leaders an amending bill incorporating them will be passed immediately.

DUKE AT SARNIA.

His Royal Highness Formally Inaugurates Imperial City.

SARNIA, May 8. — The Duke of Connaught spent a busy afternoon here yesterday, standing sponsor for the town on the occasion of its formal inauguration as "The Imperial City"; visiting the collegiate institute, where 3,000 children waving flags greeted the royal party; the General Hospital where tea was served by the nurses, and various other points of interest. Big crowds lined the route of procession. The Indian bands and other societies turned out in force. The Walpole Indians marched along the street in full war dress and feather, while the Scots' pipers, the cadets and the band of the 27th Regiment also took part.

At 6.30 the party returned to the station, where good-byes were said, and where Mayor J. B. Dagan presented His Royal Highness with two beautiful pictures, one of the duke, and the other of the duchess.

The Governor-General and Princess Patricia waved farewell to the crowd on the platform as the special train steamed out of the station.

Crowds at Strathroy.

STRATHROY, May 8.—His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and party arrived here at 8 o'clock last night and made a stay of about 50 minutes. Neither the duke nor the princess alighted from the train, but as it pulled out eastward they both came out upon the platform of the observation car and waved to the cheering crowds who had come in from all parts of the district to greet them.

WOMEN CLOSED BARS.

Over One Thousand Saloons Shut Their Doors In Illinois.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Following the thirty days of grace which the laws of Illinois allow the saloons which were voted out largely by women at the recent local option elections, approximately 1,100 saloons in all parts of the state—in cities as large as Decatur, and in hamlets whose only industries are the liquor house and a blacksmith shop — closed their doors at midnight.

In all, more than 200 cities and villages are made saloonless, and more than twenty counties already partly "dry" become totally so, crowding the liquor forces back into the larger cities.

No disorders were reported yesterday from the cities whose saloons closed last night, and there was far less excitement than on election day a month ago. In the larger towns, such as Decatur, several hundred men are made idle, a hundred business buildings are closed, and numerous industries accessory to the liquor business are dealt an indirect blow.

Machinists Seek Increase.

OTTAWA, May 8.—The machinists of the Ottawa Car Co. here have asked for a board of conciliation to pass on their wage dispute. The men ask 33 cents per hour. They are now receiving about 27 cents, there being no fixed rate.

RUN-DOWN FOR YEARS

Strength Restored by Vinol.

Strength and even life itself depends upon nourishment and proper assimilation of food, and unless digestion is good the whole body suffers.

Mrs. C. W. Busby of Moundsville, W. Va., says: "For years I was in a weakened, run-down condition, and I could not find anything that would help me. Vinol was recommended and I tried it. Before I finished the first bottle I was better. I continued its use and am as well as ever. I have gotten several neighbours to take Vinol with the same result."

We know the great power of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, in building up all weakened, run-down persons, and for chronic coughs, cold and pulmonary trouble, and that is why we guarantee to return your money if it does not help you. GIVES NAME OF WRITER.

Federal Civil Servant Penned Attack on Nova Scotia Legislature.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 8.—The man who wrote the letter attacking the Nova Scotia Legislature, which was printed in The Evening Mail on April 16 was stated under oath yesterday to be J. McL. Fraser, an employe of the Marine and Fisheries Department. This fact was brought out at yesterday afternoon's session of the investigating committee, despite the fact that the telegraph message containing this name was so mutilated that it was necessary for George Laidlaw, manager of the Western Union Co., to testify to his recollection of the name contained in the message.

Say Cost Is Too Great.

LONDON, Ont., May 8.—Representatives of the municipalities through which radial railways have been planned, from St. Thomas to Aylmer and Union to Sparta, have approached the London and Lake Erie Transportation Co. to take a vote to have the company make the extensions. The statement is made that when the municipalities discovered the cost of the proposed Hydro-radial they were of the opinion that it would be too great, and as a result the vote on the proposal to guarantee the bonds of the traction line extension will be taken within a short time.

TWO CITIES VISITED.

Chatham and St. Thomas Give Duke Enthusiastic Welcome.

CHATHAM, May 7.—The Duke of Connaught, Princess Patricia and party visited Chatham yesterday morning, arriving at ten and departing at twelve o'clock. Mayor McCorvie and a large reception committee met the party at the train and escorted them to the Tecumseh Park, where addresses were presented.

The royal party was then taken to the various educational institutions of the city, and the duke declared a half-holiday for the pupils.

Laid Corner-Stone.

ST. THOMAS, May 7.—The royal visitors arrived here at three p.m., and were met by a guard of honor from the 25th Regiment and a detachment of city police. The line of route was gay with flags and bunting. The chief function of the visit was the laying of the corner-stone of the new Y. M. C. A. building by the duke. This was followed by a brief ride about the principal streets.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, May 7.—Well-grounded notions that the government crop report might turn out more bearish than had recently been looked for hindered today any decided advance in wheat. The Washington figures, however, indicating a harvest of 57,000,000 bushels more than trade estimates, came too late to have a direct effect on the market. A few minutes beforehand, prices had climbed away off to a like furnace compared with last night. Corn showed a net decline of ⅛c to ¼c. oats were ⅛c down to ⅛c up, and provisions at 5c to 10c less.

Why Your Stomach Hurts

SOME COMMON-SENSE ADVICE

BY A DOCTOR

Pain in the stomach, variously called indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, heartburn, stomach-ache, etc., is usually attributed to some unnatural, abnormal or diseased condition of the stomach itself. Nothing, however, could be farther from the truth. Nineteen times out of twenty the stomach is absolutely healthy and normal, the pain and discomfort being entirely due to the acidity and fermentation of food which irritates and distends the stomach, although if this condition is allowed to run on, in time the constant irritation of the acid is likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce ulcers and sometimes cancer of the stomach. Medicine is useless in such a case. The acid and fermenting food must be removed by a stomach pump or an emetic, or you must neutralise the acid and stop the fermentation by taking a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little water; this latter is far the simpler and the safer method. Bisurated magnesia almost immediately neutralises the dangerous acid and by correcting the food contents enables even a tired, weak stomach to digest almost any food without difficulty. Physicians advise that bisurated magnesia should be kept in every home and a little taken after every meal whenever the slightest tendency to food fermentation is shown.

PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO

TRIAL OF BOY SLAYER OPENS

HERKIMER, N.Y., May 6. — Jean Gianini, the French-Irish lad, a few months past 16 years old, confessed murderer of his former school teacher, Miss Lida Lou Beecher, aged 23, at Poland March 27 last, was placed on trial in Supreme Court here to-day for his life. Justice Irving R. Devendort is presiding.

Gianini was brought into court at 10 o'clock and after the usual preliminaries the task of securing a jury was undertaken. Nearly every resident of Herkimer County has read of the case in the newspapers, not a few have formed opinions, and inasmuch as there are always men who shrink from the responsibility imposed upon a "murder" case, the securing of the jurors probably will take some little time.

District Attorney Farrell will be assisted in prosecuting Gianini by Attorney Charles G. Thomas, one of the lawyers who defended Chester Gillette, convicted in Herkimer County a few years ago of the murder of Grace Brown and subsequently electrocuted. Farrell will insist that nothing less than the death penalty be visited on Gianini and will swear several noted alienists to prove the boy is mentally responsible.

On the other hand, the prisoner's attorney, led by John F. McIntyre and David C. Hirsch of New York, argue that the lad is inherently insane and point to the fact that a sister of the boy was feeble-minded and that his mother died mentally unbalanced as indicating that Gianini is not responsible for the crime which he has confessed.

The murder of Miss Beecher was one of the most coldblooded homicides in the history of Herkimer County. The victim, a teacher in the Poland High School, was beloved by every one in the village and when her body, the skull crushed in and 14 stab wounds in the back and chest, was found in a swamp on the outskirts of Poland on the morning of March 28, the villagers could not conceive who in the community desired the death of the girl. The suspicion turned to Gianini, whom Miss Beecher formerly taught, but who had been expelled from school because of truancy and committed to an institution in Utica.

Gianini, is was discovered, was seen walking away from the Poland postoffice on the night of the murder in the company of Miss Beecher. He was apprehended at Newport, half a dozen miles away, three hours after the girl's body was found and two hours after his arrest made admissions that branded him as the slayer. Then the entire story came out under questioning by District Attorney Farrell. Gianini, it developed, on the plea that he desired Miss Beecher to intercede with his father to have him reinstated in the Poland school, lured her toward his home, and when she attempted to retrace her steps rained blow after blow on her head with a heavy wrench, and as she lay prostrate in the roadway stabbed her again and again with a dirk.

Dragging her body into a nearby swamp he went home, replacing the knife in the kitchen pantry and next morning before dawn hiding the wrench in a nearby stable. The prosecution will claim that Gianini's prime motive was criminal assault, but that he had prepared to kill Miss Beecher to hide his crime and will produce witnesses to prove that he plotted the deed at least one week before its commission.

MONTREAL, May 7. — Mayor Mederic Martin, who has delegated to himself supreme powers as employer of city help, introduced his policy of Montreal-for-the-Montrealer for the first time Tuesday. He personally selected the men to go on the fire and police forces, and insisted that no appointment should go to men who could not speak both French and English, and who were not Montrealers. He also refused to consider any applications from single men until married men had been dealt with, and made every successful candidate swear that he had not offered money for his position.

TRURO, N.S., May 7. — What appears to have been an attempt to wreck the Ocean Limited train from Montreal for Halifax was made at Bible Hill, about one mile west of Truro, Tuesday night. The Limited was about forty minutes late, and was speeding about a fifty mile an hour clip when the driver saw a sleeper lying crossways on the track. The train was stopped, but not until the sleeper was struck and shoved ahead of the engine for about one hundred feet.

TIRED-OUT KIDNEYS

Kidney troubles are so frightfully common because the kidneys are so easily upset by overwork or excesses of eating and drinking. Cure is effected not by whipping them on to renewed effort, but by awakening the action of liver and bowels by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. This rests the kidneys and makes them well. Backache and urinary disorders then disappear.

Significance Of Maple Syrup Bill

Which Has Just Been Passed by the Dominion Government—An Interesting Story of the Struggle to Secure Pure Syrup

COMMON CONCERN

A new law has been placed upon the statute books of Canada making it an offence to use the word maple in connection with sugar and syrup unless the article is absolutely genuine maple syrup or maple sugar.

In this there is a point that should claim the interest of every householder, and there is also the interesting fact that this bill brings victory to certain manufacturers who have spent a great deal of time and money in the fight for real maple products.

Primarily the bill is designed to save the maple syrup industry to protect it against adulterants which threatened the value of the Canadian maple as a commercial source.

In the past, manufacturers of maple compounds, extracts and similar lines had the privilege of using the word "maple" on their labels. They were shrewd enough to print this word in large letters while "extract" or "compound" were in small type. The result was that a purchasers who did not not understand the situation would upon seeing a display of these products focus his attention on the word "maple," and the "extract" or "compound" would be passed by because of the smaller letters.

The Genuine Article.

When a display of pure maple syrup was made, the difference in the labels was not sufficiently pronounced to impress upon the purchaser the fact that the word "pure" appeared in distinction from the omission of the word on the other bottles. The casual observer saw only "maple." The manufacturer of the real article sold pure maple syrup at its full value and naturally the price was higher than that of compounds. Had every purchaser been fully cognisant of the real characteristics of the two samples, in other words if the purchasing public had been informed upon this point the manufacturer of the genuine article might have been able to hold his ground. But the depreciation of his business brought home to him the source of the trouble and it has been a long fight to secure the necessary protective legislation.

How It Worked.

These references do not touch local conditions, but pertain generally to instances reported from other parts of the Dominion. One manufacturer in Montreal discovered that retailers, dishonest they were, actually offered a compound as genuine maple syrup. A greater margin of profit urged them to do so, and they took advantage of the ignorance of consumers, and of the too prevalent casual attention to things bought by the average citizen. One manufacturer of genuine maple syrup went to the extremity of having his agents test reports of this nature and found they were correct. His travellers also stated that retailers would not stock his goods. And the only reason was that his product was real maple syrup and incidentally its price was higher than the adulterated stuff.

Compound Bad a Sale.

One of the main obstacles to this manufacturer was the possibility of making a compound that had a decided maple flavour, and to this was added the ignorance of the vast majority of consumers as to the difference in taste. The compound makers claimed that they had an established industry that the public purchased their product thereby demonstrating that it satisfied them. They also claimed that many consumers could not acord the real article, and there the adulterated goods with the maple flavour had a legitimate place on a grocer's shelves.

The Word Maple Valuable.

The fact remained, however, that these men were getting their business by the use of the word maple on their cans and bottles. It has been stated that some manufacturers of bogus goods did not use anything maple in their product but the word; that they used glucose, a corn product, thinned to the proper consistency, and that the maple flavour was prepared in a laboratory. Other manufacturers admittedly adulterated their goods which were actually compounds and extracts.

Unfair Competition.

As a result the manufacturer of the genuine syrup secured his goods from maple woods and was beaten in the market, for the most part by labels. His label did not tell enough in the one direction, the others were silent in a different respect. The fault really lay with the consumer who was either careless or indifferent as to the goods he purchased.

Professional Maple Woods.

If an article bearing the word maple on its label and prepared practically in a laboratory could be sold as maple syrup, the industry of putting pure

SPRING LAMB 50c A POUND

Price is so Prohibitive That Local Butchers do Not Sell That Variety of Meat

THE WHOLESALE PRICE

To stock a larder with spring lamb just now would be no solution to the high cost of living. In fact, local citizens would have some difficulty in doing so as the retail price of the delicacy is so prohibitive that the foremost of the local meat merchants do not sell spring lamb at all. The lambs would be purchased from the raisers of stock at from $7 to $7.50 a head, each animal weighing about 25 lbs. To sell that variety of meat at all the retail price would be in the neighbourhood of 50c a lb. At the present price there is no demand for spring lamb, which as far as the regular table viand and the local meat dealers are concerned, must be considered a meat of the past. For the price mentioned above there is plenty of spring lamb to be secured in the neighbouring country, and from dealers of this vicinity.

Denies Story That Mexican Affairs Are In Critical State

Examiner Special:

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 8. — Following the conference with President Wilson, Secretary Tumultu today emphatically denied that General Funston had reported that a critical state of affairs existed in Mexico. He said that General Funston's messages were merely extended reports of conditions already known to exist. There is positively no reason for or intention on the part of the Government to send additional troops to Mexico or to the Mexican border.

PETERBOROUGH LADIES AT I. O. D. E. CONVENTION

The Daughters of the Empire had a great responsibility to do their part in keeping Canada from becoming a nation of "cheap minds." This was the outstanding message of the address of the president, Mrs. Albert E. Gooderham, delivered yesterday to the fourteenth annual meeting of the order in Toronto. She pointed out that Canada must not always be counted great simply on account of the great natural resources to be found in all the provinces. The time had come for the country to take a part in the intellectual and emotional part of life. Mrs. Gooderham referred to the many branches of artistic effort, music, painting, poetry and the drama, all of which should be carefully cultivated in every nation that wished to do anything really worth while for mankind. This was an educational work that would prove Imperial in the highest sense of the word, making Canada one of the golden spots on the map of the Empire. A discriminating public had to be prepared to help along the cause of music. The theatre should be studied so that Canadians might in time have their own drama, and efforts ought to be put forward to foster interest in art, thus making it necessary to have an adequate national gallery. Mrs. Gooderham also pleaded with the members to become better acquainted with the music, the art and the literature of Canada. In her opinion there could be no better Imperial movement than that which made life better in any part of the Empire, opening the door of education to the ignorant, providing culture for those whose circumstances were not fortunate, tending the sick, helping the lonely, and making life in every community better worth living.

The Peterborough ladies present were Mrs. E. B. Clegg, Mrs. Jos. Mills, Miss Poole, Mrs. W. Sharpe (Mrs. (Dr.) Cameron.

SPANISH PRISONER LETTER RECEIVED

By a George Street Merchant—The Letter is Filled With Clipping Alleged to be From London Paper

STILL AT OLD GAME

A George Street merchant has received a "Spanish Prisoner" letter, which, as a gold-brick game, is mossy with age. The letter is as follows:

Madrid, 24—4—14.

Dear Sir,—Although I know you only from good references of your honesty my sad situation compells me to reveal to you an important affair, in which you can procure a modest fortune, saving at the same time that of my darling daughter.

Before being imprisoned here I was established as a banker in Russia, as you will see by the enclosed article about me of many English papers, which have published my arrest in London.

I beseech you to help me to obtain a sum of $48,000 I have in America and to come here to raise the seizure of my baggage, paying to the Registrar of the Court the expenses of my trial and recover my portmanteau containing a secret pocket where I have hidden the document indispensabe to recovering the said sum. As a reward I will give you the third part, viz., $16,000.

I cannot receive your answer in the prison, but you must send a cable gram to a person of my confidence who will deliver it to me. Awaiting your cable to instruct you in all my secrets I am, sir,

Yours truly,
Solovieff.

First of all answer by cable, not by letter, as follows:

Soma—Genera Alvaro Castro, 5 Aienda derecha,
Madrid (Spain)

Perfect Walters.

Clipping enclosed.

With the letter is enclosed a newspaper clipping telling of the arrest of Serge Solovieff, in London, by a Spanish Inspector and two Scotland Yard men. Russian police had searched for him a long time, but Solovieff had moved to Spain, where he was hiding, living with a woman and his daughter.

A few days before arriving in London he had quarreled with another Russian, who was mortally wounded by a revolver shot during the scuffle. In Spain, he was known as Manasseima, but upon arrest he was recognised as Solovieff, who had stolen five million roubles. He is a native of St. Petersburg, with an only daughter whom he left in Spain on escaping from that country. No money was found in his portmanteaux and the Russian Ambassador declares the prisoner should have several million roubles somewhere. In the meantime he has been sent to Spain for trial on the charge of manslaughter, etc.

The Spanish prisoner is a fine old game—so old that it is a joke.

Raking Conditions Fore and Aft at Their Convention — Slaughter Houses Bad — Teach Children Clean Habits

A FEW OTHER ITEMS

Examiner Special:

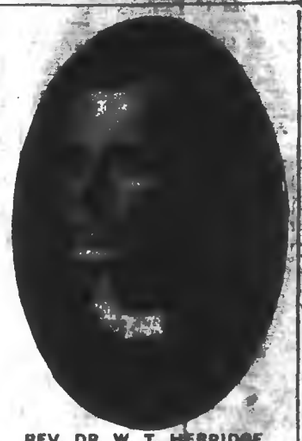
TORONTO, Ont., May 8. — False knowledge and ignorance were said to be the greatest factors in the hindering of a child's health, as set forth by Dr. W. E. Struthers, Chief Medical Inspector of Schools in his paper which he read at this afternoon's session of the third annual conference of the Ontario Health Officers' Association in Convocation Hall to-day. Continuing on to detail matter of health in connection with the school he said: "Personal and general hygiene should have a far more prominent place on the school curriculum. Clean and bright life habits will mean more for a child in life than a smattering of art and music. There should be more intimate relations between the parents, the school teacher, school nurse, the school dentist and school physician in the social life of the community, as well as more active co-operation in school work."

Slaughter Houses.

Discussing the duties of the Medical Officer of Health in Ontario, Dr. McCullough said that official should satisfy himself of the sanitary conditions of the slaughter house in his municipality. The reports of the District officers of Health," he said, "indicate that the conditions of slaughter-houses all over the Province are nothing short of scandalous. These premises are often filthy, and conditions are such that, if generally known, would quickly make us all vegetarians."

People Not Serious.

Dr. T .W. Vardon, M.O.H., Galt, referred to the difficulty of inducing people to take seriously matters pertaining to their own health, and legislation to this end, especially when any monetary outlay was necessitated. He had found that one of the main difficulties was in persuading house-owners to make connections with sewers where houses were built before sewers were installed. Where there was no garbage collection, it was also a very difficult matter to induce every house holder to keep his premises in a sanitary condition. He strongly advised the installation of a garbage collecting system in every community, even in small villages.



REV. DR. W. T. HERRIDGE, Prominent Ottawa Clergyman, Who Will Preach the Anniversary Services at St. Paul's Church on Sunday.

ANNIVERSARY ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Rev. W. T. Herridge, B.D., of Ottawa, Will Preach at Both Services

WELL KNOWN CLERGYMEN

The Rev. W. T. Herridge, D.D., of Ottawa, who is to preach the anniversary services of St. Paul's Church next Sabbath is perhaps the most outstanding pulpit orator in the Presbyterian Church in Canada. He has recently conducted a mission in the City of Vancouver and the resolution which was passed by the Session of St. Andrew's Church, gives, in brief form, some idea of his pulpit power. The resolution reads:

"The congregation of St. Andrew's Church desires to place on record its appreciation of the service rendered to the cause of Christ in this City during the mission conducted here by the Rev. W. T. Herridge, D.D., of Ottawa. The intellectual strength of his discourses, their manifest literary distinction, the fervour of their delivery, and the moral and spiritual power behind them, have given an uplift to the whole congregation. The large numbers who have attended the services from all parts of the city and from all classes indicate the wide range of Dr. Herridge's influence, and show the great part his work will have in building up the spiritual life of our members and of all who have been privileged to hear him. To not a few among us his messages have brought a clarified vision, a wider outlook, and a new consecration. The congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Vancouver, hereby expresses its profound gratitude to Dr. Herridge for the unique service he has rendered us, and desires also to express their deep appreciation to the congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Ottawa, for lending their distinguished minister to us for this period."

McAdoo and Bride Have Disappeared

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 8. — There is still great speculation as to the whereabouts of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and his bride Miss Eleanor Wilson, who got away after the wedding ceremony yesterday and have not been heard of since. Officially it is stated that they will return in two weeks, and Mrs. McAdoo will assume the station as second lady in the cabinet.

NEW STORY WILL BEGIN TO-MORROW

Don't forget to read the opening instalment of The Examiner's New Serial Story, "The Terms of Surrender," which begins to-morrow. Louis Tracey is the author of this fascinating romance, and it will be read with eager interest. "The Terms of Surrender" is one of the best serial stories The Examiner has published.

FORCED SALE OF NEW FURNITURE

The public are reminded of the forced sale of new furniture now going on at the store of Mr. R. Begley, Water Street. Mr. Begley is compelled to vacate the premises as the landlord wants possession for himself. On account of the difficulty of getting another store, Mr. Begley has no alternative but to clear out his entire stock at any price, as rapidly as possible, in order to give up possession. The furniture is all from one of the best factories in Canada, and is up-to-date and attractively made. Mr. Begley says that price won't stand in the way of a quick sale. See advt. in another column.

Peterboro Fans Were Entertained Royally

Owner George O'Neill of the Erie Club Looked After the Party in Princely Fashion Yesterday

A DELIGHTFUL BANQUET

The contingent of Peterborough fans whichinvaded Erie yesterday to see the Blountmen trim the Yankees, returned from across the line on the noon C.P.R. train, tickled over the win, highly satisfied with the Peterborough team and delighted with the trip and the hospitality shown them at Erie. The trip was a most enjoyable success. Everything that would facilitate the comfort of the party was carried out by Mr. Jas. Skinner, local C. P. R. agent, who accompanied the invaders and looked after their interests in a manner that was thoroughly appreciated. The party left here at 4.30 on Wednesday afternoon, arriving at Erie at 1.30 Thursday morning.

Mr. Geo. O'Neill of London, the owner of the Erie Club, took hold of the party early Thursday and for the balance of their stay they were in the hands of the prince of entertainers. In the morning Mr .O'Neill took them on a motor trip around the city. Automobiles were placed at their disposal in the afternoon and the host of the day had provided box seats in the grand stand for the game. To cap the climax, Mr. O'Neill entertained the visitors in the evening to an elaborate and most enjoyable banquet in the Lawrence Hotel, the palatial new million dollar hostelry. Speeches were made by the visitors, appreciative of Mr. O'Neill's generous hospitality, and Mr. W. McIlroy sang several solos that were much appreciated.

The Peterborough crowd cannot say too much about the way they were entertained.

RELICS FOR THE MUSEUM

Many Interesting Canadian Relics Have Been Added to Recently

MR. T. A. S. HAY'S EFFORTS

The museum at the Public Library has been enriched by a number of Indian relics which were discovered in a gravel pit on the banks of the Otonabee River, in the northern part of the County. They comprise Indian skulls, thigh bones, etc., and a tooth which is reputed to be thousands of years od, and is yet in a good state of preservation. One relic of more than ordinary interest is a skull, into which has been driven a tomahawk, part of which is still imbedded in the skull. There is no doubt that the local museum is getting one of the best showings in the Province, owing to the indefatigable efforts of the curator, Mr. T. A. S. Hay. Since the opening, in 1912, there have been thousands of visitors from the United States, England and other countries, who have inspected the relics, and all have given their unqualified praise.

DISINTEGRATING ELEMENTS IN THE WHITNEY CABINET

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, May 6.—(Extract from an editorial in the Toronto World, (Conservative)—"Some observers perceive at least three parties contending for future power in the present cabinet. Two of them may be irreconciable. To what extent the breaches may be healed, if there be any, or the headquarters' staff consolidated, if it be inclined towards disintegration, no one can quite say. The new element in the party, is the spoils element, and when this element becomes predominent, the symptoms become acute enough for the simplest to discern. Sir James Whitney never permitted that element to have any influence to speak of. This was an easy matter while there was no competition for leadership. As soon as the big office becomes a possible prize, the usual course is a general opening up of negotiations all round for the lesser prizes, a barter and sale condition which is creditable to nobody. Only the presence of a strong man with a strong policy and a strong following can furnish a remedy. Whether in the event of the retirement of Sir James the Ontario Conservatives can produce such a leader is a matter of speculation.

"It is to be regretted that for purely local and private reasons the Conservative party has been gradually jockeyed into a position which the Opposition has tried hard for years to bring about. The non-partizan character of the Government's most successful policy has been its very strongest asset. For the sake of a local quarrel, however, the reactionary elements in the party have unwittingly done what the Opposition failed to do, and brought about a situation of which the logical outcome is a submergence of the whole non-partian attitude of the government towards its leading activity.

A strong leadership may still avert the danger, but it is impossible to ignore it."

AD CLUB LUNCH TO-NIGHT AT 6.30

To-night, at 6.30, at Coleman's, the Peterborough Ad. Club will hold a luncheon, after which those present will be addressed by Mr J. C. Kirkwood of Toronto and London, Eng. on the subject of "Business Saesmanship".

Mr. Kirkwood brings to his theme a ripe experience. For several years he was a retailer in a Western Ontario town. For the last thirteen years he has been an advertising man, identified chiefly with newspapers, both as a writer and in an advisory capacity—in Canada, the United States and England.

Salesmanship on its theoretical and practical sides has always been a subject of supreme interest with Mr. Kirkwood. He calls it "The greatest game in the world, the most alluring, the most profitable and the hardest." His address to-night will be brightened by references to actual successful selling experiences, and should prove both stimulating and entertaining. The business men of Peterborough are invited to attend.

WOODSTOCK GREETED DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WOODSTOCK, May 8. — Twenty thousand citizens of the City of Woodstock and County of Oxford gave the Duke of Connaught and party a royal reception here to-day. This afternoon he goes to Stratford.

FINED THIRTY DOLLARS AND COSTS OF COURT

Otonabee Man Had to Pay $40.84 for Supplying Liquor to a Minor

THREE OFFENCES

Quite an important sitting of the Magistrate's court was held here on Thursday last, with Mr. J. L. Squire, J.P., presiding. Three cases for alleged violation of the Liquor License Act were on the docket. License Inspector Elias Williams of Havelock, was the plaintiff in each case, Two of the informations were laid against Chas. Fitzgerald, of Otonabee, namely, for supplying liquor to a minor, and for being drunk in a local option municipality. The third charge preferred was against John Faux, of Otonabee, for being intoxicated in a local option municipality. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defendants in each case.

It appears from the evidance adduced that a number of young men from the district near Indian River went to Peterborough on the above mentioned date and brought liquor back with them. They congregated in an outbuilding adjoining the store of W. H. Kidd at Indian River. A bottle of liquor, of which Fitzgerald is said to be the owner, was handed around amongst the party, which included a minor, one Harvey Borland, eighteen years of age, who partook of the liquor.

His Worship on Monday gave out a conviction of $30.00 fine and costs of $10.84.

The further hearing of the other charges against Fitzgerald and Faux, for being intoxicated in a local option municipality will take place next week.—Norwood Register.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1914

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade next Tuesday evening will be one of interest. One of the chief items in the programme will be an address by Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., on recent provincial legislation affecting Peterobrough. An address of this kind should be profitable. The title of a bill gives little clue to its meaning and imoprt, and even a careful reading often loses a laymen in a mase of legal jargon. Mr. Peck has had a hand at making the laws to be explained by him, and much of the interest and value of his address will lie in the success he achieves in translating statutory language into plain English that the average hearer can grasp. It is hoped there will be a large attendance of members, and the general public might, with advantage, as far as practicable, be included.

THE ELECTIONS.

General elections are necessary evils, and other people, besides the politicians, resent the interference with business they create. We have been hearing of late that the Ontario Government are to bring on the elections at once, but the latest indications are that they will be postponed till the autumn. Therefore the farmers' hay harvest will not be interfered with, but if September is selected the fall fairs will suffer. Sir James Whitney has so far recovered as to be able to attend cabinet meetings, and it is understood that he has passed the veto upon an early summer election campaign. He evidently wishes the memory of the mess the members of the Government have made of the past session to fade a little before an appeal to the people is made. Even with the gerrymander to help and anoverwhelming present majority, even a bold leader like Sir James hesitates in the challenge to public opinion.

CAN'T SWALLOW IT.

The Borden government's relations to the proposed financial blood letting in connection with the Canadian Northern's modest request for 45 millions is antagonising even some of their strongest supporters. Mr. R. B. Bennett, M.P., of Calgary, is not in accord with the government's policy, and cancelled an engagement to speak to the Conservative Association of Ward Four, Toronto, on this ground. A man that likes to talk so much as Mr. Bennet and talks so easily, must feel pretty strongly when he declines the pleasure. He told the Ward Four Conservatives that he was not in accord with the government in their C. N.R. policy and couldn't speak for them. This seems to be the wrong way to do right. If Mr. Bennet thinks a big grant to the C.N.R. is wrong, he should take every opportunity to influence those who could influence the government in changing its mind. If the Lynch-Staunton Gutelis commission claimed that it was wrong for the Laurier government to spend 40 millions to make the people's railway the best in the world, Mr. Bennet may be right in objecting to throwing 45 millions into the maw of the C. N. R., a privately owned railway that has engulfed so many millions of the people's money and still demands more. If a staunch supporter of the government denounces the new give-away proposal of 45 millions large, what will the verdict of the average elector be?

SENATOR FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Is Peterborough to have, as she should have, a representative in the Senate? It doesn't seem that our claims are recognised, or even urged as should be done. Vacancy after vacancy occurs in Ontario and Peterborough is passed by. The death of Senator Ross, Senator Cox and Senator Gibson makes three Ontario vacancies in the Senate. The west is clamouring for the honour of filling the vacancies. The member for Loudon, Major Beatty, is spoken of as one new senator, and Alex. McLaren, ex-M.P., Perth, the "cheese king," is another. Sir James Whitney is slated for a senatorship after the general elections. There is no objection to the personnel of this trio, but there is objection to Peterborough being sidetracked. We might well have one out of the three. We are not included even in the running. Politically, Peterborough, sad to say, has by fidelity of political support, earned a senatorship, and its civic, commercial and industrial importance justifies a demand for senate representation. Peterborough has never had the honour of providing a senator; it is time our claims were acknowledged, and the present time, with three Ontario senate vacancies, presents a good opportunity to do Peterborough justice in regard to representation in the senate. From a party point of view, the local Conservative party should be active and make hay while the sun shines. There will have to be a general election before long and there is a great probability that after that a Conservative government won't "have the say" in nominating senators.

TO ABOLISH TIPPING.

The Senate is described as a moribind body, but there is one point of sensitiveness that is unimpaired—the pocket. A seantor has introduced a bill, which will likely pass and be accepted by the House of Commons, to provide for the abolition of the practice of tipping in hotels, restaurants, railway cars, etc. Hotel men say that if such a law is passed there will have to be a nincrease of rates. This is an admission that waiters and other employes of hotel and similar places are employed on the mendicant principle and have to depend for living wage upon charity. Even if rates are raised, the guest or patron will know what he will have to pay and employees will have a fixed income. But it will be difficult to enforce a law against tipping. If a traveller or guest wants special service and attention, he will find a way to evade the law. Laws are easy to make and hard to enforce. The attempt to make people virtuous by process of law, is almost certain to be a failure more or less. The best reform begins with the individaul. The tipping practice is so universal, strikes its roots so deeply and in so many places, that it will be as difficult to get rid of as "quack" grass is a kitchen garden. But let the anti-tipping law pass, it will be only another law to be broken, it will create a new crime, and like thousands of other laws will be forgotten. The city of ePterborough has between 2,000 and 3,000 by-laws on its statute books. The police are supposed to enforce these by-laws and yet they do not know of even the existence of a hundredth part of the by-laws they are responsible for enforcing. The more laws we have the more will be broken. We have been legislating against strong drink for centuries and we still have the evil in full bloom. We pay too much attention to repression and too little to real reform, reform of the individual, the education of the will and the implanting of principles of right action.

THE CUT IN HYDRO RATES.

It is likely that the Toronto Hydro Commission and the Mayor and Council of Toronto would want to keep up the light and power rates in this city if a reduction in rates could safely be made?

Mayors and controllers and aldermen are generally supposed to be seekers after popularity. They are often accused of being too greedy for applause, and, as a rule, they like to see a smiling gallery and the hum of approval from next year's voters.

Against Toronto's own judgment as expressed by her Hydro Commission, supported by Council, a reduction in light and power rates has been ordered by the Ontario Commission. A Provincial election is coming, and Hon. Adam Beck has to be humoured in this matter, regardless of consequences to an enterprise in which the city has invested five million dollars. Mr. Beck cannot wait for results. He must open eggs to see if chickens are hatching, so that he can be first to tell the good news to the hen.

Toronto wants just as low rates as she can get, but she wants her municipal power undertaking to be a solvent enterprise.

The Provincial Hydro, driving Toronto against her own judgment to quote lower rates for light and power than she thinks safe, is certainly not an outcome that anybody could have forseen when all the municipalities hitched up together to go into this business. What do the other municipaiities get out of it? If the reduction is forced on Toronto and does not benefit the other municipalities what is it for?

Stupendous Irrigation Plant At Bassano Nearly Completed

EDMONTON, Alta., May 7. — The greatest irrigation plant on this side of the world is nearly completed. Next month water will be flowing from the plant through irrigation ditches watering 3,000,000 acres. The face of the southern half of a whole Canadian province will be changed over barren prairies, where but a few years ago everybody despaired of growing anything, will literally "blossom like the rose."

The project will affect the agricultural markets of Canada and the United States. It will add millions of wealth to Canada, and it will provide rich lands and comfortable homesteads for thousands of immigrants.

The enterprise which has been under way for three years, was practically completed with the finishing of the great dam across the Bow River at Bassano in the Province of Alberta. Only one other similar undertaking in North America approaches it in extent—that is the Roosevelt dam and irrigation project in Arizona. Only one other work of the kind in the world is bigger—that is the great Assouan dam in Lower Egypt.

In the Canadian work 3,000 men have been labouring constantly for three years. A battery of steam shovels, hundreds of concrete machines, 2,000 teams, a corps of engineers and survey men, hundreds of freight cars for supplies and material have been employed. Altogether $17,000,000 has been spent to turn the territory into a rich agricultural district.

The area affected by this distribution of water lies at the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. It stretches practically from the outskirts of Calgary east to the Red Deer River and as far north as Edmonton.

Cutting this immense irrigation "block" nearly in half is the Bow River, a stream 200 yards wide, which rises in the Rockies and flows an icy torrent through Alberta. Near Bassano it bends in a wide sweep like a horseshoe, and here is located the Bassano dam.

The Bassano dam is eighty-three miles east of Calgary, is 7,600 feet long, 350 feet thick at the base, narrowing at the top to forty-five feet. It is built of earth, re-inforced with concrete. Behind the dam are the gates of the main irrigation canal. The whole is a composite structure.

These two canals carry the water 475 miles into the distributing ditches which serve about 2,000 miles. There are on the eastern section thirty sets of these ditches. The larger canals carry water direct from the storage reservoir. This is formed by a second earthen dam, located five miles from the intake and behind the great dam.

This supplementary dam is 1,200 feet long, 35 feet high, and contains 10,000 cubic yards of material. It is built across the valley.

Another notable feature of the work is the Brooks aqueduct, which carries the water across a low depression. It is 10,000 feet in length, and has a capacity of 900 feet of water a second. The drops in the canal are of substantial design, are of concrete and embody features found necessary for their permanency.

THE ORILLIA PACKET ON THE PETERBOROUGH B. OF H.

PRINCE OF WALES IS AN ATHLETE

LONDON, May 1.—"If the Prince of Wales had not been the heir to the throne he might have qualified as one of the finest long-distance runners and 'stayers' in the country," was a remark made a couple of days ago by a fellow undergraduate of the Prince at Oxford. He was discussing the Prince's latest early-morning pastime of practicing polo with his brother, Prince Albert, in Windsor Park, before breakfast.

"At Oxford, the Prince is one of the most energetic men I have ever seen," the undergraduate continued. "He never seems tired. He spends his day in one long round of open air exercise, and his friends—men in the pink of health and condition—are often too exhausted to keep pace with him.

"I remember meeting the Prince one beautiful evening last Autumn, a few miles from Farnborough at the camp of the Oxford University Officers' Training Corps. He was wearing flannels, and smoking cigarettes as if he had been resting all day. In the camp were hundreds of undergraduates with crippled feet and aching limbs.

"'The Prince has just marched 22 miles,' a friend whispered to me. 'He is as fresh as a daisy now and is going out to dinner at Farnborough.'"

The Prince of Wales and Prince Albert had an early morning race on their favorite horses in Windsor Great Park a few days ago, and also practiced polo on the review ground between the Long Walk and Queen Anne's Drive. They were up about 6 o'clock and were in the Royal Mews shortly after 7 o'clock.

In order not to disturb anyone the Princes rode quietly down St. Alban's Street and through Park Street into the Long Walk. Thus they had no need to awaken the lodge keeper at the Sovereigns' entrance. Before the rest of the world was awake they returned to the Castle, after a final gallop, side by side, as hard as their horses would go.

At noon the King went for a drive in Windsor Great Park with the Prince of Wales, Prince Albert and Princess Mary.

The young Princess by the way is for the first time enjoying a suite of rooms of her own in Buckingham Palace. They were prepared under the supervision of the Queen and overlook the superb flower gardens. The Princess was busy during the Easter holidays arranging in them all the interesting knick-knacks and presents which she has acquired since her childhood, special provision being made for the colection of dolls, in which, although 17 years of age, she still takes a keen interest.

Maybe the Gossips Of Havelock Said Nothing About This

One of our citizens received a letter at the Post Office on Tuesday, and after he opened it discovered that it was intended for his wife. The letter which was not signed, but the writer of which is well known to the husband, disclosed the rather interesting fact that the two were planning a trip to the western provinces, far from hubby and Havelock, and also that they had been meeting frequently of late and were apparently very much in love with each other. The husband naturally is considerably worked up over the affair, and threatens to sue the author of the letter who by the way lives in town, for alienation of his wife's affections. If the case proceeds we may be able to publish some interesting details of the love making of two enamoured ones.—Havelock Standard.

King Of Borrowers Was Always "Wanting A Shave"

"Captain" John Henry Wright, king of borrowers and tramp printers, the former London printer, whose body was taken from the St. Clair River at Courtright last night, found as wet a grave as his whole life had been wet.

The "Captain" was in London not more than three months ago, and it was the first visit of hundreds that he had paid this city in the last 25 years. It was said of him by printers who have known him for all that time, that he was the last of the nomadic typesetters in this district. His trickiness was proverbial, and in the quest of the "high ones" he had resorted to subterfuges too numerous to mention.

After he had exhausted all the hard luck stories that had ever been invented he resolved that to stick to one was best, and to this he stuck to the last. "Cap" always wanted a shave. No matter if he had been only a minute out of the barber's chair he was in dire need of tonsorial attention the next time he met a man he knew. And truth to tell, the various mugs he bought had some resemblance to a foaming barber's cup.

Would Make the Rounds.

Upon arriving in this city at frequent intervals he would always make the rounds of the printing offices. Sometimes he had a union card and at other times he had none. He would beg for "shaves" from every printer, and although they knew him for a veteran fraud, he usually got enough to cut several crops of whiskers in his journey.

Occasionally he would strike work in a rush, thought seldom in the union offices, where his sincerity to the cause of labour was under suspicion, but he never stayed for more than a week or two. Then it was on to the next town. Every year he made the round of every place that harboured a print shop, large or small, from Port Huron to Niagara Falls.

"Cap" Was a Strikebreaker."

He was often disciplined by the union and the excuses he would make for being without a card would be fancy and numerous. On one occasion he turned up in a city where a strike was in progress. He took a job in the office and secured high wages. Then the union got hold of him and induced him to leave. He got to the next stop, had a couple of dozen "shaves" and then went broke. Then he was back in the strike town in 24 hours. The next time the union got him out of town they got him away such a distance that there was no coming back.

The "Captain" was picturesque in his way. But he was a slow, out-of-date printer. Neither he nor his methods hold in modern offices. The craft has changed in the last fifteen years. It has lost some of its personal charm, perhaps. But it has no place left for the "Cap" Wrights.

Nevertheless, the printers in London regretted the old man's wasted life. He died a lonely death, unwept by any relatives, the last of a strange kind, a derelict who somehow hung onto life by his eyebrows and then had to let go wherever Death chose to pluck him. Getting "shaved" so often as the "Cap" did is a bad thing for the health.—London Advertiser.

WHAT IS "KITCHEN ENGINEERING?"

The Ladies of Peterborough and vicinity are invited to a series of Lectures on the subject of "Kitchen Engineering."

These Lectures will not be long drawn-out, dry affairs, but short and interesting talks on how to engineer a meal.

GAS, it may be mentioned, is much more convenient than any other system of cooking, and at least equal in point of economy and results.

The Gurney Foundry Co., who are large makers of Gas Stoves, have made a study of "Kitchen Engineering." That is to say they set out to reduce cooking arrangements to a science, or in other words develop a system of having the soup ready first, the roast next and at the same time as the vegetables, then dessert.

You will learn at these talks HOW TO ENGINEER OR ARRANGE A MEAL, and we do not know how the housewife can spend a more profitable or interesting half hour than this.

Admission will be by ticket, good for the entire series of Lectures, and tea will be served with our compliments at the afternoon Lectures.

ST. THOMAS BY-LAW REMOVES STALLS FROM RESTAURANTS

St. Thomas Council recently passed a restaurant by-law, part of which orders the removal of closed stalls wherever they are in use.

According to the provisions of the by-law the license fee will be set at $20 in the first place but the most drastic clause of all is that eliminating all stalls, etc., from all restaurants and eating houses in the city. Also every dining room must have the windows open and free from obstruction so that the interior can easily be seen.

Guests of such places under the influence of liquor and all loafers and vagrants are also barred while those acting in a disorderly manner are also to be handled unceremoniously into the street.

ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT BY ST. LUKE'S MEN'S MINSTRELS

Performance at East City Hall Last Evening Attended by a Large Audience

REPEATED TO-NIGHT

Catchy, tuneful songs, bright witticisms and pleasing specialties, all combined to make a thoroughly enjoyable evening last night at the East City town hall. The occasion was the second annual Minstrel Show of St. Luke's Men's Club, and it is putting it mildly to say that the various performers covered themselves with glory—the performance being up to the usual high standard of excellence for which the Men's Club of St. Luke's enjoy an enviable reputation. The hall was well filled last evening and judging from the frequent outbursts of applause, the audience thoroughly appreciated the entertainment provided. Mr. Robert Beach acted as interlocutor in his usual happy manner. Mr. Beach was also responsible for the show, the young men having trained under him for the past month. His ability in this direction is well known, and last night's entertainment added another to the long list of enjoyable and successful minstrel shows given by him.

The songs were of the whistling variety, and without exception were all greeted with insistent encores. The chorus work was exceedingly well done, and was one of the strong features of the show. The end positions were taken by popular fun-makers, including Walter Fitzgerald, Geo. Butcher, Guy Quartermaine, Sid. Gibbs, Bob Long and Matt. Drysdale. Their songs made a decided hit and their jokes implicating local people and public questions of the day, created much merriment. Mr. Georges Lynch was inimitable in that funny song, "Never." His side-splitting antics, and the introduction into his number of verses on such local matters of interest as the policewoman and East City garbage collection, simply brought down the house. Mr. V. Morphet sang in splendid voice, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," while Mr. Ed. Hanrahan never sang to better advantage than in his rendition last evening of "Sands of the Desert."

Master Arthur Knott concluded the first part of the programme by singing "Ship Ahoy!" in a manner altogether pleasing.

The entire programme in the first part was as follows:

"Sailing down Chesapeake Bay" .... Mr. W. Fitzgerald
"I'm on my Way to Mandalay" .... Mr. H. Evans
"Sit down, you're Rocking the Boat" Mr. M. Drysdale
"Asleep in the Deep" .. Mr. Carter
"Never" ..... Mr. Geo. Lynch
"The Good Ship Mary Ann" ..... Mr. G. Butcher
"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" .... Mr. V. Morphet
"Make that Engine Stop at Louisville .... Mr. S. Gibbs
"You and the Moon and a "Rag-Time Tune" ..... Mr. P. Stock
"Million Dollar Doll" Mr. G. Quartermaine
"Sands of the Desert" Mr. E. Hanrahan
"On the old Fall River Line" ..... Mr. B. Long
"Ragtime Bungalow" Mr. A. Skillette
"My Orchard is short of a Peach Like You" ..... Mr. Marshall
"Ship Ahoy!" .. Master Arthur Knott

SECOND PART

The second part opened with a banjo selection by Mr. Frank Clarke that received a hearty encore. A very pleasing sextette, composed of Misses P. Dawson, J. Miller and M. Fakenham and Messrs. Thornton, Rehill and Evans, sang and danced prettily. Two other big musical features were the selections by the Mandolin Club and the Art Quartette. The latter organization, consisting of Messrs. W. H. Cunningham, E. Walton, George Biggs and Albert Trethewey, delighted those present with their vocal numbers and received well merited applause. "Nursery Rhymes" by the end men were very funny, and provoked much laughter.

The orchestra consisting of Mrs. A. P. Stock, pianiste, Mr. F. Whitehouse, violin, and Mr. George Chambers, drums and traps, did themselves credit, the accompaniments being all that could be desired.

The performance is being repeated this evening and those seeking a good evening of fun will do well to attend.

Fireman Had Ankle Sprained

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Thomas Doody, one of the local firemen, suffered a painful injury to his right leg, and as a result will not be able to return to his post at the fire hall for some time.

A few minutes after three yesterday afternoon a fire alarm was rung in on account of a blaze that was endangering Craig's furniture store, at the corner of Brock and George streets. Doody had been on duty the previous night and was asleep in the dormitory at the fire hall when the alarm reached the station. In a twinkling he had jumped into his outfit and swung down the brass pole to the first floor. But in his haste to catch the rest of the brigade before it left the hall, he slid down the pole too quickly and the force with which he struck the main floor twisted his ankle painfully. He was taken to his home in the Chief's buggy and Dr. Amys attended him. It was found that he had sustained a very complicated sprain and that the injury was of such a nature as to prevent his return to work for some days.

Anti-Saloon League To Tag Candidates

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 8.—It is intimated this morning at the headquarters of the National Anti-Saloon League that candidates for Congress, both Democratic and Republican, will be asked by that body next elections to declare squarely for or against the Hobson National prohibition amendment, which would be a definite step towards total prohibition in the United States.

LET THE FURNACE OUT

Time now to let the furnace out, and get an oil cooking stove. On days when the weather is mild the furnace eats up a lot of fuel and is almost as expensive to run as in real cold weather. The Florence Automatic Blue Flame Wickless Oil Stove, advertised in another page, is a very convenient cooker, and said to be absolutely safe. Read the ad. on Page 10.

Polar Hero Disbelieves Rumor.

WINNIPEG, May 8.—"Of course it is not true," said Commander Evans when on his arrival in Winnipeg yesterday he was shown a despatch from London, Eng., to the effect that it was rumored that Sir James Matthew Barrie, Bart., had been secretly married to Lady Scott. Its contents at once amused and amazed him, and he asked for a copy of the despatch as a memento.

CHIEF CHILTON OF LINDSAY, PUTS A "MOVIE" DOOR

Resigns From Police Force to Open Picture House in Listowel

Chief of Police J. T. B. Chilton has decided to retire from police work, and will become manager and proprietor of a moving picture theatorium at Listowel.

On Wednesday the Chief took possession of the Gem Theatre, the only moving picture house in the town, and on May 13th he will assume charge. The Gem Theatre is a neat house, splendidly situated and well equipped.

Chief Chilton will add some eighty chairs to the present seating capacity and a few other changes will make the Gem one of the finest theatoriums in that part of the province.

Listowel has a population of 3,000, and the Gem Theatre is patronized by immense crowds each evening. On the occasion of the presentation of "The Last Days of Pompeii," the crowd was so great that it extended out on to the street. Chief Chilton attended the theatre on Tuesday night when the house was crowded to the doors.—Lindsay Post.

BUTCHERS OPPOSE MARKET SALE OF MEAT BY RETAILERS

The butcher's section of the Retail Merchants Association met last night and as a result will make several recommendations to the committee appointed to inquire into the market conditions.

The city butchers are paying a license fee of $10.00 a year which is supposed to give them protection. For years they have been paying it and getting no protection whatever. To-day any butcher from any other town may come into the City, and on the market sell as much meat as they can without paying anything to the City for the privilege.

The butchers are fully in accord as to farmers being accommodated to sell on the market, but are opposed to regular retailers making use of the market.

MOTOR SURVEY OF IN OLD ONTARIO

Complete Information Will Be Secured For Improving Roads

Early next month the Provincial Highways Departments will start work upon a motor survey of the province that will furnish the basis for construction work next spring upon the $30,000,000 highways system for older Ontario. The department has already started to put into effect the recommendations of the provincial highways commission, the provincial engineer, W. A. McLean, having set a dozen expert draftsmen upon the task of preparing county and township roads maps for all older Ontario. These maps will show every road, and later on, when the type of each road has been determined upon, they will be marked and construction progress accurately recorded from season to season.

The motor survey will be carried on by several corps of engineers, each with a section of the province to cover. They will determine the present condition of all the travelled roads, urban, interurban and rural. They will study local conditions with a view to finding out which should be improved and the type of construction best adapted to meet traffic reuirements. Sources of road-building material will also be investigated. Upon the completion of the survey tentative schemes will be submitted to the various counties and townships, with a view to arriving at permanent plans.

Getting Local Views.

To aid the engineers and their survey the provincial engineer is now getting into touch with townships all over Ontario. Preliminary plans of each township are enclosed, and on these the local officials are asked to indicate the important amrket roads and secondary roads, the market towns or shipping points, and the roads over which they are supplied. Detailed information is also asked with respect to material, soil and drainage conditions, and improvements contemplated.

Construction this summer will be carried on under the Highways Act, but next year with new legislation, work will be vigorously pushed. The increased Government grants and the automobile tax as proposed by the commission must be made effective by legislation, of course, and by next session the department will have a clear idea of the legislative machinery necessary apart from financing. One provision that must be made is that removing the chance of one or a few municipalities holding up a general scheme, for instance, the construction of an interurban or intercity road. It is likely legislation will be designed to permit a majority or larger percentage of interested municipalities to embark upon a highways scheme and have their share of the coast assessed upon "hold-outs."

It is estimated that the auto tax revenue will be more than sufficient to meet the Government's contribution to maintenance for some years to come. The $400,000 proposed to be collected in auto taxes would meet the Government's annual share of maintenance on road construction up to $15,000,000.

50 BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN KILLED HIGH IN THE AIR

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Germany, May 8.—All Germany was thrown into a panic today by rumours that a huge dirigible containing fifty passengers had been burned to a cinder in mid-air near Zossien. It developed that it was merely a military experimental craft with nobody aboard that was destroyed.

PURCHASED A BLOCK OF STORES

Mr. Frank White, Flour and Feed dealer, has purchased the block of stores on Water Street, now occupied by Mr. Robert Begley, furniture ealer, and others, from the W. A. Hall Estate. A TRIBUTE TO PETERBOROUGH'S PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mr. Wainwright, who has returned to England after a visit to this City, to Mr. Frank Whitehouse, paid a glowing tribute to the Public Library of this City, in an appreciative article which he contributed to one of the English papers. He was an influential English gentleman, an owner of the collieries, and otherwise connected with public affairs, and was highly pleased with the free institution here. He spent three hours in making an inspection of the Library. The Lift Lock he described as being a wonderful engineering feat, and gave many enlightened views through the medium of the press, of the advancement which the cities of Canada made, and the possibilities they contain.

McKay, Foreign Mission Secretary, is here to complete arrangements.

U. S. VESSELS NOT ALLOWED TO CLEAR

Special Wire to The Examiner:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 8.—It is stated here that General Huerta has given orders that no United States vessel be allowed to clear from any Mexican port. Commanders of the United States navy on the Atlantic and Pacific have been given orders that no men must be permitted ashore on Mexican territory, owing to the possibilty of stirring up trouble.

The following were the delegates who represented the St. John's Church at the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, held recently in Toronto:

For the Girls' Auxiliary, Mrs W. E. Conway, Mrs. C. L. Brewer and Miss W. English.

SIGNIFICANCE OF MAPLE SYRUP

maple syrup on the market was seriously threatened. Granting that this was an extreme case, there were the compound men. They were getting a good profit, largely on the merit of whatever genuine syrup they used. In any case the farmer with a maple woods, and the wholesaler of the genuine product claimed that they were not sufficiently protected.

An Interesting Struggle.

The long fight of one manufacturer in Montreal against these conditions would make an interesting article in itself. The very honesty of his ideals carried him to a final victory. He was determined to put genuine maple syrup and sugar on the market. He visited the farmers in the Eastern Townships of Quebec. A protective association of the maple tree owners was formed. These farmers and this particular manufacturer, there may have been many others, provided money to lobby at Ottawa on a nnumber of occasions in an effort to secure the desired legislatin. But missionary work is slow and particularly in behalf of an industry and of a claim which was not thoroughly understood by the man outside.

The New Legislation.

Quebec is virtually the centre of the maple syrup belt and it remained for Hon. Brun Nantel to father the bill which has just been passed. To thoroughly appreciate the force of the legislation one must have been acquainted with the manufacturing and wholesale end of the handling of the various products referred to. He should also feel strongly for the common honesty of any manufactuger who was striving to protect a Canadian industry and incidentally to protect an ignorant or indicerent public from their careless methods of purchasing some food stuffs.

WITH THE RETAIL MERCHANTS AT THE OPERA HOUSE MON.

The Retail Merchants' Association is arranging an interesting programme for next Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Grand Opera House. There will be several reels of highly interesting moving pictures, as well as an address by Mr. Alfred F. Boyd, of Toronto, who will take as his subject, "The Science of Salesmanship and Business Building."

This subject will be of interest to all classes as it is claimed by Mr. Boyd "that each one of us shall have to sell to every man with whom we come in contact with in life, whether it be our value as a man or the branch of merchandise we have to offer."

His address will be highly interesting, particularly to all those engaged in the selling of merchandize. Coupling this address with several reels of high-class motion pictures should furnish an evening worth spending with the retail merchants.

The price of admission is only sufficient to cover the cost of the motion pictures alone — 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children. Already several of the merchants have secured enough tickets to cover all of their employees, in the hope that they will all attend, and no doubt there will be a full house.

The Executive officers of the association are now planning for another evening later on, which will embody a very important subject on "How to Build the Home City."

LIBRARY BOARD SPENT $400 LAST MONTH

A regular meeting of the Public Library Board was held last evening at 8 o'clock.

There were present Mr. Ritchie chairman, Messrs. H R. H. Kenner E. H. D. Hall, A. Mowat and Dr. McNulty.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A letter was read from Mr. J. W. Firth, tendering his resignation from the Board.

Moved by Mr. Kenner, seconded by Dr. McNulty, that Mr. Firth's resignation be accepted.—Carried.

A letter was received from Mr. W. R. Nursey, Inspector of Public Libraries, extending to the Board an opportunity to arrange for entrance to the Ontario Summer Library School, a four weeks' course, to commence May 25, 1914, in Toronto. The Librarian, any member of the staff, any library worker, or any one contemplating taking up library work, if resident in Ontario.—Received.

Mr Hall read the report of the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of a number of accounts

Moved by Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Kenner, that the report be adopted.—Carried.

Mr. Mowat, chairman of the Library Committee, reported that during the month about $400 had been spent in purchasing new books.

Moved by Mr. Mowat, seconded by Dr. McNulty, that the matter of obtaining a flag pole and flag for the library be left in the hands of the Property Committee with power to act.—Carried.

Meeting then adjourned.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION ENDORSED THE LETTER

Last night the Peterborough Poultry Association endorsed the letter of "Poultryman" of recent date, which was criticised at some length by a lady on May 1st issue of the Examiner. They quite concur with "Poultryman's" argument that it is impossible to know diseased fowl without producing the head and intestines as advocated by him.

TRIGGER

The Peterborough Club held their first regular shoot of the season last evening. There was a large turnout of members, several of whom were new members this year and it being their first appearance at the traps accounts for some of the low scores. Judging from the enthusiasm shown by all present the Club will be a busy one this summer. A practice shoot will be held Thursday evening next, May 14th, and the two shoots for the prize competition for the month, instead of the first and third, when all members wishing to be in competition must attend.

Pandemonium In the Court

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LEEDS, ENG., May 8.—When Lillian Lenton, the suffragette, was this morning sentenced to a year's imprisonment for setting fire to Westfield House, her friends in the galleries of the court pelted the judge and other court officials with suffragette literature, and a pandemonium reigned until the police finally cleared the room and led Miss Lenton off to jail, where she started a hunger strike immediately.

Summer School For Librarians

The following letter has been received from the Librarian.

Editor Examiner,

Dear Sir, — The Public Library Board, through its Chairman, Mr. Hazen Ritchie, has received a communication from the Inspector of Public Libraries, Toronto, in regard to the opening of the Summer School for Librarians. The members of the Board thought that it would be as well to have the information contained therein made public in order that any lady or gentleman wishing to take advantage of the opportunities afforded might have a chance of doing so. The main items in the communication are as follows:

The Library School will be held in the University of Toronto Library building. The regulation of students for the course will take place at 9.30 a.m. sharp, on Monday, May 25th.

The course is a four-weeks' course. The Education Department pays transportation expenses to and from Toronto of any library worker or any one contemplating taking up library work, if residents in Ontario. There are no fees, and all necessary materials are provided free. The one expense would be board and lodging. As only a limited number of students can be accommodated an early application is essential.

Applications for entrance must be forwarded to the Inspector of Public Libraries, not later than May 20th.

If any further information is needed in regard to this course I shall be very glad to supply it to intending students.

Man Paid To Withhold Smile

Man Who Didn't Laugh at Woman's Flight Gets Reward

KANSAS CITY, May 8.—Lawrence Kinney, usher at the Union Depot, is convinced it does not always pay to laugh. A woman from Clarinda, Ia., who was waiting for a train, accidently backed into a suitcase and fell over it into the man's lap in an undignified heap.

The crowd laughed heartily, but Kinney did not, and after he assisted the woman up she asked for his name.

He received a box of candy. In the box was a slip of paper on which was written, "Because you did not laugh."

NAME WAS WRONG.

In the report of the Olive Mission Band of Charlotte Street Methodist Church in last evening's Examiner, the name, Mrs. A. F. Brooks should have been Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, as superintendent of the organization.

Mr. Alex. Gibson, Nephew of the Deceased Was One of the Pall Bearers—High Tribute Paid

(Hamilton Spectator.)

The attendance yesterday afternoon at the impressive funeral service over the remains of the late Senator William Gibson was a striking tribute to the memory of one of Canada's big men. Following the private and public service at Ingersugie, the senator's late home in Beamsville, the body was brought to St. Paul's church, Hamilton. There men representative of every walk in life, including prominent political figures, captains of finance and industry and scores of farmers from the Niagara Peninsula, where the late senator was so well known and respected, gathered to pay their last tribute of respect. The floral-banked casket rested behind the altar rail and it was there that many took their last look at the calm features of the dead senator. The solemn service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Drummond, the pastor of the church; Rev. Dr. Lyle, pastor emeritus of Central Presbyterian church, and Rev. A. A. Laing, of the Beamsville Presbyterian church, with which the deceased was so long identified.

The sermon, preached by Dr. Lyle, was a fitting eulogy. It was only fitting, said Dr. Lyle, that some word should be spoken, some thought expressed, as to the nature of the man who had reached such a pinnacle in the public's good will. Not only was Senator Gibson prominent in public life, but in the home life, and the bereaved family was deserving of a heart-felt expression of sympathy from those whom God saw fit to let survive.

The active pallbearers were four sons-in-law, John Jennings of Toronto; D. M. Finnie, Winnipeg; C. W. Burling, Toronto, and John M. Eastwood, of this city; also S. G. Markle, Alexander Gibson, of Woodstock; R. B. Davidson, of Chicago, and Alexander Gibson, of Peterborough.

Peterboro' Off To A Good Start Beat Erie Yankees 3-1 Yesterday

Schettler's Fine Pitching and Petes' Effective Hitting When Hits Meant Runs Gave Them Clean Cut Victory in Opening Game of 1914 Campaign---Team Looked Good to Peterboro' Contingent of Fans

(By a Staff Reporter.)

ERIE, Pa., May 7. — Manager Curly Blount's band of Peterborough Canadian Leaguers got off to a fine start in the fourth annual Canadian League campaign this afternoon when they won the opening League fixture from Heinie Smith's Erie Yankees, by a count of 3 to 1. Over three thousand Erie fans, a score of enthusiasts from Peterborough, and President Fitzgerald of the Canadian League saw the Petes turn the trick.

With Louie Schettler working like a real big leaguer on the mound, the Blountmen looked like a snappy ball machine. Schettler is one swell pitcher and is destined to be a prime favourite with Peterborough fans. He was in grand form this afternoon, with his hook ball breaking beautifully and with men on bases he was practically invincible, ripping them into Ryberg's mit with baffling speed. His worst innings was in the sixth, when the Yankees filled the bases with two scratch and one clean hit. With Schaeffer, leading hitter of the League up, and only one gone, the situation looked very dangerous. However, Schaeffer's best was a drive which Blount grabbed. A run scored on the play, but might have been cut off if Blount's quick peg to the infield had been relayed to the plate. Then Schettler forced Smith to push a weak roller at Gorman and the crisis was over. The Petes' new pitcher showed his class again the next round, when after Behan had doubled and advanced to third on an infield out, he fanned McNeal and Brown. Schettler's control was perfect and not a man walked.

Erie sent in Carrol Brown, one of their best bets in the pitching line; a big husky boy with a good hook ball, who was with the Buffalo Internationals this spring. The Brown person twirled a nice game of ball, but the Petes bunched their hits on him in two innings, turning the tide of battle against him.

Manager Blount's team looked very good to the Peterborough fans. They played errorless ball and showed speed on the bases. Manager Curly Blount showed the lead in this respect by stealing second twice. The little leader is very fast and covers acres of ground in the outfield. Gorman, at first, and King at second, are experienced ball players, and are steady and dependable. Price, the little shortstop, looks fast and handled himself nicely to-day. As for Joe Byrne, the Philadelphia boy, looks better than ever at third base. His fielding to-day was air-tight while he cracked out two timely hits, leading the Blountmen with the willow. Joe had the feature fielding play of the day in a sensational diving stop of Schaeffer's hard drice. Swartz and Fox are both going well.

Catcher Ryberg made himself solid with the Peterborough contingent by smashing out a solid two-bagger in the second innings that drove the first two Peterborough runs over the pan. Incidentally he handled Schettler's offerings in finished style.

The only disagreeable feature of the game was the mob scene that followed. The trouble arose over Schaeffer, of the Erie team, misunderstanding a signal from Umpire Miller to Manager Blount. Schaeffer had led off in the ninth with a double. The crowd had started to leave the grounds at this stage and and a number had invaded left field. Blount noticed this and asked Miller how many bases would be given on a hit into the crowd. His Umps replied "Three" and Schaeffer started for third. He was tagged out and the Erie team howled strenuously. McNeal and Gygli each being fined $5 for an unwise choice of language. After the game a mob of boys rushed the umpire and the police had to protect him, one bone-headed "cop" flashing a revolver. The mix-up was due entirely to Schaeffer's "Merkle."

The game was opened with the usual ceremonies. The two teams and the Peterborough contingent participated in an automobile parade headed by the Moose Band. At the grounds a large United States flag was raised and Judge Walling pitched the first ball.

An interesting feature was the presentation of a diamond p into Catcher Kelly of the Petes. "Kel's" home is in Erie, and a number of his friends had prepared the surprise for him. Mr. Tom O'Connor, treasurer of the Erie Club, made the presentation, and Umpire Miller expressed Kelly's thanks.

The Erie team looks very strong. They have eight pitchers at the present time, a hard hitting outfield in Harris, Schaeqer nad Dawson, and a good infield. Mack McNeal is in good shape and pegging beautifully to the bags. Schettler's hook was too much for him, however,-and he fanned twice to-day.

Erie—Behan doubled to deep left. Wiltse grounded to Price, advancing Behan. McNeal fanned. Schettler then proceeded to fan Brown, getting otu of a dangerous situation. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Peterborough—King hit one to Behan, whose throw to Gygli easily beat out the runner. Instead of touching the bag, Gygli tried to tag King, who slid under him and was safe. Gorman sacrified, Brown to Smith. Swartz grounded to Wiltse, advancing King to third. Byrne cracked a hit through the box scoring King. Byrne was out stealing, McNeal to Behan. One run, two hits, no errors.

Erie—Harris grounded to King. Dawson fanned. Gygli grounded to Byrne. No runs, hits or errors.

Ninth Innings.

Peterborough—Price died on a high one to Behan. Ryberg flied to Harris. Schettler fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Erie—Schaeffer doubled to the fence in left centre. The crowd had invaded left field and Manager Blount called in, to Umpire Miller to ask how many bases on a hit into the crowd. The Umps replied three and Schaeffer strolled off towards third. Schettler tossed the ball to Price who tagged the Erie fielder and he was called out. Smith fouled to Ryberg. Behan grounded to King. No runs, one hit, no errors.

5000 Saw First Game In London

LONDON, May 7.— Five thousand fans took the lid off the Canadian League season here to-day, when London defeated Toronto by 4 to 3. The tally was tied in the last half of the seventh, and London barely eased out in the last period.

The inauguration celebration was one on some proportions, a hundred motor cars, carrying a band, ball players, club officials and visiting fans. President Sam Stevely of the London club introduced the players and ushered on the celebrants. Mayor Graham heaved the first ball, which was batted to the outfield by Rev. P. J. McKeon, rector of St. Mary's R. C. Church.

Kirley and Heck engaged in a great pitchers' battle, the London heaver displaying splendid form. He retired his men with comparative ease during the greater part of the game, and when he did find himself in pinches moved out of them creditably. London was given a fine start when two runs were scored in the first round, and tagged along without competition till the fifth. An error by Murphy put Lamy on first in the ninth inning, with the score tied. He stole second and scored on Bierbauer's single along the third base foul line.

The weather was ideal, midsummer temperature delighting the fans. The Toronto team was supported here by a large number of visitors. The score:

Brantford Won The First Game

BRANTFORD, May 1—The rejuvenated Brants had the better of the argument in the opener with Hamilton here this afternoon, thanks to Gero's showing in the box. Burns' clever work in the field, and some good head work with men on bases. The usual parade with the Dufferin Rifles' Band at the head, started out to the Park, where Mayor Spence and John Muir of Brantford were pitcher and batter and Mayor Allen of Hamilton the catcher. John Muir then presented the god watch given last year for the most valuable player on the team, this being won by "Chubby" Coose. The biggest crowd on record attended the game. The Brants' first run came through in the fourth on Deneau's single, an error at second by Unick, and Ivers' sacrifice fly. The second came in the eighth on Belts's drive, which Dougherty, who replaced Donohue, could not do more than knock down, Lecroix's sacrifice and Burns' sacrifice fly.

WEDDING BELLS

O'NEIL—CURTAIN.

Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, Hastings, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, Wednesday, April 22nd, when Miss Margaret C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. O'Neill, Percy, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. David Curtin, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Curtin, Mt. Irwin. Rev. Father Brotherton performed the ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of white satin, with back hat and carried white roses. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Nellie of Toronto, who wore pink silk with black hat and carried pink roses. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Will Curtin of Mt. Irwin.

The groom's gift to the bride was an amethyst rosary; to the bridesmaid, a gold bar pin, set with moss stones, and to the best man, a set of gold cuff links.

The many and costly gifts received by the young couple showed the high esteem in which they were held.

After a very enjoyable evening the young couple left on a short trip to points west, after which they will reside in Peterborough, the bride travelling in a tailor-made suit of blue serge.

National Anthem Has Slight Change Sanctioned By Duke

No longer will wellinformed patriotic sons of Great Britain sing "God save our gracious King." They will use the same music, but the words will instead be "God save Great George our King."

When the Duke of Connaught, on tour in Ontario, visited Central School in Chatham, Ont., yesterday, the children sang the National Anthem, using the words "God save Great George our King." Following this it is said the Duke remarked to Princess Patricia upon the "proper" wording of the anthem. Thus the version was given royal sanction.

"Great George" appied all through authority on such matters, gave the explanation today of how the variation had evidently arisen. In the original anthem, it is believed, the word "great" was used, in the time of George III. As there were four King George's in a row, the words "Great George" appied all through. Then came William IV., following George IV. It was perhaps that the words "Great William" would not suit, so "great" was changed to "gracious." It is said the National Anthem was written by Dr. John Bull in the reign of King James I.

Magistrate Kingsford said that the change took in the old wording was evidently a tribute to the present King George V.

A PULMOTOR DEMONSTRATION

City Council Watch Wonderful Apparatus at Work

This afternoon shortly after two o'clock a very interesting and graphic demonstration of the "Pulmotor," the machine which the City Council proposes to purchase soon, was given at the fire hall. The pulmotor is a device for saving life, and it is claimed for it that when patients who have been suffocated beyond all hopes of resuscitation from any other means, either as a result of immersion in water, through gas or from any other cause, they can be revived by the use of the pulmotor.

Mr. Henry E. Bertling, representing the Canada Sanax Co., gave the demonstration to-day in the presence of Alds. Stratton, Green, Dobbin, Anderson and McIntyre, City Clerk Armstrong, Chief Howard, Chief Thompson and a number of citizens. Later it was demonstrated for the doctors of the City. The demonstration was a practical illustration of the theory of the machine. When a person is apparently drowned, the water should be drained from his mouth and then the pulmotor will do its work. A rubber cap is fitted over the patient's face and the pulmotor is switched on. The machine has a bellows that opens and closes the lungs, and a tank connected with it forces pure oxygen into the lungs at the same time. The pulmotor has been used many times in such cases and has resulted in the saving of many lives. The only detrimental feature brought out was that it could be used to revive only one person at a time. If two are suffocated, however, the Schaeffer method can be used to keep one alive until the pulmotor can be used. The price of the machine is $200, and the Aldermen and others present were very favourably impressed with the demonstration.

A smoke helmet which would enable firemen to work for two hours in the densest smoke was also demonstrated. This, too, would cost $200.

Two Claimants for Money Left by Late Harry Brown

Toronto Star: On May 4 last, Marion G. Brown, 56 St. George Street, filed an affidavit in the Surrogate Court, designating herself as the widow and only relative of the late Harry G. Brown, traveller, formerly of Peterborough, who died, without leaving a will, on March 20. His estate, valued at $600, consists wholly of a bank account.

Since this application has been made, one Marion Ines Brown has filed a cavest alleging that she is the lawful widow of the deceased, and not the first applicant.

"Marion Ines Brown," reads the cavest, "is the lawful widow, and Yvonne Marion Brown his lawful child, and they are the only next of kin of the said Harry G. Brown."

An appearance to the cavest must be entered at the Surrogate Court within ten days.

APPEAL DISMISSED

The following decision of local interest was given at Osgoode Hall yesterday:

Revellos vs. Pappas.—J. M. Godfrey for plaintiff. D. O'Connell (Peterborough) for defendant. Appeal by plaintiff form judgment of Huycke, J., of the County of Peterborough, of 2nd March, 1914. Action on a cheque for $350, drawn by defendant in plaintiff's favour, and payment of which was asked. Defendant counter-claimed for $1,000 damages for surrender of lease and injury to her business thereby. At trial judgment was given for plaintiff for $400 and no costs, and judgment for defendant on her counter-claim for $695.35, with costs. Appeal dismissed with costs.

The Building Of 1st Mormon Temple On British Soil

Work on the first Mormon Temple on British soil is now well under way in the Mormon centre for Canada, Cardston, Alberta. The structure will be of granite from the Rocky Mountains of British Columbia. Machinery valued at $10,000 has been installed on the temple grounds and cutting will be done there as fast as the rough material can be delivered. As each stone is cut and dressed it will be placed in the wall.

MONEY IN TITHES

The structure will cost at least $300,000. This money will come mostly from tithing sent to headquarters at Utah, and the contractors have the assurance of the church that all the money needed will be forthcoming when asked for. Bishop Nibley, who has charge of the business affairs of the Mormow Church throughout the world, will have direct control of the work, but will not be on the ground. A local inspector and superintendent of construction will direct the local activities.

SALT LAKE TEMPLE'S COST

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints have no temples at present outside of the State of Utah, where the great Salt Lake Temple stands. The new Canadian building will be the first to be erected on British soil and the first outside of the State of Utah. The Salt Lake Temple cost $4,000,000, and was 45 years in building. The other Utah temples, Manti, St. George and Logan, cost all told about $3,000,000. Material at the time they were erected was very costly and transportation difficult. It is stated by the authorities to-day that as good buildings can be erected to-day for about one-third of the cost. So it would seem that the Canadian Temple will compare favorably with any of the Utah structures outside the great Salt Lake Temple.

10,000 IN CANADA

There are in Canada to-day close on to 10,000 Mormons, and the Cardston Temple wil be for their own use. Mormons in the northern United States, who are much nearer to the international boundary than the State of Utah, will also have the Canadian temple as their shrine for receiving the higher ministrations of the church.

As a regular place of meeting the Mormons of Cardston have a tabernaclce seating some 1,500 people, and this on all special occasions is filled to overflowing. It has been necessary to divide the Cardston church, making two separate organizations.

Stock Markets

The Stock Market to-day was irregular and reactionary, thereby carrying out information given in last night's letter. The reaction in the general list, however, carried only Reading and Union Pacific fractionally below low prices, while many of the other stocks sold no lower or only about just as low as they were yesterday, as, for instance, C.P.R., N.Y.C., Erie and Lehigh Valley and many others.

I think the market will remain irregular to-morrow, when the general list should again prove a purchase for another advance to higher prices than we have seen this week. U.S.S. is not likely to rally far, and those who sell over 60 and every half up will probably cover shorts below 50. M.O.P. declined 3 points and I am afraid it will go lower.

The general list, as stated above might react a point or so lower, when purchases may be made; if already long don't buy more until they react a point further, when additional purchase may be made.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

Equal parts of milk and lukewarm water are excellent for sponging palms.

A cook whose doughnuts are never greasesoaked, says that the secret is in mixing the sugar with the milk, and letting it dissolve before adding to the other ingredients.

When ripping old garments use a small steel crochet hook for pulling out the threads and the work will be twice as easy. Use this for pulling out the bastings, also.

A good way to cook green peas is to add a lettuce leaf and a tablespoonful of sugar when putting on to boil. They wil retain their colour and have a much better flavour.

How A Blind Baby Was Made To See Through Eye Of A Pig

Newest Remarkable Achievements Medical Science—Sightless Human beings Made to See

MARVELLOUS OPERATIONS

By grafting operations, surgical science is aiming to repair every physical defect of the human body. The grafts are comonly taken from animals, but in some cases portions of a dead human body, or some part of an injured human organ, may be used to advantage.

Astonishing progress has been made within a few years in this line or surgical science. The latest achievement is the grafting of the cornea of a pig's eye in place of the injured cornea of a human eye.

The patient was David Kane, the nine-months-old child of Herman Kane, of Gettysburg, Pa. He had been blind from birth as a result of an infection which had caused the cornea, or transparent part of the eye, to thicken and become opaque. An operation was performed on the right eye, by which the outer portion of the thickened cornea was removed. This produced a partial restoration of sight. The left eye could not be dealt with in this manner and remained hopelessly blind.

Dr. Floyd B. Whitman, a young surgeon of the Baltimore Eye, Ear and Nose Hospital, undertook to perform a novel operation on little David Kane to restore the sight of the left eye.

Dr. Whitman decided to use a pig's ear in the operation on David Kane. The pig, in the structure of of many of its tissues and organs, is said to bear a closer resemblance to a human being than any other animal. This is said to be true especially of the pigs eye. The little boy is in fact to-day able to see with the pig's cornea, and great hopes are felt that the success will be permanent.

The cornea—like the other parts of tough, globular tissue containing the machinery of vision—is composed of some sixty distinct layers of fibre, superimposed and held together by a cement-like substance. These layers are merged into the layers of the sclerotic coat—the larger part of the eyeball's covering, a tough, opaque membrance which completes the globular form back to where the optic nerve enters the brain and merges into the nerve-membrane coating the inner surface of the globe-tissue, which is called the retina.

Underlying the sclerotic coat and the cornea as far forward as the elastic curtain containing the pupil and called the iris, is a network of muscular tissue containing arteries, veins and nerves. The main portion of the eyeball from the retina forward is filled with vitreous humour — a transparent, jellylike substance which sustains its form and through which the light entering through the pupil is filtered upon the retina.

Resting upon the mass of vitreous humour back of the iris—like a thin-edged, thick-in-the-middle cork in a bottle—is the transparent, hard, cartilaginous structure, the crystalline lens—in shape like any artificial lens with two convex surfaces. Between the outer surface of the lens and the apex of the cornea is a chamber filled with water—aqueous humour—in which the iris with its pupil-centre floats. A thickening or opacity of the cornea means that light is shut out from the eye.

The pig was first operated upon. He was rendered thoroughly aseptic and then placed under ether. The cornea of his eye was removed with a circular trephine by the surgeon and placed in a normal salt solution, ready for use when the human patient should be ready. The pig was allowed to die under the anesthetic.

The surgeon then proceeded with the operation on the child. The entire cornea of the patient's eyeball was exposed by clamps which held back the lids. Then, with the special Von Hippel instrument, a delicate revolving knife, the surgeon made a circular incision several layers deep a little to the front of where the cornea joins the sclerotic coat. These layers were entirely dead. Without much difficulty they were peeled off, much as one would peel off the skin of an onion.

The circular incision was deepened, and slowly, with infinite care, more layers of the seared, horny substance of the cornea were peeled and cut away. By the time that half the thickness of the cornea had been removed it became evident that quite a number of the innermost layers were uninjured. What remained of the tissue was now transparent; underlying nerves and blood vessels came into view, and at the apex the darkened pupil of the eye was plainly visible. Another very delicate circular incision, the careful dissection of another thin set of layers, and the patient was prepared for the latter half of the operation—stil delicate, but requiring much less time.

The pig's cornea, precisely measured, had been dissected down to its innermost layers. Deftly the surgeon lifted it with his forceps and placed it, like a tiny cup, bottom upward, upon the eye prepared to receive it. Gentle pressure glued the two wounded surfaces to each other. Only a thin, almost imperceptible circle of vertical cleavage showed that there had been any operation on the baby's eye, but at the apex of the cornea the pupil and the iris were now clearly visible. Granting a successful healing process, the patient would soon have as good an eye as before the accident in which he was blinded.

The clamps were removed, the eye lids pressed closely down and bandaged.

The bandages were removed on the sixth day, and the eye was tested to find if the operation had been successful. Admitting little light, one of the doctors at the outside held a doll before the youngster. As his mother bent anxiously over him, he blinked uncertainly a moment or two, then reached up both hands after the doll.

Dr. Kane placed his hand over the right eye, in which there was known to be some sight, but still the little fellow kept reaching after the toy. Then the room was darkened and a candle was moved slowly before the baby's face. His left eye followed it intelligently. It was proved that sight had been restored to the blind eye. It will be more than a month before the operation can be considered a permanent success.

This is only one of the many remarkable grafting operations and experiments that have been performed in recent years.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, the most original surgical expert of the Rockefeller Institute, New York, has grafted the leg of one dog upon another and the surgeons have watched the living animal skipping about on his dead friend's legs. He has transferred the kidneys of one cat to another, and has repeated the operation in many pairs of cats. He has grafted a vein in place of a worn-out artery. He has preserved arteries in cold storage and many days later has successfully planted them in a living animal.

He has proved that the diseased arteries and vital organs of a sick man can be replaced by the arteries and organs of other men and animals.

He has perfected the method of grafting nerves and arteries in co-operation with Dr. C. C. Guthrie.

Dr. Carrel performed another series of kidney plantation experiments. He took one kidney from a dog and put it back again, and from other dogs he took two kidneys and replanted them.

In one experiment he removed the left kidney of a dog and put it in a jar of Locke's solution at the temperature of the laboratory. Afterwards the kidney was replaced in the abdominal cavity. The circulation was re-established after suture of the vessels, and the ends of the ureter united. The animal made an uneventful recovery. Fifteen days afterward the right kidney, which had not yet been experimented upon, was extirpated. Six months later the animal was in perfect condition, showing it as living by means of the kidney that was one out of its body.

"This observation," says Dr. Carrel, "demonstrates definitely that an animal can live in normal condition after both kidneys have been extirpated and one replaced."

Dr. Carrel has transplanted arteries from one animal to another and has transplanted parts of veins in place of arteries. This is an operation likely to be very useful to man, since many veins can be dispensed with, while the large arteries are essential to life. Pieces of peritoneum may also be used to repair gaps that have been cut in arteries. Cancers and tumors frequently form round an artery. They could not be removed formerly, because to do so would destroy the artery and cause death, but if a gap in the artery can be replaced, operation becomes possible.

Perhaps the most astonishing discovery made by Dr. Carrel during these experiments was that a section of artery may be preserved in a refrigerator for as long a period as thirty-five days and then made to grow in a healthy man or animal. This indicates that when a man dies he does not die completely, but merely that one or more vital organs die.

Guardian Gets Order Authorizing Expenditure for Education

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—An order was made by Probate Judge Holtcamp authorizing David L. Walker, guardian of James Theodore Walker, fourteen-year-old, a son of the late Mrs. Lily Lambert Clopton by her first marriage, to spend $7,500 a year for maintenance and education of the boy. The order was made on application of the guardian, who said young Walker had an inheritance yielding $44,000.

His father, "Ted" Walker, died in 1906, and his mother, who later became the wife of Dr. M. B. Clopton, died three years ago, leaving the bulk of her interest in the estate of her father, Jordan Lambert, founder of the Lambert Pharmacal Company, to her son.

A CONSERVATIVE SAYS TORY PARTY IS LINKED WITH LIQUOR

Welland Temperance People Nominate Prominent Conservative as Candidate

WELLAND, May 7.—Chas. E. Steele, of Port Colborne, was unanimously nominated this afternoon as temperance candidate for the riding of Welland by the Welland County Temperance and Moral Reform convention, which was held in the Methodist Church. O. H. Garner, F. N. McConnell, Wm. Monroe, and F. H. Campbell were also nominated, but withdrew in favour of Mr. Steele. No nomination was made for the East riding of Niagara Falls. The nomination was accepted by Mr. Steele, who is a prominent Conservative, and Reeve of Port Colborne.

Referring to the recent Canada Temperance Act campaign, Mr. Stelee said: "During that campaign a representative of the Ontario Government, Mr. Snider, came into this county and tried to use the Government influence against the act. I have been a Conservative for many years, but the time has come when I cannot and will not support the present Conservative Government. In my opinion the Conservative party of the Province to-day is linked up with and has a coalition with the liquor party of the Province, and I believe the campaign funds for the Conservative party in the coming election will be put up by the liquor people. To-day the men in the Whitney Government are shaking in their boots late they should not be able to go to the people under the name and banner of Whitney. We have seen what has been done and will be done in his absence."

Mr. Steele pledged himself to support the temperance platform of Mr. Rowell, and expressed the belief that the Liberals would not put a candidate in the field against him in this riding. He predicted that Mr. Rowell's temperance platform would have a majority of the men in the next Legislature behind it.

Referring again to Mr. Snider's visit, Mr. Steele said that if his movements were known to the Government, then the Ministers should no longer be continued in office. If he was not here by direction of the Government, then it was their duty to dismiss him at once. They had denied any connection with him, but had not dismissed Snider, and this Mr. Steele took as an insult to Liberals and Conservatives alike.

Wm. Monroe, of Thorold, also a prominent Conservative, said that the Canada Temperance Act election had shown the temperance people the crookedness of the Conservative politicians in Welland county, and how they were tied up to the liquor interests, though it was not so many years ago that the other party was similarly tied up.

Influential men on both sides of politics are here to-day. Mr. Steele was pledged the unanimous support of the convention, including financial help, and provided speakers for the campaign, independent of any action taken by either of the parties.

WAKEFUL BABIES

If your baby does not sleep, if he is cross, cries a great deal and will not be comforted, that is the time to give him Baby's Own Tablets. They promote sleep—not the drugged unnatural kind obtained through the use of "soothing" mixtures, but that refreshing natural sleep of the healthy child. The Tablets banish all stomach and bowel complaints — the direct cause of crossness and sleeplessness. Concerning them Mrs. E. Medras, Grand Bois, Que., says: "When I began using Baby's Own Tablets baby was so troubled with constipation he would not sleep day or night. Now all this trouble has vanished and he is a strong healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HAVE ONTARIO COURTS POWER IN REID V. AULL?

Have the courts of Ontario jurisdiction to dissolve the marriage between Doris Reid, of Toronto, and Robert Aull, Jr., of St. Louis?

The Attorney-General is asking for an answer, and Mr. Justice Middleton may solve the puzzle.

Miss Reid is seeking to void the contract of July last, but the Attorney-General says that, if the Provincial courts lack the jurisdiction, there is no good reason why Miss Reid or Mrs. Aull, Jr., should be subjected to publicity as a trial witness.

If the Ontario courts have the power to confirm or invalidate, the action will be that much advanced when the trial is reached.

All the recent marriages in Ontario are cited for review.

CHAPTER I.

AT MacGONIGAL'S.

"Hullo, Derry!"

"What's got the boys to-day? Is there a round-up somewhere?"

"Looks that-a way," said Mac, grabbing a soiled cloth with an air of decision, and giving the pine counter a vigorous rub. At best, he was a man of few words, and the few were generally to the point; yet his questioner did not seem to notice the noncommittal nature of the reply, and, after an amused glance at the industrious Mac, quitted the store as swiftly as he had entered it. But he flung an explanatory word over his shoulder:

"Guess I'll see to that plug myself—he's fallen lame."

Then John Darien Power swung out again into the vivid sunshine of Colorado ("vivid" is the correct adjective for sunshine thereabouts in June about the hour of the siesta) and gently encouraged a dispirited mustang to hobble on three legs into the iron-hooped lean-to which served as a stable at "MacGonigal's." Meanwhile, the proprietor of the store gazed after Power's retreating figure until neither man nor horse was visible. Even then, in an absent-minded way, he continued to survey as much of the dusty surface of the Silver State as was revealed through the rectangle of the doorway, a vista slightly diminished by the roof of a verandah. What he saw in the foreground was a whitish brown plain, apparently a desert, but in reality a plateau, or "park," as the local name has it, a tableland usually carpeted not only with grama and buffalo grasses curing on the stem, but also with flowers in prodigal abundance and of bewildering varieties. True, in the picture framed by the open door neither grass-stems nor flowers were visible unless to the imaginative eye. There was far too much coming and going of men and animals across the strip of common which served the purposes of a main street in Bison to permit the presence of active vegetation save during the miraculous fortnight after the spring rains, when, by local repute, green whiskers will grow on a bronze dog. Scattered about the immediate vicinity were the ramshackle houses of men employed in the neighbouring gold and silver reduction works. The makeshift for a roadway which pierced this irregular settlement led straight to MacGonigal's, and ended there. As every man, woman and child in the place came to the store at some time of the day or night, and invariably applied Euclid's definition of the nearest way between two points, the flora of Colorado was quickly stamped out of recognition in that particular locality, except during the irrepressible period when, as already mentioned, the fierce rains of April pounded the sleeping earth and even bronze dogs into a frenzied activity. Further, during that year, now nearly quarter of a century old, there had been no rain in April or May, and precious little in March. As the ranchers put it, in the figurative language of their calling, "the bull blamed state was burnt to a cinder."

The middle distance was lost altogether; for the park sloped, after the manner of plateaus, to a deep valley, through which trickled a railroad and the remains of a river. Some twenty miles away a belt of woodland showed where Denver was justifying its name by growing into a city, and forty miles beyond Denver rose the blue ring of the Rocky Mountains. These details, be it understood, are given with the meticulous accuracy insisted on by map-makers. In a country where, every year, the percentage of "perfectly clear" days rises well above the total of all other sorts of days, and where a popular and never-failing joke played on the new-comer is to persuade him into taking an afternoon stroll from Denver to Mount Evans, a ramble of sixty miles as the crow flies, the mind refuses to be governed by theodlites and measuring rods. Indeed, the deceptive clarity of the air leads to exaggeration at the other end of the scale, because no true son or daughter of Colorado will walk a hundred yards if there is a horse of car available for the journey. Obviously, walking is a vain thing when the horison and the next block look equidistant.

It may, however, be tken for granted that none of these considerations acounted for MacGonigal's fixed stare at the sunlit expense. In fact, it is probable that his bulging eyes took in no succial feature of the landscape; for they held an introspective look, and he stopped polishing the counter as abruptly as he had begun that much-needed operation when Power entered the store. He indulged in a soliloquy, too, as the habit is of some men in perplexity. Shifting the cigar he was making from the left corner of his wide mouth to the right one by a dexterous twisting of lips, with tongue and teeth assisting, he said aloud:

"Well, ef I ain't dog-goned!"

So, whatever it was, the matter was serious. It was a convention at Bison that all conversation should be suspended among the frequenters of MacGonigal's when the storekeeper remarked that he was dog-goned. Ears already alert were tuned at once to intensity. When Mac was doggoned events of vital importance to the community had either happened or were about to happen. Why, those words, uttered by him, common as they were in the mouths of others, had been known to stop One-Thumb Jake from opening a jack-pot on a pat straight! Of course, the pot was opened all right after the social avalanche heralded by the storekeeper's epoch-making ejaculation had rolled past, or Jake's remaining thumb might have been shot off during the subsequent row.

Apparently, MacGonigal was thinking hard, listening, too; for he seemed to the following Power's movements, and nodded his head in recognition of the rattle of a chain as the horse was tied to a feeding trough, the clatter of a zinc bucket when Power drew water from a tank, and the stamping of hoofs while Power was persuading the lame mustang to let him bathe and bandage the injured tendons. Then the animal was given a drink—he would be fed later—and the ring of spurred boots on the sun-baked ground announced that Derry was retiring to the store.

Power's nickname, in a land where a man's baptismal certificate is generally ignored, was easily accounted for by his second name, Darien, conferred by a proud mother in memory of a journey across the Isthmus when as a girl, she was taken from New York to San Francisco by the old-time sea route. The other day, when he stood for a minute or so in the foyer of the Savoy Hotel in London, waiting while his automobile was summoned from the courtyard, he seemed to have lost little of the erect, sinewy figure and lithe carriage which were his most striking physical characteristics twenty-five years ago; but the smooth, dark brown hair had become grey, and was slightly frizzled about the temples, and the clean-cut oval of his face bore records of other tempests than those noted by the Weather Bureau. In walking, too, he moved with a decided limp. At fifty, John Darien Power looked the last man breathing whom a storekeeper in a dishelved mining village would hail as "Derry"; yet it may be safely assumed that his somewhat hard and care-lined face would have softened into a pleasant smile had some one greeted him in the familiar Colorado way. And, when what happened, the friend of bygone years would be sure that no mistake had been made as to his identity; for, in those early days, Power always won approval when he smiled. His habitual expression was one of concentrated purpose, and his features were cast in a mould that suggested repose and strength. Indeed, their classic regularity of outline almost bespoke a harsh nature were it not for the lurking humour in his large brown eyes, which were shaded by lashes so long, and black, and curved, that most women who met him envied him their possession. Children and dogs adopted him as a friend promptly and without reservation; but strangers of adult age were apt to degard him as a rather morose and aloof-mannered person, distinctly frigid and self-possessed, until some chance turn in the talk brought laughter to eyes and lips. Then a carefully veiled kindliness of heart seemed to bubble to the surface and irradiate his face. All the severity of firm mouth and determined chin disappeared as though by magic; and one understood the force of the simile used by a western schoolma'am, who contributed verse to the Rocky Mountain News, when she said that Derry's smile reminded her of a sudden burst of sunshine which had converted into a sparkling mirror the sombre gloom of a lake sunk in the depths of some secluded valley. Even in Colorado, people of the poetic temperament write in that strain.

Now, perhaps, you have some notion of the sort of young man it was who come back to the dog-goned MacGonigal on that June day in the half-forgotten '80's. Add to the foregoing description certain intimate labels—that he was a mining engineer, that he had been educated in the best schools of the Far West, that he was slender, and well knit, and slightly above the middle height, and that he moved with the gait of a horseman and an athlete—and the portrait is fairly complete.

The storekeeper was Power's physical antithesis. He was short and fat, and never either walked or rode; but his North of Ireland ancestors had bequeathed him a shrewd brain and a Scottish slowness of speech that gave him time to review his thoughts before they were uttered. No sooner did he hear his visitor's approaching footsteps than he began again to polish the pine boards which barricaded him from the small world of Bison.

Such misplaced industry won a smile from the younger man.

"Geo whizz, Mac, it makes me hot to see you work!" he cried. "Anyhow, if you've been whirling that duster ever since I blew in you must be tired, so you can quit now, and fix me a bimetallic."

With a curious alacrity, the stout MacGonigal threw the duster aside, and reached for a bottle of whisky, an egg, a siphon of soda, and some powdered sugar. Colorado is full of local colour, even to the naming of its drinks. In a bimetallic the whole egg is used, and variants of the concoction are a gold fizz and a silver fizz, wherein the yoke and the white figure respectively.

"Whar you been, Derry?" inquired the storekeeper, whose massive energy was now concentrated on the proper whisking of the egg.

"Haven't you heard?" Marten sent me to erect the pump on a placer mine he bought near Sacramento. It's a mighty good proposition, too, and I've done pretty well to get through in four months.'

"Guess I was told about the mine; but I plumb forgot. Marten was here a bit sence, an' he said nothin'." Power laughed cheerfully. "He'll be surprised to see me, and that's a fact. He counted on the job using up the best part of the summer, right into the fall; but I made those Chicago mechanics open up the throttle, and here I am, having left everything in full swing."

"Didn't you write?"

"Yes, to Denver. I don't mind teling you, Mac, that I would have been better pleased of the boss was there now. I came slick through, meaning to make Denver to-morrow. Where is he—at the mill?"

"He was thar this mornin'."

Power was frankly puzzled by MacGonigal's excess of reticence. He knew the man so well that he wondered what sinister revelation lay behind this twice-repeated refusal to give a direct reply to his questions. By this time the appetising drink was ready, and he swallowed it with the gusto of one who had found the sun hot and the trail dusty, though he had ridden only three miles from the railroad station in the valley, where he was supplied with a lame horse by the blunder of a negro attendant at the hotel.

It was his way to solve a difficulty by taking the shortest possible cut; but, being quite in the dark as to the cause of his friend's perceptible shirking of some unknown trouble, he decided to adopt what logicians term a process of exhaustion.

"All well at Delores?" he asked, looking straight into the storekeeper's prominent eyes.

"Bully!" came the unblinking answer.

"Ah! The worry, whatsoever it might be, evidently did not concern John Darien Power in any overwhelming degree.

"Then what have you got on your chest, Mac?" he said, while voice and manner softened from an unmistakably stiffening.

SHREDDED WHEAT

It contains all the body-building nutriment in the whole wheat grain, is not "bleached" nor "treated" nor "compounded" with anything—just the pure wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked.

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with hot milk or cream will supply all the energy needed for a half day's work. Deliciously nourishing when eaten in combination with baked apples, stewed prunes, sliced bananas, canned or preserved fruits. Try toasted Triscuit, the Shredded Wheat wafer, for luncheon with butter, cheese or marmalade.

The soldiers lost by disease in the Walcheren expedition of 1809 were in the ratio of 332 to 16 lost in battle; in the Peninsular war of 1811 to 1814 the ratio was 118 lost by disease to 42 in battle; in the Mexican war 110 to 15; in the Crimea on the Russian side 263.6 to 120; on the English side 230 to 70, and among the French 341 to 70; in the Russian war of 1877, 42.99 to 25.8; in the American civil war, 65 to 24; in Germany's war with France in 1870, 24.5 to 55 among the Germans, 341 to 67.5 among the French; in the Spanish-American war 25.7 to 4.6 shows a much diminished ratio, and the ratios of 25.58 to 12.5 in the Boer war and 13.5 to 34.4 among the Russians in their war with Japan. Contrary to the general impression, the rate of disease among the Japanese was nearly twice that of the Russians, being 25 to a mortality of 54. These figures are taken from Capt. Louis C. Duncan's prize essay appearing in The Journal of the Military Service Institution for March.

AN M.P.'S ANECDOTES.

Dr. Macnamara Had Hard Luck the Only Day He Played Hookey.

Many good stories were told by Dr. Macnamara, M.P., recently, when he gave some of his "Reminiscences and Reflections" at the Herne Hill Congregational Church, London, with Sir Albert Spicer in the chair. Beginning with the barrack-room at Montreal, he was alternately serious and humorous. On the one and only day he played truant at Pembroke Dock his mother went to ask the schoolmaster if he could leave early to go out to tea. "And this," he remarked sorrowfully "I have always regarded as hard lines."

Half the failures in life, he said, are those of people who thought they could do something else better. This was his first reflection. And so, although he wished to be a soldier, he did his best as a pupil teacher. At Exeter he was taught singing by a lame man who waved his stick threateningly when his pupils did not grasp a melody quickly. This lent itself to Dr. Macnamara's first witticism, for this, he thought, must be the meaning of the "staff notation."

He broke out as a speaker at the Borough Road Training College. Then he became a pioneer in advocating smaller classes in schools, more effectually equipped teachers, provision for medical inspection and treatment of children—all of which he gratefully admitted had become to a large extent realities of to-day.

Among the unconscious witticisms of children (for which he did not vouch) he narrated that a small boy defined "Mediator" as "a chap who says hit me instead." Another boy, whose home lesson sums were all wrong, told his teacher, "I knew they would be; father would help me." An alleged answer to the question, "What does 'etc.' mean?" was, "A sign to make believe you know more than you do."

His platform anecdotes were in several cases told against himself. Last year, speaking in a marquee at Brislington in torrential rain, he said, "I'm afraid I've kept you too long," when a voice in the rear replied, "Go on, it's still raining."

A Generous Laborer.

The governors of Salisbury Infirmary had a great surprise a short time ago, when an old man, who did not wish his name to be published, was ushered into the room. He said he wished to show his appreciation of the kindness and attention bestowed upon him as a patient thirty years ago by presenting the institution with $250. Holding ten crisp £5 notes in his hand, the old gentleman expressed his thankfulness and handed the gift over to the chairman, explaining that he was a day laborer, and had put by his pence ever since he had come out of the hospital in the hope of being able some day to make a suitable thank-offering, and, as far as his means and ability would allow, to show his appreciation in a practical way.

His Queer Request.

Cyril Maude tells the following story about his old friend, W. S. Penley: Penley was stopping at a country house in Brittany, France, and the morning after his arrival, finding no looking-glass in his room, rang the bell. "Apportes moi un cheval," he said to the maid who answered it. The maid grinned and then, choking with laughter, ran down to her master. "Monsieur," she cried; "your friend who arrived last night is mad. He has nothing on but his dressing gown, and he asked me to bring him a horse!" The host ran up and asked Penley what on earth he wanted a "cheval" for. "Well," was Penley's reply, "we talk of a cheval glass at home, don't we? I thought 'cheval' was the French word for mirror."

What He Did.

When Sir Beauchamp was appointed to his first post in India one of his subordinates who did not know him tried to find out from a brother officer what sort of man they would have to deal with. The dialogue went something like this:

"Does he play bridge much?"

"Not much."

"Billiards, maybe?"

"Nothing to speak of."

"Does he go in for outdoor sports?"

"At long intervals."

"Then what on earth does he do?" asked the bewildered man finally.

"The rarest thing possible," snapped the other; "he works."

Island of Sorrow.

A fishing disaster is reported from Fugio, in the Faroe Islands, north of the Shetlands, which resulted in one of the smaller islands being almost denuded of its male population. Twenty-six of the twenty-seven men on the island set out recently on a fishing expedition in small boats, all of which were swamped, and every man was drowned in a terrific gale. The only man left on the island is too old for work, and he alone is left to protect the wives and families of the drowned men.

Healthy, Spread Disease.

The annual report of the medical officer of the London Local Government Board cites two cases of women disease carriers. The women are themselves healthy, but both are enteric fever disseminators. Sixty cases of this disease, of which six were fatal, were traced to one of the women.

Both women will receive a pension sufficient to support them and keep them from coming in contact with others.

The Vienna Woman.

The Vienna woman is called the best dressed woman in the world, and she well deserves her title. She is more French in attire than the Parisian, and she is more elegant than the Russian. She combines the neatness of the English with the delicacy of the Spanish. Yet she is a school of her own in dress. She is original to the last detail. To be thoroughly Viennese in dress is the dream of the well gowned European woman.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Cold and Colds.

"Without having gone anywhere near either pole," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle, "I have had my experience of the fact that intense cold outside stops the cold in the head. We were six men essaying the ascent of the Grand Combin in the Alps (over 14,000 feet). From our first attempt we were driven back by a thunderstorm, and a stay of some hours to dry in the hut with the stove going woke up all the microbes. When we returned to the hut next day from the valley there were at least four severe colds among us, with sneezing and sore throats. On the third morning we traversed our peak, slowly cutting snow and ice steps in weather memorably bitter even for that height. On the other side it suddenly occurred to me that I had no 'cold' left, and the others made the same discovery."

Played No Favorites.

A gentleman was staying in a provincial town when he heard that Mr. Moneyboy, his partner in business, was at another hotel on the telephone.

"Is Mr. Moneyboy there?" he inquired.

"No; he is not," came the response.

"Well, has he engaged rooms?"

"No. We don't reserve rooms here. First come, first served, is our rule," came the sharp and somewhat airy reply.

He was rather taken back at the lofty independence they seemed to revel in in that town.

"Can you tell me," he asked, "if he will stay with you when he reaches the town?"

"It's possible he may. But we can't say."

"Look here," roared the irate gentleman, "you're the most impudent jack in office that ever spoilt his master's business! Go away and tell some one who knows more about the business of the hotel to come and speak to me."

There was a chuckle at the other end of the wire.

"This isn't a hotel; it's the town jail," said the voice.

The confused gentleman rang off sharp.—London Mail.

CRISIS IN INDIA.

Grave State of Affairs Exists In The Oriental Empire.

A crisis, monetary, industrial and political, now prevails in India. As a result the people of Hindustan are reverting to their former Asiatic method of burying their gold and silver, thus withdrawing them from circulation.

The failure of the Bank of Egypt, less than two years ago, has been followed during the last two or three months by the collapse of a whole string of native-owned, native managed banks in India; carrying with them in their downfall all sorts of native industries, such as cotton mills, etc., which they were financing.

The consequence of all this has been to cause a run of considerable proportions on all these other institutions and undertakings in which native capital has been invested in recent years, crippling their resources and in many instances compelling them to go out of business.

Even so loyal a champion of British rule as Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, fifth baronet of his line and acknowledged leader of the important and wealthy community of Parsees, in Hindustan, has telegraphed from Bombay to the Viceroy at Calcutta and to the Secretary of State for India in London declaring that the recent events "tolerated in South Africa by the Imperial Government imperil the faith of the people of India in the good will toward them on the part of the crown."

They cannot be brought to understand how it is that Great Britain, having granted self government to her great colonies, such as South Africa, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, should be powerless to prevent these autonomous dependencies from enacting laws and devising measures aimed against the people of India, either excluding them altogether from the country or else subjecting them to ignominious treatment.

That the Hindu population is filled with more or less latent sedition is a generally acknowledged fact and has found expression in the numerous attempts in recent years upon the lives of high English officials, culminating in the bomb outrage which so severely wounded the Viceroy, Lord Hardinge, on the occasion of his state entry into Delhi a year ago. The revolutionary utterances of the native press leave no doubt about the matter.

It is a sedition to which there have been many contributory causes, chief among them the indiscriminate spread of education unsuited to native conditions, and the refusal of the crown to satisfy their demands for self government, to which they were encouraged to aspire by irresponsible politicians.

Another disquieting feature of the present situation in India is the discontent of the 80,000,000 Moslems with the policy of Great Britain toward Turkey ever since, after the memorable interview between the Czar and Edward VII. at Reval, Great Britain became united by the bonds of a de facto alliance with Russia—that is to say, with the hereditary foe of the only Mohammedan power in Europe.

Until a few years ago the Moslems of India were regarded both there and in Europe as constituting the principal bulwark of British rule in the Deccan. To-day they are a source of danger.

An Aggravating Boy.

Lord Curzon exhibited brilliant qualities both at Eton and Oxford, but was by no means a quiet, studious boy. One of his mathematical masters told how Curzon gave him more trouble than any boy he ever taught. "He was incessantly playing the fool and 'ragging' and apparently paid no attention to what I was teaching. But what made him more especially aggravating was that, whenever I came down on him suddenly and asked him to go through some difficult problem that I had been explaining, he never failed to give me a perfectly lucid and satisfactory proof. And very often he was the only boy in the class who could."

Deck Boy to Commander.

Captain W. T. Turner, R.N.R., commander of the Mauretania, who has been appointed commander of Britain's greatest liner, the Aquitania, has risen from deck boy to a leading place in his profession by sheer merit and industry. Captain Turner, a native of Liverpool, was born in 1856. Among his adventures was a very narrow escape from death in the early days of his seamanship. Washed overboard from a sailing ship in the Indian Ocean, he battled for an hour and twenty minutes before he was rescued.

As She Is Wrote In England.

A correspondent sends to the British Weekly a rare bit of English. It was written by a woman in excusing her tardiness in answering an inquiry that had been addressed to her: "I would have written before, but I have been sick with a dog bite on the arm. The man that owns the sawmills' dog bit me on the road." The excuse was accepted as sufficient.

An Author's Experience WITH DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Shock and Overwork caused Nervous Breakdown—Never found anything to compare with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a Restorative.

Miss Innes is widely known in New York, Toronto and other large centres as a Teacher of Dressmaking and as author of the most complete work on this subject: "Scientific Dressmaking and Millinery." This book has been ordered by the government for use in Women's Institutes throughout this province, and is being put into practically all Public Libraries. The experience which Miss Innes has had with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is told in such an interesting manner in her letter that we shall quote it in full.

MISS I. INNES

Miss I. Innes, 245 Huron St., Toronto, writes:—"I have a strong constitution and do not neglect the health as many do whose strenuous lives of overwork lead to breakdown of the nervous system. Consequently when, on receipt of a telegram announcing the death of a brother who was very dear to me, the nerves failed me, I went to my doctor and his prescription acted beautifully and restored the nervous system for a time. Again in New York I felt the need of a tonic and had the doctor's prescription filled but to no avail, and just here I want to emphasize the necessity of going to a reliable druggist who you know will use only the best and purest drugs. I was benefitted to some extent by trying a prescription which is used extensively by stock brokers on Wall Street, where fortunes are made and lost in a day, and the nerves give way under the enormous strain.

This helped me but I am writing this letter to say that nothing I used could for a moment be compared to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This treatment restored my exhausted nerves, gave me new vigor and energy, and banished the many distressing and disheartening symptoms which only nervous people will understand.

I know there are authors, journalists and business men with whom I come in contact daily who should know about this great nerve restorative. I know there are women in the home straining the last nerve to make the best use of the income in these times of high prices and whose nerve cells have been sapped by worry and anxiety until they live in misery and do not understand the reason. It is because I know this that I want to tell these nervous, worn out people about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. From my own experience I know just how they feel and just as certainly know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will prove a wonderful blessing to them."

An Ancient Golf Course.

The golf course at Montrose, Ireland, where the game has been played for some 300 years, is being reconstructed according to a plan made by H. C. Colt at a cost of £7,500. The last few holes of the old course will be combined with the relief course to make a second 18 holes.

Crime and Sin.

"Crime" is a word that is misused as a synonym for "sin." A sin is the violation of a religious law. A crime is merely a violation of the law of one particular country or state. What is a crime in one country (polygamy, for instance) may not be a crime in another. Yet a sin is a sin to all who profess the religion that forbids it.

A Gallant Clergyman.

It is said that the Rev. Sydney Smith could be gallant as well as witty on occasion.

"Oh, Mr. Smith, I cannot bring this flower to perfection," said a young lady to him once as she showed him about her conservatory.

Whereupon he took her by the hand and said, "Then let me bring perfection to the flower."

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

Before and After.

"Before they were married she thought all the world of him."

"And now?"

"Now she complains bitterly that the world owes her a living."

Affecting the Price.

Rosemary: "When it comes to saying the wrong thing, Mrs. Giddygad is the limit."

Thornton: "What is her latest?"

Rosemary: "At Mrs. Doughstack's reception the other afternoon, the hostess told us she had recently paid twenty-eight thousand dollars for an antique silver salt cellar—"

Thornton: "Indeed!"

Rosemary: "And Mrs. Giddygad asked, 'Full or empty?'"

Eve (looking at the new buds): "Oh, dear! I do believe the color in clothes will be green again this spring."

Movies Will Tell.

Lady of the Kimono: "How do you know your husband wasn't in Mooseton when he said he was?"

Mrs. Visit: "I went to a movie show one night, and a film showed him in the band wagon as his lodge paraded at Elkhart.

An Exception.

She: "Well, dear, please don't complain about my new dresses. You know you can't go to any place these days unless you dress!"

The brute: "What about the bathroom?"

Nauseating.

Crawford: "How is it you don't care for a cabaret show while you're dining?"

Crabshaw: "You see, I can't enjoy the delicacies of the season while I have to listen to the indelicacies."

The Proper Term.

"What's that?" cried the new doctor in the mining camp. "You say you have 'shooting pains' in your back? Why, you're wounded, man!"

"That's what I said—'shooting pains,'" said Piute Pete.

A Discarded Fad.

"Marie!"

"Oui, madame."

"Give Fifi to the first poor person who applies for cast-off articles. The Paris news says that poodles are going out of style."

"Bobbie, why did you take your little sister's candy and eat it? Why didn't you ask her if you could have it?"

"Why, I did, mamma, and she said I couldn't."

Not to Be Thought Of.

"And do you love your neighbor as yourself?" asked the clergyman.

The magazine editor admitted that he did not.

"Still, there are extenuating circumstances," added. "My neighbor is a poet."

Giving Way.

Miss Skittles: "You must never see me again."

Mr. Skids: "All right. In future we will meet after dark."

These Slit Skirts Again.

"Don't you think that the present style in women's skirts is rather humorous?"

"Simply side-splitting."

MIXED.

Irate Farmer: "All right, you blackguard, I'll dam you for sewages."

Counteractive.

"Miss Passee says she just dotes on you!"

"Then I wish someone would administer an antidote!"

Temptation.

An Irishman walked into a hotel and noticed two men fighting at the far end of the room. Leaning over the bar, he earnestly inquired of the bartender: "Is that a private fight or can anyone get into it?"

"For the making of billiard-balls five hundred elephants are needed every year," said the famous big-game hunter in his lecture on India.

"How strange," whispered Mrs. Winsome to the lady who sat next, "that people can teach such great beasts to do such delicate work!"

Making It Right.

"Of course, you have made some promises you didn't keep."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I never yet broke a promise to a man without giving him a better one in its stead."

Madge: Have you really found that absence makes the heart grow fonder?

Marjorie: Indeed I have! Since Charlie went away, I've learned to love Jack ever so much more.

Inaccurate.

"What makes Smithson's nose so red? Does he drink a good deal?"

"Why, no, I don't think so. I know him well and never saw him drink much. I think his nose must be like my gas meter—registers more than it consumes."

Two Smart Actors.

In a very serious drama a prisoner was obliged to read aloud a letter which the jailer brought to him. To save himself the trouble of committing it to memory the actor had been accustomed to have the actual letter handed to him. One evening the jailed thought it would be a good joke to hand the prisoner a blank sheet of paper. The prisoner, starting to read it, was for a moment thrown off his balance, but, recovering himself, said with the most serene calmness:—

"Jailer!"

"Yes?"

"I am obliged to make an avowal to you. Brought up by parents of low estate, I do not know how to read. I beg that you will have the goodness to acquaint me with the contents of the letter."

The snarer was snared, but his wits saved him, too. After fumbling at the letter the jailer said:—

"Willingly; but I must go and look for my spectacles."

Naturally he brought back with the spectacles, the genuine letter.

Bound to Be Rich.

Proud Father: "Never, child, never! The idea of the daughter of a rich banker throwing herself away on a poor man! You must marry wealth or not at all."

Pleading Daughter: "But, pa, Alphonso is not poor."

"Not poor? How can he be otherwise? Break off the engagement without delay."

"But he is wealthy—very wealthy, pa."

"How can an hotel proprietor be wealthy after such a season as this? I'll warrant he hasn't got five pounds to his name."

"But, pa, he is not an hotel proprietor."

"Nonsense! He himself admits it. Here is his card: 'Alphonso de Blank, Whitecap Hotel.'"

"I know; but he is not the proprietor."

"What is he, then?"

"The head waiter."

"Oh, that is different. Bless you, my child."

It was a secluded corner, hemmed in with palms and fairy-lights, calm, cool, and restful. In the distance could be heard the strains of a band, playing a slow, rapturous waltz. The very air breathe with romance.

"Do you realize what it would mean if I were to give you such a beautiful ring?" he asked, softly.

She thought she did; but, instead of saying so—for she wished to hear him say those blessed words herself—she cooed a gentle:—

"What?" What would it mean,"

"It would mean," he said, as he rose to his feet, "that I should have to live on sixpenny lunches and wear old clothes for a year."

"Yes, sir," said a pompous ignoramus, "I believe in education, sir—the best education that money can buy. My father spared no expense on my schooling, and I shall spare none on my children's."

"Then I suppose you will give them all an academic education?" remarked his friend.

"Yes, sir," was the reply; "of course I will. That's the kind of education that I got, and if it takes every shilling of my fortune my boys and girls shall all be macadamized as their father was."

It is allowable for a man to pun on his own name if he does it well and not too often. Cardinal Manning used to tell a story of his friend, Bishop Bramstone, who seems to have been a wit as well as an eminent ecclesiastic. One day a member of his flock approached him with the remark that he wanted a wife, and he added the usual modest conditions—she must be young, rich and pretty. The Bishop answered him in an instant.

"You are mistaken," said he. "My name is Brimstone, not Brimstone. I do not make matches."

Fatal.

"Hear about the new poison?"

"Shoot."

"Aeroplane poison."

"What the dickens is that?"

"One drop and you're dead."

The Wiles of the Weaker.

A college youth just returned from a hunting trip called one evening on the lady then brightest in his many-named sky. During a lull in the chatter he proffered a request for what was once—long, long ago—technically known as "a chaste salute."

"Jack," she said, "if you kiss me I'll tell dad."

Jack laughed at the threat and pecked at the lady, whereupon she scurried upstairs, leaving the lad in considerable suspense.

"Dad," she cooed timidly thru the tobacco smoke, "Jack's downstairs just home from a hunting trip. He'd like to see that new gun of yours."

"All right," grunted dad, and descended the stairs, gun in hand.

Jack departed immediately—sans hat, sans overcoat, sans cane—and was seen no more.

"Bur-reds is intilligent," Mrs. Brannigan observed, as she encountered her friend, Mrs. O'Brian. "Ye can tache 'em annyt'ing. Me sister has wan as lives in a clock, an' whin it's toime to tell th' toime, it comes out an' says cukoo as manny toimes as th' toime is."

"D'hot's wondherful!" said Mrs. O'Brian.

"It is indade," said Mrs. Brannigan. "An' the wondherful par-rt ov it all is it's only a wooden bur-red at thot!"

His Delusion.

Visitor—What is the matter with that wildly raging man in a strait-jacket over there?

Keeper—He got that way trying to understand the income-tax law.

Visitor—And what delusion can the man have who seems to be always smiling?

Keeper—He imagines he does understand it.

Quip From a Clinic.

Doctor—Colonel Fuller de Rhumm is dead.

Physician—Weak kidneys?

Doctor—No; fast lives!

He Used His Eyes.

"Be observant, my son," said Willie's father. "Cultivate the habit of seeing and you will be a successful man."

"Yes," added his uncle. "Don't go thru the world blindly. Learn to use your eyes."

"Little boys who are observing know a great deal more than those who are not," his aunt put in.

Willie took this advice to heart.

Next day he informed his mother that he had been observing things.

"Uncle's got a bottle of whiskey hidden in his trunk," he said; "Aunt Jane's got an extra set of teeth in her drawer and father's got a pack of cards behind the books in his desk."

Trapped.

A minister was greatly disturbed by a certain set of women in his congregation who persistently gossipped in a loud tone during service.

One Sunday morning he executed a plan which he had devised to stop this annoyance. At a given signal the choir stopped abruptly on a certain word in the middle of a hymn.

Then one of the gossips, unable to check herself, was heard all over the church to say:

"I always fry mine in lard!"

"As we know," announced the minister, "that she always fries hers in lard, we will proceed with the singing."

Catching Up.

"Why do you insist upon having the biggest share of the pudding, Harry?" asked the mother of a small boy. "Isn't your older brother entitled to it?"

"No, he isn't," replied the little fellow. "He was eating pudding two years before I was born."

The Family Zoo.

"It's funny, ain't it, that everybody in our family's some kind of an animal?"

"Some kind of an animal, indeed? What do you mean?"

"Why, mother's a dear, you know."

"Yes, certainly."

"And my baby sister's mother's little lamb, and I'm the kid, and dad's the goat."

A tourist, "doing" one of the many old inns of England, had ordered tea and a sandwich. The waiter was boring her with his tiresome descriptions of the historic connections of each piece of furniture, and the legends surrounding every article in the house.

"So everything in the house has a legend connected with it," she remarked, when he paused. "Well, do tell me about this quaint old ham sandwich."

Committed to the Grave!

The American papers are publishing stories of Dr. Weir Mitchell. This is one of the best of them:

One day a patient came into his office and found him closing a large bundle of letters. "All resignations from committees or boards," he said, gleefully. "I'm going to get rid of all them. I have told my wife that when I die I want her to put on my tombstone, 'Committed to the grave!'"

LABELS AND LABIALS.

She: "They say Di Tougood kissed a man at the Jones' party the other night.."

He: "That's true."

She: "How d'd you know?"

He: "I had it from her own lips."

The Old Mare and Colt.

The motor car was, until recently, a thing unheard of in a certain part of Ireland. A peasant was very much astonished one day when he saw one go by without any visible means of locomotion. His eyes bulged, however, when a motorcycle followed closely, and disappeared like a flash round a bend in the road.

"Begorra!" he said, turning to his son, "who would have thought that thing had a colt?"

Probably Right.

They were discussing the North American Indian in a rural school, says a British weekly, when the teacher asked if anyone could tell him what the leaders of the tribes were called.

"Chief," answered a bright little girl, at the head of the class.

"Correct," answered the teacher. "Now can any of you tell me what the women were called?"

There was a silence for a minute or two, and then a small boy's hand waved eagerly aloft.

"Well, Frankie?" asked the teacher.

"Mischief," he proudly announced.

The editor of the Evening Star was deeply engrossed in his work when he was suddenly interrupted by the office boy, who remarked:

"There's a tramp at the door, Mr. Hyde, and he says he ain't had nothin' to eat for six days."

"Fetch him in," said the editor. "If we can find out how he does it, we can run the paper for another week."

Unfortunate.

The New Yorker was descanting on the glories of Broadway.

"The streets are ablaze with light—a veritable riot," he said. "Why, there is one electric sign with one hundred thousand lights."

"Doesn't it make it rather conspicuous?" asked his English friend.

"Yes," said the fat man with the gold watchchain spread across his ample waistcoat, "I have two and a half-dozen children."

The other man gasped. Then one of them said:

"Surely—two and a——"

"Quite so," said the fat man. "Two, and a half-dozen, which is six, makes eight. Two and a half-dozen."

An Entertainer.

Mistress (to prospective cook): Your virtues all seem of a negative quality. Haven't you anything else to offer?

The Candidate: Well, yes, ma'am, I have. You see, I worked a year for them high-an'-mighty Van Dams, an' I knew their silverware is plate, an' their cut glass isn't cut, an' their imported gowns is from Chicago, an' th' old man comes home at two in th' mornin', an' th' young Frenchman who is goin' to marry Clytie Van Dam—she's twenty-nine an' losin' her hair—is no more a baron than I am a queen. Aw, I know all about 'em.

The Mistress (highly interested): On second thought I'll engage you.

Sour.

"Absinthe has driven Binks crazy, they say."

"Absinthe-minded, eh?"

Prof. Talkalot—The boys were so interested this morning that they remained in my lecture all during the dinner hour.

His spouse—I guess the lazy things would rather sleep than eat.

ALL'S WELLS THAT BEGINS WELLS!

The Optimist (having his first lesson): "Of course, I expect to be pretty rotten without my glasses."

Taking No Chances.

A young Clevelander who is always generous with his touring car offered to take the old colored janitor of the apartment in which he resides downtown the other day. "No, suh, nosh—no, suh, thank you, suh," grinned the ancient functionary. "I reckon I'll wait and go on de street cyah." "What's the matter, uncle? Are you afraid?" "No, suh—me afraid? No, suh, I got to wait." "Uncle, have you ever been in an automobile?" "Nevah but once, an' den I didn't let all ma weight down!"

More Efficient.

Admiral Sir Alfred Paget tells a good story of how a more than ordinarily cheeky 'middy' once scored off him. He met the youngster at a house-party and was criticizing him in a friendly way for not having made better progress.

"When I was your age I was a sub-lieutenant," he remarked.

"Yes, sir," replied the boy, innocently; "but, then, is it not a fact that the navy was never so efficient as it is today?"

Kind Friend: "Have you tried—?"

"It's An Ill Wind," Etc.

The fat one: "They say that bustles are coming in again."

The slim one: "Well, my dear, you're ahead of the fashion, as usual."

Bertha Engaged.

The Ark was about to leave the dock for its famous forty-day cruise.

"All aboard!" called Noah. "All passengers ashore!"

At that moment a young couple was seen rushing madly for the gangplank. The skipper took a look and observed that it was the family that had been kidding his scheme the day before.

"Hey! Wait for us!" shouted the man, waving his umbrella.

"Too late!" grinned Noah, pulling in the gangplank. "We already have a pair of asses!"

Suspicious.

Crawford: "So you're going to give up your doctor because he doesn't understand your physical condition?"

Crabshaw: "Yes; he seems more interested in my financial condition."

Picking Up Tea.

The packet of tea lay on the pavement, apparently unnoticed by the youth who stood near. Just as a stout dame came along he darted forward, seized the packet, and, presenting it to her, explained that she had dropped it. A coin passed between them.

"I'm afraid you've been done, my boy," observed a passer-by who had witnessed the occurrence.

"That person never dropped the packet at all."

"I know she didn't," grinned the youth; "it's 'er as is done. You see, I gets the packet at 'ome, tears a small hole in the paper, empties the tea, fills it with ashes, and drops it in the street. Wonderful how it works. Serves folks right for not being honest, I always sez."

"Jack, when we are married, I must have three servants."

"You shall have twenty, dear—but not all at the same time."

"When Miss Willings married old Moneybags, she gave her age at twenty-five. I feel sure she is older than that."

"Oh, I suppose she allowed one-third off for cash!"

A canal-faring couple, on the baptismal service in a Black Country church near the wharf where their boat was reloading.

When the curate came to the request to "Name the child," there was no response from either parent. They looked at each other as tho seeking inspiration, and the clergyman gathered that they had forgotten to discuss the point beforehand. Anxious to help them out of the difficulty, the curate caught the man's eye, and in a whisper, suggested "John." The boatman nodded as the relieved of a great responsibility, and the ceremony proceeded to its conclusion.

As the worthy couple left the building, the woman addressed her spouse in tones of withering scorn:

"Yo' fule, yo', we've got two Jacks now, and thaasen's a wench."

Employee: Sir, I would respectfully ask you for an increase of salary: I have got married lately.

Manager of Works: Very sorry, Horneyhand, I can be of no assistance to you. The company is not responsible for any accidents that happen to its employees when off duty.

Old Country Party (who, for the first time in her life, has taken a "day trip" to London): "Excuse me, Officer, but could you direct us to the railway station?"

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

A very good way to dispose of slices of toast and scraps of bread is to brown all in the oven, then roll and sift, then when you bake cookies or jam tarts three to four cups of the crumbs are used in place of part of the flour called for in the recipe.

If you are anticipating planting a flower garden, remember the flower borders are most important, as they are so decorative. Eight plants against a background are more effective than 50 in an open yard. orders against fences are particularly pretty.

It is much more economical to market each day if you are near the markets and plan your marketing according to the market conditions. There are slight rises and falls from day to day, and if carefully watched by the careful housewife, a few pennies may be saved.

Painted Floors.

For floors in poor condition, wash clean, and when dry, smooth rough spot with sandpaper. Then apply first coat of ground paint, usually a flat yellow. After this is dry, fill cracks with crack and seam filler and apply one coat of floor stain, light oak preferred, though any colour can be used. This will give the appearance of wood lightly grained. After this is dry give a final coat of floor varnish.

CRUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

IDLE WOMEN.

The most unhappy women in our communities to-day are those who have no engagements to call them up in the morning, who, once having risen and breakfasted, lounge through the dull forenoon in slippers down at the heel and with dishevelled hair, reading the last novel, and who, having dragged through a wretched forenoon and taken their afternoon sleep and having spent an hour and a half at their toilet pick up their card case and go out to make calls, and who pass their evenings waiting for somebody to come in and break up the monotony. Arabella Stuart never was imprisoned in so dark a dungeon as that.

There is no happiness in an idle woman. It may be with hand, it may be with brain, it may be with foot, but work she must or be wretched forever. The little girls of our families must be started with that idea. The curse of our American society is that our young women are taught that the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, tenth fiftieth thousandth thing in their life is to get someone to take care of them. Instead of that, the first lesson should be how, under God, they may take care of themselves. The simple fact is that a majority of them do have to take care of themselves and that, too, after having, through the false notions of their parents, wasted in the year in which they ought to have learned how successfully to maintain themselves. We now and here declare the inhumanity, cruelty and outrage that father and mother who pass their daughters into womanhood, having given them no facility for earning their livelihood. Mme. de Stael said, "It is not these writings that I am proud of, but the fact that I have facility in ten occupations, in any one of which I could make a livelihood."

A WORD TO WIVES AND MOTHERS.

Keep in advance of your boys and girls. Be prepared to lead them, and do not, as you value your husband's love, allow him to develop and improve while you lose your hold upon those things which contribute so largely to a woman's attractiveness.

I see about me every day sisters who, when they married, were, I haven't a doubt, intellectually equal, if not superior, to the men with whom they cast their lot. In some occult fashion they drift apart.

A man in daily contact with bright minds, in his travelling, thinking, planning, reading, unconsciously grows away from the woman of his choice unless she is in turn keen witted enough to make up her mind that this shall not be the case.

A man likes at night, when he puts on his slippers and settles down for a smoke to discuss the topics of the moment and not babies and the delinquencies of the cook. Where one woman can do this, a dozen would be utterly at sea if an attempt were made to lure them away from them, to them, always fascinating themes, kitchen and nursery.

Be wary lest in your devotion to sewing machine, bread board, and broom, you allow blessed opportunities for self culture to slip by, until you find yourself a target for somebody's commiseration.

A mistaken notion ties women down to petty details, when many precious moments might be given to something that would elevate and refine.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

These are things worth while:
The rainbow after the rain;
The peace that follows pain;
The dew-dipped garden rose;
The flower that by the wayside grows
To claim an urchin's smile.

The little sacrifices made
By patient mother-love;
The touch of little children's hands;
And sweet affection's subtle bands.
The bright sunshine above;
The song of robin sings;
The chord of music that awakes,
Yearning for nobler things.
These, and a trusting woman's love,
In life are most worth while.

Some horrid man says: "A woman can adapt herself to circumstances more readily than a man. She will drive a nail with a poker or a hair brush, take out a cork with the scissors, no matter if it is pushed in, and sharpen lead pencils with her husband's razors."

A DEMURE QUAINTNESS MARKS FASHIONS FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Although small fashions follow the lines of grown-up designs in a general way, they have decided touches of their own that are picturesque and pleasing. Comfort is one of the strong points of the little dresses and coats. Could anything be daintier or more childlike than the frock shown in No. 8256? It is developed in a figured cotton crepe and trimmed with bands of voile. For a child of 8, this dress requires 3¾ yards of 36 inch material. Cotton crepe averages 32 inches in width and may be purchased from 75 cents a yard and up.

A decidedly new and attractive afternoon dress is shown in No. 8342; the bodice shows an overblouse with vest effect in front combined with a draped, three-piece skirt. Dull blue silk poplin is used in this instance, combined with an underblouse of figured tussah in which there are gleams of copper; the buttons also are copper colored.

FASHION'S DECREES

PARIS, May 8.— There are many kinds of new blouses to be worn with the spring and summer suits. One naturally expects to see many of these in the Galleries Lafayette where novelties abound, but one can find the most attractive ones, possibly, in the small specialty shops in those little narrow crooked streets that lure the shopper.

Many of these have the waistcoat idea introduced in some way. Ever since Cheruit showed that first model of a waistcoat blouse last August, the fashion has been taken up in more ways than one thought possible.

It did not seem at first that this kind of shirtwaist would have much popularity and it was only tentatively accepted in America. Like all new fashions, its influence was stronger in detail than in whole.

After the original blouse was exploited and worn by the minority, there came about a strong feeling for the revival of the waistcoat itself, and this was cheerfully taken up by women who thought that the waistcoat blouse was not attractive.

Strange to say the idea of a vest has grown in favour as the spring advances. All kinds of wash materials that are available for this purpose are used to lighten the effect of the dark cloth skirt.

In Paris they have the belief that nothing is smarter this spring than a blue gabardine suit with a white linen waistcoat. This combination of colours runs through the entire output of the season, and the majority of women should be very glad of it, because both colours are serviceable and together they are irreproachable.

THE WAISTCOAT OF SUEDE.

One of the novelties shown in the window of the shop that always produces something worth looking at, and lures the passer-by into a purchaser, is a waistcoat of white suede.

It is loose and manish in its outlines, cut quite low in front and fastened single vested with hand-painted buttons. It reaches well down over the waistline, which is characteristic of the hour, and has flat revers.

This sudden use of suede is rather interesting. One has heard little about it, and then it cropped up as a miniature fashion all over town. This same shop shows a brown chiffon blouse to go with a golden brown suit which had a deep collar of white suede cut out in a perforated pattern like Madeira embroidery. The outer edge was finished with a frill of brown chiffon to match the blouse.

The Galleries Lafayette shows a one-piece frock of cream corded crepe with a deep girdle of yellow suede, covered with a perforated pattern and button-holed with gaily coloured floss.

This is rather an attractive idea for a belt on a summer frock and it may supply the ladies of the piazzas with a new kind of fancy work to do in summer.

Another shop shows a clever novelty in the way of a white wash blouse which has been influenced by the waistcoat idea. There is first a foundation of finely pleated white muslin with a high rolling collar and a black satin cravat. Over this, somewhat like a jumper, is an attached waistcoat of thin white pique fastened with flat white pearl buttons. It has a skeleton back, shaped more like suspenders than a waistcoat, but there are about five inches of the pique across the belt. This is an extension from the front and is very skilfully cut so that it looks well when the coat is removed.

PREPARE FOR SPOTS

Salts of lemon is efficacious in removing rust spots. The spots should be moistened and then covered with the salts and exposed to the sunlight.

Vinegar should always be accessible, and a small bottle of it on the spot shelf is a good idea. Mix it with silver polish to remove deep-seated tarnish from metal. Use it to get glue spots off from wood and furniture.

Borax, of course, is indispensible. A solution of borax is a very good thing for clearing the wash basins and bathtubs. Soiled neckwear should be soaked in water to which borax has been added. It is also good for cleaning brushes. Ammonia can be used in many cases in place of borax, but it is harder on the hands usually than borax.

Powdered French chalk should be used to remove grease spots from all sorts of surfaces—wall paper, clothes, and carpets. It is not always successful in one application, but should be brushed off and replenished until the spot has disappeared.

Use any cleansing agent sparingly at first. Too much may spoil the article spotted.

A few dimes well spent in stocking up your "spot shelf" will save a good many dollars in the course of a year. For spots unremoved bring destruction—to clothes or pots and pans or furniture, as the case may be. Like attracts like in the world of dust and dirt. Moths swarm to soiled parts of clothing. Rust left unremoved rapidly eats its way through metal. A grease spot on the wall paper attracts dust. Soon it is too late to repay what what was at first a trifling damage. If a "spot shelf" is always well stocked there is no excuse for the long delay that is sometimes otherwise unavoidable.

CARE OF A PIANO

The piano is often neglected by the otherwise careful housewife, for the simple reason that her attention is seldom if ever called to its care. It seems to some if the tuner arrives periodically and the instrument is carefully dusted that is all there is to the care of the piano.

However, the piano is a very delicate instrument, as all musicians know, and requires very watchful care. The first consideration is the position of the piano. Often the only object in placing a piano is to have the best light fall on the music rack. But the piano should not be placed too near the outer wall, the fireplace or radiator, as it is subject to the influences of the atmosphere.

Avoid Extremes.

Extreme heat and extreme cold are very harmful to the piano. If one wishes to have a musical instrument in the best of condition and to keep it so, an even temperature should be maintained in the room where it stands. If there is too much moisture in the atmosphere the wires become rusty; if there is too much heat the musical adjustment will be injured as well as the wood in the case.

The rusting of the wires can be prevented by sprinkling them with lime or by placing a bag of unslacked lime in the interior to absorb the moisture.

When the atmosphere becomes too dry itis well to have a plant in the room that requires plenty of water. A jar of water kept in the room helps by evaporation. Heavy articles should never be placed on the top of the piano nor should music or books be piled there, either.

The keys should be wiped daily, when the piano is dusted, with a cloth dampened with alcohol. If this plan is followed there is less likelihood of their turning yellow. If the keys are soiled a cloth dipped in whiting and rubbed with alcohol will be found excellent for cleaning them. When the keys have become very yellow and need to be bleached try the following: Make a paste of unslacked lime and bran water. It should be applied and allowed to dry slightly. It should then be rubbed off with a cloth, and magnesia powder applied to the keys until dry. In a few minutes the keys can be polished to a high lustre.

Prevent the Moths.

Then care should be taken to prevent moths getting into the piano. Prevention is always worth while. In this case the carpet under the piano should be sprinkled with camphor and ground moth balls placed on the floor underneath. A bag of camphor balls should be suspended from a nail driven in the outside of the piano.

If moths do get into the piano make a mixture of benzoline and turpentine, using seven parts of benzoline to one of turpentine and add a drop or two of lavender water. Use a small scent spray or an old syringe to squirt this into the piano.

Dealers in pianos say that the best way, as well as the most satisfactory way to clean a piano is to simply wash it in lukewarm water, drying each part briskly and rubbing it thoroughly just after it is washed. A chamois skin can be used to advantage here. This method leaves the polish absolutely uninjured.

Strange Wills.

Many are the eccentricities to which wills have borne testimony from time to time. The Earl of Portarlington left instructions that he should be buried with all his rings on his fingers. The late Earl of Orkney stipulated that he should be taken to the cemetery in an old fashioned hearse, so that the coffin could not be seen and but no flowers should be placed on his grave. He also left word that his coronet would be found by his nephew and successor "in a cellar" of his house.

A Vienna millionaire, who died recently, left a sum of money with which to defray the cost of twelve months' electric lighting, not only of his vault, but even of the very coffin in which he was buried. Less particular was the Frenchman who asked that his body should be thrown into the sea a mile from the English coast.

He was, too, so disgusted with his own country that he would neither be buried there nor allow any of his relatives or fellow countrymen to benefit by his death. He left the whole of his money to the poor of London.—London Globe.

SWIFT FLYING STARS.

Vastness of the Universe Indicated by Their Long Travels.

The almost incredible distances of the heavenly bodies are well illustrated by Camille Flammarion's comments to the Societe Astronomique de France on the study by V. M. Slipher of the Lowell observatory on the speed of the nebula in Andromeda, which is 300 kilometers a second. Flammarion remarks that if this speed has been maintained since the days of Hipparchus, twenty centuries ago, the nebula has traveled in that time 19,000,000,000 kilometers. Hipparchus made a catalogue of the visible stars, and this nebula is not found in his list, although it can now be seen with the naked eye. Had it been as brilliant 2,000 years ago as it is today, Hipparchus, living under the clear sky of Alexandria, could not well have overlooked it.

"Must we then conclude," asks Flammarion, "that its twenty centuries of approach to us have been enough to increase its brilliancy? The parallax of the nebula is 0.17 second, which corresponds to a distance of 181,000,000,000,000 kilometers. It takes light nineteen years to travel that distance. So in 2,000 years its distance would have diminished by about one-tenth."

But then, no one knows that it has maintained this terrific speed throughout the centuries. It may have moved more slowly or more rapidly at any time. All is conjecture except the actual figures for its present speed and distance.

The fact that bodies moving at such speeds are not seen to move brings home to us the vastness of the universe.—New York World.

TAUGHT BY THE SWALLOWS.

How a Railway Tunnel Was Built Through a Sand Bank.

A colony of bank swallows taught a young but observing engineer how to build a tunnel that his more learned superiors had refused to undertake.

North of Burlington, Vt., lies a broad sand plain high above the level of Lake Champlain, through which the Central railroad was to be carried by a tunnel. The sand, destitute of moisture, would not cohere, but crumbled away as soon as an excavation was made. After several costly trials the engineers decided that the tunnel was impracticable.

A young man in the engineer's office said he could tunnel the sand bank at a small cost. He said he could build the tunnel for so many dollars a running foot, but that he couldn't expect the railway people to act upon his opinion when so many American and European engineers had declared the project impracticable.

The managers, however, gave him a contract to build fifty feet of the tunnel. On the face of the sand bank he marked the line of an arch larger than the proposed tunnel and on this line drove sharpened timbers into the bank. Then he removed six feet of the sand and drove in another arch of twelve foot timbers, removing six feet more of sand. This process he repeated until he had space enough to begin the masonry. As fast as the masonry was completed the space above it was filled, leaving the timbers in place.

He pierced the bank with the cheapest tunnel ever built, which now stands as firm as on the day it was finished.

He was asked whether there was any suggestion of the structure adopted by him to be found in the books on engineering.

"No," he said, "it came to me in this way: I was driving by the place where the attempts were made and saw that a colony of swallows had made their houses in the bank. It occurred to me that these little engineers had disproved the assertion that the sand had no cohesion. As every swallow's home is a self sustaining tunnel without masonry, I thought that by extending their method I could construct a larger tunnel. The bank swallow is the inventor: I am simply his imitator."—Boston Post.

The Last Hole, Indeed.

The story is told of an ardent Scotch golfer whose companion died and was about to be buried. The Scotchman struggled out to the cemetery to be present at the interment, and arriving there did not know where the grave was. He summoned a boy with a whistle.

"Whist, lad," he said. "It's a new course. Whaur's the hole?"—New York Post.

Some German Taxes.

Among the curious taxes imposed in Germany on various objects are those on baby carriages, where the amount is 40 cents each, and $1.50 tax on caged nightingales, of which there have not been any for many years, and tourists, for whom the hotel keeper is taxed 2½ cents, which is added to the bill.

The Full-Floating Rear Axle With Full Timken Bearings

Why Studebaker FOUR Sales Are Enormous:

Bluntly—because no car on the market reveals equal value.

Because, for instance, no other car in the world at this price has a full floating rear axle equipped even to the hubs with Timken bearings.

Because this axle could not be made better, no matter how much we were willing to spend, or you were willing to pay.

The same thing is true of Studebaker-Wagner starting and lighting—the cars of highest cost may show its equal—but they cannot show its superior.

The same thing is true of the proportion of parts actually manufactured in the parent plant—the costliest may make as good a showing, but none of them can show more.

The same thing is true of the accuracy of the processes which enter into the manufacturing—they may be equalled in the costliest cars, but they are not surpassed.

We repeat, with added emphasis—the sales of this $1375 FOUR are enormous becaue no car on the earth reveals equal value.

Ashes of the Great.

The city republic of Florence gathered her famous dead at Santa Croce, save "the all Etruscan three," Dante, Petrarch and Boccaccio. England has made Westminster abbey the burial place of such men as Chaucer, Spenser, Newton, Darwin and Tennyson, besides a baker's dozen of kings. But in America the ashes of the great are scattered far and wide. Washington rests at Mount Vernon, Va.; Lincoln at Springfield, Ill. The tomb of Paul Jones is an inspiration to students in the naval academy at Annapolis. Poe sleeps at Baltimore; Mark Twain at Elmira, N. Y.; Alexander Hamilton in old Trinity churchyard, surrounded by towering skyscrapers which embody his philosophy of life and government. Is not America's way the best? England and Florence make things handier for the tourist, but is he the chief person to consider? Since our heroes come from all the land is it not best that their ashes return to the soil from which they spring, till youth in every neighborhood has some reminder of public service and noble work?—Chicago Journal.

The Torment of Cold.

I thank heaven that I know what it is to be cold, to be cold from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, to be cold from the cuticle in to the heart, and from the heart to the soul. I thank heaven for it, because, knowing this, I have a new revelation of the possibility of suffering, and I am able to find a paradise in a common wood fire.

Knowing this, I declare to you there is not a more pathetic sight in the world than a poor man who is thoroughly cold from week to week. It is the refinement of torture.

It does not gnaw like hunger, which presently becomes a sort of insanity and relieves itself. It is a dead, unslept, icy torment. I used to see men in the army whose silent endurance of cold brought more tears to my eyes than all the hunger and all the wounds. —Sidney Lanier.

A Candidate's Revenge.

French electors occasionally have some home truths thrown at them by candidates who fail to secure enough votes. At one general election M. Albert Normand, a chemist and druggist, who was a candidate for deputy from Montagne, received only six votes and issued an address thanking "the six electors who showed their confidence in me. They are the only solvent citizens in the constituency, and I beg to assure them of my esteem. As for the others, I hereby give them notice that in future all attempts to obtain credit at my establishment will be relentlessly refused. During the last nine years they have robbed me of about 3,000 francs in bad debts, which I have taken no steps to recover. Yet when an opportunity is afforded of showing their appreciation of my leniency I meet with the basest ingratitude."

It Was In His Head.

Balzac once promised Lirieux, the manager of the Odeon theater in Paris, a five act drama. "The Springs of Quinola." He was so busy with other work, however, that not till he had been long and urgently importuned did he promise to read his piece to the company the next week. The company gathered about him on the day appointed, and he read his five act play fluently through to the end. Lirieux was enthusiastic, ran up to shake hands with the great writer and turned over the pages of the manuscript, whose contents had pleased him mightily. But what was this? There were only four acts. The last pages of the manuscript were blank. In surprise the manager asked what it all meant. Balzac smiled and admitted that he had not yet written out the fifth act, but declared that he had it as clearly in his head as if it already stood on paper. "And," continued the poet merrily, "I have in the same head two more outcomes of the plot in case the one I just read doesn't please you."

Only a Piker.

Two Pittsburgh men were seated in a dining car the other day, and while they waited for their luncheon to be served one of them said:

"I hear Brown has bought a place up near yours."

"Yes," the other answered.

"What kind of a place is it?"

"Oh, pretty fair. About 3,000 acres."

"Has he been making much money lately?"

"Not that I know of."

"How can he afford to have a place of that kind? Is he keeping it up in any kind of shape?"

"Yes, it looks pretty well. I don't know how he does it."

"How much do you suppose Brown's worth?"

"He hasn't much. Maybe about $250,000. Getting along on his nerve, very largely, I guess."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Putting Her to the Test.

"John, didn't I tell you that if you came home tipsy another night I'd go home to my mother?"

"Yesh, m'dear."

"Then why have you come home in this condition?"

"Didn't you shay (hic) you'd go home t' your mother?"—Boston Transcript.

Powerful Explosives.

"What are the most powerful explosives known?" queried the young man.

"Two prima donnas in one opera company," replied the theatrical manager.—Chicago News.

HEART WAS SO BAD
Could Not Do Her Housework

Many women get run down and are unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung. To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. Thomas Melville, Saltcoats, Sask., writes:—"I thought it my duty to write and tell you how much your Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. My heart was so bad I could not sleep, eat nor walk about the house. I could not do my housework at all, and what my husband could not do had to go undone. I had two small children depending on me besides three men to cook for, and it worried me to not be able to do anything. My husband had taken some of your pills some years ago, and insisted on me trying them, so I started, and before I had taken them two weeks I was considerably better, and before I had taken two boxes I was doing my own work again. Any one suffering from heart or nerve trouble should just give your pills a trial. If anyone cares to write me I will gladly give them all information I know concerning your wonderful medicine."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Girl With Titian Hair

And How I Secured an Introduction to Her

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Before settling down to my profession I concluded to spend some time abroad. I reached Naples in January and stayed there long enough to visit Pompeii, climb Vesuvius and pass a great deal of time in the National museum, containing the exhumed treasures of the buried cities.

During my stay in Naples I met on several occasions a family consisting of a father, a mother, a daughter about nineteen and a boy of twelve. I often heard them talk together. They spoke English, and I knew by their accent that they were Americans. I would have liked to make their acquaintance. Indeed, I endeavored to do so one day when I was near the father in the National museum by addressing him a remark. But he did not respond very cordially, and I refrained from another attempt.

My object in making this family's acquaintance was that I wished for companionship with my own countrymen, especially the young lady, about whom there was something to me very attractive. While her complexion had little color, the combination of eyes, hair and skin made up a peculiar style of beauty, the eyes being a dark brown and the hair what is usually called Titian from the fact that the artist used it so often in his pictures.

Having seen the sights at Naples, I took my departure for Rome, where I occupied rooms on the Via Nazionale, opposite the Plazza Venetia. I had been there but a few days when I saw at dinner the American family I have mentioned. If I had been very near them I think I should have made another attempt to form their acquaintance, but as soon as dinner was over they retired to their rooms and the next morning went sightseeing in one direction, while I went on a like errand in another.

My bed at the hotel was uncomfortable, and after tossing on small hummocks one night on arising in the morning I thought I would have a look at the mattresses to see what was the matter. Throwing back the top mattress, there on the one beneath it was a brooch set with valuable gems.

There were many supposable reasons for the brooch to be where it was. First, some guest of the hotel might have put it there temporarily for safe keeping and forgotten it. But this will not probable, for I had occupied the room for a week, and the maid who made the bed would surely have discovered it. The most likely cause for its being there was that some one had stolen it and placed it there temporarily till he or she could remove it.

I took it up and, the morning being dark, carried it to a window to have a better look at it. Feeling something I could not see tickle the back of my hand, I felt for it with the other hand and clasped a hair between my fingers. It was clinging to the brooch, and, disengaging it, I held it up between me and the window. It seemed to be yellow or golden, and, lighting a gas jet, I saw that there was a tinge of red about it. Further examination showed me that it was very like the hair of the young lady whose acquaintance I was desirous of making.

Could the brooch have been stolen from her? If so I might come to know her in either a favorable or an unfavorable light. If I could restore her property I would have an advantage; if I should stand in the position of the thief I might be landed in jail. It would seem that there was not the slightest risk of my reporting my find to the office of the hotel. But while studying my profession—the law—I had attended a number of criminal trials whereby I had learned that it might be a very easy matter for one perfectly innocent to be placed in the position of a thief. I was in possession of a valuable piece of jewelry, and I was the only person, except the thief, who knew that I had not stolen it.

Quite probably the chambermaid was the thief. She would make up the bed during the morning and, if my supposition was correct, would look for the property she had placed between the mattresses. If she did not find it there she would suppose I had taken it. What would she do? What might she do? One of the things she might do was to direct the person who had lost the brooch to me as the probable thief. I must keep her from making the bed till I had determined what course to pursue.

I detached the hair from the brooch and put it in an envelope. Then I put the brooch back between the mattresses where I had found it and got into bed again. After an hour had passed and I had come to no decision what to do in the matter I rang for a waiter and told him to bring up my breakfast. So long as the stolen property was where it had been placed by the thief he or she would not be likely to take any action involving me.

Of course there was but one thing for me to do—to ring for the landlord and show him the brooch between the mattresses. But my judgment was warped by finding the hair that made me suspect the property belonged to the American girl I have referred to. I wished to return the brooch to her myself since this would give me the acquaintance I desired and put her under some obligation to me. By such a course I was liable to get into trouble, but given a young man and a pretty girl the result is risk when there is anything to be gained or lost by risk.

I lay in bed on the treasure till noon trying to form a plan which would gain me what I desired. I came to no conclusion as to any definite action with regard to the disposition of the property I had found, but decided to change my room. I called for the landlord and told him that I wished for a room where I would get more light. He gave me one facing the street. A porter came and transferred my baggage, and I betook myself with the brooch to my new quarters. I thought I saw some advantage in this removal in the fact that in case of my being accused I could claim that the stolen property had been taken away after I had left the room. I remained in my new quarters but a few minutes, when, taking the brooch with me, I went out to my banker and asked him to deposit it with some other articles—I had made a bundle of all—in his safe.

I now felt better about the situation, for I could take my own time about the return of the brooch and could not see that there was any evidence against me that could be made available by the thief. At any rate, I was ready to take the risk of becoming involved, and since the property could not be found on me and I could establish my respectability I had not much to fear.

I did not return to my hotel till evening and went at once to bed. The next morning I lounged about the hotel, keeping my ears open for any word about stolen property, but I heard nothing and did not dare ask any questions lest my showing a knowledge of the loss should implicate me. While I was in the reading and writing room of the hotel I saw my American friends come downstairs ready to go out. The father had a long conference with the landlord, which, with other evidence I possessed, tended to the theory that the brooch in my possession belonged to the former's daughter. He left the landlord, saying loud enough for me to hear, "You may offer 10,000 francs."

This settled the matter with me. It occurred to me to make a confession then and there, but before I could bring myself to do so the four members of the family left the hotel, entered a cab and, since I went out directly behind them, I heard the gentleman direct the driver to take them to the baths of Caracalla.

Turning into the Corso Umberto, I walked to the Plazza Colonna, and, taking a seat at one of the sidewalk restaurants to be found there, I called for a liter of wine and, sipping and smoking, bethought myself what next to do. After making up my mind I returned to the hotel, looked at the register and saw the names Edward R. Larned, Mrs. Larned, Miss Larned and Ned Larned. Going to my room, I wrote to Mr. Larned, stating that a valuable brooch had come into my possession which I believed had been stolen. A hair had clung to it of a peculiar shade. I had noticed the shade of hair of the young lady belonging to his party, and since the one clinging to the brooch appeared to be of the same hue I suspected that both might be hers. If he would inform me that my surmise was correct I should be happy to restore the lost article.

I flattered myself that I had the advantage of the gentleman in not asking him to prove property. I took my note down to the landlord for delivery, then left the hotel and did not return to it till after 11 o'clock the same night.

I found Mr. Larned up waiting for me. I had no sooner entered the hotel than the landlord pointed me out to him, and, approaching me, he told me that he had received my note and that my surmise was correct. His daughter had left the brooch in her room without locking it in her trunk, as was their custom with their valuables, and it had doubtless been stolen by a servant. I told him that I was very happy to be able to restore the lost property, but could not do so till the next day since I had taken it to my banker for safe keeping. He stammered something about having offered a reward, but I pretended not to hear him, and, telling him that I would meet him with the brooch in the reading room the next day at noon, we went up to our respective rooms in the same elevator.

When I delivered the brooch the next day Mr. Larned said that his daughter desired an opportunity to thank me for returning it, and he invited me to lunch with his family. It is needless to say that I accepted the invitation and received a charming smile from the young lady as well as her thanks.

"How lucky," she said, "that one of my hairs clung to the brooch! Had it not been so I presume I would not have recovered my property."

She evidently did not consider that it was my bounden duty on finding the brooch to turn it over to the landlord, and I did not enlighten her.

"I had remarked," I said, "the similarity of your hair to that in Titian's portraits, and since the single hair was the same I was sure the property was yours."

"Have you the hair with you?"

"I have not."

"I should like to see it."

"I shall be pleased to show it to you, but you must remember that a woman usually goes with restored property."

I knew that she understood, for she dropped her eyes, and when she spoke again she changed the subject.

That was how I secured an introduction to the American girl and how I found my wife, for after traveling several months in company we returned to America engaged.

MUSIC

Music is a job lot of vibrations furnished to hotels and restaurants for the purpose of adding to the discomfort of the guests. Music is also used for other purposes. It comes in pianos, harps and organs and sometimes, though rarely, in human beings and phonographs. Babies often furnish music when least expected, and at hours not always approved of by respectable people.

Music at one time was called a heavenly maid. But she is now mostly clothed in rag-time and is known as flossy. In short, music has run the scale from classic to classy.

Like eggs and other historic back numbers, music is now kept in cold storage and comes in reels and cans. Handmade music is gradually being superseded by the factory-made article.

At one time music, singular as it may seem, was used to make music. Now it is used to make a noise.

OLYMPIC SWIMMER GIVES ADVICE TO THOSE BEGINNING

Harry Hebner, of the Illinois Athletic Club, Olympic champion in swimming on the back, holder af the world's 220-yard free style record, and international leader in all-round watermanship, is a firm believer in the supremacy of the crawl stroke both for pleasure swimming and for racing. Speaking recently of the methods he follows and of the type of crawl which he thinks yields best results, he said:

"It seems to me quite obvious that the crawl, which has enabled competent swimmers to smash so many records, is the logical stroke for every one to adopt. A racing man succeeds because the movements he makes allows him to travel faster and with less expenditure of power than do those of his rivals, and there is no reason why the crawl should not be as valuable to the average individual as it is to the contestant, seeing that it carries along comfortably and at good speed. Nor is it more difficult to learn than other less effective strokes.

"In my opinion the ordinary crawl, known as the American variety in this country, is best for the sprints; the trudgeon crawl for the longer distances, at least up to one mile. The former is performed by driving alternately and equi-distantly with the arms, while the legs thrash up and down, also alternately and continuously. Both arms are used similarly, starting comfortably outstretched in front of the head, with elbow slightly raised, then driving down and back under the body until near the hip, when the hand is brought out of the water and carried forward above the surface, a bit bent, to original position. The head is held erect and one breathes by twisting it and inhaling while the top arm is driving, then turning back and exhaling under water while the same arm is recovering.

"The legs beat up and down, with toes pointing back and knees bending but little. The opening should be narrow and the action rather fast. I take two downward strokes of each leg to each single drive of an arm. As to the arm strokes, I average about seven for the length of a sixty-foot pool in racing 100 yards.

"The trudgeon crawl is only different from the American stroke on one point. Instead of the usual thrash, a small, scissors-like kick is introduced as the top arm drives, as in swimming the trudgeon. This kick is hardly perceptible in sprinting, being a mere emphasising of the time; but when the distance increases the scissors should be widened accordingly by degrees and the strength and width of following thrash reduced in proportion.

"Until one has thoroughly mastered the crawl, it is advisable to go easy stretches, paying close attention to form and not attempting any speed work. And even after one has attained proficiency it will do no harm to alternate slow and fast practices in the early stages of training in order to eliminate the least faulty movement."

GETTING A START

By
NATHANIEL C. FOWLER JR.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

As an employee, you will work in close proximity to your fellows, to the head of your department, the manager, the superintendent, or the proprietor himself. If you are a stenographer, you will, while taking dictation, occupy a chair close to the one who is dictating to you.

Your personal appearance and your habits will be noted, consciously or subconsciously, by those about you.

Probably you have some mannerisms; and, perhaps, objectionable ones. Possibly you do not realise that you have them, because no one has called your attention to the fact.

I recall a former secretary, a thoroughly competent young woman, whose mannerisms got on my nerves. She had the habit of biting her nails, and she did it constantly and unconsciously.

Others, both men and women, are constantly cleaning their nails, pressing down the cuticle, or going through the motions. This irritates nervous people, and most employers are nervous.

Three-quarters of the women are continually arranging their hair and putting it in order, pushing loose locks back into place. This is one of the least objectionable habits, but it is annoying to most men, and to women, too.

If your hair is unruly fasten it back, if you have to tie it.

Don't think, my men readers, that women are more prone to mannerisms than you are. Practically every man has a habit just as objectionable as the follies of women.

Thousands of men, unconsciously are continually clearing their throats, and there is no harmony or music in urgling, coughing, or choking. Occasionally this is necessary, but there is no excuse for making it a confirmed habit.

Observation indicates that a quarter of the men play with their watch fobs and chains. If your employer is thinking deeply, even this slight habit may annoy and irritate him.

Many men and women rub their faces, scratch their noses, wipe their mouths, stroke their chins. Avoid this, if you can.

Most offices are poorly ventilated. Don't vitiate the air with perfumery. The profuse use of perfume is a habit and there is no excuse for it. Few men object to a delicate odour of good perfume on a woman, but every decent person despises a scented man.

Another bad habit is the lack of cleanliness. Some people cannot avoid an unpleasant odour, but the liberal use of soap and water is usually sufficient to do away with this. If careful washing is not efficacious, see your physician. He probably can remedy the trouble. Don't let perfumery take the place of water. It won't.

If you must chew gum, chew it at home, but never in the office. Thousands of young men and women have been refused promotion, especially if they were stenographers, because of the gum-chewing habit, which is, perhaps, the most irritating of all to those who have to witness it.

Don't pick your teeth in public. Nothing is more irritating and disgusting than the carrying of a toothpick in the mouth.

When you start in to work, be prepared for work with your shoes shined and your clothes brushed, and don't complete your toilet while keeping books or taking dictation.

Do your home-work at home.

Renovating Matting.

Matting faded and worn, but still too good to be thrown away, can be made to look almost like new. Scrub it thoroughly and let it dry, then go over entire matting with green dye, using a soft, broad paint brush. A gallon of dye of the kind used for cotton goods may be made out of one package costing ten cents. Both the Crex and fibre rugs can be treated in the same manner.

PRESENT DAY HATS AND STYLES IN HAIR DRESSING CAUSE LOSS OF HAIR

We Cannot Change the Styles, But We Can Check Falling Hair

Up to the time we began to civilize him a bald headed Indian was a thing unknown. Wearing nothing on his head except the covering furnished by nature and being a stranger to the use of a hair brush, especially the public one, the scalp and hair had plenty of ventilation, much sunlight and, hence, a condition favourable to a luxuriant growth of hair existed at all times.

It was the adoption of air and light excluding head gears and artificial head decorations generally, together with the occasional use of a community hair brush, which gave the dandruff germ its opportunity. Since this parasite has multiplied to an alarming degree until now there is hardly a person who is not troubled more or less with dandruff and falling hair.

Many, to be sure, have passed the worrying stage. Having become chronically bald they realize that nothing is capable of producing natural hair for them. Let these be a warning to all who are experiencing the significant annoyance of dandruff and falling hair.

Dandruff, which is due to a germ, and falling hair can both be overcome by the regular use of Newbro's Herpicide.

This wonderful scalp remedy frees the scalp of all dandruff and stops the hair from coming out. The destruction of the germ permits the hair to grow naturally and luxuriantly as nature intends.

Herpicide makes the hair bright, snappy, light and fluffy.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications obtained at the better barber shops and hair dressing parlours.

Send 10c in stamps or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

FACTS!

That's What Skin Sufferers Should Know--THE FACTS--
For 15 Years D. D. D. Prescription Has Been the Standard--Now Read

It is in this last decade of medical research that internal drugs have proven as worthless for skin disease as for toothache.

It is also in our modern rush of medical enlightenment that salves and ointments have been discarded. First, because they cannot penetrate the tissues correctly; second, because they clog the deep pores of the skin and imprison the disease germs.

To affect a cure of skin trouble the remedy must be in fluid form. This statement, now proven, was first made 15 years ago by a famous skin specialist and it was his tireless work that resulted in the discovery of D. D. D. Prescription, a simple, soothing, cooling wash.

Apply D. D. D. to the skin and see how the itch is gone—instantly—the moment the liquid is applied.

Then see anyone who has used D. D. D. according to directions and ask if the cure was not permanent.

Remember: D. D. D. Prescription has been recognized as the standard skin remedy for many years, while imitations in liquid form as well as salves and "blood" cures have come and gone.

Druggists generally carry D. D. D. and we recommend it strongly. If you have any kind of skin blemish, rash, or insect bite—no matter how slight—Call at our store and ask us about D. D. D. Prescription.

Ask us also about D. D. D. Soap—a specific for tender skins.

The first full size bottle is sold with the guarantee that unless it is effective in your own case, your money will be refunded. You alone to judge.

MYSTERY AND NEED OF THE DISSECTION OF HUMAN SUBJECTS

Dissecting, which is one of the most important phases of the training of medical students, has always seemed a rather horrible pursuit to the ordinary layman. Cutting up dead bodies to see exactly how they were made is usually considered a ghoulish custom. People with a taste for old novels will recall that a century ago grave robbing was the customary evening occupation of medical students. But this has disappeared now, along with hanging for sheep stealing, bear baiting, and similar fine old customs, but the modern generation of budding medicos are apparently as anxious as ever to keep up the atmosphere of romantic horror which marks them off as beings apart.

ROMANCE HAS DEPARTED.

Unfortunately for romance, the dissecting room is no longer a chamber of horrors. A certain statute called "The Anatomy Act," enforced by inspectors throughout the Province, regulates the supply, treatment and disposal of subjects with considerable strictness. A new generation of students less habituated to barbarism than the students of by-gone days has arisen. New buildings have been provided. A larger staff of professors and demonstrators has made close supervision possible. Modern scientific methods have eliminated the odoriferous features. In a word, the modern dissecting room is a place of scientific study, and the ancient picturesqueness has almost entirely departed.

The dissecting room at the University of Toronto is a long light room on the top floor of the Biological building. A double row of small tables and two large chests comprise the apparatus. In the neighbourhood of 125 students can be accommodated. Eight students are assigned to each "subject." Four of them work on the upper half, four on the lower half. When the first subject is completely dissected, the men who did the lower half begin on the upper half of subject number 2, and vice versa. Each group of eight students dissect two subjects in the course of a year.

BECOME KEENLY INTERESTED

The work does not look nearly so horrible as it sounds, and, according to most medical students, does not feel horrible at all. "After the first incision," one doctor told The Star, "all feeling of repulsion disappeared. We all became so keenly interested in the knowledge we were acquiring that we had no thought of anything else. Tracing the course of the smallest nerves, picking out the different blood vessels, seeing how the layers of muscles fitted into each other, was so absorbing that we soon came to have an impersonal, purely scientific feeling."

The olfactory nerves are not so disagreeably affected in the dissecting room as one might believe from the epic, narratives of the average student. The subjects have all been embalmed for some months with carbolic acid and glycerine, and are well mummified. The atmosphere of the room is heavy, but not uncleanly.

The caretaker and official embalmer, "George," who has been in the service of the University for 25 years, declares that it is positively beneficial. "That smell is healthy," he told The Star. "I've seen chaps come up to the dissecting room at first looking pale and sick, and after six months' work there they've looked fat and ruddy. And I've not wasted away under it."

USE UNCLAIMED BODIES.

"George" receives the bodies from the official anatomy inspector, and embalms them in a special room in the basement. The bodies used, according to the Anatomy Act, must be some of inmates of public institutions without relatives or friends to claim them. Local anatomy inspectors, generally local undertakers, take charge of these bodies, and report to the chief anatomy inspector. The latter turns them over to the University authorities. Professor McMurrich, head of the Department of Anatomy, enters the names of all bodies received, and "George" starts to work embalming them, and they are then stored away for future use.

GREAT CARE DISPLAYED.

As the subjects are required, they are taken upstairs to the dissecting room. The care which is taken of them does not end as they are gradually dissected. Detached limbs are kept in a large box, and carefully labelled. When a subject has been completely dissected, the remains are gathered together, put in a rough coffin, and turned over to an undertaker for interment. The Anatomy Act does not allow of cremation; burial is insisted on.

The records kept by the University authorities are very complete. Every body that has been turned over to the University for years past can be accounted for minutely. According to Professor McMurrich, it is absolutely impossible for a student to abstract a body, or even a large portion of a body, from the building. Ghoul stories, he declares, are without foundation in fact.

Medical students like to stuff people with wild yarns," he said, "and often it is astonishing what they can get people to believe. I remember one weird story about the students at Michigan University that was printed in half the papers of the States. It was, of course, utterly without foundation. Some medical students had got hold of the local college reporter, who, by the way, was a law student, and filled him up with the yarn."

One way to dodge a breach of promise suits is to buy a wedding ring.

Received Fortunes From Three Men Who Died By Poisoning

CHICAGO, May 8.—De Lancy H. Louderback, Ravenswood capitaist, and former associate of Charles T. Yerkes, has produced another romance and added another fortune to a woman both of whose husbands died by poison.

Mr. Louderback, in his will, bequeathed Mrs. Minnie Wallace Walkup Ketcham, now in Europe, the use for life of one-fourth of his fortune, variously estimated at from $100,000 to $4,000,000.

Mrs. Ketcham, noted Southern beauty, was tried for the murder of her first husband by poison, and given unpleasant notoriety in connection with the death of her second husband.

The family of Louderback, it is said, may enter the courts in an effort to strike her name from the will. In that case she will come to this country to fight for her inheritance.

It is said that of all the women Mr. Louderback knew during his life, none held him in the spell which Mrs. Ketcham wove about him. Close friends say, when the estate is settled, it will be found to have dwindled to almost one-fourth of what it once was because of Mrs. Louderback's lavish presents to Mrs. Ketcham and her friends.

It is said that Mr. Louderback made numerous proposals of marriage to Mrs. Ketcham and that she refused all of them, the last refusal being sent by cable a few days before the capitalist died.

Death by poison seems to have woven itself in and out and about the strange life of Mrs. Ketcham.

As a young girl, Minnie Wallace, a beauty, lived with her mother in obscure quarters in New Orleans. There in 1885 she met James R. Walkup, a wealthy cattle dealer and former Mayor of Emporia, Kan. At the age of sixteen she married Walkup, a big robust man of fifty-two years.

Within a month of the marriage Walkup died of poisoning by arsenic. His child-wife was accused and the trial became one of the most famous in the court history of the State.

When the trial opened William Jay who was three-score years old, famous lawyer of the day, believed he saw the light of innocence in the girl's eyes. He spent more than $4,000 in defending her, and upon her acquittal aided her in gaining full possession of her dead husband's fortune.

For the next five years the young widow travelled in Europe extensively, returning to her old home in New Orleans for the winter of 1891-92. The following year she bought a home at No. 3421 Indiana Avenue, Chicago. Here she met John B. Ketcham, a wealthy retired millionaire lumberman. He was almost three times as old as she.

His mariage to the then Mrs. Walkup followed a quiet elopement to Milwaukee. Not long afterward he died suddenly from poisoning. The community was surprised when Mrs. Walkup claimed she was the dead man's wife and showed a marriage certificate to prove her claim.

George Ketcham, of Toronto, a brother of the dead man, started a contest of the will, but did not carry out his intention. The widow inherited thousands of dollars from the estate.

Meagre details of Louderback's life in his secret apartment on the third flor of the Vehon Building, at No. 1042 Wilson Avenue, came to light after his death.

The aged millionaire maintained two homes for nearly three years—his 'crystal palace' at No. 4918 North Bernard Street and the luxurious nook in the Vehon Building, the existence of which was not suspected even by his closest friends.

THE NEWSPAPERS BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM

J. C. Kirkwood Tells Members of Local Ad. Club of the Advantage of Using Newspapers.

TALK ON SALESMANSHIP

Last night the local Ad. Club gathered in full force in Coleman's Palm Parlours, where a very interesting address on "Salesmanship" was given by Mr. J. C. Kirkwood. Mr. Kirkwood was formerly advertising counsel of the great Harmsworth Publications in London, England, owned by Lord Northcliffe, and besides that has had much experience in advertising in America. The result was that he treated his subject from the practical standpoint and there was very much in his brief talk for the local business men.

The luncheon, provided byMessrs. Coleman Bros., was well served.

Mr. Kirkwood, last night emphasized the value of newspaper advertising, and his talk consisted of a number of illustrations of what different forms of advertising had done for various merchants, and where salesmanship had been used effectively. But newspaper advertising was, he was convinced, the greatest advertising medium of all. Some retailers had their regular customers and each morning the customers would receive a visit from a representative of the retailer. The telephone was used for this purpose, too, but there were many customers who did not have a telephone in their home. The newspaper introduced the goods to every homie, but a salesman with initiative could sell goods to customers, who before they entered the store had not intended to buy the goods at all. Advertising was a sure method of reaching the most people and giving them a picture of the goods.

A clerk behind a counter could not be the best salesman. His opportunities were limited because he had to wait for trade to come to him. He had to depend on window displays and the newspaper advertising to get the customers within reach. The real salesman was the man who got out and induced the man to buy whether he had intended to or not. The speaker here referred to the book agen. Before a book agent went out into the world to sell his goods he was carefully schooled; he had his arguments, his tricks and his ability. He knew his business from the ground up. He could answer all the questions that were put to him in the course of his work because he had studied the business and knew the advantages of his own offer and the disadvantages of others. The editor of a newspaper who increased its circulation by brightening up the paper was a salesman.

The lawyer who won a case in Court was a salesman because he had convinced the Court that he was right. A salesman's success depended largely in getting the prospective buyer to agree with him.

Aggressiveness and initiative were great requirements. The man who had ambition and wit and go in him could sell where others who had not those characteristics would fail. A lesson in salesmanship had been taught by a florist who had conceived the idea of Mothers' Day.

On the other hand the advertising man was a big factor. To illustrate this he told how the advertisement of the Eastman Camera "Just press the button, we do the rest" came to be used. When Eastman had perfected his invention he decided to advertise but at that time the market was swamped with cameras, so that the ad. men thought the project was doomed to failure. But during a conversation to-day. The large and small said: "Just press the button." The ad. man immediatey took it up and that was the neucleus of the great advertising campaign for the Eastman camera.

More than by any other means the bicycle and auto were sold by advertising tod-ay. The large and small advertisements depicted the advantages of the various makes of automobiles, their comfort, their time-saving and other benefits.

At the conclusion of the address, Mr. D. O. Cameron, president of the Ad. Club thanked the speaker for his address and expressed the gratitude of the Club for the fund of practical suggestions it contained. He also urged those present to work to enlarge the membership of the club.

FISH INSPECTOR CAUGHT TWO MEN

Fish Inspector Thompson caught two Bensfort men with a lunge several days ago, and the usual course of the law in such cases followed. The fishermen were slowly paddling around Kent's bay near the Bensfort Bridge when they saw two lunge. A moment's hesitation and the spear, or whatever it was, shot home. The men paddled to shore and tied the fish to a tree, foolishly leaving them in the water. They paddled to the wharf to get several packages, and on returning failed to find the fish. While they were hunting around Inspector Thompson arrived, and it was all over.

MR. JOS. MANTELL IS 105 YEARS ON SUNDAY

Former Peterboro Citizen is Remarkably Preserved—Planted His Garden and is in Good Health.

"DON'T WORRY" HIS MOTTO

Mr. Joseph Mantell, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, will celebrate his one hundred and fifth birthday to-morrow (Sunday, May 10). He will be remembered particularly by the residents of Charlotte Street, where he lived for several years with his grand-daughter, Mrs. J. C. Edwards. When he passed the century mark the Examiner was privileged to secure an interesting interview with the old gentleman. Mr. J. C. Edwards, his grandson-in-law, was engaged at the time as advertising manager with A. W. Cressman and Sons.

Mr. Mantell is still hale and hearty and retains a mental keenness practically as unimpaired as that of a man of thirty. His hearing is slightly affected, but apart from that he shows no signs of having crossed the century mark. Since leaving Peterborough, several years ago, he has held the vitality he possessed at that time.

HIS SECRET IS "DON'T WORRY"

To the Examiner to-day Mr. Edwards stated that Mr. Mantell's secret of longevity has been "never worry." He has carried out this idea consistently, and is looking forward to a continuation of his present well-being.

This spring he planted a small garden, according to a long established custom, and already some of his vegetables are above ground. Mr. Edwards stated that Mr. Mantell declares he is feeling better this spring than for several recent springs he has enjoyed.

His many friends and acquaintances in Peterborough will undoubtedly join in spirit to-morrow in his quiet celebration, and will wish him a continuance of the health he has enjoyed.

Don't Miss The New Story

Don't miss the opening instalment of the Examiner's new serial story, "The Terms of Surrender," which appears on page two of this issue. You will find it an entrancing romance.

NEW MOVING PICTURE HOUSE

Progress Being Made With Dr. Robinson's New Theatre

The City centre continues to shift. Charlotte Street is becoming more and more commercialized. Among evidences of this is the new range of shop buildings in front of the curling rink and next door west the fine new moving picture theatre now being constructed by Dr. Robinson. This is fast taking shape and though it is too early to see the result, it promises to be an ornament to the street in outward appearance and the last word in convenience, commodiousness and stability. Dr. Robinson intends it to be a select family moving picture house. It is claimed that it will combine all the latest improvements in such structures and the class of pictures will correspond to the character of the building.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9—The mediators to-day notified Secretary of State Bryan, officially, that the despatch of additional troops to Vera Cruez, at the present time, would complicate the situation. Bryan assured them that no such movement was contemplated.

President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan decline to admit that the Mexican situation is any more ominous to-day than for a week back. Bryan stated this morning he was bending his energies toward the appointment of satisfactory delegates to the peace conference at Niagara Falls, Ontario. One of the President's closest friends said this morning: "All this war talk originates with officials in the War and Navy departments.

TERRIFIC EARTHQUAKE

One Hundred People Killed and Many More Injured in Sicily

Examiner Special:

ACIREALE, SICILY, (May 9.— One hundred persons were killed and many more injured as a result of a terrific earthquake which shook a score of towns and villages in this section, which is adjacent to Mount Aetna, last night. Two towns, with a population of a thousand or more, were completely destroyed and the majority of the inhabitants are being cared for here. Others were caught by falling walls and swallowed up in great yawning crevices and were unable to escape. Sobbing refugees, many of whom have lost loved ones, are met along every road leading away from Mount Aetna. Before every wayside shrine priests are gathered with groups of refugees wildly petitioning the intervention of the Virgin Mary in the calamity falling upon them.

Signal System Being Repaired

The Street Railway Company, the Bell Telephone Company, the Peterborough Light and Power Cofpany and the C.P.R. Telegraph Company are by no means the only organization affected by the street paving now under way. A gang of men are at present at work on the signal system at the Grand Trunk crossing at Charlotte Street so as to make the underground portion of it invulnerable by the frost or water. Formerly the signals in connection with the gates there, and the gates, too, were operated by chains. Cables have been now substituted for chains, and the cables are incased in pipes of considerable size. These pipes are kept full of oil in the winter so that the water cannot get in and freeze the cables. Usually the frost and water causes much trouble in the winter, and as the pavement is being laid it would be difficult to remedy the matter in the future. Hence the change to avoid trouble in the cold seasons.

THE CONDITIONS

The Industrial Exhibition of Peterborough, each year, offers a large amount of money as prizes to farmers in this County, producing the best crops of oats, barley and potatoes. This year, $225 is being destributed, and $75 is being given in each class.

At least five acres of oats or barley must be raised for inspection, or one acre of potatoes. The first prize in each class is $20. Other prizes are—$15, $12, $10, $8, $5, $4.

No entrance fee is charged, the only condition having to be complied with is that the farmer competing must be a member of the Exhibition, which costs but one dollar. Most of the farmers are already members. It practically means that a farmer is put to no more trouble than he usually is in seeding his crops, and if he should take a little more care he is repaid by the return he makes from his crops. The only thing the farmers have to do is to go to the Secretary, F. J. A. Hall, and obtain an entry blank, and there is no reason why any farmer in the district should not enter.

The Government will send a judge who determines who wins the prizes. As a general rule, the winners of the prizes for oats in this district are usually in good standing with the best in the Province of Ontario.

ERIE'S SHADE TREES PLEASED PETERBOROITES

WILL CONSIDER FRATERNAL DAY

Meeting of Representatives of Fraternal Societies Will Be Held Tonight in the S. O. E. Hall for the Purpose of Deciding Question

MUCH WORK HAS BEEN DONE

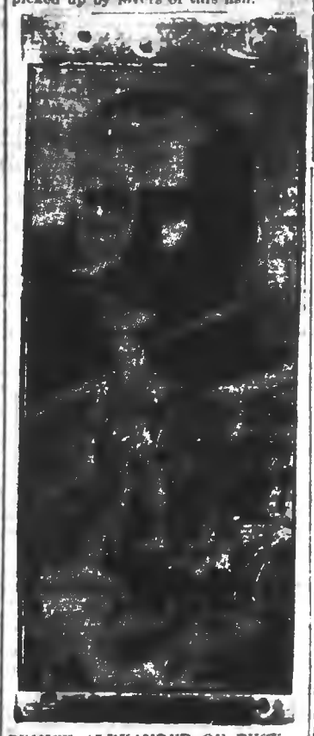
A meeting of representatives of the various fraternal societies of the city will be held this evening commencing at 8 o'clock in the S.O.E. Hall, Hunter street, to go into the details of the consideration of holding a united parade or service in which all the societies would take part.

The acting secretary, Mr. Tom Hendry, has written all the societies requesting that they be represented this evening and the Ministerial Association have been approached. All the necessary information will be ready to-night and it is expected that the sentiment of all the societies will be in favour of the proposal.

Big Market This Morning

This morning's market was one of the largest of the season, the farmers taking advantage of the beautiful weather condifions to come to town. There were large quantities of produce offered at reasonable prices. Butter was plentiful at from twenty-five to twenty-seven cents, while eggs were about the same as last week, twenty and twenty-two cents per dozen. Chickens were scarce at 75 cents and one dollar apiece, and only one turkey was offered, the price asked being $3.50.

As is usual every spring at this time large consignments of Lake Ontario mullett are offered on the local market by fish vendors, and are quickly picked up by lovers of this fish.



PRINCE ALEXANDER OF TECK.—Who will assume the position of Governor-General of Canada, in October next.

Mile After Mile of Smoothly Paved Heavily Shaded Roadways in the Residential Section.

AN OBJECT LESSON

The deputation of Peterborough citizens who visited Erie for the opening ball game this week, saw an object lesson in civic beautifying that greatly impressed every member of the contingent. Erie might well be called the City of Trees. In the residential sections there are miles upon miles of shade trees, the whole effect being highly pleasing. Erie has builded well in this regard. The residential streets are paved with asphalt. On each side of the street are boulevards studded with maple trees, while on the inside of the sidewalk is another line of beautiful trees, the result being that both sidewalk and roadways are shaded. The driveway is, of course, narrowed by this arrangement, being not as wide as on the local streets, but there is ample space for vehicles and the road is wide enough for a residential section. As one stands on a street-corner and looks down a smoothly paved street with double rows of shade trees on either side, the effect is a magnificent one. Streets like these are not an isolated instance in Erie; there are street after street of this character.

Mayor Buller and the other Peterborough residents were greatly impressed with the arrangement.

Re Toronto's Hydro Rates Reductions

Conservative Mayor Hocken Declares the Ordered Schedule of Rates as Most Unscientific

Mayor Hocken declared yesterday to The Toronto Star that the reductions ordered by the Provincial Hydro Commission in Toronto's hydro rates were in some cases nearer 20 per cent. than 10 per cent.; in fact, he pointed out that the reduction in commercial power was 25 per cent. He stated that the reduction schedule is worked out in a most unscientific way.

Discussing the depreciation rates, he pointed out that the average set by the Provincial Commission was an average of 5 per cent.

"Our depreciations averages 4 3-4 per cent., so that we are not putting as much away for depreciation as the Provincial Commission say we should. They point out that Toronto is different to other places, and does not need so high a depreciation rate."

Referring to a morning paper statement, that land and buildings are not depreciable property, the Mayor said that $30,000 had been spent on improving the Yonge Street shop, on which there is only a 10-year lease, and that this sum of money must be liquidated before the lease expires.

"The Mayor described the story in an evening paper that the city would appeal to the Privy Council as "crazy" and "rot." "It is manufactured out of the wholecloth. The man who wrote it must have been suffering from hydrophobia. He has the rabies."

IT WAS HARD LUCK

A piece of hard luck befel a young married man who has been out of work for a long time and received his first pay this spring yesterday. He had his wages, amounting to $15.00, in his pocket only a few hours when it was lost some place between Water and Albert Streets. The money was loose and might not be found all in one place. It would be doing a good turn if the finder would return it to this office, where the unfortunate workman will get it.

A LAW AGAINST TIPPING WILL NOT BE UNWELCOME TO THOSE WHO EXPECT TIPS BUT DO NOT GET THEM IN THIS TOWN

The law making tipping an offence will probably be welcomed in Peterborough by those who may get an odd tip or two in future from those who dearly love to break the law. There may be a few tips handed out around the pike, the shoe shining fraternity may make an extra nickel now and then, a few cab drivers have had a little extra change thrust upon them, now and then one hears a newsboy shouting his elation at some little touch of generosity in the form of a couple of cents, and the posties received a little dole at Christmas, although there was a holler from some person.

But if the law is passed, there will be the excitement of breaking it and that goes a long way in this vicinity. Every by-law on the map is kicked around with unfailing regularity, but much familiarity has spent the excitement. The bunch need something new and the tipping bill will invite the boys to take a chance.

Tipping does not thrive in a community where everybody knows who you are and where you were last night. It's in the big strange town where a waiter can put on a frosty frown and get away with it, or a barber give you a rough passage. That is when the "homebung" boys loosen, but around home it really needs the by-law to shake out a few shekles in the form of tips.

MILITARY MADNESS.

The Toronto News naively says that "the attack on Col. Hughes" over the militia estimates "is resented by Conservatives." The Conservatives would be better employed in joining with reasonable and right-thinking electors in resenting the wasteful extravagance represented by an expenditure of 14 million dollars in one year on military defence. Millions of persons, who have as deep a love for their country and hold its defence as dear as Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, "resent" as great expenditure, upon unnecessary defence preparations. This is done with a falling revenue, and with a clamant necessity for the use of public money for purposes of development. The militia expenses are now about double per year of what they were under the Laurier Government, and Mr. Borden declared that to be extravagance so great as to be tantamount to corruption. If the militia expenditures were reduced from 14 to 7 millions a year, the amount saved would be enough to complete the Trent Canal from lake to lake. That would be of infinitely more importance to Peterborough, to the riding that Col. Hughes represents, and to the country at large, than a hundred drill halls. Nobody "resents" a reasonable expenditure upon our militia, but everybody "resents" the course of the Minister of Militia in seeking, by dint of out-pouring public money, to make the whole population of Canada as military mad as himself. No man and no man's action, so forcibly recall the words of Shakespere as Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes—

CONGRATULATIONS.

On Thursday, Sarnia had the honour of being launched upon the troubled sea of cityhood by His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, aided and abetted by the charming Princess Patricia. The Examiner had the honour of an official invitation, to assist on the auspicious occasion; but as the card arrived the same day of the inauguration, and our airship being out of order, the invitation was per force only accepted, in spirit, and our sympathy goes with our cordial congratulations. The baby city of Ontario is a fine, thriving municipality, the capital of a beautiful and fertile farming district. Beautifully situated on the river St. Clair it is an important shipping port and has of late years grown in importance and population, this being about 10,000. The city of Sarnia derives its name from the township of that ilk in Lambton county. Sir John Colborne, before he occupied the position of governor of Canada, was governor of the island of Guernsey, whose name under the Roman occupation was "Sarnia." Guernsey has a genial climate and fig-trees, myrtles and oranges grow luxuriantly there. Lambton is also in the peach belt, having perhaps the mildest climate in Ontario, and no doubt Sir John Colborne was reminded of Guernsey—Sarnia—and very appositely gave the name to one of the townships. Sarnia deserves to prosper, both for its name's sake and its genial climate, and also for the general high character of its political history. That great and honest man, the stone-hewer statesman, Alexander Mackenzie, came to reside in Sarnia as early as the year '47, and as a stone mason, built up Sarnia materially and gave it and the county of Lambton the strong Liberal bias which is one of the glories of the county. Hon. Alex. Mackenzie represented Lambton in the Canadian Assembly from '61 to '67 and in the House of Commons from Confederation till 1882. When the county was divided into two ridings, the east forgot some of the lessons of Mackenzie, and East Lambton has pretty nearly divided its allegiance, returning Grit and Tory members, alternately almost for many years. West Lambton, however, has stood true to the colours of Mackenzie and has been represented in the House of Commons continuously since Confederation by Liberal representatives, the present Liberal member being a resident of the City of Sarnia, Mr. F. F. Pardee. In provincial politics, East Lambton, while it returns a Conservative member to the Commons, sends a Liberal to Toronto and good old Liberal West Lambton is represented by Hon. W. J. Hanna, provincial secretary and limelight cluder, who also resides in the city of Sarnia, and is a Conservative. In spite of that our congratulations go out to Sarnia, and our best wishes for a prosperous and successful civic future.

It takes a sensible woman to generate silence.

AN HISTORIC HOME IN OLD ENGLAND

Leeds Castle in Kent "The Garden of England"

Sir Martin Conway has been contributing to Country Life some illuminating articles, excellently illustrated, on Leeds Castle, Maidstone, Kent.

The little Village of Leeds, Kent, must not be confused with the large city of the same name, in Yorkshire, famous for woollen manufacture and machine tools.

"Motorists driving along the road from London to Folkestone, perhaps the most frequented motoring route in England, may" he says, "catch a momentary glimpse through an opening in a pine wood of the loveliest castle, as thus beheld, in the whole world." Many other famous castles he names, only to declare that they are "not comparable for beauty with Leeds, beheld among the waters on an autumn evening when the bracken is golden, and there is a faint blue mist among the trees, and the sky beyond it glows with colour," and "as I have stood enraptured," he writes, "it has seemed to me passing strange that car after car should hurry by and the soiled study, thickly clad passengers be without a glance to spare for this sight of sights, while most of them gaze fixedly at the road ahead, as though the devouring of that were the only purpose of their travel."

The oldest now definitely dateable parts, continues the writer belong to the time of its acquisition by the King, but other existing parts of uncertain date are easier. Edward presented it to Queen Eleanor, and, after her death, to his second wife, Margaret. It also belonged in turn to the Queen of Edward II., Henry IV. and Henry VI., but after the death of Catherine of Vaois is reverted to the Crown, and the use of it was granted from time to time to successive servants of the King, such as Ralph, St. Leger of Ulcombe and Sir Thomas Bouchier. In the great days of the Plantagenets Leeds was the scene of many a noble assemblage of princes and knights. Once, in 1321, the King had to besiege and take it that his Queen, "the she-wolf of France," might obtain entry to her own; then only, so far as I have read, was it the focus of war. In the days of Richard II. that admirable chronicler, Froissart, spent four days there, bringing with him a book to offer to the King. In 1416 Leeds was visited by Sigismond, "Emperor of Almayne," on his way from London out of Engand, after a brief visit to Henry V.

After a period of relative neglect Henry VIII. cast a favouring eye upon Leeds. He appointed as Constable Sir Henry Guildford, K.G. (known by his Holbein portrait), "a lusty young man and well beloved of the King," and under his oversigh a large expenditure was made on Leeds. But this time of renewed Royal favour was short, for Edward VI., in 1551-2, granted "the castle and neighbouring abbey to Sir Anthony St. Leger of Ulcombe (an ancestor of the Dukes of Rutland and Leeds), whose grandson exchanged it, early in the seventeenth century with Sir Richard Smith, a near relation of his wife. The Smiths in the third generation sold it to Sir Thomas Colepeper; but, though holding it for but a short time, they left their mark on it, by converting the principal lodging into a fine Jacobean residence, now utterly vanished away.

The Colepepers in those days were a family ubiquitous in Kent; four different branches of Colepepers owned great estates, which have all passed out of the hands of their descendants, the name no longer, I believe surviving in the county. The son of Sir Thomas sold Leeds to their cousin, the first Lord Colepeper, who was one of the most confidential advisers of Charles I. He attached himself to the Prince of Wales in his adversity, conducted him in safety to France, and remained with him in exile, so that Leeds can have seen but little of him. The second Lord Colepeper was Governor of Virginia (1675), where he obtained a vast estate. His only daughter was married to the fifth Lord Fairfax, to whom she conveyed estates in Kent Yorkshire and Virginia. He died in 1709. The sixth lord emigrated to Virginia, but his brother, the seventh Lord Fairfax, lived at Leeds, received George III. there, and made extensive alterations in the place, which did not please Horace Walpole. "The Fairfaxes," he wrote, "had fitted up a pert, bad apartment in the fore part of the Castle. . . . They had a gleam of Gothic in their eyes, but it soon passed off into some modern windows and some that never were ancient." In laying out the park he had the help of "Capability Brown," and the result, as man today, is very beautiful. The eighth Lord was an American clergyman, cousin of the seventh, and the title abides in his descendants, but the property passed to the daughter of the seventh Lord. She married the Rev. Denny Martin, representative of an old Kentish family seated at Loose.

The Yorkshire estates had been sold in the interests of the Virginia property, which was wrecked by the American Revolution, what remained being sold to the famous Chief Justice Marshall of the United States. General Philip Martin was the next owner of Leeds, where his hat still commemorates him. It is the hat he wore at the Siege of Gibraltar, and from which a cannon ball took off the cockade. He died in 1807, and, having no near relatives with Colepeper blood, he left Leeds and £30,000 to be spent in restoring the castle, to Mr. Fiennes Wykeham, who was his only relation on his father's side. His grandmother was descended from the Viscounts Say and Sele, who, I believe, in their turn, were descendants of earlier owners of Leeds Castle. Mr. Wykeham changed his name to Wykeham Martin, and duly spent the £30,000. His son Charles succeeded him in 1840, and piously recorded all the foregoing and many other facts connected with the history of the castle in a fine quarto volume, published in 1869, and illustrated with some excellent photographs, which, in my copy, at any rate, retain their sharpness to the present day and have not faded. He was very proud of these photographs, and thought it possible that some of them might outlast parts, at any rate, of the castle itself. One of the present writer's earliest political reminiscences is a Parliamentary election at Rochester before the days of the ballot, when Mr. Wykeham Martin was one of the successful candidates. His son is Squire of Leeds to-day, and in him the ancient castle has a pious protector.

After referring to the barbican, which he describes as one of the most interesting fragments of mediæval military architecture in England, the writer goes on to state that the main bridge to the gate-house recalls the names of Aylmer de Valance and Evelyn (of the "Diary"), the former having damaged it with the weight of his military train, the latter having repaired it centuries later.

Having passed through this building, the visitor emerges into a fair open space with a central lawn covered and shaded by the last of some great cedars of Lebanon, of which, till recently, there were four. Like others of Capability Brown's cedars, they have reached the end of their normal life span. On the right of this space is situated the Maiden's Tower. The left side is open to the lake. At the far end is the modern house. All this, of course, is a pure modern arrangement. In Rova's days the main island was the principal fortress and was surrounded by two roughly parallel lines of enceinte. The outer, which still exists in its lower part, rose, and on the west side still rises, from the lake. This great wall was no doubt surmounted by battlements, which have been cut away down to the level of what is now merely a waist high parapet. It was strengthened by five great bastions. All but one of these have been cut down to the same level as the wall; they were built with an upper storey containing a chamber of commodious size, each with a fireplace and garderobe. The flat backs of all of the one that survives is built of half timber, and the roof is conical. There is good reason for believing that this outer wall of enceinte was added by Edward I. Part of the same work, on the east side, is a very interesting building, now used as a boat-house, but built for a bath. It was constructed in 1201-2, and payments for it—"Balnea Domini Regis apud Ledes"—are entered in the Expense Rolls of the executors of Queen Eleanor. Lead, Reigate stone, and pavement are separately entered, and it has been shown that the hundred Reigate stones, each two feet square, which were supplied, exactly suffice to cover the area of the bath. The stones themselves are gone, but the imprint of them remains in the mortar. There was also an upper chamber with a private way of access from it to the bath. Very few ancient castles retain their baths. There is one at Cooling, which has never been properly studied and is now on the point of ruin, but that is not a swimming bath, like this at Leeds.

Within the outer enceinte was an earlier line of walls, now altogether destroyed, except for the foundation, which have been traced and are marked in the plan. This wall may have belonged to the bailey of the Norman castle. Where, however, that building actually stood or what was the nature of its plan can only now be conjectured. Mr. Wykeham-Martin states in his book that the whole of the main island is a labyrinth of foundations, but as no scatematic excavations have been made, nothing more is known about them.

The new building which replaced the remains of so much that was historically so precious is already nearly a century old. It was matter of modest pride and solid satisfaction to its builders. Who was the architect is not recorded, but the advice of that admirable draughtsman, Mr. W. Twopeny, was attended to, and he it was who designed the staircase. Nowadays it would not have been thus built, neither would it have been the same if built in the eighteenth century. An earlier generation would have swept away the old and built a Georgian house in its place. In the present day whatever old work had survived would have been incorporated, if possible, unchanged in the new. In 1822 they took a middle course. They swept away the old, but they attempted in erecting a new building to make it harmonise with its ancient surroundings. In form the new building is a rectangular parallelopiped, like any other Georgian house; on to this various turrets are patched. Its sky-line is embattled. Its windows are practically copied from the neighbouring windows of Henry VIII. The result is a building obviously of the eighteen-twenties, as it should be. It is open enough to criticism, but it possesses one great and indeed, sufficient merit. It enters perfectly into the general complex of the whole. From whatever side of the castle you look, the whole is a vision of beauty unmarred by this bold nineteenth century addition. The enchantment of the whole is upon this also. It strikes no false note, and yet it makes no pretence to be other than what it is. Far more learned and even, in an artistic sense, finer work might easily fail in the essential quality where the builders of 1822 undoubtedly succeeded.

Sir Martin Conway fully describes the principal apartments, and thinks it is probable that a good deal more of the history of this most interesting and important castle might be made out by help of the spade, and even by a careful collection and collation of old prints and drawings, seeing that the bulk of the alterations were carried out long after the habit of making topographical drawings and prints had set in. That able and industrious draughtsman, W. Twopeny, was a friend of the family in the days of the Restoration, and it is highly probable that he made drawings of the old building before its destruction. Few consecutive generations, he concludes, have been content to leave Leeds Castle alone. They have made additions, alterations, destructions, and reconstructions as seemed good to each of them, obliterating much, but each in its turn adding to the complex whole, which, as it now stands, is, and, let us hope, will long remain, a witness to the continuity and variety of life in the England that we know. Perhaps the future of such great houses can never again be as splendid as their past, but that future generations will not prize and preserve the noble pile which so varied a past has handed down in substantial strength and uncommon beauty can scarcely be regarded as doubtful.

HAD RHEUMATISM FOR TWELVE YEARS

Found a Quick Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. George Grasser After Long Years of Suffering Tells How She Found Health and Comfort.

Southampton, Ont., May 8.—(Special.)— After suffering from Rheumatism for twele years, Mrs. Geo. Grasser, a well-known resident of this place, is once more able to walk around and do her work without pain, and to sleep with comfort. She gives Dodd's Kidney Pills all the credit for her cure.

"I suffered with Rheumatism in my knee for twelve years," Mrs. Grasser states. "I was attended by three doctors, but did not get any permanent relief. I was also troubled with Neuralgia and Dropsy. My appetite was fitful and at times I had sharp pain and pressure on top of my head.

"I just took one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

Mrs. Grasser is 65 years of age, and her quick cure after suffering has caused somewhat of a sensation among her friends. They have been trying Dodd's Kidney Pills themselves and such of them as are troubled with Rheumatism, pain in the back, Dropsy, and tired feeling and similar ailments are delighted with the results obtained. They know now why Dodd's Kidney Pills are the most popular of all family medicines.

NEW HOPE FOR SUFFERERS FROM PARALYSIS

There are cases of paralysis that cannot be cured. But that is far different from saying that every case of paralysis is incurable. There is absolutely proof that many forms of this disease are curable. Of the cases that cannot be cured many can be so benefitted that the formerly hopeless sufferer will once more find life worth living.

Attention is called to the remarkable cures that have been effected in cases of partial paralysis, and other severe nervous disorders, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Some of these cures are so wonderful as to challenge belief, but in every case the statements have been carefully verified and may be investigated by anyone interested. In this connection the case of Miss B. Millehan, of St. John, N.B., is worthy of the most careful attention. Miss Millehan says: "Some three years ago I was taken seriously ill with diptheria. The doctor brought me safely through this dreaded trouble, and I was assumed to be well. But two weeks later I took a relapse, my throat and limbs becoming paralyzed. I could neither speak nor walk. I was under the best of medical care, and after a few weeks was able to sit up in bed, but my throat was still completely paralyzed and I could only utter unintelligable sounds. I was treated by three of St. John's best physicians, for this trouble and my case was given up as hopeless. A friend asked me to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills, but I had spent so much on medicine without help that I thought it would be only a further waste of money. However, I felt myself growing daily weaker and weaker, and I decided as a last chance that I would try the Pills. By the time I had taken a half dozen boxes I could walk across the floor, something doctors had told me could never happen again. I still continued taking the pills, my speech returned, and I felt myself in perfect health. My friends thought my restoration nothing short of a miracle, and I think myself that I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I am living to-day, and I feel confident they can do quite as much for others as they did for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effect cures in cases of this kind because they make new, rich, red blood, which feeds and strengthens the nerves, and tones up the whole system. If you are in need of a medicine give these pills a trial. We are confident you will not be disappointed. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Wrong Ideas.

Ex-Mayor Shank, of Indianapolis, discussing the high cost of living, said:

"It's the consumer's fault, after all. The consumer should make laws to protect himself against rapacity. Judging from present conditions, the consumer's ideas seem a good deal like the bride's.

"A husband, a few weeks after the honeymoon, came home and said in desolate accents:

"'My love, I'm heartbroken. My salary has been cut down 15 per cent.

"'Oh, that's nothing,' cried the young bride, cheerily. 'Cheep & Co. are advertising perfectly lovely things cut down 25 per cent.'"

KAISER DOES NOT FAVOUR IDEA OF LIVING TO EAT

BERLIN, May 9.—The Court Chamberlain has received a communication from the Kaiser in Corfu, which will strike consternation to the hearts of members of Court and Diplomatic society when the Imperial commands therein contained shall become operative at Berlin's next season. According to the Kaiser's "suggestions," which must prevail at all official dinners, whether given by German officials or by members of the local Diplomatic Corps, the time of a dinner must not exceed three-quarters of an hour. Moreover, the women are not to leave the men to their coffee and cigars after the service of the dessert, but are to remain for coffee, when cigarettes may be smoked in their presence.

The Kaiser, who has never been fond of lingering at the table, found that Berlin has gradually been importing the worst elements of the French and the English official dinner. There was a time when Berlin, official and otherwise, ate to live. Of late it seems as though it were living to eat, and the Kaiser does not like the change.

The enjoyment of an elaborate evening meal is a comparatively new custom in Berlin society and Berliners have taken to the habit with all the fervour of converts. The Berlin of to-day at 8 o'clock p.m., has a meal replete with luxury, display, and ceremony as probably in no other European capital. Nowhere in the world is caviare so much in constant demand. Nowhere else do rare fruits and vegetables find such a market out of season. All game—with the exception of grouse—is cheap and plentiful, to say nothing of shell fish and other fish from foreign land, often imported alive.

Only ten years ago a warm evening meal, even among bankers and merchants, was considered a luxury, the usual dishes for the evening, being some cod meat, an egg or two, and a glass of beer. Now all Berlin "dines" between six and eight, and the usual evening neighbourhood calls, once so dear to the bourgeois German heart, are rapidly being dispensed with.

Dear Sir—

Re Policy $420186

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of the cheque of the Fidelity & Casualty Company of New York for the sum of $5000.00, being the amount of my claim for double liability under my policy in this company, arising out of the accident which resulted in the loss of the sight of my left eye. I wish you would be kind enough to convey to the Company my thanks and warm appreciation for the prompt and entirely satisfactory manner in which my claim under my policy has been settled in full.

It may be of interest to you to know that when I first took this accident policy in your Company it was due solely to the very friendly and cordial relationship that has always existed between your agent, Mr. George E. Elliott, and myself, but when I received the Company's cheque this morning, through your office, I was deeply impressed with the fact that I, in common with the vast majority of people, never before realised how prudent and important it is to carry an Accident Policy in a Company that settles so promptly, Yours faithfully,

First Sermons Of New Pastor

Rev. Geo. Craw Makes Most Favourable Impression at Springville

The service in the Presbyterian Church at Springville last Sunday was worthy of more than passing note. It was the first service of the re-united charge of Springville and Lakevale after a lapse of almost forty years. It was also the first sermon by the Rev. Geo. Craw as pastor of this charge. There was a large congregation at the morning service. Rev. Mr. Craw preached a most appropriate sermon from the third verse of the third chapter of the first Epistle General of John. (And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself even as he is pure.) The sermon was brim full of Gospel truth, delivered in a masterly way, proving the speaker to be possessed with abilities of an orator far above the ordinary. The close attention of the audience was evidence of the department in the Gospel message. The earnestness of the speaker shone forth in every sentence.

The evening service was equally impressive. Rev. Mr. Craw preached a powerful sermon from the last clause of the 10th verse of the second chapter of Hebrews. (To make the captain of our salvation perfect through suffering.) The same power and ability which characterized the morning service was evident in the speaker. A special feature of the service was the presence of John Marsh former organist. Mr. Marsh ably presided at the organ in his imparting inspiration to the choir and congregation, making the service an act of worship. At the close of the sermon Mr. Marsh sang as a solo, 'Jesus Lover of My Soul, as arraigned by C. H. McDougall. This selection seemed almost an inspired interpretation of this beautiful setting, the audience reflecting the spirit of the singer. Mr. Marsh is a baritone of more than ordinary quality, the distinguishing feature being good technique and delicacy of treatment.

After the close of the evening service the Christian Endeavour met. Mr. Frank Whitfield, president, presided. Faith was the subject for the meeting. Miss Edith Preston read a very carefully prepared paper on the subject. Mr. Bruce Elliott also contributed a paper. These papers were worthy of special note being logical and displaying literary ability of the essayist. Miss Laura Duncan and Mr. John Marsh sang a duet. Miss Duncan is a pupil of Professor Renwick, and is possessed of a rich contralto voice of excellent tone and range.

BIG DOINGS FOR LINDSAY

The Lindsay Fire Brigade and Citizens' Band are making big preparations for the annual tournament of the Northern Association of Firemen and Bands, which takes place on Thursday, July 30th. To-day a subscription list is being circulated and readily signed. The firemen will have the usual hose and reel races and other sports, much the same as in other years, except that the Northern and Eastern Fire Association are meeting together for the first time. The band contest will consist of three different classes, all of which will be conducted under the Ontario Band Association's rules.—Warder.

TO FIND OUT WHERE ALL THE MONEY WENT

The Question of the Way the Money For Public Subsidies Went, a Live Question in Relation to the C. N. R's New Demand

A return brought down to the House of Commons yesterday proves to the hilt everything that The Globe has said as to the colossal contracts awarded by Mackenzie & Mann as owners of the stock of the Canadian Northern to Mackenzie, Mann & Company, Limited, as railway contractors. Up to the 31st of December, 1913, the return shows that the company had expended on construction "through the contractors," Mackenzie, Mann & Company, the enormous sum of $244,670,000. No other contracting firm had a chance at all except as sub-contractors under Mackenzie & Mann. From Halifax to Vancouver it was all Mackenzie & Mann. They have the inside track from the outermost west of Nova Scotia to the shores of the Pacific. For building the Halifax & Southwestern Mackenzie & Mann received $5,663,972. The Canadian Northern Quebec was entrusted to them at $4,222,889. They built and are still building the Canadian Northern Ontario lines, and have already drawn out or earned $52,815,623 upon their contract. The Canadian Northern lines from Port Arthur to the Yellow Head Pass involved the expenditure on construction of $109,095,627. Mackenzie & Mann, Limited, had proved to be entirely satisfactory contractors, so Mackenzie & Mann, unlimited, gave them the task of spending the one hundred and nine millions. The Canadian Northern Pacific construction contract are not completed yet. It will take about twenty-three millions more to finish the British Columbia lines, for Mackenzie & Mann as contractors have already been credited with $34,760,909. The Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific contracts were small affairs. Mackenzie & Mann built the lines connecting with Minnesota, despite their strong patriotic bent, and drew $5,200,681 for the work.

So well did the owners of the C.N.R. like the business methods of Mackenzie & Mann, Limited, that they entrusted that enterprising firm with the purchase of the company's cars and other equipment, to the amount of $32,811,467. The result of these transactions is that the Canadian Northern, which paid its contractors not in cash, but with all sorts of securities, guaranteed and unguaranteed, bonds, land, mortgages, and subsidies, now owes Mackenzie & Mann, Limited, the sum of $21,262,327 on account of construction bills not yet settled.

There is nothing to show what profits the contractors made out of the $244,000,000 worth of contracts handed over to them apparently without any such formality as calling for tenders. That may come later. That will assuredly come if the members of Parliament have not been hypnotized by the contractors, who in a quiet, retiring, unobtrusive way have carried out the greatest series of railway contracts ever entrusted to a single firm, and who now blush to find it game.

The securities issued by the Canadian Northern Railway have a face value of $312,818,910. The fixed charges required each year to pay interest and sinking fund on this vast sum total $12,927,983. The securities netted when sold $246,768,389, and there were withdrawn on construction account $164,422,303. "Other withdrawals" are credited with $52,617,006, leaving on hand a balance of $29,729,078. The probe must go deeply into the item "other withdrawals," as well as into the construction account. We know now that practically all the money spent on building the C.N.R. passed first through the hands of Mackenzie & Mann as the controlling directors, and afterwards through their hands a second time as contractors. How much remained there? That is the vital question which must be answered before the people of Canada trust them with any more money or credit. — The Globe.

MR. FRANK OLDFIELD,

Bass Soloist in Judas Maccabaeus.

Lovers of good music in Peterborough will be pleased to learn that Mr. Frank Oldfield, who sang the bass solos so well in the recent oratorio, "Judas Maccabaeus," is to pay another visit to Peterborough. Mr. Herbert Treneer, organist of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, has secured this soloist for his choir concert on Friday, May 22nd. It may be interesting to some to know that Mr. Oldfield has secured upwards of forty "first prizes" at various musical festivals for solo work. He will sing 'Arm, Arm Ye Brave' (from Judas Maccabaeus) with organ accompaniment, as well as other numbers. This will practically be his last public appearance for some time in Canada as he has been engaged as soloist to accompany the University Glee Club, who are touring England from June to September.

JUDGMENT DAY TO LAST FOR ONE THOUSAND YEARS

Those who are interested in matters pertaining to our future, may have the pleasure of hearing an instructive lecture along this line, on the subject of "The Judgment Day" in the Princess Theatre, on Sunday, May 10th, at 3 p.m. Mr. Hammes, who lectured in our City last Sunday, has the reputation of being an earnest, logical speaker, who backs up all his assertions with numerous Scripture quotations, and believes that God's Word is in harmony from Genesis to Revelation. He says that when it is rightly understood, it magnificently sets forth God's wisdom, justice, love and power. Those who heard him before greatly enjoyed his lecture, and it is by request that he comes again. A hearty invitation is extended to all irrespective of sect, creed or party to be present on Sunday afternoon. There will be no collection taken up and seats will be free. The I. B. S. A. will continue these free lectures every Sunday in May, at 3 p.m. in the Princess Theatre. Everybody welcome.

Mothers' Day

Special Sermons Will Be Given at Murray St. Baptist Church To-morrow

Mother's Day will be recognized to-morrow at Murray Street Baptist Church by two special sermons suitable to the occasion by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb.

At the morning hour the subject will be "Our Mothers" and in the evening Mr. Webb will speak on "Sons and Daughters." Whatever difference there may be in our situation in life we all have or have had, a mother, and surely it is a most beautiful and suitable suggestion that in honour of, or in the memory of, our mothers, we should all attend worship on this particular day that has been set apart for consideration of our debt and responsibility.

Doubtless Murary Street will have a large and earnest congregation at each service.

BERNARD SHAW IS BASHFUL, SAYS WIFE

Not the Blatant, Bombastic Person People Think He Is

BOSTON, May 8.—According to Mrs. George Bernard Shaw, her husband is of a bashful, retiring nature, although he always strikes back when he is attacked.

Mrs. Shaw declares her famous helpmeet is an idealist, a dreamer, trying to lift his fellow-men to the same high plane on which he himself moves.

In the first interview she has given so far in this country she is quoted thus:

"You Americans have strange opinions of my husband. Well, few persons do understand Mr. Shaw. He is a great man, a dreamer of wonderful dreams, an idealist and an individualist who is always striving and working to lift others to the high plane of his own thoughts and beliefs.

"He is not the blatant, bombastic person of the popular conception. He is bashful and retiring, quiet and reserved. But he does not let this part of his nature overrule him.

"He sweeps it aside by might of will when he must, and when he thinks it is the only way to propagate his ideas and beliefs. At all other times—most of the time, too—and because it is natural, he is a man the direct opposite of what the world thinks.

"Mr Shaw is a Socialist and believes implicitly in all the doctrines and tenents of socialism. He has been a Socialist for thirty years and became one after he had listened to the words and teachings of Henry George, one of your famous Americans.

Mr. George had been lecturing in England, and my husband and Sidney Webb, Hubert Bland and Edward Pease became so interested in his theories that they formed that great Socialist organization now known as the Fabian Society.

"Since then my husband has preached and written socialism, and this, with the fact that he is an atheist, a vegetarian, a firm believer in women's rights, going as far as to espouse the feminist movement, and his fearless pen, have all tended to supply the popular opinion of him.

"He has been a vegetarian for thirty years, because he does not believe in the killing of animals. A horror of slaughter houses and butcher establishments made him one, and he has always remained one.

Mr. Shaw sympathises with the militants.

"Why is it your husband has not answered the attacks of that other socialist, H. G. Wells?" she was asked.

GOVERNMENT ENGINEER AT STURGEON PT.

LINDSAY, May 8.—Engineer Sing of the Pubic Works Department, who inspected the Lindsay wharf yesterday, visited Sturgeon Point in the afternoon, being accompanied by a number of influential citizens, including Reeve Brown.

At the Point the Engineer inspected the Upper Wharf, which the Sturgeon Point Council ask the Department to take over, build a new wharf and shelter, and maintain it.

Snug Harbour, on the opposite shore, where Mr. T. J. Tilly resides in the summer, was also visited. Here it is purposed to establish a public wharf, which would be accessible in case the lake was rough.

The Engineer was well pleased with the trip, and with the summer resort and no doubt he will make a favourable report.

Big Crowd Attend Second Night of Minstrels

St. Luke's Men's Club Minstrel Show was repeated before a crowded house at the East City Hall last evening. The performance was put on with considerable more snap and "go" than on the previous evening, and every number was well received by the large audience. Master Arthur Knott made another big hit in "Ship Ahoy" and was the recipient of a lovely bouquet. The Minstrels go to Lakefield next Thursday evening, when they will give their entertainment.

Why Men Take Off Hats To Women

We consider a man a gentleman who takes off his hat to a lady. At least the act is thought to be gentlemanly, polite.. The origin of this custom, like so many other customs common among the so-called civilised peoples, goes back to primitive times.

When a person was made captive his conqueror stripped him of his weapons and clothing and left him without anything he could call his own. The captive was thus made a slave, his lack of clothing being evidence of his subjugation. We need only to look at the sculptures of the Assyrians to see the truth of this fact. And in Isaiah xx., 2-4, we find the following statement: "And the Lord said, like as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked and barefoot three years for a sign, so shall the King of Assyria lead away the Egyptians prisoners and the Ethiopians captives, young and old, naked and barefoot."

The first step then, in tracing the origin of taking off the hat, is the surrender of the clothing among primitive and ancient peoples as a mark of submission. The next step is the uncovering of the body as a mark of reverence. There are all degrees of uncovering, though often only the most valuable parts of the clothing are taken off in the presence of superiors.

Captain Cook tells us that during his stay at Thahiti two men came on board, and, as a sign of respect, took off the greater part of their clothing and put it on Cook and his friend. In Abyssinia, Spencer tells us, it was the ecstom for inferiors to bare their bodies down to the girdle before superiors. But in the presence of equals only a corner of the tunic was removed so as to bare the shoulder. This baring of the shoulder, especially throughout the Gold Coast, is a custom as common as taking off the hat with us. Uncloaking in Spain is similar in origin. In Africa the men bare their shoulders and doff their caps to superiors, thus joining two customs in one.

It must be remembered that this act of uncovering the body was ceremonial in nature and used to show reverence to a superior. Then came the use of the ceremonial to propitate the dead. We can see a remnant of this most any time. At funerals and in our graveyards men take off their hats. They still take off their hats on entering churches and before the images of Christ and the Madonna.

In times of chivalry men raised their hats to ladies to show reverence. But this was only superficial in meaning. A knight would ride down a poor peasant woman carrying a large burden and never think of helping her—least of all would he think of taking off his hat to her. However, if he heard of some beautiful damsel of his own class in the slightest danger, imaginary or real, he would go to her and, hat in hand, kneel and dedicate himself to her service.

To-day much the same thing occurs. Ordinarily a gay youth forgets to take off his hat to his mother, yet he shows this deference to his "best girl." After all it is only form, and politeness should go deeper than this. However, the form persists, and it is of some historical interest to remember that it is a remnant of the primitive stripping of a captive by which process was expressed the fact that he yielded up all he had. Taking off the hat to a wealthy girl means occasionally not only the yielding up of all you have, but the getting of all she has. Ceremony is often nothing but a hard calculation in regard to personal results, especially where self-aggrandisement is the ultimate aim of the polished individual.

Hon. E. R. Emmerson Regrets Report of Prince's Appointment.

OTTAWA, May 9.—On the orders of the day, yesterday afternoon, Hon. H. R. Emmerson asked if there was any truth in the press reports respecting the appointment of Prince Alexander of Teck, as Governor-General of Canada. Speaking for himself, individually, Mr. Emmerson said, that he hoped the report was untrue.

The Prime Minister said in reply that a cable had been received by His Royal Highness the Governor-General, advising him that His Majesty had been pleased to approve the appointment of Prince Alexander as Governor-General. This closed the incident so far as the House was concerned.

In an interview later, Mr. Emmerson said that he thought it was contrary to Canadian public policy to have a Governor-General selected from royalty. There were special reasons for the appointment of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, which did not exist in the case of Prince Alexander, who was, after all, a German and not an English prince, but apart from that, Mr. Emmerson thought that some capable business man, rather than a member of the royal family, should be selected by the British Government. He intimated that when the House was next moved into committee of supply, he would discuss the subject more fully, and possibly call upon the Dominion Government to take some action.

MAY VISIT CANADA.

Archbishop of Canterbury Invited To Attend Congress.

TORONTO, May 9.—Invitations have just been sent by the committee of arrangements to the Archbishop of Canterbury and other members of the upper house of the Church of England to attend the church congress and opening of St. Alban's Cathedral next year. The reason that the invitations are being sent at this early date is that the clergy invited are of such eminence that their arrangements have to be made many months in advance. His Grace Right Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, and metropolitan of the Church of England, who is in his 66th year, has visited Canada before and has many friends in the Dominion.

Neglected a Pin Scratch --Dead!

A boy died last week in the hospital from blood-poisoning, the result of a pin scratch!

Do you ever think such a fate might easily be yours? Suppose you knew that although you have had scratches, cuts, burns, sores, and have escaped blood-poisoning so far, the very next time you sustained such an injury blood-poison would set in and you might die! Wouldn't you be very careful to see that the next wound, although only slight, received prompt attention? Certainly.

Now get this further thought. You can't say that the very next cut or scratch or burn or scald you get and neglect will not turn to fatal blood-poisoning. Did it ever strike you that way? The same applies to your children.

The surest safeguard against blood-poisoning is Zam-Buk. No single poisonous germ has yet been discovered that Zam-Buk does not kill. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a cut, burn, scratch, tear or sore place that injury is insured against blood-poisoning from the germs in the air. Not only so, but Zam-Buk stops the smarting and pain. Healing is set up right from the first application, so that at the same time Zam-Buk is antiseptic, soothing and healing. No other salve acts so splendidly. That is why in every country in the world Zam-Buk is now the most widely used ointment. For cuts and wounds, eczema, piles, ulcers, abscesses and all skin injuries and diseases Zam-Buk is without equal. All druggists and stores at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. If you have not yet tried Zam-Buk, cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail with 1c stamp, to pay return postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. We will send you free trial box.

OFFICERS INSISTENT

WASHINGTON, May 9.—High tension marked the Mexican situation yesterday, both on the military and the diplomatic side. The War Department was the chief centre of activity, and while no authoritative statement was made beyond Secretary Garrison's formal reply, that "no orders for additional troop movements have been sent," it became known that the sending of additional troops to Vera Cruz was under consideration, and probably would be carried out. This step would not be intended in any way as an aggressive measure, but as a reasonable precaution to support the force already there in case of any gateward event.

Of equally serious portent to the troops' preparations was the report, late in the day, that two German merchant ships were about to arrive at Puerto Mexico with large supplies of arms and ammunition for Huerta. It was realized that this, if true, would present an incident similar to the arrival of the Ypiranga at Vera Cruz with her cargo of munitions, which led immediately to the American occupation of that port.

Huerta's protest to the mediators, that the United States had broken the armistice by landing additional troops at Vera Cruz was considered by the Cabinet, and later Secretary Bryan announced that the reply of this Government stated that no aggressive steps had been taken by the United States forces and that nothing has been done in violation of the suspension of hostilities. The American reply was delivered to the mediators late yesterday. The mediators themselves also took the view that the question raised by Huerta over the observance of the armistice could be cleared away and that Huerta could be convinced that the United States had not violated, in spirit at least, the armistice which had been agreed upon.

The discussion of reinforcing Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz has developed a marked difference of opinion in the Cabinet. Some of the members take the view that the mediation negotiations might be embarrassed by such an act, while others believed that it was a necessary precaution against a sudden attack on the American forces stretched along the railroad to the waterworks. Gen. Funston is understood to have told the War Department that with the 7,000 men he now has his lines are vulnerable at different points and that a sudden attack along the railroad would necessitate the withdrawal of forces from other points which would be left unprotected. He has informed the War Department that he will need at least [illegible] in order to hold Vera Cruz, as well as the outlying districts which he has now garrisoned.

The fact that the high officials of the army had recommended the sending of at least 50,000 or 60,000 men to Vera Cruz in preparation for all eventualities became known during the day generally in executive quarters. A number of officials admitted that the administration was now confronted with the problem of deciding whether it would limit its military activities to protecting the forces already at Vera Cruz from attack, or whether a sufficient number of men would be placed in readiness at Vera Cruz for a flying expedition to Mexico City in case the Huerta regime collapsed and irresponsible bands threatened the lives of Americans and other foreigners in the Mexican capital.

Huerta Clinging To His Job.

VERA CRUZ, May 9.—Mexicans arriving here yesterday from Mexico City say that Gen. Huerta shows no indication of having any intention to abandon the Presidency of Mexico. The President, they assert, popularly is credited with having made the statement that he would see the capital in ashes before he left it.

That the American forces at Vera Cruz are violating the armistice by landing more troops, ordnance and supplies, is the charge made by Mexican City papers which are under the domination of Huerta.

Fish and Jam Election.

LONDON, May 9.—On the three bye-elections pending, that in Grimsby is certainly the most interesting. Both the present candidates, T. G. Tickler (Unionist) and Alfred Bannister are natives to the soil, or rather, belong to home waters. The former is a jam maker, the latter is a trawler owner. The present contest, in fact, is known as the fish-and-jam election, the Unionist candidate starts electioneering at four o'clock in the morning, addressing a meeting in the early hours at the docks. Seven of his eight sons are working equally hard with him.

BILL IS HELD UP

OTTAWA, May 9.—The House of Commons put in a busy day, dealing with many public and private bills. The Senate amendments were concurred in, and the bill finally passed, which prohibits the importation manufacture and sale of matches containing white phosphorus. No matches are to be manufactured after Jan. 1, 1915, and their sale is prohibited from and after Jan. 1, 1916.

At the opening of the House the Prime Minister stated that a considerable portion of the information respecting the application of the Canadian Northern Railway recently laid upon the table of the House, would be printed for the use of the members. He regretted the delay as he had hoped to move the C. N. R. resolution on Monday. While no definite announcement was made it is generally understood that the legislation will not now be proceeded with until Wednesday next.

Hon. C. J. Doherty introduced a bill to amend the Scott Act. The amendments make the Canada Temperance Act applicable to Saskatchewan and Alberta, and provide for elections under the act in the unorganized districts of Ontario. It is also provided that any persons entitled to vote at an election under the act may contest the result by an appeal to the Superior Court of the province.

The bill extending the charter of the Toronto, Niagara & Western Railway was taken up at night, and Mr. Carroll (Lib., Cape Breton) spoke in support of Mr. Lancaster's motion to strike out section seven of the bill, which gives the City of Toronto power to require the road to cross all highways at an elevation.

Mr. Macdonell (South Toronto) desired to have the bill disposed of last night, but it finaly went over until Monday.

The House took up Dr. Roche's bill to amend the Indian Act. One clause forbids Indians to leave their reservation for the purpose of taking part in dances or other public exhibitions for profit.

Mr. Oliver thought that no obstacles should be thrown in the way of the Indians taking par. in their tribal ceremonies. Their dances might appear grotesque to us, but so would many of our dances to them.

Mr. Knowles: "Do their dances resemble the tango?"

Mr. Oliver: "No; as I have already said, the Indian is naturally a gentleman." (Laughter.)

Mr. Borden observed that the Indians would be free to dance the tango or anything else upon their own reservations.

The clause, however, stood over, and the House then went into supply.

LADY ABERDEEN CHOSEN.

She Is President of International Council For Five Years More.

ROME, May 9.—The Countess of Aberdeen yesterday was re-elected president of the International Council of Women. Her re-election was almost unanimous. The countess will hold office for five years. Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Eliot, Maine, was re-elected honorary president.

Among the other officers chosen yesterday were: Mme. Jules Siegfried, France, first vice-president; Froken Henni Forchhammer, Denmark, second vice-president; Mrs. Henry Dobson, Tasmania, third vice-president; Fraulein Dr. Alice Saloman, Germany, corresponding secretary; Mme. Alphen Salvador, France, recording secretary, and Mrs. Harriet Sophia Sanford, Hamilton, Ont., treasurer. Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, Toronto, was elected president of the committee on finance.

When the announcement of her re-election was made the Countess of Aberdeen delivered an address to the assembly. She said she had hoped a woman of another nationality would relieve her of the responsibilities of the office of president of the council. The members of her family, she added, desired her to abandon the trying position, and she had only consented to be a candidate for re-election when she was unanimously requested to do so. The countess said she doubted if the council had done the best thing it could have done by re-electing her, but that, nevertheless, she would continue her work, putting her whole heart into it. In concluding, she expressed her thanks for the confidence that again had been reposed in her.

Mrs. Sewall also addressed the assembly and thanked the council for her re-election as honorary president. She held the attention of the officers and delegates as she dwelt on the international character of the work being done by the National Council, which, she said, gradually was making for an era of international sisterhood.

FEDERALS IN FORCE.

Gen. Maas' Movements Cause Unrest in Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, May 9.—There were various reports yesterday of large bodies of Federal troops, under Gen. Maas, near the city. These reports were characterized by Brig.-Gen. Funston and other army officers as exaggerated.

The military officers are agreed that some extension of the American lines is desirable for the protection of the food and water supply of Vera Cruz. They desire the extension to embrace the district all about the city. The orders from Washington that the lines be not extended thus far have prevented any action being taken, but it is believed the army officers are pressing the War Department for permission to broaden the line so as to make the military situation complete.

LARUE ON TRIAL.

Relative Says Prisoner Frequently Threatened His Wife.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 9.—The trial of Joseph Larue for the murder of his wife here on or about March 11, 1913, began Thursday night. The first witness for the prosecution was Isadore Larue, a brother, who told of the threats Larue had made against his wife following frequent quarrels between the couple.

Prosecutor Gamble is conducting the case for the crown and U. McFadden is defending Larue. In all about 20 witnesses will appear. Larue is accused of killing his wife and shoving her body beneath the ice in the river. The case for the crown rests principally upon the evidence of members of the family and admissions made by accused following the alleged murder.

SCHOOLS UNCLEAN

TORONTO, May 9.—That the Public Schools of Ontario, and especially the village and rural schools, are in such a deplorable, unkempt condition, and managed in such a careless manner, that they are responsible for a large percentage of the tuberculosis in the province, was a statement made and fortified by statistics by Dr. S. F. Millen, South Woodslee, Essex County, in an address to the Ontario Health Officers Association, at the convention in Convocation Hall yesterday.

The statistics, he said, showed that 30 per cent. of the deaths amongst school teachers were also caused by the dread disease, while only 7 per cent. of the deaths of other people were from tubercular diseases. More children died between the ages of 5 and 14 from preventible diseases than adults did between the ages of 50 and 60 from all diseases. It was the duty of the public to control these preventible diseases.

Dr. Millen described the conditions of 30 schools in two townships of Essex County and declared that these schools in his home county were typical of Ontario's schools. One school he visited had cracks in the floor and a leaking roof. Another was scrubbed only four times a year, while another had but 150 cubic feet of air for each pupil, while the education law demanded 250 feet.

Twenty-five per cent. of the schools had no wells and the water in 25 per cent. of those which had was bad. Twenty-five per cent. had windows which would not open, 50 per cent. had filthy closets and 75 per cent. no cloak rooms.

WILL HONOR ENVOYS.

Canadian Government Plans Special Reception at Falls.

OTTAWA, May 9.—The Government has under consideration the reception and entertainment to be tendered the Mexican and American peace envoys upon their arrival, and during their stay in Canada. The meeting of the envoys will be the greatest historical event of the kind since the representatives of Russia and Japan, as the guests of the United States Government, negotiated and concluded the treaty of Portsmouth which terminated the Russo-Japanese war.

While the peace commissioners are not coming here at the invitation of the Canadian Government, it is deemed only proper that they should receive a generous welcome and hospitality. It is understood that a formal welcome will be extended to the visitors by some member of the Government who will go to Niagara Falls for that purpose, and that a guard of honor will be detailed probably from Toronto and Hamilton regiments. It is also understood that the envoys will be invited to visit the principal cities of Canada as the guests of the nation.

WENT DOWN EMBANKMENT.

Passengers Had To Chop Way Out of G. T. R. Coach.

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., May 9.—A G.T.P. passenger train was ditched seven miles west of Roselante. C. C. Vanaradol, division engineer, had an arm and his collar bone broken, and Mrs. Marion Paterson of Vancouver, was slightly injured. Mrs. G. O. Graham of Smithers was pinned under a seat and almost drowned in the water that was forced through the broken car.

Three coaches went down an embankment, the rear one turning over and partly burying itself in the mud. It was impossible for the passengers to get through window or door, so the crew chopped holes through the floor.

Pidgeon as its delegates to join the representatives of the city council and Trades and Labor Council to go to Ottawa to protest against the renewal of the Gutelius agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway over Halifax and St. John rates. The delegates will likely leave here on Monday next.

AN ERIE ACCOUNT OF THE ATTACK ON UMPIRE MILLER ON THURSDAY

The Erie Despatch says — Erie's formal entry into Canadian League baseball, made at Perry Field, yesterday, when Peterborough won, 3 to 1, was featured by an attempted assault upon Umpire Miller, by nearly 500 spectators. Policeman Charles Brown, with drawn revolver, gave Miller protection against assault until other policemen, scattered about the grounds, came to his assistance. In the rush to get at the umpire, a sixteen-year-old boy was struck on the head with a pop bottle, thrown from the bleachers, and received a bad scalp wound.

The attack upon Umpire Miller was provoked by an incident in the ninth inning, when Erie seemed on the brink of a rally. Schaeffer, first up, had doubled, when the bleacher crowd swarmed over the fence into left field. Miller, standing behind the plate, waved and called to Manager Blount, of Peterborough, in centre-field, that a hit into the crowd would go for three bases.

Schaeffer Is Trapped.

Schaeffer, thinking that Miller was motioning him to third, left the second bag and was tagged out. A howl of protest went up from the Erie players and the crowd, but Miller insisted that Schaeffer retire. In defence of Schaeffer's action, Manager Heinie Smith called attention to the fact that, though play had been stopped when Umpire Miller was talking, time had not been called.

Miller admitted this, after the game, saying:

"There was no need to call time—the ball was still in play. I was merely telling Blount that a hit into the crowd would go for three bases. Schaeffer had no right to leave second."

The assault upon Miller was commenced a few moments later, when the game had ended. The bleacher crowd was over the fence in short time, surrounding the umpire, and jostling and shoving him about. Miller was backed into the Peterborough bench, where he could go no farther. Policeman Brown took a hand here and with his revolver held the crowd back.

Miller was escorted from the grounds half an hour later, with a crowd in his wake, yelling and jeering.

MANAGER KELLY AND MANAGER DUNN. Herewith are shown Kelly and Dunn, managers of the Toronto and Providence teams at the opening game. They are shown giving the umpires the batting orders of the day.

YOU CAN'T GUESS THEM ALL

The report of the opening game at Erie in a local paper must have come by "under ground wireless."

Ryberg will wonder when he reads in that paper about Swartz driving in a pair of runs in the second.

And Joe Byrne will quite naturally want to know what became of the run he scored in the second or the other one he drove home in the eighth.

Manager Blount, too, will have trouble in recalling that hit to centre eld and it will be quite a strain on Schettler when he realizes that he scored on that play.

On the other hand Cygli, the Erie first-sacker, will be interested in learning that a throw got away from him.

John Schaeffer will, of course, be rather pleased that Peter Behan pulled that bone-head play in strolling off second.

At the same time Schaeffer may be at a loss to understand why the run that scored on his sacrifice fly was not mentioned.

Along the same lines, too, it will be an interesting problem to Manager Smith to figure out how an error he made in the fourth was responsible for a run that scored in the second.

Ryberg likewise may scratch his head over the question of how a double that drove in two runs developed into an easy out by the time it reached the paper in question.

All these players will have to make allowances for the enterprise of modern journalism.

And remember that you get a different angle on the game when you look at it from a 300-mile range.

The fans will like Pitcher Louie Schettler. He is a favourite with every player on the team already.

Sketches of The Blountmen

ROBERT STERLING, Pitcher — Born at Mount Vernon, N.Y., in the year 1890. Height 6 ft. 1 in. Weight 195 lbs. Played professional ball with semi-pro. clubs around New York State a couple of seasons before breaking into organized ball with the Columbia Club of the South Atlantic League. He was with this club part of the season, but later was transferred to the Richmond Club of the Blue Grass League, who sold him at the end of the season to the Columbus Club of the American Association. In 1912 he started out with the Columbus Club, but was sent to the Marion Club of the Ohio State League, which was then the farm of the Columbus Club. He was recalled by Columbus the latter part of the season and sent to Decatur Club of the Three-I League and finished the season there. In 1913 he started out with Decatur Club, who traded him to Peterborough. When down South with the Columbia Club, "Bob" pitched against most of the big league clubs. His most notable game was with the Athletics, a 15-innings battle, with Plank opposing him. Baker hit a home run in the 15th innings and won the game for the Athletics, 3—2. He expects to have the best season of his career, and will endeavour to break into the "Big League" this season.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE TO OPEN MAY 30TH

At a meeting of the executive of the local Mercantile League last night it was decided to play a double schedule among the six clubs. To make this feasible an evening game will have to be played each week, in addition to the double headers on Saturday. The games will be played at the Exhibition grounds, which will be put in good shape for baseball. It is expected that the League schedule will open on May 30th.

A Record Crowd Is Expected For Opener

Attendance Eclipsing That at Erie is Looked For When London and Peterboro' Clash Here Next Thursday--Arrangements Made For for the Opening.

With good weather next Thursday the management of the Peterborough Baseball Club is looking forward to an attendance at the local opening of the Canadian League that will eclipse the attendance figures at Erie. The brilliant start made by the Blountmen and the feeling that Manager Blount has gathered around him a spendid ball team, has aroused a keener interest in baseball, locally, than ever before, and with next Thursday afternoon proclaimed as a half holiday there will be one grand crowd.

Arrangements are being completed for the opening. Riverside Park is being carefully groomed and the local ball grounds is in the best shape it has ever been. Considerable work was done last fall, the left field being levelled, and several slight defects in the infield being smoothed. This Spring the grounds-keeper has been hard at work and the field will be as green and level as a billiard table when the London and Peterborough teams jog out on the diamond next Thursday.

Local automobile owners are expected to co-operate in making the automobile parade, which will precede the game, a big success. At the grounds the usual ceremonies will be carried out and the 57th Band will be in attendance.

HAMILTON TURNED TABLES ON BRANTS

BRANTFORD, May 8. — The Brants showed a reversal of form here to-day, and with too much Dougherty were defeated 5 to 1. The locals outhit Hamilton 8 to 5, but four costly errors, coupled with a lot of loose play and some bad base-running, helped to lose the game. With men on bases, Dougherty was almost air-tight, striking out ten men, all of whom were after men had reached the sacks. The game was a slow, listless one, the Brants playing like the old 1913 team. A snappy double play with the bases full in the fourth killed the Brant's chances. The score:

GOLF

Strangers Following Him—A military gentleman, who could swear better than he could play golf, was flattered one day to find quite a crowd of well-dressed strangers following him around. "I hope," he said, gallantly, "that I'll play well enough to reward you." "Oh, it isn't that, major," replied one. "We came out to listen."

TRIGGER

A practice shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club will be held on Thursday evening next, and the two shoots for the prize competition for the month of May will be held on the third and fourth Thursdays, when all members wishing to compete must attend.

Shakspeare Was An Eminent Man In His Own Day

LONDON, May 6.—Prof. Charles William Wallace of the University of Nebraska, the Shakespearean scholar, who has just published seven new Shakespeare documents, the fruit of his research of the last five years, estimates that he and Mrs. Wallace his co-worker, have examined over 3,000,000 documents in the Public Record Office in ten years' work there.

Most of these documents had never been examined since they were filed, and still were in original bundles when Prof. Walace came over ten years ago and began sifting the documents, which have yieded important finds.

Prof. Wallace said:

"Some of the seven new documents show Shakespeare's eminence in the esteem of his near neighbours in official circles in Southwark.

"The simple fact that there should still be left undiscovered even these seven documents, relating to Shakespeare, appeals to the imagination."

Prof. Wallace is desirous that the widest possibe publicity be given the facts in regard to the so-called controversy of the Globe Theatre site. He said:

"Truth needs no defenders, but she needs a good many busy advertisers. As to the Globe site, the documents speak for themselves. They simply need to be made known. I might say just a word concerning the brewery tablet. Being interested in Shakespeare simply from the standpoint of a scholar, I was not familiar with the plans for setting up the tablet in 1909 on the walls of the Southwark brewery to hallow the supposed Globe site, and enshrine the memory of Shakespeare.

"If I had been fully informed I should have assumed that those concerned would have been glad to know the truth in ample time to save them from their mistake, but none of the men concerned ever asked for the further information, long known to the public to be in my possession. However, a good many scholars have urged that I publish additional evidence, which I have now done.

"Please let me make it quite clear; there is not and never has been any controversy over the Globe site. Some men simply quarrel with the facts for reasons best known to themselves. But that is all over now, and I hope that this 350th year of Shakespeare will see the real truth as to the Globe site spread throughout the world more widely than the false impressions.

"The Globe site question is trivial in comparison with the fact that the documents I have discovered reveal Shakespeare as an eminent man in his own day."

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

Monday may see an extension of the reactionary tendencies in the general stock market. The market is very sensitive to Mexican news, and large operators are against it unless the technical news is favourable. The market recovery destroyed the technical strength to a certain etxent, but the shorts are selling again and are restoring the support of that character of which the market has been depending. The trading position is advisable under existing circumstances. C.P.R. meets stock on every rally and is a bear favourite. Same may be said of Lehigh Valley. Floor traders are trying to get steel down, but supporting orders are noted around 57.

Profit taking in Reading and Union Pacific is reported.

Copper is said to be held between 70 and 74.

Buying of Tennessee copper and Central leather is understood to be good.

Missouri Pacific is finding some difficulty in financing notes due June 1st.

"WANTED A COMPANION"

At All Saints' Parish Hall, last evening was presented an entertainment given by the young people connected with All Saints' Church.

The audience, unfortunately, was not so large as might otherwise have been, owing, probably, to the counter-attraction of St. Luke's Minstrels in the Ashburnham Village Hall, to say nothing of its being an early summer's night, which, doubtless, offered another counter attraction to those who love fresh air.

Mr Weller, who acted efficiently as Chairman, announced as a prelude to the sketch, "Wanted, a Companion," a pianoforte solo by Miss Margaret Flowers which, it is needless to say, was well played by that talented young pianiste.

Mr. T. H. Boddy then followed with a vocal solo "The Friar of Orders Grey," which was well sung.

The sketch then had its locale and the performers acquitted themselves well. The plot evolved an elderly bachelor, Mr. Lonely by name, who desired a companion.

Among other applicants was a professor, who suggested a trip to the ruins of Herculaneum or Pompeii, and a side trip to the pyramids of Egypt thrown in. An Irishman also had an audience on behalf of his daughter, the chief recommendation being that his daughter was just like him to look at, which was not saying much in her favour.

Mr. Lonely, being a man extremely difficult to please, finally, after some twelve or fourteen had been interviewed, fixed on a charming little girl — sent him from the Children's Home, who, by her winning little ways, found the soft spot in the old fellow's heart.

The sketch was creditably performed by the young people, evoking much applause and the performance was brought to a conclusion by the singing of the National Anthem.

PORT M'NICHOLL TRAIN TAKES FARMERS FROM THE MARKET

Mr. T. C. Elliott and Mr. R. G. Kingan visited the market this morning for the purpose of interviewing the farmers as to what should be done to improve the local market. One of the points brought out may be handed over to the Board of Trade. The farmers west of the City find that the Port McNicholl train is particularly beneficial to Lindsay. The train leaves Peterborough at 6.16 and stops at stations such as Cavanville, Bethany and others reach Lindsay in good time and also returns at a favourable hour in the evening.

Mr. Elliott stated some effort should be made to secure a C.P.R. train at a corresponding hour for Peterborough. The farmers prefer to trade here, the business advantages are better and the Board of Trade might be able to obtain a service from the company.

The committee will make its presentation to the Retail Merchants' Association in the near future. Only one visit has been made to the market but Mr. Elliott and Mr. Kingan secured quite a number of ideas which they will report.

Quiet Week Polite Calls in England

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., May 9.—(Special Cable)—Politically, to-day closes one of the quietest weeks the United Kingdom has had for months. There is an unwritten truce between the parties on the Home Rule dispute pending the sending of the bill from the Commons to the Lords, which will occur probably about May 20th. It is also realized that with the conferences going on between party leaders there is still prospect of a settlement some time. "Between acts" the Ulster farmers are very busy with their late spring work, and the Ulster merchants are endeavouring to recover from the serious loss of trade already suffered as a result of the Home Rule controversy. There is an undercurrent of feeling here that both sides at present are prepared to make concessions heretofore regarded as impossible.

Splendid Address By Rev. Mr. Keith

A meeting of the Protestant Federation was held last night in the S. O. E. hall. It was well attended and a very enjoyable programme was given. The Rev. H. J. Keith of Knox Church gave a splendid programme on "The Galley Slave That Shook the Nation." It was listened to with interest by all present.

Following is the programme, which was very successfully presented last night.

Vocal Solo—"When the Bell in the Lighthouse Rings"—Mr. P. Naish.

Recitation, "Selected" —Mr. J. Miller.

Trombone Solo, "Selected" — Mr. Sandford.

Address, "The Galley Slave That Shook the Nation"—Rev. Mr. Keith.

Vocal Solo, "Selected" — Mr. C. Thorpe.

Peterborough May Gain By Change In C. P. R. Service

LINDSAY, May 8.—It is understood that a train will leave Port McNicoll at 6 o'clock every morning, reaching Orillia at 7 and Lindsay shortly after 8 a.m. It will leave here for Toronto at 8.25 a.m. and returning will leave Toronto at 5.00 p.m.

The morning train from Bobcaygeon which at present leaves here for Toronto at 8 o'clock, will continue to run from that village, but will run over the grain line to Peterborough, taking a great deal of the trade, which Lindsay merchants now enjoy, to the Electric City. This train will return in the afternoon.

The mixed which arrives here in the morning about 7.30 o'clock (and which carries the Toronto papers) and departs for Toronto at 12.45 o'clock, will, it is understood, be discontinued. This will prove a great disadvantage to the travelling public and local merchants, and will also mean a financial loss for the C. P. R., as this train service has been of great advantage to the commercial men. A local business man, who does considerable business with the C.P.R., stated that if the mixed was cancelled he would have to have his freight business transferred to the G.T.R.

Mr. T. C. Matchett, up-town C. P. R. agent and Station Agent Walsh are in Toronto to-day interviewing the C.P.R. officials with a view to having the proposed changes reconsidered in order that the company's business here may not suffer. If these changes are made effective, it is up to the town council and our business men to take action. Lindsay stands to lose by the proposed changes, while both Orillia and Peterborough will benefit.

NOMINAL FINE WAS IMPOSED

Judgment was given out this morning by His Worship Police Magistrate Edmison in the Corporation of Havelock vs. Boardman case, in which the latter was charged with being a transient trader.

The judgment reads:

The first section of the by-law provides, that no transient trader, or other person whose name has not been duly entered on the assessment roll in respect of income or business assessment for the then current year, shall offer goods or merchandise for sale in the village without having obtained a license to do so, but on the evidence I find as a fact that the defendant's name had been duly entered on the assessment roll for the current year, in respect of business assessment, when the alleged breach of the by-law was commited, although the assesment roll had not at that time been returned. He is therefore not liable to be convicted under Section 1 of the By-law.

Section 2 of the By-law provides that no transient trader, who is not entered upon the assessment roll or who may be entered thereon for the first time, shall offer goods for sale without having paid the license fee mentioned in Section 5, and the third section declares that the word "Transient trader," whenever they occur in the by-law shall extend to and include any person commencing in the Municipality of Havelock the business in the preceeding sections numbered 1 and 2 mentioned, who has not resided continuously in said municipality for at least a period of three months next preceeding the time of the commencement by him, of such business therein, and the business mentioned in the preceeding sections numbered 1 and 2 is the offering of goods and merchandise for sale in the said municipality, and that he had no license to do so.

He also admitted that at the time he so commenced the said business he had not resided continuously in said municipality for three months next preceeding the commencement by him of such said business. I must therefore find under Section 3 of the By-law that he was a transient trader offering goods and merchandise for sale without a license, for although I find as a fact that his name had been duly entered on the assessment roll, I find also it was for the first time, and under Section 2 I am of the opinion that he committed a breach of the by-law, and I therefore convict him of the same.

The business he commenced in respect of which he was committed, was maker and repairer of harness, and in connection therewith, he kept a few whips and curry combs which he offered for sale, and the offering of such whips and combs for sale, was what constituted the breach of the by-law.

If he had resided continuously in the village for three months or more next preceeding the commencement of such business, the offering for sale would not have been a breach of the by-law, his name having been duly entered on the assessment roll. The offence for which he is convicted, is by no means a serious one, and, as under the by-law I have a discretion to use regarding the penalty to be imposed, I do not feel that I should impose more than a nominal fine. I will, therefore, impose a fine of only $1 and 4.70 costs to be paid within 10 days, or in default, of payment 5 days in jail.

Bomb Explosion In Tabernacle.

LONDON, May 11.—A bomb placed by suffragettes exploded yesterday afternoon in the gallery of the Metropolitan Tabernacle in South London, an edifice made famous by the late Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon.

Little damage was done by the explosion. It is believed that the bomb, which consisted of a canister, containing about two pounds of powder, was placed in the gallery during the morning service.

Near the spot where the bomb exploded was a card on which was written, "Put your religion into practice and see that women obtain their freedom."

MME. NORDICA DEAD

Great Prima Donna Passes Away at Age of 55

WRECK SHOCK WAS FATAL

BATAVIA, May 11. — Mme. Lillian Nordica, the singer, died here yesterday.

Mme. Nordica had been ill since the steamer Tasman, on which she was a passenger, went ashore on Bramble Cay, in the Gulf of Papua, Dec. 28 last. Nervous prostration, due to her experience, was followed by pneumonia.

Mme. Lillian Nordica (Lillian Norton) was born at Farmington, Maine, in 1859, and received her musical education at the New England Conservatory in Boston, and with San Giovanni at Milan, Italy. She married three times, her last husband being George W. Young, a New York banker, who survives. She made her operatic debut at Brescia, Italy, in "La Traviata," appeared in London for the first time in 1887, and in other European capitals. She appeared in grand opera for many seasons in the United States, and often toured Canada, singing in Toronto a number of times.

She held a supreme place as a singer of the Italian school, although her greatest fame was won in Wagner roles. With Jean De Reske she appeared in Tristan and Isolde a number of times, particularly at the Metropolitan Grand Opera House in New York. It is said of her that she sang oftener than any other soprano, and that "there never was a role she could not sing, and never was a time she was not ready."

The tour on which she contracted her fatal illness was intended to be her last.

A popular role of Mme. Nordica's was Valentine in "The Huguenots." Her sustained and crescendoed high C in the third act was worth a long journey to hear.

"Her repertoire," wrote Mabel Wagnalls in "Stars of the Opera," "is astonishing in its scope and variety, and when we consider that out of 87,000,000 people, which is our present population, she is the only one to-day who sings the three 'Brunhildes' of Wagner and also his 'Isolde,' we can then better appreciate Mme. Nordica's achievement."

Only a year or two ago Mme. Nordica caused considerable stir by planning to erect an American Bayreuth on the banks of the Hudson.

WAS A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC

Now Finds It a Pleasure to Enjoy Meals

Here is a case which seemed as bad and as hopeless as yours can possibly be. This is the experience of Mr. H. J. Brown, 383 Bathurst St., Toronto, in his own words:

"Gentlemen—I have much pleasure in mentioning to you the benefit received from your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets and can cheerfully recommend them. I simply had confirmed dyspepsia with all its wretched symptoms, and tried about all the advertised cures with no success. You have in Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets the best curative agent I could find. It is now such a pleasure to enjoy meals with their consequent nourishment that I want to mention this for the benefit of others."

The fact that a lot of prescriptions or so-called "cures" have failed to help you is no sign that you have got to go on suffering. Try Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets and see how quickly this sterling remedy will give you relief and start your stomach working properly. NEWSPAPERMEN FREED

Correspondents Had Been Arrested By Huerta's Officials.

NEW YORK, May 11—Word reached New York City last Saturday night that Walter C. Whiffin of the Associated Press staff, who was arrested at Mexico City, had been released by the Mexican authorities.

A despatch from Vera Cruz had stated that Whiffin, with Oliver M. Hueffer, correspondent of The London Express, and another English correspondent named Rourke were placed under arrest by the Mexican authorities at Mexico City Thursday evening. They had just arrived from Vera Cruz, and the police were waiting with coaches when the train drew into the station.

All were taken to the jail under escort and Whiffen and Sutton were held for investigation. The two Englishmen were released and the officer who arrested them was reprimanded.

Richard Harding Davis and Medill McCormack, American correspondents in Mexico, reported seized by the Mexican authorities in Mexico City, according to despatches received by The New York Tribune Saturday night, have been released according to later advices received by that paper.

JURY CANNOT AGREE.

Judge In Larue Trial Discharges Them After 14 Hours.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 11.—Joseph Larue, charged with the murder of his wife on March 11, 1913, will now spend the summer months in jail and await the fall assizes. After deliberating on the evidence for over 14 hours, the jury was unable to agree on a verdict. Justice Britton delivered his charge to the jury on Friday night, finishing at 8.30. It was 10.30 on Saturday morning when the jury gave up endeavoring to reach an agreement. The chief witnesses for the crown were a brother of the prisoner and the wife of the crown's witness, with whom the prisoner and his wife had boarded previous to her disappearance and subsequent finding in the river. H. D. Gamble, K.C., of Toronto, was the prosecutor, and Uriah McFadden defended the prisoner.

FIRE DESTROYS FACTORY.

Glue Plant In Brantford Wiped Out With $125,000 Loss.

BRANTFORD, May 11.—The main plant of the Canada Glue Factory on the outskirts of this city was wiped out by fire on Saturday evening, causing a loss of $125,000. Seventy employes will be thrown out of work. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Employes endeavored to check the fire but without success, and it was impossible for the city brigade to respond to the call. The building was of cement. The fire did not reach the outer building which contained a big supply of gasoline. The insurance was $116,000. The factory will be rebuilt.

Gave Prisoner a Dime.

MONTREAL, May 11. — Recorder Semple lent a man he had just convicted and fined, ten cents to help pay his fine Saturday morning.

A push-cart man named Meron was up on a charge of being drunk and disorderly while in charge of a vehicle. The "vehicle" turned out to be a push-cart from which he peddled small articles. A fine of 25 cents was imposed by the recorder.

"I have only fifteen cents," the prisoner replied. "Oh, well," laughed Mr. Semple, "I'll lend you ten cents," and he handed the dime down from the bench.

TEN TRIBES FOUND

Exploration of Brazil Reveals Vast Tract of Land

SUBSISTED ON ALLIGATORS

PHILADELPHIA, May 11. — Col. Roosevelt, who declares he has discovered a new river in Brazil, will have to share the laurels in that field of exploration with the leaders of the University of Pennsylvania Amazon Expedition, who announced in a letter received here yesterday the discovery of ten hitherto unknown and unidentified Indian tribes, the arrangement of their vocabularies, and the placement on the map of a vast track of Brazilian territory.

Dr. William C. Farabee, head of the exploring party, states in the letter that he reached Georgetown, British Guiana, April 19, after a year spent in the Amazon basin and the highlands which divide Brazil from the Guianas. The party, the letter continues, experienced terrible hardships while traversing the jungle, continues, experienced the jungle, and were compelled to live on monkey and alligator flesh when their regular food supply was exhausted and their ammunition was ruined.

The expedition emerged from the jungle bareheaded, barefooted, hungry, and fever-racked.

Dr. Farabee continues: "From Dec. 16 to April 1 we were among tribes who had never seen white men before. None of them had ever seen guns, or salt, or clothing, or matches They had beads and knives. All wanted fish-hooks. I made measurements of the men and women, took photographs and recorded languages.

"We visited the following tribes in southern British Guiana: Waiwai, Parikutu, Waime, Chikena, Katiawan, Toneyan, Diow, Kumayonna and Urukwonna. None of these tribes are mentioned in Brinton's list of American races. Several new tribes were found on the Brazilian side of the divide."

LEAKS LIKE A SIEVE.

Ice-Breaker "Lady Grey" Docks After a Hard Fight With Ice.

MONTREAL, May 11.—The Government ice-breaker, "Lady Grey," is in drydock here after her winter's work in the ice of the St. Lawrence river. She was leaking like a sieve when she came out of the water, as her fight with the barriers was more than usually severe. At Portneuf the ice jam was sixty feet in thickness. Every time that the Lady Grey hurled herself at the mass the rivets flew from her hull. The failure of the Montcalm at the thick of the battle made the work of the Lady Grey more severe than it would have been with the assistance of the other craft. During the last part of the fight to free the river it was necessary to pump out her ballast tanks four or five times daily, as she was leaking in every seam. The ship will be thoroughly overhauled here for the work of next winter.

CORNWALL, May 11. — The license commissioners for the County of Stormount will meet at the new Windsor Hotel here, on Friday evening, May 15, to consider an application from William Williams, for the transfer of his hotel license for the new Windsor Hotel to Alex. Laplante, and also the transfer of the hotel license of Alex. Laplante to John B. Tobin.

BILL MAY GO OVER

Talk at Ottawa of Postponement of Redistribution Measure.

OTTAWA, May 11. — Mr. John Stanfield, M.P., chief Government whip, said yesterday that the Government hoped to prorogue by the end of May. Morning sitting commenced to-day, and from now on the House may be required to sit on Saturdays. It is also hoped that both sides may agree to the House sitting on the 21st (Ascension Day) and the 25th (Victoria Day).

To-day's sitting of the House will be devoted to a long list of Government bills, including the bills and resolutions increasing the Senatorial representation of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The House will be moved into committee of the whole upon the Canadian Northern resolution either tomorrow or Wednesday by the Prime Minister. There will be many questions asked in committee, and some formal discussion, but it is anticipated that the resolution will be reported without any great delay. Upon this resolution will be founded the bill bringing into force the proposed legislation and upon the second reading of the bill the tactics of the Opposition will be disclosed.

Province Gets $26,533.

OTTAWA, May 11.—According to a report made to the Government by G. C. Clarkson, liquidator of the Farmers' Bank, the amount of unpaid deposits standing on the books on May 1 last was $1,169,566, including $26,533 on deposit by the Ontario Government. Since the resolution of the Minister of Finance, now on the order paper of the Commons, provides for the recouping of all depositors, it will be seen that the Province of Ontario will benefit to the extent of $26,533 from the proposed legislation.

Great Loss of Life is Caused by Earthquake in Sicily

DEATH LIST PUT AT 183

CATANIA, Sicily, May 11—A great earthquake Friday night brought death and destruction to many villages near Mount Etna. The number of dead up to last evening is officially placed at 183, with about 350 injured, but as yet a large portion of the devastated territory has not been inspected.

The affected zone extends from Zaffarana, the highest village on Mount Etna, to the sea, between Acireale, on the south and Giarre on the north. It includes Linera, the centre of the disturbance, Piano and Santa Venerina.

In Linera alone 110 persons were killed and 300 injured. In the village of Bongiardo 13 dead and 27 injured have been taken from the ruins. At Cosentini 16 were killed and many injured. These villages and many smaller places were practically leveled.

Automobiles which made the trip Saturday through the devastated region were often forced to make a long detour owing to the deep fissures across the roads. The enormous force of the earthquake was evident everywhere, and the entire district presented a spectacle of desolation, ruin and death. Peasants rushed to meet the automobiles imploring aid. From the debris agonising cries could still be heard. Others asked that their injured relatives be transported to Catania, as all train service has been abandoned owing to the collapse of bridges, broken tracks and obstructed tunnels.

For centuries this region has suffered from earthquake owing to the activity of Mount Etna. Yet it is relatively thickly populated, as the land is most fertile, vineyards growing with little attention. Near the central point of the disturbance dozens of bodies were observed lying along the road. Many of them were unrecognizable, and they were badly crushed. Heartrending lamentations arose on all sides, and the injured lay in the open awaiting assistance which has been sent to them.

Where Linera stood is a mass of ruins. Those houses which did not collapse entirely were so broken as to emphasize the completeness of the disaster. The village consisted of about 800 inhabitants. A majority of the people escaped because the shock occurred when the men and women were still working in the fields. From the vineyards they saw their houses falling like a pack of cards, and when they arrived, breathless, at their homes, they found only wreckage, with some of their people buried beneath it. This accounts for the fact that most of the victims at Linera were women and children. The men, wild with terror and grief, attacked the debris with their bare hands in an effort to save their wives or children.

Generals Trabucchi and Moccagatta are in command of the work of rescue, which is being expeditiously performed by soldiers, firemen, policemen and Red Cross volunteers. It is expected, however, that weeks will pass before the full extent of the disaster can be ascertained, as it is believed many peasants are buried under their homes in the isolated country districts.

Late reports from the stricken district add to the death rate. At Passopomo twelve persons were killed; at Mainti twelve; at Santa Venerina six; Santa Tecla, two; Santa Maria Vergine, eight; Garbut, four.

Concern at Rome.

ROME, May 11.—The Pope was greatly concerned when informed of the catastrophe near Catania. He learned the news from a despatch sent by Cardinal Francisi-Nava, Archbishop of Catania, who said he was hastening to the scene to bring succor to the survivors. The Pope requested to be kept informed of the gravity of the situation and ordered Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, to send into the stricken districts all the help necessary. King Victor Emmanuel was at breakfast with the Queen when the report of the disastrous earthquake in Sicily was brought to him. His Majesty immediately gave orders for financial aid to be sent and for the army and navy to assist in succoring the injured.

HOSPITALITY DECLINED

Huerta's Envoys Are Received by Funston, at Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, May 11.—President Huerta's three peace commissioners, Emilio Rabasa, Augustin Rodrigues and Luis Elguero, arrived here yesterday on their way to Niagara Falls, Ont., where the conference between the mediators and the representatives of the parties concerned for a settlement of the difficulties between the United States and Mexico will be held. The representatives of Huerta declined the offer of hospitality made by Brig.-Gen. Funston, as well as Rear Admiral Badger's offer to give them passage on the Morro Castle and boarded the steamship Kronprincessin Cecilie, which will probably sail to-day for the United States by way of Havana touching at Key West.

By a prearrangement there was little evidence of the American troops. Gen. Funston, in fatigue uniform, Lieut. Hall, Gen. Funston's aide, and Lieut. Cohen, Rear Admiral Badger's aide, were the only officers present in an official capacity. The station and railway yards were crowded with Mexicans and Americans. The commissioners came in a special car, there being about fifteen in the party, including Rafael Elguero, brother of Louis Elguero, who will act as secretary, and Manuel Martinez del Campo, attache, Senora Martinez del Campo, Senorita Rodigues and the four daughters of Senor Rabasa, who heads the commission.

The commissioners took up their quarters on the Kronprincessin Cecilie and prepared for their journey, without making a statement or granting any interview. It is understood they will leave the steamer at Key West and proceed north by railroad.

Western Ad. Clubs Jubilant.

EDMONTON, May 11.—The local ad club, Calgary Ad Club and Retail Merchants' Association are jubilant over the passing of the new fraudulent advertising bill, as these organizations secured the co-operation of all other like clubs throughout the country and brought the matter to the attention of the Minister of Justice.

WRECKING A NOVEL.

In a discussion of the popular literary taste Theodore Dreiser said at the Century Club in New York:

"Here is an illuminating episide: A preacher was talking to a critic. The preacher said:

"'I thought you didn't like the work of Potts, the novelist?'

"'Neither do I,' the critic answered.

"'Yet in your review the other day you declared that Potts' last novel was remarkable for its purity, that its high moral tone was a splendid change from the tainted fiction of the day, and that you advised the public to turn to the moral Potts from the debasing white slave fiction so much in vogue. Why, now, my friend, if you dislike Potts, did you talk like that about him?'

"'I did it,' the critic answered, "to spoil his sales.'"

"THE TERMS OF SURRENDER"

By Louis Tracy

MacGonigal seemed to regard this personal inquiry anent his well-being as affording a safe means of escape from a dilemma. "I'm scairt about you, Derry," he said at once, and there was no doubting the sincerity of the words.

"About me?"

"Yep. Guess you'd better hike back to Sacramento."

"But why?"

"Marten 'ud like it."

"Man, I've written to tell him I was on the way to Denver!"

"Then git a move on, an' go thar."

Power smiled, though not with his wonted geniality, for he was minded to be sarcastic. "Sorry if I should offend the boss by turning up in Bison," he drawled; "but if I can't hold this job down I'll monkey around till I find another. If you should happen to see Marten this afternoon, tell his I'm at the ranch, and will show up in Main Street tomorrow p.m."

He was actually turning on his heel when MacGonigal cried:

"Say, Derry, air you heeled?"

Power swung round again, astonishment writ large on his face. "Why, no," he said. "I'm not likely to be carrying a gold brick to Dolores. Who's going to hold me up?"

"Bar jokin', I wish you'd vamoose. Dang me, come back tomorrer, of you must!"

There! MacGonigal had said it! In a land where swearing is a science this Scoto-Hibernico-American had earned an enviable repute for the mildness of his expletives, and his "dang me!" was as noteworthy in Bison as its European equivalent in the mouth of a British archbishop. Power was immensely surprised by his bulky friend's emphatic earnestness, and cudgeled his brains to suggest a reasonable explanation. Suddenly it occurred to him a second time that Bison was singularly empty of inhabitants that day. MacGonigal's query with regard to a weopon was also significant, and the remembered that when he left the district there was pending a grave dispute between ranchers and squatters as to the inclosing of cartain grazing lands on the way to the East and its markets.

"Are the boys wire-cutting today?" he asked, in the accents of real concern; for any such expeuition would probably bring about a struggle which might not end till one or both of the opposing parties ran short of ammunition.

"Nit," growled the other. "Why argy? You jest take my say-so, Derry, an' skate."

"Is the boss mixed up in this?"

"Yep."

"Well, he can take care of himself as well as anyone I know. So long, Mac. See you later."

"Ah, come off, Derry. You've got to have it; but don't say I didn't try to help. The crowd are up at Dolores. Marten's gittin' married, an' that's all there is to it. Now I guess you'll feel mad with me for not tellin' you sooner."

Power's face blanched under its healthy tan of sun and air; but his voice was markedly clear and controlled when he spoke, which, however, he did not do until some seconds after MacGonigal had made what was, for him, quite an oration.

"Why should Marten go to Dolores to get married?" he said at last.

The storekeeper humped his heavy shoulders, and conjured the cigar across his mouth again. He did not inch under the sudden fire which blazed in Power's eyes; nevertheless, he remained silent.

"Mac," went on the younger man, still uttering each word deliberately, "do you mean that Marten is marrying Nancy Willard?"

"Yep."

"And you've kept me here all this time! God in Heaven, Man, find me a horse!"

"It's too late, Derry. They was wed three hours sence."

"Too late for what? Get me a horse!"

"There's not a nag left in Bison. An' it'll do you no sort of good ter shoot Marten."

"Mac, you're no fool. He sent me to Sacramento to have me out of the way, and you've seen through it right along."

"Maybe. But old man Willard was dead broke. This dry spell put him slick under the harrow. Nancy married Marten ter save her father."

"That's a lie! They made her believe it, perhaps; but Willard could have won through as others have done. That scheming devil Marten got me side-tracked on purpose. He planned it, just as David put Uriah in the forefront of the battle. But, by God, he's not a king, any more than I'm a Hittite! Nancy Willard is not for him, nor ever will be. Give me—but I know you won't, and it doesn't matter, anyway, because I'd rather tear him with my hands."

An overpowering sense of wrong and outrage had Power in its grip now, and his naturally sallow skin had assumed an ivory whiteness that was dreadful to see. So rigid was his self-control that he gave no other sign of the passion that was convulsing him. Turning toward the door, he thrust his right hand to the side of the leather belt he wore; but withdrew it instantly, for he was a law-abiding citizen, and had obeyed in letter and spirit the recently enacted ordinance against the carrying of weapons. He would have gone without another word had not MacGonigal slipped from behind the counter with the deft and catlike ease of movement which some corpulent folk of both sexes seem to possess. Running lightly and stealthily on his toes, he caught Power's arm before the latter was clear of the verandah which shaded the front of the store.

"Whar 'r you goin', Derry?" he asked, with a note of keen solicitude in his gruff voice that came oddly in a man accustomed to the social amenities of a mining camp.

"Leave me alone, Mac. I must be alone!" Then Power bent a meaning glance on him. "You've told me the truth?" he added in a hoarse whisper.

"Sure thing. You must have passed the minister between here an' the depot."

"He had been there — to marry them?"

"Yep."

"And everyone is up at the ranch, drinking the health to Marten and his bride?"

"Guess that's so."

Power tried to shake off the detaining hand. "It's a pity that I should be an uninvited guest, but it can't be helped," he said savagely. "You see, I was carrying out the millionaire's orders—earning him more millions—and I ought to have taken longer over the job. And, Nancy too! What lie did they tell her about me? I hadn't asked her to be my wife, because it wouldn't have been fair; yet—but she knew! She know! Let me go, Mac!"

MacGonigal clutched him more tightly. "Ah, say, Derry," he cried thickly, "hev' you forgot you've left me yer mother's address in San Francisco? In case of accidents, you said. Well, am I ter write an' tell her you killed a man on his weddin' day, and was hanged for it?"

"For the Lord's sake, don't hold me, Mac!"

The storekeeper, with a wisdom born of much experience, took his hand off Power's arm at once, but contrived to edge forward until he was almost facing his distraught friend.

"Now, look-a here!" he said slowly. "This air a mighty bad business; but you cahn't mend it, an' ef you go cavortin' round in a red-eyed temper you'll sure make it wuss. You've lost the gal—never mind how—an' gittin' a strangle hold on Marten won't bring her back. Yer mother's a heap more to you ner that gal—now."

One wonders what hidden treasury of insight into the deeps of human nature MacGonigal was drawing on by thus bringing before the mind's eye of an unhappy son the mother he loved. But there was no gainsaying the soundness and efficiency of his judgment. Only half comprehending his friendly counselor's purpose, Power quivered like a high-spirited horse under the prick of a spur. He put his hands to his face, as if the gesture would close out forever the horrific vision which the memory of that grey-haired woman in San Francisco was beginning to dispel. For the first time in his young life he had felt the lust of slaying, and the instinct of the jungle thrilled through every nerve, till his nails clenched and his teeth bit in a spasm of sheer delirium.

MacGonigal, despite his present load of flesh, must have passed through the fiery furnace himself in other days; for he recognized the carying phases of the obsession against which Power was fighting.

Hence, he knew when to remain silent, and, again, he knew when to exorcise the demon, once and for all, by the spoken word. It was so still there on that sun-scorched plateau that the mellow whistle of an engine came full-throated from the distant railroad. The lame horse, bothered by the tight bandage which Power had contrived out of a girth, pawed uneasily in his stall. From the reduction works, half a mile away, came the grinding clatter of a mill chewing ore in its steel jaws. These familiar sounds served only to emphasize the brooding solitude of the place. Some imp of mischief seemed to whisper that every man who could be spared from his work, and every woman and child able to walk, was away making merry at the wedding of Hugh Marten and Nancy Willard.

The storekeeper must have heard that malicious prompting, and he combated it most valiantly.

"Guess you'd better come inside, Derry," he said with quiet sympathy. "You're feelin' mighty bad, an' I allow you hain't touched a squar' meal sence the Lord knows when."

He said the right thing by intuition. The mere fantasy of the implied belief that a quantity of cold meat and pickles, washed down by a pint of Milwaukee lager, would serve as an emollient for raw emotion, restored Power to his right mind. He placed a hand on MacGonigal's shoulder, and the brown eyes which met his friend's no longer glowered with frenzy.

"I'm all right now," he said, in a dull, even voice; for this youngster of twenty-five owned an extra share of that faculty of self-restraint which is the birthright of every man and woman born and bred on the backbone of North America. "I took it pretty hard at first, Mac; but I'm not one to cry over spilt milk. You know that, eh? No, I can't eat or drink yet awhile. I took a lunch below here at the depot. Tell me this, will you? They — they'll be leaving by train?"

"Yep. Special saloon kyar on the four-ten east. I reckon you saw it on a sidin', but never suspicioned why it was thar."

"East? New York and Europe, I suppose?"

"Guess that's about the line."

"Then I'll show up here about half past four. Till then I'll fool round by myself. Don't worry, Mac. I mean that, and no more."

He walked a few yards; but was arrested by a cry:

"Not that-a way, Derry! Any other old trail but that!"

Then Power laughed; but his laughter was the wail of a soul in pain, for he had gone in the direction of the Dolores ranch. He waved a hand, and the gesture was one of much grace and distinction, because Power insensibly carried himself as a born leader of men.

"Just quit worrying, I tell you," he said calmly. "I understand. The boys will escort them to that millionaire saloon. They'll be a lively crowd, of course; but they won't see me, never fear."

Then he strode off, his spurs jingling in rhythm with each long, athletic pace. He headed straight for a narrow cleft in the hill at the back of the store, a cleft locally known as the Gulch, and beyond it, on another plateau sloping to the south-east, lay the Willard homestead.

(To be continued.)

WAS TROUBLED WITH

Weak and Dizzy Spells.

Heart Would Beat Something Awful.

Those feelings of weakness, those dizzy spells which come over people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They indicate an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves. One dizzy spell may pass off, but eventually they will come frequently, and at the same time more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills before their case becomes hopeless, for they have no equal for restoring the heart to its usual strength, and making the nerves firm and steady.

Mrs. Len. Kinney, Moose Mountain, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with weak and dizzy spells, and my heart would beat something awful. I got so I had those spells every day. I got so I would try one medicine, and then another, but nothing did me any good until I got Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I can safely say they did me more good than anything I ever took, for I feel like a very different woman. My friends often ask me what I have been taking, and I always say 'Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.' I tell all my friends who say their heart troubles them, to take your pills."

OPENING CANADA'S LAST WONDERLAND

Final spike driven in the G.T.P. brings civilization into the remotest romantic regions of the North American continent.

THE eyes of the world have been turned, in these last few days, towards a gang of railroad builders in central British Columbia. These workers with their great track laying machines were busy forging the last steel link to complete a new transcontinental railway system. Their work is now finished and a new and fabulously rich empire is laid open to development. It is indeed the last wonderland.

British Columbia, in addition to having large tracts of arable land adapted for agricultural and horticultural pursuits, stands out pre-eminently as the tourists and sportsman's Mecca, unsurpassed for the grandeur of its scenery. This new railway runs through a section of the province replete with wild natural beauty. Snow-capped mountains tower thousands of feet above, while all around, canyons with raging torrents, valley and woodland, are ever passed, while at intervals primitive Indian villages, with totem poles standing in front as sentinels, mark the slow passing of the great race of red men, who for centuries held sway, but who now must make way for the ever steady advance of the white settler who claims his heritage from the fertile soil that for centuries has been undisturbed. The mineral resources are being rapidly and satisfactorily developed, whereas the fisheries are recognized as the best in the entire world.

But if there were no resources of a mineral or agricultural nature, this section of British Columbia could count itself rich by reason of the many vistas of surpassing loveliness that it affords. Here you see the Rockies at their best.

The first view of the Rockies, on the Grand Trunk Pacific route, is had at the MacLeod River, 123 miles west of Edmonton. This view comprises the range to the south of the Yellowhead. At Prairie Creek, which is practically the entrance to the mountain region, the railway runs high up on a ridge to the south side of the Athabaska River, and passengers are afforded one of the best views of the Athabasca valley and the mountains. The river at this point is about 800 feet wide, with a swift current of eight miles an hour. Roche Miette, a prominent rocky pinnacle, rears itself to the southwest and looms up in stately grandeur. This mountain is at an elevation of about 7,000 feet, and is seen from Prairie Creek, about twenty miles distant. After leaving Prairie Creek the line enters Jasper Park, the five thousand square miles National Park reserved by the Dominion Government for the preservation of game and for the perpetual propagation of fish and game in that region of the country.

One hundred and ninety-seven miles west of Edmonton the railway enters what is known as the other transcontinental railways in America as the foothills, but in connection with this section of the country the term is a misnomer compared to hills that are found on other transcontinental routes.

Instead of undulating country with hills of a low altitude the Grand Trunk Pacific has mountains immediately on entering Rockies. The first of these is reached at Brule Lake, where, to the west, on the opposite side of the lake, along which the railway runs, is seen a high range of mountains, the principal one of which is Bullrush Mountain, rising from eight to ten thousand feet above the Athabasca river, seven miles long, half a mile wide, and a splendid view is had from the grade. Seven miles further on is Fiddle Creek, with Folding Mountain rising above the valley to a height of about nine thousand feet, and on the north side high rugged mountains stand up boldly with vertical cliffs and steep rocky slopes. The Athabasca valley is from one to two miles wide at this point and most beautiful. Continuing west, the railway follows the Athabasca, with ranges of mountains rising to dizzy heights on both sides of the grade. The pricipal mountains at this point are Roche Miette on the east side and Roche Suette on the left side. The derivation of Roche Miette is partly from the French and Cree Indian language, Roche being French for "rock" and the word Miette, the Cree for "sheep."

Mountain sheep and bear are found in goodly numbers in this vicinity and partridges abound in the forest. Hunting, however, is not allowed in Jasper Park, and the regulations are strictly enforced by the Government guardians.

Some Mountain Trails.

At this point there are a number of interesting trails that will allow those who desire the chance of exploring some of the mountain recesses. One of these is the Roche Miette trail that takes one well up on the mountain, from which point of vantage, magnificent views of the Athabasca Valley are had. A grand view is had from here of Fiddle Creek range, looking west, also Pyramid Mountain in the same direction, 9,700 feet high, and to the east a long, serrated peak range. Looking west from this point are also seen Jasper Lake, Fish Lake and Rocky River winding like silver thread through the country for miles. Jasper Lake, nestling in the valley surrounded by high mountains, is five miles long and one mile wide.

About 225 miles west of Edmonton to the right of the railway is seen Colin Range, high rocky mountains with prominent peaks. A few miles further on is also seen Pyramid Peak, 10,000 feet high. A few miles further on the Snarling River rushes down the mountain sides and empties into the Athabasca River. About six miles from the mouth of this river is an interesting canon, the walls of which are about 200 feet high, and the gorge not more than 30 feet wide. The stream rushes through the chasm with a picturesque fall of thirty feet.

The confluence of the Athabasca and the Miette River is reached about 240 miles west of Edmonton. The grade runs along the brow of the hill on the north shore of the Miette River, with high mountains towering up to the south. This river is a grand stream flowing down through British Columbia for a distance of nearly one thousand miles.

Mount Robson.

Great mountains are on every hand, but above all stands Mt. Robson Peak, a giant amongst giants and immeasurably supreme. The following description is taken from a report of the Geographical Survey of Canada issued in 1909:

"When we first caught sight of it, a shroud of mist partially enveloped the summit, but this presently rolled away, and we saw its upper portion dimmed by a necklace of feathery clouds, beyond which its pointed apex of ice, glittering in the morning sun, shot up far into the blue heaven above. The top of the mountain is usually completely hidden and rarely, indeed, is it seen entirely free from clouds. The actual height of the peak is 13,700 feet."

Although Robson Peak has been long known its height had never been determined until recently, nor was it supposed to be particularly notable in that respect, but now since the height of other mountains in the Rockies which were considered to be the highest in Canada have been proved to be greatly exaggerated, Mt. Robson has the distinction of being the highest known peak in the Canadian Rocky Mountains and will be owing to its magnificent surrpundings, one of the greatest attractions of the Grand Trunk Pacific for tourists and alpine climbers, and as one mountain climber who has made two attempts to ascend this mountain, has said, "It will be the show place of the world." The mountain is easy of access, within a few miles of the railway track.

And so the traveller wends his way along towards the Pacific, passing peak after peak, along the banks of the great rivers of the north, the Nechako, Bulkley, Fraser and Skeena. From Hazelton to Prince Rupert, there is a gradual descent in elevation until sea level is reached, but there is no falling off in the grandeur of the scenery.

The railways of America have enjoyed the privilege of opening up to tourists and travellers many new playgrounds but this great unsubdued alpine wonderland of British Columbia challenges them all for supremacy.

The coupling up of the steel at Nechako Crossing was an event that drew people from all over central British Columbia. It is said fully 3,000 spectators were on hand. Dan Dempsey and Phil Egan headed the two steel-laying crews and each was ambitious to be the winner. However, both couldn't win. Egan managed to reach there first but each crew received equal honors from the hundreds of spectators and at the hands of Mr. Morice Donaldson, the General Manager and Vice-president of the line. Mr. Donaldson presented to Mr. Egan and Mr. Dempsey a handsome gold watch, and this little ceremony caught the fancy of the crowd, everybody breaking into ringing cheers.

The last mile of the track-laying was made the racing section. One-half mile was allotted to each crew. Dan Dempsey was captain of the men from the west, while Phil Egan, another brawny trail blazer, led the crew that had been working from the east. It was certainly a sporting proposition every workingman entering into the fine spirit of the match, while on the part of the spectators, excitement ran high. Egan won by seven minutes' time. He covered the half-mile in forty-eight minutes, while Dempsey's time was fifty-five minutes.

There was a scene of great enthusiasm when the first train from Winnipeg pulled into Prince Rupert. This carried the officials who had been present at the linking up of the steel. Although the month was April the weather was perfect and the crowd were out in their summer garb. It was a day of historic significance for the Pacific Coast City. Prince Rupert, in appearance, is unlike any other community in Canada. It is a constant succession of surprises to anyone from the plains or the east. It emphasizes the romance and intrepid spirit of modern enterprise. Seven years ago, the rugged site was a forest. The change has been magical. The long water-front represents so many miles of wharves and shipping. Lofty smoke-stacks speak of drydock and cold storage plants. The construction of a fifteen story hotel is under way. Prince Rupert throbs with life. Electric lights glitter. Taxi-cabs spin along the wide avenues. It has packed development and solid achievement into the last five years—and it is only commencing. Not every city can brag of an observation place 2,300 feet nigh. Prince Rupert can. And it is a spacious place, too. It can accommodate thousands upon thousands of tourists all at the same time. In fact this place of observation is the top of a mountain that rests directly behind the townsite. Prince Rupert, maplike, seems almost at your feet. You note fourteen miles of deep harbor, a whole peninsula, a bewildering jumble of glaciers and forests away off toward Alaska.

The man with rod and rifle need go no further than the Skeena district. The creeks and lakes teem with trout. Bear, goat, wolves, sheep and deer [illegible]

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Shrewd Business Deal

Though Questionable, It Bespoke the Gentleman

By F. A. MITCHEL

Baron Gustavus Carl von Hemmerstein, said to be the handsomest man in Berlin, went to Nice to get rid of the winter and while there concluded to run over to Monte Carlo. He spent ten days over the gambling tables, at the end of which time, one evening about 10 o'clock, he had gambled away the last pfennig of his fortune. The baron had excellent self control, and when he arose from the table not a person there suspected that he was ruined. He sauntered out into the brilliantly lighted gardens, where he did what an American would call a job of thinking.

The fact was evident that he must come down from his exalted position as an intimate associate of the emperor, a leader of fashion, a pet of the ladies and a general high flier. This is what stared him in the face. But for the present he was to the world the same handsome, rich, aristocratic Von Hemmerstein he had always been. He well understood the value of credit and it occurred to him that there was a chance for him since the world did not yet know that he was ruined.

But how should he avail himself of this advantage? Marriage with a wealthy woman suggested itself as the easiest way out of the difficulty. There were a dozen rich spinsters in Berlin who would be glad to get him, if for nothing else, for his social position and it was quite probable that a confession of the state of his affairs would not with some of them stand in the way. But this scheme was not to the baron's liking. He preferred independence to subservience to a rich wife. He turned it down at once and went on with his deliberations.

If Von Hemmerstein had been born a commoner and a business man he would have displayed a genius for making something out of nothing. Quite likely he would have distinguished himself as a promoter. He looked upon the financial part of one's life as ninety-nine hundredths of it, for, born aristocrat that he was, he realized that without means his blue blood would be as red as that of other people's. Whether or no he had heard the statement of certain resolute business men, "I will look for my money where I lost it," he certainly acted upon that principle. His ideas rapidly took shape in raising the wherewithal to take his place at the gambling tables and win back what he had lost.

But how do this? Borrow from a friend? No. Having never been obliged to borrow a pfennig, he knew that to do so he would injure that credit which was now his only financial possession. With the instinct of a true financier, he shunned a field that would weaken him. To whom, then, should he turn? The answer was simple—to the tradesman who gives credit to those to whom credit is believed to be due.

Von Hemmerstein's problem was too difficult to be solved at once. He went back to Nice, and, acting on the principle that only a poor man can afford luxuries—on credit—he informed his landlord that he was dissatisfied with his rooms and removed to the most expensive suit at the hotel. He did this not only to keep up his credit, but he could think and act better under the influence of luxuries. With this in view, he ordered expensive wines and the most dainty foods. Under this exhilarating influence he formed a plan worthy of his genius.

It was not a scrupulous plan; but, while there is no intention here to advocate dishonesty, how many of the acts of ultimately successful speculators, at times when they are swamped with debt, are scrupulous? Some person or persons must be made to take a risk on them, and there are instances where a rich man has knowingly lent a poor man large sums with no other security than his confidence in his creditor's genius.

Without giving up his rooms—he would not have been able to pay his bill—Von Hemmerstein went to Paris. There he sought a jeweler named Cheseul, doing business on the Rue de la Paix, and asked to see some valuable gems. After looking over a number of stones he appeared to be much pleased with a ruby valued at 10,000 francs. The jeweler kept bringing out other stones, but failed to draw the baron from the ruby.

"Monsieur," said the baron at last, "I wish to purchase the ruby, but I do not wish to pay for it immediately. I refer you to the German embassy, which will give you a report on my social position and advise you as to my credit. Kindly attend to this matter tomorrow afternoon, for I will come in at that time for the gem."

Tossing his card on the counter, he left the shop, M. Cheseul following him to the door, rubbing his hands obsequiously.

The jeweler sent at once to the embassy for a report on Baron Gustavus Carl von Hemmerstein. The reply was that the baron's social position was the best, that he was known to be wealthy and that M. Cheseul would be justified in giving credit for the price of the gem. But the embassy would not be responsible for any one but Baron von Hemmerstein himself. Its representative would go to the shop with him to identify him.

This fact having been communicated by the embassy to the baron, one of the clerks of the legation called at his hotel and accompanied him to the jeweler's. Von Hemmerstein received the ruby in a leather box lined with velvet and, calling a cab, drove to the pawnshop of Jules Pombeau, where he pledged it for a loan of a thousand francs.

A few days later Von Hemmerstein called again at M. Cheseul's shop and confided to him that he was about to be married and it had occurred to him that two rubies, of the size and shape and hue of the one he had purchased, would make a pair of earrings suitable for a gentleman's wedding gift to his bride. Did the jeweler have such another ruby in stock?

M. Cheseul had only one or two other stones that would come near to matching the first, and in all there was some slight variation. The baron appeared disappointed, and the jeweler, bent on making a double profit, agreed to try to find a match for the ruby in the stock of some other jeweler. But he explained that to find a perfect mate would require considerable labor and the second gem would be worth a much larger sum than the first. Von Hemmerstein asked him to fix a price for the mate, and after some deliberation he named 30,000 francs.

Von Hemmerstein did not seem staggered at this figure, saying that he would give it provided a perfect match were obtained, and the jeweler called his attention to the fact that the two together would command a much higher price than separately. The baron gave the order, and M. Cheseul began a hunt all over Paris for the second ruby.

A great many valuable gems are to be found in the hands of pawnbrokers, and among others to whom the jeweler applied was M. Pombeau, one of the principal members of that trade in Paris. That he would do so was expected by Von Hemmerstein and was a part of his plan. A few days after ordering the second gem he called at M. Pombeau's shop and said he would redeem his pledge. He laid down the thousand francs borrowed on it, and the broker handed it back to him.

"By the bye, baron," said Pombeau, "would you like to sell that stone?"

"No, indeed. I value it very highly. It has been in my family hundreds of years."

"I have a brooch into which it would fit nicely. On that account, if you were willing to part with it, I would give you a good price for it."

"What do you call a good price?"

Pombeau would not mind giving 15,000 francs for it. Von Hemmerstein sneered at this and started to leave the shop. Pombeau called him back and said that the ruby to him would be worth 20,000 francs. This seemed to arrest the baron's attention. After some dickering he sold the stone for 21,000 francs and received the money for it on the spot.

Calling a cab, he drove at once to M. Cheseul's shop and asked if they had found a mate to the ruby. No; they had not had time. They had sent out a minute description of it and were expecting replies. The baron said that was fortunate. He had changed his mind. He had determined on a more magnificent present for his bride than the twin rubies. And, now that his mind was made up, he would pay for the stone he had bought. So he produced bank notes to the amount of 10,000 francs and took a receipt.

By this ingenious device he had realized 11,000 francs, or $2,200.

But that the baron was a gentleman of superior caliber is proved by the sequel. With the 11,000 francs that he had made he returned to Monte Carlo and by one of the most remarkable runs of luck ever known there won back all he had lost and 1000 per cent in addition. When he left Monte Carlo he went direct to Paris and on arriving there made straight for Pombeau's pawnshop. The pawnbroker met him as though nothing disagreeable had happened.

"I have been regretting parting with the ruby I sold you and would like to buy it back," said the baron.

"I do not wish to sell it."

"Not for a better price than you paid me?"

"I do not say that I will not sell anything I own at a price."

"Let me see; I think you paid me 21,000 francs. How would 24,000 francs suit you?"

The pawnbroker was perplexed. He had been done once, and now he feared to be done again. He balked at the offer.

"Well," said the baron, turning away, "if you conclude to sell the gem address me at the Circle Francais National. Good morning."

This was enough to decide the pawnbroker, who regarded a bird in the hand worth two in the bush. He called the baron back and sold him the stone, after all clearing 3,000 francs on the transaction.

From Paris Von Hemmerstein went to Berlin, where he was received with the usual eclat attending his return by the emperor, the nobility and the common people. He was as suave as ever, and no one dreamed that he had been ruined and had brought himself back to fortune by a clever bit of rascality. He had not only succeeded; he had covered his tracks.

Had he been unsuccessful the world in which he had been living would have known him no more except as one who had degenerated from a gentleman to a swindler. As it was, when in company with those who know the world he tells the story of his financial embarrassment, as he calls it, and how he extricated himself. Seldom does he tell it to one who considers his operation as without the pale of legitimate bargains and sale.

is the canal of life but it becomes a sewer if clogged up. All life consists of building up and tearing down and just in the same manner that the blood carries to the various parts of the body the food that the cells need for building up, so it is compelled to carry away the waste material that's worn down. These waste materials are poisonous and destroy us unless the liver and kidneys are stimulated into refreshed and vigorous life.

A SEWER

Tragic Sermon on Fresh Air.

The innate corruption and depravity of human nature were perhaps never more clearly brought out than in the historic black hole of Calcutta. That atrocity stands unrivaled as an instance of the utmost suffering humanity can endure, passed through by a large number, yet leaving a few survivors to tell the tale. Many more have been slain or executed at one time, death being anticipated, but probably only safekeeping of the prisoners was intended and only fear of breaking a despot's sleep prevented their earlier release. Yet this torture, "unequaled in history or fiction, whose record cannot be read unmoved after the lapse of 150 years," was produced merely by crowding men together in an ill ventilated room. No fires, racks nor scourges were needed. All that was done or required to be done was to take from each the amount of air and space to which he was accustomed, crush him into close proximity with his fellows, and the thing was accomplished.—From "A Farmer's Notebook."

Hancock and Gwinnett.

Probably John Hancock is the most known signer of the Declaration of Independence. That is because that patriot was not ignorant of the value of advertising. One has to stand some distance from a framed copy of the Declaration to be unable to read that name, which has passed into our language as a synonym for "signature." There are many signatories of the Declaration who are remembered, many who are forgotten, but Button Gwinnett lingers in our memory. It is not altogether easy to imagine a man named Button by his parents as a patriot and a man of influence. His name was enough to single him out in that sober company. But his fame rests secure on something else. History takes account of men for various reasons, but Button is important because—he was apparently cautious about signing his name. His autographs are more valuable today than Hancock's because so few of them are in existence. Perhaps it was hard work for Button to sign his name.—American Boy.

Everybody Has Two Brains Centres of Nervous Energy

Enormous Amount of Blood Consumed in Supplying Nerve Force to Mind and Body

Everybody has two brains, one to think with and the other to control the workings of the heart, lungs, stomach and other vital organs. This mechanical brain is situated low down in the back of the head and is the great centre of the nervous system which, through its ramification of branches, reaches every part of the human body.

Any lack of nervous energy is soon apparent in disorders of the bodily organs. Weakness of the nerves which control the digestive fluids means indigestion and similarly other derangements arise.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has fully established its reputation as a means of restoring vitality to the nervous system and thoroughly curing such ailments as sleeplessness, irritability, nervous headache and indigestion, partial parlysis and locomotor ataxia.

Mrs. Wm. Hay, Spy Hill, Sask., writes: "I am glad of an opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for it restored my nervous system when I was badly run down. So greatly did this treatment benefit me that I have recommended it to friends and know they have obtained good results from the use of the Nerve Food many times. In my opinion there is nothing like it for building up a run-down system."

It is said that one-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain in the manufacture of nervous energy. Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the ingredients from which rich, red blood is formed, it is the greatest of nerve restoratives.

Fears For Canada's Trend.

LONDON, May 10.—Alarm at the increasing "Americanization" of Canada is expressed by The London Times' editorial comments on an article from its Toronto correspondent describing the invasion by the United States of trade, sport and so on, in the Dominion. The editorial says:

"If the result of these conditions is permanent it can only be caused by the steady drift of the Canadian mind away from the practices and traditions of the mother country.

"It is much to be desired in the interests of the Empire that this should not be. If the influence of the mother country is to remain it is time for practical people at home to wake up and get to business."

Seeding Nearly Down.

WINNIPEG, May 11.—Snow and rain put a stop to seeding operations throughout Manitoba and Saskatchewan, but in Alberta drills have been working overtime. Improved weather conditions since Thursday, and prospects of continued fine weather will see the balance of seeding completed in the course of the fore part of this week.

Bloom Of Youth Now Easily Attained

You no longer need to "doctor" that sallow, freckled, blackheaded, rough, blotchy, pimply or over-red skin. You can remove it, instead—easily, painlessly, inexpensively. By a new scientific process, which anyone can use without assistance, the dead and near-dead surface skin, with all its imperfections, is gently, gradually absorbed—and a radiantly youthful and beautiful complexion comes forth! Go to your druggist's and get an ounce of pure mercolized wax; at night apply enough of this to completely cover the face; don't rub it in. Next morning remove the wax with warm water. The result after a few days is astonishing. You wonder why this secret wasn't discovered long ago.

Let the wrinkled folks also take hope. Put an ounce of powdered saxolite into a half pint witch hazel, bathe the face in the solution and—say!—there's nothing that will so effectually, so promptly, smooth out all those hateful lines.

TO EXPEL UNDESIRABLES.

Germany Will Not However Put All French Out of Alsace.

BERLIN, May 11. — The German Government Saturday issued a denial of the report in circulation for several days, that it intended gradually to expel all French residents from Alsace-Lorraine. The reports, it is asserted, emanated from Alsatian members of the Imperial Parliament and from the members of the Alsatian Diet.

The Government declares that it has not adopted any policy of general expulsion of Frenchmen from the conquered provinces, but intimates that the permits of certain undesirable persons will not be renewed upon their expiration. This, however, it declares, applies only to French citizens, who frequently have been refused renewal of the permits in previous years.

The utterances of the Government press indicate that the Government means to resort to expulsion more freely than it has done if the anti-German agitation of the Paris press continues, but that it is using expulsion merely as a corrective against French propaganda in the two provinces.

POST SLAYS HIMSELF.

Battle Creek Health Food Man Commits Suicide.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 11. —Charles W. Post, the millionaire health food manufacturer of Battle Creek, Mich., shot and killed himself Saturday morning. Mr. Post was stricken ill here suddenly, several months ago, and hurried to Rochester, Minn., aboard a special train for an operation. He returned here only recently, apparently recovered.

Mr. Post's serious illness began in December. He traveled and consulted various specialists, but matters were brought to a crisis two months ago when an attack of appendicitis threatened his life. He was put aboard a special train, trailed by an extra engine to be used in case of accident, and rushed to Dr. Mayo's hospital at Rochester, Maine.

The operation was pronounced successful. It is believed, however, that Mr. Post was a sufferer from cancer.

Mr. Post was born at Springfield, Ill., in 1854. A study of dietetics led him into the field of cereal manufacturing and he built up a big industry at Battle Creek, Mich.

TOYED WITH OUR WARSHIPS.

But the Furious Typhoon Couldn't Make Them Surrender.

When a ship weathers a typhoon and comes out of it safe and sound she is said to be, in the language of the sea, one of "Neptune's own." When that ship happens to be one of Uncle Sam's Dreadnoughts, which not only came out of the storm unscathed, but during it was any time ready to go into actual battle within five minutes' notice, it is a fine test of the seaworthiness of this type of battleship, says L. E. Browne in the Technical World Magazine. This was the experience of five American battleships of the Atlantic fleet during a typhoon encountered while returning to the United States from the recent visit to the Mediterranean ports.

The value of this experience will readily be seen. Should the admiral have ordered "prepare for battle" the ordnance crews, except those of the two forward turrets, could have unlimbered their guns and been ready to hurl thousand pound projectiles in less than five minutes.

This storm was the severest encountered by these ships, yet the Dreadnoughts plowed through at thirteen knots an hour. They were tossed about by the gigantic seas like eggshells, five times a minute the bows and sterns describing arcs of more than fifty feet.

At each dip tons of water rolled over the forecastles, roaring like a score of blast furnaces and, piling over the forward turrets, smashed against the bulkheads with a crash that shook the ships from stem to stern. On the drop, looking forward from the bridges, nothing could be seen of the ships—nothing was visible save surging seas. On the rise great streams of water poured over their sides like miniature Niagaras.

Burma Ruby Mines.

Very little is known about the ruby mines of Mogok, in a valley of Burma, whence come nearly all the large rubies. The valley lies through a forest which is seldom trodden by white people. A few Englishmen who live there have laid out a polo ground, and between this and the town are the mines. The diggings are slowly eating up the village, and the main street is already half destroyed. The work goes on all day and all night, the ruby bearing earth being brought up in iron trollays. A few strangers who have called at the mines have been told by the officials that they can keep any ruby they may find, but no one has ever been able to find one. The gems are imbedded in the gold colored clay which stretches along the whole of the valley, and it is only after the earth has been washed that the rubies are seen.

Marriage by Halter.

Among ignorant people of English birth it was once the belief that a wife bought with money or goods was legally married if the purchaser led her all the way home by a halter.

Baring Gould, the English antiquarian, told of a village poet known to him who bought a wife for a half crown and led her twelve miles to his cottage. The squire and the rector protested to the village poet that he was not legally wedded.

"Why, yes, I do," he replied. "I'll take my Bible oath I never once took the halter off till she'd crossed the doorsill and the door was shut."

The latest instances of such wife sales occurred in 1838 and 1839, when women were sold in Little Horton and in Dudley. In these cases a blue ribbon took the place of the sturdy halter.

DUKE AT STRATFORD.

Governor-General and Suite Participate In Cornerstone Laying.

STRATFORD, Ont., May 9. — A right royal welcome was accorded to the Duke of Connaught, Princess Patricia and their suite on their arrival here at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The royal party remained here for three hours, leaving at six o'clock for New Hamburg, where they spent the night and received the official welcome of the municipality before proceeding to Berlin.

Mayor Stephenson welcomed the party on behalf of the city. In his reply the duke referred to a visit which his brother, the late King Edward paid to the city when he was Prince of Wales.

From the city hall the visitors proceeded to Avon School, where the duke laid the cornerstone with a beautifully engraved silver trowel, which afterwards was presented to him by Dr. J. A. Bethwell.

Pioneer Railway Builder Dead.

BROCKVILLE, May 9.—John G. Stearcy, a railway contractor of continental reputation, died at his home here yesterday, aged 77. In early life Mr. Stearcy was associated with his father in the erection of passenger stations and engine sheds along the line of the Grand Trunk Railway. He was the senior partner in the firm of the J. G. Stearcy Co. which built the first fifty miles of the European & North American Railroad, running out of St. John, N.B.

Jury Completed.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The jury which will determine whether Chas. Becker, former police lieutenant and head of the "strong arm squad," conceived the plot that resulted in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was completed late yesterday. An adjournment was promptly taken until to-day, when District Attorney Whitman addressed the jury, charging that Becker actually was the "brains" of the conspiracy.

Boy Drowns In Dam.

GALT, May 9. — Harold Brown, aged seven, was drowned at the Galt dam yesterday. The lad was playing near the retaining wall, lost his balance and fell into the water. The fire bell sounded, and the firemen found the body with hooks after 30 minutes submersion. Life was extinct. If diving had been resorted to doctors say that the lad's life might have been saved.

Lancaster's Condition Serious.

ST. CATHARINES, May 9.—Mr. E. A. Lancaster, M.P., who left his Parliamentary duties to take a trip to the seashore, has thus far got no farther than his home in this city. He has been obliged to keep to his bed and his trip to the coast has been deferred. His condition is much more serious than when first brought to the city a few weeks ago.

R.C. Reserve Made.

OTTAWA, May 9. — Ninety-five square miles of Dominion lands situated within the railway belt of British Columbia, in the vicinity of Mount Revelstoke, have been set apart and established as a Dominion park to be known as the Revelstoke National Park. This area is not suitable for purposes of ordinary settlement, but possesses features of striking natural beauty, including glaciers, mountain parks and water falls which attract large numbers of tourists and make it adapted for purposes of a scenic park.

Lifeboat Not Yet Found.

NEW YORK, May 9.—No trace of the missing third lifeboat of the steamship Columbian, burned at sea last Sunday, was found by the White Star steamer Adriatic which arrived here last night. The Adriatic was 223 miles distant from the scene when notified at noon on May 6 by Captain D. S. Miller of the Franconia, which had picked up one of the boats, that another boat might still be in the vicinity of the wreck. Captain John Mathias, of the Adriatic, changed his course, and arrived on the scene at midnight.

ECZEMA ON THE HEAD

Mr. Peterson, South Bay, Ont. writes: "For years I suffered a sore of eczema on the head. I tried four different doctors, giving each a fair trial, but the disease grew worse and spread to my arm. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this splendid Ointment."

HURON COUNTY TEMPERANCE PARTY ORGANIZE AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

Indignant at What They Term Provincial Secretary Hanna's Breach of Covenant in Connection With Temperance Act.

HOTELS ARE SELLING

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Ont., May 11. — The Huron County temperance people have called a convention for May 18th at Hensall, Ont., to thoroughly organize a campaign against the Ontario Government for what they term Provincial Secretary Hanna's breach of covenant to close the bars on May 1st, following the passing of the Canada Temperance Oct. The temperance people declare that the Opposition candidates will sweep all Huron as a result of this. The allegation is that not only are hotelmen selling off their old stocks, but have laid in large fresh stores of liquor with the hope that something will intervene to prevent their closing the bars at all, despite the passing of the Canada Temperance Act.

Anniversary Concert At St. Paul's Church

The choir concert at St. Paul's to-morrow evening promises to be one of exceptional merit. The programme is an excellent one. The choir numbers are by great composers, such as Mendelssohn, Garrett, Sullivan, Costa, Gaul, etc., one of the most beautiful items being the chorus from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," "He, Watching Over Israel"; also, "With Sheathed Swords," from Sir Michael Costa's 'Naaman."

Miss Allan is singing Beach-Gounod's "Ave Maria," with organ, piano and violin accompaniment; also, by special request, Handel's, "Oh Had Jubal's Lyre."

Mr. Redferne Hollinshead is singing the recit., "With Overbowing Heart," and the aria, "The Soft Southern Breeze" from Barnby's "Rebekah," also a fine setting of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." He is singing Nevins' duet, "Day is Dying in the West," with Miss Allan.

Mr. Ruthven McDonald is singing that great number, descriptive of the beast and bird, "Now Heaven in Fullest Glory,' from Haydn's "Creation," also "Come Unto Me," by Lindsay. He will also be heard in conjunction with Mr. Hollinshead in Sergeant's fine duet, "Watchman, What of the Night?" and also takes the beatuiful bass solo, "And I heard the Voice of Harpers," in the number by Gaul, in combination with the ladies' sextette.

The choir is splendidly balanced and is thoroughly conversant with their work, so a really first-class concert may be confidentially looked for. Rarely, if ever, has the public the opportunity of hearing two soloists such as Mr. Hollinshead and Mr. McDonald, for twenty-five cents, and it is expected the Church will be crowded to-morrow (Tuesday) evening.

THE HEART OF THE TREE

What does he plant who plants a tree?
He plants the friend of sun and sky;
He plants the flag of breezes free;
The shaft of beauty towering high;
He plants a home to heaven anigh,
For song and mother-croon of bird
In hushed and happy twilight heard—
The treble of heaven's harmony—
These things he plants who plants a tree.

What does he plant who plants a tree?
He plants, in sap and leaf and wood,
In love of home and loyalty
And far-cast thought of civic good—
His blessings on the neighbourhood,
Who in the hollow of His hand
Holds all the growth of all our land—
A nation's growth from sea to sea
Stirs in his heart who plants a tree.

DUKE MAY PRESENT CERTIFICATES TO AMBULANCE MEN

Successful Members of St. John's Ambulance Association Instruction Class May Be Honoured by His Royal Highness Who is Deeply Interested in Work

CERTIFICATES HAVE ARRIVED

The Peterborough Branch of the St. John's Ambulance Association will meet the Reception Committee of the City Council to-night with a view to discussing a proposal to have the Duke of Connaught present the certificates which have been won by the successful candidates of the class of instruction which took up the work under Dr. Frederick during the winter. Those who have secured certificates are John Faubrother, Ernest Tucker, Chas. McKee, Wm. Lyburn, Wm. Cumming, John Cumming, Alfred arnes, W. Brown, John Smith, Harry Sowden and Geo. Brooks. A label has been won by W. J. A. Amory.

The successful candidates are now qualified to render first aid to the injured. Among the signatures to the diplomas is that of Arthur, which is the signature of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, who is President of the Association.

A decoration will likely be presented to Mr. Andrew Forrest, who has been largely instrumental in arousing local interest in the Association work in Peterborough. Those interested in the advancement of the work did their utmost before the class was formed to interest manufacturers and the citizens in general. But in spite of this the class was not nearly as strong as was expected in view of the public benefit and security provided by many citizens being qualified to render first aid. Dr. Frederick is said to have given the class an excellent course and the examination was conducted by Dr. McPherson.

The next movement will be the formation of a Peterborough division of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade. If the idea, to be proposed to-night, meets with the approval of the Reception Committee, Captin G. N. R. Collins of Toronto, the District Chief Superintendent of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade Overseas will be present in connection with the presentation.

WILL SPEAK ON SALESMANSHIP

Mr. Alfred E. Boyd, who gives an address on Salesmanship to-night at the Opera House is connected with the Sheldon School of the Science of Salesmanship and Business Buildings of Chicago. The President and founder being a brother to Mr. Edward Sheldon, the author of the book "In His Steps." To hear Mr. Boyd will be a treat and every employer and employee should endeavour to be present.

The expense of bringing Mr. Boyd here is borne by the Retail Merchants' Association, and the admission fee of 10 cents is to cover the cost of the motion pictures alone, of which there will be three reels.

Mr. Boyd will speak at 8:30, and everybody is invited to attend.

YOUNGSTERS ARE CHARGED WITH THEFT

Parents Are Ordered to Make Restitution While Father of Oldest Boy is Advised to Use a Strap

OTHER CASES TO-DAY

Ross and Cecil were two young lads, charged at Police Court this morning, with stealing the sum of $18.84, from the drawer till of a store, in which Ross was employed. The money was taken on May 9th, and the boys went out for a good time, patronising eating houses, etc., until quite a little of the money was spent. They were then rounded up by P. C. Deneard, who took them into custody. The case was enlarged for a week to allow the parents to make whatever restitution they could. The father of the younger claimed that it would be impossible for him to pay his share, as he was only earning $1.65 a day, and had a wife and family of five children to support. The Court told him to live on bread and salt to make an effort to pay it, whereupon, tears of sorrow, or anger, combined with an agonized wail, brought a rebuke from the presiding Magistrate. The mother of the older lad, whose husband left her some three years ago, said she would do her best to make up her amount of the deficit, although she had four children to support.

The Magistrate required of the father of the youngest that he should administer a firm punishment to his boy. "Take a strap," he said, "and give him a dozen good hard stripes." The matter was accordingly left in abeyance for one week.

On the Black List.

Wm. Fallon was charged with being found drunk in a public place. He pleaded guilty ,and was assessed $2 to be paid in ten days. On the evidence of Detective Newhall, he was placed on the black list.

A young girl was charged with being a common prostitute, wandering on the streets, and being unable to give a satisfactory account of herself. When asked to plead, she would admit nothing, and deny nothing.

Detective Newhall said that she had been away from home for about a week, and had been sleeping in barns, or anywhere she could get.

"Now, are you guilty, or not guilty," asked the court. "I would be loathe to assume anything against you, without any evidence. If you deny this charge, I will require the strictest proof."

Accused—"I know I have been going on the streets with the boys, and I know people have seen me."

The Court—"When you admit that people have seen you, that is not an announced confession. All there is to that, is that those people could give evidence against you."

Detective Newhall said that she had told the fishery inspector all about it, what money she was getting, and what she was going to do with it.

"I can't accept that as evidence," said His Worship. "If you want to prove anything you must bring those people here."

Magistrate Dumble—"I ask you again. Are you, or are you not, guilty of this charge?"

"I am," was the reply.

"I will ask for a week's remand," said the Chief.

"Don't you think that would be best, Matron?"

"Yes Chief, I do," replied the lady under whose care prisoner was brought into Court.

"She will go to jail, I suppose?" said the Court.

"Yes, she is not in a fit condition to be let out," replied the Chief.

A remand for one week was granted, for consideration of the case.

CHILDREN OF CROWN PRINCESS OF SWEDEN. The little girl on the left is Princess Ingrid, daughter of the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden. Ingrid is just four years old, while her brother Bertril is a little over two years of age. He has, however, had time to become the Duke of Halland, a chevalier of the Order of the Seraphims. Their mother was Princess Margaret of Connaught before her marriage with Prince Gustavas Adolphus of Sweden.

TO INTRODUCE THE CLOSURE

Premier Asquith Will Make This Move in British House To-morrow and May Outline Conciliation Plans

FEDERALISTS GAINING

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., May 11. — This week's political developments should prove of great interest. Lloyd George concludes the general budget discussing to-night. The Home Rule, Welsh Church, and Plural Voting Bills are due to pass the Commons after a formal third reading this week. The Premier will to-morrow move the closure resolution. Possibly he will take the opportunity of outlining broadly the coming conciliation plans. The Federalists have been exceedingly active during the week-end. Their ranks gain strength within Parliament daily. They are approaching the stage when they may be able to dictate a non-party settlement to both the Government and Opposition. Lloyd's Weekly Journal, with a circulation of a million and a half, has held a referendum which says the greatest living man is Lloyd George, who leads by a hundred points. Marconi comes next with nineteen. King George eighth, with Winston Churchill under two points.

HALF HOLIDAY IS PROCLAIMED

Mayor Buller Requests All Citizens to Observe Next Thursday Afternoon as Such

Mayor Buller has had the following proclamation posted in prominent places in connection with the Thursday half holiday:

HOLIDAY.

In accordance with a resolution of the City of Peterborough, I proclaim part of the afternoon of Thursday, May 14th, 1914, a holiday, namely, from 3 o'clock in the afternoon, on the occasion of the First League Baseball Game of the season in Peterborough, and request all citizens to observe it as such.

WM. BULLER, Mayor.

Mothers' Day Was Observed

Thousands Wore Flowers and Attended Special Services

Mother's Day was generally celebrated in Peterborough yesterday. Thousands of citizens wore flowers as a tribute to living mothers or in memory of those who had passed away, and the churches were crowded. In most of the city churches the sermons were appropriate to the spirit of the day. Several of the churches sent vehicles to the homes of the old and infirm to give them a chance to attend the services.

CONTRACT LET TO H. HICKEY

Who Will Commence the Erection of New Catholic Church in East City To-morrow—C. Rutherford's Tender for Rectory Was Accepted

RENOVATIONS TO SCHOOL

Mr. Henry Hickey, Reid Street, has been awarded the contract of the East City Catholic Church, the site of which is being laid out to-day by Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, C.E., and everything will be ready for the contractor to begin operations to-morrow. Mr. Hickey's tender was the lowest.

The contract for the rectory was let to Mr. C. Rutherford, and the work on this building will be carried out simultaneously with the new Church of the Immaculate Conception. Next week the first work of renovating the East City Separate school will be undertaken.

The Church is being erected on the hospital property and at the southwest corner of the big lot. It will be immediately west of the House of Providence.

Old Stars Turn Out At Hastings

Twenty-six Candidates for Intermediate Team at Practice

Examiner Special:

After having been delayed by the lack of suitable grounds, for some time, the local lacrosse boys get away Friday night to a flying start. Twenty-six candidates for the intermediate team looks as if the boys are in earnest in their endeavour to bring the national game back to life.

Some of the faces familiar to the lacrosse fans of this district in the past seen on the field were Dr. Wade, T. A. Coughlan, Wm. Clapper and the Dodd brother, and it looks as if they still have a few of the old stunts up their sleeve and are still as good as ever.

With such names as Coughlan, Clapper, Doonan, Scriver and Dodd on a line-up one would almost think the old days when the game was at its height here were back again.

The boys are billed to play Campbellford May 25th, and by the way they are turning out should give Mr. Rae's bunch a pretty good hustle.

The uniforms are expected during the week, and it should put a lot more ginger into the boys to earn the right to one of those classy maroon jerseys.

By the turnout of boys under 18 years of age and the way they handle the ball any team of this age should find all the trouble they should care for right here in our little village lot.

REMOVING POLES.

The Peterborough Light and Power Co. is to-day removing the pole at the northeast corner of George and Brock streets, where it was in the way of the new concrete steps that are being built. A thirty-foot pole further up the street is also being removed.

...his wharf where the Government Engineer indicated, as it cannot be reached except by crossing private property. Last fall, when the site was chosen, we were given to understand that a private right-of-way was being given, by the three parties owning the adjacent property, parallel the fifteenth concession of Smith for some distance up from the lake, but during the winter the concession line has been cleared right through to the lake and it would appear as if the Government were going to expropriate a right-of-way direct from the wharf to the fifteenth concession, which would simply be a matter of a hundred yards or so.

New Cottages.

Contractor John Ayotte has been busy since last fall in constructing a cottage next to Dr. Zimmerman, for Mr. Husband, of Hamilton; a boathouse near the new wharf for Mr. Edmunds, of Toronto; and an ice house and garage for Mr. Stock. The ice house has been filled with a large quantity of ice, so that the Kawartha Parkites should be able to keep cool this summer.

Mr. Morrison, of Peterborough, has leased Miss Brown's cottage, at Lakeside, Kawartha Park.

Mr. Meredith intends building a cottage near the "spring," Kawartha Park.

Mr. Ivor Brock, manager Brinton Carpet Works, will erect a bungalow between the cottages of Mr. W. F. Stratton and Mr. R. B. Rogers.

Mr. Blackmore, of Toronto, has contracted with Mr. John Ayotte for a cottage at Lakefield Beach.

WESTON'S SEWAGE PLANT IN A BIG RECREATION PARK

Mayor Buller Returns From Three Days' Visit to Canadian and American Cities —New Plant in Weston Apparently Not Regarded as a Nuisance

GOODS ELEVATORS TOO

Mayor Buller returned to the city on Saturday night after an absence of three days and a half. The Mayor's eye was working overtime on civic conditions pertaining to streets, etc., in Buffalo, Erie, Toronto, and elsewhere. His Worship also attended the opening of Weston's new sewage disposal plant, and if he would voice his inner convictions Mayor Buller would probably say that Peterborough people are cranks.

The Weston sewage plant has been erected in the centre of what the town is laying out for a big recreation park. The buildings are in the centre of a big race track. They are decidedly presentable in appearance and their very location suggests that they are not expected to be a nuisance.

The sludge tank and filter beds are all enclosed and the plant is almost identical with that which Engineer Parsons is preparing for Peterborough. The local plant will be built on a larger scale, but with the exception of a few details they are almost identical. The location of the Weston plant suggests that it is not regarded as a nuisance. Otherwise the site would scarcely have been selected for a big recreation park. Alderman Duncan and Mr. Parsons visited the Weston plant.

Goods Elevators.

Mayor Buller took particular notice of goods elevators in Toronto and Buffalo. To The Examiner he did not discuss the question fully beyond remarking that he saw sidewalk elevators in use in busy parts of both cities. And as for street pavements His Worship stated that if some of the citizens saw the terraced pavements in parts of Buffalo they might have good grounds to register complaints.

CHEMONG WILL BE USED

Canadian General Electric Company Will Employ Old Line as Testing Ground for Electric Locomotives.

AGREEMENT REACHED

This afternoon Mr. H. F. Coyle, superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, was in the City and conferred with some of the members of the City Council as to the possibility of their providing a right of way for the Canadian General Electric "Test Line." This test line is to be used to test electric ocomotives that are manufacured at the local factory of the C. G. E. Co., and the city agreed to provide that Company a right of way to test their locomotives.

Some time ago the Council entered into correspondence with the Railway in connection with this matter, it being suggested that the latter might be able to grant a right of way along a portion of their Port Hope line, or else out the old Chemong track. The ultimate result has been the visit of Supt. Coyle to-day and, after a conference with him, the City Fathers feel that the prospects of a speedy arrangement are very bright.

In discussing the matter, Mr. Coyle said that the Grand Trunk Railway were prepared to give the old Chemong Railway right of way to the City for a nominal rent. They were also prepared to haul the electric locomotives from the C.G.E. car shops to the junction at cost. The C.G.E. Company are to build the tracks, so that the only expense that will fall upon the City in the matter of providing the right of way is the rent of the tracks. The arrangement as outlined by Mr. Coyle to-day is exceedingly satisfactory to both the Council and the C. G. E. Company, who feel that the Grand Trunk railway have acted in a very reasonable manner in connection with this.

Should nothing unforseen occur to block the present plans, the C.G.E. will build a mile of track on the old Chemong line, and the electric locomotives will be hauled from shops to the junction by the Grand Trunk Railway.

It was proposed at one time to run the test line down the west boundary of the City into North Monaghan.

THE POLICEWOMAN.

The Woman's Council will think that it has solved to a certain extent, the puzzle of the opposition of the legal mind to the appointment of a policewoman — it would discourage letigation and result in many cases being settled out of court—a policewoman might not be good for "cases." Ottawa has tried a policewoman, and she seems to give satisfactory service ,though the results of her work are not very conspicuously recorded in the police court. Ottawa's policewoman does not wear a uniform, nor display any badge of authority, though, of course, she carries her star next to where she carries her sense of duty, her heart. She has many cases settled out of court and has been a friend to many of the erring. It seems that the object of Ottawa's policewoman is to deal gently with the erring to prevent trouble rather than punish it. For instance, when young girls come under Miss Campbell's jurisdiction as first offenders they are dismissed, if the charge is not too serious and employment is found for them. Ottawa's policewoman appears to devote most attention, and do her best work in the field of prevention, the great desideratum and the right objective. In this connection the adapted words, the words of St. James, give divine warrant of the greatness of prevention—"She (the policewoman) that converteth the sinner from the error of her way shall save a soul from death and shall hide a multitude of sins." In another part of this issue of The Examiner, is reproduced an interesting article from the Ottawa Journal showing the scope and influence of the work of Ottawa's policewoman. The article contains a great deal of valuable and suggestive information, and should be read with interest, and, if read sympathetically, with profit.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Are The Original Pill For The Relief Of Backache, Lame Back, and Kidney Trouble Or Any Other Kidney Trouble.

The fact that Doan's Kidney Pills are the original Kidney Pills has prevented the placing of other preparations to gull forth upon the market under the name Kidney Pills. It is necessary, therefore, that all wishing to secure the curative effects which have made Doan's Kidney Pills so popular everywhere should see that the trade mark, the Maple Leaf, appears on the wrapper. Without this trade mark you are not getting the genuine Kidney Pills originally placed before the people by Mr. James Doan, as shown by the following declarations.

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, } To Wit:

In the matter of Doan's Kidney Pills

I, James Doan, of Kingsville, in the County of Essex, Druggist, do solemnly declare that Doan's Kidney Pills were first manufactured and sold by me in the 14th day of February, A.D., 1888.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and knowing it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath by virtue of the "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

Declared before me at Kingsville, in the County of Essex, this 27th day of July, A.D. 1906.

THEIR LOVE FOR THE FARMER.

Every farmer, when the gazes upon his binder or mower, should remember that the duty on these two useful articles has been reduced from 17 1-2 to 12 1-2 per cent. The tender and loving sympathy on the part of the manufacturers who permitted the Government to make this great sacrifice will surely touch a responsive chord in the heart of every farmer. This is typical of the love and sacrifice which do so much to build up a "well rounded Dominion." Of course, the farmer will pay from 20 to 27 1-2 per cent. on all his other implements, so that in spite of this noble sacrifice the implement manufacturers should still be able to make a living and smoke a good cigar occasionally.—Grain Growers' Guide.

STILL THEY COME.

Despite the vigorous attempts made to stem the tide of United States farmers into Canada, the flow still continues in good volume. Official figures just out at Ottawa show that during March 1,873 United States farmers, all well-to-do, entered Western Canada. This is slightly less than the number for March, 1913, but the capital they brought in was considerably more, amounting as it did to $1,771,946 in cash and $1,131,748 in settlers' effects. Further more, during the fiscal year ending March 31 of this year, 115,000 Americans arrived in Canada, in addition to 147,000 of British origin and 130,000 from other European countries. The total of nearly 400,000 comes very near the previous year's high record of 402,432 immigrants. It is evident that Canada has lost none of its attraction for those in search of fertile land at cheap prices.—Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

CREATION'S DRAMA OPENS AT CAPITAL

Washington's Beautiful Theatre the Scene.

PASTOR RUSSELL PRESENT

In Discourse He Chose That Feature of His Famous Creation Drama Which Relates to St. Paul's Advice, "Present Your Bodies a Living Sacrifice"—He Declared Israel's Tabernacle a Beautiful Picture of the Divine Plan For Mankind's Salvation.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Pastor Russell is in the nation's capital city, and in the capital's finest theatre, The Belasco, presented, both afternoon and evening, his far-famed Creation Photo-Drama. Many of the nation's foremost citizens were in attendance. Capacity audiences will doubtless be the rule at the beautiful Belasco.

Asked why the Creation Photo-Drama is exhibited in theatres, Pastor Russell said: "Theatres are better places for the Drama of Creation than churches, because Catholics do not care to go to Protestant Churches, nor Protestants to Catholic Churches, nor Jews to either—and all classes are interested in the Drama, and it is for all."

Continuing, the Pastor said: "The Photo-Drama is reaching far and wide. The International Bible Students Association is supplying the Drama, with its various accessories, without charge, and the public, interested in Bible Study, are paying for theatres in which it is shown.

"The Drama is going first to the largest cities, but many calls from small places will have consideration in due time."

Pastor Russell, as usual, delivered a discourse, taking for his text: "I beseech you, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God—your reasonable service."—Romans 12:1.

The Pastor began his discourse with the declaration that the Apostle is not addressing the world in general, but only those who believe that God sent His Son into the world to die for our sins, and who have taken the step of trusting in the blood of Christ as their Ransom-price. These the Apostle addresses as brethren, not as sinners. The text, therefore, may be applied only to those who have been justified by faith. These alone may have the further opportunity of presenting their bodies a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto God.

The speaker reminded his hearers that in the typical sacrifices, offered according to the instructions which God gave Israel through Moses, every animal brought to the altar of the Lord must be without blemish—the Lord thus indicating that no one who is in an imperfect condition would be acceptable to Him. He then showed that under the arrangement made for the Church of the Gospel Age something was done in order that the natural blemishes of the consecrated might be covered; for all were by nature children of wrath, even as the rest of the world. That which was done for them was the forgiveness of their sins—figuratively represented as the covering of the weaknesses of their flesh with the robe of Christ's righteousness.

The Pastor then refreshed the minds of his audience with a description of Israel's Tabernacle in the wilderness. God gave that people instructions through Moses to construct that Tabernacle, not merely for their own convenience in worshiping Him, but as a type, or a picture, of His great Plan for human salvation. The Tabernacle proper was built of boards overlaid with gold, and was covered with skins. Around the Tabernacle was a Court, constructed of white linen curtains hung on poles. In front of the Court was the entrance, called the Gate.

Between the Gate and the Tabernacle were the Brazen Altar and the Laver. The Altar was directly in front of the Gate, and on it the offerings were made. The Laver was filled with water for the washing of the hands and the feet of the priests. Those privileged to enter the court could not reach the Tabernacle without passing both the Altar and the Laver. The Tabernacle proper was in two parts, called the Holy and the Most Holy. In the Holy were the Golden Candlestick, the Table of Shewbread and the Golden Altar. In the Most Holy was the Ark of the Covenant, upon which rested the Shekinah light.

Thus God pictured His great Plan of salvation, declared the Pastor. God's presence in the Tabernacle was represented by the Shekinah glory in the Most Holy. In the antitype, whoever desires to draw near to God may be said figuratively to be going toward the Tabernacle. In the type, the Altar of sacrifice was directly inside of the gate. In the antitype, no one can draw near to God without first seeing and recognizing the fact that Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures. He is our Redeemer. Our sins could not be forgiven except through the merit of the sacrifice which God has provided freely for us. Until this sacrifice is seen and accepted, there can be no further progress toward God on the part of the one seeking to draw near Him.

Those who see and accept the Sacrifice provided for us are then privileged to go on to the antitypical Laver. When they turn away from sin, they find that certain filthiness of the flesh remains with them; and they endeavor to rid themselves of these weaknesses. They make the effort to cleanse their thoughts, words and actions, in order to be more pleasing to God. Going still further in their desire to draw near to God, they come to the Door of the antitypical Tabernacle.

The Pastor next showed that during the Jewish Age no Jew was fully justified. All that Israel had was a typical justification and a typical relationship with God; for until the real sacrifice for sin had been offered by our Lord Jesus Christ and had been presented to the Father, there could be no actual justification. Justification, he declared, is a progressive matter. When one merely sees the sacrifice of Christ, he is not justified. But as he draws nearer and nearer, he is coming more and more into that condition which is right. Every step toward God—every step of faith, obedience and desire to please Him—is a step toward complete justification.

Referring again to the typical Tabernacle, the Pastor discussed the sacrifices on the Day of Atonement. In the antitype, he declared, all of the people of God who have come to Him in consecration are represented by the two goats that took part in the ceremony of that day. They are either the Lord's goat class or the scape-goat class. After they have passed through the antitypical Court—after they have entered the antitypical Gate, passed the antitypical Altar and washed at the antitypical Laver—they are tied, as it were, at the Door of the antitypical Tabernacle; that is to say, they consecrate themselves to God.

In the type, the goats were brought to the Door of the Tabernacle, and there waited for the high priest to cast lots upon them. As soon as he had done so, he offered the Lord's goat in sacrifice. In the antitype this signifies God's acceptance of the sacrifice of the consecrated; and from that moment onward the person is reckoned dead. As the Apostle says, "Ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God." Thenceforth the goat represents merely the old nature—the flesh—counted dead. The New Creature is thereafter represented in the body of the high priest—a member of his body.

The Pastor then carefully explained that as the sacrifice of the bullock preceded the sacrifice of the goat, and made it possible, so in the antitype Christ's sacrifice preceded the sacrifice of the Church, and made theirs possible. Those who do not care to present their bodies as living sacrifices are not invited now. Their opportunity will come during the next Age. At present the call is for those who desire to follow in the footsteps of Jesus—those who will lay down life itself in His service. This is the class to which reference is made in the text which reads: "We have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the Righteous." This class have forsaken sin, drawn nigh unto God, and have come to the place where they say, "O Lord, I give myself to Thee." Then the Lord accepts their offering.

This is the antitypical slaying of the goat; this is the death of the old nature; and just at the moment when the old nature is reckonedly dead, at that same moment the New Creature begins—begotten of the Holy Spirit, that these may be children of God, spiritual sons of God. These have become the Lord's in two senses: first, in the sense that they are New Creatures, begotten of the Holy Spirit, and will be glorified in the First Resurrection by and by, if faithful; and second, that they are also reckoned as members of the Body of Christ on the human plane.

Referring again to his text, the Pastor demonstrated that the Apostle's argument in the context relates primarily to the presenting of the human nature in sacrifice. Only the high priest could offer the sacrifice in the type. In the antitype, the great High Priest offers those who present themselves. Each one who presents his body a living sacrifice in consecration is then taken in hand by our Lord. Thenceforth the sacrifice is reckoned dead.

In this connection the Pastor also showed that the Aaronic Order of priests consisted of two classes, the high priest and the under priests. This arrangement was typical of Christ and the Church. He quoted Scriptures to demonstrate that the Church is a Royal Priesthood, of which Jesus is the High Priest. In the typical Day of Atonement sacrifices, the animals offered in sacrifice represented the human nature of Jesus and the Church; but Aaron and his sons represented the New Creatures.

All who have presented their bodies living sacrifices, and have been accepted and begotten of the Holy Spirit, are the antitypical under priests, and as such have access to the antitypical Tabernacle. Having passed under the first Veil, typical of the death of the human will, they as New Creatures are in the antitypical Holy. There they walk by the light of the antitypical Golden Candlestick, eat the antitypical Shewbread and offer incense at the Golden Altar—these all representing spiritual blessings.

As the Apostle says of the Church, "God * * * hath made us sit together in Heavenly places." We have not yet gone into Heaven itself—beyond the second Veil—but we are in a Heavenly condition. "Old things have passed away, and all things have become new." We have left the Camp, and have passed out of the Court condition into the blessed condition of the light of the presence of the Lord. Each of these different pictures helps us to see how great things God has done for us.

The Pastor declared that membership in the Body of Christ is the all-important thing to the Christian. This Body of Christ, which is the Church, is under another figure called the Royal Priesthood. It is the Divine purpose to prepare in advance of the world a company that will be able to instruct mankind and to help them in every way with respect to morals, and education in things relating to God. This especially prepared class is the Church, who as kings and priests will also have authority, under their great High Priest, to rule the world during the thousand years of the Messianic Kingdom. Their work will be not only to rule mankind for their good, but also to uplift the race of Adam from sin, degradation and death.

The opportunity to be a member of this Royal Priesthood is certainly the greatest privilege that has ever come to any creature. It is to fit and prepare this class for joint-heirship with Jesus in the Kingdom that God deals with the Church as He does. He calls them out of the darkness of the world into the light of the knowledge of His own glorious plans for the salvation of humanity.

Next the Pastor showed that this matter of sacrifice may be viewed from either of two standpoints—God's view and man's. From the standpoint of humanity, consecration seems to be very hard. There is no slavery in the world like that of being a child of God and an associate of Jesus, they think. Everything must be given up. One cannot have anything of his own; he may not eat, drink, sleep, think, or do anything as he would choose. On the contrary, he must ask what the Lord would have him do about everything. He must have no will of his own. Any other slave would be allowed to eat what he chose and to think what he chose, at least; but the Christian cannot do so. He must say, Not my thoughts, not my ways, not my will, but the Lord's. This is the worldly view of consecration; it seems hard; indeed, some will say, it is too much.

The view from the Divine standpoint is altogether different. We who look at the subject from this standpoint say, What have we, at best? We are dying creatures. We have very little strength, very little wealth; it requires nearly all of our time to provide for the necessities of life. We have very little to give to the Lord. Therefore we do not see why the Lord should accept our sacrifice at all.

To corroborate this view, the Pastor cited the case of St. Paul, who declared that he counted all things but loss and dross for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus his Lord. St. Paul had more than have most of the consecrated. A Roman citizen by birth, he was also a member of a noble family, and had every advantage of wealth and education. He had good powers of speech and reason, as his Epistles demonstrate. Whoever will read his Epistle to the Romans will see that the master mind behind that writing could handle a case at law anywhere. Yet, after summing up all his advantages, the Apostle considered these things as mere dross. He willingly sacrificed them all in order to win Christ; for the things of this present life are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed. This, the speaker declared, is the right view of consecration—God's standpoint.

The Pastor then discussed the experiences of the Christian who is walking in the narrow way of sacrifice. He has pleasures of which the world knows nothing. His trials seem, as the Apostle says, light afflictions, which are but for a moment, and which are working out for him a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory, while he looks at the things unseen. The Christian is looking at the unseen things with the eye of faith—the eyes of his understanding.

The Pastor made a practical application of his point by declaring that whenever an experience begins to be rather hard, the Christian is then looking at the things that are seen, and forgetting to look at those that are invisible—the things of the Kingdom. Such should shut their eyes to the things that are seen, and ask the Lord to help them to set both their eyes of understanding and their affections on the things as yet not seen—the things which God has in reservation for those who love Him supremely. These things the natural man cannot understand; to him they are foolishness. But to those who love the Lord they are the most wonderful realities and bring the greatest blessings.

Next the Pastor drew attention to the mad rush for pleasure which characterizes our day. The whole world is searching for pleasure. He then asked whether his hearers had ever known any of them who had found genuine pleasure. He had not. With the Christian, however, it is different. The Christian has found an unfailing source of joy. The peace of God, which passes all understanding, rules in his heart.

In conclusion, the Pastor exhorted his audience to rejoice in the Lord. All the consecrated should rejoice always, not only because they know the Lord, but because they know that by and by the world's eyes of understanding will be opened. The glorified Church will have the pleasure of giving this Divine Message.

Many New Cottages Being Constructed Around Stony Lake

First Budget of News Indicates Continued Growth of the Holiday Resort—Sandy Beach Wharf Is Submerged.

NO MOSQUITOES YET

Examiner Special:

STONY LAKE, May 10.—The steamer Islinda made the first trip of the season to Stony Lake last Tuesday, May 5th. She carried a large consignment of freight to Mr. Jahan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stubbs and son, Edgar, went up to their cottage "Restmore" for the summer.

The Inspector of Lloyd's Insurance Corporation journeyed as far as Young's Point to look over the fire-fighting equipment of the fleet of the Stoney Lake Navigation Co.

Light House and Church at Hell's Gate.

Mr. F. J. Moore, of Lakefield, went up to view the location of Mr. Lawrence Graham's new cottage, which he will commence to erect next week. It is to be situated just beyond the light house, in close proximity to the Devil's Elbow, and not far from the site of the new Anglican Church which is to command the entrance to Hell's Gate.

The water in Clear and Stony Lakes is about two and a half feet below high-water mark.

Wharf Submerged.

The new cement prize-package Government Wharf in Sandy Beach Bay is almost submerged. The approach to it is well nigh washed away, so the cement box-like structure might very appropriately be termed an island, as it cannot be reached from the shore.

The wharf proper, seems to be a substantial affair (though it is built upon sand), but the approach to it is a joke. Instead of constructing it of stone, the contractors simply bordered the two sides with large stone and filled it in with sand. At the time of writing the sand has disappeared and the border stones are falling inward.

There is a great diversity of opinion up here as to the wisdom of placing this wharf where the Government Engineer indicated, as it cannot be reached except by crossing private property. Last fall, when the site was chosen, we were given to understand that a private right-of-way was being given by the three men owning the adjacent property, to parallel the fifteenth concession of Smith for some distance up from the shore, but during the winter the concession line has been cleared right through to the lake and it would appear as if the Government were going to expropriate a right-of-way direct from the wharf to the fifteenth concession, which would simply be a matter of a hundred yards or so.

New Cottages.

Contractor John Ayotte has been busy since last fall in constructing a cottage next to Dr. Zimmerman, for Dr. Husband, of Hamilton; a boat-house near the new wharf for Mr. Frank Edmunds, of Toronto; and an ice house and garage for Mr. Stock. The ice house has been filled with a large quantity of ice, so that the Kawartha Parkites should be able to keep cool this summer.

Dr. Morrison, of Peterborough, has purchased Miss Brown's cottage, at Woodside, Kawartha Park.

Mr. Meredith intends building a cottage near the "spring," Kawartha Park.

Mr. Ivor Brock, manager Brinton Carpet Works, will erect a bungalow between the cottages of Mr. W. F. Nelson and Mr. R. B. Rogers.

Mr. Blackmore, of Toronto, has contracted with Mr. John Ayotte for a cottage near the new wharf, Sandy Beach.

Mr. James Stubbs came up the lakes on the last day of April to paint his cottage and apartments at "Restmore," but had to return to the city on account of illness.

Mr. Harstone of, Water street, Peterborough, has taken the Gordon cottage for the season.

The weather, just now, is delightful; days warm, nights cool, and no mosquitoes to bother one when that Stony Lake drowsiness comes on shortly after sunset, with no let up until sunrise in the morning.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION GIVES APPROVAL TO FRATERNITY SUNDAY

Mr. Dawson Kennedy Elected Chairman of Permanent Committee and June 28 Decided Upon for the United Procession and Church Service — Opinions of Ministers Upon the Suggestion

WILL BE CARRIED OUT

The meeting of representatives of fraternal societies was held in the S.O.E. Hall on Saturday evening. In addition to the society men the gathering was also honoured by a deputation from the Ministerial Association. The first business was the election of a permanent chairman and secretary. Mr. Dawson Kennedy was elected chairman and Mr. Thomas Hendry secretary, the valuable services of these two gentlemen at the first meeting and since then being duly recognized and highly appreciated.

The Rev. F. J. Sawers stated that the proposal to hold a Fraternal Sunday evening service had his hearty approval. Rev. Jas. Rollins stated that the matter had been discussed at the Ministerial Association, and he assured the members of their approval support and co-operation. Mr. Rollins intimated that the Association favoured a Sunday evening service in the various churches in preference to a meeting in the Armouries or park, and the Association would give the societies every possible assistance.

Rev. J. R. Webb then addressed the meeting, and in part said that the churches and societies had things in common each believing in the other's good work. He thought this proposal a first-rate idea, and met with his own approval and also of the Ministerial Association. He favoured just having a big procession of fraternal men irrespective of what society, as many belonged to quite a number of societies, so let them branch off in detachments of say 100 and attend the various church on the Sunday evening, and perhaps the ministers might also fall in line that evening by exchanging pulpits unknown to the public.

The Rev. J. N. Clarry also endorsed the previous speakers' views regarding a Fraternal Sunday evening service. On motion Sunday evening, June 28th was chosen as the fixed date for the United Fraternal Procession and Service when members of these societies will be asked to assemble at probably the Market Square. A committee was then appointed from 12 different societies to complete the arrangements, and they will meet on Saturday evening, the 16th, in the S.O.E. Hall. The press and the brotherhoods are appealed to in order to give their support to create a Fraternal Day for Peterborough, and a Sunday service is deemed the best way to make a start. The object is to bring the various societies closer together and to let brotherly love continue to grow. And as it was stated, there will be plenty for one, plenty for all, and plenty for evermore.

FOURTEENTH WHITE HOUSE BRIDE IN HER WEDDING DRESS.—Beautiful gown and trimmings worn by Mrs. McAdoo, formerly Eleanor Wilson, second daughter of President Wilson, to be married at the United States Executive Mansion.

GETTING A START

By NATHANIEL C. FOWLER JR.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"How shall I exercise, and how much exercise shall I take?" is a question often asked. It receives many answers, as authorities differ, although practically all eminent physical culturists are opposed to any form of strenuous activity, including athletics, carried to excess.

These experts, however, unanimously favour walking, except for the extremely weak.

Comparatively few, even among those who think they are unable to walk, would be injured by a moderate amount of walking in the open air. It is, perhaps, the mildest of any form of exercise, and one which is not likely to be overdone. It takes one out of doors and away from the annoyance of his business environment.

Few people appreciate the value of a daily walk, and this is particularly true in the case of city people, and those who live in the suburbs. Instead of walking to their places of business they depend upon trolley and commuters' trains and take little exercise in the open air.

Most offices and many residences are not propery ventilated; and, unless the business man and clerk walk they are not likely to obtain the fresh air so essential to health and to normal activity.

If you live so far from your office that you cannot walk the entire distance, I suggest that you board your car a mile or two from your home, or leave it a distance from your destination, preferably the former, if you have a city headquarters.

Endeavour to obtain a companion. Light conversation rests the mind, and makes walking much more agreeable. But walk, even if you have to walk alone, and walk daily, rain or shine. If you are properly clothed there is no danger of taking cold. Colds are not often contracted by exposure to the open air, but usually come from sitting in a draft when overheated, from too decided a change in temperature, or from contagio. The inhabitants of the Arctic regions never have colds.

A brisk walk in the morning before you settle down to business clears your mind and makes you able to do twice as much work with half the usual fatigue.

If you are obliged to work in a close office, do not lunch at a nearby restaurant. Select one at a little distance, so as to give you two walks in the open air.

Under no circumstances sleep in a close room, no matter how cold or inclement the weather. If necessary, screen off the drafts, but not the air. Don't open one window; open them all and have a circulation of air in your bedroom. If you are properly covered, you wil not take cold.

Cultivate the fresh air habit. Fresh air and sunshine are nature's antidotes for tired nerves and many of the ils of mankind. Outdoor people are seldom sick. Did you ever notice how infrequently your letter carrier or the policeman who passes your house is absent from work and how free he is from colds?

The more you live in the open and enjoy it, the more you will rebel against vitiated air and an unnatural method of living. If you can't "get back to nature" bring nature to you at every opportunity, and learn to appreciate all she has to offer you. You'l be better for it, both mentally and physically.

Bad air stands for bad heath; good air for good health.

Music & Drama

"WITHIN THE LAW."

"Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's powerful drama was presented at the Grand Opera House to two appreciative audiences on Saturday and made a splendid impression. The story of the shop girl, sent to prison for three years for a crime she did not commit, who forms an association with a band of crooks and by her cleverness in keeping within the letter of the law, secures revenge on the employer who was the cause of her imprisonment, was effectively told, and the many dramatic climaxes thrilled the audience. The cast was a thoroughly adequate one. All the leading roles were in clever hands and the acting throughout was uniformly excellent. The result was a performance that was thoroughly pleasing in every respect and "Within the Law" was voted one of the best attractions of the season.

THE ONLY CHANCE.

"Is there any way to let these city hunters kill a deer without hurting each other?" asked one guide.

"Not as I know of," answered the other, "unless you turn 'em loose with blank cartridges and give the deer a chance to laugh himself to death."

SOUL NOT IMMORTAL

So Declared F. G. Hammes—Resurrection Was Needed and Judgment Was Not Given at Death

Mr. F. G. Hammes, a representative of the I.B.S.A., lectured yesterday in the Princess Theatre at 3 o'cock to an attentive audience on "The Judgment Day."

(Mr. Hammes expounded the opinion that the doctrine of the immortality of the soul was without Scriptural foundation. He further challenged either ministers or laity to produce one Scripture passage that stated that man had immortal soul and further showed that this doctrine originated from Satan's lie (Gen. 3:43.) Many Scriptural quotations were given to show that the apostles, the ancient worthies, and in fact all mankind were partakers of the death sentence in Adam, and therefore needed a resurrection. He further showed that the saints were being judged now, and were to be resurrected to instantaneous perfection on the spirit plane. The 1,000-year day of judgment was for the world of mankind who had not been judged in this Gospel age. During this 1,000 years all who had not passed their judgment in this age were to be awakened, generation by generation, and brought up to perfection of human nature, by judgments (Jno. 5:28, 29 R. V. Isa. 26:9). This blessing of all the families of the earth was to be done by "The Christ," composed of Jesus the Head and those who had been His followers during Gospel age (Gal. 3:16., 29. Rom. 8:17). This work of bringing mankind back to perfection by judgments was what St. Peter in Acts 3:21 called "restitution," and it has been spoken of by every "holy prophet." This was God's provision for the heathen.

Another lecture will be given next Sunday in the Princess at 3.

Two Church Organs To Be Opened On Sunday, May 17th

Work is under way on the installation of the new organ in Knox Church. An extra force of men have been engaged and it is expected that the instrument will be completed in time for the formal opening next Sunday. It is interesting to note that the new organ in the Church of the Sacred Heart will be opened on the same day.

WHEN MONEY'S TIGHT

Jim Smith assumed a Funeral Air and Said to Brown "I do declare that Business hain't just lookin' right it seems to me that Money's Tight." Then Blown took up the Sad Refrain and passed it o nto Neighbour Lane, and he observed to Neighbour Grimes, "this Country's going to see Hard Times." So Grimes got scared and said he, too, would have to make Last Year's car do, and those New Tires that Jones had thought he'd get this Spring remained unbought And soon the whole blame Town was Dead because of what Jim Smith had said, while Travelling Men were much distressed because their Business was depressed and spread the Rumour everywhere that Cash was Scarce and rospects Bare. And so the Country ived in Fear that Panic and Hard Times were near, while Business Men locked up their tills, and said they'd settle No More Bills until the finish they could see of this Financial Stringency. Wise Men put all their Bonds in hock and rammed their Dough down in the Sock and hid their Rings and Jewels from sight and Money NATURALLY got tight. Then one day Jim Smith changed his Views when he read in the Daily News that Banks expected they would Clear Ten Million mole'n they did Last Year. He said to Brown "Well, I opine the Buiness Outlook's Pretty Fine, and all the News Despatches state that crops this year are Simply Great. By heck, I knew we'd be alright, you can't tell ME that Money's tight." And Brown went round and said to Grimes, "I think we're in for Better Times," and Grimes dropped in on Dealer Parr about his 1914 Car. Soon business took its Natura gait when Coin began to circulate and folks commenced to Buy and Spend and brought the panic to an End. Oh, darn these Smiths and Browns and Jones with streaks of yellow in their bones, they have no Sand, they're krees are Weak, the Cyclone Cellar they all seek when they first see a sign of Trouble. If they'd just stop and prick the Bubble, it's plain to see, they'd quickly find, TIGHT MONEY'S JUST A STATE OF MIND.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT PARK ST. CHURCH

Evangelist Pugsley Delivered Two Inspiring Sermons Yesterday

The special anniversary services in the Park Street Baptist Church last evening were very largely attended, the Church being crowded to the doors at the evening service. Evangelist W. A. Pugsley delivered two inspiring sermons that were listened to with rapt attention by the congregations.

His subject in the morning service was "House Cleaning." He referred to the instances of casting out evil spirits, in one case in the temple and in the other out of the swine, and pointed out that the mission of the Church to-day was to drive out evil spirits out o fthe men. At the close of the sermon the Church building fund was presented and the neat sum of $210 was raised.

In the evening Evangelist Pugsley spoke from the subject, "The Horizon Widens as We Climb," taking up the life and work of Moses as a great leader of God. He dealt with the four epochs of Moses' life, as a babe in the bull rushes, a boy with brains, the burning bush and the brasen serpent. The evangelist showed that Moses took a stand for God, lived a life of service for God and was eventually rewarded. $165 was contributed to the Church building fund, a total of $375 for the day.

Special music was ably given by the choir, under the leadership of Prof. Hill. Two anthems at the evening service were splendidly sung.

To-night the social evening in connection with the anniversary will be held. Mr. Pugsley will give an address on "Which Is It?" and there will be special music by the choir. All are cordially welcomed.

FALSE ADVERTISING IS NOW A CRIME

Efforts of Retail Merchants' Association Are Successful—Legislation Passed

The members of the Retail Merchants' Association will be delighted to know that their efforts were not in vain in trying to secure legislation to make the false advertising of any articles a crime. Over a year ago the Dominion Board of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada waited upon the Honourable J. C. Doherty, Minister of Justice, and impressed him with the fact that such legislation was badly needed, and as a consequence he brought down a bill embodying all the features asked for and on Friday last the bill passed its third reading.

Referring to the bill a despatch from Ottawa says:

Hon. J. C. Doherty's bill to amend the criminal code by making is an offence knowingly to make false advertising representations as to the value of articles offered for sale was given its third reading in the House to-day. On the suggestion of Mr. W. M. German (Welland) the bill was amended so as to include pictorial representations as well as false statements.

When the bill was in the committee stage considerable discussion took place. Mr. Doherty emphasized the fact that the measure was directed against persons who deliberately misrepresented the worth of the property they advertised. It did not affect, of course, the expression of opinion as to the merits of goods. The need of the bill had been shown, for example, in connection with real estate advertising of western properties. "The men we want to get at," he said, "are the ones who lie deliberately."

"That's a large contract," commented Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"We don't expect to get them all," replied the Minister, "but we will give dread of the law to the men who do not show fear of God."

For the most part the members regarded the measure with favour, several referring to the wrong done by misrepresentations in real estate and patent medicine advertising. Mr. W. E. Knowles (Moose Jaw), however, described the bill as "dangerous legislation," declaring that the amended law would be much abused by persons who desired to rid themselves of bad bargains into which they had entered.

Some men make gain a fortune whence proceeds a stream of liberal and heroic deeds; the swell of pity not to be confined within the scanty limits of the mind, disdains the bank and throws the golden sands, a rich deposit on the bordering lands.—Cowper.

LACKS VITALITY OF REAL FAITH.

China has a long way to go yet. Nothing caused a greater impetus in China's movement toward free government than the influence of Western civilization, and in that influence no more vital spark existed than that lighted by the Christian missionary.

Now the standpatters of China have gained a momentary victory and purpose to establish the religion of Confucius as the formal religion of the republic.

Confucius was a man who lived about 550 years before Christ. He was an early office holder in China. He was a corn inspector in the markets of his province when he was only 17 years old. He held other jobs and lost them. He lived the varied up and down life of a man dependent upon the friendship of kings, but the characteristic thing about him was his honesty and the deep understanding he had of moral principles.

It seemed so remarkable for a man to be honest in all the sublime sense of the simple statement in those days, that the more Confucius' neighbours thought over it after he died the more they liked it, and after a while they gathered up the philosophy of his life and sayings and put his preachings in a book, and in a few hundred years they made a religion around it. It is fitted to the Chinese habits of life and Chinese tradition. It worships no God; its only vital spark is its reverence for ancestry. Whatever religion it teaches centres about the family ancestors to whom people offer prayer. It is not a religion that goes out to conquer the world for a divine programme and make men everywhere better all the time.

It is merely a gentle, comfortable substitute for the individual who feels he would like to have the respectability of a religious life without any of its sacrifices, and like all other religions that make this appeal, it lacks the virility of a real faith.

If China's effort to have a republican form of government succeeds, Confucianism will fail because it will not be strong and vital enough, and for another reason; a republican form of government recognizes as its first principle the liberty of all men to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience, and will not seek to give state recognition. This will happen in China and then the brand of religion which is the most vital will win.

The blossom cannot tell what becomes of the odor, and no man can tell what becomes of his example, that roll away from him, and go beyond his ken on their perilous mission.—H. W. Beecher.

HOW POLICE WOMAN IN OTTAWA DOES HER WORK

She Does Not Wear a Uniform or Carry a Gun--She Has Had Many Cases Settled Out of Court--Results Are Not All on Police Court Records.

(Ottawa Journal)

Following the visits to Ottawa of policewoman from other large centres there was much enthusiasm and discussion throughout the city over the proposed appointment of one or two women constable in the Capital. Opinions were expressed, varying widely, the pros and cons were considered and finally, in August, Miss Flora Campbell was sworn in as police constable.

Miss Campbell was well acquainted with the style of work in her future field of endeavour, having been connected with the Travelers' Aid Society for a considerable length of time. She is Ottawa's only policewoman.

She wears neither uniform nor visible badge of authority. She has full power to make arrests, but seldom does so. She is not the powerful six-foot type in build, nor even the "militant type. No one could imagine Miss Campbell in such a role. The fact is, she is a rather slight looking person of medium height, and the embodiment of kindness and gentleness. In this lies her secret of success.

The majority have but a vague idea of the duties of a policewoman. At the time of Miss Campbell's appointment, some went so far astray as to conjecture the outcome of an attempted arrest on her part, of an intoxicated man, or other rebellious characters. With the exception of children, Miss Campbell deals only with girls and women. Her work is chiefly in the preventive line. She does not aim to see how many erring mortals she can bring under the hand of the law, but rather how many tangles she can straighten outside of court.

Daily Routine.

At nine o'clock in the morning our policewoman is ready for duty. She looks at the sheet to see if there are any women's cases. Should there be any, she proceeds to the Juvenile Court room. Here the women wait until the men's court is concluded. "I do not appear in court probably more than once or twice a week," Miss Campbell stated. "I go in mainly so that the women or girls will not feel alone. Of course I have to lay the charges."

When young girls appear for the first time, and are dismissed, if the charge is not too serious, Miss Campbell finds employment for them. The others she conducts to the cells, and takes care of in a general manner.

Of course there is always the individual work, all of which is connected with the morality department. But on the whole the policewoman's duties are very indefinite. Once the formalities of the morning are over, she looks up her occurrance book. This contains records of any cases that have been heard of in different parts of the City.

These "differ" vastly. There are cases of a serious nature requiring specia attention, and others that are looked after by Miss Campbell and fixed up without trouble. One of the former cases the Constable cited was that of a woman who had been willfully neglecting her children and spending her own time and that of others in unlawful ways. She visited the woman and had her removed to the police station. The children, she found, were too scantily clad for the street. Communicating with Charity Officer Keane she had clothes sent for the children and had them conveyed to a charitable institution.

Another instance was one of a little girl who refused to remain at home with her mother. On investigation, Miss Campbell found that the parent was not able to keep the child. The girl was placed in a position and is doing well.

Left the Trunk.

Of miscellaneous, there was reported an appeal to find the owner of a trunk. A domestic had taken leave of her employed two years previously but had left her trunk. There was hardly the ghost of a chance that the girl would return, and the trunk was sent to the police station. Miss Campbell stated that many domestics take a special delight in disappearing mysteriously and on the mistress' reporting, it is the policewoman's duty to find the girls.

Up to the present date Miss Campbell has only actually arrested two girls, one in the city, and one she followed to Calton Place. The latter was charged with stealing in Ottawa, and upon discovery, taking the goods to Carleton Place.

"There are more arrests prevented than made," Miss Campbell stated. There were cases, she said, of quarrels between husbands and wives which were very often settled out of court, by her visiting the wife and heping to straighten matters out.

Visits the "Movies."

Another part of the policewoman's day's work is the visiting of the moving picture shows, to ascertain if any children under fifteen years of age are admitted without guardians. The "movies," Miss Campbel thinks, are not so bad for the children as some people imagine—providing they see the proper kind. There are some instructive, some humorous, that would rather do the child good. But again, there are those which are vulgar, though passable to censorship. These are demoraizing. "Let them go with guardians about once a week to a cean moving picture show," says Miss Campbell.

Better than Saloons.

She thinks that, for a certain class of men, the "picture shows" have taken the place, to a great extent, of the hotel. "I have heard from the wives of those men, that their husbands, who at other times would spend their earnings in a saloon, go to the picture theatres instead," she stated. "But these heatres must be kept clean," she added, "clean and airy."

The policewoman's work is wide and varied. It will be readily understood that on no two days is her work exactly similar. She follows no schedule, has no "beat." It is a duty of investigation and elevation. "I have found from experience, that you cannot treat two human beings in the same manner. There are no two alike," was the answer Miss Campbell gave, when asked if she did not find it interesting, dealing with different types of humanity.

Some offenders need only a kind word entreaty to set them again on the right road, others need to be reasoned with emphatically; some need to be commonded, while others, it is pitiful to say, are beyond all this. When they come to this point, where they have lost every vestige of self respect, it takes more than human power to restore it to them.

In Ottawa, however, we have very few of these cases. In Toronto, for instance, the women's court is nearly as large as the men's. The cases are more extreme. It is very gratifying to note that this city which has advanced so extensively and speedily in the last quarter of a century, has not advanced to a very large extent, in this kind of crime. In this line of work to which our policewoman attends, Ottawa's sound morals have been wonderfully well preserved.

That a policewoman is a necessary asset of the city is without doubt. Since it is her duty to prevent degeneration, in every way possible, it rests with her to keep those morals sound. And she does it well. It is not her aim to appear in prominence before the public. Her work is quiet, but exceedingly effective.

The most happy man is he who knows how to bring into relation the end and the beginning of his life.—Goethe.

FOUND LEECH IN WATER TAP

A good many citizens are said to like a little "something" in their drinking water, but when that little something takes the form of a large-sized leech the average Peterborite is liable to draw the line. That is what Mr. R. Gordon, 180 Perry Street, discovered by means of a filter on his water tap, and he brought the filter and leech to the engineer's office as exhibi. A to-day.

Grocery Store Was Entered

The grocery store of Mr. T. B. Maniece, at the corner of Hunter and Mark Streets, East City, was entered some time between Saturday night and this morning, and a quantity of candies and similar articles were stolen. The theft was quite evidently committed by some small boys, judging from the articles stolen. Entrance was obtained to the store by means of a back window. The case has been reported to the police.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S ADDRESS

Special to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, May 11—At the sailors' funeral at Brooklyn Navy Yards which was the terminus of the memorial procession President Wison addressed the crowd in a remarkable address, in which he expressed envy for the heroes who had died at their duty. He clearly indicated that if need be the nation was ready to make further sacrifices in the same cause.

Many Canines Are Paying The Penalty

Of Being Tagless and Ownerless Police Have Bagged Quite a Number

One by one, and in some instances, two or three at a time, the stray dogs are being corralled and removed forever from the streets of Peterborough. Since the first of May, on which date the "Dog By-law" came into force, the policemen have been keeping their weather eye open for ownerless and tagless animals, with the result that the funeral pyre of many has been solemnized within the ovens of the local incinerator. As yet there is no official dog-catcher, and the present law providing that stray canines without tags shall be arrested and held in the death cell for twenty-four hours, and at the expiration of that time, unless he is claimed by some sorrowing owner, shall pay the penalty of his condition by being introduced into the business section of the incinerator, seems to be effective even without such an official. Some owners of dogs who were at a loss how to dispose of them, have brought them to the Police Station and asked for their execution. Others who have been bothered with stray canines bring the offenders and place them at the mercy of the Police Department, and in various ways the procession to the all-consuming machine in the south is kept more or less continuous.

As yet no pound has been provided so that some of the most suspicious looking animals do not even get the 24 hours' respite allowed by law. That means that if any one mises their pet dog, which they know has been wandering tagless in the neighbourhood for some time, and suspect that it has been taken in charge by an officer of the law, quick action must be taken to save his life. The by-law has been in force only ten days, yet a goodly number of dogs have been disposed of.

Last year there were 521 dog tags issued. This year already there have been 543 tags issued from the Police Station. Of that number 143 have been issued in the last week, and 420 of them in the last couple of weeks. The heaviest day of all was the 30th of April, when 76 tags were issued.

BASE BALL OUTFIT FOR SACRED HEART YOUTHS

The Total Abstinence Society of the Sacred Heart Church have decided to secure a complete baseball outfit for the boys, and have arranged that the ball grounds shall be at the service of the boys after four o'clock each day. The young men who work may use them after supper and on Saturday afternoon. The proposal to lay out a bowling green has been abandoned on account of the possibility that the children would have to be kept off it entirely. The suggestion for a regular playgrounds for the children has been tentatively mentioned, but nothing will be done until exact information is obtained concerning the requirements.

CRICKETERS HAVE BEGUN PRACTICE

The Peterborough Cricket Club is beginning its practices for the season, eight games having been arranged for already. Net practice was held on Saturday afternoon, and it is felt that the team will be a strong one. Among the teams that will be met during the season are several from Toronto.

E. MORROW, Treasurer.

Secretary's Report.

The secretary's report, which was submitted by Mrs. Arthur Stevenson was as follows:

"During the past year your board of managers has held eighteen meetings with an average attendance of twelve members. This year the board appointed an executive consisting of the president and officers of the board and the following members: Mrs. Rogers, Cressman, Walsh, Wood and Scott. This executive has held five meetings."

"During this year many important changes on the staff have taken place. Illness caused the retirement of Mrs. Morris the president, an illness probably accelerated by her indefatigable exertions on behalf of the welfare and advancement of the association. It was with the utmost regret that the board accepted her resignation. Fortunately for the welfare of the association the vice-president was Miss Dickson who has since acted in Mrs. Morris' place. Other changes in the staff were the resignation of the secretaries, Mrs. Grey and Miss Dyer as well as that of Mrs. Read who for so many years filled the position of superintendent of the boarding home so acceptably to the board."

"Considerable sums were expended upon improvements to the building, particularly that part concerned with the heating system, which was extended to all rooms on the west side — twenty in number — necessitating the complete overhauling and renewal of the furnace, the results of which have been most satisfactory."

"Owing to the increased scope of the work the financial system was changed to conform with that provided for in the constitution and the present financial statement is based upon the new system."

"The boarding home is at present under the able management of Mrs. Barnes. The house has been practically filled to its capacity since last September and there are at present sixty-three boarders."

"We are thankful to be able to say that there has been no serious illness in the house during the year. Miss Belts is temporarily in charge of the office."

PAVEMENT WILL BE COMPLETED

When H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught comes to Peterborough on the first of June the central portion of the main street will present a more up-to-date appearance than it has at any time during the past. George Street, from the C.P.R. Station to McDonnel Street, will be completely paved, this including the construction work of the Street Railway Company, and the bricks that are being placed between the rails of the track.

It has been supposed by many citizens that George Street would still be in a chaotic condition on the first of next month, but this idea is distinctly erroneous. Unless an unusually long period of bad weather holds up the paving operations, George Street will be a finished article by that date. It is probable too that a good deal of Charlotte Street will also have passed through the hands of Messrs. Foley and Gleason by that time. This depends, however, on the rapidity with which the Railway Company relay their track on Charlotte Street.

Henry Clews' Review Of Stock Market Influences

Crop Outlook is Exceptionally Encouraging But Mexican Situation is Uncertain and Market's Immediate Future Depends On It

NEW YORK, May 9, 1914. — The stock market is working its way through a series of difficulties, and there still remain two distinct and opposing sets of influences which may at any time alter the present drift of affairs. Chief of the favourable factors are easy money, fine crop prospects and expectatoins of a favourable decision regarding railroad rates. Time money is abundant, and funs are accumulating owing chiefly to the general slackness of business. Our exports continue on a liberal scale, but the large increase of imports under the new tariff tends to keep down the balance of trade, which in March amounted to only $4,800,000 in our favour, a smaller balance than usual, which is significant. The new banking law is expected to go into effect early in the autumn, and this will be an additional source of confidence so far the money situation is concerned.

Crop Outlook Good.

As for the crop outlook, that is exceptionally brilliant, the Government report just issued showing a condition of 95.9 p.c. for winter wheat, as compared with 91.9 p.c. a year ago and a ten-year average of 85.5 p.c. The most reliable estimates are that this suggests a crop of 630,000,000 bushels of winter wheat; and if the spring crop reaches its present promise of about 300,000,000 we will have a crop of approximately 930,000,000 bushels. This spells prosperity for the wheat belt. Even if these early estimates should be cut down, as is not unlikely before the harvest, the margin of increase is so unusual as to practically insure a bumper crop. This means big traffic for the railroads and plenty of money to spend by farmers in the wheat belt.

Concern For Railways.

The impression steadily gains that some concessions will be made to the railroads in the matter of rates at an early date. Current railroad earnings are still unsatisfatcory, though much less so than in February and March. A few roads report fairly encouraging gross results; others showing heavy declines, not only in gross, but particularly in net results. While the roads will undoubtedly be assisted by a moderate advance in rates, it is possible that they will continue to show the effect of a smaller volume of spring traffic for some time to come.

During the first four months of the current year the new incorporations in principal States of the United States aggregated only $365,000,000, against $888,000,000 the same time last year. This astonishing shrinkage of about 60 per cent. in new enterprise is largely attributable to political conditions.

The Mexican War.

The most potent factor in the financial situation is of course the Mexican problem. Thus far war has been successfully averted. It must be admitted, however, that in high political circles there is very little confidesce in the success of mediation. Should meditation fail no one can tell what may follow. It is to be hoped that intervention will be avoided, and that Mexico will be allowed like any other nation or any other individual to work out its own salvation.

Altogether the Mexican situation is a most unfortunate one, and cannot legitimately be interpreted as a favourable market feature. Nevertheless, it may serve to turn the public mind from ills upon which it has dwelt too long and perhaps too seriously. It will stir up new activities, create new interests. War offers stimulates inflation; and military invasion of Mexico will ultimately be followed by a more peaceful invasion of American capital and labour, which will redound to the benefit of the United States. In the long run any operation, however costly it may be, that will insure peace and prosperity to Mexico, with its vast territory and fifteen millions of people, will be an element of future prosperity for the United States.

The Markets Future.

As for the future of the stock market, it would seem as if prices should be more responsive to good news than to bad news. The latter has been largely discounted. Values of many good stocks are still very low. There is a fair demand for bonds which proves that capital is awaiting investment when terms are satisfatcory. General trade is quiet and may possibly so continue throughout the summer. This is confirmed by conditions in the iron trade, which however shows a slight tendency towards betterment. As said above, easy money and good crops will do much toward business revival; but for the time being Mexico is the controlling factor, and upon developments there the course of the market must largely depend.

DIRECTORY OF OPPORTUNITIES.

It is a good plan to take the time to acquaint one's self with the opportunities that are presented through the Examiner Want Columns.

Keeping close track of the "Wants" means being in touch with changes that are worth while.

Opportunities for employment, for renting, for selling, for buying, for exchanging—chances for investment—all are enumerated from time to time in the "Want" columns of the EXAMINER.

GOING TO HEAVEN

(Clarence W. Chadwick, in C. S. Sentinel)

In the light of reason and revelation the thought of going to a far distant heaven is no longer entertained in the past. While Christian Science has already worked a radical change in the minds of many relative to the nature of the heavenly kingdom, there are still not a few persons who cling to the belief in a far-away place where all good people are supposed to go after what is called death. Because their ancestors believed in such a heaven they believe in it, and they get no farther until mentally aroused to the fact that Heaven is not a material abode, but a state of spiritual consciousness, the consciousness of good, and good only.

The moment individual thought is aroused to the nature and requirements of the kingdom of heaven, one begins to "put off the old man," who is constantly looking forward to postmortem achievements, and to "put on the new man," the understanding of spiritual creation. The spiritual man, God's image and likeness, can have no consciousness of material environment or limitation. Did not the great Teacher of mankind distinctly say, "My kingdom is not of this world"? In spite of popular belief, does not his ascension signify an exalted state of consciousness which transcends all mortal thinking? The wonderful story of Jesus ascending into heaven but expresses the spiritual exaltation which marked the closing scene of the Master's final demonstration of Truth over error. This demonstration should be an incentive to all mankind to begin the all-important work of so purifying human consciousness that it may become worthy of experiencing the joys of the kingdom of heaven on earth.

Who could read Jesus' parables descriptive of the kingdom of heaven and for one moment imagine heaven to be a far-off abode? Is the stickler for a literal interpretation of Scriptures satisfied to be told that heavenly kingdom 'is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field? Does this point to a commodious place somewhere ace for saints to inhabit? Is it m. more comforting to him to be told that 'the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind"? Do not these very parables, as well as the others pertaining to the kingdom, reveal unmistakably the thought of separation in individual consciousness between the tares and the wheat, of a mental purification, growth, development, and preparation for a present-day enjoyment of spiritual things? Do they not emphasize the fact that 'the kingdom of heaven is at hand"? that it is something to be realised here and now, and that it is within" and not without?

When questioned by the Pharisees as to "when the kingdom of God should come," Jesus replied, "The kingdom of God cometh not with observation;" and continuing, he said, "The kingdom of God is within you," —or "among you," to use the marginal rendering. If the kingdom was among them and they could not see it, was it a place or a condition? If heaven is a place, the physical senses would be cognizant of the fact. But being a sate of pure or spiritual consciousness, the testimony of these senses cannot define or locate this "secret place of the most High."

In Hebrews we read of those "who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage." Why this fear and suffering if death is the gateway to the kingdom? Because of the uncertainty of this experience, which, according to Bible teaching, is wholly an invention of the father of lies; and because no human advocate of this invention has even been able to furnish any convincing proof of a post-mortem paradise, mortals have entered into a state of uncertainty and fear which is to-day responsible for untold human suffering. The pure teachings of Christian Science, however, enable awakening humanity to clasp God's right hand and to go forth armed with the omnipotence and omnipresence of Life to conquer this gigantic deception of the ages, "the last enemy that shall be destroyed." This work may not be done in a day, but it can be begun at once, the door to the kingdom of heaven may be opened wide, and moral and physcal healing speedly result. Christian Science has proved a thousand times over that a whole multitude of physical and mental discords have taken a hasty departure the moment the true idea or conception of the kingdom of heaven has been revealed to individual consciousness.

To the Christian Scientist, "going to heaven" is purely a mental process, by which the tares, or wrong thoughts, are separated from the wheat, or good thoughts, in human consciousness. This process is advanced by the unceasing prayer of watchfulness, whereby human consciousness becomes purged of all thoughts of death, disease, suffering, poverty and uncleanness, and the "peace, be still," of the sacred Word brings the realizing sense of the presence and protection of the power of God. Heaven is thus proved to be "not meat and drink" nothing which carnal sense can enjoy, "but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost."

Awakening to this great spiritual truth, and laying hold of the unseen facts of eternal existence, is the only "going to heaven" that will ever take place.

CUNARD LINER FRANCONIA OF THE OCEAN "RESCUE FLEET.—It is astonishing how often the Cunard liners figure in notable rescues at sea. The Franconia has added to the laurels of her line by picking up 13 passengers from the burning freighter Columbian.

A WIZARD WITH THE CUE AT 15 YEARS OF AGE

Now that Willie Hoppe has won the 14.1 balkline championship which with ethe 18.1 and 18.2 titles gives him possession of three word's billiard emblems, the question is asked throughout the universe: Who is there in the game that can take, or ever hope to take, the measure of the dashing young New York wizard of the cue?

The answer is: No one, at present. And the answer can be made without wounding the feelings of any of the other great masters of billiards. Time was, and not very far back, when the respective followers of the late Frank Ives and Jacob Schaefer and of such living stars as Slosson, Sutton and Morningstar, would rise to claim supremacy for their field. But not so now, as Hoppe's work of the last six months alone has shown him to be so conclusively in a class by himself that even his rivals themselves, to say nothing of their adherents, openly admit this superiority.

But they are grooming a youngster in Chicago that bids fair to some day throw down the gauntlet to Champion Hoppe, with perhaps, more than a fair chance of wresting the laurels of the green cloth from te brilliant young Gothamite, who has literally swept everything before him in his mad gallop, which has ended in his winning three championships. And who knows that he will not beat De Ore for three-cushion honors if given an opportunity? A four-time winner is said to be Hoppe's goal, and there may be no stopping him.

Product of Iowa ... ...

The youngster in question is Welker Cochrane, the 15-yearold schoolboy, who hails from Manson, Iowa, and who, under the ardent tutelage of Professor Lanson Perkins of Chicago, is playing the greatest billiards ever put up by a lad of his age, not excepting Hoppe, who, when not quite 17, crossed over to France, and [illegible] Monsieur Vignaux.

In a recent 500-point match at 18.2 balk line in Massey's room at Chicago with Dr. Harley Parker, one of the wisest City's leading amateurs, Cochrane averaged 38 and had a high run of 105. A few nights later he met another crack Chicago amateur, named Richardson in a 250-point match at 18.2, and ran the game out in two innings, for an average of 125. He counted 45 from the bank and then ran out with 205 unfinished, leaving the balls in perfect position, so that had the occasion demanded it he might have gathered 200 or more.

Who ever heard of such billiards from a player so youthful? And that is not all. The boy has won two tournaments at Massey's, one at 18.2 balk line and the other at 3-cushion caroms, which amply proves his versatility. Moreover, he is most consistent and, like Hoppe, is blessed with an immovable temperament, which is a big asset for a billiardist.

Studies First in Mind.

At present young Cochrane is taking a general course at Lane Technical school, from which he will graduate next February. Welker is an energetic boy and his studies are always first in mind. Naturally they deprive him of much billiard practice but he counts on finishing school in time to allow him to buckle down in preparation to rthe National Amateur championship of 1915, and that he will be a starter in the latter classic there can be no doubt.

Already the Chicago fans are counting on Young Cochrane to bring the coveted amateur emblem back to the shores of Lake Michigan, just as Fred Conklin and Calvin Demarest have done before him. It may take a few years yet to fit the wonderful lad for a battle with Hoppe for professional honours, but the boy is being groomed now with that end in view and the fans throughout the world may some day have a surprise in store for them.

WHAT IS "KITCHEN ENGINEERING?"

The Ladies of Peterborough and vicinity are invited to a series of Lectures on the subject of "Kitchen Engineering."

These Lectures will not be long drawn-out, dry affairs, but short and interesting talks on how to engineer a meal.

GAS, it may be mentioned, is much more convenient than any other system of cooking, and at least equal in point of economy and results.

The Gurney Foundry Co., who are large makers of Gas Stoves, have made a study of "Kitchen Engineering." That is to say they set out to reduce cooking arrangements to a science, or in other words develop a system of having the soup ready first, the roast next and at the same time as the vegetables, then dessert.

You will learn at these talks HOW TO ENGINEER OR ARRANGE A MEAL, and we do not know how the housewife can spend a more profitable or interesting half hour than this.

Admission will be by ticket, good for the entire series of Lectures, and tea will be served with our compliments at the afternoon Lectures.

Dropped Three In Row To Erie
Petes' Hitting Was Very Light

Sterling, Tracey and Belting Were All Beaten, the Swede Getting a Bad Lacing Yesterday--Fitzpatrick Held the Blountmen to Five Hits.

Examiner Special:

ERIE, May 10.—Superior pitching, with good support, won two ball games for Erie Saturday against Peterborough. The first half of the doubleheader, played to make up for Friday's rain, was pulled out of the fire after Peterborough had scored three runs in the second inning. The Yankees commenced a determined assault upon Curley Blount's friends in the fourth and finished the visitors to the good. In the second game, though his support fell down at times, Morris pitched classy ball and held the visitors to two run. His mates made three.

The second game was by far the better of the two. The Peterborough visitors flared up for a moment in the first session, but in the second setto both teams went along like clockwork. Morris pitched a brilliant game for Erie, striking out ten men. Tracey went well for Peterborough after the first inning.

Peterborough Gets Three.

Curley Blount sent his men away for the jump in the first game and obtained it. Dorbeck, pitching for Erie, faltered before the visitors' attack and three runs resulted. With Swartz flown, Byrne doubled down the left field foul line, took third on a wild pitch and was run down between third and home when Price rolled a slow one at Dorbeck. Dorbeck then walked Kelly. Sterling, pitching for Peterborough, met the first ball to him for a triple to deep centre. Price and Kelly counted and Sterlin crossed a moment later when Blount dropped a Texas leaguer back of first. Fox was an easy out to Dorbeck.

Dorbeck met trouble in the next inning when Peterborough worked a man to third with one down. Dorbeck squared about and struck out both Byrne and Price. After that he never was in danger. Wiltse booted one in the eighth, but Byrne was doubled with Price a moment later.

Two were gone in the fourth inning when the Yankees made their first runs. Heinie Smith skidded one to right and Behan followed with a slashing three base drive to the left field fence. Price, in relaying the ball, threw wild to third and Behan scored.

Three in the Fifth.

In the fifth Erie put the game away. Dorbeck led off with a single to centre. Harris made three ineffectual attempts to centre. Harris made three ineffectual attempts to bunt and was called out. Dawson walked and Gygli's singled moved Dorbeck to third and Dawson to second. Kelley threw the ball away when he attempted to trap Dorbeck at third. Dorbeck counted and the other runners moved up. Sterling then filled the bases for the second time by passing Schaeffer. Smith a infield out to King sent Dawson over with another run and moved Gygli to third. He scored a moment later on a wild pitch. Schaeer died on third when Behand grounded to Price.

Erie got its final run in the next inning on a pass to Wiltse, his steal and Dawson's double to centre. Between Wiltse and Dawson, Sterling had fanned McNeil and Dorbeck, and walked Harris. Gygli made the third out when, attempting to evade a pitch the ball struck his bat and rolled fair.

Second Game.

Erie got away with the gun in the second game, scoring two runs. Harris walked and stole second. Dawson beat out a pretty bunt in front of the plate. Gygli walked and Schaeffer singled to right, scoring Harris and Dawson.

ERIE, Pa., May 10.—Erie struck its batting stride to-day, and won the final game from Peterborough with ease. Belting was hit hard and often, while Fitzgerald pitched good ball for the Yankees. But for poor support in the second inning by Behand and Dunn, he would have got away with a shut out and four hits. Behan and Dunn booted two in succession, and Dunn was caught napping on a bunt by Price. Gygli starred at the bat for Erie, obtaining three hits, including a triple and a double. Timely batting and errors by Peterborough made the victory easy. The score:

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

(London Free Press.)

We had a look at the Ottawas and St. Thomas on Wednesday afternoon, and while the game did not last long enough to get a proper chance to size the gang up, there is no doubt but that both are stronger than last year. Shaughnessy showed one new player on his infield, Nill, on second, a likely looking ball player. The outfield, Rogers, Shag and Pete Powers, was the same as last year. The infield looks better, particularly since Bullock is hitting. His tossing yesterday was not good. Hall, a new twirler, is a big fellow, who seems to know the game. He has breaks and control, and should do. Lage is catching well, too. Altogether they look first class. The Saints, under Craven have a good outfield, and the infield when they get working together will be fast and accurate. Traikill, on third, is a newcomer, a good fielder, not a hard hitter, but very likely to beat one in a pinch. Hadly on second, is a great fielder, and will hit. Forgue has more confidence than last year, and is greatly improved. Bill Baker pitched very well, although he was mighty lucky to get out without a score. He put the first one right over in the groove, and Shag's men simply slammed it. In the second innings, the bases were filled with one out. Rogers should have scored a run there, but tried to steal when there was no excuse, and was tossed out at second easily. Dolan followed with a hit. Powers was right on the plate when Hall hit the ball, making the third out. Had Hall stood still, Powers certainly would have scored, as both Baker and Nevitt failed to see him until he was on the plate. By the way, Nevitt is a mighty fine catcher, and will help the Saints a lot. He is a hard worker, heady player, and will make some difference to the team. The two clubs are in good shape physically, and will improve.

Hamilton Spectator: Sir John M. Gibson, lieutenant-governor of the province of Ontario, will assist in the opening ceremonies of the first Canadian league ball game for 1914 at the local park, on Thursday afternoon next. Sir John will be in the city to open Gibson school, the new addition to Hamilton's many educational buildings, and at the request of the members of the school board, all of whom want to take in the ball game, has agreed to perform his duties in connection with the school ceremonies at 2 p.m. and then adjourn to the ball park, where at three o'clock he will throw out a brand new ball to Mayor John Allan for the official start. With the lieutenant-governor on the job and all Hamilton out to send the Hams away to a good start, Thursday should be a big day in local baseball history.

Hamilton Herald: 'Tis strange what a few short hours will bring about. The Brantford dailies yesterday were shouting from the house-tops of the great ability of their 1914 representatives, and the poor looking lot from Hamilton. To-day the Athletics are alluded to as the likely looking club in the league, possessing everything that goes to make up a great team, while every member of the Brants is charged with making some blunder or pulling a bone of some sort. 'Twas ever thus.

Sketches of The Blountmen

Iowarth "Culery" Blount, Outfielder and Manager.—Height, 5 ft., 6 1-2 in., weight, 160 lbs. He started his professional career with the Youngstown Club, pennant winners of the same League. In 1909 he joined the Fort Wayne Club of the Central League and remained with that club for the following five years. At this time the Fort Wayne Club was always fighting for the pennant, and finally landed it in 1913. In 1913 he signed as Manager of the Youngstown Club in the Interstate League, which Cub was in second place when the League disbanded, on July 15. "Curley" finished the season in Greenville, playing independent ball with an all-star aggregation. He signed a contract to manage the Peterborough Club this spring. "Curley" is fast, a sure fielder and a .300 hitter. In his years in baseball he has always been on a first-division club and, an pennant winners three seasons. When asked regarding his chances of being on a "Pennant Winner" this season he replied that he had not played in this League, nor had not seen any of the games played and preferred not to prophesy, but he firmly believes he is not under estimating the strength of the League and assures the fans of Peterborough that he will have a well-balanced team and one that will be fighting all the time. To round up a pennant-winning aggregation in one season is a huge undertaking, as the fans wil realize. With the exception of the pitching department which is intact, "Curley" has had to practically build up a whole new team, as most of the stars of last season were either drafted or recalled by the Clubs to which they belonged.

BASEBALL COMMENT.

Joe Byrne is going great guns for the Petes. He is hitting in every game and his fielding has been perfect. The Petes' infield are all showing class in the field, only one error being charged to them in four games.

The Blountmen had a real bad day at Erie yesterday. The other games were battles, but yesterday the squad kicked in with five errors while Belting was found for twelve safeties, meanwhile Jack Fitzpatrick held the Petes down to five safeties.

Well, better luck at St. Thomas to-day.

Belting has been troubled with a sore arm and is evidently not fit to go the route.

Schettler or Cresswell pitch for the Blountmen at St. Thomas to-day, with the odds favouring the former.

Irvin Trout has been going like a big leaguer with the Toronto Beavers. In the two games in which he has played he has had three doubles. Thursday he starred with a sensational running catch of a foul fly, and Saturday he started the rally that defeated the Tecumsehs.

Big Bill Schaeffer, another ex-Peterborough player, gets credit for the victory in Saturday's game. London was two runs ahead when the Reading boy relieved Schwab, and the Beavers won out afterwards

The Petes' fielding in the first three games lived up to advance notice, the team making only three errors, an average of one misplay a game.

The St. Thomas team dropped two games on their own grounds Saturday. Shag's two new pitchers, Hall and Shocker, came through with a win each.

Peterborough will play six games at home, commencing Thursday. The London team is here the last three days of this week, after which the Ottawa champs drop into Town for a three-days' visit.

Reasons Why Peterborough Boys Should Play Lacrosse

A meeting of the Lacrosse Club executive is called for this evening to decide upon the disposal of the junior sticks. Mr. George Robertson took the first complete dozen on Friday night and has the game well in hand among the boys in the neighbourhood of Wolfe and Stewart Streets. This is the first real activity among the smaller boys although Mr. Roebrtson has had some of the boys out for weeks. They were, however, handicapped for the want of sticks and only now can they get into the game with all the boys playing.

Other members have taken a few sticks, but it remained for the south end to get away first and most satisfactorily. There are boys all over the town who should be encouraged to take up the game. The old boys must get it firmly fixed in their minds that the boys of fourteen and fifteen have never seen a lacrosse game. That is a positive fact. The average boy of fourteen and under, the boys who are expected to take up the game, have never seen an exemplification, if such you might call it, of Canada's national game. Here is a problem that is by no means the least in getting the boys into lacrosse. They must be encouraged all the way down the line, and there is no use of making a few false starts. Those who undertake the work must decide that they are going out with true missionary zeal. There is the whole summer to work out the rejuvenation of the game, but the proper time to get soundly going is right now.

There will undoubtedly be several teams under way in the near future and the boys can then contend with each other. The committee has practically decided that the junior sticks shall be disposed of to boys of fourteen years and under.

Why Boys Should Play It.

The statement that lacrosse is too rough is nothing short of an indictment of the virility and stamina of the present youth. It was not too rough for their fathers twenty-five years ago, and to-day's lacrosse is much tamer, but faster, than the old style game. If comparisons were to be made, just for example, baseball might be said to be too rough because a boy in a U. S. town was hit on the nose by a pitched ball with resulting cerebral injuries which may prove fatal. It is true that in lacrosse there will be a few bumps handed out, but the average healthy boy needs a bump or two. He needs to know when to take them and possibly when they should be handed out.

A Grand Game.

Lacrosse will develop no weakness in a boy. Every lad in the game is working equally with the others. There is no hanging around waiting your turn. All the boys are in it all the time. It is one of the best wind and lung developers in the whole list. The game presents every facility to the scientific handling of the ball, to agility and grace in movement. In fact, any father who will honestly consider the question will encourage his boys to get into the game.

Mr. J. Wearing Gave Address

At the meeting of the Peterborough Ministerial Association this morning, Mr. Joseph Wearing, M.A., Assistant Crown Attorney, spoke on the Metaphysics of Rudolf Eucken, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Jena, Germany, and one of the greatest philosophers of modern times.

Mr. Wearing said that two great channels of thought in connection with theories of knowedge have led on the one hand to rationalism, and on the other to empericism. According to the rationalists, knowledge was the result of the self activity of thought by reason of a priori concepts or original ideas. To use the language of Plato, the idea becomes a creator, a cause. The Empericists on the other hand, have held knowledge to be entirely the result of sense impressions which the mind associates, analyzes and synthesyses. Locke said, "The soul is orginally an empty tablet (tabula rasa) and experience is the source of all our ideas, the source of all knowledge."

Rationalism leads to a shadowland of formal concepts, a conclusion which cannot satisfy in a time of scientific research, when it is clear that there is a world of experience which cannot be accounted for by any postulate of original ideas. By the same token empiricism tends to cold, barren materialism where everything is subject to immutable and, for the most part, brutal laws, and where everything is a creature of environment alone. This, too, is unsatisfying because of an inherent desire in human beings for a connected thought world with an inner unity, and because of a feeling that man is not wholly subject to outside forces or altogether a creature of environment.

Eucken attempts to reconcile these two extreme positions by pointing out that both are right to a large extent, but that both have made the mistake of ignoring the other. One ignores the objective side of man and thinks entirely of the subjective, while the other thinks entirely of the subjective, and ignores the objective. "The corner stone of all philosophical thought," says Eucken, "and the axiom of axioms is the fact of a world-embracing spiritual life." This spiritual life is the basis of all thought, and the inspiration of all knowledge, and "knowlege appeals in a new light when it is directed neither towards itself nor towards what lies beyond itself, but essentially and from the outset is directed towards the spiritual life by which it is itself composed."

Eucken goes further and states that the specific character of man results from the combination of greatness with limitations. Man's greatness lies in the fact that the very essence of his being is this imminent spiritual principle which is in itself capable of all knowledge, and his limitations arise from the fact that "knowledge grows from more to more" only as the great world whole is to a greater or lesser extent is experienced. This experience can only come with effort and the man who fully realises himself is he who allows his spiritual nature, the most absolute freedom in embracing the opportunities for development which life affords. Eucken's philosophy had been truly called "a philosophy of life."

Special to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, MAN., May 11. — There was very cold weather over entire Western Canada last night, the thermometer registering 17 degrees of frost at Swan River, in Northern Manitoba, and dropped down to 10 degrees at Lethbridge, Southern Alberta. EXPLANATION FROM PELLETIER

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA. May 11.—The Commons commenced this morning's session today with a surprisingly large attendance in their seats. Before the orders of the day were called Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, rose to a question of privilege and called attention to the discussion in the House on Friday last, when Hon. Rodolphe E. Lemieux, had stated that in the case of a mail carrier who had lost his life on Mountains Lake while trying to save the mails, the Postmaster-general had refused to make a grant to his widow. "As a matter of fact," said Postmaster-General Pelletier to-day, "I asked Parliament to vote $1.000 to the widow of the mail carrier. It was voted and handed over. I also made the widow postmistress of Aka." Mr. Lemieux and Sir Wilfred Laurier apologised. They said there had been a misunderstanding.

THE DUKE AT ST. CATHARINES

ST. CATHARINES, May 11.—The Duke of Connaught and party were given an enthusiastic reception here to-day In the afternoon the party in automobiles inspected the operations and the route of the new Welland Canal.

SAYS PARLIAMENT HAS NOT THE POWER

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 11.—That the Canadian Parliament does not at present time possess power to increase the senator representations of either British Columbia or Manitoba was the contention in the Commons to-day of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He said a joint resolution should be passed by the Comomns and the Senate, asking the Imperial Parliament to create a new group of 24 senators for the western provinces. The prime minister admitted that the suggestion was one worthy of consideration.

REGULAR DIVIDEND DECLARED ON C.P.R.

Special to A. H. Stratton & Co.:

NEW YORK, May 11.—In the late afternoon the market eased off more as a result of neglect than of pressure of stock. Buying which caused early advance did not follow prices up and there was an inclination to await developments in M.O.P. situation before under making heavy commitments on long side. Some of the higher priced industrials advanced sharply on a moderate volume of buying. Sugar advanced sharply 1 1-4 and H.R. sold up 3 1-4 points. Latter stock was helped by prospects of a record breaking wheat crop. Traders said there was a resumption of buying of A.C.P. by a strong pool which would have to put the price considerably higher to get out at a profit. After the declaration of the regular dividend on Can. Pac. that issue advanced sharply to 192 1-4, an advance of two points from the morning.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

A trading market with special stocks gaining is the prospect for the coming week. The Mexican situation is the sore spot, supplemented by the Washington corporation agitation, although the rebel victories combined with the mediation meeting on May 18 are likely to make for favorable developments. Offhand, what is at present behind disturbances is briefly: the tariff, inflation in finance and commerce, trade depression and many uncertainties, the great benefit of the new currency system. Specialties are coming in favour. The buying is discriminating for immediate profits. Kansas, Texas, Ice, Bethlehem Steel, Westinghose and Tennessee, Copper, are among those favoured on reaction; high grade absorption is found on a break down in Reading, Union Pacific and Copper. Steel is held by a large shortage. The professional element buys for turns, the active trading stocks chiefly.

MAYORS HOUSE GUARDED.

Labor Troubles in Montreal Have Reached Acute Stage.

MONTREAL, May 12.—Detectives were yesterday morning guarding Mayor Martin's house as a result of the labor situation, which has reached an acute stage. Rumors have been heard of threats of violence on the part of the foreign element, who declare that civic officials have held out promises of labor to them which have not been realized.

The mayor is particularly blamed, for it just two weeks ago since he informed a gathering on the Champ de Mars that in a few days there would be work for all. Yesterday morning a growling crowd of out-of-works again took possession of the parade ground, including between three and four thousand men.

From all sides were heard murmurs of discontent, and there were rumors afloat that the unemployed intended to gather in even greater numbers yesterday afternoon if nothing was done to appease them and take the City Hall by storm.

Farmers' Bank Reimbursement Proposal Stoned in House

NICKLE OPPOSES MINISTER

OTTAWA, May 12. — Although it was understood that the debate should not occur until the second reading of the bill, many members of the House yesterday afternoon declared themselves in committee of the whole upon Hon. Mr. White's proposed legislation for the relief of depositors of the Farmers' Bank. W. F. Nickle, the Conservative member from Kingston, denounced the proposed bill as "most pernicious and obnoxious legislation," while Duncan Ross, Liberal member for West Middlesex, declared that he would vote with the Government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hugh Guthrie (South Wellington) insisted that the depositors were being held up by the shareholders for 30 per cent. of the amount to be voted by Parliament. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux insisted that the depositors of certain insolvent chartered banks in the Province of Quebec should share in the bounty of the Government.

Hon. W. T. White, in presenting his resolutions, said that under the findings made by Sir William Meredith, as royal commissioner, the Government was morally bound to recoup the depositors of the Farmers' Bank. These findings were to the effect that the Treasury Board had neglected after proper warning to make any investigation into the charges against W. R. Travers and the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, and had issued a certificate enabling the bank to begin business with insufficient stock.

Mr. A. K. Maclean (Halifax), the Opposition financial critic, declared himself opposed to the legislation. He asked if the Government was a party to any agreement by which the money to be voted was to be portioned between depositors and the shareholders.

Mr. White said that the Government knew of no agreement and was certainly not a party to it.

Mr. Guthrie (S. Wellington) said the depositors had been asked to assign 30 per cent. of what they recovered to the shareholders. Some of them had been told that the legislation would not go through unless they agreed to this. He thought a clause had been inserted in the bill to safeguard depositors, and to declare null and void any such agreement already made between the depositors and the shareholders.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he had received complaints from depositors to the effect that they were being compelled to assign a part of their claim to the shareholders.

Mr. Duncan Ross said he would support the measure although he thought it did not go far enough. He believed that the shareholders should be reimbursed as well as the depositors.

Mr. White said the shareholders deserve no consideration because Travers was their agent.

Mr. Nickle (Kingston) said he could not support the proposed legislation. It was, in his opinion, entirely unsupported by the findings of Sir William Meredith.

Mr. Barnham (W. Peterboro) and Col. Clark (N. Bruce) spoke in favor of the resolution, which was then reported, and a bill founded upon it introduced, and read a first time.

The House went into committee of the whole upon Hon. Mr. Roche's bill to amend the Indian Act. Mr. Oliver moved to strike out section 6 of the bill, which authorizes the removal of Indians from any reservation without their consent, when such reserve "adjoins or is situated wholly or partly within an incorporated town or city, or in the immediate neighborhood thereof.

Mr. Oliver said that the proposed legislation was a trespass upon the treaty rights of the Indians.

Hon. Charles Marcil said the phraseology was so broad that every Indian band in the country could be dispossessed of their reserve at the behest of some speculator.

The Oliver motion was defeated, and the bill was reported.

Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, has cancelled the contract with the Ontario Equipment Co. of Toronto for the supply of 100,000 mail bag locks and keys at $1 each. Correspondence tabled on the House yesterday shows that a consignment of 10,000 locks was sent last year to the Government and found to be unsatisfactory. The company was notified that they would have to be taken back and the contract cancelled. A new arrangement has been made whereby the company will substitute a new lock at 75 cents each and keys at 12c. each. It will only be supplied as ordered by the Department.

The House late last night, discussed at considerable length Hon. Martin Burrell's bill conferring upon the Department of Agriculture power to regulate cold storage warehouses throughout the country.

Death of Mrs. Pugsley.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 12. — Mrs. Pugsley, wife of the Hon. William Pugsley, former Minister of Public Works for Canada, died yesterday morning at her home here, after a long illness. Mrs. Pugsley was a daughter of Thomas Parks, a prominent St. John citizen, and was married to Mr. Pugsley in 1876. She is survived by her husband, two sons, W. G. Pugsley of Montreal, and J. A. Pugsley of St. John. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

SMUGGLER ARRESTED.

U. S. Officials Capture Man Wanted on Several Charges.

YARMOUTH, N.H., May 12.—Harry Vantassel is under arrest here charged with a number of offences committed along the international boundary line. His arrest was made at the instigation of the deputy sheriff at Littleton, N. H. Among the offences charged against him are forgery, obtaining money under false pretences, and disposing of mortgaged property. It is alleged that sixty horses have been smuggled across the boundary into New Hampshire, and that the operations have extended as far west as Chicago. Immediately after his arrest Vantassel protested his innocence and said he would go back without extradition proceedings, but yesterday he retained counsel.

P. E. I. Judge Dead.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., May 12.—Hon. Hector C. McDonald, county court judge for Queen's County, died Sunday night at the Prince Edward Hospital after an illness of several months. He was born at Flat River, P.E.I., May 3, 1856. He was admitted to the bar in 1886. He represented his native district of Belfast in the local Legislature for ten years, was Attorney-General under the Liberal Government from 1897 to 1899, and was appointed a judge in 1899.

Suffragettes Interrupt Operatic Performance

'TWAS A GORGEOUS AFFAIR

LONDON, May 12. — The Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, was commandeered last night by King George for a gala performance in honor of the King and Queen of Denmark, who are paying their accession visit to this country. The program consisted of scene from "La Tosca," "La Boheme" and "Aida." The singers included Melba and Emmy Destin.

For an audience the performers had the leaders of the political, diplomatic and social world of London, the men in the uniforms of their rank, and the women in beautiful gowns and jewels of untold wealth.

The scene, which was of gorgeous brilliance, was for a time marred by a suffragette demonstration. During an interlude a suffragette rose in the balcony stalls and shouted: "King George, women are being tortured in your dominions."

Two men sitting nearby seized the disturber and dragged her outside, while other men ejected women with her, who started "demonstrating." They shrieked, kicked and clawed as they were being carried from the building. Meanwhile other suffragettes in the gallery above the royal box threw down a great quantity of suffragette leaflets.

King George and Queen Mary with their royal guests, and thirty other members of royalty occupied a box in the centre of the house, with members of the diplomatic corps and their wives on one side and the cabinet ministers and their leaders on the other. The greater part of the other boxes, and many of the stalls, were likewise occupied by the guests of the monarchs, so that the general public had to be content with the upper galleries.

White and scarlet, the Danish colors, predominated in the decorations. The proscenium was decorated with crimson and gold roses. In the extreme corners there were large gilded cornucopias with masses of crimson roses falling from them. Depending from these were two large festoons reaching from the corners of the crown, composed of yellow flowers. The auditorium was decorated with crimson and pink roses.

Mexican Youth Hanged.

PECOS, Texas, May 12—Lauro Cardenas Martinez, a Mexican youth, was hanged here at noon yesterday for the murder of Miss Emma Brown, a school teacher, three years ago. The Mexican Government had the case carried to the United States Supreme Court in a vain effort to save Martinez.

Fire on Cunarder.

NEW YORK, May 12.—When the Cunard liner Caronia docked yesterday she reported that two days from New York fire was discovered in hatch No. 5 among an enormous consignment of Oriental rugs. The hatch is in the rear of the vessel, and thus the smoke was carried off so that none but the steerage passengers were alarmed. An officer, wearing a helmet, led a party of the crew into the hatch and for five hours the hatch was flooded. This checked the flames.

ATTACK STILL GOING ON?

London Paper Asserts That Tampico Has Been Taken.

LONDON, May 12.—The Daily Chronicle in its issue of to-day asserts that certain London business houses have received reports that the rebels have captured Tampico.

WASHINGTON, May 12—The Constitutionalist attack on Tampico, which began Sunday night, was in progress yesterday, according to information received by the confidential agency of the Constitutionalists in Washington. The Constitutionalists, under command of Generals Pablo Gonzales and Luis Caballero, are attacking from the north and west sides of the city.

Admiral Mayo notified the Department last night that twenty-three cannon shots were heard during Sunday night's attack on the city. Other despatches from the admiral are being eagerly awaited by the Department. Clarence A. Miller and Neill E. Pressley, the American Consul and Vice-Consul at Tampico, who were ordered by the Government to leave their posts as soon as the attack was impending, are now aboard the battleship Connecticut, and scarcely more than a dozen Americans remained behind after the consul gave them notice that the United States Government wished them to leave the city.

Gypsies Are Fined.

KINGSTON, May 12.—The police were called upon to drive a band of about 50 gypsies out of the city. After being driven out they came back and were brought up before Justice of the Peace Hunter and fined. There were 14 children in the band.

RELEASE DEMANDED

Sec'y Bryan Insists That Mexicans Free Vice-Consul

THE LOBOS ISLAND INCIDENT

WASHINGTON, May 12. — While peace negotiations marked time pending formal sittings of the South American mediators to begin yesterday on Canadian soil, the mediators and officials of the State Department here yesterday were occupied with several serious phases of the Mexican situation demanding immediate attention. Secretary Bryan called at the Argentine legation late in the afternoon and spent two hours in conference with the South American envoys, discussing the continued detention of John R. Silliman, American vice-consul at Saltillo, by Mexican Federals; the reported seizure of Lobos Island with its lighthouse by American torpedo boats and the case of the five South Americans under arrest at Vera Cruz for firing upon United States sailors and marines.

Mr. Bryan insisted that the release of Silliman must be brought about at once. When asked about the matter later, he would not say what would happen if the vice-consul were kept in prison, but he was gravely emphatic in announcing the Government's determination that he be freed.

In announcing the Lobos Island incident the Secretary informed the mediators that so far the United States Government had received no official confirmation of the taking of the island and that in the absence of confirmation he could offer no official explanation of the reported action of the navy. In administration circles it is contended that if the seizure has been made, it was not an act of aggression against Huerta, but merely a necessary step to protect oil shipping against possible disaster as a result of the closing of the lighthouse by the Federals.

While the representatives appointed by Gen. Huerta to confer with the mediators were preparing to leave Vera Cruz, the U. S. Government officially announced its representatives in mediation negotiations before the South American triumvirate at Niagara Falls, Ont., next Monday.

Justice Lamar, of the U. S. Supreme Court, and Fred. W. Lehman, former Solicitor General, were chosen by President Wilson as the American representatives. From Huerta are hastening forward Augustine Rodriguez, Emilio Rabasa and Luis Higuero. Ambassador De Gama, of Brazil, Minister Naon, of Argentina and Minister Suarez, of Chile, the mediators, last night expressed satisfaction in the selection of the advisers for both Governments, and little further is expected in the preliminary peace negotiations until all have met in Canada.

Gen. Carranza and the Mexican rebels who seek Huerta's overthrow, will not be represented in the conference, according to the latest advices.

From Tampico, where Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists have been preparing for a sanguinary struggle, came rumblings of battle, while reports that Huerta's strength was waning in Mexico City, and that the bandit leader, Zapata, was about to attack the capital from the south served to arouse diplomatic agents of foreign nations lest their people in Mexico City might be in imminent danger of persecution or death.

The only sign of military activity in connection with the Mexican situation was the gathering of a dozen of the ranking officers of the army now in Washington in the office of Secretary Garrison for an hour's conference. Secretary Garrison explained that the purpose of the meeting was for enlightenment on the militia laws of the country.

ECHO OF GREAT STORM.

U. S. Searches Find Lightship 82 at Bottom of Lake.

BUFFALO, May 12. — Lightship No. 82, which disappeared from its station in Lake Erie, 15 miles off this port, during the great storm of Nov. 9 last, was located on the bottom of the lake off Point Abino yesterday, by the Government steamer Surveyor. The last vessel was found by means of heavily weighted drag hooks with which a systematic search of the lake's bottom was being made.

The lightship was missed the day following the storm that raised havoc with shipping throughout the great lakes region. She carried a crew of six men. The Government experts expressed the belief that the bodies of the crew would be found in the fire hold of the ship. Divers will be sent down to examine the wreck as soon as weather conditions permit.

Suffragette Released.

LONDON, May 12.—Mrs. Mary Wood, the militant suffragette, who on May 4 mutilated the portrait of Henry James, the novelist, by John Singer Sargent, in the Royal Academy, was released temporarily from prison yesterday. She was in a weak condition from the effects of a "hunger and thirst strike" she had started after her arrest on the day of the outrage.

Plenty of Work in London.

LONDON, Ont., May 12. — Industrial conditions are so good in London at present that in the police court yesterday Magistrate Judd discharged John Devine and Harry Minick and told them to hustle and get one of the many jobs around the city. The pair were charged with trespassing on C. P. R. property.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Douglas McGregor, of Fergus, ended his life yesterday by taking a dose of Paris green. He was for many years a prosperous farmer in Bromosa Township.

A fire did much damage to Mr. William Hayes' residence in Belleville yesterday. A cat upsetting a lamp from a table was the cause. The loss is covered by insurance.

A general lockout in the building trades industry in San Francisco was ordered yesterday by the Building Trades' Employers' Association. About 25,000 men are affected.

Atlanta, Ga., was crowded yesterday with nobles of the Mystic Shrine, who came to attend the 40th annual meeting of the imperial council of the order, which convened yesterday.

At an early hour yesterday morning the steamer City of Belleville, en route from Montreal to Toronto and Hamilton, ran aground at the approach of the harbor at Belleville.

Arthur Gilleapie, who wrote "Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder," and other songs almost as popular, died of pneumonia yesterday in New York. He was 46 years of age.

The body of Mme. Nordica, the operatic singer, who died in Java from pneumonia Sunday night, is to be sent to the United States. It will leave on May 16, enclosed in a Chinese casket.

The French Foreign Office has received a despatch from Gen. Baumgarten reporting that he had occupied Tuza, Morocco, 75 miles east of Fez, with a loss of only four men killed and 12 wounded.

Death claimed one of Toronto's largest wholesale grocers when J. F. Eby died at his residence, 35 Cluny avenue, of pneumonia at 11 o'clock yesterday morning after an illness lasting less than a week.

Nearly 600 Dead.

CATANIA, Sicily, May 12. — The official estimate of the dead as a result of the recent earthquake, which destroyed many villages on the eastern slope of Mount Etna, places the number at close to 600. This is said to be the largest percentage ever recorded, considering the smallness of the area affected by the disturbance.

"THE TERMS OF SURRENDER"

By LOUIS TRACY

MacGonigal watched the tall figure until it vanished in the upward curving of the path. Then he rolled the cigar between his heavy lips again until it was securely lodged in the opposite corner of his mouth; but the manoeuvre was wasted—the cigar was out,—and such a thing had not happened in twenty years! To mark an unprecedented incident, he threw away an unconsumed half.

"He's crazy ter have a last peep at Nancy," he communed. "An' they'd have made a bully fine pair, too, ef it hadn't been for that skunk Marten. Poor Derry! Mighty good job I stopped home, or he'd ha gone plumb to hell."

Of course, the storekeeper was talking to himself; so he may not have said it, really. But he thought it, and, theologically, that is as bad. Moreover, he might have electrified Bison by his language that night were he gifted with second sight; for he had seen the last of the proud, self-contained yet light-hearted and generous-souled cavalier whom he had known and liked as "Derry" Power. They were fated to meet again many times, under conditions as varying as was ever recorded in a romance of real life; but MacGonigal had to find a place in his heart for a new man, because "Derry" Power was dead—had died there in the open doorway of the store—and a stranger named John Darien Power reigned in his stead.

CHAPTER II.
THE TERMS.

The Gulch was naked but unashamed, and lay in a drowsy stupor. An easterly breeze, bringing coolness elsewhere, here gathered radiated heat from gaunt walls on which the sun had poured all day, and desiccating gusts beat on Power's face like superheated air gushing from a furnace. Not that the place was an inferno—far from it. On a June day just a year ago two young people had ridden up the rough trail on their way to the Dolores ranch, and the girl had called the man's attention to the exquisite colouring of the rocks and the profusion of flowers which decked every niche and crevice. It may be that they looked then through eyes which would have tinted with rose the dreariest of scenes; but even to-day, in another couple of hours, when the sun was sing over the mountain range to the west, the Gulch would assuredly don a marvellous livery of orange, and red, and violet. Each stray clump of stunted herbage which had survived the drought would make a brave show, and rock-mosses which should be moist and green would not spoil the picture because they were withered and brown or black.

But Power, despite a full share of the artist's temperament, was blind to the fierce blending of colour which the cliffs offered in the blaze of sunlight. His eyes were peering into his own soul, and he saw naught there but dun despair and icy self-condemnation. For he blamed himself for wrecking two lives. If Nancy Willard could possibly find happiness as Hugh Marten's wife, he might indeed have cursed the folly of hesitation that lost her; but there would be the salving consciousness that she, at least, would drink of the nectar which wealth can buy in such Homeric drafts. But he was denied the bitter-sweet recompense of altruism. He knew Nancy, and he knew Marten, and he was sure that the fairest wild flower which the Dolores ranch had ever seen would wilt and pine in the exotic atmosphere into which her millionaire husband would plunge her.

Hugh Marten was a man of cold and crafty nature. Success, and a close study of its essentials, had taught him to be studiously polite, bland, even benignant, when lavish display of these qualities suited his purposes. But he could spring with the calculating ferocity of a panther if thereby the object in view might be attained more swiftly and with equal certainty. His upward progress among the mining communities of Colorado, New Mexico and, more recently, California had been meteoric—once it began. None suspected the means until they saw the end; then angry and disappointed rivals would compare notes, recognising too late how he had encouraged this group to fight that, only to gorge both when his financial digestion was ready for the meal. He had the faculty, common to most of his type, of surrounding himself with able lieutenants. Thus, John Darien Power came to him with no stronger backing than a college degree in metallurgy and a certificate of proficiency as a mining engineer, credentials which an army of young Americans can produce; but he discerned in this one young man the master sense of the miner's craft, and promoted him rapidly.

He paid well, too, gave excellent bonuses over and above a high salary—was, in fact, the pioneer among those merchant princes who discovered that a helper is worth what he earns, not what he costs—and Power was actually entitled, through his handling of the Sacramento placer mine, to a sum large enough to warrant marriage with the woman he loved. Not for one instant had the assistant dreamed that his chief was casting a covetous eye on Nancy Willard. She was a girl of twenty, he a man looking ten years older than the thirty-eight years he claimed. Apparently, she was wholly unsuited to become the wife of a financial magnate. She know nothing of the outer maze of society and politics; while it was whispered that Marten would soon run for state governor, to be followed by a senatorship, and, possibly, by an embassy. To help such ambitious emprise he needed a skilled partner, a woman of the world, a mate born and reared in the purple, and none imagined, least of any, that the vulture would swoop on the pretty little song-bird which had emerged from the broken-down cage of the Dolores ranch. For the place had been well named. Misfortune had dogged its owner's footsteps ever since the death of his wife ten years earlier, and Francis Willard was buffeted by Fate with a kind of persistent malevolence. Neighbouring farms had been rich in metals; his was bare. When other ranchers won wealth by raising stock, he hardly held his own against disease, dishonest agents, and unfortunate choice of markets. This present arid season had even taken from him three-fourths of his store cattle.

Power did not know yet how the marriage had been brought to an issue so speedily. In time no doubt, he would fit together the pieces of the puzzle; but that day his wearied brain refused to act. He might hazard a vague guess that he had been misrepresented, that his absence in California was construed falsely, that the letters he wrote had never reached the girl's hands; but he was conscious now only of a numb feeling of gratitude that he had been saved from killing his usurper, and of an overmastering desire to look once more on Nancy's face before she passed out of his life forever.

He climbed the Gulch to the divide. From that point he could see the long, low buildings of the ranch, lying forlornly in the midst of empty stockyards and scorched grazing land; though the Dolores homestead itself looked neither forlorn nor grief-stricken. A hundred horses, or more, were tethered in the branding yard near the house. Two huge tents had been brought from Denver; the smoke of a field oven showed that some professional caterer was busy; and a great company of men, women and children was gathered at that very moment near the porch, close to which a travelling carriage was drawn up. A spluttering feu de joie, sounding in the still air like the sharp cracking of a whip, announced that the departure of bride and bridegroom was imminent; but the pair of horses attached to the carriage reared and bucked owing to the shouting, and Power had a momentary glimpse of a trim, neat figure, attired in biscuit-coloured cloth, and wearing a hat gay with red poppies, standing in the verandah. Close at hand was a tall man dressed in grey tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Marten were about to star on their honeymoon trip to New York and Europe.

For an instant Power's eyes were blinded with tears; but he brushed away the weakness with a savage gesture, and examined the stark rocks on each side in search of a nook whence he might see without being seen. It was the careless glance of a man maddened with well-nigh intolerable loss; yet, had he known how much depended on his choice of a refuge, even in the very orux of his grief and torment he would have given more heed to it. As it was, he retreated a few paces, until hidden from any chance eye which might rove that way from the ranch, chose a break in the cliff where an expert cragsman could mount forty feet without difficulty, and finally threw himself at full length on a ledge which sloped inward, and was overhung by a mass of red granite, all cracked and blistered by centuries of elemental war. Some stunted tufts of alfalfa grass were growing on the outer lip of the ledge. By taking off his sombrero, and peeping between the dried stems, he could overlook the cavalcade as it passed without anyone being the wiser.

The surface of the rock was so hot as to be almost unbearable; but he was completely oblivious of any sense of personal discomfort. That side of the Gulch was in shadow now, and concealment was all he cared for. He was sufficiently remote from the narrow track to which the horses would necessarily be confined that he ran no risk of yielding to some berserker fit of rage if he encountered Marten's surprised scrutiny, when, perchance, he might have flung an oath at the man who had despoiled him, and thereby caused distress to the woman he loved. To avoid that calamity, he would have endured worse evils than the blistering rock.

He remembered afterward that while he waited, crouched there like some creature of the wild, his mind was nearly a blank. He was conscious only of a dull torpor of wrath and suffering. He had neither plan nor hope for the future. His profession, which he loved, had suddenly grown irksome. In curiously detached mood, he saw the long procession of days in the mines, in the mart, in the laboratory. And the nights—ah, dear Heaven, the nights! What horror of dreariness would come to him then! He seemed to hear an inner voice bidding him abandon it all, and hide in some remote corner of the world where none knew him, and where every familiar sight and sound would not remind him of Nancy Willard. Nancy Willard — she was Nancy Marten now! He awoke to a dim perception of his surroundings by hearing his teeth grating. And even that trivial thing brought an exquisite pain of memory; for Nancy, reading a book one day, came across a passage in which some disappointed rascal had "ground his teeth in baffled rage," and he had joined in her shout of glee at the notion that anyone should express emotion so crudely So, then, a man might really vent his agony in that way! Truly, one lived and learned, and this was certainly an afternoon during which he had acquired an intensive knowledge of life and its vicissitudes.

But now the sfin screeching of excited cowboys, and a continuous fusillade of revolvers fired in the air as their owners raced alongside the lumbering coach, announced that the wedded pair had begun their long journey. The racket of yells and shooting, heightened by weird sounds extracted from tin trumpets, bugles, and horns, drew rapidly nearer, and, at any other time, Power would have been amused and interested by the sudden eruption of life in the canyon brought about by this unwonted intrusion on its peace. A horse or so, or a drove of steers, these were normal features of existence, and no respectable denizen of the Gulch would allow such trifles to trouble his or her alert wits for a moment. But this tornado of pistol shots and bellowing was a very different matter, and coyotes, jackrabbits, a magnificent mountain sheep, a couple of great lizards—in fact, all manner of furred and scaly creatures—deserted lairs where they might have remained in perfect security, scampered frantically to other retreats, and doubtless cowered there till dusk.

A coyote raced up the cleft at the top of which Power was hidden; but, ere ever he had seen his enemy, man, he who aware of the hidden danger, and fled to an untainted sanctuary elsewhere. He had hardly vanished before the leading horsemen galloped into sight, and soon a motley but highly picturesque regiment of Westerners filled the trail to its utmost capacity. Both men and horses were at home in this rugged land, and raced over its inequalities at a pace which would have brought down many a rider who things he is a devil of a fellow when a mounted policeman gallops after him in the park and cautions him sharply to moderate his own and his steed's exuberance. Even in the joyous abandonment of this typical western crowd there was a species of order; for they took care not to incommode the coach, a cumbersome vehicle, but the only practicable conveyance of its kind on four wheels which could be trusted to traverse that rock-strewn path. Its heavy body was slung on stout leather bands, and the wheels were low, set well apart, and moving on axles calculated to withstand every sort of jolt and strain. The driver was performing some excellent balancing feats on his perch while he egged on a willing team or exchanged yells with some other choice spirit who tore ahead when the road permitted. Among the throng were not a few women and girls from Bison. They rode astride like their men folk, and their shrill voices mingled cheerfully in the din.

Power was deaf and blind to the pandemonium and its sprites: he had eyes only for the two people seated in the coach. The ancient equipage owned low seats and lofty windows, having been built during a period when ladies' headgear soared well above normal standards; so its occupants were in full view even at the elevation from which the unseen observer looked down.

Marten, a powerfully built man, of commanding height and good physique clean-shaven, though the habit was far from general in the West at that date, was evidently exerting himself to soothe and interest his pallid companion. His swarthy face was flushed, and its constant smile was effortless; for he had schooled himself to adopt the mood to the hour. As the personnel of the cavalcade changed with each headlong gallop or sudden halt, he nodded affably to the men, or bowed with some distinction to the women; for Marten knew, or pretended that he knew, every inhabitant of Bison.

His wife knew them too, without any pretense; but she kept her eyes studiously lowered, and, if she spoke, used monosyllables, and those scarcely audible, for Marten had obviously to ask twice what she had said even during the fleeting seconds when the pair were visible to Power. Her features were composed almost to apathy; but the watcher from the cliff, who could read the slightest change of expression in a face as mobile to the passing mood as a mountain tarn to the breeze, felt that she was fulfilling a compact and holding her emotions in tense subjection.

IS STARVATION AHEAD?

WORLD DUE TO RUN OUT OF SUPPLIES, SAYS SCIENTIST.

Professor H. N. Dickson, of Edinburgh, Predicts That Before the End of the Present Century Food and Coal Resources Will Be Exhausted If Science Does Not Find a Way Out.

Unless the nations of the world consider and solve the problem of food supply at once, humanity will be facing starvation before the end of the century.

This is the opinion of H. N. Dickson, professor of geography at University College, Edinburgh, and president of the Royal Meteorological Society. His conclusions regarding the world's food and coal supply are based on a careful study of the subject.

"The day of striking geographical explorations passed with the finding of the earth's two poles," said Prof. Dickson in the course of an interview. "The future geographer will have as his field the vital question of supplying and distributing food and clothes to the world.

"Civilized man is, or ought to be, beginning to realise that in reducing more and more of the surface of the earth available for agriculture to what he considers a habitable condition, he is making so much progress and making it so rapidly that the problem of finding suitable food for his increasing numbers must become urgent in a few generations. We are getting into the position of the merchant whose trade is constantly expanding and who foresees that his premises will shortly be too small for him. In our case removal to more commodious premises elsewhere seems impossible—we are not likely to find a means of migrating to another planet — so we are driven to consider means of rebuilding on the old site, and making the best of what we have, that our business may not suffer.

"In 1898, Sir William Crookes prepared some valuable estimates of the world's supply of wheat. Upon these estimates he made a forecast of the relations between the probable ratio of increase of supply and demand, and concluded that 'should all the wheat-growing countries add to their (producing) area to the utmost capacity on the most careful calculation the yield would give us only an addition of some 200,000,000 acres, supplying, at the average world yield of 12.7 bushels to the acre, 1,270,000,000 bushels, just enough to supply the increase of population among bread eaters till the year 1931.' Sir William then added: 'Thirty years is but a day in the life of a nation.'

"Half the allotted span has now elapsed, and it may be useful to inquire how things are going. Dr. J. W. Unstead has recently given us comparisons for the decades 1881-90, 1891-1900, and 1901-10.

"Dr. Unstead shows that the total wheat harvest for the world may be estimated at 2,358 million bushels for the first of these periods, 2,575 million for the second, and 2,833 million for the third, increases of 14 per cent. and 22 per cent. respectively. He points out that the increases were due mainly to an increased acreage, the areas being 193, 211, and 242 million acres, but also to some extent (about 8 per cent.) to an increased average yield per acre, for while in the first two periods this was twelve bushels, in the third period it rose to thirteen bushels per acre.

"If we take the period 1891-1900, as nearly corresponding to Sir William Crookes' initial date, we find that the succeeding period shows an increase of 653 million bushels, or about half the estimated increase required by 1931, and that attained chiefly by increased acreage.

"But signs are not wanting that increase in this way will not go on indefinitely. In the two later periods the percentage of total wheat produced which was exported from the United States fell from 36 to 23, and only in the youngest of the new countries—Canada, Australia, the Argentine—do we find large proportional increases. Again, it is significant that in the United Kingdom, which is, and always has been, the most sensitive of all wheat-producing countries to variations in the floating supply, the rate of falling off of home production shows marked if irregular diminutions.

"Looking at it in another way we find that the total amount sent out by the great exporting countries averaged in 1881-90 295 million bushels, 1891-1900 402 millions, 1901-10 532 millions. These quantities represent respectively 12, 15.6 and 16.1 per cent. of the total production, and it would appear that the percentage available for export from these regions is, for the time at least, approaching its limit; in other words that only about one-sixth of the wheat produced is available from surpluses in the regions of production for making good deficiencies elsewhere.

"The production of wheat in North America may still, in all likelihood, be very largely increased by merely increasing the area under cultivation, and the reasoning which justifies this conclusion certainly holds good over large districts elsewhere. It is of course impossible in the present crude state of our knowledge of our own planet to form any accurate estimate of the area which may by the use of suitable seeds or otherwise become available for extensive cultivation. But I think it is clear that the available proportion of the total supply from 'extensive' sources has reached, or almost reached, its maximum, and that we must depend more and more upon intensive farming, with its greater demands for labor."

"If prophecies based on population statistics are trustworthy the crisis will be upon us before the end of this century."

Heart and Nerves Were Bad.

Could Not Sleep.

To the thousands of people who toss on a sleepless pillow night after night, or who pace the bedroom floor with nerves on the jump, the heart action all wrong, and to whose eyes sleep will not come, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer the blessing of sound refreshing slumber, as they restore the equilibrium of the deranged nerve centres and correct the wrong action of the heart.

Mrs. Charles Teel, Horncastle, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. My heart and nerves were so bad I could not sleep, and the least noise or excitement would make me feel so that I used to think I was going to die, and I would tremble until I could hardly stand. I took doctor's medicine, but it did not do me much good. At last I tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and can certainly say they did me a great amount of good. I can recommend them to anyone who is suffering as I was."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been on the market for the past twenty years, and have done more to steady shaky nerves and strengthen weak hearts, than any other known preparation.

WHAT THIN FOLKS SHOULD DO TO GAIN WEIGHT

Physician's Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having heard advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and is also admitted for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this peerless preparation, which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A Month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fatty tissue thus formed makes the form full and rounded. Leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

THOSE COLORED WIGS.

London Artists Cannot Decide on Merits of Pea Green Hair.

London artists are divided in opinion concerning the green, blue, purple and pink wigs, which are invading the city from Paris.

Mr. Seymour Lucas, R.A., the famous historical and portrait painter, has given his views on the subject in brief but unmistakable language.

"Green hair?" he said, in reply to a question. "I have never seen it, and I never wish to do so. The idea is too horrible. If women are wearing it they must have taking leave of their senses."

The new fashion, on the other hand, is stoutly defended by Mr. Willie Clarkson, whose show-cases are packed with wax models wearing wigs of the new hair, the favorite colors being blue, green, pink and purple in fifty or more shades.

"Colored hair is certainly becoming," said Mr. Clarkson, "and for myself I frankly fail to see why any woman of taste or refinement should object to wear a wig of colored hair any more than she would object to wear a colored costume, or even colored boots.

"We are filling very large orders for the wigs from Paris, where they are all the rage in the fashionable world, and London and New York are not very far behind in their demands. We have already sold a large quantity in London not only to actresses, but to ladies in private life.

"A good average price for a colored wig made of human hair is ten guineas, while a wig, made of prepared hair may be obtained for half that sum.

"The most popular color for women with fair complexions is either light blue or a palish pink. Shades of green both light and dark are also being worn. For dark women, perhaps the favorite color is deep purple.

The light, when it catches these wigs at night, gives them a most charming effect."

Mr. Clarkson added that at one theatre in Paris actresses who were colored wigs had caused the coats of their pet dogs to be dyed the same hues.

One of the first actresses on the "legitimate" stage in London to wear the new colored coiffure is Miss Madge McIntosh, who appears as Strega Thundridge in Mr. Bernard Shaw's curtain-raiser, "The Music Cure," at the Little Theatre, in a grass-green wig.

"It suddenly struck me at one of the rehearsals that I needed a green wig to complete my costume," said Miss McIntosh.

"Mr. Shaw and Mr. Keneim Foss said 'Try it!' and when I obtained a green wig and put it on they said 'Splendid!' So here it is, and the public seem to like it.

"I do not believe colored wigs will ever become popular in private life, for two reasons. The first is that they are too expensive for people of modest means. It is all very well to argue that one pays as much for a hat, but a hat is a necessity, and a green wig is not.

"The second reason is that in order to wear a colored wig, a woman would have to dress specially for it, and even have the rooms in her home overhauled and redecorated to harmonize with the coiffure."

Chinese or English?

We hear a good deal nowadays about spelling reform, but Sir William Ramsay believes it is a pity that we did not from the beginning adopt the Chinese language instead of our own!

The Chinese did not spell; they used symbols which conveyed ideas. The Chinese language had the great advantage that it could be read much quicker than any spelled language. It went straight from the symbol to the brain as an idea.

Although he would not support the adoption of a new alphabet on the Hsien of the Chinese system, he felt that it was a pity that three thousand or four thousand years ago our ancestors did not adopt the Chinese system.

Outside of the scientists, there will not be many to deplore the choice of the English language to that photographic affair the unhappy Chinese scholars are afflicted with.

The Gift of the Sex.

Jones was telling what an excellent cook his wife was; Smith boasted that his wife was a splendid dressmaker, and Robinson proudly stated that his wife was an unusually clever artist.

Brown was not to be outdone, so he remarked:

"My wife is a great linguist."

No one seemed impressed. There was a moment's silence; then Robinson spoke up.

"Humph!" he exclaimed. 'They all are!"

When Martial Law Means.

The great Duke of Wellington voiced the clue to what has recently been happening in South Africa when he said:

"Martial law means no law at all, but the will of the general till the ordinary law can be either established or restored."

Even in times of peace all civilians are in some senses subject to military law, inasmuch as for illegitimate sale or wear of army uniforms or medals they could be proceeded against, to say nothing of their obligations under the Army Billeting Act.

But under strict martial law a commander may order a curfew bell to ring, after which hour any inhabitants found with a light in his house or in the streets would be liable to arrest. Looters are shot on sight. Publicans and others hold their licenses only subject to the whim of the military commander, and no one can either enter or leave a town or attend a concert or meeting of any sort without a pass signed by the commander. This has to be produced to any officer or soldier who may call for it. If a civilian, found out after dark, is unable to give the countersign when challenged his arrest is a foregone conclusion.

All shops, factories, etc., must be closed at a certain hour. Military guards supervise sales at all places where dangerous articles may be bought—such as chemists' toolmakers', and cutlery establishments.

Average American's Taxes.

Somewhere in the United States in a small city lives the average American. He has a family of four, including himself, and earns $517 a year. Some one else in his family, perhaps a stenographer daughter, contributes $330 to the family fund, making the total income of $847. He feels that he pays nothing, or next to nothing, for the privilege of living in a free country, with warships on the sea and street lights in front of his house, with a policeman on his corner, a public service commission looking after his interests and a copy of the Congressional Record coming to him regularly. The truth is that of his $847 a year he pays [illegible] toward the upkeep of his government.—World's Work.

Circulation of the Blood.

The idea of some sort of movement of the blood in man and the lower animals was possessed by Aristotle and other Greeks and by the physicians of the Alexandrian school as well as by the doctors and surgeons of the middle ages. In fact, even the village barbers knew of such movement. But no one, not even the wisest of men, had any conception of a continuous stream returning to its source—a circulation in the true sense of the word—or of the functions of the heart as the motor power of the movement of the blood until it was demonstrated by Harvey in 1628.

Pilgrims at Benares.

Benares, an Indian holy city, is the victim of pilgrimages. Many of the pilgrims are in the last stage of illness and find their way to the city to have their remains cremated on the banks of the Ganges. A large number of hospitals have to be provided for the reception of the sick, and the distinction of being a holy magnet is not greatly appreciated by the residents of the city.—Exchange.

Brazilian Vessels.

All Brazilian vessels engaged in the coasting trade and carrying passengers, either casually or regularly, and making voyages of more than seventy-two hours between the place of departure and port of destination, must have on board a Brazilian doctor nominated by the minister of the interior.

MARTYRS TO SCIENCE.

Dr. J. F. Hall-Edwards Sacrificed Both Hands for X-Ray Work.

There have been many heroic martyrs of science.

Stories without number could be told of men of all nations who have sacrificed their lives in the investigation of dread and unknown diseases. Yellow fever, sleeping sickness, arthean, typhoid, malaria spotted fever plague and cholera have all claimed their victims.

Many have experimented with the X-rays, discovered comparatively recently, and have lost their lives in the search for wider knowledge of its powers, but notwithstanding the great danger attending such work, men are still devoting their lives to research.

One of the present day heroes is Dr. J. F. Hall-Edwards.

As one of the pioneers of the use of the X-rays when the necessity for protecting the operator was unappreciated, he contracted the intensely painful disease known as X-ray dermatitis. Warts began to appear on his arms and hands, and gradually cancer of the skin developed, causing untold agony, and there is something terribly pathetic in the appeal which he made to the medical suggestions for means of relief from his sufferings. Amputation was the ultimate result. In 1908 this famous Birmingham surgeon was granted a Civil List pension of $600 in recognition of services rendered to the country by the application of the X-rays to medicine and surgery.

It is Dr. Hall-Edwards who has been experimenting with the method of using X-rays, recently discovered by a German scientist, by which radiographs of very thin substances, such as a sheet of paper, a leaf, or an insect's body, were obtained.

Briefly, the discovery is that by using what is known as low tubes, giving out "soft" rays, those thin substances, through which the rays used formerly to pass without leaving any impression, can now be radiographed. A few lines were written on an ordinary sheet of paper with ordinary ink, and, without being folded, the note was placed in an envelope and sealed. Then a radiograph was taken. On the negative it was easily possible to read the words inscribed on the sheet of paper.

So admirably defined were all the details that even the gum on the envelope and the edges of the sheet of paper inside the envelope could be distinguished.

X-ray photographs have also been secured of the internal structure of flowers, the arrangement of seeds in a pod, and the delicate lines of leaf formation. By viewing the object stereoscopically it is possible to see every detail standing out in relief. It is stated that such radiographs will be of great assistance to botanists.

Entomologists will find the method of even greater value, for it is now possible to radiograph insects. The necessity for dissection will be largely done away with when the internal structure of insects has to be examined.

London and Paris.

There is evidence to show that London was a considerable town before the Roman invasion. Its Celtic name was Lyndin (lake fort). Tacitus, in the first century, calls it Londinium and describes it as a flourishing place. The earliest notice of Paris is in Caesar's "Commentaries." Caesar called it Lutetia and described it as a collection of mud huts. Lutetia began in the fourth century to be known as Parisia or Paris, and in the sixth century was selected by Clovis as the seat of government. Of the two cities London is undoubtedly the more ancient, though how much older it is impossible to say.

When They Stoned Actors.

Authors and actors of today have reason to congratulate themselves upon the disuse of many of the ancient Greek methods of showing dissatisfaction in the theater. The worst that a playwright must reckon with now is an ironical cry of "Author!" followed by a booing demonstration. But it is on record that the Athenian audience at least once forcibly ejected an unsuccessful comic poet from the theater. The pelting of bad actors with vegetables and questionable eggs is rare now even in the remotest provinces. But the Athenians did not draw the line at figs and olives as missiles. Aeschines was said nearly to have been stoned to death during his stage career, and there is a story of a second rate musician who borrowed a quantity of stone from a friend to build a house with, promising to repay the loan with the stones collected at his next performance.—London Telegraph.

May Have Bomb-Throwers.

Much excitement has been aroused by the recent arrest of a number of persons in Delhi and Lahore. The police are reticent, but there is strong evidence that they are following up important clues which may lead to the discovery of the conspirators, who plotted the bomb outrage against Lord Hardinge over a year ago. At any rate, it has been proved that the anarchist operations have spread to the educated classes in the Punjab and the secret police are consequently very active.

ELBOWS AND FINGERS WERE CRAMPED AND NUMB

Lived in Dread of Paralysis---Nerves Upset---Could Not Sleep ---Well Now--Thanks To Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Paralysis is frightfully common these days. We are living at high tension, and too often the nerves give way under the enormous strain. The only way to be safe is to be warned by symptoms, for the nervous system does not go to pieces without giving you many danger signals, if you only know how to interpret them.

When you have frequent headaches, find yourself easily irritated and annoyed, feel discouraged and down-hearted, cannot rest and sleep well, and find appetite fickle and digestion bad, you may know that the nerves are in bad condition. Don't wait for these symptoms to become chronic, but start in early with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and head off disaster.

Mr. John Matthews, farmer, Fawn Lake, Alta., writes: "I had cramps in my legs, pains in my knees and elbows, and my fingers would get cramped and numb. I could not sleep nights, and would have to get out of bed to rub the cramps out of my legs. For two years I suffered this way, and could not get relief. Then I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and did so with splendid results. I sleep well now, enjoy my meals and feel well generally. I only had cramps last winter and feel that my system has been greatly benefited by this food cure."

Cures like this are reported almost daily in the public press, and you are invited to investigate these cases for yourself. If you cannot call personally write for particulars, enclosing stamp for reply. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY'S OPENING THE SIGNAL THAT STARTS GAYETY

Our London Correspondent Is Reminded of Punch's Remark That the Best Time to Go to Burlington House Is on Days When the Place Is Crowded.

"IT IS IMPOSSIBLE THEN TO SEE THE PICTURES"

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 9.

RATHER an ironical circumstance is found in the fact that while April, although since its beginning, was as bright and sunny as June, May has come in so cold, dismal and sunless as April. The last (two) weeks practically were a daylight, agriculturists and gardeners crying for rain, that it has been ideal weather for outdoor pleasures for society. And ideal spring has put the spirit of youth into everything. Rotten Row is full of riders every morning before the rest of London begins breakfast. These riders are busy men, whose minutes are more valuable than the hours of ordinary persons.

The King is one of these busy men, and when he is able to enjoy a ride in the Row it is about eight in the morning. Generally he is attended by a single equerry and is mounted on a handsome brown horse.

Among the very few leading politicians patronizing the Row is Mr. Winston Spencer Churchill, who usually appears in one of those weird riding suits which he affects. Mr. F. E. Smith is as smart as Mr. Churchill is the reverse. Mr. John Redmond is a constant rider, wearing a bowler hat and a blue lounge suit and riding a big white faced chestnut.

It is remarkable how many ungainly figures one sees in the Row, both men and women. They look like persons hard pressed most of their lives making money and now are passing what is left of their existence in taking a perpetual cure.

Mr. Cunningham-Graham is a regular attendant. With his long tailed, flowing maned piebald he is picturesque as well as graceful, with a long lashed hunting crop, brown top boots, his easy seat and his Don Quixote countenance.

Never since King George came to the throne has a season passed without some untoward event. This season is practically now just beginning, for the opening of the Royal Academy is to London what the first call of the cuckoo is to the country. Once the doors of this temple of art are thrown open, life in Piccadilly is at high noon. It is the starting signal for the round of festivities and functions which is called the London season.

The critics, by the way, are the only persons who see the pictures in comfort, as on ordinary days the rooms are much too crowded for anything but small talk with one's friends. As Punch once said:—"It is really advisable to go on crowded days, because it is then impossible to see the pictures." Women who pretend to go for the pictures really are looking at other women's hats and weaving day dreams about the perfectly gorgeous dresses they are going to wear at Ascot.

It is apparent already that the most talked of picture of the year will be J. C. Dollman's "A Very Gallant Gentleman." It is a quiet, unassuming work, and even as a work of art is of little importance, but it represents Captain Oates, who left Captain Scott's South Pole expedition and calmly walked to his death in a blizzard so as not to hamper his comrades in their efforts to reach safety. Everybody loves a hero, and women forgot one another's dresses to worship at the shrine Mr. Dollman has raised for them at Burlington House.

Earlier in the week Queen Mary took Princess Mary and Princess George and John to the Tower. For the first time in their lives the trip was devoid of formality. They mingled with the crowd while the Queen gave to the children a historical object lesson. Princess Mary, who had read much of the history of the Tower and the objects housed there, often assisted the Queen in explaining to the young princes the particulars points of interest in the things shown to them. Even the Queen herself was much interested in hearing the recital of the historical events associated with the dungeons delivered daily to ordinary persons. As the Queen and her children left throngs crowded round the gates and gave a hearty cheer.

The international horse show is so popular with women year after year that a considerable portion of the entries are made up on behalf of the fair sex. This year Lady Jean Douglas Hamilton, elder daughter of the Duke of Hamilton, has entered the class for ponies ridden by girls not more than twelve. Ladies Estella and Dorothea Hope, aunts of Lord Linlithgow, have entered one of the classes for Shetland ponies, in which they are much interested. Miss Sylvia Brocklebank, well known as a coaching whip, has entered in seven harness classes. Other entries in those classes are the Honorable Mrs. Charles Bathurst, of Lydney Park, and Baroness Burton, who has made three entries in the hunter and hack classes. Lady Arthur Cecil has an entry in the Shetland pony classes and other women entrants are Mrs. F. E. Colman, of Epsom; the Honorable Mrs. William Drury Lowe, of Lock Park, Derby; the Honorable Mrs. Hoare, Miss Calmady Hamlyn, of Bridestowe, Devon; Miss Ella Rose and Mrs. Philip Hunloke, who is in ten classes.

ROBBERS' CAVERN IN VIENNA.

(Special Dispatch.)
VIENNA, May 9.

A COUNTERPART of the famous cavern of Ali Baba has been discovered in the fashionable St. Leopold quarter at Budapest within a stone's throw of the new Palace of Justice.

Following the direction of three pickpockets whom they had arrested, a force of secret police agents came upon a vacant site, formerly occupied by a windmill which was demolished to make room for the new law courts.

Behind a great heap of old bricks a secret entrance was discovered giving access to the extensive cellars which had formed part of the former building.

As in the story, it required an "open sesame" to obtain admittance. The magic formula in the present instance consisted of the password in use among the robbers.

No sooner had it been pronounced by the police than the brickwork in a wall became displaced and entrance was at once gained to the cave.

Here the police found not gold nor jewels, but merchandise of every description, from bags of sugar and coffee to articles of furniture, even including pianos.

Along both sides of the vault were rows of small cells to the number of thirty-five, each of which served as a dormitory for a member of the band. The brigands, it was learned, lived a gay life in their underground retreat, a large sized room, hidden behind a false party wall, which served them as banqueting chamber, being found littered with the débris of a feast. Empty champagne bottles lay about in picturesque abundance.

When the police arrived on the scene most of the thieves were absent, each member of the band being occupied in his own particular task. Toward dusk one after the other of them made his appearance, every man laden with [illegible] of the spoils of the day. The last to arrive was the chief, a gypsy who was known among the band as "Charlemagne."

As well as several of his followers, made a violent attack on the police, one of whom was shot and seriously wounded. The thieves were, however, overpowered and outnumbered and soon gave up the struggle.

The pickpockets who had supplied the authorities with the information which led to the police raid also say that the value of the [illegible] taken by "Charlemagne's" band during the last twelve months exceeds $300,000. The operations of the band extended, it is declared, throughout Austria-Hungary, and even Italy and Switzerland were visited from time to time at the orders of the leader.

"Charlemagne" is said to be married to a divorced woman belonging to an ancient Polish family, who presented him on her marriage eighteen months ago with a dowry of more than $50,000.

ORGANIST WHO HAS PLAYED AT OVER 2,000 WEDDINGS

Proud Record of Professor Vernham, Choirmaster of St. Paul's Church in England, Who Can Remember Many Notable Ceremonies.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 9.

NEVER to have been late for a service for thirty-five years is the proud record of Professor J. H. Vernham, the organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge. "Not only have I never been late," he said to your correspondent recently, "but I have only once been absent through illness since the third week in April, 1879, when I took up my duties here. During that time I have played, I suppose, at seven thousand services, including more than two thousand fashionable weddings, which I think is a record.

"There have been very few fluctuations in the popularity of the church for weddings, and I cannot count the number of ladies who have become spectators while I have sat at my organ. Among the weddings I can remember are those of the late Duke of Sutherland, the Duke of Westminster, at which King Edward was present and signed the register; the Earl of Dalkeith, the Earl of Drogheda, Earl Brassey and Sir James Reid, Queen Victoria's physician.

"There has been very little change in the fashions of weddings, except that, of course, the motor car has entirely displaced the wedding carriage and pair for driving away the bride and bridegroom. The remarkable thing is the monotonous smoothness and [illegible] with which [illegible] take place. [illegible] only one in which there was any excitement. Owing to some little social unpleasantness caused by jealousy, some one had threatened to shoot the bridegroom on his wedding day, and the church was surrounded by police, and plain clothes men were scattered among the congregation. Having no ticket I myself was for a time refused admittance. Nothing untoward happened at the ceremony.

"The most appropriate anthem I ever played was when a certain [illegible] was married. He had kept the bride waiting for more than ten minutes, and the anthem, previously chosen by her, was 'I Waited for the Lord.'

"The Duke of Connaught, when he is in London, is a frequent attendant at service on Sunday. He likes to come in quietly, and sits in a seat in the Lady Chapel, behind the choir, just opposite the organ. I can see him in the mirror. Princess Marie Louise of Schleswig-Holstein has also been a frequent member of the congregation. I do not think you have so many titles among our noblemen nowadays. The country week-end habit seems to have taken many away, and the season during which they are in town at all is shorter, but they still come here to be married."

CHINESE CUISINE FOR JADED ENGLISH APPETITES

Kai Chop Suey, Chao Fu Yung Hai and Many Other Oriental Dishes, Eaten with Chopsticks. Strikes Londoners Very Favorably.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 9.

THE ring of restaurants that surrounds Piccadilly-circus, now that Chong Choy has established a Chinese restaurant in Glasshouse street, is equal to catering for any known taste and to satisfy any appetite. A special luncheon was given at this new Cathay Restaurant with the object of showing that Chinese cookery can be appreciated by English people, and by slight alteration in the sequence of the dishes can accord with Western ideas. Accordingly, soup was served first, although the usual Chinese custom is to serve it last, the idea being that it washes down a meal and, at the same time, makes for any shortage in the preceding dishes.

The menu was printed in Chinese characters. The dishes start in the top right hand corner and read downward. Translated into English characters, the menu would read as follows:—

Lung Cheng	Lye Chi	Kai Chop Suey	Chao Fu Yung Hai	Ko Min Yat

This meal, therefore, started with yat ko min, which is chicken noodle soup; chao fu yung hai was a fried crab omelette; kai chop suey rather like an Irish stew, comprising rice, pork, chicken and all sorts of sliced vegetables; lye chi is a wonderful plum served in [illegible] which looks like a white oyster and tastes like ginger, and lung cheng is just a cup of tea. Chopsticks were used by the guests as an experiment, although knives and forks were also provided.

Ching Ling Su, the well-[illegible] who was present, told your correspondent that Chinese food is best suited to a jaded stomach. "When you cannot think what to order," he said, "try Chinese food. It is light, rapidly served, and easily eaten." The Chinese students in London find the Cathay Restaurant a great boon. The meals they eat show that the cooking is appreciated. They study no sequence, but order all the dishes together, spread them around a big bowl of rice, and eat a piece of this and a piece of that as the fit takes them. It is as though an Englishman took a mouthful of Yorkshire pudding, a bite of sardine, a spoonful of apple tart, a cut of roast beef, a mouthful of coffee, a piece of fried sole and then a spoonful of tomato soup, repeating the process until all the dishes ended simultaneously.

The luncheon, however, approximated more to Western ideas. There is no reason why the ordinary Englishman should not order such a menu as that given above and enjoy every dish besides having the pleasure of the novelty.

TRIAL OF A RELIGIOUS IMPOSTOR IN ST. PETERSBURG

(Special Dispatch.)
ST. PETERSBURG, May 9.

BEFORE the St. Petersburg District Court of Assizes the trial of a peasant woman, Daria Smirnova, and her two accomplices, likewise peasants, one Denis Shemeteff, and another Peter Smirnoff, Daria's son, on a charge of blasphemy and swindle, is now going on. The proceedings are behind closed doors, but the indictment has been published in full, and presents certain features which are nothing short of extraordinary.

It appears that the said Daria Smirnova had since 1901, when she settled in a village close to Okhta, one of St. Petersburg's suburbs, been giving herself out as God's mother sent down to earth by God to reveal to sinning mankind new truth and bring them new salvation. In spite of the proximity to the capital, she succeeded in imposing upon a vast multitude of common people, and so great became the fame of the "Okhta God's Mother," as she was blasphemously called, that disciples would flock to her even from distant provinces. At first her husband was in alliance with her, but as she liked the company of other men jealousy gradually drove him away, and it was he who really informed the police of her escapades. When he was gone she made Shemeteff her most important lieutenant by proclaiming him to be St. Peter, the Apostle, and next to him her own son, who she declared was none other than King Solomon.

With "St. Peter" on one hand and "King Solomon" on the other, she would sit herself on cushions in the middle of a room, surrounded by her followers, and set out her tenets, which were a strange mixture of common life morality, such as the godliness of sobriety and of personal honesty, with the most equivocal superstitions reminiful of the rites of Astarte. She would hold forth against the established Orthodox Church, in which she saw the incarnation of the devil, and preach, in spite of her own example to the contrary, abstention of celibacy. Many unsavory details about her "rites" and her relations with the male members of her suite are set out in the act of indictment, but her power over the superstitious minds of her followers seems, notwithstanding, to have been enormous.

The favorite punishment which she inflicted upon the "sinners" was fasting in a sort of solitary confinement, and often the unfortunate victims would hold out the last for weeks at a stretch. One woman, [illegible] actually died from voluntary starvation. Of course the object was merely to get money. Every one would give Daria of his or her last money, clothes and even provisions—and in this way, the act of indictment says, she has contrived to get together from these poor people $15,000.

DORSET AS IT IS SPOKEN

LONDON, May 9.

THE notice to the members of the Society of Dorset Men in London of the annual dinner on May 4 is issued in the Dorset dialect by Mr. William Watkins, the secretary. He says:—"I be martel pleased to tell 'ee that our girt yearly veast 'ull be held agean theis year, an' ver th' tenth time ov axen, in th' King's Hall o' the Holborn Restaurant, on th' vourth day o' th merry month o' May." BATTERIES DEPLETED.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 9.

THE mysterious disappearance of a number of shells and cartridge cases from the Point Batteries, Portsmouth, is engaging the attention of the military authorities and police.

It appears that during the last two months the stores have been depleted by about a dozen twelve pounder shells filled with blank charges, as well as a number of empty shells of the same size, and forty empty cartridge cases.

There are no barracks attached to the batteries, but sentries are always on guard.

LONDON'S OMNIBUSES.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 9.

"THE whole population of London is carried one hundred times a year in motor omnibuses," said Mr. C. J. Cater Scott, who presided at the sixth annual staff dinner of the London General Omnibus Company at the Hotel Cecil the other night.

"Last year the company's omnibuses carried 676,000,000 passengers," he said, "over 850 miles of route in about 2,000 omnibuses, and during the course of the year the omnibuses ran over 105,000,000 miles.

"Fares paid amounted to £2,256,000, and out of that the company paid £1,350,000 in wages to a staff numbering 15,000, of whom 10,000 are drivers or conductors."

Mr. John O'Connor, M.P., mentioned that in the four days of the Easter holidays the company's omnibuses carried 3,000,000 people, and on one day alone of the four carried 1,000,000.

The Channel Tunnel Discussed

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, May 9.

LORD SYDENHAM, formerly secretary of the Committee of Imperial Defence, in an article contributed to a pamphlet issued by the Channel Tunnel Company, Limited, declares that in the event of the tunnel being constructed there would be no necessity for any precaution involving its permanent destruction. He puts forward, however, a number of other precautions which might be taken to satisfy the alarmists."

Two forts, he suggests, should be brought into connection with the defence arrangements of the tunnel, their object being to contain and control certain safeguards and to bring fire to bear on certain points. A portcullis arrangement, controlled from one of the forts and combined with the lifting of a section of rails, might be adopted as a temporary obstruction, and arrangements could be made to flood a portion of the tunnel at the Dover end by sluices actuated from a fort.

Further, the power station should control movement in the British half of the tunnel and should be placed so as to be commanded by the guns of one of the open section of the line. He says:—

"The line should be exposed to fire from the sea for say half a mile from its point of emergence to the mouth of a second tunnel giving access to the station. The Military Committee objected to this provision on inadequate grounds, and the late Sir John Stokes upheld it strongly. The sea area from which the clear length could be shelled should be commanded by the guns of a fort, which should suffice to prevent small fast vessels from standing in and firing at the exposed portion."

In another article Lord Sydenham refers to the changes since 1883 which distinctly favor the tunnel project.

"In the first place," he says, "our relations with our great neighbor have been placed on a new basis. It is now much more probable that we may be called upon to send troops to the assistance of France or to discharge our obligations in regard to Belgian neutrality than that we should be involved in a French war.

"In the second place, cross Channel communications are now less easily guarded in war time formerly. The submarine, whether its efficiency is as great as or less than is expected, will without doubt prove at least as the outset of war, a menace which could not be disregarded. So much the greater would be the value of a line of communication which would be strike [illegible] against torpedo craft and independent of all weather conditions.

"Lastly, we now have electricity as the motive power on which undersea transport would necessarily depend. Apart from other great advantages thus resulting, the fact that the generation of this power, and the consequent control of all train movement over the British half of the tunnel, can be entirely in our own hands must tend to allay the fears to which imagination has given rise."

DEARTH OF WOMEN WITH GOOD FIGURES IN PARIS

(Special Dispatch.)
PARIS, May 9.

THERE is a dearth of mannequins in Paris. The fact is that the queens of beauty who parade so magnificently in the show rooms of the great costumers are as much in demand for wives as chorus girls are among the peerage in England.

One by one the most attractive mannequins succumb to wealthy suiters, and live happily ever afterward. Mme. Paquin deplores the scarcity of mannequins.

"It is true," she said, "a mannequin's life is such that it shews a girl off—she does not miss her chances of getting settled in life."

Doucet is less alarmed. "There are occasional crises," said the manager, "but that is because mannequins must comply with fastidious conditions of beauty—figure, height and shoulders. Many, however, work to become saleswomen, and in their spare moments can be seen studying English grammar."

M. Bechoff David declared that the dearth of mannequins mainly arises out of a physical difficulty.

"Take any 100 women in the Rue de la Paix," he said. "Most of them would satisfy military service conditions, but few of them could become mannequins. The crisis has nothing to do with the marriage question, and the fact is that good figures are becoming scarcer."

It must be added that low wages are also a cause of the dearth of mannequins. The dressmakers admit that the work is exhausting, yet the wages are only about £6 a month.

WITCHES IN SARDINIA.

(Special Dispatch.)
ROME, May 9.

THE belief in witches which still exists in out of the way parts of Italy is illustrated by a case now going on in Sardinia, in which six old women have been brought before the judge for having obtained larger or smaller sums of money not only from other women but from workingmen and from country gentlemen. The sums they received, varying from a few francs to 2000, were in return for various services, from the cure of the souls of the departed and interviews with the dead to the cure of inflammation of the lungs and lumpy, the lengthening of life, and protection from the supposed imminent end of the world, more often still the money was extorted in return for indicating the spots where fabulous sums of hidden treasure were to be found.

One old lady, Rosa Arca, called "The Saint," has more than a hundred cases against her, and the credulity of the people with regard to her supernatural belief. During the trial Rosa Arca, seeing the crucifix which is usually to be found in the court house, flung herself before it and began praying at the top of her voice and at great length. She took no notice of the reproofs of the judge and refused to be silent, saying that it was of the utmost importance for her to inform of the facts of the case St. Thomas and St. Augustine, who were her best advocates and helpers. Whenever the judge asks any inconvenient questions she replies, "That I am not allowed to inform you," but the evidence against her appears to be so overwhelming that her condemnation seems certain.

BURGLARS IN A BOX.

(Special Dispatch.)
ST. PETERSBURG, May 9.

SOME days ago a girl named Yakovleva, entered the service of M. Rosoff, a wealthy merchant at Libeve, on the Moscow-Windau-Rybinsk railway.

Soon after Yakovleva had brought to the house a large trunk containing, so she said, her belongings. No sooner was it taken into the kitchen than a dog of M. Rosoff's made a rush at it, barking and growling. The animal was driven off several times, but persisted in returning.

M. Rosoff was informed of its strange behavior, and, his suspicions being excited, he ordered Yakovleva to open the trunk. When she refused he had the box opened by some male servants, and two youths armed with revolvers were found crouching inside.

They obviously intended to commit burglary and attempted to use their revolvers, but were immediately overpowered and arrested with Yakovleva.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE NEW AUTOMOBILE

Leaving the store after shopping I went out on the sidewalk, intending to go home, but it was such a bright spring summer morning that I was loath to do so. Beside the curb stood a new spick and span automobile, the sun glistening on it and the cushions looking so comfortable that I wished I might have a spin in it. My husband was at the time trying automobiles with a view to buying a new one, and I wished he would select one exactly like the car before me. While I was coveting it Charlie Forsyth came along, and after greeting me joined me in admiring the machine.

"I'd like a spin this morning," I said to him. "I haven't been out for a week. Our chauffeur has been laid up, and I'm afraid to go out into the country alone."

"I'll take you out," he said. "Get in."

I knew that Charlie was fond of motoring, but was surprised that the car should be his. However, he owned several cars, and I expressed no surprise. The truth is I was thinking that I should decline his invitation. My husband was not at all jealous and permitted me to accept any attentions I saw fit. But I was quite sure that if he would be displeased at my motoring with any one that one person was Charlie Forsyth.

It was not long before we were moving on a country road regardless of the speed limit. We had been out about half an hour when I asked Charlie how long he had owned the auto.

"Owned what auto?"

"Why this one."

"This one! I don't own this car. Isn't it yours?"

"Mine! No. I never saw it before to-day."

"Well, I'll be jinged! We've stolen an auto."

I began to laugh.

"It's no laughing matter," he added. "The owner can make a lot of trouble for us if he likes."

"I wonder who the owner is?"

"I don't know, but I know that I'm going to take it back from where I got it as soon as possible. I'll take it and in a mile or so reach an asphalt paved way that will take us back to the city."

We kept on, but in a few minutes I heard an ominous bussing behind. I turned and saw an auto coming like the wind.

"My goodness gracious!" I cried. "Suppose it should be the owner of the car coming for us!"

"Quite likely it is," said Charlie grimly.

I knew by the sputtering of the machine as he turned on more power and opened a valve to let out gas that he was going to run for it.

"I think they're gaining just a little," I said.

Tom pushed the speed gauge a trifle farther on—not to the limit, for we were already going at a tremendous gait. Something underneath our car began to rattle. Charlie instinctively moved back the speed guage.

"I'm afraid we're beaten," he said.

"Oh, go ahead," I cried. "Take the chances."

"If anything should break while going at this speed we'd be smashed into pulp."

"When they come up," he said, "don't appear as if we had been trying to get away from them. Brazen it out. I'll declare, till otherwise convinced, that the machine is mine."

So we prepared ourselves for a bluff, and our pursuers, coming near, shouted to us to stop. Charlie obeyed, and the other car slowed down beside us. When I saw what it contained the heavens grew black, all about me whirled, and I sank back on the leather cushion.

I had been flying from my husband.

I didn't quite faint away. I was sufficiently conscious to see on Tom's face the look of a man who had caught his wife running away with a rival. The first words I heard came from Charlie, and it was evident that he had not lost his presence of mind.

"Hello, Tom!" he said. "What are you doing out here at this time in the morning?"

Tom made no reply.

"I met your wife," Charlie continued, "in front of Waterman's store looking at this auto. I thought it was hers, and she thought it was mine. I proposed to spin, and it was only a few minutes ago that we discovered our mistake."

I saw a look of mingled relief and doubt come over my husband's face. He said in a resolved tone:

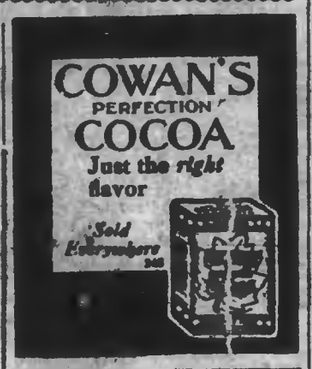
"You are in a car I have been thinking of buying. I left it a while ago before Waterman's, going in to buy a pair of driving gloves. When I came out the auto was gone. A policeman told me he saw a man and a woman get into it and drive off in this direction."

"We discovered our mistake," I said, "just as we heard you coming for us. Not knowing who you were, but supposing you were the owner of the car we had taken, we thought we would race you for it. Flying from my own husband—ha, ha!"

The fact that we had taken the automobile he had been using convinced him. The fact of having been pursued by Tom began to strike Charlie as very ludicrous. The corners of his mouth began to quirk up. Tom's scowl also broke into a smile.

"We've got to get back to town," said Charlie. "Do you want your wife in your car, Tom, or will you trust her to me? I promise solemnly not to run away with her again."

Tom's smile broadened into a grin, and, starting his auto—he had borrowed it for the pursuit—he left us to go where we pleased. We followed him home, and I invited Charlie into luncheon. We found Tom opening a bottle of wine, and before the party broke up we were in a gale of laughter.



A WEAK HEART

When the heart is weak or irregular in action, it is usually the blood is thin and watery. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Pastilles do not. Chase's Nerve Food and Pastilles do just the blood forming by the use flood the system with rich, red vitalizing blood. This is Nature's way of curing weakness and disease. It is the only way to ensure lasting benefits.

SIMPLY MARVELOUS.

But the Enthusiasm of the Nice Old Professor Was Embarrassing.

The nice old professor (whom some of his acquaintances were blind enough to refer to as absentminded) ran across an old acquaintance at a reception out University circle way the other evening. He was delighted to meet the lady, and he said in part:

"I am simply delighted to stumble upon you in this way, my dear Mrs. Kensington. How long it has been since we last met! But allow me to say that time has dealt very lightly with you. Who could imagine that you have a daughter as old as Miss Daisy, there—and just imagine little Daisy being in society herself already and looking like a grown up woman!"

"Yes, Professor Ogleston, I can hardly realize these things myself," smiled the matron. "Daisy is twenty years old today. Think of that!"

"Why, my dear Mrs. Kensington, you don't tell me!" cried the professor. "It doesn't seem possible! And it wasn't more than ten years ago—yes, it was just ten years ago, I recall, because she gave me that 1904 calendar that I've always kept—she was a romping little chit of sixteen! Well, well, how marvelously these girls do grow!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Electric Worker.

"Don't you do anything for a living?" asked the lady at the back door of the seeker after food.

"Oh, yeah," was the reply; "I use a lot of electricity in the course of a day."

"How so?"

"Well, I was reading in the paper this morning that nearly 70 per cent of the residents of the United States are using electricity in some form every day, if only for telephoning or ringing doorbells. You can just bet I ring a good many doorbells in a day."—Yonkers Statesman.

Soon Told.

"I need a half column filler," said the dainty blond editress of the woman's page.

"Oh, run some fashion notes under the heading 'What Our Girls Are Wearing,'" suggested the managing editor crossly.

"Er—yes," blushed the editress. "But that would fill only a couple of lines."—Puck.

Mother's Busy Day.

The monologue artist was moving his audience to tears.

"Dear old mother," he was saying, "I will never forget how she used to rock all of us children to sleep. There were nineteen of us, and by the time she had us rocked to sleep the alarm clock rang and she had to get dad's breakfast."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Flippant Flings.

While Orville Wright's pessimism about transatlantic flights may result in his being styled an old fogy, he can point with pride to the fact that he has never yet been killed in an aeroplane flight.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Napoleon and the Balloon.

When Napoleon was a young cadet he went on one occasion to witness the ascent of a balloon in the Champs de Mars. He entered, unperceived, the inclosure which contained the balloon, which was then very nearly full and about to ascend, and requested the aeronaut to allow him to enter the car. The request, however, was refused, the reason given being that the feelings of the boy might embarrass the aeronaut.

"Though I am young, I fear neither the powers of earth nor of the air!" Bonaparte is reported to have exclaimed.

On being requested to retire, the little cadet, enraged at the refusal, drew his sword and, slitting the balloon in several places, destroyed the apparatus which had been constructed with infinite labor and ingenuity.

Such was Napoleon's first and last attempt to ascend in a balloon.

Lord Kitchener's Way.

Lack of funds was upon one occasion the excuse brought forward by a head of department as the reason for not proceeding with certain public works at Cairo. Lord Kitchener, with characteristic terseness, scrawled across the official document in blue pencil, "Find the money." Needless to say, the money was found.

Another time when the question of making a roadway from Cairo to Helouan, a distance of fourteen miles, was broached Kitchener asked the responsible engineer if the road could be completed by a certain date—May 1. He was told it could scarcely be done.

"But is it possible?" asked Kitchener.

"It's possible, but"—

"Very well, then," came the Napoleonic reply, "I shall drive my car from Cairo to Helouan over that road on May 1." And he did.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Tired Eyes.

If you have been straining your eyes, probably a little rest and sane treatment of them will right matters. If the strain is more serious the oculist must be immediately consulted. Frequently the wearing of eyeglasses for a few months during the time when you are reading or sewing or doing other work which tries the eyes will put your eyes in shape again. Perhaps the complete rest of the eyes and the application of some simple remedies recommended by an oculist are what your eyes need. At all events, if your eyes trouble you or if you suffer from unusual headaches, don't put off seeing an oculist. The sooner you see him the more hope there is of the permanent restoration of health to your eyes. When your eyes become tired stop working if possible. Bathe them. An eyecup is almost a necessity for this. It costs 5 or 10 cents. It should be scalded before and after using each time. Put a little boric or boracic acid in it, fill it with water and bathe the eyes thoroughly. Hot water is far more restful to some eyes than cold, and vice versa. Use whichever sort soothes your eyes most quickly.

Opposed to Knighthood.

Coke of Norfolk, who eventually went to the lords as Earl of Leicester, was furious when threatened with knighthood. After an attack on the prince regent's life in 1817 Coke was chosen to present him with an address from the Norfolk Whigs. They congratulated him heartily on his escape, but concluded by beseeching him to "dismiss from his presence and council those advisers who by their conduct had proved themselves alike enemies to the throne and people." On learning the terms of the proposed address the regent, who knew that Coke valued his position as commoner above everything, declared, "If Coke enters my presence I shall knight him." When this threat was reported to Coke he replied, "If he dare try to knight me I swear I'll break his sword."—London Chronicle.

Eased Her Mind.

Mrs. Simpson-Jones wanted to become a suffragette, but her husband objected.

"But," she pleaded, "if you only knew what a lot one learns at their meetings—all about referendums and recalls and"—

"I've said no, and that ends it!" snapped Mr. Simpson-Jones. "If you women want to find things out why don't you follow the advice of St. Paul and ask your husbands? You women are such fools."

This was too much for Mrs. Simpson-Jones' long humbled spirit.

"That's just the trouble," she returned. "Women have been 'asking their husbands' for the last 2,000 years, and they're still fools."—New York Tribune.

Secrets of London Complexion Doctors

Famous London specialists who cater to titled ladies and others of social prominence, employ a remarkable method of complexion rejuvenation. One undergoing this treatment visits the beauty doctor late in the afternoon, has something dabbed over her face, then, heavily veiled, departs in her motor car. This is repeated daily for a week or so, when a complexion of snowy purity and exquisite delicacy is in evidence. The secret of this method is—ordinary mercolised wax. Anyone can apply the wax without assistance of a specialist. An ounce of it costs very little at any drug store (obtainable here as well as in England). It is used like cold cream, before retiring, and washed off mornings. Its success is due to a peculiar absorbent property which gradually removes wornout particles of cuticle, revealing the younger, healthier skin beneath.

A wonderful wrinkle-chaser, also in vogue among Englishwomen, is prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. Used as a wash lotion, this completely and quickly effaces even the deepest lines.

CASE NOT YET ENDED?

Father Gnam May Proceed With Suit Against Bishop Fallon.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 12.—The sensational fight which Rev. Father Gnam of Wyoming, Ont., has been waging in the Canadian courts, and which received another setback at Toronto on Thursday, when an appeal from the decision of Justice Britton was dismissed, is to give way now, it is understood, to a revival of his suit for $50,000 for alleged slander against Bishop Fallon.

The suit was commenced over a year ago as the result of an order from Bishop Fallon deposing Father Gnam, but was dropped, according to the latter's testimony under an agreement by which Archbishop McNeill of Toronto promised to restore him and provide him with maintenance until this would have been done. Father Gnam later brought action against the archbishop, alleging breach of this agreement, and it is because this suit has been decided against him that he proposes to renew the original action against Bishop Fallon.

Tremblay Case Goes On.

LONDON, May 12.—Argument in the Quebec case of Despatie versus Tremblay, concerning the annulment of the marriage between cousins of the fourth degree, who married without an episcopal dispensation, continued yesterday before the Privy Council.

The Lord Chancellor asker Mr. St. Germain, who upheld the nullity, many questions concerning old French law in Quebec. Mr. St. Germain admitted it would have been absurd and repugnant to compel Protestant churches, which were recognised to have jurisdiction, in determining the validity of their own marriages, to accept the old law.

A Single Application Banishes Hairy Growths

(Toilet Talks)

Much interest is manifested among beauty specialists in the new, painless treatment for superfluous hairs. This consists of a paste which is made with a little powdered delatone and water and applied to the objectionable hairs for about 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off. Following this treatment the skin should be washed to remove the remaining paste and it will be left free from hair or blemish. Care should be used to see that it is delatone you get, otherwise the result may be disappointing.

SOCIALISM ADVANCES

French Election Gives Party Big Gain In Chamber.

PARIS, May 12. — The Socialists were very successful yesterday on the second ballot for members of the Chamber of Deputies, 61 of them being elected. This gives them 101 seats in the new Chamber as compared with 69 in the old. The Caillaux Radicals managed to hold their own, electing 74 members, which with 37 elected on the first ballot, gives the party 161, as compared with 156 in the old chamber.

The Temps, analyzing the position of the Deputies, according to their pre-election declarations, places 366 out of the 602 members as in favor of the three years military service, the others being designated as against such service or doubtful; 279 members for the income tax and 252 for proportional representation.

The Socialists' success in the elections appears to have been due to their well-defined program and their adequate organization. The Radicals and other groups had almost as many platforms as candidates.

The Briandists lost ground by lack of preparation and general slackness in campaigning.

"DON'T HOLD CANADA!"

Joseph Martin Warns Against Interference With Dominion.

LONDON, May 12—Joseph Martin, M.P. for East Panerau, declares that he considers a despatch published by The Times on Saturday from its Toronto correspondent, in which stress was laid upon the alleged "Americanization of Canada" as very dangerous.

The correspondent mentioned that the need for "molding the Canadian people into a common devotion to the Empire." As to this Mr. Martin says: "The fewer molding attempts by the people of the United Kingdom the better. One strong reason for making the British sway popular is that the Canadian people are allowed to pursue their own fancies and manage their own affairs."

W. L. Griffith, the secretary of the High Commissioner's office, declined to discuss the matter, but referred the interviewer to a passage in his recent book, in which he declared there is no serious movement in the United States for the annexation of Canada.

NO CRIMINAL ACTION.

But Other Steps Will Be Taken In Gun-Running Cases.

LONDON, May 12.—In the Commons yesterday Premier Asquith announced that it had been decided not to take criminal proceedings over the recent Ulster gun-running, but certain other steps would be taken.

The Premier also said that whatever conversations were proceeding between the heads of the political parties were confidential at present. Fullest opportunity would subsequently be afforded the House for discussion.

Carson Appeals To Voters.

LONDON, May 12. — Sir Edward Carson has sent a typewritten letter to every Grimsby elector, appealing to them to support Ulstermen at today's polls.

T. P. O'Connor, speaking for the Liberal candidate, said there had been nothing like the Ulster movement since P. T. Barnum's days. There was not a Tory drawing-room in London where words of sedition had not been whispered into officers' ears.

Rhodes No Dude.

Cecil Rhodes was not much of a dresser. When Premier of Cape Colony, he usually wore a flannel suit which badly wanted cleaning and a dilapidated slouch hat. His successor in office, Sir Gordon Sprigg, who wore a black frock coat even in the hottest weather, once made an effort to enforce the wearing of "respectable" dark clothes in the Cape Parliament. But Rhodes would not have it. He said in Parliament that if he could not help to legislate in comfortable clothes, he would not help at all, and he thought that members would agree with him. They did.

DRIVEN NEARLY INSANE

By the Tortures of Sciatica.

Such has been the experience of many a poor sufferer from this affliction. The sciatic nerves, when inflamed are capable of giving the most excruciating torture possible to imagine. Thanks to a discovery by Dr. Stohr, an Austrian specialist, relief quickly follows a dose of Kephaldol. The fame of this prescription has spread all over the civilized world and Kephaldol is heartily endorsed by the medical profession because Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism or Neuralgia, yield to a few doses and no safer or more reliable prescription has been found. If you find it difficult to obtain locally, the manufacturers will send you a large tube on receipt of 50c. Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour St., Montreal. 20

One More Woman Speaks Right Out

SHE TELLS HOW SHE FOUND NEW HEALTH.

Mrs. McArthur Gives Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills Credit For Her Cure.

Rockaway Valley, Que., May 11th.—(Special.)—Mrs. Robert McArthur, well known and highly respected here, has joined the great army of Canadian women who are shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"Last autumn I had a severe attack of Dyspepsia, which left me very nervous and ill," Mrs. McArthur says. "I tried several kinds of medicine and derived no benefit from them till one evening I happened to read one of Dodd's advertisements and decided to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills. The result was that my nervousness vanished and I can now enjoy my meals.

"My daughter also used two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them very beneficial.

"On another occasion when troubled with sore back I found a cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills."

If you keep your stomach right with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and your Kidneys in order with Dodd's Kidney Pills, you can laugh at the ills that make the lives of so many women a burden to them.

Classic Rules.

Palmerston used to greet all whom he did not know with "How d'ye do, and how's the old complaint?" which fitted all sorts and conditions of men. Trivial illustrations, indeed, which we may dismiss with this single note of recognition, that they are every whit as socially sincere as "literal truths" told often in such a way as to create an entirely false impression.

At times the ruse rises into a fine art. I recall the cunning artist who painted the beautiful Irish girl, twice a duchess, with a sunflower that turns from the sun to look at her, and Mrs. Gaskell's heroine, who, as amateur clerk, tries to make the old bookkeeper forget that she is a woman by whistling. A millionaire peasant of Russia wished Engel to give piano lessons to his daughter, but in order to lessen the cost thought that she might do without learning the black keys. The master sat down at the piano and played Chopin's etude on the black keys so divinely that the father exclaimed: "The devil take the 5 rubles! She shall learn to play on the black keys too."—Atlantic Monthly.

The Wrong Bertie.

Sir Francis Bertie was once the center of an amusing muddle at Windsor. It happened during the reign of Queen Victoria, when Sir Francis was permanent under secretary of state for foreign affairs. Wanting to consult Lord Ponsonby about a certain matter he telegraphed to him at Windsor: "Shall be down tonight. Bertie."

The telegram was shown to the queen, and as Bertie was the name she always used to her son, the late King Edward, she came to the conclusion that he was going to pay her an unexpected visit. When Sir Francis arrived he was considerably taken aback at the elaborate preparations that had been made to receive him, and the old queen laughed heartily at the trick he had all unconsciously played on her, but when he was leaving she suggested that he should in future sign his telegrams in some other way.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Narrow Range of Choice.

Sylvia, supple and slender, and Aunt Belle, bulky and benign, had returned from a shopping tour. Each had been trying to buy a ready made suit.

When they returned home Sylvia was asked what success each had in her efforts to be fitted. "Well," said Sylvia, "I got along pretty well, but Aunt Belle is getting so fat that about all she can get ready made is an umbrella.—Youth's Compalon.

A Bit Different.

Towne—There's one thing about my wife—she makes up her mind if she can't afford a thing that she doesn't need it. Bowne—Something like my wife, only she buys it first and makes up her mind afterward.—Philadelphia Press.

Clash With Tribesmen.

A fight with natives is reported from British East Africa, where a convoy of the King's African Rifles has had a skirmish with the Bertulla section of the Merahar tribe, in which Lieut. Bentinck was dangerously wounded. A native officer and three privates were also wounded seriously. The Merahar tribe occupies the country in the northeast of the East African Protectorate, and on the border of Italian Somaliland.

MEN AND WOMEN CAN SAVE THEIR HAIR WITH HERPICIDE

No woman should have poor, thin, scraggy hair, and no man need become bald. Poor hair and final baldness are due to the dandruff germ.

Newbro's Herpicide will destroy dandruff and stop the hair from falling. Further evidence of this is found in a letter from Mrs. F. Neilson, of Tomah, Wis. She says: "I fought the worst kind of dandruff for nine years. I have been using Herpicide now one week and my scalp is healthy, the dandruff has gone and the itching has stopped. It is the best remedy for scalp diseases I ever saw, and I have seen many."

Don't subject yourself to disappointment and expense by accepting something claimed to be "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. These off brands may possibly be good, but why take chances? The genuine and original dandruff germ destroyer can always be obtained. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

ALASKA'S COAL LANDS.

Millions of Acres Are Awaiting a Chance For Development.

There are above 21,000,000 acres of known coal lands in Alaska, with a probability that the area is much greater. Of these claimants have entered upon 32,000 acres and made bona fide efforts to obtain the title by paying in the statutory $10 per acre. Much of this money was paid in more than five years ago, but only two claims, aggregating less than a quarter section of land, have passed to patent.

Coal production in 1912 in the United States aggregated 534,466,580 tons. Of this total Alaska, with its wonderful deposits, produced just 355 tons. These figures will tell any student of economics what is wrong with Alaska.

Coal is a fundamental domestic and industrial necessity. Alaska has the coal, but can't use it. Instead of producing its own fuel, the territory imports all that it consumes.

In 1912 Alaska's fisheries produced canned and mild cured salmon to the value of $16,480,036. The copper mines of the territory yielded a product worth $4,823,031. The gold mines produced $17,145,951. There was more than $38,000,000 of industrial products in a single year, and coal was the first element in every single dollar of this total.

Every salmon cannery and fish curing plant uses coal. Every mine, concentrator, dredge and steam thawing plant must have fuel to operate. The coal for all these purposes, and for every domestic purpose as well, is imported, with just as good coal in inexhaustible quantities lying all about.—Ed H. Thomas in American Review of Reviews.

Result of Weird Will.

A little over two years ago the eccentric Russian, Countess Anstrigildaki, died and left a bequest of $1,300 a year for life to any person who shuts himself up in a tomb at Pere Lachaise for twelve months and a day. The first man to attempt this torture has become a raving lunatic. The one who undertakes this is offered lodging in a stone cell built over the Countess Austrigildaki's vault, and he must never leave the abode day or night for a year and a day. He may not communicate with any person in the outside world save the person who brings his food morning and evening. And he may never have a light. A dismal prospect even at the thought of a yearly income of $1,300! Who will the next martyr to gold be?—Chicago Tribune.

He Crowed Too Soon.

She—You'll be glad to learn, dear, that I've got out of visiting our relatives.

He—Grand! Splendid! It hung over me like a cloud. How did you manage it?

She—Oh, I asked them here.

NERVOUS ORATORS.

More Tricks Will Upset the Most Eloquent Speakers.

It has been said that nervousness never forsakes a great speaker and the facts to be observed any day in the British Commons seem to bear out the dictum.

Cool and collected as he generally is, yet Premier Asquith shows his nervousness in such circumstances by frequently pulling with his right hand at the elbow of his coat.

There are few more alluring speakers, when once he gets into proper trim, than Lord Hugh Cecil. But his nervousness is always so keen at the start of a speech that he stutters and gasps as if he were one of the most miserable speakers in the House, instead of one of the most brilliant and attractive.

Mr. Winston Churchill's nervous frame of mind never fails to show itself clearly in any crisis to those who know the form it takes. This consists of tearing into small pieces, any large sheet of paper the ruler of the Admiralty can manage to get hold of.

You might suppose that such a finished and courteous orator as the Earl of Rosebery would at any rate be free from nervousness. But he isn't, not by any means. You can any time "floor" the noble lord — or, at least, make his expected speech a very moderate one — if you only should omit to have a table or desk from him to stand at and bring down his hand on whilst he is speaking.

Without that favorite adjunct, his lordship gets fidgety, seems confused in his train of thought, hesitates often, and sits down finally with the conviction—shared also by you—that his speech has been nothing like what it ought to have been, nothing like what was expected of him.

His Majesty King George is subject to a certain nervousness, if he is interrupted when speaking. Not only does the interruption seem to break the sequence of his thoughts, but it is so unusual a thing that the King appears quite incapable afterwards of resuming his chat where he left off.

The friends of the Chancellor of the Exchequer know him to be literally a bundle of nerves. If you wish to cramp his eloquence confine him in a narrow space—say a small pulpit—when he has to address a big audience. That will do the trick! For Mr. Lloyd George's nervousness makes him always on the move; he must have room in which to knock about, and plenty of it, or the confined space gets on his nerves and upsets him.

To sooth his mind when he is speaking to a large crowd, Mr. Balfour invariably grips with each hand the front lapels of his frock coat, and varies that procedure by clasping his hands behind his back, to be followed once more, in due course, by the first performance.

Killed by Snake-Bite.

Snake bite caused the death of Dr. Fox, an Australian scientist, who has been in Calcutta for some time demonstrating his cure for snake bite before the Indian authorities. Dr. Fox was in the habit of experimenting at the Zoo, adds a special message, and all his essay with animals had been eminently successful. The other day he had just finished treating a goat which had been bitten. He had saved its life, and was leaning on a box containing some poisonous snakes, when a Krait, one of the most venomous of Indian snakes escaped, and, attacking him, inflicted five punctures on his wrist. Dr. Fox smilingly incised four of the punctures, but the fifth escaped his notice. He afterwards had lunch, and transacted various business. Late in the afternoon, however, symptoms of poisoning developed, and the tiny fifth puncture was then discovered. It was, however, too late to remedy the fatal error, as the antidote is only operative when applied immediately. Dr. Fox died about eight p.m.

BAKERS COMPLAIN OF WRAPPING CLAUSE

Messrs. T. Lush and H. W. Stock Wait on Board of Health to State Objections to Measure in Question.

WOULD INCREASE COST

At the regular meeting of the Board of Health held this morning, Messrs. H. W. Stock and T. Lush waited on the Board to protest against the proposed new by-law, which would compel bakers to wrap their loaves in paper. The gentlemen were present on their own behalf, and not as a deputation from the Bakers' Association, as was supposed. As a matter of fact there is not such an organization in the City.

Mr. Lush stated that the proposed regulations seemed to be causing a great deal of inconvenience. The men he said, have to get out early in the morning and have their ordinary routine work to attend to, and to comply with the by-law men would have to be employed to do the wrapping.

Would Cost Money.

"It cannot be wrapped when it is warm," said Mr. Lush, "as it has to stand a while. In regard to expense, I hardly know what the wrapping part would cost, but when you reckon on paper, and labour, it would be a considerable amount. That, however, will have to be ascertained later. Then, when the men fill the carts, it would hardly be possible for them to do that without tearing the wrappers, and if they delivered bread with broken wrappers that would be a contravention of the by-law. Some customers want soft, and some hard-baked bread, and you all know it is hard to please the ladies. The bread cannot be wrapped by machine, because of the different shapes of the loaves that are made."

In consideration of the facts which he had pointed out, Mr. Lush asked the Board's consideration of the advisability of leaving out the wrapping part of the bylaw. He believed heartily in having places kept clean. 'People at present are complaining about the high cost of living, and if the bread is wrapped someone will have to pay for it, and I know it will not be the bakers," concluded Mr. Lush.

Temperature of 90 Degrees.

Mr. Stock said he agreed with all that Mr. Lush had said, excepting the clause which required the men in bakeshops to wear white coats. "I rather think," he said, "that the men will hold the employers as liable, in a matter of a prosecution of this sort, if they do not comply with the by-law. He asked that the Board consider the fact that men in bakeshops have to work in a temperature of 90 degrees, and any encumbrance whatsoever, on their arms, etc., would greatly inconvenience them.

Endorsed Cleanliness.

"As far as cleanliness is concerned," he said, "we heartily endorse any efforts that the Board might make in this direction, and would be most willing to comply at all times with any regulations made in that respect, for instance, such matters as painting and white washing. Our men are compelled to clean out their rigs, and if there is any moisture which accumulates, and causes dirt, we provide them with scrapers, and they are supposed to scrape out the carts.

Injustice to Public.

"As far as the wrapping is concerned, I think it is somewhat of an injustice to the general public. It was stated in the paper that it would only cost one-tenth of a cent to wrap a loaf. How it got there, I don't know and whoever gave the information was mistaken. The wrappers cost one third of a cent each, besides the labour. Then, there is always the particular customer. We would have to quit making all these fancy loaves, for which there is such a demand. A machine that wraps, costs in the neighbourhood of $2000, and even then, only one size of loaf can be wrapped."

Would Increase Cost.

Dr. McPherson wanted to know why Mr. Stock said it would be an injustice to the public at large.

"I think it would be an injustice to the public," said Mr. Stock, "because of the increased cost. I might say that bread in Peterborough is cheaper than in any town in the Dominion of Canada.

Dr. McPherson—"We take our stand, not from a point of dollars and cents, but from the standpoint of the public health. At present the men who deliver the bread are liable to communicate any disease and sickness. You have had sickness with one of your drivers, and should know how easy it would be for him to communicate disease, by the handling of unwrapped bread.

"Filthy Dollars and Cents."

Dr. Amys: 'You know very well that the driver comes in contact with the harness, the horse, and the filthy dollars and cents, his own handkerchief (sometimes he has not got one), and then handles the bread.

Mr. Stock asked if some means ex-

WEATHERMAN PESSIMISTIC

TORONTO, May 12.—"Yes, I admit it is nothing to boast about," said the weatherman last night when remonstrated with on the question of yesterday's temperature. His sorrowful tone seemed to indicate he would really do better if he could. But the matter appears to be out of his jurisdiction.

He explained that a spell of unsettled weather existed in the Mississippi valley, while in the Dakotas and Montana there is a pronounced low temperature extending over into Northern Ontario. On the other hand, the people in Washington had a balmy air of 86 degrees, and New York 78 degrees yesterday, while in Toronto the maximum was 52.

"When may we expect something better?" But the weatherman threw up his hands and gave it up.

GEN. HUERTA IS DEFIANT

"We Are in the Lion's Mouth But the Lion Will Not Find It Easy-to-Eat Us," He Tells Correspondent

FIGHT TO THE LAST

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Eng., May 11.—"We are in the lion's mouth, but the lion will not find it easy to eat us." This was the declaration of General Huerta in Mexico City to a correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. Hureta said Mexico would show the world how to defend the sacred principle of national sovereignty. His government, he said, might be burned and pulverized, but to the very last it would remain at its post and resist United States' imposition.

READY FOR LONG STAY.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, May 11.—As evidence that the fall of Mexico City to the constitutionalists is imminent, the United States' authorities here are reporting to Washington that the Mexican mediators passing through here to Niagara Falls were accompanied by their families and vast quantities of stores and baggage as if intending to stay away from home for many years.

EXTREME CASE OF DESTITUTION

Family in The South End in The Direst Poverty

The attention of the Examiner has been called to a case of extreme destitution existing in the south end of the City. A family on Stewart Street, near the Colonial Weaving Company is urgently in need of assistance. The head of the house is very ill with tuberculosis, and the family is in the direst poverty. The wife needs clothes and boots and the common necessities of life are lacking. There are two little children in the family. The case is a most deserving one. The father worked steadily as long as his health permitted, but is now past the stage where work is possible.

The Examiner will gladly receive any donations that may be sent in for this destitute family.

THE WEATHER

The present cool spell is no doubt a remnant of the severe frost that has been prevalent over the entire Northwest. Practically the same conditions prevailed last spring. The first week was quite warm. Then until about the 17th of the month it was cool, and there was but little growth. The maples on our residential streets are as far advanced as usual in taking on their summer garb.

GROUNDS EXAMINED THIS MORNING FOR PUBLIC ATHLETICS

Sub-Committee Evidently Intend School Grounds For Small Children and Special Locations For The Larger Boys

RESULTS EXPECTED SOON

Mayor Buller, Dr. Morrison and Ald. Duffus made an automobile tour of the City this morning in the purpose of inspecting grounds that may be secured in connection with the Council's play-grounds movement. Apparently the plans the Committee is working on are to use some of the school grounds for the smaller children and to arrange for other lots for the use of older boys to play baseball and other sports. Mayor Buller stated that he did not deem it advisable to mention the latter properties visited for reasons that will be apparent. The Committee will have something definite to report to the general committee at the next meeting.

Along the same lines Ald. Johnston and Ald. Stratton have visited prospective swimming places and the whole question will probably be reduced to a working basis at the next meeting of the general committe.

REVISION OF RAILWAY ACT IS DISCUSSED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 12.—The joint committee of the Commons and Senate to consider the government's bill revising the Railway Act held its first meeting this morning. Representatives of the railway employees were present this morning. D. D. McCochrin, representing the Canadian railway telegraphers and agents, announced that there were a number of clauses to which the telegraphers were opposed. W. L. Best, representing the locomotive firemen said that the Union is not satisfied with a number of clauses in the new bill relating to operation and equipment. Harvey Hall, representing the conductors and trainmen, said the union was fairly well satisfied with the new bill.

City Officials Held Pole Conference To-day

Mayor Buller, Ald. Duncan, City Engineer Parsons and City Solicitor Gordon held a conference this morning in regard to another proposal for the removal of some of the C.P.R. poles on George Street. The company's overture requires a certain payment on the part of the City, but Mayor Buller apparently stands by his determination that the City shall not pay a cent to the company.

SEVEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NORFOLK, Va., May 12 — Seven engineers and stokers were killed, and others severely scalded in a boiler explosion on the steamship Jefferson, of the old Dominion line, en route for New York, off here, to-day. The passengers were terror stricken, and it was feared the boat would sink, but it was ascertained the trouble was all internal and the vessel proceeded.

ARRANGEMENTS UNDER WAY FOR RECEPTION TO DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

Committee Goes Into Details as to Visit of His Royal Highness--Many Suggestions Are Made and Programme is Being Mapped Out---A Visit to the Lift Lock.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Reception Committee was held last evening in the committee room of the City Council for the purpose of hearing progress reports from the various subcommittees in connection with the visit of the Duke of Connaught. There were present Ald. A. H. Stratton, Chairman; Ald. Saunders, Dobbin, Johnston, Langford, Duffus and Mayor Buller; also Messrs. A. Mowatt, Public School Inspector, J. W. Fitzgerald, Chairman of the Separate School Board; Lt.-Col. Clegg, and Major Walker, of the 57th Regiment, and Col. Young, of the 10th C. F. A.

Some Invitations.

The Reception Committee had roughly drawn up the following schedule of invitations, which they recommended shoud be made: The City Council, the County Council, Members of Parliament, both Provincial and Federal; officers of the three Regiments in Peterborough, namely the 57th Regiment, 3rd Dragoons and 24th Field Battey, United States Consul, School Board, the Clergy, Board of Health, the officers of the Board of Trade, Daughters of the Empire, the County Judge and Police Magistrates, Water Commissioners, City Trust Commissioners, the License Commissioners, Public Library Board Officers of the Retail Merchants' Association, Board of Educatin, Separate School Board, the ex-Mayors, the ex-Members of Parliament, and the Principals of the schools.

This list is a very lengthy one and it is thought by the whole committee that it would be very convenient to curtail it to some extent, chiefly on account of the short time which their Royal Highnesses will spend in the City. If such a large number of people were to be presented to the Royal visitors, not much time would be available for the other parts of the programme which has been arranged.

It was suggested to Ald. Stratton that the Hon. Col. Sam. Hughes, Minister of Militia should be invited to join in the ceremony.

In concurrence with that suggestion, Lt. Col. Clegg said that while Col. Sam was here he could conveniently go over to the Lift Lock and declare the rifle ranges officially opened, and stated that if it could not be arranged as part of the programme during the visit of His Royal Highness he would try and arrange for the Minister to come here on May 24th for that purpose. While, as some of the members of the committee said it would have hoe very nice to have had that ceremony performed also, the time at the disposal of the visitors would be so restricted as to not permit of the trip to the ranges.

The list of invitations will be revised by the Reception Committee, and invitations will be issued immediately.

Mayor Buller offered the suggestion that while inviting the Minister of Militia to be present, it would not be out of place to ask the Mayor of Lindsay to join in. The Duke is not going there and the citizens of Lindsay would esteem it an honour to have a representative here.

St. John's Ambuance.

As was mentioned in last evening's Examiner, a deputation from the St. John's Ambulance Association was to have waited on the Committee to ascertain if the Duke would present certificates that had been gained by various members of the Corps in this City.

Col. Young stated that this organization was doing a great and very effective work throughout the country, and he would urge strongly that any support be given them, but in his opinion the presentations and the Duke's reply would occupy too much time.

It was therefore decided, on motion, that the presentations could not be made by His Royal Highness, owing to the restriction placed on the time that was availabe.

The School Children.

Major Walker said that he had talked over the matter of the Public School children. He had two suggestions to offer. One was that the children be grouped and sing in a body, and the other was that either four or five hundred children be selected as a choir to sing the songs, and the rest be lined on the route which would be taken and that they be provided with flags. This matter, however, was left with that particular committee.

The Scouts.

In regard to the Scouts Major Walker said that after making inquiries he had ascertained that the Scouts in the City were not nearly so strong as they were some time ago, and that now one troop was practically all that was available. The Scoutmaster had stated that he could have one troop in good shape ready to be presented. He therefore told Mr. Sawers to go ahead with his preparations, but that he was not to be disappointed if they were not called for. It was the general concensus of opinion that only one troop in a City this size would not be a very good showing. The Duke of Connaught is deeply interested in the Scout movement, and had more lads been available the inspection would doubtless have formed a prominent part.

As far as the Cadets were concerned he had made no enquiries but felt satisfied that they would be in good shape.

The matter of buying flags for the children was left to the Committee, of which Major Waker was chairman. Two estimates had been received, one from J. J. Turner & Sons, offering flags 8 x 12 inches, for $31.50 per thousand, and another from Trebilcock Bros., offering the same flag for $33 per thousand.

Route and Vehicles.

The Committee for the route of the ride and securing of vehicles was unable to report. The matter of choosing a route had been left in the hand of City Engineer Parsons, and as regards vehicles that matter will be settled later.

Securing Steamer.

A letter was read from Mr. T. L. Kellaly, stating that he had written to the Department, recommending that the request of the Committee for the use of the steamer Bessie Butler, for the purpose of taking the visitors over the Lift Lock be granted.

The Decorations.

Considerable time was spent over the discussion of the best manner of decorating the streets. Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons have submitted prices ranging from $200 to $300. Mr. Turner stated that to give any adequate display it would cost $300. That would include decorating the streets, supplying rugs for the platform, chairs, etc. The streets would be decorated from the C. P. R. Station to McDonnel Street, on George, and from George to the Grand Trunk Station on Charlotte Street. On the platform a canopy would be erected. Ald. Langford promulgated the information that he thought a platform could be erected at very little ex-

TWO OFFICIALS NOW IN CHARGE OF CHEMONG BRIDGE

Thos. Black Stationed Over The Swing Portion, a Government Appointment, and Jas. O'Leary Has Caretaking of The Floating Structure

POLITICS MIXED IN IT

BRIDGENORTH, May 12. — The death of William O'Leary, who for years was caretaker of the Floating Bridge across the lake, necessitated the apointment of a successor to the position, and at present two men are apparently doing the work of which the late Mr. O'Leary had charge. It is stated that for certain reasons some wished to have Mr. Jas. O'Leary, son of the deceased, appointed to the position, if not permanently, at least for a time. It is understood that the local department of the Trent Canal were approached to recommend Mr. O'Leary and that even the Minister of Militia lent some support. Those interested were referred to Mr. W. Kelly of this village, who is regarded as having control of the local patronage of the present Government.

Mr. Kelly, so the story goes, chose Thos. Black, who has been in the employ of the family in their lumber operations for nearly thirty years. At any rate, Mr. Black is on duty in charge of the swing bridge, but the care of the floating section is an appointment of the County Council. When the moving ice damaged the bridge, Mr. Jas. O'Leary was authorized by County officials to make the necessary repairs and to look after the caretaking in future. The County Council does not meet for its summer session until June, and even then it is not expected that they will appoint Mr Black in charge of the whole bridge. It is regarded here that Mr. Kelly's intentions were to provide an old employee with something of a superannuation position by securing for him the work the late Mr. O'Leary performed, but the County Council will have to give Mr. Black the caretaking of the floating structure before the plan fully materializes.

ROSE TELLS SAME STORY

Declares That He Heard Whitey Lewis Say That Lieutenant Becker Had Fixed Cops

TRIAL UNDER WAY

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 12—Closely guarded by detectives "Bald Jack Rose," looking fat and prosperous, appeared at Court, this morning, and again told his story in a bold and convincing way of the part Becker played in the murder of Rosenthal. Fearing he might be assassinated by gangsters, the District Attorney's men have looked after Rose for many months and it is said, have guaranteed him permanent protection. Rose again declared that he heard Whitey Lewis say that Becker had "fixed" the Cops so that there would be no trouble when Rosenthal dropped.

"Come And Look in Lake For Me"

Are Words Pencilled on Handkerchief Found at Lake Ontario Park, Kingston—Suicide is Feared

KINGSTON, May 12. — "Whoever finds this can come and look in the lake for me," and the initials "R.D." on a handkerchief, which was found yesterday morning about twelve o'clock on a wire fence, near the shore at Lake Ontario park, are the basis of a mystery which is causing considerable excitement around Portsmouth and vicinity to-day. It is thought that the note left behind on the fence was written by an Englishman belonging to this city who boards on Division Street.

The handkerchief was found by Mr. and Mrs. John Payne, of Portsmouth, who were taking a walk in the park yesterday morning about twelve o'clock. They passed by the fence, which is near the sand banks, close to the lake, and Mrs. Payne noticed the handkerchief waving in the breeze. She walked over to it and on making a closer examination saw that there were some words written on it in pencil. The handkerchief was tied by one of the corners to the wire fence, and untying it she read the words, "Whoever findes this can come and look for me in the lake," with the initials "R. D.' underneath. It was written in a very legible hand in lead pencil, and the words were very plain. The handkerchief was a very fine one made of linen, and looked as if it had not yet been laundered, but had been recently bought in a store.

On returning to the village, Mrs. Payne notified several young men who live near her home in the village, and they, thinking it might be a patient from Rockwood, told one of the doctors. The doctors got into touch with Wm. Fenwick, who went out in a boat near where the handkerchief was found, but the water was too muddy to see anything and he had to give up without finding any trace or clue of a body. The shore was also searched but no clothing was found.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKET

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 12—Receipts were heavy, trade slower; cattle prices were steady to firm; no change in hogs and sheep.

POLICE COURT.

In Police Court, this morning, a drunk was discharged, and a local man fined $2 for riding a wheel on the sidewalk. There will likely be a number of prosecutions in this direction before long.

Arrangements Completed For Baseball Opening Here

Automobile Parade Starting From Market Square Will Be One Big Feature of the Opening Ceremonies---Mayor Buller Will Pitch First Ball

All that is needed is good weather to ensure the success of the Canadian League opening in Peterborough on Thursday.

With a half holiday proclaimed by His Worship Mayor Buller, and with all the business places closed at 3 p.m. there will be one grand crowd out to see the clash between the London Cockneys and the Electricmen.

At a meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Ball Club held last night, a committee composed of Messrs. E. G. Patterson, R. Hicks and Fred Trebilcock, was appointed to arrange the details for the opening ceremonies. The committee met at noon to-day and decided upon the following:

An automobile parade commencing at the Market Square at 2 o'clock and proceeding to the ball grounds by way of George and Hunter streets.

The parade will be headed by the band of the 57th Regiment.

At the grounds the two teams will march across the field as per the usual custom.

Mayor Buller will pitch the first ball.

The automobile owners are invited to co-operate in making the parade a large and imposing one.

The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

SELF-GOVERNMENT.

When Premier Asquith reads the report of the great anti-home rule demonstration in Queen's Park, Toronto on Sunday, he will tremble — with laughter. It was an academic demonstration in Queen's Park, Toronto force in itself, nor influence upon the transcontinental situation it was supposed to affect. It had not the merit of an attempt to help the situation, but will have the effect, if it has any effect at all, to complicate matters, and inject an impertinent element. There was no sugestion of a course of action that would smooth the roughened highway of legislation and diplomacy. The only suggestion made was a demand for the maintenance of the status of centuries of friction, injustice, and wrong. The chief suggestion, and it was destructive, not constructive, was to armed rebellion, to resistance of constituted authority, and the destruction of the fruits of centuries of struggle, sacrifice, and achievement, as represented by the supremacy of the will of the people, expressed through Parliament. Great claims were made by the rhodomontade orators for the loyalty of Ulster. One speaker said that Ulstermen, who are in armed rebellion against [illegible] loyal to the British flag." The British flag stands for the right of self government; it stands for the supremacy of parliament; it stands for obedience to the laws made by the people's representatives. The blindness of bigotry and prejudice could not be better demonstrated than by the gathering in Queen's Park. It is inconceivable that a collection of Canadians could be got together who could not see in every part of Canada evidences of the benefit and beauty of home rule, self government. When the full measure of self-government, represented by confederation, was proposed and adopted, it put an end to political friction that constituted a brake on public business, upon the business of government. There were conflicting racial and religious differences to be reconciled; there was active discontent of a section of the country, but there were no Ulster rebels in Canada; there was no armed resistance to the will of the majority. With all this before them, the Queen's Park agitators could not, and would not, see; with universal evidence, moral, political, and material, of the tremendous success of Canadian home rule, the trouble-breeders blindly talked of reconciling rebellion and loyalty, of justifying injustice, of perpetuating a condition that has kept Ireland stationary and discontented, and ineffective. We have religious minorities in Canada, and they suffer no injustice from self-government. Why should Irish self-government work otherwise? Self-government is the right of every national section of the British Empire. Ireland demands it as a right, and no one has justification in withholding the rights of a British subject.

AFRAID TO DECIDE.

The doubt that possesses the Ontario government is not creditable to their courage. With a numerical following three times greater than the number of their opponents in the Legislature, the government are afraid to come to a decision on the date of the elections. If this numerical preponderance corresponded to the strength of their record, the government should not hesitate to make the plunge. With such backing they should not fear to bring on the elections without any other excuse than their own sweet will. Sir James Whitney gives no sign. He is quoted by the News as saying:

"We do not have to go to the country for nearly two years yet; but of course we can go when we want to. I have not yet heard all the views of my colleagues, so I cannot say when there will be an election."

Why should Sir James hesitate? He won't gain much by consulting with his colleagues, if the indications of internal dissension in the cabinet are to be trusted to—they are at sixes and sevens. Why should Sir James consult his colleagues? He will do as he pleases anyway. His recent illness may have weakened his body, but his strength of will cannot be so easily conquered. If he hesitates in taking the plunge into a general election, he must fear his backing in the cabinet, and he may fear the record of his government may not constitute an appeal strong enough to win popular support. True, the cabinet has not the push of the wave of victory that carried the Borden government into power in 1911. But it has the assistance of a cowardly gerrymander. There seems to be no reason for hesitation to announce the date of the elections except the doubt of the attitude of the electors to the record and course of the government and the wide-spread discontent with individual representatives. Not only is there bickering among the cabinet ministers themselves and struggles for preferment, but there is uneasiness in the rank and file of active politicians. Members who have ony served three sessions, find the ground being drawn away from under their feet and local strife for the party nomination in active progress. This should not be the case of representatives who have established some claim to a renewal of public confidence. Here is where the individual representative suffers, or will suffer, for being too loyal to his party. The government following in the Legislature has been so subservient, has voted so automatically for the bad acts, and to cover the bad acts of the government, that they must suffer from the effects of a bad record. To distract attention from this an attempt is being made to bring the valeludinarian Sir James into so great prominence, as to constitute an appeal to sympathy that will compensate for the discredit proceeding for the unprogressive, if not retrogressive, attitude of the government to insistently demanded reforms. The Whitney government does not seem to be sure that the public verdict in case of an appeal to the people will be in their favaur. If it technically wins, it may be by a greatly reduced majority; and with a fair working majority it would be nowhere. It is only by the strength of its great majority that it has been able to defy public opinion and keep the light shut off its misdeeds, and subordinate the faults of its policy.

GIVE THE WEST A CHANCE.

The business men of Canada will not enjoy a return to brisk business conditions until the handicap is removed from the western farmer. The Mail and Empire may console itself with perdictions of "a million more acres under cultivation," but we doubt the truth of the assertion. Give the west the freedom to which it is justly entitled and it will respond by a revival of agricultural industry that will thrill all the business arteries of the whole Dominion.—Regine Leader.

PURE MILK AND INFANT MORTALITY.

There will be general approval of the action of the Board of Control in voting a sum of $12,000 to aid in the work of providing pure milk for babies in poor families. There are no fewer than twenty-three associations in the city engaged in this work, and in providing the neecssary ice, and the money now voted will be distributed among them in proportion to the extent of their milk distribution. Roughly this will average —— per association, the money now voted should materially help in the work. That it is of an important character goes without saying, but possibly few are aware how great is its importance. Statistics kept by some of the association show that the infant mortality in districts served with pure milk has decreased by no less than fifty per cent.——Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

History Of Lighting Is Story Of Last Few Years

Greatest Development Has Taken Place Within Twenty or Thirty Years--Lighting in Macauley's Time--Science of Light is the Broadest.

A history of artificial illumination would make a most interesting study. If such a history were written it would reveal the fact that the industry of lighting, and especially that of electric lighting, like most of our modern industries, has developed more during the last two or three decades than during an equal number of centuries previous to this period. During the last century, and especially during the latter part, our modes of living have been brought about in the main by the work of the scientist and the engineer. We believe that amid all the advances and development made in this most progressive period of man's history, no industry has been so progressive as the electric lighting industry, says the General Electric Review.

It was born scarcely thirty years ago, and has grown to such proportions that it is hard for the human mind to comprehend the vastness of the industry as it stands to-day. We might take our readers through a bewildering mass of figures to show this growth. The number of incandescent lamps in use, the number made every day, the number of towns and the number of people using electric light are all figures that could be compiled with a greater or lesser degree of accuracy by the patient statistician; but such figures would in reality mean very little to the average mind. Some would be so enormous that we might either multiply or divide them by ten or even a hundred, and the difference would mean little to most of us. If we want a real comparison in this matter, we must compare "what was" with "what is." A careful comparison of this sort is hard to make, as written histories mostly deal with kings and queens, the rise and fall of governments, of battles, of conquests and defeats, and most, at least, make little mention of the conquests made by the gentler men of science; but Macaulay in his "History of England" does devote a most interesting chapter to "The State of England in 1685," in which the following paragraph concerning the lighting of London occurs:

"It ought to be noticed that, in the last year of the reign of Charles the Second began a great change in the police of London, a change which has perhaps added as much to the happiness of the body of the people as revolutions of much greater fame. An ingenious projector, named Edward Heming, obtained letters patent conveying to him, for a term of years, the exclusive right of lighting up London.

Lighting London.

"He undertook, for a moderate consideration, to place a light before every tenth door, on moonless nights, from Michaelmas to Lady Day, and from six to twelve of the clock. Those who now see the capital all the year around, from dusk to dawn, blazing with a splendour besides which the illuminations of La Hogue and Blenheim would have looked pale, may perhaps smile to think of Heming's lanterns, which glimmered feebly before one house in ten during a small part of one night in three. But such was not the feeling of his contemporaries. His scheme was enthusiastically applauded, and furiously attacked. The friends of improvement extolled him as the greatest of all the benefactors of his city. What, they asked, were the boasted inventions of Archimedes, when compared with the achievement of the man who had turned the nocturnal shades into noonday? In spite of these eloquent eulogies the cause of darkness was not left undefended. There were fools in that age who opposed the introduction of what was called the new light as strenuously as fools in our age have opposed the introduction of vaccination and railroads, as strenuously as the fools of an age anterior to the dawn of history, doubtless, opposed the introduction of the plough and of alphabetical writing. Many years after the date of Heming's patent there were extensive districts in which no lamp was seen."

Now the Contrast.

If the reader, after perusing this paragraph concerning the conditions as they existed some 229 years ago, walks down any of the main streets of any large modern city, he can form a good mental picture of the progress made. We should naturally expect great progress in so long a period, but if a similar paragraph were written describing accurately the state of things a hundred years or even only thirty years ago, the picture would be hardly less impressive, as it is in the last quarter of a century that the greatest strides in the lighting industry have been made.

As to definition of "light" seems quite clear, perhaps the best way is to be paradoxical and talk of "visible light" and "invisible light." It is some years ago now that Professor Sylvanus Thompson published his most interesting lectures, entitled "Light, Visible and Invisible," and there seems even now little ground for quarrelling with this title.

If space permitted, we should like to deal with some of the problems, both scientific and commercial, of the lighting industry, but the subject is so vast that an attempt to cover even a small part of it in so short an article would be futile; but it is interesting to note in passing that these problems are so many and so varied that the progress made in the past, great as it has been, is small when compared with the work that is left to be done. Our most efficient illuminant, although a vast improvement on our best of a few years ago, is still woefully inefficient when compared with theoretical possibilities.

Science of Light Broadest.

The science of light is perhaps the broadest of all the sciences; it includes so much, embracing as it does so many of the physical phenomena. We have learned much in the past, but still the study of light seems almost like a groping in the dark. It is true that our modern scientific conceptions occasionally have a glammer of hope, and that such conceptions as our modern views on the nature of matter and the properties of teh electron seem bound to broaden our scope of scientific research and achievements; but at the same time there is a tremendous field left as yet untrodden, and much building to be done right down on the foundations of the science of light that were laid by the immortal Newton.

Such brilliant minds as Sir Thomas Young, Clerk Maxwell, and Helmholtz,, including such men of modern times as Lord Kelvin and J. J. Thomson, have yet to learn the answer to that question, which seems well nigh like the riddle of the universe: What is ether?

Fortunately, the scientific mind seems to be fed and stimulated on difficulties to be overcome, so it is rather an encouragement than otherwise to know that in spite of the brilliant work done in the past there is still more to be done; and that of the problems, both scientific and commercial, facing the electric lighting industry of to-day, it might be said, as of the charms of Cleopatra, that "age cannot wither" nor custom stale their "infinite variety."

NOTES AND GLEANINGS

The mule is not being displaced by the automobile. In Kansas City, one of the largest mule markets in the United States, 30,000 of the strong and patient animals were sold last year at an average of $180 a head; the price used to be $80. A team of the best "show mules" brought $1,000, and a colt following its mother sold for $250. Then there are the cotton mules from 14 to 15¼ hands high; the mine mules, ranging from 13 to 16 hands, and the heavier sugar mules and railroad grading and logging mules. We are informed by Mr. A. D. Cottingham, one of the largest breeders, that the Kansas City mules are sold in nearly every State of the Union, and in Africa, Cuba, Mexico, Canada and the Hawaiian Islands.

The use of a new secret preservative for milk and cream is reported by the Medical Officer of London. Its advertisers recommend it as "50 per cent. more efficient than boron compounds," and guarantee that it does not contain "any preservative mentioned in the text books"; therefore it "cannot be detected by analysis." It is tasteless and odorless, it will prolong the life of sweet milk forty eight hours, and restore sour cream to its original sweetness. London's Medical Officer has begun to prosecute the users of the preservative, which is a solution of potassium fluoride and potassium carbonate.

As the range of a group of animals is extended, be it genus, family, or order, the species increase out of proportion to the genera, the genera out of proportion to the families, and the families out of proportion to the orders. That is the theory of Dr. Asa C. Chandler, who tells in The American Naturalist the results of his tests by comparing the distribution of bats, insect eaters, mammals, reptiles, and insects in different areas. In a distributional area of a certain extent there may be three genera and six species, an area about as there will not be six genera and twelve species, but probably four or five genera and twelve species, and so on.

When men first take up an opinion, and then seek for reason for it, they must be contented with such as the absurdity of it will afford. —South.

Gasoline or naptha are the easiest cleansing agents to use on fabrics of all kinds. But they should never be kept in the house in large quantities as they are extremely dangerous. It is safer not to keep any amount of them in the house. It is often possible, if you live in the country, to kep a large corked bottle of gasoline in some sheltered place out of doors. If you live in the iCty the nearest drug store must be relied on to supply your want in small quantities.

COMFORT DEPENDS MUCH ON PROPER INFLATION OF TIRES

Varying Conditions of Weather, Streets and Weight of Car Compel Exercise of Some Judgment on Part of Car Owner

"There are so many different factors having an influence on the usage of tyres that no rule for inflation can be adopted which will be exactly suitable to all conditions," says a veteran car owner. "Style of car construction, the weight and its distribution, power, road conditions, speed, the expert or careless driver, effect of climate and numerous other things all have important connections with the strains to which the tyres will be subjected. Consequently a fixed rule for inflation would, in view of these things, produce different results.

"The schedules of inflation recommended by the tyre companies provide a basis from which to work. Ordinarily, the tyres on front wheels should be inflated from 15 to 20 lbs. per inch of tyre section and the rear tyres from 18 to 20 lbs. per inch of tyre section. For example: Four inch tyres on front wheels from 60 to 72 lbs. and the rear from 60 to 80 lbs. The variation in these pressures naturally depends upon the things before mentioned principally the weight of car. For instance, tyres on a car weighing 1,800 lbs. do not require as much air pressure as the tyres on a car weighing 2,500 lbs. The tyres ride hard when pumped up to high pressure and used on light cars, but with the same pressure ride comfortably on a heavy car.

"In determining the correct size of tyre and the proper inflation, it is important to know the weight of car and distribution on the front and rear wheels. Run front half of car on platform scales ad make note of the weight. Then place only the rear half of car on scales recording this weight also. The weight carried by each tyre will be one-half of either of the respective weights.

respective amounts.

"Resiliency is primarily governed by the construction and quality of the tyres but is largely influenced by the inflation and the weight carried. A 4 inch tyre inflated to 70 lbs. pressure and carrying a weight of 300 lbs. will naturally ride easier than the same size tyre with the same inflation carrying 700 lbs. The heavier weight causes some deflection of the tyre on the ground and increases the action adding to the comfort of the ride. As the deflection or flattening of the tyre is increased either by weight or reducing the air pressure, most of the vibration is absorbed by the tyres and not by the springs of the car. The danger is in going to an extreme, and a great many car owners in this way sacrifice tyre efficiency and maximum mileage.

Over-Inflated Tyres Ride Hard.

"If you find the tyres ride hard when inflated to 80 lbs. pressure, it is safe to reduce the pressure to 75 lbs. or 70 lbs., providing this does not permit the tyres to bulge or flatten under the weight of the car.

"Don't make the mistake of guessing at the inflation from appearances: use a tyre pressure gauge at least every week—the tyres sometims appear to round up pretty well, but when tested with gauge you may find the pressure is entirely too low to secure best results.

"A great many tyres are damaged in a number of ways from riding soft. This is particularly true during the summer season. The users seem to be under the impression that there is danger of blow-outs due to expansion. There is some expansion, but as a matter of fact it is not in proportion to the increase in temperature. For example: If the temperature of the air in a tyre increases from 60 degrees to 80 degrees, it does not mean that the air pressure per square inch increases from 60 to 80 lbs. With the change in temperature mentioned, it actually results in an increase of 3 lbs. pressure per square inch—i.e., if the temperature of the air in a tyre increases from 60 to 80 degrees, the air pressure increases from 60 to 63 lbs.

Heat Makes Difference.

"On a hot day it will be observed that driving a tyre soft for some distance over a brick pavement will heat it considerably more than the tyre upon the opposite wheel inflated to a higher pressure. This is caused naturally by the increased bending on the side walls of the soft tyre and the increased road friction due to deflection—the excessive bending and heating is detrimental in many respects. The deflection and wave in the tyres requires more power from the engine. The kneading action results in separation of the rubber cover from the body and the several plies of fabric in the body do not take bumps and strains or traction uniformly and have a tendency to work loose—chafing then occurs and ultimately a blow-out.

"Pinched inner tubes are usually caused from the tyres being under pressure and not fitting snugly to the rims.

"The adhesion of a tube to the case and deterioration of the rubber may be caused by a lack of lubrication, but as a usual thing may be traced to excessive heating from riding the tyre soft.

"Reinflate the tyres occasionally as the inner tubes are slightly permeable. When the rubber is heated to, eighty degrees or more, 15 per cent. to 20 per cent. of the pressure is lost. It is not advisable to inflate tyres with with the exhaust from the engine, as oil and certain gases are destructive to the rubber—this does not have reference to pumps operated by power from the engine. Air is the best for inflation. Occasionally deflate the tyres and fill with a fresh supply of air."

PETERBORO' FURNITURE COMPANY IS CAPABLE OF PRODUCING ALL KINDS OF EQUIPMENT FOR OFFICES AND STORES

At the last Council meeting Alderman Stratton referred to the Utilities Commission having accepted the tender of a Lindsay furniture company for the equipment of the new Utilities office in the City Building. He pointedout that the Peterborough Furniture Company in East City had submitted a price which was only $11 higher than that which was accepted by the Commissioners. The Lindsay firm's price was $939. Alderman Stratton was of the opinion that local business should be encouraged as much as possible.

In a press interview Mr. W. H. Moore had intimated that the work could not be handled in Peterborough, and to this statement Mr. T. W. Oke, proprietor of the Peterborough Furniture Company makes strong objection. To The Examiner he stated that in tendering for the work he was shown the plans, but not the specifications, and as a result had not a detailed knowledge of what the Commissioners required. In submitting his tender he had offered a price for the very best material.

The grilled cage asked for would be secured by either company from a Toronto firm and would reduce the actual furniture work by several hundred dollars.

Mr. Oke stated that he was thoroughly equipped for all kinds of office work. On account of the rush of orders that he has on file at present he was not worrying over the Lindsay firm getting the contract, but he did not wish the opinion to prevail that the Peterborough Furniture Company could not handle this particular contract. They are in a position to handle all kinds of work and to produce goods equal to, if not considerably superior to anything the Lindsay company turns out.

One of the orders the East City manufacturer is now completing is the entire furnishings for the new Turnbull store, a contract that was not to be compared to that let by the Utilities Commission. Mr. Oke stated that this contract called for furniture that would make twenty-five dray loads in delivery. That which the Lindsay firm secured here is a matter of a load or two. But the point which Mr. Oke wished to have brought before the public was that his factory is entirely capable of manufacturing all kinds of office equipment. He also remarked that there was nothing to be gained now by considering the tenders submitted to the Commission, but he felt that had he been in possession of the specifications his tender would probably have been a different one.

Suggestions For Those Who Have Objections to The Almost Imperceptible Dust That's Seen

"It seems monotonous," said a north-end resident last night," to keep harping on the dust nuisance, but it's fierce up our way on Sunday. You can scarcely go out for a walk without feeling that you are going to come home with a fine layer of the roadway on your outer garments, in your lungs and elsewhere." This was from a citizen who sees the watering carts fairly frequently on week days, but what of those who never see a cart?

In the words of the esteemed ratepayer, it is a monotonous subject; and there's absolutely no hope for relief until about 1920.

But the dust should help the vacuum cleaner trade. Residents on the City's fringe forget that feature, though the most of them are still swinging on the old broom. One form of relief that might be feasible would be the purchase of a fairly large vacuum cleaner by the residents on a section of a street. Each morning they could run over the road and gather up the dust. Then at night each resident could use the wind instrument for a little solo on his lawn, on the pavement in front of his residence, on his verandah and if an extension ladder were thrown in with the cleaner they might run over the sides of their house. But getting the dust out of the tree would be a real problem. Honestly it is a wonder that during or after a rain storm, some of the maples do not drip mud.

Then, too, the residents outside the watering cart zone should not overlook the fact that statistics have been compiled to show that street oil is injurious to automobile tires. Now that would be a hardship. Just fancy automobiles would not be seen, maybe, on Chamberlain Street if the City oiled the street for the purpose of keeping down the dust. That would be a real loss to the citizens down there who just love to see the autos roll by raising beautiful little clouds of nice brown dust. The aesthetic side of the natures of such residents would be sadly neglected. Of course they might study the heavenly clouds now and then. Early in the morning would be a good time when the cars are not so persistently numerous. But there is nothing like those little old dust clouds. They are material and this is a material age. Hence why gaze at the clouds with their nebulous gauze?

And these same citizens overlook the fact that the injury of tires would necessitate new ones, and still some more. In fact these residents in the outskirts, but still within the pale, seem to be overlooking everything but the dust and that's rather selfish of them. Just think of it, even hoping for oil when the rubber industry is somewhat threatened by the Mexican difficulty. Here would be decreased production of rubber and an increased demand for the same material resulting from the injury to tires caused by oil on Concession Street. Perhaps the tire companies might feel the new demand, but there would be the Scylla of shortened supplies. And there are other ramifications too numerous to follow, but all tending to prove that the citizens who get their dust treatments at regular intervals have not carefully considered the thought—that's all it is— that has stirred within them. Hence the City Council was perfectly justified and supported by commercial and industrial conditions, facts and fiction and other things in their decision that oil would have to bide its time before its introduction to Peterborough streets.

In the meantime if the community vacuum cleaner is not exactly feasible, the citizens who object to the dust are recommended to buy diving suits. They, too, should be of the finest rubber and with the increased demand from this source the product will increase in price. As a consequence the price of tires will naturally soar and the humble citizen can chuckle within his new summer diving suit—1914 skin model—at his splendid revenge.

Lightning Rods Are Advocated

Prof. W. H. Day of the Ontario Agricultural College Discusses the Subject

A bulletin advocating the use of lightning rods on buildings has just been issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Prof. W. H. Day, of the staff of the Ontario Agricultural College, is the author of the Bulletin, and he demonstrates, after a series of investigations covering thirteen years, that lightning rods are the protection that science claims them to be. In Ontario in 1912 the efficiency of rods was 94 1-2 per cent. From the reports of insurance companies Prof. Day found that in every 200 farm buildings insured, 42 were rodded, which is 21 per cent., but out of every 200 farm builings struck by lightning only 13 were rodded. In this connection Prof. Day observes: "We should have expected 42 if the rods were no good."

Lightning rods in Iowa are recorded as showing an efficiency of 98.7 per cent., and inspected rods in Michigan show an efficiency of 99.9 per cent. Records in Iowa show that for the eight years, 1905-1912 the average number of insurance companies carrying risks on rodded buildings was 55. The highest number of companies reporting in any one year was 68 and the lowest 46. The total lightning claim paid by all these companies for the whole eight years on rodded buildings was only $4,464—an average of $10.15 per company per year. On unrodded bullings they paid lightning claims amounting to the large sum of $341,065.92, which is an average of $775.15 per company per year, and the number of unrodded buildings was the same as the rodded ones.

In Michigan where a company insures only rodded buildings which have been inspected, a risk of $55,-172,075 was carried during four years and damage claims arising from lightning during that time totalled only $32.

These and other proofs submitted by Prof. Day are practical demonstrations of the scientific fact that lightning rods properly installed are a protection. In giving directions for the proper rodding of buildings the reader is reminded that lightning is electricity. Prof. Day asserts that rods should be in metallic connection with the building and that no insulators should be used. This method of attachment is directly opposite to that adopted when lightning rods were first used.

West And South Get Ten Minute Trolley Service

During the construction work that has been going on for some time on George stret ,the residents who use the Jackson Park or the C.G.E. car line are being given a foretaste of the ten minute service. On both of those lines the ten minute service is now in operation, but as soon as the George street line can be used again the service will revert to the old fifteen minute period for a few weeks. During that time the street railway company are counting on building three turnouts, one on Romaine street, one on George street between Antrim and Smith Street, and one at the corner of George and Charlotte streets. Then when that is completed the new ten minute service will be inaugurated. This will be some time during the month of July.

NEW WEAVES IN COLOURED MADRAS THAT ARE PERFECTLY SUNFAST

The Gay Spring Sunshine invariably makes us impatient for a change in our homes, and one of the simplest ways to satisfy this craving is to alter the Curtains. If you are buying Curtains and cannot afford three or four separate sets for different times of the year, you should bear in mind that very soon your Curtains will be required to soften the strong light, and make your choice accordingly.

Without Green Blinds or Thick Curtains Rooms are too uncomfortably light in hot weather, yet many of us bar these shading mediums because they have the undesirable effect of excluding every breath of fresh air.

So, many economical housewives will welcome the arrival of this Madras, since they shade the room nicely and at the same time are dainty enough to give the fresh air free access. Shown in three very rich shades, namely, Olive Green, Dutch Blue and Golden Tan, each colour having a relief of Black, which adds considerably to the charm of the Muslins which have a very highly mercerized finish, almost resembling a Silk in appearance. Forty-four inches is the width of these Madras and the price is cut very fine at One Dollar the yard.

Value Of Newspaper Advertising Was Again Strongly Emphasized

By Mr. Alfred W. Boyd to a Good Audience in the Grand Opera House Last Night in His Address on "Salesmanship"

A large number heard Mr. Alfred W. Boyd who lectured on "Salesmanship" at the Opera House last night, under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' Association. Moving pictures were shown both before and after the address, and the lecturer was introduced to the audience at 9 o'clock by Mr. Thos. Barrie, President of the Retail Merchants' Association.

In opening Mr. Boyd expressed his pleasure at being present to give the address under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' Association. As he wished to devote every minute of his time to the subject of his address he would jump right into his theme at once.

There was not a man who had been in the retail business one month but who knew more about the technique of his business than the speaker. He did not come to teach the difference between adulterated and unadulterated food stuffs. He had come to tell how to build the business with which the retailers themselves were conversant.

It was a very different thing to know groceries than to know how to build up a grocery business. The building of a retail business was the same as the building up of a wholesale, professional, banking or other business. The retailers must bring the conduct of their business into harmony with the laws of nature.

A "man-made" or common law was a rule of action or conduct laid down by the highest authority of the state. The penalties for violating the man-made laws varied as the importance of the law. For minor offences we paid a fine; for more serious ones imprisonment, and in some cases death was the penalty.

A law of nature was also a rule of action prescribed not by man but by the highest authority in the universe—Nature herself. For breaking a minor law the merchant paid a fine in the way of a subtraction from his business; for breaking the laws of courtesy and service he lost custom, and for a disregard of still more important laws he must pay the price of commercial and financial death. The laws of nature were universal, and constituted the basic and fundamental ideas. The retailers should bring the conduct of their business under these laws. There was one difference between the penalties for the man-made and natural laws. Men might violate the former and escape the just penalty, but no man ever violated the laws of nature and escaped the penalty. "A man never started a business of any kind and built it up, but who consciously or unconsciously kept his business in harmony with the natural laws. And these laws were just as susceptible for being taught as the multiplication table."

Building a business was the art of securing permanent profitable patrons. And success in business hinged on the power to secure permanent and profitable patrons. There was a difference between making a professional success of one's business and making a business success of one's profession.

The law of "Thoroughness" was one of the natural laws. When employees came to realize that the sale of their services were regulated by the same forces that regulated the price of sugar, viz., the quantity and quality of the goods delivered, they would cease to wear their eyes out looking for higher wages. Instead they would try to increase their value to their employer.

Some men who did a great volume of business thought that they were making a great success of their business. But they must look to the profits. The man who clipped his profits too close would turn out to be a storekeeper instead of a merchant. For example a tea merchant might buy tea at 30c a pound and sell it at forty cents a pound, and figure that his profit was ten cents a pound. Whereas in all probability his overhead expenses overbalanced the profit and he was actually selling at a loss. It was no wonder that 95 per cent. of all who launched out as retail merchants were failures. No man could build his business to fair proportions without an observance of order, accuracy and system. A house was known not by the customers it got but by the customers it kept.

There was one thing absolutely necessary to secure permanent, profitable patrons. That was excellency of service. Two plus two plus two—6. That was a fact for all time and in all places. And just as much so was it a fact that Q plus Q plus M—S. The first Q stood for Quantity. The second stood for Quality, and the M stood for mode of Management. Together they equalled Success.

The science of business was the science of service. One must not give less than 16 ounces to a pound. That was Quantity. A retailer couldn't sell tainted meat, strong butter and stale eggs and give satisfaction. That was Quality. But if his quantity and quality were right he could not make a success of business if the bookkeeper sent the right bill at the wrong time, or the wrong bill at the right time; or if a purchase was delivered at six o'clock when it should have been delivered at three o'clock on the afternoon of Mrs. Brown's party.

"I believe," said the speaker, "that newspaper advertising is one of the best forms of advertising under the sun. There is only one better—that is the advertisement of a wagging tongue, particularly if that wagging tongue belongs to a woman."

The speaker went on to show how that Man-Power, Money-Power and Equipment-Power made service. The former was the cause and the last two the effects. In conclusion he pointed out that co-operation was one of the things needed between the employer and the employe. The best standard could not be reached unless every employee was efficient. The employees' mistakes were due to one of the sixty characteristics that resulted in mistakes. The only way to overcome these "failure traits" was to cultivate the "success traits," thus crowding out the others. If a man be forgetful let him develop his memory. If he were dishonest let him develop his truthfulness, and the result would be the Man-Power that would result in Money-Power and Equipment-Power.

Souvenir Has Been Finished

The souvenir book of Peterborough which the local contingent of the Salvation Army will distribute in the motherland on the occasion of their participation in the big Congress, in London, has been received by Adjt. McElhiney from the printer. The book has been compiled with much good judgment on the part of those who had the matter in charge and is one of the best of its kind that has ever been published in connection with this City. It would seem that no expense has been spared to make it worthy of Peterborough, and a successful representation of it principal industries, public buildings and institutions of the City. The book is filled with illustrations of our local factories, local places of business, ocal residences, local beauty spots, and will be a great advertisement for this City in the Old Country.

Copies of the souvenir will be distributed in London, Liverpool, Manchester and many other large and small centres of England. It will place the real advantages of the City in a more realistic manner than ever before, before the eyes of the English people who will see the photographs (all of which are unusually good) that the bok contains. A reproduction of the picture of this year's City Council, of the Fire Hall and the Police force are also features of the souvenir. The principle that pictures speak louder than descriptive paragraphs seems to have been relied upon with very gratifying results by the compilers of the book, to make it a valuable advertisement for Peterborough and an interesting one for the people of England.

Draft Of A Proposed Town Planning Act To Be Presented

Interesting Feature of the International Conference on City Planning in Toronto

PREPARED BY COMMITTEE

That the town-planning movement in Canada has come to stay and will have to be reckoned with in the future is demonstrated by the fact that it has already engaged the attention of several of our provincial legislatures. The year 1912 saw comprehensive town-planning acts passed in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and last year, Alberta led the way for the Western Provinces. Ontario also has an act applicable to cities with a population of 50,000 and upwards.

At the forthcoming International Conference on City Planning, Toronto, May 25-27, a draft town-planning act, which it is hoped will be a model for all Canadian provinces, will be submitted to the delegates present by a special committee appointed by the Commission of Conservation. Frank criticism and full discussion of this proposed act will be invited. After being amended in accordance with the resolutions of the Conference, copies will be sent to each provincial government, urging them to enact legislation along the lines proposed.

As now drafted the Bill provides for the preparing and carrying out of town planning projects by a Local Board in each city or town, subject to the approval of a Central Town-planning Board for the whole province. Projects will apply chiefly to land likely to be used for building purposes, but may, in certain circumstances, include land already built upon or land unsuitable for building Provision is made for compensation of private owners if injuriously affected and for the local authority recovering half of the unearned increment if property values are increased. The Central Board may act on its own initiative if the Local Board fails to do its duty or if the Local Board exists.

Under such an act, the growth of every town will be regulated so that streets may be of adequate width and in accord with the general plan of the town, housing congestion will not be permitted; sufficient open spaces will be reserved for parks, squares and other municipal purposes; and health, amenity and convenience will be given due consideration in all new building areas and, so far as possible in old ones.

A LETTER OF APPRECIATION

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—May I beg a small space in your valuable paper, to do a simple act of justice to the Nicholls Hospital. It is my lot to be a patient in the above institution, and I can most truthfully say, I am more than surprised and satisfied with every one and everything. The wards, beds and all accessories are spotlessly clean and perfectly complete in every detail.

The food plentiful, varied of the best and most beautifully cooked, and very daintily served—just the dinner or supper tray to tempt the invalid or to satisfy the hungry convalescent.

The nurses and all attendants most kind, attentive and patient, as sick folk that is hard to negotiate, as such folk are often peevish, ill-tempered and unreasonable.

The lady superintendents (though strict disciplinarians), are most true, kind; indeed the whole service leaves the doctors most clever, capable and kind, indeed the whole service leaves nothing to be desired. I feel it is my duty to speak as I find, and sign myself,

A Grateful Patient.

Bakers Complain of Wrapping Clause

cept wrapping could not be suggested. What he meant was that cleanliness of the man and the waggons be insisted upon. "That is just a suggestion," he said, "but if you insist on the wrapping we shall have to submit to the orders of the Board of Health." Some of the ladies who have been making the most noise about having the bread wrapped will not buy it when it is presented to them, because of the increased cost."

Md. Stock also said that it had been proved by chemists of the Bakers' Association that wrapping was detrimental to the bread and this after the matter had been very thoroughly gone into.

By-law in Calgary.

The City of Calgary used to have a by-law which compelled the bakers to wrap the bread. It was only fully carried out by one firm. The rest revolted and to-day only one-third of the output of the bread-makers of Calgary is wrapped. The Government regulates the size of a loaf that a baker is allowed to bake. So that they they could not make any different sizes or weight, and charge accordingly. It would be a good thing if the legislature would pass a law permitting the baker to make a loaf any size he wanted, and put his name and the weight of the loaf, on the loaf, so that a customer would know what he is getting, and where he is getting it from.

Must Stop Handling.

Dr. McPherson — "Have you anything to suggest that would do away with the wrapping. People who handle those loaves have no more right doing so than they have handling meat. If you can devise some means whereby the handling can be done away with, that is all right, but we must stop this handling."

Sanitary Inspector Spence said that he knew of a very simple, yet effective device. It was simply a large fork, which he had seen in operation elsewhere and had proved a success.

Dr. McPherson was of the opinion that the wrapping was too important a point to drop and asked that the gentlemen who had come to interview the Board would converse with the other bakers and try and devise some means by which handling the bread would be done away with, and then report back to the Board at the next meeting.

This course was agreed to.

ROOF OF MANN'S FACTORY BURNED

Sparks From Locomotive Ignited The Shingles and a Blaze Resulted

Last evening, about 6 o'clock, the sparks from a locomotive engine set fire to the roof of Mann's box factory on Aylmer Street. The blaze was noticed at once and a fire alarm was sent in. The Brigade responded and laid two lines of hose. The fire was soon extinguished. The damage will be about twenty-five dollars, the roof being burned through in three places.

INCINERATOR IS DISCUSSED

Residents in Neighbourhood Have Complained of The Odour

The Board of Health met in regular session this morning, in the committee room of the City Council, at 9:30 a.m. There were present, Dr. Amys, chairman, Alderman Duncan, Mayor Buller, Mr. Murty, and the Sanitary Inspector.

The application, made by Mr. R. R. Hall, on behalf of Mrs. R. D. Hamilton and R. Gliddon, to have a sewer constructed on Hunter street between Stewart and Rubidge streets was granted. Several other minor applications for sewer constructions were also granted.

A large number of accounts were ordered to be paid.

Alderman Duncan brought up the matter of the incinerator. A great many of the residents in the incinerator district had complained to him of the bad odours that arise from the burning of the night soil. This in the opinion of one of the members, was not half so bad as the unpleasant smell that came from the packing house. Sanitary Inspector Spence said that he had been around there, and he could not detect any smell at all. People imagined that there was a smell and made complaints accordingly.

Alderman Duncan said that he would rather have it cost the city $50 or $100 to get rid of the matter in a satisfactory manner.

It was also stated that it was not so much the fault of the incinerator, as it was the system. The Sanitary Inspector also wanted to know, if the city were going to allow other townships to use the incinerator.

Monaghan has no dumping ground, and has been drawing its refuse to the incinerator.

Alderman Duncan—When I went to Monaghan to try and get a piece of land for dumping purposes, they put up a big kick.

It was decided not to let Monaghan or other outside townships have the use of the incinerator.

A number of recommendations for sewers were made by the Sanitary Inspector, and action has, or will be taken, in each.

The Board then adjourned.

A Brighter City Will Give The Impression of Civic Pride and Local Prosperity to Visitors

The clean-up programme arranged for Peterborough is supplementary to the usual work done under the supervision of Sanitary Inspector Speirs. It aims to enlist the co-operation of the citizens to put forth a little extra effort toward cleaning up the City and to adding the little touches that beautify.

In the outlying sections where the garbage collecting system is not a facility the residents should prepare to gather up all the tins and other rubbish from their back premises. Those who give considerable attention to lawns should put forth a little extra work. The roadway in front of their homes should be cleared to weeds, stones and similar articles. And the general appearance of the lawn and house can be greatly improved by the judicious use of a can of paint or two where it will do the most good. This is the principal idea, urging those who have done their usual work to attempt a few extras and those who have been negligent to begin now to do their share.

The united desire for a brighter City will soon be reduced to actual reality. But Mayor Buller has asked that all the work be completed by May 25. This means that the present is the time to make a good beginning. Delaying until the middle of next week will not allow sufficient time for the completion of the brightening that each resident would like to see finished. And there lies the strength of this appeal. It is the knowledge that every citizen of decent instincts wants his home to be as neat and trim as he can afford to make it. Dilapidated fences, lawns and verandahs are not indications of civic pride, prosperity and progressiveness. The appeal is not to the spirit of vieing with neighbours for personal gratification, but to the fact that as the City is made up of individual residences, in the same measure the City's trimness and beauty depends upon the appearance of the individual dwellings.

In the first place then, gather together the flotsam of the back yard, then the front yards and lastly the loose boulders, bottles and rubbish off the street.

In the second place look to the improvement of the lawn, the laying out of flower pots, the trimming of trees.

And thirdly, see the wobbly fences, faded paint and similar evidences of the wear and tear of the elements.

This is not a heavy programme, but it is sufficient, if carried out, to give the City a brighter and better appearance. It will create a better impression upon visitors and there are many coming to Peterborough this year.

pense. He said that he had been in convrsation with the Street Commissioner, who had some lumber they could use for its construction, and it would be merely a matter of wages to get the platform erected. The proposed location for the platform which will be 20 by 40 feet, is in front of the Armouries on the Armoury drill ground, and about 20 feet from the sidewalk. The main approach would be from the [illegible]

Ald. Duffus: "Have we any appropriation for this, Mr. Mayor?"

Mayor Buller: "Oh, we'll fix that alright."

The Mayor further believed that if a thing was worth doing it was worth doing well, and in this measure he was most ably supported by Ald. Saunders.

"Don't let us be behind the times," said Ald. Johnston; "let us show that we appreciate his presence and are patriotic."

Some diversity of opinion was then voiced as to which would be the best route to be taken. It was pointed out that the paving operations on George Street would be completed, but whether or not Charlotte Street would be completed lay, to a great extent with the Radial Railway Co. who were going to lay new tracks. Several routes were suggested, but none definitely decided on. This, in the opinion of some of the committee, would increase the cost of the decorations, unless Ald. Dobbin's suggestion of spreading out the flags was carried out.

Mayor Buller—"Gentlemen, do you think you have got enough. Why not spend a thousand or two?"

It was, however, decided that $300 be expended for decorations, the erection of a canopy, stands, chairs, etc.

The Programme.

The programme which has been submitted for the approval of His Royal Highness, and to which no answer has yet been received, is as follows:

Guard of Honour drawn up at the Station.

Ride taken through part of the City ending in Central Park, where the presentation of an address would take place, and a reception held.

If time permits, an inspection of the Boy Scouts.

A trip over the Lift Lock.

With but three hours at the official's disposal it will be a hard task to work in all the proposed items. The reception at the Station, the inspection of the Guard of Honour, the drive around the City would take an hour. The singing, presentation of addresses and the reception would take fully another hour, and the trip over the Lift Lock would occupy a similar time. Thus the three hours, from 10 till 1 o'clock, are already consumed, without leaving any for other small details that might crop up.

Col. Clegg said that instead of having the Duke to go to the ranges, he would rather that he spent ten minutes at the Armouries, where the Princess would likely be presented with a bouquet by the Daughters of the Empire. The Duke is the only Field Marshall in Canada, and ten minutes with him at the Armouries would be proper, added Col. Young.

The one thing that had to be done was the trip over the Lift Lock, because he has asked for it. The suggestion was then made that the trip be made first. This, however, it was decided, would keep the people waiting too long and there are, according to a statement from the Mayor, a vast number of English people here simply "crazy" over the approaching visit, and as taxpayers, they must be given an opportunity to see the Royalty.

If anybody should get a chance, said Major Walker, it should be the children.

The drive around the City includes a visit to the Normal School and a return to the Park. Ald. Duffus made a good suggestion when he said that the functions at Central Park should be gone through first, and the journey then continued northward, and then proceed to the Lift Lock.

To consider this and other matters an adjournment was then made into sub committee.

TERRIBLE STORMS IN OHIO STATE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

CLEVELAND, O., May 12. — At least two deaths and immense property damage was caused by torrential rains and lightning storms in Northern Ohio, to-day. One school-house was burned and the children had narrow escapes. Dr. George Goetz, a prominent physician of McKeesport, Pa., became confused in the heavy storm, stumbled on the tracks, and was killed by the train he intended to take for home.

At Johnstown Pa. there were severe floods and windstorms, the casualities so far as known being two killed and five fatally hurt.

Moving Pictures Again To-night

The moving pictures of the "Life of Christ" shown last night in the Salvation Army Temple found such favour with all who saw them that they are being repeatend again to-night. This will likely be the last opportunity for local people to see the pictures, of which there are 5,000 feet, and it is expected that the reels will be shown before a very large audience again to-night.

Funeral of The Late Mrs. Waudby

At noon to-day the remains of the late Mrs. Waudby, of Toronto, arrived in this city via the C.P.R., and the funeral took place from the station. The deceased lady passed away at her home, Logan avenue, Toronto, a few days ago. The Rev. R. G. Peever conducted the funeral services and interment took place in the Little Lake cemetery.

Lacrosse Players Will Be Allowed Practice on Riverside Park

A meeting of the executive of the Lacrosse Club was held last night and an additional number of junior sticks were disposed of. The principal activity now prevails in the west end, where Bob Begley and Will Koster are fathering the game, and in the near south end, where George Robertson has from fifteen to eighteen of the boys learning the game. The sticks are excellent for the boys, and it is hoped that East City, the North Ward, Centre Ward and the extreme South Ward will soon fall into line.

The intermediate O.A.L.A. team will probably be allowed to use the Riverside Park on Thursday night, but it must be understood that all players and those going on the sward are requested to wear the regulation lacrosse boots and shoes. The ground is soft, and the Park owners do not wish it to be cut up by the heels of ordinary boots. The Riverside Park is in excellent condition and the old nets are in the Club house. Unless information to the contrary is received before Thursday night in regard to the grounds there should be a big practice.

Another dozen senior sticks were ordered on Saturday, and they should be here before Thursday.

No Game At St. Thomas To-day

Special Wire to The Examiner:

ST. THOMAS, May 12. — Once again the weatherman stepped in to-day and prevented the Saints and the Blountmen from trying conclusions. Rain prevented all possibility of to-day's game and at the best the teams will get through one game of the three scheduled as it will be impossible to play a double-header to-morrow owto the Petes having to take an early train for the East to reach home in time for the opening. The Saints have had four postponements already since the season opened.

Kingston Has Paving Troubles

Messrs. Foley and Gleeson, who have the contract for paving the streets of Peterborough, will also be awarded the contract for paving Kingston's main thoroughfare, Princess Street, if the City Council act upon the recommendation of the Board of Works of that place. As in Belleville there are tenders that are lower for laying Tarvia and other pavements, but the Board decided to give the contract to Messrs. Foley and Gleeson. Some of Kingston's citizens are up in arms and it is possible that before the trouble subsides there will be an injunction issued, as in Belleville. The Kingston Construction Company's tender to lay Tarvia was $1000 below that of Messrs. Foley and Gleeson for asphaltic concrete.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

AN ERIE STORY OF THE TEN TO TWO DISASTER

Errors by Belting and Kelly Were Mixed With Yankees' Hard Hitting to Give the Smith Aggregation the Fourth Game of the Series

PETES DID NOT HIT

The Erie Despatch says of Sunday's game:

Fitzpatrick's clever pitching and the hitting of the Yanks won the third straight game for Erie, from Peterborough yesterday. Except in the second inning, when Fitzpatrick's support failed, the visitors never had a look in. The final score: Erie 10, Peterborough 2.

Heinie Smith sat on the bench yesterday and sent Dunn to second. Dunn's introduction to Erie fans was anything but favourable, though as the game progressed he made a better impression. To Dunn and Behan, Peterborough can credit its two runs. But for their slip-ups Fitzpatrick would have registered a shutout.

Belting was picked by Manager Blount to oppose the Yanks. He had little on the ball and was doomed from the start. In the seventh and eighth inning the Yanks commenced another of the batting attacks and Belting was smothered in a flurry of hits. Blount kept him on the mark, however, until the finish.

Aside from the second inning, Erie played first class ball. Dunn started the trouble when he muffed Fitzpatrick's toss on Swartz's attempted sacrifice, after Gorman had walked. Byrne then shot one at short and Behan fumbled the ball, Gorman scoring. Price dumped the ball and Dunn was caught asleep. Gygli ran in, fielded the ball in plenty of time and wheeled to throw to first. Dunn was lolling near second base, oblivious to procedings. Fitzpatricks forced Kelly to strike out and passed Belting, scoring Peterborough's second run. Blount forced Byrne at home and Fox flew out to Dawson. That ended Peterborough's chances for thereafter no man reached third base.

Erie Clouts Ball.

The Yanks did their heaviest hitting of the series ystrday, Gygli, Dunn and McNil leading. Gygli came through with three hits, a triple, a double and a single.

The Yanks came back at Peterborough in the last of the second, scoring one run. With Schaeffer down, Dunn started things with a single to centre. He took second on Behan's infield out. Wiltse walked and McNeil sent the run in with a single to Blount. Harris struck out, stranding Wiltse on third.

Erie won the game in the third, Dunn again starting the works. He rolled a slow one down the field and beat Belting's throw. Behan sacrificed him to second. Swartz let Wiltse's hit get through him and Dunn scored. Wiltse took third on the throw in. McNeil hit to Price, who threw to get Wiltse at the plate. Kelly dropped the toss and Erie's wining run went up. Fitzpatrick and Harris were infield outs.

Belting Goes to Pieces.

The Yanks worked their bats to Belting's ruin in the seventh and what ever hope Curley Blount had of winning the game, went glimmering then. Harris led off with a double and Dawson beat out a slo wone to short. Gygli followed with a two-base dribe to left, scoring both, and crossed himself a moment later on Schaffer's single to centre. Schaffer went to second on the throw in. Dunn dumped the ball to Belting and was safe on the pitcher's error, Schaffer scoring. Belting uncorked a wild pitch here and Dunn romped to third when Kelly watched the ball roll to the grandstand. He scored on Behan's sacrifice. Wiltse singled and went out stealing, and McNeil fanned.

Heinie's men got a brace of runs in the eighth also. Fitzpatrick singled to centre. Harris attempted to sacrifice and was safe when Kelly threw high to first, Fitzpatrick going to second. Dawson grounded out to first and Gygli scored both runners with a triple to the centre field fence.

Notes of the Game.

Come on Hamilton, we want to see.

Four good games—a favourable introduction of the Canadian league.

Belting whiffed Kelly Harris twice yesterday. He got McNeil once, Schaffer twice.

Dawson was robbed of a hit in the third when Gorman went to the base line after his grounder.

One Yank got by without a hit — Behan. He came through with two neat sacrifices, however.

Kelly, Erie boy catching for Peterborough, struck hard luck yesterday. Two d' astrous errors were chalked against him.

As an umpire Miller met with little trouble — except on the first day, of course.

ERIE FANS LIKE TEAM

Come to the Conclusion That They Are Just as Fast as Any That Previously Represented the City

That Canadian League ball has made a hit in Erie is evident from the article published below from the Erie Despatch. At first the Yankee Town fans were inclined to regard the article of ball playe in the Canuck League circuit of the bush, bushy, but after looking over their team for four days they have come to the conclusion that it is just about as good as any that has previously represented them in either Inter-State or Central League. The "Despatch says:

"Curly Blount's Peterborough aggregation left town last evening for St. Thomas, thoroughly convinced that in the Yankees they struck a tribe of Tartars. After winning the opening game, the Petes met three straight defeats and each successive one was more decisive. Yesterday's contest left no room for argument.

To-day the Yankees will meet the Hamilton team at Perry Field at 3 o'clock. Hamilton is here to-day, to-morrow and Wednesday, and it can be expected that as the team work is perfected the Yankees will do even better work. Manager Smith trotted out his fourth pitcher yesterday, Fitzpatrick, and he looked every whit as good as the others. He pitched first-class ball and was kept from a shutout only because his support failed in the second inning.

Dorbeck and Morris pitched good ball in the double-header Saturday, and Brown, though defeated, performed creditably in the opener. In the first game the Yanks were compelled to face some critical situations while Peterborough had comparatively easy sledding. When the pinches came in the later game the Petes broke and wobbled and Smith's men were seen in a different perspective.

Taking the four games for what they are worth, the Erie team showed pretty classy ball. The outfield compares favourably with the ones of other years. Harris is a fast man in right. Dawson is just as good as he ever was in centre—and he's about as good as will be found in the league—and Schaffer has cared for the left garden in an acceptable way. More work quite naturally should improve all hands.

The infield looks good. Manager Smith will play until the team work is firmly established and the signals go smoothly. Then he will retire in favour of a younger man. Dunn, who played yesterday, hit well and will no doubt improve. Gygli is the same streak about first and Behan at short handles himself in a way that indicates considerable ability. Wiltse on third, has so far produced in a way that stamps him as a clever player. Behind the bat, McNeil has done good work. The pitching staff, or as much as has been seen, is quite as good as any other Erie ever had.

That's as the first four games have shown, and from indications there is no apparent reason why the Yanks should not do even better.

BASEBALL COMMENTS

The Petes will arrive home to-morrow night, or, rather, early Thursday morning.

They'll get a royal welcome from the fans at Riverside Park on Thursday.

The Blountmen have not all found their batting eye yet. When they do they will climb the ladder quick enough.

Frank Fox has yet to make a safety.

Joe Byrne and Willie Swartz are the leading hitters for the Petes. They hit at a .333 clip for the first four games.

When Miller gets ito the game there will be another .300 hitter added to the batting order.

Gorman had only a few days' practice with the Petes. He is fielding the position splendidly, and when his lamps are brightened he will be a most valuable man to the club.

Jack Fitzpatrick, who held the Blountmen down to five hits Sunday, used to be chocolate pie a la mode for the Petes last season.

The Petes will use their new white home uniforms for the first time on Thursday.

W. A. Phelan has the following in the Sporting News:

They talk about the curiously spelled and strange sounding names that Southern folks bestow upon their children, and they comment on the absurd monakers created by the authors and dramatists, but truth is always funnier than fiction. If there could possibly be any names to beat those of sundry minor league ball players, won't somebody kindly produce the same? Here is a list, culled from just one week—one single, solitary week's record—of the minor athletes who signed up in that short space of time: Esty Chaney, Scott Chestnutt, Tunis Shortway, J. Carlisle Pace, Ceylon Wright, Knut Belting, Elphige Chapdelaine. (Get that one—there's a bird!) Ornie Olson, Helmer Benrud, Tharon ollins, Cajer Smith, Ex Everett Stoops, Foot Ruell, Merle C. Stallcop, Katsy Kiefer, Goovie Morris, Imel Parrigen, Bunk Gilligan, Pid Hanson.

ROYALTY AT FOOTBALL GAME.— His Majesty King George attends cup tie.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE TECUMSEHS

The London Team Which Opens Here on Thursday is Said to be a Very Strong

The London team, which will open the season with the Petes here on Thursday, has been picked by sporting writers all over the circuit as one of the teams to be considered in deciding the pennant argument. They have had a longer training season than any of the clubs and are said to be in mid-season form. At their head is Doc Reisling, dentist and pitcher, the old Washington star, who intends to take his regular turn in the box and who will likely be seen in action in one of the games here. The Tecumsehs' pitching staff includes the crack Bobby Heck, leading pitcher of the League last season, Heinie Steiger, another good southpaw, and Beeble and Hammond, right handers. The infield has two old players in First Baseman Bierbauer and Second Baseman Linneborn and two new comers in Shortstop Whitcraft and Third Baseman Mulin. The veteran Cy Reidy's familiar face will be seen in the outfield and keeping him company are Eddie Lamy, who in addition to being a fine ball player, is a world's champion skater, and Long, a good hitter and fielder. Smyden from the Michigan League and Danforth are the catchers.

SENATORS TICKLED

Happy Because They Beat the Pistol in the Canadian League Race

Ottawa Free Press:

The Ottawa baseball team, twice champions of the Canadian League, beat the barrier, so to speak, by taking both games of the double-header from St. Thomas, Saturday, and are squared away in front with a clear lead over all the other clubs. First place has always been a congenial spot for the Senators, though in past seasons it has been customary for them to drop the opening game on the road. The superstitious might look upon this as a bad omen, but in baseball, every victory counts and where each club is called upon to play 116 or 120 games during the season, the more won early in the fray, the wider margin there is to work upon later on. The general appearance of the 1914 squad in training camp was most encouraging, and Saturday's double win over an aggregation like St. Thomas, gives out the impression the team is quite up to press notices and will be a first division club from the very outset. It is a long road from now till Sept. 7th, the closing day, and Shaughnessy's men will encounter many ups and downs, but it is a safe bet they will give a good account of themselves as they have a fighting leader and you can't win in any line of endeavour in this modern era without battling.

The twin victory of Ottawa on Saturday was gained with two new twirlers on the mound in Sam Hall, the Cleveland American product, and Urban Shockcor, secured from Fort Wayne. It was a very exhilarating start for both youngsters. Local fans will recall Ed. Renfer's unique but discouraging start here two years ago. Renfer was to have arrived every day for two weeks before he finally landed. He was sent out to pitch his first game before a mammoth Saturday crowd at Lansdowne Park, Guelph being the opposing team. It was none other than Ira "Slats" Davis who announced the batteries and, incidentally, introduced "Mr. Renfor" to the crowd. Ed. started off in thrilling style by fanning the first three men to face him. On returning to the bench he was given one of the most riotous receptions ever accorded a ball player in this city. In the succeeding round Renfer lost his bearings completely, walked six men, hit a couple and had a wild pitch, six runs being scored before Fred Herbert relieved him. The fans told him to go back to Fort Wayne, but Renfer had lots of sand and ranked next to McManus that season as the League's best pitcher.

A WAIL FROM AMBITIOUS CITY

Here is a wail from the Hamilton Herald:

Is it because Peterborough is recognized as one of the weak cities in the Canadian league, or is it merely a skip by the schedule makers?

That is the question that should interest the directors of the Hamilton baseball club, for it is the Hamilton club that suffers most by the fact that the Petes had a Sunday game in Erie after having reaped the benefit of the opening day crowd, and also that of the Saturday half holiday. Three big gates like that drawn by Peterborough is sufficient to give that club a grand start financially and the attendance in each case was far larger than the Blountmen could draw on their home lot.

The schedule called for the Petes' harvest though, and the question arises, Why did not the Hamilton club see to it that they were given a slice of the money? It does not seem at all fair that a club playing before a Saturday crowd should also be allowed to hold forth again on Sunday. Still such was the case. Again we ask, Is it because the Peterborough club is considered weak financially, or was it a slip by the schedule makers.

What d'ye mean, weak, Hamilton? A glance over the returns last year will show that baseball was better patronized here than in Hamilton. As for the attendance at Erie, well, the directors expect as big a crowd here Thursday as was present in the Yankee city. And by the way, Mr. Herald man, how do you like the schedule for July 2, 3, 4 and 5, which gives Peterborough two games in Erie on the 4th of July, followed by a Sunday game? Just about time this man's town got a little from the schedule makers.

Modest Shag Claims Flag

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 11—The Senators left this morning for London to open a three-game series. Rain set in at 9 o'clock and it is probable that today's game will be postponed. Shaughnessy told a Journal reporter before leaving that he was much elated over the double win of Saturday. "Nothing more could be expected, though," he said. "These first games showed conclusively that I have a stronger team. I think my boys could beat Craven's men four out of five. The teams I most fear in the League are Erie and Toronto, while London appears to have a stronger aggregation than supposed. I feel confident that we will take two out of three from Reissling's men in the coming series. I have the heaviest hitting team in the League and my pitchers fulfill expectations. The pennant will remain in the Capital another season. What all the clubs are up against though, is that McCaffery may take players from his International team and bolster up the Canadian Leaguers. Then again he may strengthen the Internationals with players from the Canadian. We shall see."

BASEBALL

"Ty" Cobb jumped from thirty-eighth place to thirteenth among the American League batters this week, according to averages published Saturday. Including last Wednesday's game, the Detroit star has a percentage of .307, as against .249 which the records showed for him last week. Philadelphia leads the clubs in hitting with an average of .305 and Brooklyn is next with .306.

Stolen base honors, so far, goes to Carey, of Pittsburg, who has pilfered seven.

Federal League batters are led by Catcher Simon, of St. Louis, who is hitting at the rate of .470. The next nine are Evans, Brooklyn, .467; Campbell, Indianapolis, .417; Mattis, Pittsburg, .417; Hanford, Buffalo, .390; Crandall, St. Louis, .389; Wickland, Chicago, .387; Young, Buffalo, .378; Wilson, Chicago, .377; Laporte, Indianapolis, .368.

St. Louis with .268 and Pittsburg with .267 lead the clubs, and Doolin, of Baltimore, and McKechnie, of Indianapolis, are ahead in stolen bases with six each.

"Birdie" Cree, hitting the ball for an average of .420, since he joined Baltimore, is ahead in the International League, and Daniels, of the same club, is second with .389. Eight next in rank are: Barrows, Rochester, .387; Tooley, Newark, .385; F. Zimmerman, Newark, .380; Gleischman, Baltimore, .372; Wright, Providence, .368; Ruleh, Baltimore, .366; Platte, Providence, .351; Deininger, Montreal .348.

Montreal leads in club batting with .287 and Baltimore is next with .280. Getz of Newark, is ahead in stolen bases with six.

Thompson With Feds

Local fans will be interested in knowing that Toby Thompson, second baseman of last year's Peterborough team, is a member of Bill Bradley's Brooklyn Feds. Several friends of Thompson's had received word that the little fellow was with Brooklyn, but thought the ex-Pete was "kidding" them. However, a group photograph of the Brookfeds shows Thompson large as life.

A BIG SCHEME FOR CIVIC BEAUTIFICATION

Committee of Peterboro' Horticultural Society Has Been Hard at Work on a Plan

For years we have been talking about doing things in a big way to properly advertise the advantages of Peterborough as a residential and industrial centre. Some excellent efforts have been made but we all realize that much remains to be done. Within the past few days we have found that for several months past an energetic committee of the Peterborough Horticultural Society has been at work drafting the most complete plans for a movement in favour of civic beautification that has been ever proposed in Peterborough. It is a big scheme, that looks years into the future, and which embraces every ward in the city.

The plan has been laid before the directors of the Peterborough Board of Trade, and officers of the Peterborough Ad Club, and has met with their enthusiastic approval. Both organizations are co-operating with the officers of the Horticultural Society in making it a success.

President D. B. Hall, of the Board of Trade, says: "The project is a splendid one. It is simple, practical and will do much to promote the best interests of Peterborough. Every citizen will be able to co-operate."

President G. O. Cameron, of the Ad Club, says: "It is just what Peterborough has been waiting for for years. In time it should advertise Peterborough far and wide."

Dr. M. A. Morrison, chairman of the Board of Education, says: "The project fits in with plans that the Board of Education has been considering for some time. The Board of Education can be depended on to give its hearty co-operation until the movement has been made a complete success."

Mr. W. H. Hill says: "It is the best conceived project of the kind I have yet heard or seen in Peterborough. We hear these things advocated in a general way, but in this case we not only have the scheme laid out in a big way, but the details have been worked out also, and it is all perfectly feasible. I will do my part."

City Engineer Parsons has had several consultations with the committee and is giving his enthusiastic support. He expects splendid results to attend it.

A Citizens' Banquet.

Now that the arrangements have been pretty well completed it is proposed to lay the proposals before the citizens at a "Citizens' Banquet" to be held in the Oriental Hotel next Friday evening at half-past six. Our citizens, therefore, are asked to keep Friday evening free so that they can attend. One of the chief officials of the Toronto Municipal Government, in fact one of the Toronto city commissioners, is so pleased with the plan, as it his been explained to him, that he has agreed to come to Peterborough next Friday for the special purpose of giving such assistance as he can in making this enterprise a complete success. Members of the City Council are in hearty accord with the idea. The Examiner will tell you more about what they say concerning it to-morrow.

THE MARKETS

Special to A. H. Stratton & Co.
(Closing Letter.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—The redoubtable minimum item of activity was reached in late afternoon, but there were signs of an increase in volume of business a little before the close. Among the most notable instances of utter neglect were Mexican Petroleum, U.S.Q., I.B., Atch., S.R. and pfd. B.S., R.P., R.B.C., and pfd. in most of them were no transactions at all.

Strength developed in General Motors, the supply of the stock in the street having apparently been reduced to small proportions.

There was some buying in Missouri Pacific during the early decline.

Foreigners did not do very little in this market.

STOCK MARKET WAS VERY DULL TO-DAY

The stock market was listless to-day under the lack of definite action from the usual sources that influence movements. Up to one o'clock the number of sales were only 81,800, and the afternoon brought no improvement. In many cases only the opening quotations were received and in others there were no sales recorded. The whole market showed signs of the need of a spur of some kind to create a little action. The market awaits definite movements in the Mexican situation, in certain industrial directions and from other sources.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

The stock market opened higher as predicted, and I hope you bought stocks at Friday's closes, or Saturday's opening. American stocks in London showed somewhat improved tendency and was ½ to ¾ higher. Consols were rather better and copper stocks improved.

A rather glowing view was taken of the Mexican situation, but probably the depressing influence in London is still the continued demand for gold. The market has been exceedingly dull and it is a waiting market, waiting for some definite news before taking on any new lines.

American Beet Sugar made little response to report, although showing was better than expected. The company not only having earned its preferred dividend, but also a balance of 2 3-10 per cent. on the common. There is no change in the situation and I look for a slowly improving market this week.

On setbacks you can safely buy New York Central around 92, Erie at 28, U.P. at 155, Reading at 165, Southern Pacific at 91, Copper at 72, C.P.R. at 190.

UNIONISTS HOLD GRIMSBY.

T. C. Tickler Is Returned For Late Sir George Doughty's Seat.

LONDON, May 13.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—T. C. Tickler, Unionist, was elected to Parliament in the Grimsby by-election yesterday over A. Bannister, Liberal, by a vote of 8,471 to 8,193, or a majority of 278.

The vacancy occurred through the death of Sir George Doughty who was returned in the Unionist interests at the last general election by a majority of 698. In 1910, 15,108 votes were recorded. Yesterday's poll therefore shows an increase of 1,556.

While the Unionist party had confined its platform almost exclusively to the Irish situation the contest cannot rightly be regarded as a decision on Home Rule. In his final appeal Monday night Mr. Bannister pointed out that the "miners have their member, the railwaymen have theirs, why should not the fishermen also be represented at Westminster?" and it is no exaggeration to say that the fishing industry has played an all-important part in the election.

MOYES IS SCORED

Railway Board Issues Scathing Arraignment of Promoter

WILL LIKELY PROSECUTE

TORONTO, May 13.—The result of the probe into the affairs of the Ontario West Shore Railway was made public yesterday by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, and in a lengthy finding the Board delivers an unqualified denunciation of the whole affair, and especially of the business morals of John W. Moyes, promoter of the scheme.

Moyes is charged with wholesale misappropriation of funds, juggling of accounts to conceal his operations, and with having woven "an infamous fabrication" to lay the blame upon the dead vice-president, Mr. Smoke.

The Board finds that Moyes and the Huron Construction Co. were one. In spite of Moyes reiterated statements under oath that he had nothing whatever to do with the Huron Company, the Board is convinced of the fact.

"That company was without doubt John W. Moyes," reads a section, "He was the sole initiating, efficient actor throughout, the others who appeared upon the stage, Roberts the engineer, MacEwan, secretary, and Pattinson, the accommodating broker, being admittedly mere agents moved by him and doing his will."

Illustrating Moyes' method it is stated in the report that he drew $59,900 on false and fraudulent certificates of work and material when not one dollar went into construction. The sum of $402,837.37 remains to be accounted for and of this $174,565 the Board says is traceable to Moyes. The documentary evidence makes it clear that large sums were deliberately misappropriated.

No direct recommendation of criminal action is made but such steps will undoubtedly be taken.

The Board, in their report, go into the full details of the history of the railway, telling of how it was incorporated under 1902 revised statutes, as the Huron and Grey Electric Co., to construct out of Goderich. The charge of name brought increased powers, the share capital to be $500,000 and bond issue of $900,000 based on the mileage from Kincardine to Goderich. The latter town had guaranteed $150,000 worth of these; Kincardine $50,000 worth, and the other parts interested making up $460,000.

In a summary of the whole investigation the Board reports as follows:

(a) That Moyes, by false and fraudulent representation, that $12,500 had been paid to the Dominion Bank, Toronto, on account of capital stock, procured the Ontario West Shore Railway to be permanently organized.

(b) That no permanent capital was contributed to the undertaking beyond the proceeds of the sale of bonds guaranteed by the applicants, although 15 of these at a par value of $15,000 appear to have been taken by the Provincial Steel Co. in part payment of calls.

(c) That Moyes, in breach of the Ontario Railway Act, procured a colorable agreement for the construction of the railway, to be entered into between the railway company and the so-called Huron Construction Co., which latter was Moyes.

(d) That by procuring to be issued false and fraudulent progress certificates, Moyes withdrew from the Toronto General Trusts Corporation the proceeds of the sale of the bonds, guaranteed by the applicants, amounting with interest to the sum of $402,837.37, and Vaughan M. Roberts, engineer, by gross negligence and breach of duty, aided and abetted Moyes in his fraudulent design.

(e) That owing to the fact that no books of account of the company's business were kept, and that many vouchers for payment are missing, the Board cannot report with exactness how much of the amount so fraudulently withdrawn by Moyes was properly expended. This much is clear, that while several thousands were applied to purposes foreign to the railway, the sum of $228,272.06 was properly expended in railway construction and materials.

(f) That the assets of the company consists of the right of way (which for the entire distance, except for twelve parcels, has been acquired), and construction work and material, which according to the corrected valuation of Mr. Midlemist, C.E., is worth $276,031.21.

(g) That all the liabilities of the company known to the Board are the bonds guaranteed by the applicants (Townships of Ashfield and Huron, and Towns of Goderich and Kincardine), of a par value of $400,000, and a parcel of unguaranteed bonds of par value, $15,000, both of which are secured by a mortgage on the company's undertaking and $3,000 worth of outstanding, unsecured accounts.

Mr. Lancaster Takes Rest.

ST. CATHARINES, May 13.—E. A. Lancaster, M.P. for Lincoln, father of the marriage bill and chairman of the railway committee of the Dominion House of Commons, left town last night, accompanied by Mrs. Lancaster and daughter, for a point on the south coast of Nova Scotia, where he will rest in the hope of regaining his lost health. To guard against correspondence reaching him, physicians are keeping his destination a secret. Premier Borden placed his private car at the disposal of Mr. Lancaster to avoid a change of cars.

RASH COVERED CHEST AND BACK

Itching and Burning Pimples Spread. Clothing Irritated. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Well in Three Weeks.

High River, Alta.—"My baby was a sufferer from an itching and a burning on chest and back. The trouble began with a fine small rash and got quite a size. The pimples spread until his whole chest and back were covered. Some of them festered and on some the top looked clear. He was fretful and cross and was always rubbing. His clothing irritated him. The trouble caused itching, burning and loss of sleep. His chest and back grew worse and worse; they were a mass of itching pimples. The trouble had lasted two or three weeks and we tried remedies but they failed. Cuticura Soap and Ointment afforded relief in about ten days. I washed the eruption with hot water and Cuticura Soap four times a day, then used the Cuticura Ointment and in three weeks he was well again. He owes it to Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Allen Welford, Nov. 1, 1912.

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends with shapeless nails a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders. Soak hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment and wear soft bandages or old, loose gloves during the night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

Commissioner Opens Probe Into the Southampton Railway Affairs.

FREDERICTON, N.B., May 13.—R. A. Pringle, K.C., appointed by the Dominion Government to investigate the cost of the Southampton Railway, which matter came up in the Dominion Parliament in March, opened his court here yesterday, and, after calling on the company's counsel to produce certain documents, adjourned till July 7.

In opening the inquiry, Mr. Pringle said it came as a result of a speech in Parliament by F. B. Carvell, on March 9, in which he said a great wrong had been done. This was followed by a speech by Hon. H. F. McLeod, in which he said there were padded items in the accounts.

Asleep For 21 Days.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 13.—An unbroken sleep of 21 days ended in death yesterday when Maude Walker, aged 22, died at her home here.

She had been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for some time.

REDMOND IS WARY

He Will Not Commit Himself to Support Concessions

BILL WILL BE HASTENED

LONDON, May 13.—The speech of John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, yesterday afternoon, in which he declared that he and his followers would not commit themselves to support Premier Asquith in a compromise on the Home Rule bill, has created a sensation in political circles, but opinions differ as to its practical effect. The present position is that the Home Rule bill will be sent to the Lords before Whitsun, the House of Commons having last night voted Premier Asquith's proposals for hastening the remaining stages of the bill. Then if no agreement is reached with the Opposition, Mr. Asquith will introduce an amending bill, enabling the Ulster counties to vote themselves out of the Home Rule bill for six years.

While some interpret Mr. Redmond's speech as a warning to the Government against further concessions to the Unionists, others interpret it as a warning to Ulster that once the Home Rule bill is on the statute books, any further concessions can only be had by consent of the Nationalists.

Premier Asquith pledged the Government to introduce an amending bill to the Home Rule for Ireland measure in the hope of it being passed by agreement between the parties. If this offer is accepted, he said, both the original Home Rule bill and the amending bill will become law practically simultaneously. This, he contended, was the only proper way of carrying out any agreed settlement which might be reached.

The Prime Minister added that obviously in order to take advantage of the provisions of the Parliament Act no change could be made in the Home Rule for Ireland bill while it was in the committee stage, and therefore any debate during that stage would be pure waste of time.

Mr. Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, who bitterly criticized the "gag" methods proposed by Mr. Asquith and accused him of failing to redeem his pledges to reconstitute the House of Lords, said he was unable to share the Premier's optimism regarding the possibility of a settlement.

The crux of the situation, Mr. Law said, lay between Premier Asquith and John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, as under the Government's system the House of Commons was powerless.

Sir Edward Carson Monday night declared that the Nationalist leader's outburst makes no difference to the Ulstermen's attitude. "Redmond may repudiate as much as he likes; I am as determined in my opposition as I was before. The only result is that I have to-night telegraphed to Belfast as follows: 'Redouble your efforts.' I have had no offers from the Government, save the offer that has been made in the House of Commons, and that amounts to nothing. We are just going to keep our powder dry and prepare for war."

LONDON, May 13.—Miss Ansell, the suffragette, who yesterday slashed the Duke of Wellington's portrait in the Royal Academy, was arraigned at the police court where the magistrate committed her for trial at the London sessions.

The prisoner sent to the Women's Social and Political Union a message asserting that her deed was a protest against the present unjust position of women for which militancy was the only remedy, and concluding:

"I have done this deed deliberately and rejoice that I have not failed in my duty."

RAISE FOR JUDGES

Conservative Members Oppose Hon. Mr. Doherty's Bill

MORE AID FOR DRY DOCKS

OTTAWA, May 13.—With the object of giving additional encouragement to the construction of drydocks in Canada, Hon. Robert Rogers has given notice of the following proposed resolution: "That it is expedient to provide that the subsidy payable in respect of first-class drydocks under section 8 of the Drydocks Subsidies Act be increased from three and one-half per cent. to four per cent. per annum of the cost of the works as fixed under the act, during a period not exceeding 35 years."

When the act was passed in 1910 the interest for which the Government assumed responsibility was fixed at three per cent. Later on it was increased to three and one-half per cent, and it is now found necessary to make it four per cent. in order to encourage capitalists to put their money into Canadian drydock projects.

"Ninety per cent. of the judges in Canada receive more in the way of salary from the Government than they could possibly earn by practicing law, and many of them take the first opportunity to retire and draw a magnificent salary for doing nothing at all." Thus declared Major Geo. W. Fowler (Con., Kings and Albert) in the House yesterday afternoon, speaking in opposition to a resolution presented by the Minister of Justice providing for an additional superior court judge in the Province of Quebec, and an increase in salary from $5,000 to $7,000 per year in the case of certain judges in the district of Montreal. Major Fowler further declared that the Minister was discriminating in favor of his own province. If judicial salaries were to be increased, the increase should apply to every province in the Dominion.

A. A. McLean (Con., Queens, P.E.I.) agreed in part with Major Fowler. He said that in New Brunswick there was one judge for every 50,000 people; in Nova Scotia, one judge for every 60,000, while in Alberta there was one judge for every 30,000.

Mr. Carroll (Lib., S. Cape Breton) insisted that our judges were underpaid, especially in the Province of Nova Scotia. Many men on the bench, he said, were serving for $4,000 or $5,000 a year who could make $10,000 or $15,000 at their profession.

Judge MacKenzie (Cape Breton) and Mr. McCurdy (Queens and Shelburne) supported more pay for the judges, and Mr. Morphy (North Perth) suggested that we should have fewer judges and higher salaries.

Judge Doherty said there were anomalies and inequalities in the matter of the salaries of our judges which ought to be corrected, and personally he would favor an upward revision. It was not feasible at this time, however, to undertake the task.

The Canadian Northern resolution will be presented to the House this afternoon by the Premier. It is expected that Mr. Borden will quite fully explain the agreement between the Government and the company, and the general railway policy of the Government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier no doubt will follow the Premier, but it is not anticipated that he will formally announce the policy of the Opposition until the second reading of the bill.

ROSE REPEATS STORY.

Gambler Declares Becker Inspired Murder of Rosenthal.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Jack Rose recited to the court, in the Becker trial yesterday, the story of the relations of Rosenthal and Becker, and told of the gambler's growing bitterness toward the former police lieutenant.

Becker learned, Rose testified, that Rosenthal was preparing to "squeal," whereupon he said: "That dog; that ingrate, let him go on. I won't budge an inch."

A few days later, after the arrest of "Big Jack" Zelig, Becker said, according to Rose, "Rosenthal is getting very dangerous. Can't you do something with Zelig, and these fellows to silence Rosenthal?" Zelig was a notorious gunman.

"Becker gave me $100," continued the witness, "and told me to go to Zelig, who was locked up in the Tombs, and ask him to furnish the men to do the job."

To Remove Body.

MONTREAL, May 13.—A sequel to the burial of L. Lafond, a Protestant farmer, who lived near St. Scholastique, Que., in unconsecrated ground connected with the Roman Catholic Cemetery there, at the request of some of his relatives and against the wishes of others, came yesterday when his brother, J. T. Lafond, laid the matter before the Montreal Presbytery.

The Presbytery decided to co-operate with Mr. Lafond in taking legal steps to secure the removal of the body to the Protestant Cemetery at Belle River, Que.

AEROPLANES COLLIDE.

Army Aviator and Mechanic Killed and Another Pilot Injured.

LONDON, May 13.—Two army airmen, Capt. F. D. Anderson and a mechanic named Carter, were instantly killed, and Lieut. C. W. Wilson was gravely injured when two biplanes collided in the air at Aldershot last evening.

The biplanes were manoeuvring over a crowd of 800 spectators when they suddenly dashed into one another and crashed to the ground. Both machines were destroyed.

Captain Anderson piloted one of the aeroplanes, and the other one was being manipulated by Lieut. Wilson, who escaped death. Capt. Anderson and Carter were dead when the crowd reached the wrecked planes. Both machines were practically demolished. The machines were going at high speed when they came together. This is the second fatal collision of planes in the air this year.

Since Jan. 1, there have been 38 aeroplane fatalities, with a death list of 52.

WANTS A LIQUIDATOR.

G. L. Alexander Says C. N. Quebec Ry. Holding Company Is Insolvent.

MONTREAL, May 13.—Acting on behalf of George L. Alexander, Montreal, Messrs. Beattie, Blackstock, Faskin, Cowan and Chadwick of Toronto filed an application in the Supreme Court of Ontario on Saturday asking for the winding up of the Northern Consolidated Holding Co., Ltd., whose capital stock is eight million dollars. The company was incorporated in 1903. Mackenzie and Mann own $4,400,000 of the stock of the company, which is the holder of the Canadian Northern Quebec Railway Co. stock. Sir William Mackenzie, Sir Donald Mann, D. B. Hanna and R. P. Ormstown will be subpoenaed to give evidence.

Mr. Alexander asks for the appointment of a liquidator of the company, alleging that it is insolvent, and demands a complete enquiry into the entire condition of the company and its accounts. He represents over one million dollars of the stock of the Northern Consolidated Holdings Co.

Opportunity.

In one of the old Greek cities there stood long ago a statue. Every trace of it has vanished now. But there is still in existence an epigram which gives us an excellent description of it and as we read the words we can surely discover the lesson which those wise old Greeks meant that the statue should teach to every passerby.

The epigram is in the form of a conversation between a traveler and the statue:

"What is thy name, O Statue?"
"I am called Opportunity."
"Who made thee?"
"Lysippus."
"Why art thou upon thy toes?"
"To show that I stay but a moment."
"Why hast thou wings upon thy feet?"
"To show how quickly I pass by."
"But why is thy hair so long on thy forehead?"
"That men may seize me as they meet me."
"Why, then, is thy head so bald behind?"
"To show that when I have once passed I cannot be caught."

Politics in France.

Americans generally know as little about French politics as Frenchmen know about ours. Issues, methods and parties in the two countries are radically different. In France parties are so many in number and so small in membership that they are usually designated as groups rather than as parties. It is always necessary to combine the forces of three or more of them to constitute a majority in the chamber of deputies, and that can be done only by giving each group a representation in the cabinet. The parliamentary system of France resembles that of Great Britain in this: When the chamber gives a vote adverse to the ministry, the ministry resigns. But that means only that a new alliance is formed that includes groups other than those represented in the retiring ministry. As a consequence it usually happens that some members of the defeated cabinet are retained in the cabinet that succeeds it.—Youth's Companion.

Wanted a Lot.

The following letter, according to The Great Western Magazine, was recently addressed to the general manager of that railway:—

"Please send me one tourist ticket for Penzance next Tuesday at 10.30 a.m. (arriving Penzance 5.5 p.m.),

"Please reserve corner seat facing engine as near centre of train as possible — corridor carriage (no children), quiet company.

"Also luncheon (chicken) basket with glass hot milk and water (mixed) at twelve o'clock.

"Also tea basket China weak tea at three o'clock.

"Also 1s. for guard to see that the driver does not race or rush the train, especially round curves and at inclines, and watch the signals well and machinery well oiled and not overheated."

Performing Horse Dead.

The death has occurred of a wonderful performing horse, Alpha, which belonged to Mr. R. D. C. Shaw of Great Hale. The animal, which had performed before several members of the royal family, could play the national anthem on a harmonium, could write its own name on a slate with chalk held in its mouth, and could do difficult sums in the first four rules. Another horse, Little Reta, also belonging to Mr. Shaw, accompanied Alpha on show, and together they could play "Home, Sweet Home," with bells fastened on their feet.

"THE TERMS OF SURRENDER"

By LOUIS TRACY

He hoped, he prayed, with frenzied craving of the most high gods, that she might be moved to lift her eyes to his agony; but the petition was denied, and the last memory vouchsafed of her was the sight of her gloved hands clasped on her lap and holding a few sprigs of white heather. Now, it was a refined malignity of Fate which revealed that fact just then, because heather does not grow in Colorado, and the girl had culled her simple little bouquet from a plant which Power had given her. Once, in Denver, he had rendered some slight service to an expatriated Scot, and, when a sister from Perth joined her brother, bringing with her a pot of Highland soil in which bloomed the shrub dear to every Scottish heart, Power was offered a cutting "for luck." Great was Nancy Willard's delight at the gift; for, like the majority of her sex, she yielded to pleasant superstition, and the fame of white heather as a mascot has spread far beyond the bounds of Great Britain.

Power might well have cried aloud in his pain when he discovered that his lost love had thought of him at the moment she was leaving her old home. Perhaps he did utter some tortured plaint; he never knew, because of what happened the instant after Nancy and her spray of heather were reft from his straining vision.

One-thumb Jake, who had loitered at the ranch for a farewell drink, rode up at a terrific pace, pulled his bronco on to its haunches alongside the coach, and by way of salute, fired three shots from a revolver as quickly as finger could press trigger.

The first bullet sang through the air not more than an inch above Power's forehead. He recalled afterward a slight stirring of his hair caused by the passing of the missile, which spat viciously against the wall of rock some ten feet above the ledge. The next two bullets struck higher, and their impact evidently disturbed the equipoise of a mass of stone already disintegrated by frost, because more than a ton of debris brashed down, pinning Power to the ledge and nearly pounding the life out of him. The resultant cloud of dust probably helped to render him unconscious. At any rate, he lay there without word or movement, and, if he were dead, his bones might have rested many a year in that strange tomb unless the curiosity of some passerby was aroused by a flock of quarreling vultures — a spectacle so common in cattle-land that the wayfarer does not deviate a hand's breadth from his path because of it.

Nancy heard the thunder of the falling rocks, and looked out. The dust pall told her exactly what had occurred, though the jubilant congratulation of the shooter by the driver would have explained matters in any event.

"Good for you, Jake!" he shouted. "Gosh! when you're fed up on cow-punchin' you kin go minin' wid a gun!"

She saw, too, what many others saw: A rattlesnake, rudely dislodged from some deep crevice, emerged from the heap of rubbish, stopped suddenly, swelled and puffed in anger, rattled its tail-plates, and was obviously primed for combat. It seemed to change its mind, however, when a bullet from the cowboy's revolver grazed a big brown rhomboid which offered a fair target just below the curved neck. There was another shower of dust and granite chips, and, when this subsided, the reptile had vanished.

Nancy sat back in the coach. Amid a chorus of laughter and jeers at what his critics were pleased to regard as bad marksmanship, Jake spurred his horse into a gallop.

"What was it?" inquired Marten. Being on the other side of the vehicle, he was unaware of the cause of this slight commotion.

"Nothing, really," she said dully.

"Oh, come, now, little woman—the crowd would not yelp at Jake for no reason."

"Well, his shots brought down some loose stones, and a rattler appeared in the middle of the heap. It showed fight, too; but made off when Jake fired again."

"Oh, is that all. There wouldn't be a snake on the ranch if your father had kept a few pigs."

"Poor old dad couldn't keep anything—not even me!"

Her listless tone might have annoyed a weaker man; but Marten only laughed pleasantly.

"I should be very unhappy if he had insisted on keeping you," he said. "Of course, you hate having to part from him, and from a place where you have lived during a few careless years; but you will soon learn to love the big world to which I am taking you. Colorado in June is all very well; but it can't begin to compare with London in July, the Engadine in August, and Paris in September. Don't forget that the proper study of mankind is man—and woman."

And so, the line was dangled skilfully before her eyes, and the spell whispered gently into her ears, while she, mute and distraught, wondered whether the dear memories of Colorado would ever weaken and grow dim. Then she thought of Derry Power, and a film came over her blue eyes; but she bit her under lip in brave endeavour, and forced a smile at some passing friend.

He did not remain unconscious for many minutes. The last straggler among the mounted contingent was clattering through the canyon when the man who had been near death three times in the same number of seconds awoke to a burden of physical pain which, for the time, effectually banished all other considerations.

At first he hardly realized where he was or what had happened. He was half choked with dust, and the effort of his lungs to secure pure air undoubtedly helped to restore his senses. It was humanly impossible to curb the impulse toward self-preservation, and he tried at once to free his limbs of an intolerable weight. He was able to move slightly; but the agony which racked his left leg warned him that the limb was either broken or badly sprained. His profession had often brought similar accidents within his ken, and indications of a further probable subsidence among the fallen stones —though the warning was so slight as to be negible to the ordinary ear —told him that he must be wary, or a second avalanche might kill him outright.

By now the air was breathable, and he could see into the deserted Gulch. He was well aware that no one might be expected to pass that way during the next hour. Before returning to the feast in preparation at the ranch, the escort would await the departure of the train; while those who had not taken part in the procession would certainly remain there until darkness ended the festivities. So he had the choice of two evils. He could either possess his soul in patience until the mounted contingent began to straggle back, or risk another rock-fall.

Naturally, he understood the cause and extent of the mishap, and his present mood did not brook the delay entailed by the safer course. Raising head and shoulders by lifting himself on both hands, he contrived to twist round on his left side, and and surveyed the position. It was bad enough, in all conscience, but might have been worse. By far the largest piece of granite had been the last to drop, and he saw that it was poised precariously on some smaller lumps. Any attempt to withdraw either of his legs (the left one was broken, beyond a doubt) would disturb its balance, and, if it toppled on his body, he would be imprisoned without hope of relief by his own effort. Rising still higher, though each inch gained cost a twinge of agony that brought sweat from every pore, he achieved a half-sitting, half-lolling posture. Then, applying his miner's aptitude to the dynamics of the problem, he packed the threatening boulder with others until it was wedged into partial security.

He had barely finished this task, which only a splendid vitality enabled him to carry through, when his eye was caught by something in the new face of the rock which seemed to fascinate him for a second or two. Then his mouth twisted in a rictus of dreadful mirth, so wrung was he with pain, yet so overcome by what he had seen.

"So that is the price!" he almost shouted, accompanying the words with others which seldom fell from his lips. "Those are the terms of surrender, eh? Well, it is a compact made in hell; but I'll keep it!"

After that, his actions savoured of a maniac's cunning rather than the desire of a sane man to save his own life. Slowly, with never a groan, he extracted both legs from beneath the pile of stones. The spurs were his chief difficulty. One was held so tightly that he had to tear his foot out by main force; but luckily it was the right foot, or he could not have done it. Something had to give way under the strain, and ultimately the spur was released by the yielding of suffered must have been intense; but a strap at a buckle. The torture he he uttered no sound save an occasional sob of effort, when all the strength of hands and wrists were needed to move one or other of the chunks of granite without dislodging the grim monster he had chained.

At last he was free. He felt the injured limb, which was almost benumbed, and ascertained beyond doubt that it was fractured below the knee. But he was safe enough, even though the precarious structure of stones collapsed, and any other victim of like circumstances would have been content with that tremendous achievement. Not so John Darien Power.

The mere fact that he need now only lie still until assistance reached him seemed to lash him into a fresh panic of energy. After a hasty glance into the canyon, obviously to find out whether or not anyone was approaching, he began to throw pieces of debris into the fissure left bare by the fall. When he had exhausted the store within reach he crawled to a new supply, and piled stone upon stone until the rock wall was covered to a height of more than two feet. Even then he was not satisfied; but moved a second time, his apparent object, if any, being to give the scene of his accident the semblance of a stone.

Finally, he did the maddest thing of all, lowering himself down the cleft with a rapidity that was almost inconceivable in a man with a broken leg. On reaching the level of the trail he slipped and fell. That drew a queer sort of subdued shriek from his parched throat; but, after a moment of white agony, he began to crawl in the direction of the ranch. He chose that way deliberately, because the slope was downhill, and not so rough as in the upper part of the gorge. With care, for he meant to avoid another slip, but never halting, he dragged his crippled body fully a hundred yards from the foot of the ledge. Then he crept into the shade, at a spot where the side of the Gulch rose sheer for twenty feet, turned over on his back and lay quietly.

He had almost reached the end of his tether. His face was drawn, and disfigured with dirt and perspiration. His eyelids dropped involuntarily, as though to shut out a world which had suddenly become savagely hostile; but his lips moved in a wan grimace, a wry parody of the generous, warm-hearted smile that people had learned to associate with Derry Power.

"My poor Nancy!" he murmured brokenly. "My dear, lost sweetheart! If the Fates have bought you from me, I was no party to the deal, and I'll exact the last cent on it—I swear that by your sprig of white heather! Someone will pay, in blood and tears, or I'll know the reason why! Yes, someone will pay! Power versus Marten, with the devil as arbitrator! Marten has won the first round; but I'll take it to a higher court. I'll choke the life out of him yet—choke—the beast!"

Of course, Power was light-headed.

CHAPTER III.

SHOWING HOW POWER ACQUIRED A LIMP.

If any sentient thought loomed vaguely through the haze of pain and exhaustion which enwrapped Power like a pall, it was that he would probably lie there a long time before help came; yet he had hardly uttered that half-delirous vow before he was aware of an animal snuffing cautiously around him, and the knowledge galvanized him into a species of activity. He turned on his right side, and raised himself on one hand, the fingers of which closed instinctively on a heavy stone as supplying a weapon of defence.

But his eyes rested only on a dog, a dapper fox-terrier, whose furtive curiosity changed instantly to alarm, as it retreated some distance, and barked excitedly. Then Power saw the animal's master, a stranger, or, at any rate, a newcomer, in the distance, a man of about his own age, who rode a compactly built pony with the careless ease of good horsemanship, and was dressed de rigueur, except for the broad-brimmed hat demanded by the Colorado sun.

Evidently the horseman was not surprised at finding someone lying in the Gulch.

"Hullo!" he cried. "Had a spill?"

Power tried to speak; but the dust and grit in his throat rendered his words almost inaudible. Then the other understood that if, as he imagined, copious drafts of champagne had caused some unaccustomed head to reel, the outcome was rather more serious than a mere tumble. He urged the pony rapidly nearer, and dismounted, and a glance at Power's face dispelled his earlier notion.

"What's up?" he inquired in a sympathetic tone. "Are you hurt?"

Power's second effort at ordered speech was more successful. "Yes," he said. "My leg is broken."

"Ah, that's too bad. Which leg?"

FREE OF ALL THREE DISEASES

"Fruit-a-tives" Brought Him Perfect Health

AVON, ONT., May 14th, 1913.

"I am younger since I have been taking "Fruit-a-tives". I was troubled very badly with Piles, Constipation and Stomach Disorder, but I found "Fruit-a-tives" was the panacea for the whole three.

Now I am free of all these diseases and enjoying perfect health, and able to work whenever I like. Five years ago, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives". I took two every night and they worked wonders for me.

No other medicine I could get was so good and I took lots of different remedies before I found out how good "Fruit-a-tives" were.

I keep "Fruit-a-tives" on hand all the time, and am never without them. I even take them with me when I go motoring, so I can have them handy. "Fruit-a-tives" are worthy of every good word I can say about them. The fact that they cured me of Piles, was something to be everlastingly thankful for"

A PAILFUL OF JEWELS

HOW RHODES OUTMANOEUVRED THE WILY BARNATO.

Gordon LeSeur Tells How the Empire Builder Put the Menacing Diamonds Out of Harm's Way Until He Had Closed His Deal — Laws Against Illicit Traders and Thieves Were Very Harsh.

One of the books of the season is "Cecil Rhodes: the Man and His Work," by Gordon LeSeur, F.R.G.S., secretary to the South African Empire Builder.

The Rt. Hon. Mr. Rhodes was emphatically one of the big men of his generation, and there was not a little romance and adventure in his life.

Mr. LeSeur is clear upon the point that he writes entirely from memory. The Rhodes trustees, anxious no doubt, to avoid complications with living people, purchased from him some years ago, all of his written data, and other material.

As for diaries,—there were anathema to Mr. Rhodes, since the day when the Boers picked up the journal of Bobby White upon the field of Doornkop, and its jottings were held to have implicated Rhodes to an unjust extent with the Jameson raid that resulted in a prison sentence for 'Dr. Jim" and in Rhodes' resignation as Prime Minister of Cape Colony. He resolved that diaries were dangerous to him and his secretaries, and later on destroyed a small journal that Mr. LeSeur had been keeping.

His historic clash with the picturesque Barnato occurred near the beginning of his African career, according to his biographer.

Rhodes had formed, in 1880, the combination known as the De Beers Diamond Mining Company, and soon had a clash with Barnato Isaacs Barnato, a Jewish miner, whose talents lay equally divided between the prize ring and the music hall, whose gifts for money-making were marvelous and who was believed to be the leader of the unlawful diamond interests of the community.

"Barney," as this astute individual was known, had formed the Central Diamond Mining Co., and was a factor to be reckoned with by Rhodes when he attempted a consolidation of the mines necessary to the life of the diamond trade.

The market for diamonds necessitated regulation of the supply, and Rhodes was well aware that if individual miners continued to sell at random the trade would be ruined. Barnato, however, had a large supply prepared for the market, and used them as a menace against Rhodes. He knew, and Rhodes knew only too well, that if these stones were sold before his own plans were completed all would be ruined.

A meeting was held, in which "Barney" appeared triumphant. He knew himself to have the whip hand over Rhodes, who, with the impatience he could never conceal, stamped about in abortive rage. On a table lay the disputed jewels, carefully sorted for the market into various heaps of wealth, the sorting being an intricate matter and one that took days and even weeks to accomplish.

Beside the table was a bucket, empty, and Rhodes suddenly remarked:

"Barney, have you ever seen a bucketful of diamonds? I never have. I'll tell you what I'll do. If these diamonds will fill a bucket I'll take them all over from you at your own price."

Before Barnato had time to answer, Rhodes had swept the diamonds into the pail. Pile after pile of the carefully sorted stones were bundled together in a glittering hodgepodge of confusion.

Before Barnato caught his breath Rhodes had left the room. His purpose was effected, the delay he had desired was his, for by the time Barnato could rearrange his jewels he would no longer be a menace in the negotiations. After an all night sitting terms were arrived at, and the interests of the Central Diamond Mining Co. were bought in for De Beers for £5,338,650, a very useful check!

The illicit diamond buyers' acts followed some years later at a time when Rhodes relied upon the enormous sums obtained from the De Beers to further his political schemes —these schemes requiring large loads of cash for ammunition. These acts were thoroughly harmful in many ways, however necessary they were to Rhodes, for they resorted to the law of the Middle Ages that required a prisoner to prove his innocence, rather than laying upon the prosecutor the burden of showing him to be guilty.

Long prison terms were the penalty, and "if a man had a grievance against another and wished to 'put him away' all he had to do was to secrete a stone about the other's person or drop it into his tobacco pouch and then give the information. The victim was searched, the stone found and, as he was unable to account for his possession of the stone, he would be convicted and sentenced to anything from two to ten years' hard labor. The penalty was twenty years' hard labor under the later act."

Here Barney Barnato over-reached himself. As scapegoats were frequently paid bribes for punishment that should have gone to the "man higher up" he received hundreds of letters from men who believed him to have profited by their imprisonment, letters adorned with skulls and crossbones and written in no Chesterfieldian manner. They drove the Jew, who was naturally a coward, to the verge of madness. He is said to have frequently left his bed in his pajamas to run a mile or more to a neighbor's house, crying out for protection against his enemies.

Rhodes' death, which took place in 1902 at Mulzemberg, came before peace with the Boers had been concluded. In his will he left the whole of his estate to public service, with the exception of some comparatively trifling amounts.

Obesity Saved England's Liberty.

The mode in which that bulwark of England's constitution, the habeas corpus act, became a law is very remarkable. So grave a historian as Bishop Burnet relates that it was carried by an "odd artifice." Lords Grey and Norris were named to be tellers. Lord Norris, being a man subject to vapors, was not at all times attentive to what he was doing; so, a very fat lord coming in, Lord Grey counted him for ten, as a jest at first, but seeing that Lord Norris had not observed it he went on with his misreckoning of ten, so it was reported to the House and declared that they who were for the bill were in the majority.—London Chronicle.

Prosperity Is Communistic.

A man cannot prosper in any honest business without benefiting the community as well as himself, for he cannot induce men to deal with him without offering them an advantage; and, taking all the transactions of life together, the advantages which men offer to others must, on the whole, be equal to those which they receive themselves. Doing business, therefore, is a very effectual and extended mode of doing good, and the fortune which is acquired in doing it is, in a very important sense, the measure and index of the good done.—Jacob Abbott.

Men and Earrings.

Earrings were largely affected in England by the male courtiers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries —a fashion which seems to have been imported from Spain and which mightily shocked the Puritans. Usually only one ear was ornamented, as in the portrait of the Earl of Somerset in the National gallery. The Duke of Buckingham was famous for his diamond earrings, while other great men who followed this mode were Shakespeare and Sir Walter Raleigh.

The last notable example of men wearing earrings seems to have been Charles I. himself, who hung a large pearl in his left ear, which he presented upon the scaffold to a faithful follower.

CURED A BAD ATTACK OF ECZEMA.

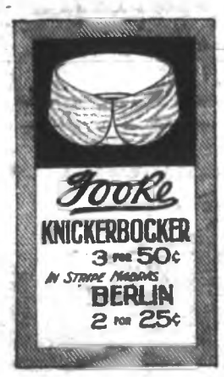
All skin diseases such as Eczema, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Rash, Boils, Pimples, and Itching Skin Eruptions, are always caused from the blood being in a bad condition, and it is impossible to eradicate them from the system unless you put your blood into good shape. This you can very easily do without the slightest trouble by using Burdock Blood Bitters.

It drives out all the humor from the blood, and makes it pure and rich, and not only are the unsightly diseases removed, and a bright clean complexion produced, but the entire system is renovated and invigorated at the same time.

Mrs. G. A. Day, Somerville, N.B., writes:—"Last spring I had a bad attack of Eczema. I tried several patent medicines as well as the medicine of a physician, but they seemed to make the disease worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and I did so with the result that in two weeks time the sores began to disappear. I continued to take it until I had taken three bottles and they worked a complete cure."



BURNING A DIAMOND.

Davy and Faraday Made One Blaze Till It Vanished.

That diamonds will not only burn, but will blaze, was proved as long ago as 1814 by Sir Humphry Davy and Michael Faraday. The experiment was carried out at Florence, where the two scientists were visiting the great Duke of Tuscany, whose burning glass was the medium through which the sun was induced to operate.

This burning glass consisted of a couple of convex lenses, distant from each other about three and a half feet, the large lens being some fourteen inches in diameter, the smaller about three inches.

The diamond rested on a rod of platinum which had a cup shaped receptacle at the top pierced with holes to admit of free circulation of gas. This rod was fixed in the centre of a glass globe of twenty-two cubical inches capacity, exhausted of air and filled with pure hydrogen.

Intense heat was brought to bear upon the diamond when it was exposed to the sun, the second lens greatly reducing the focus. In the course of three-quarters of an hour it was necessary twice or thrice to cool the globe. Then it was noticed that the diamond was slowly diminishing and becoming gradually opaque. Suddenly it burst into flame. They removed the stone from the focus, and it blazed away merrily, it glowed brilliantly, with a scarlet light inclining to purple, and continued to burn for about four minutes.

The glass was then cooled and the diamond again submitted to the action of the sun. Again it blazed, but for not so long a period as at first. Twice more this was repeated, and then the diamond was totally consumed. This was the first occasion on which, so far as is known, a diamond has been seen to burn.

Took Him at His Word.

The late King Edward, who so highly appreciated wit, even when, as sometimes happened, the joke went against himself, was once very neatly "scored off" by a lady whom later he deservedly esteemed for her many good works. She had just been presented to him and was somewhat nervous. To put her at her ease His Majesty said, "Oh, Miss ——, I want to have a long chat with you, but if I should unfortunately bore you pray tell me so." The King, who was an adroit cross-examiner, wished to ascertain the young lady's age, which she had no intention of divulging. "You have already said you were born at ——," said the monarch. "May I ask in what year?" "You bore me, sir!" was the smiling reply, and His Majesty took the checkmate in the greatest good humor.

Stevenson Carried His Tall Hat.

Sir Sidney Colvin, in a lecture on "Personal Reminiscences of R. L. Stevenson," denied firmly that Stevenson had any affectation.

"R.L.S.," said Sir Sidney, "did once possess a frock coat and a tall hat, which he acquired for the purposes of a wedding. Coming to London subsequently, he made the concession to my respectability of donning the coat and hat, and thus we walked down Piccadilly. But the hat was in Stevenson's hand, and as the gates of Burlington House closed on us, Stevenson was declaiming in vibrant voice and rich Scotch accent a chorus from Milton's 'Samson Agonistes'."—London Globe.

Women and the Baronetage.

The fact that no women figure on the Roll of British Baronets—totalling 1,309—published as a supplement to the latest issue of The London Gazette, denotes a retrograde movement in the honorable Order. In 1635, 24 years after its foundation, Dame Mary Bolles was created a baroneless of Scotland and received a grant of 18 square miles of territory in Nova Scotia. Charles I. ordained that Dame Mary was to rank on the same footing as the wives of baronets. Fifty years later the mother of Gen. Spellman was created by James II. a baroneless of England.

Few Honors For Women.

The sparing allotment of honors by the crown to women is illustrated by the fact that the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts supplies the only instance of a woman being raised to the peerage in recognition of her personal worth and public achievements. Three years previous to this, in 1868, another woman was picked out for unique distinction—the wife of Benjamin Disraeli, who was made Viscountess Beaconsfield on account of her husband's services, and died years before he accepted an earldom.—London Chronicle.

Hottentot Women.

Among the Hottentots women hold a better position than they do anywhere else in Africa. "The married woman," says one traveler, reigns supreme mistress. Her husband cannot without her permission take a bit of meat or a drop of milk." Generally "they rank much above the average of the negro races."—London Spectator.

THE "COCK LAIRDS."

In Years Gone By They Were Very Common In Scotland.

The suggestion that small proprietors should be planted on the land of Scotland recalls the class of a former day known as "cock lairds." The cock-laird has been drawn to the life by Sir Walter Scott, R. L. Stevenson and others—with his thrift, his cool courage and canny wit, his Christianity and common-sense, and his pride and patriotism.

He made history, especially in the Lowlands, where we find cock-lairds thickly planted in early days—"Sae canty, kind, and croose."

His land might be some hundreds or only a few acres, but a cock-laird was a landowner who cultivated his own land. If a farm was only ten acres or less he was a "wee cock-laird," and managed to do all the work with the help of his family. If large, the laborers were planted in cottages close to the farm house, and sometimes such a farm-toon, bit by bit, rose into a small village. Other cottages stood not far from the farm house, where the laborer had a garden and a cow's grass. At harvest, in the slow days of cutting with the hook, the cottagers and neighbors helped in the grain of giff-gaff fashion.

This "neeberliness" bound a country-side together, and let the cock-laird put two pennies in his pooch, to "creep thegether." Cock-lairds, big and wee, seldom paid in money, but nearly always in fodder for the poor man's cow or a pickle wool for the guidwife to spin in the winter nights. This meant a bargain on both sides.

There were many more of these cock-lairds in the Lowlands than in the Highlands, and from his peculiarity may be traced how much more independent and advanced the people of the Lowlands were in the days of the old Scottish Parliament.

Cock-lairds of the very "wee" kind were always adepts at getting something to do in leisure moments. One would be an expert in killing and cutting up a bacon pig, another would be rather clever in making very good baskets out of the willows that grew in a corner of his field, and a third would be coal carter and general carrier.

Work in the woods would sometimes be got, and such men were often good at hurdle making, while others would take a great pleasure in making ornamental bits of furniture out of tree roots, etc. Sea fishing is sometimes a side industry in suitable localities, and ferreting and digging out rabbits for farmers in others.

Generally industrious, as they exist to-day, the "wee cock-lairds," are fairly prosperous, being not afraid of a bit of work. If they are sometimes over-thrifty, and inclined to peevishness, it must be remembered that life is a pretty stiff argument to them, and requires the exercise of much independence of thought and action.

A Ghost Is at Work.

A haunted station is causing a deal of excitement in police circles in Calcutta just now. The strange experiences of those who have done duty and lived at the Fenwick Bazar Thana, have time and again been related, but the strangest experience heard of is that which occurred recently at the same place. One of the sub-inspectors had retired for the night, and had apparently fallen into a heavy sleep. The thana was empty except for the writer head constable and the constable on lock-up duty. Just after midnight a great noise was heard in the room upstairs. Thinking there was something wrong the head constable went upstairs and found the inspector already awake, making inquiries as to where the noise had come from. It was then ascertained that a quantity of harness and saddlery which had been hung on a peg, had been strewn across the floor, but no one was visible. A search was also made in case any intruder may have entered the premises, but no one could be seen. The inspector retired to rest again, and all appeared quiet, when a noise even greater than the first was heard. On this occasion all those awake in the thana, including the inspector, rushed out, but no one was to be seen. It was, however, ascertained that one of the inspector's armchairs had been pitched out of the sitting-room into the compound and smashed to pieces. The constable on gate duty was questioned, but he denied that anybody had left or entered the thana.

A Commendable Thing.

Mr. W. M. R. Pringle, the British M.P., tells a story about a Northern member of Parliament concerning whom tales were in circulation in his constituency to the effect that now and then he took too large doses of alcohol. The member went North to look into this. To his surprise he was met at the railway station by a brass band and a cheering crowd of his supporters. His chairman of committee shook him warmly by the hand.

"Now about this story——" began the member.

"Not a word about that," whispered the chairman of committee; "it's made you the most popular man in the place."

African Village Raided.

An entire village has been wiped out says a traveler who has just returned from the north of Africa. He reports that Rendille village of some 200 men, women and children has been exterminated by Boran natives. The Borani are a peaceful tribe, but are continually being harassed by the Rendille. The Government authorities at Samburu, Africa, in the Galla country, were impotent to protect the Borani, and the above raid was the result. Somali tribal fights have occurred near the Lorian Swamp, north of the Galla Mountains.

"Man would be much happier if he only knew what he wanted," says a Louisville minister. And, knowing that, he would be worried considerably less if he had sense enough to know that nine times out of ten he isn't going to get it.

There is common sense in general postal order 7801, which provides that an unstamped letter shall be forwarded and double postage collected. That is better than holding the letter for the outcome of official correspondence with the person to whom it is addressed.

Order Your Own Weather.

Soon we will be able to have any kind of weather we want. If we want fine weather all that is necessary is to send up positive electricity into the clouds, and if rain is wanted negative electricity is discharged and a shower will result.

Such is the suggestion made by Sir Oliver Lodge before the Institute of Electrical Engineers in London. The possibility of controlling the weather caused much interest among the engineers present.

How They Kept Prices Down.

Edward III., King of England, announced in 1364 that for "the great dearth which exists in various parts of our realm, it is commanded that the price of young capon shall not exceed threepence, of an old one four; of a cock, two; and in those places where the price of such fowls is less, let it be retained without increase."

BLACK HAND SECRETS REVEALED BY CHIEF OF SECRET SERVICE

IN THE GRIP OF THE BLACK HAND

By WILLIAM J. FLYNN,
Chief of the United States Secret Service

"Comito the Sheep" Gives Graphic Account of His Experiences with Cruel Counterfeiting Band.

DON TURI CINA
IN WHOSE HOUSE COMITO MET THE BLACK HAND LEADERS.

ALTHOUGH I was not allowed to go back to New York," Comito says in his confession, "I still believed that I was near Philadelphia, and I was happy in anticipation of getting to work with the printing presses.

"About three o'clock in the morning of December 8, 1908, Cina awakened Caterina and me and told us to get onto a truck to which he had harnessed his horses. With us went Giglio, who was one of Cecala's godfathers, and a man named Bernardo, who had the largest mouth I have ever seen. We drove through the village, and after about two and a half hours came to an old stone house in a lonesome part of the country.

"'Here it is, the printing shop,' said Bernardo, laughing. 'Don't you like it?'

"'No,' I replied. I was very angry, but I feared to show it, for Bernardo's laugh had an ugly ring.

"'Tell it to Cecala when he comes,' said Cina, and he sneered."

Cecala, you will remember, was the man who offered Comito the position as printer and who told him that the shop was near Philadelphia. It was he who engineered the kidnapping scheme and managed to get Comito and Caterina to Highland, N. Y., more than one hundred and fifty miles away from Philadelphia. Comito in his confession says:—

"'But this is no place for a printing shop,' I argued.

"'Come,' ordered Cina very gruffly. 'Don't lose time. Unload the stuff and go inside.'

"'I will go back with Caterina,' I said.

"'Where to?' asked Cina.

"'To the house where we were, and then to New York.'

"Caterina all this time was glaring at me as though it would have given her happiness to plunge a knife between my ribs.

"'You can't stay in my house any longer,' said Cina. 'There are too many children. When Cecala returns you can talk to him.'

"By this time all our furniture was in the house. I heard Cina tell Giglio that he was going away.

"'I will go with you,' I said.

"'You are crazy,' replied Cina. 'Have you any money to pay me for returning your goods? Cecala may return to-morrow. You can tell him about it.'

"Cina and Giglio began whispering together, and I went over to Caterina, who stood in the doorway with tears in her eyes.

"'Do not let yourself feel troubled,' I said to her. 'As soon as we are alone we will go away.'

"'Where will we get the money?' demanded Caterina with a look of scorn. Then she stamped away from me. This was unreasonable, for it was she who had given to Cecala the $5 which we had between us.

"In the morning another man, Cina's brother Peppino, brought provisions to the house. I had still nothing to do, for though the press had been set up in one of the rooms above, there was no type, and I did not know what it was I should print. I was very much depressed.

"I thought of running away with Caterina. Where should we go? Snow was on the ground and it was bitter cold. We might perish. My heart bled to see Caterina mistreated. I would have liked to see the death of Giglio and Bernardo, yet I was afraid of them. Their evil faces haunted my mind. And those villainous men whom I had met at Cina's house. I knew that they would have vengeance.

"Caterina fell into a fever and I worried that she might die. This was the happy life which had been promised to me, one morning. I sat in the room downstairs smoking my pipe. There came a knock at the door. I opened it and Cina and Cecala entered. At sight of me they both burst out laughing. My anger flared up.

"'I am no child,' I cried, 'and I will not be treated in this way.'

"'Do not speak so loudly when you address us,' said Cecala. 'We are gentlemen.'

"'I know you are,' I said, 'but these actions do not become gentlemen.'

"'Come, Don Antonio,' he said, 'I will talk with you upstairs.'

"I had promised myself a dozen times that I would demand an accounting from Cecala, but now that the man's eyes were upon me all thought of crossing him fled. Remembering his record and the deeds of his companions I followed him upstairs with heavy feet and heavier heart. As the door closed behind us in the room with the press I wondered whether I should ever see Caterina again.

"Cecala spoke no word. With quick fingers he unwrapped a large parcel, and as I watched it dawned on me what I should be called upon to do. I saw at last why I had been trapped and my heart sank.

"'You are to print counterfeit money,' said Cecala with brutal bluntness. THOSE WORDS WERE MY SENTENCE. Had I refused, after I had made that admission to me my life would not have been worth the five dollars he owed to Caterina. Nor would hers.

"'Here are the plates,' said Cecala as he handed them to me. 'Compare them with the originals. Do they not show clever work? It is this Canadian five dollar note which we will make at first. It is much easier to imitate than American money, for it has no silk threads in the paper. One hundred thousand sheets of paper I have brought, and before we are done we will print a million notes. Already I have had requests for some of the money. We will all be wealthy and you and your Caterina can then go where you will.'

"'But I do not know how to prepare the press for this work,' I said. I did not want to break the law. My feelings recoiled at the thought of crime, yet dreams of such wealth almost overcame me. How happy I could make Caterina to repay her for all the hardships she had suffered. Was not this better than risking my life by trying to escape these men of the Black Hand? Still I knew that it was wrong.

"'It is very difficult work to execute for one not accustomed to it,' I said.

"Cecala shot me an angry glance. 'Do not begin to make excuses,' he said. 'And see that your Caterina remains here with you. We need her. If she a[illegible]'

"I was decided. They would have killed me had I not done as they wished. Caterina might have met worse than a sudden death."

This is an example of the capacity for detail of these clever criminals. Cecala knew that three men living alone in a lonesome stone house would have excited suspicion among rural folk, but if Caterina were seen by passers-by they would think that a family occupied the building. To resume Comito's confession:

"I examined the plates which Cecala handed me. They were wonderful imitations. There were five pieces of zinc, on each of which was engraved a part of the matter appearing on the notes. There were two large plates for the green, one for the black, and one for the seal in a viole color, and one for the serial numbers which were to be printed.

"There was still some little doubt in my mind as to whether I should evade joining these counterfeiters. Cecala must have guessed my thoughts for he said very quietly to me, looking all the time into my eyes without blinking:

"'Don Antonio, you are the person who under my direction and that of one other whom you must not know will print the notes. You know our secret. So much as whisper it to the trees and you are lost; Caterina as well.

"'We are twenty that have organized this business, and as well reward you as one of us. UNTIL YOU BETRAY US. As for Caterina, we will respect her, too, and when we are rich we will give her money to go to you. But you must be one of us for all time. Not even your parents shall know what you are doing, but we will better their condition as we better yours. But if you wish ever to see them again you must be true. No one will come here whom we do not know. The property is ours, and if detectives should be led here they will never go away. Do you understand what I mean?'

"So black was Cecala's frown as he spoke, and so surely did I know that he would slay me if I so much as made excuses, that my tongue clogged between my teeth and I could make no reply. Cecala laughed, and at last I said:—

"'It is only my wish that you will be satisfied with my work, for I have never seen counterfeit money before, nor printed it, and I will have much to learn.'

"Then Caterina called us to dinner, but I ate little, for the food stuck in my throat and fear stifled my appetite. After the meal Cecala, who had eaten and drunk heartily, showed me the plates for a two-dollar bill of United States currency. He said that we would first print $20,000 in Canadian money and then $50,000 in American two dollar notes. The plates for the American bills were of check letter A, plate number 1121. There were three plates, one to print the green, one for the face or black, and one for the seal and counter of dark blue.

Cecala and Cina remained in the stone house that day, and we were busy setting up the plates. Next day they returned with a man they called Uncle Vincent, and we all worked here the press. The plates were mounted on blocks and backed in the chase, while Cecala prepared the inks. All that day we worked at pulling proofs, trying to get the proper shade of green. At last Cecala added just enough yellow to the dark green ink and we hit upon the light tint we had been trying for. When the proofs dried we decided they were right for the Canadian five dollar notes.

"By the end of January we had printed $17,340 in the Canadian notes and packed them in an empty macaroni box, which was nailed up and made ready for Cecala to take away with him. We then began to work on the two dollar American bills, but we could not produce the exact shade of green. At last Cecala became discouraged and told me that we would have to consult with a man in New York who was experienced in such matters. He went away, giving me $5, and telling me to go to New York, on February 4 to meet him at his house. I was not to leave the stone house, however, until Cina called for me with a carriage.

"All things occurred as Cecala had said they would, and immediately on my arrival in New York I went to his house in Fourth street. There I met his wife, who first asked me:

"'Are you Don Antonio?'

"'Yes,' I replied.

"'Do you come from Highland?' she inquired.

"'Yes.'

"'Very well,' she said. 'Go to the address written on this piece of paper and ask for my husband in the bank on the ground floor.'

"When I had found Cecala he took me to a room above the bank. There I saw two men. One was tall, wrapped in a shawl of brown material, had an oval face, high forehead, aquiline nose, dark hair and dark mustache, and appeared to be about forty years old. I noticed particularly that this man kept one arm hidden beneath the shawl. Later I learned that this was a shriveled arm.

"'This is Mr. Morello,' said Cecala.

"It was easy to see that Morello held authority over Cecala.

"'Make yourselves comfortable,' he said, then without further ceremony. 'How is it, professor, that you cannot succeed in reaching a color similar to that on the two dollar notes.'

"'Because I am accustomed to printing books,' I said. 'I have never printed money, and I do not know how properly to mix the inks.'

"'Well then, we will find a man to mix the inks,' said Morello. 'But you must remain with us to do the printing. Do not think of betraying us, for your life would not be worth a penny. On the other hand, when you are in danger because of the secret, we will save you. Suppose you are arrested. You must never tell that you know us. If you do, you will die, but if you do not, even at the cost of all our property, we will save you.'

"I returned to the little house near Highland and soon afterward a man whom they called Don Peppe came to mix the inks. While we worked, Giglio or Uncle Vincent remained always on guard with a rifle and revolver prepared to kill any one who trespassed on the farm and would not go away.

"One night there came a great rapping on the door of the stone house. It was two o'clock in the morning. It is the detectives, I thought. Uncle Vincent sprang from his bed, and I heard his rifle click as he cocked it. He was very white. Bernardo and Giglio stood in the middle of the room, revolvers in their hands, their faces pale, knees shaking noticeably. Even I. It was the first time I had seen these men afraid, the first time that I knew there was some power that even they themselves thought greater than their own.

"'Go down to the door,' said Uncle Vincent to me.

"I did not want to go, but there was nothing for it but to obey.

"I went below and demanded in as firm a voice as I could, 'Who is it?'

"'We,' replied a voice feminine in tone.

"'Who are you?' I demanded more boldly.

"'Open, Professor,' said some one outside.

"'Ignazio has come,' cried Uncle Vincent, hurrying down the stairs.

"We opened the door and Ignazio Lupo entered with Cecala, Nick Sylvester, Cina and an elderly man who was dressed elegantly and wore handsome diamonds. Cecala and Cina opened two valises and took out two repeating rifles, two revolvers and about 1,000 rounds of ammunition. Lupo then instructed us in the use of the firearms which, he said, would discharge about fifteen shots a minute.

"Soon after this I completed about $20,000 in the two dollar notes, and they were sent away.

"One day Peppino arrived at the stone house and told me that I was to accompany him to Cina's house, where certain men from New York wished to see me. I was dismayed at this message, for I felt sure that my last hour had come. There was no doubt in my mind that I was to be murdered. Caterina and I had been alone for a week in the stone house, so unknown to any one I slipped one of Uncle Vincent's revolvers into my pocket.

"At Cina's house I met Morello, Lupo and many others. They found fault with the way I had worked and insulted me, but though they burned much of the counterfeit money, some of it was kept, and I went back to the stone house to print more of the counterfeit bills."

With Comito's confession and the knowledge that I could use him as a witness I at last had all the evidence necessary to connect Lupo and Morello with the counterfeiting of the Canadian and American money. There is much more that Comito told me, but there is no space for it here. Some things I will treat of in a later article.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

AN INTIMATE EXPERIENCE

Jinny's meeting with Frederick Trent was purely accidental. He came into the store that morning to buy a clothes brush and she sold it to him. While he was buying the brush it began to rain—a sudden deluge that sent people scurrying to shelter everywhere. Frederick had no umbrella and so he had lingered at the brush counter, lengthening out his purchase making until the storm should pass. They had discussed the subject of brushes pretty thoroughly. Jinny knew her business and she earned every penny in her pay envelope. Incidentally she learned that Frederick knew this. He was a civil engineer.

After Frederick left the store Jinny went on selling brushes to those who wanted them.

Jinny's hair was not her only charm. True, it was a pure amber in colour, with alluring shadows and catchy high lights palpitating all over it. Her eyes were the very eyes to go with such hair—long, brown, and soft as velvet, with enticing black lashes. There was freshness in her cheeks and a dimple in her square chin. And she wore businesslike stiff collars and tailored waists which just the same as labelled her "No nonsense!"

When Frederick Trent met her she was 22 years old and she was earning $10 a week and had some ambition to become a buyer in her department. But she fell in love with Frederick and that all ended, suddenly.

When he went out she never expected to see him again. But the next day he was back again to look at more brushes; and then she knew.

However, she was wary. She was not sure that he meant all he said to her yet. She intended to wait and see.

Therefore the faster he pursued the faster she ran away. He flung gifts after her. She accepted all graciously and gravely as she accepted Frederick, but with reservation. Once she went to the theatre with him, and once to dinner. The rest of the time he courted her in Mrs. Cassidy's boarding house parlour, with other people in full view. But at last chance favoured him, and he proposed to her when there was nobody by to hear whether she said yes or no.

Jinny said "Yes." She had intended to say yes all the time, only she was determined that Frederick should want to hear it as much as she would want to say it. The score was even and they became engaged. And Frederick put on her finger a real diamond ring for which he had paid as much money as Jinny could earn during half a year's time in the store.

"And now," he said, "I may as well tell you that I don't believe in long engagements. I would like to be married as soon as you can possibly arrange it. You see, I've finished my surveying here and I have a month's leeway before I begin another. And my mother is expecting me to come home. I'd like to take you with me."

"Your mother!" Jinny said, and the facets of her splendid new ring seemed to dart a sharp little gleam right into her heart. Of course, she had known that Frederick had a mother all the time. She had even seen the dim little picture of her which he carried in his watch. Until this moment his mother had not been of any great significance to her. Now that she belonged to Frederick she realized that she must belong to his mother, also. Frederick seemed pleased enough with her, but would his mother be? "Let me see her picture again," she pleaded.

"Here's a new one," Frederick said. "I just got it to-day. You hardly could tell how she looked from that blur in my watch. But this is a splendid likeness."

He took the picture from his pocket and put it in Jinnys hands, which trembled as her startled eyes took in the full purport of that clever likeness. Every detail of the photograph from the beautifully coifed white hair to the last jet glitter on the marvellous lace gown burned itself into the girl's perception. And it came to her keenly, terribly. "Why, this woman will never be satisfied with me for one minute!"

Frederick was saying: "You can see for yourself how handsome she is and how magnificent. Oh, I'm proud of my mother, but I don't know, Jinny, whether she's altogether proud of me. You see, while I've always tried to be a decent chap, I haven't come up to mother's expectations in a way. She wanted me to follow father in the law, but open air called louder than books. I felt I must be a civil engineer or die. She gave in to me, but she was a good deal disappointed. I'm the first Trent man who has ever stepped out of the beaten path of law and politics. I mean to make good at what I've chosen to do, but I shall never wholly please my mother in her heart of hearts."

"And I'm afraid," Jinny said, "that you'll please her less than ever when you show her me. There's such a difference betwen us. She isn't going to like me. I know she isn't, Frederick."

"There, there," Frederick soothed her. "Mother's a woman of sense. And she gives me credit for having some myself, even if I wouldn't be a lawyer. And it doesn't make any difference, Jinny, whether she likes you or not. I do. And you know it."

Frederick had written to his mother, but she had written back to say that she was suffering from an attack of rehumatism and could not be present at the wedding. When they returned from their wedding trip they must come straight to her.

Then the time came when they must go to his mother's. It came to Jinny that she had never really been afraid in all her life before. Her heart seemed to turn right over at the thought of the meeting.

At last Frederick was on his own ground. He had the door open and was out almost before the car stopped. Then he helped Jinny out and let her to the house. A maid opened the door and took them to Mrs. Trent, who was waiting in the library to receive them.

"Mother," Frederick said, ringingly, "I have brought you my wife. Come Jinny."

Jinny felt herself moving forward. Then a wonderful thing happened. She felt herself enfolded and kissed, while a deep voice said in her ear:

"I wonder if you've been as much afraid of me as I have been of you."

Then their eyes met and they smiled.

"I'm not afraid of you now," Jinny Trent replied. She laid her hand on gently. "Do you know, son," she said, and her voice was not just steady, "she reminds me of the way I was when your father brought me home to his mother? I was so young and so shy. You'll try to like me, won't you, dear, for my own sake as well as Frederick's?"

Jinnys face was radiant and her heart buoyant. "Mother," she murmured.

Troubled With Weak Back and Kidneys For 10 Years.

Many people fail to understand the significance of a lame, weak, sore or aching back.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Take notice to the warning and cure the backache on the first sign, for if you don't do this, serious complications are sure to arise and perhaps develop into Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills will strengthen the weak back, and prevent any form of kidney trouble entering the system.

Mrs. Ed. Boyer, Nokomis, Sask., writes:—"I have been troubled with weak back and kidneys. I had terrible dizzy headaches, and could not sleep at night. In this way I suffered for ten years, until I read about Doan's Kidney Pills. I purchased two boxes, and as they helped me, I sent for two more; they put me on my feet, and I have been able to work ever since."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

Check those Colds in the Head with FOSSAL BALM

As you know, "catching a cold" simply means allowing the germs of a cold to catch you.

Usually these germs, which abound wherever people congregate, gain their first foothold in the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages. Here they multiply if unchecked, and quickly set up an inflammation. Then follows that smarting, burning, stuffed up, "headach-y" feeling—that cold in the head that is so depressing and so likely to develop into something more serious.

Fossal Balm goes right to the spot, kills the germs and checks the cold. Fossal Balm is an antiseptic, healing ointment, put up in a collapsible tube with a long, nozzle-shaped opening. This little nozzle, inserted in the nostril, carries the Fossal Balm well up into the passage, where it quickly spreads over the inflamed membrane, destroys the germs that are causing the trouble, soothes the irritation, clears the passages, and gives grateful and lasting relief.

Get a 50c tube of Fossal Balm from your Druggist or write for it direct to us. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 4

GIRL WENT THROUGH WAR.

British General's Daughter Tells of Balkan Campaign.

Miss Jessica Borthwick, who has returned to London after spending a year in the Balkans watching the closing phases of the war, has given The London Chronicle a remarkable account of her experiences. Miss Borthwick is twenty-two years old and the daughter of the late Gen. Borthwick, who was employed in Bulgaria in the eighties to reorganise and command the army in eastern Roumelia.

Miss Borthwick journeyed unattended. Her outfit consisted of mania riding breeches, riding boots, a flannel shirt, a sweater, a felt hat and a camera with which to take cinematograph pictures. She had a big cape which served as a skirt when she was in the towns. She took only one revolver with her, but was able to add to it an arsenal from the bodies of dead officers.

She sought the Bulgarian Premier in Sofia in January, 1913, and told him she wanted to join the Bulgarian army. He handed her over to the Minister of War, who gave her a permit, and she soon found herself on the way to Starazagora. Officers smuggled her to the front, one taking her with him as his servant.

After many wanderings and adventures she made her way to Adrianople when the garrison surrendered. She gives a graphic description of the terrible havoc. The open ground before the city was covered with the dead bodies of men, horses and bullocks.

She visited the island of Saraille Itachy, where the Turkish prisoners were sent.

"Dead soldiers, robbed of almost every garment, lay there as food for the scavenging birds," she says, "but the sight of the living who waited for death was worse. On the island, which was one large swamp with huge trees sticking out and knee deep in mud, were thousands of starving Turkish prisoners herded together for warmth and support. Their faces and hands were ashen gray and their eyes sunken in their sockets.

"I saw four men sitting around a little fire, and as it was the first fire I had seen there I went up to them. I spoke to one of them, but there was no answer. I repeated my question, with no result, and then pushed his shoulder. He reeled over. All four were dead."

At Adrianople Miss Borthwick was stricken with cholera and lay unattended in a mosque three days without food or water until she was found and taken to the Red Crescent hospital. She returned to Sofia, but again set out.

In the neighborhood of Mustapha Pasha she had an encounter with an outpost of Bashi Bazouks, who opened fire, wounding her in the leg and shoulder. She was wounded several times during her adventures by bullets and fragments of shells. At Uskub she was arrested as an Austrian spy and thrown into a filthy cell, where she remained for nine days, living on bread and water. Finally the Russian consul obtained her release.

A Crimean Powder-Boy.

Mr. Rd. Ladd, a Crimean veteran, who has just died at Southampton, served as a powder boy at the siege of Sebastopol. He had a very narrow escape from death aboard the sailing ship Queen. The Russians, he used to relate, twice set fire to the vessel by dropping red-hot shot on board. His companion, a powder boy named Curtis, was killed close to his side, while at least seven men were injured. Subsequently Mr. Ladd served as a quartermaster on the Black Prince, Britain's first ironclad.

The Cinque Ports.

The lord wardenship of the cinque ports goes back to the Saxon period when the five ports, Sandwich, Dover, Hythe, Romney and Hastings, constituted an essential part of England's defense against France. The warden was a highly important personage, who exercised civil, military and naval jurisdiction, being at once sheriff, custos rotulorum, lord lieutenant and admiral. Winchester and Rye in later days were added to the five towns, but the name remained cinque ports, as of old. In the days of the first Edward these ports were bound to furnish fifty seven ships fully equipped and manned at their own cost for fifteen days, in consideration for which they were freed from certain taxes and granted special privileges.—London Standard.

How the End Will Come.

The professor of natural phenomena had acquired a gasoline car.

"The day is coming," he said to his class a few weeks later, "when the tire will sag and punctures pierce the inner tube and the casing blister—and then this old earth of ours will have a blowout that may shake the Dog star from its kennel and hurl the Dipper to kingdom come!" — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Consenting Silence.

"Do you believe that silence gives consent, Dubbley?" asked Gosling.

"Why, yes. The old saying says so. Why?" said Dubbley.

"Then you may congratulate me on my engagement to Miss Moneybags. I wrote to her asking her to marry me six months ago, and I haven't heard a word from her since."—Judge.

First Modern Woman.

A correspondent claims that the first "modern Englishwoman" was born in 1589. She was Mary Frith, a pioneer in many ways, and the first woman in England to smoke a pipe. She was also the first to come out "daringly dressed," for which offence she was sentenced by the Court of Arches to do penance at St. Paul's Cross. Her home was near the Fleet, and as further evidence of her advanced tendencies, it is said that she was "a participator in most of the crimes and wild frolics of her time." As a barber in Drurylane she made a fortune, which she left to her nephew, with the strict injunction that he should not lay it out foolishly, but should get drunk with it while it lasted.

Foundation Stone Unearthed.

An interesting relic has come to light in the course of the carrying out improvement schemes at East India Docks, London. This is the original foundation stone laid as far back as March 4, 1804. The docks were the outcome of the enterprise of the famous East India Company. The find was made accidentally, when the water was pumped out of the import dock, the stone, which has been submerged all these years, being revealed at the base of one of the old quay walls. It is massive in character and in an excellent state of preservation. The inscription shows that the stone was laid by Mr. Joseph Huddart, F.R.S., and the names of the engineers, John Fennie and Ralph Walker, are added.

The mother immediately made preparations to go.—Ladies' Home Journal.

"So the cars were full, too, were they?" returned his spouse as a start-er.—Boston Transcript.

TRYING TO OUST HUERTA.

Mediators Will Strive For a Joint Government For Mexico.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Elimination of Gen. Huerta and the establishment of a provisional government in Mexico, in which both the Huerta and the Constitutionalist factions would be represented, is contemplated in a plan which the three South American mediators are now working out to be proposed for the solution of the entire Mexican problem.

This, the first intimation as to the details of the mediation plans, became known last night, though neither the mediators nor State Department officials would make any statement as to how nearly complete is the plan to be submitted to the American and the Mexican delegates when they meet the South American envoys at Niagara Falls, Ont., next Monday.

It was learned that the proposal might be that the setting up of a temporary government be undertaken by a commission composed of five persons, two of them to be named by Huerta, two by the Constitutionalists and the fifth by the mediators.

While the mediators have withdrawn their invitation to the Constitutionalists to send delegates to their conference, it is generally believed that information is being sought as to whether the Constitutionalists would consent, in case of the elimination of Huerta, to some form of temporary government in which he would be represented. Those close to the mediators say it is believed that some such arrangement as this is the only possible one under which peace may be restored in Mexico under conditions satisfactory to all Mexican factions and to the United States.

Vice-Consul Released.

MEXICO CITY, May 13.—Acting Foreign Minister Ruiz yesterday telegraphed the South American mediators at Washington that American Vice-Consul Stillman, under arrest at Saltillo, charged with aiding the rebels, had been ordered sent to Mexico City under guard, to be delivered to the Brazilian Minister for return to the United States.

Schooner Is Wrecked.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., May 13.—Peter McNutt & Sons, Malpeque, received word yesterday that their schooner Sir Louis, bound for Halifax to Malpeque, with a cargo of general merchandise, was wrecked off Arichat, C.B.

Captain Landry and a crew of five men were saved.

The vessel struck a rock and sank. The cargo floated ashore. The schooner was valued at $2,000, and the cargo at $5,000. Both were fully insured.

Dr. Christie Dead.

LACHUTE, Que., May 13. — Dr. George H. Christie, son of the late Dr. Thomas Christie, who was assistant surgeon at Point St. Charles, during the ship fever epidemic in 1847-48, died yesterday. He was a Presbyterian and is survived by his mother, wife, two sons, two daughters and several brothers.

Americans Threatened.

PARIS, May 13.—"Death to Americans" was written in Spanish in large black characters across the stone door step of the United States embassy offices in Paris to the course of Monday night. The authorities have posted three policemen on permanent duty in the vicinity.

Explosion Kills Seven.

NORFOLK, Va., May 13.—Seven of the crew were killed in an explosion in the engine room of the Old Dominion ship Jefferson, near Cape Henry Monday night. Several were injured. Mutilation of the bodies, due to the force of the explosion, made identification difficult.

New Type of Steel Car.

TORONTO, May 13—The Canadian Pacific Railway is to adopt a type of steel car that is being especially designed for that railway. The roof of the car has been made in the form of a compromise between the clerestory and the turtle back types.

Historic Discovery.

Mr. W. T. Oldrieve, chief architect of the Government Office of Works in Edinburgh, has announced that he has discovered remains in Edinburgh Castle of the ancient fortress known as King David's Tower, and also the well which supplied the castle and garrison with water. Excavations revealed much of King David's Tower still standing, its wall eight feet thick, and rising to a height of nearly fifty feet above the original rock surface.

Australia's Big Four.

FOR DELICATE CHILDREN

A Mother's Letter to Mothers.

Mrs. E. W. Cooper, of Bloomfield, N. J., says: "My child, seven years old, had a bad cold and was weak and quite run down in health. She had been in this condition for about six weeks when I began giving her Vinol. It was a wonderful help to the child, breaking up her cold quickly and building up her strength beside. I have also found Vinol a most excellent tonic for keeping up the children's strength during a siege of whooping cough."

Vinol is a wonderful combination of two world-famed tonics—the medicinal body building elements of cod liver oil and iron for the blood; therefore it is a perfectly safe medicine for children, because it is not a patent medicine, everything in it is printed on every package, so mothers may know what they are giving their little ones.

Therefore we ask every mother of a weak, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our guarantee. McDermaid & Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte Streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe Streets.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralise any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralising the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

"The Wide and Winding Rhine."

From a guidebook published in Frankfort-on-the-Main the following is taken:

The Rhine, a boundary stone of the German history, is only and solely of its kind. On its banks one meets the vestiges of past civilization, we find there traces of its regeneration and of the modern civilization of which children we are. Various impressions make arise in us so many different sensations, so that a profound enthusiasm gets place in us. On the one hand the works of the hand of art, and on the other the imposing curiosities of nature combine themselves on the banks of the Rhine, crowned by vineyards, to an admirable symphony, in which we are touched all accents shuddering the heart and the powerful accords of the profoundest emotion. Therefore, one cannot be astonished about it, that the Rhine has always given inspirations to many poets to their most celebrated works.

"OLD CHIEF" CELEBRATES.

Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier Forty-Six Years Married To-day.

OTTAWA, May 13. — Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier will celebrate today the forty-sixth anniversary of their marriage. The Liberals of Parliament will present their felicitations to their chief and to his "chief adviser" in the form of forty-six of the most beautiful roses that the Capital can provide.

The married life of the Liberal leader and of his helpmate, through nearly half a century, has been an ideal one. On May 13, 1868, Wilfrid Laurier, then a struggling barrister of Arthabaskaville, married Miss Zoe Lafontaine of Montreal. Sir Wilfrid has since often borne eloquent testimony to the constant help she has ever been to him in every step of his career up to the highest place in the land.

Icicle Fell Through Roof.

Many people narrowly escaped injury recently in Haverhill when a huge icicle fell from the roof of a building and crashed through a skylight into a department store, where a sale was in progress. The icicle landed with such force that it broke all the iron frame of the skylight and drove fragments of iron and glass in-

The Girl and the Artist.

A young woman sat for a crayon portrait and was not entirely pleased with the result.

"It looks like me, of course," she said reluctantly to the artist, "and yet I think there are some things about it that ought to be changed." She suggested that the eyes should have more of an upward look, that the bracelet should be a little more prominent on her left arm and that her gown be arranged more artistica"ly on the side.

"That would require a great deal of retouching," said the artist, "and I should have to charge you at least $15 additional."

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed, somewhat peeved. "I shall have to give it up. Father wouldn't stand my 'retouching' him to that extent."—Lippincott's.

Can We Pull Anything?

Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent English scientist, said in a lecture once that there is no such thing as pulling. To speak of a horse pulling a cart was, he said, incorrect. The horse did not pull the cart. It pushed against its collar and thereby produced motion in the cart. Similarly the oarsman pushed the water, and the man drawing a handcart had to clasp the handle, and the driving force was caused by the part which clasped the handle and was therefore behind it. Even if the cart was fastened to the man's coat tail he did not pull it. He pushed against his clothes.

Not For Her.

"What did you say to him, dad?"

"I asked him if he could support you in the style to which you had been accustomed."

"And he?"

"He said he could."

"If he tries it I'll divorce him."—London Tit-Bits.

THE DREAM CITY.

Australia's New Capital Is Being Literally Built to Order.

In a short time Walter Burley Griffin will return to Australia, and under his direction the work of building the new capital of the Commonwealth will begin. The plans, of course, have been long since decided upon, and Mr. Griffin is now in England completing arrangements for the International Court of Judges, who will pass upon the contracts for the Parliament Buildings. He has been appointed director of design and construction for a period of three years, in which time, it is believed, the new capital can be brought almost, if not quite, to completion. Mr. Griffin won the prize of $8,500 offered for the best set of plans for the new capital, and later on was invited to go to Australia to consult with the Government about certain changes it was desired to make. Very few alterations were made, and only such as were satisfactory to the architect. It was then concluded that he was the proper man to have charge of building the city.

Australia's new capital will be called Canberra. The site is located between Melbourne and Sydney on a mountain plateau, about 2,000 feet above the sea and about 75 miles from Jervis Bay. The plateau is in the form of a triangle, the angles being marked by Black Mountain, Mount Ainslie, and Mugga Mugga, each rising between 2,600 and 2,700 feet. The surrounding country is rugged and picturesque, and covered with snow the year round and rising 6,000 feet above the sea. It is thirty miles from Canberra. The new capital will be in the heart of a Federal district comprising some 960 square miles. The city and its environs will occupy twenty square miles, about one-quarter of this being in the city proper.

Canberra is planned upon the radical or gyratory type, being laid out in a series of circles. The chief centre will be laid out in Government buildings. Another will be the municipal centre, a third will be the mercantile centre. These three will comprise the chief down-town districts. Outlying will be five other circles, three for agriculture, one for suburban residences, and the other for manufacturers. The city will be built for an immediate population of 75,000, and future growth will be housed in accordance with prearranged plans. One feature of Canberra will be the fact that but one railroad line will enter it. The Government of Australia owning and operating its own railw his arrangement will not leave lisens open to any extortion based upon monopoly. All the freight yards, freight depots and railway warehouses will be built outside the city, and probably this will be the first railway in the world that will not injure surrounding property along its right-of-way within the city limits. The line will traverse a boulevarded street a block wide, and will keep to one side of the main traffic avenue. Through the heart of the town it will occupy a depression and appreciating the mercantile district it will enter a subway through which it will reach a magnificent station.

Another feature of the new city that the designer believes will add greatly to its beauty is the series of lakes and basins that will be built by diverting and damming the Monongo river, a stream about the width of a street, that flows through part of the city.

The artificial lakes will almost divide the town, one of them being two miles long and two miles wide. These lakes should have a moderating influence upon the climate of Canberra, which inclines to warmth.

A Cricketing Parson.

One of the cricketing parsons, the Rev. E. S. Carter, has told many stories of his experiences. One of them refers to a match in which he played for the Yorkshire Gentlemen against Mr. A. N. Hornby's eleven. When he came in to bat, Mr. Hornby said to the famous fast bowler Crossland, "Now, Crossland, the gentleman that has come in is a clergyman. Don't use any hard language—you'll shock his feelings." Crossland bowled away quietly while Mr. Carter got 48 or 46, but at last bowled him with a shooter that knocked his wicket to pieces. Restraint was over. "I downed his old pulpit for him that time," Crossland blurted out. Mr. Carter denied that he was the curate who having done well at cricket on a Saturday, startled the congregation on Sunday by remarking, "Here endeth the first innings."

Early Golf Enthusiasts.

No little interest has been created by the picture which the Hon. Mrs. Ronald Greville has lent to an exhibition of paintings now being held in Bond street, London. It was painted in 1660, and shows a boy and girl each carrying a golf club. It is said to be the earliest pictorial representation of the royal and ancient game in existence, and the problem which a number of well-known golfers, who were in the room when I called to see the picture, were discussing was whether the clubs were mashies, cleeks, or niblicks. The general opinion seemed to be that they were a cross between the three.

Bengalis Against Delhi.

Opposition is growing in volume in Bengal to the Delhi capital scheme. The Indians are now uniting with the European opinion on the ground that the Government has refused to keep its pledge to grant provincial autonomy, the necessity for which was given as the reason for the change of capital. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce has passed a strongly-worded resolution condemning the excessive outlay of public funds in Delhi. Mr. Sborrock and the Hon. Mr. McLeod, both leading merchants, said that there was absolutely nothing to excuse this wanton extravagance.

Evidence is accumulating to show that prisons are not so pleasant as home life.

How Tolstoy Made His Will.

How Tolstoy made his will is told in the annual of the Tolstoy society by Alexej Sergejenc, who was one of the witnesses. On July 22, 1910, he was summoned by a lawyer, who said that Tolstoy wanted to make his will without an hour's delay. They rode away at once to the meeting place, a mile from Tolstoy's home. He met them and led the way into a dense forest. "In the thickest part of all," the narrative continues, "we stopped at a big stump of a tree. Tolstoy sat down on the stump, took a fountain pen from his pocket and asked for a sheet of paper. With feet cramped he began to make the rough sketch of his will." It was completed, signed and witnessed then and there, and then "he rose, and going to his horse said to me, 'How ghastly all this legal business is!' With an activity remarkable in a man of eighty-two, he swung himself into the saddle and vanished quickly in the dark greenery of the undergrowth."

A Social Necessity.

"Why is your daughter taking lessons on the violin? Has she shown a special aptitude for the violin?"

"No, but every girl has to take lessons on something, doesn't she?"

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1914

LEADING CITIZENS ARE ENDORSING NEW PLAN

The Details of the Scheme However Are Being Kept Quiet and Will Not Be Announced Until the Dinner Friday Night.

A SPLENDID PROPOSAL

The announcement in last night's paper that a committee has been at work for several months completing a big plan for properly advertising the splendid natural advantages of Peterborough and increasing the pride of our citizens in our City, has attracted considerable attention. Many citizens are wondering what the details of the plan are. The committee, however, desires that these shall be kept quiet until next Friday evening, when they will be made public at the citizens' banquet to be held in the Oriental Hotel, starting at half-past six. City Engineer Parsons has volunteered to prepare a large map of the City, by means of which it will be possible to show more clearly the details of the project and how it affects all the wards of the City.

A well arranged toast list has been completed. It will be carried off with a snap as the speeches will be limited. Speakers will show just what can be and will be done by the Government, City Council, Board of Trade, Board of Education, Public Utilities Commission, Ad. Club, Retail Merchants and other civic organizations to make the movement a success.

Those who have had the privilege of seeing the plans are enthusiastic concerning them. Mayor Buller has promised his hearty cooperation and support. City Clerk Armstrong, who has had more experience, and done more, than any other man in Peterborough to bring industries to the City, believes the movement is going to be a fine thing for Peterborough. Speaking about it he said, "A somewhat similar proposal was discussed some seven years ago and heartily approved at that time, but the matter was allowed to drop. Had we only gone ahead with it the City would have been much better prepared than it is to greet the Duke of Connaught. It is a big scheme and it is going to take years to work it out, but there is no reason why the citizens of Peterborough can't do it."

Alderman Anderson, chairman of the Civic Finance Committee, is another who is pleased. "Members of the committee," said Mr. Anderson, "outlined the plans to me a couple of months ago. The plans were so comprehensive, and promised to accomplish so much good, the Finance Committee, in spite of our shortage of funds, felt perfectly justified in giving the Horticultural Society a larger grant this year than usual to help them carry their proposal through. When the citizens see the plans I feel that we were wise in doing as we did."

Ex-Mayor Rush said: "This movement is going to be a fine thing for the City. I am delighted with it. The committee has showed me two ways in which I can help, and it has given me pleasure to agree to do my part by doing both. I feel sure that the rest of our citizens will help out also."

Alderman Duffus is another who is pleased. "When I was called on and showed what is proposed I saw at once that it was going to be a good thing for the City, and gladly agreed to do what I was asked to do to help it out. Every person can help this project through, and we should all give it a hand."

Tickets for the banquet are being handled by the officers of the Board of Trade, Horticultural Society and Ad. Club. As only a limited number can be disposed of, owing to lack of seating capacity in the dining hall, citizens who intend to attend should make applications for tickets without delay.

THE PEACE MEDIATORS AT THE TABLES

Examiner Special.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 13. — Manager George R. Major, of the Clifton Hotel, this morning, received a telegram from Washington, D. C., announcing that the A. B. C. peace mediators would reach here on Saturday and that the representatives of Mexico would arrive in this City Sunday morning. Great preparations have been made at the hotel for the handling of press services. Fifty-one special G. N. W. and C. P. R. wires have been installed.

BRAUND STORES ARE LEASED

Plans Changed to Provide for Only Two Stores Each With 45 Feet Frontage

WORK ADVANCING

The plans of the new Braund block have been changed to provide for only two stores instead of the six originally intended. Mr. Chas. Banks has taken a ten year lease of one of the stores, and Mr. F. C. Weber has the other for the same period.

Each of these stores has a frontage of 45 feet, which will provide an imposing appearance surpassed only by several of the larger business places on George Street. The first plans called for three stores on each side of the central twenty feet retained by the Rink Company. By the present arrangement two spacious stores are obtained.

Ice Cream Parlour.

Mr. Weber, who is at present located at the corner of King and Bethune Streets, will move his drug business to the Braund store he has leased. Part of the premises will be devoted to an ice cream parlour which, when completed, will be one of the finest between Toronto and Montreal. There will be room for twenty-five tables and the soda fountain will be a beautiful one. The wood work will be of Circassian walnut and alone will cost $4,500. The Weber store will be handsomely furnished and will be occupied as soon as the building is finished.

People Who Are In Need Of Help

City Relief Officer Miller called at The Examiner this morning and stated that there were a number of families in the city, and particularly the one referred to in last evening's issue, who were in need of help at the present time. Often people had good clothing lying around the house unused, which might be sent to the Relief Officer, who would give them out to persons he deemed needed them. Mr. Miller will also be glad to receive money donations from anyone disposed to give.

OUTBURSTS OF ENTHUSIASM

When Commander Evans Tells His Simple Story of Antarctic Expedition—Hear Him at Conservatory To-night

The frenzied outbursts of enthusiasm in Paris cabled to America on January 27th, when Commander Evans told his simple story of the British Antarctic expedition that sent Captain Scott and his fellows to their death, have been duplicated in many other places since and should be the rule here when the Commander recites the tale in the Conservatory of Music Hall to-night, at 8 o'clock. On that occasion, January 27th, the French Geographical Society welcomed Commander Evans at the Sorbonne, President Poincare was present, in the audience of 5,000—2,000 other persons having been unable to get inside the ampitheatre. At the conclusion of his story, as simple as it was pathetic, Commander Evans was presented with the cross of the Legion of Honour, which was pinned upon his breast by President Poincare, who said: "It is an honour to shake hands with so brave a man. In pinning this cross upon your breast, I and the French Government are but echoing the wish of every French heart, however humble."

OLD ENOUGH TO VOTE

Man Aged 105 Years Put on Manitoba Voters' List

ROLAND, Man., May 12. —A man who has already lived for five years beyond the century mark visited Roland yesterday and had his name placed on the voters' list. His name is James Wilson, a resident of the Myrtle district. He was born in Ireland, and came to Canada thirty-five years ago, settling in the east. Five years ago at the age of one hundred he moved to his present place of residence. Mr. Wilson is still very strong and hearty. He rode for the first time in a motor car when he was brought up to register his name yesterday.

NO EXCURSIONS FOR BALL GAMES

Board of Trade Unable to Secure Special Rates From Either Railway Company in Spite of Energetic Effort.

LAST NIGHTS MEETING

The Council Chamber was well filled last evening at the meeting of the Board of Trade, and several matters of more or less importance were discussed and decided by those present. President Hall was in the chair and in the absence of Acting Secretary E. Allison, Treasurer Jas. Hamilton attended to the duties of Secretary. Mr. Hall informed the Board that the committee looking into the matter of getting Sunday School excursions to come to Peterborough had got prices from the local printing offices on pamphlets that would be sent to the Sunday Schools and other organizations that would likely come to this city on their annual excursion.

On the motion of Messrs. Cameron and Ackerman it was decided that the Board order some suitable pamphlets for this purpose, the number issued to be left with the Council.

The Toronto Convention.

The matter of advertising the city at the convention of the Associated Ad. Clubs of America to be held in Toronto next month came in for considerable discussion. Mr. G. O. Cameron said that the convention was a very important one. He had received a communication from the authorities of the convention saying that one building was being set aside for ads. and that a space would be reserved for the local men in that building. The Board had secured $50 from the City Council. They proposed to add a like amount and to augment the sum available by contributions from the local manufacturers. The project was shaping up to become a decided success.

The president thought it would be well to secure a number of the souvenir books of this city that have been got out by the Salvation Army. These could be distributed among the advertising men present. They could be secured at less expense than would be involved in getting out an other book.

It was here suggested to get out a souvenir book and charge the local manufacturers for write-ups in the book. Mr. Worth here expressed his opinion that the books referred to by the President were the most suitable under the circumstances.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, who attended the last two conventions of the Associated Ad. Clubs here suggested that the manufacturers of Peterborough be asked to get outp rize packages. The B. F. Ackerman Company could get out miniature trunks or suit cases; the Quaker Oats Company small packages of Quaker Oats, and the Canadian Chicle Co., small packages of gum, etc. These could be distributed with literature that would advertise the city and the manufacturers in a novel way.

It was moved by Mr. Cameron and seconded by Mr. John, that the matter be referred to the manufacturers' committee with power to act.—Carried.

New C. P. R. Train.

President Hall announced to the Board that the C.P.R. proposed to run a train, as in former schedules, between here and Bobcaygeon. The local agent had informed him that it would add to the certainty of the establishment of the service this summer if the Board of Trade endorsed the proposition and urged the company to run a summer service between Peterborough and Caygeon. After some discussion the following resolution was passed:

That this Board of Trade of the City of Peterborough urge upon the C.P.R. the advisability, in the interests of the railway and of this city, of having a train on the Port McNichol line or from Bobcaygeon to Peterborough, in the morning and returning in the evening. Such a service would accommodate a large number of people who desire to come to Peterborough to the excellent market here and to trade and would benefit the railway through increased traffic and also the city. And that the President and Vice-President be authorized to take any further steps that seem advisable to press this matter upon the attention of the railway authorities.

No Baseball Excursions.

Mr. W. H. Munro reported for the committee whose efforts had been expended in trying to get the railways to run excursions to Peterborough on days when the local Canadian League team was playing. Mr. Munro said that after considerable effort to secure their aim they were forced to report that the railways were not agreeable to running the excursions. It had been said that the Railway Board were against the proposal. The committee had got in touch with the Provincial Board who referred them to the Dominion Railway Board. They answered that they were not opposed to the excursions as proposed by the Board of Trade. The committee then waited upon the local authorities who took the matter up with the district agency, and finally the committee had received a definite statement that the railways were not in a position to arrange the excursions, or allow cheap rates on the days in question. One of the reasons offered by the Railway Company was that if they did as requested in the matter for Peterborough, they must do so for other cities with teams in the Canadian League.

On the motion of Messrs. J. John and S. R. Armstrong, a large number of men were voted into the Board and became duly constituted members.

ONE YEAR IN THE MERCER

Young Girl Sentenced by Magistrate Dumble To-day--Youthful Burglars in Court

BICYCLIST IS FINED

Another victim to the wary eyes of the cycling squad of the local Police Department appeared in Court this morning before Police Magistrate Dumble, charged with a contravention of By-law No. 761 of the City, which is one to prohibit the riding of bicyles on sidewalks. Harry French, the defendant, pleaded guilty to the charge, and was assessed $2, to be paid within ten days, and, in default of payment, ten days in jail.

Two young lads were hauled before His Worship this morning, charged with burglarizing Manicee's store in East City, and extracting therefrom, one gun metal watch, valued at $4.50, and three boxes of chocolates, valued at $1.50. The lads admitted their guilt, and elected to be tried summarily. Sentence, however, was deferred for one week, to permit of the lads' parents being brought to Court. The goods have not been recovered. The chocolates were eaten, and, accordin to the story of the elder lad, the watch was lost on a lot when a retreat was being made from the scene of the escapade. The lads promised to appear in Court a week from to-day, and were allowed to go on that understanding.

The young girl who was remanded on Monday after having pleaded guilty to a charge of common prostitution, was brought before the Magistrate again this morning, in charge of the Police Matron, when sentence was delivered. Prisoner will spend the next year in Mercer Reformatory, according to the judgment delivered by the Court. In imposing that sentence, the Court addressed her thus: "You seem to have no moral strength. You have sense enough to know what is right, and what is wrong. You have not obeyed your father. You are not trustworthy, and I think the wisest thing we can do is to put you away for a year, where you will not be tempted, and where you will be safe, as far as clean influences and good surroundings will admit. When you come out, you will be one year older, and I hope, one year wiser. I am going to send you to the Mercer Reformatory, and I hope they will create in you there, a womanhood, and cleanness of life. I have to rely on my own experience and judgment in imposing this sentence, and this I think and trust will be best for you."

The girl's father was in attendance, and claimed that the girl should not be sent away, stating that the bad influence of the boys with which she associated were responsible for her downfall.

DOCTORS MAKE HIM A NEW FACE

Whitby Man Who Was Mangled by Circular Saw Soon Able to Leave Baltimore Hospital | An Unusual Operation.

NEW NOSE AND LIPS

BALTIMORE, May 12.—Ross Allen, Whitby, Canada, the man with the new face, will be discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital before the end of the month if he continues to improve.

The final touch was given to the new face last week, and all that now remains is a shaping up of the nose.

Allen spoke with pride yesterday of the work of the hospital surgeons and took interest in the accomplishment of the wonderful work. He was practically faceless when he came to Baltimore six months ago. His nose was gone and the lips were missing.

Three years ago he was thrown against a large circular saw at a log mill. An instant later he had been caught by the revolving teeth and flung to the saw table, a badly mutilated man.

Allen's vitality pulled him through and the scars gradually healed. His facial disfigurement resulted in his coming to St. Joseph's. There by a skillful splicing new lips and mouth were formed for him. The corners of the mouth had to be slit nearly half an inch to allow the ends of the lips to be drawn together for the stitching.

When this phase of his face renewal had been completed a triangular piece of cartilage was cut from his breast and grafted to the forehead bone. The forehead skin had been slit to allow the "flange" of the cartilage section to be inserted. When the cartilage had knit successfully to the forehead the cartilage was "pressed home" over the facial structure.

This also knit, leaving only the nose to be covered with skin. This covering proved also a wonderful step. The forehead skin was cut in the shape of a shank with a bowl at the end, and, with the shank cohering to the forehead, the piece was turned around down over the new nose structure.

GOVERNMENT IS AFTER ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY

The report that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission is negotiating to take over the whole of the Electric Power Company's property and business has been vigourously denied in power circles of late, but speaking to the Board of Trade last night, Mr. E. A. Peck said definitely that the Hydro Commission were making an effort to secure the powers and plants of the said company. The Electric Power Company is more popularly known as the Seymour Power Company, and controls in Peterborough alone the Peterborough Light and Power Co., the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and the Otonabee Light and Power Company. As well as these local concerns, the company in question controls the power all through Eastern Ontario, particularly along the Trent Valley Canal system. The assurance that the Government are attempting to buy out this great organization will come as a surprise to the citizens of Peterborough, as statements made lately by men who should know, would lead to exactly the opposite conclusion.

ANTI-TIPPING BILL MAY PASS

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, May 13. — Senator Tom Davis' anti-tipping bill comes up for the third reading in the Senate to-day, and it is expected it will be sent to the Commons, in the Lower House. The feeling appears overwhelmingly in favour of the bill, but there may be some question by the Minister of Justice as to the legality of the matter, and the power of enforcement should it become law. Several members of parliament have expressed the opinion that the penalty provided should be severe, so that the tipping evil in Canada may be stamped out forthwith.

C. P. R. POLES TO BE REMOVED

Tall Masts Just North of Charlotte St. on West Side Will Be Eliminated

STREET SLOWLY CLEARED

The removal of poles from George street will be one of the designs of the present Council this year, and the work already completed in this direction has greatly improved the appearance of the street north of the C.P.R. The west side is well thinned, but the C.P.R. telegraph poles on the east side are decidedly prominent. The Telegraph Company and Peterborough Light and Power Company both claim these poles, but the Council expects to be in a position of authority over them in the near future.

There are three tall C.P.R. cable poles on the west side of George street immediately north of Charlotte street. Arrangements have been made with the company for their removal and one of the company's superintendents is expected in the city soon to supervise the work.

Hospital Ship Arrives At New York

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 13. The hospital ship "Solace," with two men dead from wounds at Vera Cruz and sixty wounded aboard, and eighty sick with fever and other complaints, arrived off quarantine late to-day, but cannot land until the heavy fog lifts. Special hospitals have been prepared in Brooklyn navy yards for them. Hundreds of relatives are here waiting their arrival.

CITY CAN HAVE SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT ERECTED

It would seem that Peterborough has been materially assisted in solving her problems by laws other than her Private Bill that have been passed by the Legislature during the last session. Ever since the township to the south threatened to issue an injunction to prevent the city having the sewer empty into the Otonabee as at present, efforts have been made and plans considered to devise a means of sewage disposal. A sewage disposal plant was thought of to be situated just outside the city. But the township objected to this and the scheme was held up for some time. Now, however, a new measure provides that if the claim of the city is sanctioned by the Provincial Board of Health(they can locate their sewage disposal plant in any neighbouring township they wish, and extend the sewage system through part of any neighbouring township if it is necessary. And this can be accomplished without arbitration, which under the old law, was necessary and which caused expense, delay and friction. Plans for a sewage disposal plant to be situated in Otonabee are now being drafted by the City Engineer.

The present method of emptying the sewage into the river is against the Provincial Law, and was secured some years ago by arbitration to allow the city to extend the sewers through the township to the south. At that time, however, permission was given that would allow the city to do so for only five years after the arbitration. That was 15 or 20 years ago, so that it would seem that the city has been exceeding the provisions of the arbitration for some years.

N. C. Cameron On Bread By-Law

In conversation with Mr. N. C. Cameron, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, regarding the new Bread By-law, Mr. Cameron says that he believes that the medical health officers have not the right to compel the local bakers to wrap their bread. After having looked over the Ontario Statutes he said: "I cannot find one clause giving them that power, and I have asked Dr. MacPherson, the M.H.O., to point it out to me, but he has not done so, and I do not believe that he can."

With regard to whitewashing, and the other regulations, they have the power, by reason of the statutes, but cannot enforce the wrapping, is Mr. Cameron's opinion.

APPEAL WILL BE HEARD ON JUNE 5TH

The appeal against the imposition by Magistrate Dumble of a fine of $100 on Raymond Sullivan, who was alleged to have kept a common gaming house, will be heard before His Honour Judge Huycke, on June 5th. Messrs. Gordon and Widdifield are acting for Sullivan.

If this appeal is allowed it will affect the fines imposed on Parkinson, Parsons and Donoghue, who were each assessed $50 for being in an alleged gaming house. The case has been watched with considerable interest by a large number of local young men.

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 13 — Relatives and police are scouring the city and surrounding district for traces of Violet and Victor Smith, aged ten and seven years, who left home for school Monday morning and have not been seen nor heard of since. The mother whose husband died just recently, is distracted with grief. Once before a strange man tried to entice the little girl away from home. LEADING CITIZENS ARE ENDORSING NEW PLAN

The Details of the Scheme However Are Being Kept Quiet and Will Not Be Announced Until the Dinner Friday Night.

A SPLENDID PROPOSAL

The announcement in last night's paper that a committee has been at work for several months completing a big plan for properly advertising the splendid natural advantages of Peterborough and increasing the pride of our citizens in our City, has attracted considerable attention. Many citizens are wondering what the details of the plan are. The committee, however, desires that these shall be kept quiet until next Friday evening, when they will be made public at the citizens' banquet to be held in the Oriental Hotel, starting at half-past six. City Engineer Parsons has volunteered to prepare a large map of the City, by means of which it will be possible to show more clearly the details of the project and how it affects all the wards of the City.

A well arranged toast list has been completed. It will be carried off with a snap as the speeches will be limited. Speakers will show just what can be and will be done by the Government, City Council, Board of Trade, Board of Education, Public Utilities Commission, Ad. Club, Retail Merchants and other civic organisations to make the movement a success.

Those who have had the privilege of seeing the plans are enthusiastic concerning them. Mayor Buller has promised his hearty cooperation and support. City Clerk Armstrong, who has had more experience, and done more, than any other man in Peterborough to bring industries to the City, believes the movement is going to be a fine thing for Peterborough. Speaking about it he said. "A somewhat similar proposal was discussed some seven years ago and heartily approved at that time, but the matter was allowed to drop. Had we only gone ahead with it the City would have been much better prepared than it is to greet the Duke of Connaught. It is a big scheme and it is going to take years to work it out, but there is no reason why the citizens of Peterborough can't do it."

Alderman Anderson, chairman of the Civic Finance Committee, is another who is pleased. "Members of the committee," said Mr. Anderson, "outlined the plans to me a couple of months ago. The plans were so comprehensive, and promised to accomplish so much good, the Finance Committee, in spite of our shortage of funds, felt perfectly justified in giving the Horticultural Society a larger grant this year than usual to help them carry their proposal through. When the citizens see the plans I feel that we were wise in doing as we did."

Ex-Mayor Rush said: "This movement is going to be a fine thing for the City. I am delighted with it. The committee has showed me two ways in which I can help, and it has given me pleasure to agree to do my part by doing both. I feel sure that the rest of our citizens will help out also."

Alderman Duffus is another who is pleased. "When I was called on and showed what is proposed I saw at once that it was going to be a good thing for the City, and gladly agreed to do what I was asked to do to help it out. Every person can help this project through, and we should all give it a hand."

Tickets for the banquet are being handled by the officers of the Board of Trade, Horticultural Society and Ad. Club. As only a limited number can be disposed of, owing to lack of seating capacity in the dining hall, citizens who intend to attend should make applications for tickets without delay.

THE PEACE MEDIATORS AT THE TABLES

Examiner Special.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 13. — Manager George R. Major, of the Clifton Hotel, this morning, received a telegram from Washington, D. C., announcing that the A. B. Great preparations have been made at the hotel for the handling of press services. Fifty-one special G. N. W. and C. P. R. wires have been installed.

BRAUND STORES ARE LEASED

Plans Changed to Provide for Only Two Stores Each With 45 Feet Frontage

WORK ADVANCING

The plans of the new Braund block have been changed to provide for only two stores instead of the six originally intended. Mr. Chas. Banks has taken a ten year lease of one of the stores, and Mr. F. C. Weber has the other for the same period.

Each of these stores has a frontage of 45 feet, which will provide an imposing appearance surpassed only by several of the larger business places on George Street. The first plans called for three stores on each side of the central twenty feet retained by the Rink Company. By the present arrangement two spacious stores are obtained.

Ice Cream Parlour.

Mr. Weber, who is at present located at the corner of King and Bethune Streets, will move his drug business to the Braund store he has leased. Part of the premises will be devoted to an ice cream parlour which, when completed, will be one of the finest between Toronto and Montreal. There will be room for twenty-five tables and the soda fountain will be a beautiful one. The wood work will be of Circassian walnut and alone will cost $4,500. The Weber store will be handsomely furnished and will be occupied as soon as the building is finished.

People Who Are In Need Of Help

City Relief Officer Miller called at The Examiner this morning and stated that there were a number of families in the city, and particularly the one referred to in last evening's issue, who were in need of help at the present time. Often people had good clothing lying around the house unused, which might be sent to the Relief Officer, who would give them out to persons he deemed needed them. Mr. Miller will also be glad to receive money donations from anyone disposed to give.

OUTBURSTS OF ENTHUSIASM

When Commander Evans Tells His Simple Story of Antarctic Expedition—Hear Him at Conservatory To-night

The frenzied outbursts of enthusiasm in Paris cabled to America on January 27th, when Commander Evans told his simple story of the British Antarctic expedition that sent Captain Scott and his fellows to their death, have been duplicated in many other places since and should be the rule here when the Commander recites the tale in the Conservatory of Music Hall to-night, at 8 o'clock. On that occasion, January 27th, the French Geographical Society welcomed Commander Evans at the Sorbonne, President Poincare was present, in the audience of 5,000—2,000 other persons having been unable to get inside the amphitheatre. At the conclusion of his story, as simple as it was pathetic, Commander Evans was presented with the Cross of the Legion of Honour, which was pinned upon his breast by President Poincare, who said: "It is an honour to shake hands with so brave a man. In pinning this cross upon your breast, I and the French Government are but echoing the wish of every French heart, however humble."

Man Aged 105 Years Put on Manitoba Voters' List

ROLAND, Man., May 12. —A man who has already lived far five years beyond the century mark visited Roland yesterday and had his name placed on the voters' list. His name is James Wilson, a resident of the Myrtle district. He was born in Ireland, and came to Canada thirty-five years ago, settling in the east. Five years ago at the age of one hundred he moved to his present place of residence. Mr. Wilson is still very strong and hearty. He rode for the first time in a motor car when he was brought up to register his name yesterday.

NO EXCURSIONS FOR BALL GAMES

Board of Trade Unable to Secure Special Rates From Either Railway Company in Spite of Energetic Effort.

LAST NIGHTS MEETING

The Council Chamber was well filled last evening at the meeting of the Board of Trade, and several matters of more or less importance were discussed and decided by those present. President Hall was in the chair and in the absence of Acting Secretary E. Allison, Treasurer Jas. Hamilton attended to the duties of Secretary. Mr. Hall informed the Board that the committee looking into the matter of getting Sunday School excursions to come to Peterborough had got prices from the local printing offices on pamphlets that would be sent to the Sunday Schools and other organizations that would likely come to this city on their annual excursion.

On the motion of Messrs. Cameron and Ackerman it was desided that the Board order some suitable pamphlets for this purpose, the number issued to be left with the Council.

The Toronto Convention.

The matter of advertising the city at the convention of the Associated Ad. Clubs of America to be held in Toronto next month came in for considerable discussion. Mr. G. O. Cameron said that the convention was a very important one. He had received a communication from the authorities of the convention saying that one building was being set aside for ads. and that a space would be reserved for the local men in that building. The Board had secured $50 from the City Council. They proposed to add a like amount and to augment the sum available by contributions from the local manufacturers. The project was shaping up to become a decided success.

The president thought it would be well to secure a number of the souvenir books of this city that have been got out by the Salvation Army. These could be distributed among the advertising men present. They could be secured at less expense than would be involved in getting out another book.

It was here suggested to get out a souvenir book and charge the local manufacturers for write-ups in the book. Mr. Worth here expressed his opinion that the books referred to by the President were the most suitable under the circumstances.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, who attended the last two conventions of the Associated Ad. Clubs here suggested that the manufacturers of Peterborough be asked to get outp rize packages. The B. F. Ackerman Company could get out miniature trunks or suit cases; the Quaker Oats Company small packages of Quaker Oats, and the Canadian Chicle Co., small packages of gum, etc. These could be distributed with literature that would advertise the city and the manufactures in a novel way.

It was moved by Mr. Cameron and seconded by Mr. John, that the matter be referred to the manufacturers' committee with power to act.—Carried.

New C. P. R. Train.

President Hall announced to the Board that the C.P.R. proposed to run a train, as in former schedules, between here and Bobcaygeon. The local agent had informed him that it would add to the certainty of the establishment of the service this summer if the Board of Trade endorsed the proposition and urged the company to run a summer service between Peterborough and Caygeon. After some discussion the following resolution was passed:

That this Board of Trade of the City of Peterborough urge upon the C.P.R. the advisability, in the interests of the railway and of this city, of having a train on the Port McNichol line or from Bobcaygeon to Peterborough, in the morning and returning in the evening. Such a service would accommodate a large number of people who desire to come to Peterborough to the excellent market here and to trade and would benefit the railway through increased traffic and also the city. And that the President and Vice-President be authorized to take any further steps that seem advisable to press this matter upon the attention of the railway authorities.

No Baseball Excursions.

Mr. W. H. Munro reported for the committee whose efforts had been expended in trying to get the railways to run excursions to Peterborough on days when the local Canadian League team was playing. Mr. Munro said that after considerable effort to secure their aim they were forced to report that the railways were not agreeable to running the excursions. It had been said that the Railway Board were against the proposal. The committee had got in touch with the Provincial Board who referred them to the Dominion Railway Board. They answered that they were not opposed to the excursions as proposed by the Board of Trade. The committee then waited upon the local authorities who took the matter up with the district agency, and finally the committee had received a definite statement that the railways were not in a position to arrange the exenrsions, or allow cheap rates on the days in question. One of the reasons offered by the Railway Company was that if they did as requested in the matter for Peterborough, they must do so for other cities with teams in the Canadian League.

On the motion of Messrs J. John and S. R.Armstrong, a large number of men were voted into the Board and became duly constituted members.

Young Girl Sentenced by Magistrate Dumble To-day.. Youthful Burglars in Court

BICYCLIST IS FINED

Another victim to the wary eyes of the cycling squad of the local Police Department appeared in Court this morning before Police Magistrate Dumble, charged with a contravention of By-law No. 761 of the City, which is one to prohibit the riding of bicycles on sidewalks. Harry French, the defendant, pleaded guilty to the charge, and was assessed $2, to be paid within ten days, and, in default of payment, ten days in jail.

Two young lads were hauled before His Worship this morning, charged with burglarising Manieee's store in East City, and extracting therefrom, one gun metal watch, valued at $4.50, and three boxes of chocolates, valued at $1.50. The lads admitted their guilt, and elected to be tried summarily. Sentence, however, was deferred for one week, to permit of the lads' parents being brought to Court. The goods have not been recovered. The chocolates were eaten, and, accordin to the story of the elder lad, the watch was lost on a lot when a retreat was being made from the scene of the escapade. The lads promised to appear in Court a week from to-day, and were allowed to go on that understanding.

The young girl who was remanded on Monday after having pleaded guilty to a charge of common prostitution, was brought before the Magistrate again this morning, in charge of the Police Matron, when sentence was delivered. Prisoner will spend the next year in Mercer Reformatory, according to the judgment delivered by the Court. In imposing that sentence, the Court addressed her thus: "You seem to have no moral strength. You have sense enough to know what is right, and what is wrong. You have not obeyed your father. In conversation with Mr. N. C. Cameron, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, regarding the new Bread By-law, Mr. Cameron says that he believes that the medical health officers have not the right to compel the local bakers to wrap their bread. After having looked over the Ontario Statutes he said: "I cannot find one clause giving them that power, and I have asked Dr. MacPherson, the M.H.O., to point it out to me, but he has not done so, and I do not believe that he can."

With regard to whitewashing, and the other regulations, they have the power, by reason of the statutes, but cannot enforce the wrapping, is Mr. Cameron's opinion.

APPEAL WILL BE HEARD ON JUNE 5TH

The appeal against the imposition by Magistrate Dumble of a fine of $100 on Raymond Sullivan, who was alleged to have kept a common gaming house, will be heard before His Honour Judge Huycke, on June 5th.

Messrs. Gordon and Widdifield are acting for Sullivan.

If this appeal is allowed it will affect the fines imposed on Parkinson, Parsons and Donaghue, who were each assessed $50 for being in an alleged gaming house. The case has been watched with considerable interest by a large number of local young men.

Brantford Children Disappear

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 13. — Relatives and police are scouring the city and surrounding district for traces of Violet and Victor Smith, aged ten and seven years, who left home for school Monday morning and have not been seen nor heard of since. The mother whose husband died just recently, is distracted with grief. Once before a strange man tried to entice the little girl away from home. She fears the children have been kidnapped or have fallen into the river and been drowned.

Tampico May Fall To The Rebels

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 13.— Admiral Mayo, commanding the United States fleet at Tampico, wireleased that in all probability the town would fall into the hands of the rebels to-day, as the Federals appeared to be weakening. There has been continuous fighting there for days and the casualties are heavy on both sides.

OVERCOMING THE HIGH COST.

We all feel the pinch of the high cost of living, and some of us the ill effects of the cost of high living. But there is, it seems, a way of management that will give nourishing meals at a moderate price. It is not known whether the enterprise is a profit or not, but the King's Daughters of Toronto have devised a royal way of serving a democratic luncheon — for working girls—at the low price of eleven cents. A restaurant has been established in which business girls, that is girls employed in business houses and other similar occupations, can get a wholesome, appetizing luncheon, and enjoy a noonhour rest for the absurdly low price of eleven cents. That is the price of a cup of tea or coffee, cold ham, two slices of bread and butter and a segment of pie. Householders may not see how it can be done; but if the secret were revealed and installed in the households of Peterborough, there would not be such an agonizing and in many cases such an unsuccessful struggle to make the monthly income comfortably meet the cost of the monthly bill of fare. Good management is the secret of good housekeeping, and though good management won't affect directly the market prices of food, it will make a dollar go further than it goes under slip-shod purchase and wasteful preparation of food. With a handful of peas or beans and a shin bone of beef, a French housewife will erect a banquet, that is a satisfying and nourishing meal. If we could eliminate the waste—in unwise purchasing of foods, and in unwise use of them—the high cost of living would cease to be so great a bugbear.

GETTING NEARER.

We are getting nearer the right idea in the matter of beautifying Peterborough, in making it a more delightful place of residence, a place that will attract population; nearer to the right idea of doing anything effective in this or other directions—cooperation. Yesterday the Examiner printed an outline of a proposal for city beautification. Apart from the abstract merits of the proposal its chief value arises from the different local agencies and organizations, whose interest and cooperation it enlists. Every city interest, purely civic, commercial, industrial, social and educational, is equally concerned as to the outcome in making the city beautiful; beautiful in buildings, streets, public places and home surroundings. Perhaps the single interest that is most concerned is the educational, because the development and application of the aesthetic spirit in our youth is the most desirable complement, and should be the result of, the literary education given in our schools. We may turn out pupils with textual knowledge, but we want to turn them out as public spirited citizens, with an eye to the beautiful, the orderly, the ornamental. The merits of the comprehensive plan prepared by the committee of the Horticultural Society has received the approval of the Board of Trade, the Ad. Club, the City Council and the Board of Education. The academic interest thus represented is not all, a good way to translate their endorsation into effective cooperation is the chief problem. And the way proposed to enlarge the area of interest and cooperation, a "citizens' banquet" at the Oriental Hotel on Friday evening next, is a good one. It is hoped that this will be more than something to eat; that it will be a symposium in which practical ideas and suggestions will be exchanged and made, and in which the spirit of cooperation will be warmed to the white heat point. When one begins to think, the immense possibilities of Peterborough for beautification and improvement do not appeal with their full force. Let us get together, talk together, as preliminary to the all-important thing, working together.

WHAT COUNTS.

Considerable attention is being given to the matter of the desirability of having members of the Royal family of Great Briton become Governors-General of the Dominion. It is feared by some that the tendency will be to impair the democratic spirit of Canadians, and set up pinchbeck standards of social life and social spirit. The presence of a member of the Royal family may beget an excess of flunkeyism, but that will chiefly affect a class that is pre-ordained to this form of foolishness—if it is not manifested in one way it will be done in another. The most odious form of snobbery is that founded upon exaggerated democracy. But sensible persons, comprising the bulk of our population, will hardly be carried away from the cult and practice of democratic simplicity by royal example. The present Governor-General of Canada, the son of a revered queen, is a model of gracious and kindly bonhommie, cultured affability and dignified familiarity of manner. A genuine gentleman will be a gentleman if he is a royal duke, and will constitute a wholesome example. Excess in all things is harmful; and excess of application of the democratic idea is one of the most deplorable manifestations. The demagogue democracy that claims that one man is as good as another, is misleading and mischievous. Under the law all men and women are equal in the matter of civil rights. But beyond that the theory will not hold. The line of differentiation becomes sharply marked. In social spirit, in human qualities, in inherited character, in intellect, culture, education, etc., one man is as good as another only if he is as good. Otherwise he is not as good. And such distinctions of character or gift or quality are bound to have their outward expression. What Canadians are most concerned in in regard to democracy, is the application of its true spirit—is the right of self-government, the right of the majority to be supreme in the realm of self-government; and whetheer we have as a gubernatorial figure head, as a living symbol of constituted power, a royal governor-general or a native Canadian selected from the ranks of the people, is a matter of little concern. But to be logical the occupant of a largely ornamental office should be as ornamental as possible. There is truth worth cherishing in the Scripture — "the life is more than meat, and the body more than raiment." The true spirit of democracy is what counts.

WHO MADE THE INCREASE?

Mr. Joseph Mantell, Toronto's oldest citizen, who has just celebrated his hundredth and fourth birthday, says he was once offered the block of land on which Eaton's store stands, for $30. The growth of Toronto has made that land worth millions. Why should we continue to tax buildings as heavily as land values which are created by the community and provide a natural public revenue?—Globe.

THOSE MAIL-BAG LOCKS.

The Government has broken the famous contract for 100,000 locks placed by the Hon. Mr. Pelletier, and has decided to get another style of lock, "to be supplied at a reduced price as ordered." Government organs claim that this effectually disposes of the Hon. Mr. Lemieux's innuendoes. Perhaps it does, but it looks painfully like a climb down.—Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

TEACH CHILD SOCIAL SERVICE.

The problem which will confront the children of Ontario when they go into the world will be how to earn a living, and how to live in right relations with their families, with their fellow-citizens, and with other nations. Defence against foreign enemies is a part of this problem of human relationship, but it ought to be presented in its right proportions, not unduly magnified. A child should be taught that he is a citizen of the school, a citizen of the nation, a citizen of the world, and that he has duties arising out of all these relations. The duty of social service should be taught—not as a new subject to add to an already crowded programme, but as something which should permeate the whole teaching, and be part of the atmosphere of the school.—Toronto Star.

CANADA'S PROTECTIONISTS.

The tendency of national legislation is towards free trade. Britain, the greatest of commercial countries, flourishes under a fiscal system that is almost free. The United States, whose people have no superiors as business men, are cutting down their tariff, and find prosperity greater than under a high protection policy. Canada ought to be able to learn a useful lesson from these two great and prosperous countries. But there is a section of Canadian politicians who know too much to learn from anyone. They were able to carry the people with them three years ago, and the reactionary policy they are now pursuing is only what might have been expected. — London Morning Advertiser.

INTERESTING REMINISCENCES IN LIFE OF MR. MANTELL

Former Peterboro' Citizen, Now Residing in Toronto, Tells Newspaper Man of the Early Days of the Province

The Toronto Star has the following interesting reference to Mr. Joseph Mantell, a former resident of Peterborough:

Away back in 1837 a hale and hearty young fellow of twenty-seven stepped from a quay in the Albert Docks, London, aboard a small two-masted schooner, which was about to sail upon what was at that time considered the long and hazardous voyage to Canada. A country, to his untutored mind, peopled with savage races and filled with unknown terrors, a country of cold and bitter climate, a country where one could only make a fortune by facing the unknown and enduring bravely untold hardships.

Yesterday, a hale and hearty old man, still strong and vigorous, and in full possession of his faculties, was celebrating his 104th birthday, with his children, grand children, and great grand children gathered around him.

The young immigrant and the grand old poineer are one and the same person—Mr. Joseph Mantell, of 69 Herbert Avenue, Toronto.

When The Star called at his home, Mr. Mantell was busy cultivating his garden. He left his task and walked briskly into the room where the reporter was seated. "Yes," said Mr. Mantell, as he shook hands, "I left London a trifle over 77 years ago. I was then in my twenty-seventh year. The ships in those days were not the "ocean greyhounds" of the present time. I crossed in a small schooner, and it took us six and a half weeks to make the voyage; that was considered very good in those days. I well remember, as we sailed down the English Channel under a full spread of canvas, how we passed a clipper with her flag flying half-mast high. Those aboard of her told us that William IV., England's sailor king, was dead, and that Queen Victoria had ascended the throne.

Walked to Toronto.

"There were no railways in Canada when I came to the country. I was bound for Toronto, which had been made a city just two years before. We had to walk there after landing at Montreal. The walk took us about eight days. There was not a great deal of money in Canada in those times, but there was plenty of other things, and no scarcity of food; which was very cheap. In my time I have seen beef sold in the market place at 75 cents a hundred weight, and I have bought a whole sheep at the same figure. I have seen potatoes for sale in the market at 12 cents a bushel, butter 6 cents a pound, and many a 25-pound turkey have I bought for a dollar. Yes, the high cost of living was not one of the problems of the early days.

I was in Toronto during the rebellion of 1837, and witnessed the execution of the rebels, Lount and Matthews. The latter was a surveyor, and Lount a blacksmith. Both were considered fine men in some respects. They were publicly hanged outside the jail, which was then situated at the corner of Church and King. I remember being sent to Capt. Gibson's house to take an inventory of his property, which was afterwards confiscated. He was one of the rebels, and his house was on Yonge Street. It was pulled down a long time ago.

What He Missed.

"Yes, I could have made a lot of money in real estate in those days. I was offered the block upon which Eaton's now stands for $30, and I could have got lots of land further out for nothing. However, I am not the only one who made mistakes in this respect."

To-day Mr. Mantell is a marvellous example of sturdy old age. Each day he cultivates his garden, and grows his flowers and vegetables absolutely unaided. He reads the newspapers every day, and has never used glasses in his life. Each summer he takes a little trip to London, St. Thomas and Tilsonburg, and he travels alone. His memory is nothing short of marvellous. Not only has he a clear recollection of the days of Napoleon Bonapatte and he way in which his mother used to frighten him by saying that "Bone" would catch him, but he recollects events of recent years, speaking of the present problems with a clear and keen understanding. He recollects minutely the details of the various cities in which he has resided, and recalls Old London of 77 years ago with extraordinary clearness. A shoemaker by trade, Mr. Mantell only retired from active business seven years ago. He was 96 then. He is proud of the fact that he made a pair of boots for Sir Francis Bond Hea, Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, a trifle over 76 years ago.

"Well," said Mr. Mantell, as the reporter left him. "I hope to see you here at my next birthday party. I will tell you some more then about the early days and what we old fellows had to put up with."

INTERRUPT A WEDDING

LONDON, May 11.—"Mis-ter Noel Buxton, will you promise to treat properly, this woman whom you are about to marry? Will you promise to gain for her the right the vote?"

Such were the quotations suffragist interpolations in the marriage service, which a fashionably gowned woman shouted from the gallery of St. James' Church to-day.

Springing to her feet, she called excitedly to Noel Buxton, Liberal M.P. for North Norfolk, who was solemnly promising to love and cherish Miss Lucy Pelham Burn, and endowing her with all his worldly goods.

Among the assembled guests were Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George and Mrs. Lloyd-George and many other members of the Cabinet and of Parliament, for Mr. Buxton, a philanthropist and traveller, has held place under several Liberal Ministries and is chairman of the British-Balkan Committee.

As the woman in the gallery demanded yet one more promise from Burton, she, and a man with her, threw out handfuls of suffragette literature, which, fluttering here and there, alighted on the heads and shoulders of those in the aristocratic assemblage.

The police were called, the intruders were ejected, and the ceremony proceeded—Mrs. Burton promising fervently to "obey."

BOTH PARTIES ORGANIZING

Lindsay Warder: Although nothing definite has been announced concerning the date for the coming elections it is interesting to note that both parties are organizing throughout the country, conventions having been called in various constituencies.

In a number of ridings it is intimated that Rowell forces will bring out temperance candidates, and it is rumoured that a temperance candidate may be brought forward in South Victoria. In this connection the name of Mr. W. B. Sparling, of Lindsay, is mentioned. Liberal candidates mentioned are Dr. White) J. B. Begg and Dr. Blanchard.

GETTING A START

By NATHANIEL C. FOWLER JR.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Do you play chess?" asked a friend of Thomas Carlyle.

"Yes," he replied.

"Are you expert at it?"

"No," responded the author of "Sartor Resartus." "I am not such a fool."

He who plays a game well is benefited. He who plays it too well has wasted his time learning how to play it.

The legitimate and not overstrenuous sports and games are to be encouraged. They add good cheer, as well as spice, to life, and help to rub off the rough edges and lower the handicaps.

I have little respect for the man or boy, woman or girl, who does not enjoy some sport or pastime.

Practically all great people love out-of-door life and indoor games, using them for relaxation. They are an important part of the propaganda of their life. Without them much of the joy of living would be lost.

There is something the matter with the man who cannot enjoy a good ball game, and who takes no interest in sports in general, eliminating, of course, those of a brutal nature. They are worthy of a reasonable amount of his attention, and there is no reason why he should not enjoy them and take part in them. When he carries sport to an excess, he makes a fool of himself. Sport no longer becomes play to him, but a serious proposition.

There is a vast difference between the love of play and an abnormal devotion to it.

Thousands of men and boys have stunted their mental and business growth by an over-attention to sports. They have made business of play, not play of play. They have neglected their duties and carried their sporting activities to excess.

I recall a friend, the possessor of a large inheritance. He was well educated, mentally strong, and physically sound. He established himself in business in a distant city, with plenty of capital and unusually good prospects. He became absorbed in baseball, attended every game, in fact, placed sport ahead of his business. In a few years he was bankrupt, and to-day he is occupying a subordinate position.

Experience has proved pretty conclusively that undue attention to any one thing, whether it be sport or business, science or money making, works against a man, makes him abnormal, and reduces his chances of success.

The American tendency not to take active part in sport, but to become a mere member of an audience, is fundamentally wrong, and is in direct opposition to the English policy, which makes college men and others active participants in the game, and not mere viewers of it.

Take college sports, for example. There are a handful of men along the field or gridiron, while hundreds and thousands of their fellow-students are merely spectators, taking no part in the conflict.

Competition, the intense desire to win, bolts the life out of regl sport, reduces it to the fight of the prize ring.

One should play for the sake of diversion and exercise, not necessarily to win. Competition, further, breeds antagonism and bitter feeling.

Make play of your play. Don't allow it to be your principal object in life.

CHOKED TO DEATH

Special to The Examiner:

ROCHESTER, N.Y., May 11. — Mrs. Emma Leroy, wife of a former member of the police department, was assaulted and choked to death in the back yard of a vacant house here between midnight and five a.m. to-day. The was discovered by a milkman making his round.

Two detectives recalled having met this woman at midnight. She then asked them to have a drink and appeared already to be slightly under the influence of liquor.

WHAT IS "KITCHEN ENGINEERING?"

The Ladies of Peterborough and vicinity are invited to a series of Lectures on the subject of "Kitchen Engineering."

These Lectures will not be long drawn-out, dry affairs, but short and interesting talks on how to engineer a meal.

GAS, it may be mentioned, is much more convenient than any other system of cooking, and at least equal in point of economy and results.

The Gurney Foundry Co., who are large makers of Gas Stoves, have made a study of "Kitchen Engineering." That is to say they set out to reduce cooking arrangements to a science, or in other words develop a system of having the soup ready first, the roast next and at the same time as the vegetables, then dessert.

You will learn at these talks HOW TO ENGINEER OR ARRANGE A MEAL, and we do not know how the housewife can spend a more profitable or interesting half hour than this.

Admission will be by ticket, good for the entire series of Lectures, and tea will be served with our compliments at the afternoon Lectures.

Stray Shots From the Firing Line

Many citizens were doubtless much disappointed, at the non-appearance on the streets, of the 57th Regiment, as is the usual custom. A more profitable time, however, was spent on the outside parade ground, from the efficiency point of view. The usual custom of marching out, though perhaps enjoyed by the citizens, occupies nearly half of the evening which valuable time could be more profitably employed in company or other drill.

The parade state showed an attendance of 303 of all ranks, which is but two less than the number on parade last Tuesday night. F Co. boasted of the strongest turnout, with 37 men, followed closely by A Co, with 34 men on parade.

Judging by the excellent manner in which all companies are rounding into shape, the 57th Regiment will be among the smartest and most efficient, if not the strongest, of infantry regiments which will be encamped at Petawawa. The latter element, however, it is the intention of the C.O. shall not be overlooked, and every man who can possibly attend will journey to camp.

The following orders were issued:

Orders by Officer Commanding 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers.

1. The following extracts from General and Militia Orders are promulgated for the information of the regiment:

G.O. 62, 1914—57th Regiment Peterborough Rangers—To be Provisional Signalling officer, Lt. C. H. Ackerman, 2nd March, 1914.

Militia Order No. 203, 1914—Certificates—A captain's certificates has been granted to Lt. C. H. Ackerman, 57th Regiment.

2. The following Brigade Order is promulgated for the information of the regiment: His Royal Highness, the Governor-General, proposing to visit Peterborough on June 1st next, the 57th Regiment will furnish a Guard of Honour or the strength authorized by Pay and Allowance regulations 1912, with King's Colours and with band, to meet the train at 10 a.m. Every possible care should be taken in selecting the personnel of this guard, to ensure that credit is reflected, not only on the guard, but on the militia generally.

3. The following are taken on the strength of the Regiment from May 5th, 1914:

B Co.—Pte. F. Kipp.

C Co.—Ptes. H. Smith, C. Grant, R. Naples.

D Co.—Ptes. A. Gordon, H. Nicholls, W. Willshaw, F. Dunford.

Signallers—Ptes. K. C. McClelland, Mr. Breckenridge, F. G. Allin.

4. The following are struck off the strength of the Regiment 12th May, 1914:

H Co.—Sergt. Culbert, left limits; Ptes. Wilson, Twist, Tobin, Savage, Smith, F. W. Davidson, Conway and Carr.

5. In accordance with the above orders, a Guard of Honour of the required strength, will be furnished by the 57th Regiment. Captains will furnish a list of men recommended from their respective companies. These men will report to the Sergeant-Major at the close of this evening's drill, and from men so reporting the Guard will be selected.

6. Captain McLean is hereby detailed to command the Guard.

7. The commanding officer, has been pleased to make the following promotions:

H Co.—To be corporal, Pte. Knox, vice Corporal Harper, promoted. To be lance-corporal, Pte. Clancy.

D. Walker, Major.
Adjutant.

After the orders had been read, Lt. Col. Clegg asked that the officers hand in detailed reports on Tuesday next, with the approximate number of men in the respective companies who will be able to go to camp.

It has been the hope of the commanding officers that they would be able to take the largest city regiment of the Division to camp, and it is to be hoped that Peterborough will be distinguished and represented in this manner.

As was announced last week no more recruits will be taken on the regimental strength for the work of the season of 1914. The excellent result of this course being pursued and enforced has already began to make outward manifestations, inasmuch as it is noticed that a more efficient and uniform mode of drill is being carried out by the men.

After the regular drill session, the captains of companies were ordered to report the men they recommended for the Guard of Honour, to the Sergeant-Major, under the command of the Colour Sergeants. Large contingents from some, and smaller contingents from other companies, were then marched up for inspection. They were formed up in one rank, tallest at one end, and smallest at the other extremity of the ranks, numbered off, the command of odd numbers one pace forward, and rear rank one pace step back march, files right and left turn; quick march, and the formation thus rendered was one of double rank, with the tallest element on both flanks, and the shorter men in the centre. Of the number offered for the formation, six were disapproved, as being under height.

A Guard of Honour, consists of 96 privates, 8 non-commissioned officers, 2 colour sergeants, a sergeant major, and three officers. The additional N.C.O.'s are required as colour bearers. A Royal Standard is expected to arrive from Kingston any time, and will be used at the ceremony. The guard was ordered to report to the Sergt. Instructor on Thursday evening, to receive further instructions.

Captain Hounsell was to have received an officers' decoration this evening, but the presentation was postponed till some future date.

His latest appointment is that of Regimental Musketry Instructor. Last night was the first time he has been on parade this season, owing to sickness. However, Captain Hounsell is to be congratulated on obtaining his "Officer's Decoration."

If the opening day, at the rifle ranges, last Saturday, is any conclusive evidence of the interest which will be manifested in musketry throughout the present season, the optimistic outlooks will be upheld. On Saturday last 50 men journeyed to the ranges and had some profitable instruction. Some good scores were made.

Much interest it is expected will be manifested in musketry, when the new pattern Ross Rifles arrive for use among the local regiment. Heretofore, shooting at a range of 500 yards, with a present pattern rifle, a man would be in dangerous space 50 yards out of this distance. The new rifle and pointed bullet, creates all dangerous space to any distance up to a thousand yards. The present muzzle velocity is 2,000 feet per second, but the new one is 2,440 feet per second muzzle velocity.

Says Only Dirt That Kills Is Dust From Streets

Editor, Examiner:

Sir.—I have seen by your paper last night where a couple of the bakers waited on the Board of Health and objected to the clause relating to the wrapping of bread. Now, did anybody ever die from the effects of bread not being wrapped? Nobody ever died from dirt yet, except that it was from being suffocated by the dust from the city streets. A local doctor said that the drivers come in contact with certain parts of the harness and with their own handkerchiefs. He also said many of them did not have handkerchiefs. There is nothing like charity. Some of our high-class doctors and citizens that have so many handkerchiefs should give the drivers one or two, so that they could wipe their nose. Say, how would it be for the drivers to use their feet, since Dr. McPherson and Mr. Spence are raising hair Columbia with them for handling it with their hands. Moreover, their feet would never touch the bread as they all wear socks.

Sanitary Inspector Spence mentioned something about a large fork that he saw in operation. I guess the fork that Spence is alluding to, is a large-sized pitchfork, but that he is at a loss to know what to call it. They must intend delivering bread in the big furniture van so that they will have lots of room to use the fork. For my part I don't want any of my bread wrapped in paper, because I can relish the bread direct from the baker. They are not the dirtiest class of men in the City. If the Medical Health Officer looked after the hotels with regards cleanliness the same as he does the baker it would pay him better. Moreover, it is to be clearly seen that all the head officials of the City are doing their level best to run the poorer class out of the City altogether.

The very idea of wrapping bread in paper and then wanting men to wear smocks in a room of 90 degrees! Whoever heard of such nonsense and orawiness.—Yours truly,

"LONELYDALE."

Anniversary Concert At St. Paul's Church

St. Paul's Church Anniversary, which was celebrated in a special manner on Sunday, was marked by a splendid sacred concert, presented last night, under the auspices of the Choir. The attendance was exceptionally large, practically every seat being occupied. It was one of the largest assemblies at a concert of this particular nature during the past season.

The programme evidenced a careful preparation, and all the numbers were well received. The Choir was assisted by Mr. Ruthven McDonald and Mr. Redferne Hollinshead, both of whom require no introduction to the average concert audience in Peterborough. With Miss Dorothy Allan they shared the honours of the evening. At the same time the work of Mr. John Allan, as organist and choir leader, although secondary to the soloists and to the Choir, deserves special recognition.

Miss Allan was in particularly good voice and delighted her many admirers. Her first number, the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria" was rendered with a sympathetic reserve that betokened a nice appreciation of the sentiment of this bentiful solo. Her other number, Handel's "O! Had I Jubal's Lyre," from Joshua, presented quite a different theme, and more pronounced melodic colouring. It also demanded a proficiency of technique to which Miss Allan ably responded.

One of the most pleasing numbers of the programme was the Ladies' sextette, with bass solo by Mr. McDonald and soprano obligato by Miss Allan. It was entitled "And I Heard the Voice of Harpers." The first sopranos were Mrs. McKeown and Mrs. Mein, second sopranos; Miss Simpson and Miss Gordon, 1st and 2nd contralto; Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Allan The blending of the ladies' voices was very effective, forming a pretty background for Miss Allan and Mr. McDonald. The number was repeated in response to an encore.

Another particularly fine selection was Sergeant's "Watchman! What of the Night?" sung in duet by Mr. McDonald and Mr. Hollinshead. It was spelndidly rendered and was also repeated by request.

Miss Allan's duet, with Mr. Hollinshead "The Day is Dying in the West" was another beautiful number.

Mr. Hollinshead was at his best in the tenor solo, from Rebekah. "The Soft Southern Breeze." Those who have heard him know the sweetness of his voice and last night he was in splendid form. His solo. "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was very satisfying.

Mr. McDonald's clear bass sounded to advantage in all his numbers. His "Come Unto Me," possessed a dramatic touch that made the number easily one of the finest of the evening.

The Choir won praise for itself in its several choruses, especially in the Elijah number, "He Watching Over Israel."

In every respect the concert was most enjoyable and the large assembly must have been highly pleased with the success achieved.

Mrs. Logan's piano accompaniments in conjunction with the organ, lent a pleasing touch to the numbers in which it was used:

Splendid Address To Epworth League

Rev. J. N. Clarry Spoke to George Street Organization

The meeting of the George Street Epworth League was in the hands of the Missionary Department on Monday evening, and a very interesting programme was presented.

The chair was taken by Miss A. L. Beatty, the new vice-president of that department. The principal speaker was the Rev. J. N. Clarry, pasto, of St. James' Church, who gave a very bright and helpful talk upon home missions, and amused the audience by his occasional reminiscences.

Miss N. Wright, accompanied by Miss L. Hanson, sang "Into Thy Hands" in a very able manner.

Next Monday the meeting will be in charge of the Literary Department, and all young people are invited.

BLACKBOARD FOR MARKET HALL

LINDSAY, May 13.—Lindsay citizens who patronize the market in future will see a blackboard occuying a prominent position in the market building containing the cost prices at which butter, eggs, chickens, etc., are being sold in Lindsay stores for the guidance of those selling produce at the market.

This commendable idea was introduced into Council by Ald. Chambers and was heartily approved by every member. Ald. Chambers in speaking on the question said that he had felt as a result of observation and experience, that there was a great need of a blackboard at the market where the prices of produce could be registered for the guidance of the sellers. In the past a number of them did not know what to ask for their produce with the result that a higher price was asked for butter, eggs, etc., than was ruling at the stores. Then the purchaser had to carry his purchases home, whereas at the store, the produce was not only

A HINT TO THE HOUSEWIFE AND HIGH COST

A Good Meal Can Be Prepared for the Small Cost of Eleven Cents—Conquest of the High Cost of Living

Given fifteen cents, a large appetite, and an hour for lunch, and there was a time when the business girl could walk the pavements all lunch hour trying to solve the high cost of working problem. The need grew until tea rooms were established, but as each tea room strove to outshine and out-tango its neighbour, the fifteen-cent girl still went hungry on a salad or an ice cream, or some cakes and an enquiring glance from the waitress. The women of the city through various organizations have wakened to this need, and deserve that some of the solutions offered should be better known by the girls for whom they are intended. To find the way to one of the lunch and rest rooms provided for business girls the simplest way is to follow a group of them up Yonge Street, across Shuter to Bond, and into the big, gambling old house once the residence of Dr. Barrett, then used by the Presbyterian publication offices, and now taken over by the King's Daughters on a five-year lease to be used as a lunch and rest room.

How it is Done.

Entering with Molly, who comes from a bank office, and is saving for her trousseau, it is not difficult to mix in with the crowd. A few stragglers enter before twelve, but by a quarter-past the rooms are full, and you couldn't hear of ton of nails dropping. The plan is to take a small black tray rom a pile, pass before a row of dishes containing the menu, select what you want, which varies according to the nearness of pay day, show it to the cashier, who gives you corresponding little checks, enter the long ex-drawing room where tables, for four are arranged, eat your lunch and pay on leaving. For a cup of tea or coffee, two slices of bread and butter, cold ham, and pie the bill is eleven cents. For variety there is jelly, blanc mange, sliced tomatoes, or sliced cucumbers.

In winter, soup, pork and beans, and other hot dishes are provided at correspondingly low prices, but the hot dishes are discontinued through the summer months. The tables will accomodate 125 girls at a time, but it is not unusual to serve 600 girls during one noon. Lunch is served from 11.45 until 2.15. Upstairs there is a splendid rest-room, furnished entirely by gifts from friends of the work, and the library attached has still some empty places where books would be welcomed. The large garden will be used, commencing next Saturday, as a private park, benches being placed under the trees and some of the overflow lunch tables, providing a romantic sauce for the lucky luncer who gets there first.

Not For Kings' Daughters Alone.

Tis lunch room is not for the use of members of the King's Daughters only, but any business girl in the city is welcomed. Most of the operative power is voluntarily given. Different members of the Kings' Daughters come down on different days to serve the lunches, and, if occasion offers, to become friends of the many girls some of whom board and have none but business friends in the city.—Toronto Star.

CAMERA OPPORTUNITIES TO MAKE MONEY

If tourists or summer visitors come to your town, you can make a profit by mounting local views in albums, to be placed on sale in the same manner as the postcards. Contact prints from original negatives should be used. If they show taste and skill, they will find plenty of purchasers.

When a new building is erected, photograph it immediately. The owner of a new house or place of business is usually proud enough of it to send views to his friends. In the case of public buildings, the architect and the builder are most likely to be the buyers; but they usually want large prints, and therefore you will have to compete with the local professional photographer, says the Youths Companion.

Another source of revenue to the amateur photographer lies in the picnics and other outing in which he participates. The members of such parties are usually glad to obtain good prints; and if you get them to order the pictures at the time you make the exposure, while the interest in the event is lively half a dozen negatives make a good investment.

In a manufacturing town, you will have little difficulty in getting opportunities to photograph groups of factory workmen during the noon hour; and if you take your orders in advance you may make a good sale. It is well to show a print to the owner; it may have an advertising value to him.

Home portraiture is a profitable field. There may also be a chance to photograph family pets. The principal requisites in that work are patience and love of animals. Advertising can be made to pay the amateur in many ways. Views of a farmer's prize stock, a photograph of the butcher's attractive shop, for calendar use, and pictures of labour-saving devices in operation may all be salable.

The owner of a camera should be always on the lookout for "news" photographs. The value of such work to the newspapers depends almost entirely upon the promptness with which they receive it. If you use a plate camera, make your prints from the wet negatives and hurry them to every possible buyer. If the event is merely local in interest try only the neighbouring newspapers; if it is of greater importance, try the metropolitan papers. The weekly magazines pay the best prices for this class, but if the matter is important enough to interest them they usually send a staff man to make the pictures.

To sell your work you will have to move rapidly. Mark each print on the back with your name and address, and the title of the picture; wrap the photographs between two sheets of cardboard, mark the parcel "Photographs," and mail it unsealed; the postage will then be 1 cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. At the same time mail a letter, saying that you have sent such and such prints. If you wish the prints returned, say so in your letter and enclose the necessary postage for that purpose.

The opportunity to get "news" photographs does not come every day, but there is always the chance to make prints for the general magazines. An odd bit of nature, farming scenes, an old fisherman resting by the side of his boat—such subjects often find a sale.

Warne's Drug Store have a complete stock of Kodaks and Amateur Supplies.

PETERBORO' APRIL 30th, 1914

W. H. HILL, Esq.,
Agt. for Fidelity & Casualty Co., of New York' Peterborough.

Dear Sir—

Re Policy $420186

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of the cheque of the Fidelity & Casualty Company of New York for the sum of $5000.00, being the amount of my claim for double liability under my policy in this company, arising out of the accident which resulted in the loss of the sight of my left eye. I wish you would be kind enough to convey to the Company my thanks and warm appreciation for the prompt and entirely satisfactory manner in which my claim under my policy has been settled in full.

It may be of interest to you to know that when I first took this accident policy in your Company it was due solely to the very friendly and cordial relationship that has always existed between your agent, Mr. George E. Elliott, and myself, but when I received the Company's cheque this morning, through your office, I was deeply impressed with the fact that I, in common with the vast majority of people, never before realized how prudent and important it is to carry an Accident Policy in a Company that settles so promptly, Yours faithfully,

R. R. Hall

MR. E. A. PECK EXPLAINED THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

In an Interesting Resume of the Works of Ontario Legislature Before the Board of Trade Last Evening

At the meeting of the Board of Trade last night an interesting address was given by Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., on "Recent Legislation." In the comparatively short period of one hour the member for West Peterborough gave an instructive resume of the workings of the legislature this session. He deal more fully with the Acts that effect this City, and at the conclusion of his address a hearty vote of thanks was tendered him. Mr. Peck did not devote much of his time to defending the Government's action in passing the various bills, but almost the entire address was given over to the explanation of the effect and purpose of the bill.

During the past session there were a total of 140 measures passed the Ontario House. Of these the majority were private bills threshed out before the Private Bills committee. There were about 56 public bills.

Mr. Peck mentioned the fact that annually some subject comes up for debate, which never results in a new law. As instances he quoted the Woman Suffrage, Single Tax, Abolish the Bar, Bulk Sales Act and Treatment of the Week-minded, debates.

The Liquor License Act had been amended so as to have the bars close on Good Friday and so as to provide that all who supplied blacklisters with liquor could be themselves placed on the blacklist.

There was the bill to restrict ticket speculators, and that providing for fire marshalls. The latter provided for a fire marshall at Toronto to whom all fires in the province would have to be reported. He would be represented in each city by the fire chiefs, and would have the power to step in and order changes where conditions were dangerous.

The "Fish and Game" Law provided for the setting apart of a new department for this work. The letter of the Board regarding the hatchery had been referred to the Minister who said it would receive every attention. A man was to be sent to inspect the lake this summer for a suitable place for the hatchery.

There was the "Auxiliary Classes Act" providing that the Board of Education could take care of the feeble minded children in their respective municipalities in separate schools and classes if they so desired.

Mr. Peck reviewed the history of Peterborough's Private Bill, telling how twice it had proved inadequate, so that for the third time it had been reconsidered and passed by the Legislature. He understood that negotiations were in progress for the Ontario Hydro Commission to take over all property of the great Electric Power Company which controlled so many power companies throughout the province.

Then another bill of interest to Peterborough was the bill providing that if the Provincial Board of Health thought it wise for one municipality to have their sewage disposal plant pass through, or be in another municipality they could arrange to have it so without the costly arbitration needed under the old law. This particularly applied to Peterborough, which was considering plans to build a sewage disposal plant in Otonabee. It can now be done if the consent and endorsation of the Provincial Board of Health can be obtained.

The last measure dealt with was the Workmens' Compensation Act, which Mr. Peck hoped was satisfactory to labour and capital. Although it did not allow some workmen to get as much compensation in certain cases as under the old law, and made it necessary for the employer to pay claims that he would never have to under the old law, yet the Act was in the interests of both. For the cost of the solicitors and the courts would be cut out he said, and though the amount allowed the workmen would really be less under the new law, yet the amount he would actually receive would be greater because the costs of litigation had been done away with. So with the employers. Though they will have to pay claims in a greater number of cases the amounts will not be as large and the burden will be no heavier than in the past.

Mr. Peck read the following abstract arranged by himself from the Workmens' Compensation Act:

COMPENSATION TO WORKMEN.
Summary of Act.

1. Act will not come in force until a date named by the Lieutenant-Governor, expected to be about the first of November.

2. Act does not affect farm labourers, or domestic or menial servants, or their employers, but applies to all other classes of employment.

3. Act is divided into two parts, the first and most important part dealing with and making special provisions in respect of certain classes of labour, and the second part with all other classes of labour affected by the Act.

Part I.

4. This deals with all those classes of employment (about fifty in number) set forth in Schedule One and Two of the Act. Speaking generally these employments include all lines of manufacture and construction work, operation of machinery and steam and power plants, operation of railways, navigation, etc.

5. This part does not apply to an outworker, or a person engaged in clerical work and not exposed to the hazards incident to the nature of the work carried on in the employment, or to a person whose employment is of a casual nature and who is employed otherwise than for the purposes of the employers' trade or business, these last mentioned persons coming within part 2 to be referred to later.

6. A workman engaged in any employment to which this part applies and who sustains injury in the course of that employment will be entitled to compensation if he is disabled for at least seven days from earning full wages, and the injury is not attributable solely to his serious and wilful misconduct.

7. If he is killed or seriously disabled, compensation is awarded himself or those dependent upon him in any case.

8. Where the employment is in connection with certain industries set out in Schedule 2 to the Act, and which may be summarized as the operation of railways, railway machine shops, telegraph and telephone lines, employment under municipal corporations, etc., the employer is individually liable. In other cases the compensation is payable from an accident fund levied and controlled by a Commission.

9. Right to compensation depends on notice of accident being given as soon as practicable to employer, and also where compensation is payable out of the fund to the Commission and workmen must submit to medical examination if required.

10. It is not competent for a workman to waive any of his right under the Act. It is not lawful for an employer to require any contribution by employers to compensation funds, and except in minor cases settlements must not be made without approval of the Commission.

11. Where employer is individually liable the Commission may require him to insure against liability.

12. Where there is total disability the compensation shall be a weekly payment equal to 55 p.c. of the average weekly earnings of the workman during the previous 12 months (if he has been so long employed) so long as the disability lasts.

13. Where there is partial disability the compensation shall be weekly payment of 55 p.c. of the difference between such average weekly earnings and the amount he is earning or is able to earn in some suitable employment after the accident.

14. Where death results from an injury an allowance for funeral expenses is made and dependents are compensated as follows:

A widow or invalid husband $20 per month, with an additional allowance for children under 16 years of age, or other dependants, but the total compensation shall not exceed $40.00 per month, nor 55 per cent. of the average monthly earnings of the workman.

15. The compensation payable under this part shall be in lieu of all other claim or right of action, statutory or otherwise, and no action shall be brought; all quest ions being settled by the Commission without suit.

16. The Commission appointed to administer this part shall be composed of three members and will be styled the Workmen's Compensation Board. They will appoint a Secretary, a Chief Medical Officer and such other officials as may be required, and the Government will contribute $100,000.00 per annum to the expenses of administering this part.

17. The accident fund shall be provided by contributions by the employers in the classes, or groups of industries in Schedule 1, and compensation in respect of accidents happening in any industry included in any such classes or groups be paid thereout.

18. Every employer will be required to make returns to the Board and will be assessed periodically a percentage of his wage roll to meet the share of the fund.

19. Apportionment of the burden of assessment shall be made by the Board according to, in their view, the hazard of the business, and the Board may increase individual assessments if in their view sufficient steps are not taken to prevent accident or they may exclude such employer from his group and render him individually liable for accidents.

20. Where a workman suffers from an industrial disease due to the nature of his employment he shall be entitled to compensation as if disease were a personal injury by accident.

21. The employers in any of the classes included in Schedule 1 may form themselves into an association for accident prevention and may make rules for that purpose and the Board may approve such rules. Such employers may also appoint a committee as a medium of communication with the Board and to watch over their interests.

22. Employers in Schedule two and who are individually liable to pay compensation must contribute to expenses of the Board in administering the Act.

Part II.

3. In respect of the classes of labour coming within the provisions of this part, an employer will still remain liable to a workman by reason of any defects in the condition or arrangement of the ways, works, or machinery connected with the business, or by reason of the negligence of his employer.

24. The employer will also become liable to a workman injured through the negligence of a fellow workman and a workman will not be debarred from recovery of compensation by reason of his continuing in an employment with knowledge of the existence of defects, or of negligence which might render him liable to injury.

25. Contributory negligence on the part of a workman shall not be a bar to recovery by him of compensation, but nevertheless any such negligence shall be taken into account in assessing damages.

The Merchants Will Decorate Their Stores

The following letter has been addressed to the President of the Retail Merchants' Association:

"I am directed by the committee that has charge of the arrangements for the visit of His Royal Highness the Governor-General, to request the Retail Merchants' Association to look after the decoration of the stores on that occasion. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk."

The following reply has been sent:

"Your letter of the 7th inst., addressed to our President, Mr. Thomas Barrie, has been received, with reference to the request of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the visit of His Royal Highness the Governor-General, that we look after the decoration of our stores on that occasion.

"I might say that this has been laid before our executive officers with the result that we are in hearty accord with your suggestion and will ask all our members, and others, to join in decorating their stores, and to make the city as bright and cheerful as possible. If there is anything else in which you would like us to co-operate with you, please let us know. N. C. Cameron, Secretary.

The majority of the store owners on George street are members of the Association, and it practically means that all the George street stores will be gaily decorated on the occasion of the Royal visit. There are one or two merchants who are not members, but these, the opinion is freely expressed, will co-operate in hearty accord with any efforts put forth by the other merchants.

Flags and streamers will form the decorations, and it is also likely that the store windows will be decorated.

BILL INTRODUCED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

PAVLOWA'S LIPS LEFT ROUGE IMPRINT ON KAISER'S WHITE GLOVE

BERLIN, May 12.—Anna Pavlova, the Russian dancer, was called to the Royal box after the performance at Brunswick last Saturday night. She pleased the Kaiser very much by assuring him that his ban had killed the tango in America.

In kissing the Kaiser's hand, Mme. Pavlova imprinted a kiss from her roughed lips on his white glove, leaving a red mark. The dancer became greatly agitated and alarmed when she saw what had happened, but the Kaiser assured her that it did not matter. Mme. Pavlova said afterwards: "I was never so frightened in my life. Such an offence would have had the most serious consequences in Russia."

Suffragette Sentenced

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., May 13.—Mary Ansell, a noted militant suffragette, was to-day sentenced to three months' imprisonment at hard labour for slashing the portrait of the Duke of Wellington with a hatchet in the Royal Academy yesterday. She screamed that she would immediately go on hunger strike and was carried shrieking from the court in the arms of four stalwart policemen.

District Meeting To Be Held Here

The Master Horse Shoers' Association will hold a meeting in the City Council Chambers in this City at 2 o'clock on Monday, May 25th. An invitation has been extended to all members by the secretary of the local branch. Mr. George Church, the newly appointed organizer, has chosen Peterborough as one of the most central and important places to receive consideration.

The objects of the association are to unite every horse shoer in the province in one grand association. To divide the province into districts, to divide the districts into locals, to appoint district organizers, to arrange with hardware merchants and jobbing houses for better service, more protection and the recognition of the association. Such items will be taken up and given consideration at the convention here. Another matter of great importance is a bill to be presented to the Provincial Parliament in the near future, the contents of which will be divulged and dealt with at the meeting, and every member of the local legislature will be made familiar with the bill before it is presented.

The meeting was brought about by the Master Horse-Shoers' Association of Ontario at their annual convention held at London on Easter Monday, who, after installing a new and creditable staff of officers, decided to hold district meetings throughout the province.

It is expected that a large number of craftsmen from the City and surrounding districts will attend the meeting.

PRINCE IS VERY POPULAR WITH ENGLISH PEOPLE

LONDON, May 11.—Prince Alexander of Teck's acceptance of the Governor-Generalship of Canada gives the greatest pleasure to his friends. It is agreed that Britain never had a more simple-hearted or a more democratic prince. Tall, strongly built, he is every inch a soldier. From his father he inherits tact and dignity without presence, and from his mother commonsense and a winning disposition. The princess, like the prince, is fond of outdoor life, and is a good walker and a good rider, being frequently seen in the great park at Windsor with her children. She will love Canada, as one who has seen much of her, and Canada will love her, finding in her the qualities of the truest womanhood.

Equally Very Popular.

Their recent tour of the south of Wales, which they undertook at the request of the King and Queen, showed both the Prince and the Princess at their best. They took especial delight in the ways of the coal miners and their children, and at the top of some of the pits they were greeted by the quaint good humour of the little collier lads, black from the pit, and with their lamps still in hand.

The Princess, though charmingly dressed in cornflower blue charmeuse with coat and black hat with blue feathers and pink roses, and with white feather boa, smilingly held out her hand to the grimy leader, but, said he, "Look how black my hands are."

"And were they as black as pitch, never mind," replied the Princess, as she smilingly extended her hand again.

The presents pressed upon them by the coal black miners included a handsome little Shetland pony, called Tomtit. The pony was from underground and had not seen daylight for eight years; and upon it the pitmen put the placard with the words: "Please take me to Windsor."

'He's rather partial to tobacco," the leader of the miners explained laughingly to the Princess. "You'd better feed him with cigarettes," which to the delight of the miners the Princess promised to do.

The enthusiasm of the thousands congregated on the hillsides reached its height when the black-faced miners, fresh from the mines, surged around the Prince and the Princess to sing the Welsh hymn tunes. Their singing was so exquisite that the Princess was not satisfied until the hymns were repeated.

WILL DEEPEN RIVER BASIN

Government Engineer E. G. O'Kelley, assistant engineer to Mr. Sing of the Public Works Department, head office, Ottawa, arrived in Town last night, for the purpose of making soundings and taking a survey of the waters in the Scugog for the Town Wharf to the northern limits of the Corporation.

It is understood that Engineer O'Kelley has instructions to make a complete sounding, with a view to deepening the river basin, which, after dredging, will be finished by sweeping.

He will also make a complete survey of the present town wharf, with a view to replacing it with a large cement one, which will be built along graded plans; that is, sloping to the water's edge at the north-west end, thus allowing easy access to canoes and small yachts.

A strong revetment wall will be built at the opposite side, with a wharf, lockmaster's office and a lockmaster's house, and the vicinity otherwise improved.

Engineer O'Kelley will also visit Sturgeon Point and look over the upper wharf, as well as paying a visit to Drummond's Bay.—Lindsay Warder.

RECEIVES OFFER FROM PETERBOROUGH

Toronto Star: Mr. Albert Downing has resigned his position as tenor soloist of the Centra Methodist Church and has since received offers from other Toronto churches, and also a tempting one from Peterborough, where he sang the tenor parts of "Judas Maccabaeus" for the Peterborough Choral Society recently.

IRELAND AS A NATIONALITY

The resolution submitted to the anti-Home Rule demonstration in the Queen's Park contained a clause protesting against the establishment in Ireland of any form of government different from that possessed by the other component parts of the United Kingdom, and particularly any institution, legislative or executive, which would mark Ireland as a nationality distinct from Great Britain."

The mover and seconder are men of Canadian birth and Scottish ancestry. Neither has ever had the remotest connection with Irish life. Both if asked whether Canada is a nation would probably answer unhesitatingly yes. A proposal to abolish the Canadian Parliament because it marks Canada as a nationality distinct from Great Britain would be regarded by them as absurd. They would argue, as every honest man would, that it is a good thing for both Canada and the great world-girdling Empire of which the Dominion forms a part that Canadians should manage their own national affairs in their own way. They would point out that Canada when governed from Downing street was a source of weakness, danger, and expense to Great Britain, and that the granting of self-government had made Canada intensively loyal and a tower of strength to the Empire.

Why should not the same results flow from Irish self-government? Ireland is as much a nation as Canada. Seven hundred years of English rule have not made Irishmen English. It is folly to say that the reason for this failure of England to assimilate the Irish people is the difference of religious belief. For three hundred years before the Reformation reached the British Isles English Catholic conquerors had tried to make Englishmen of Irish Catholics whom they had conquered. They failed, not because of religious differences, for there were none, but because Ireland, though conquered, remained a nation with national traditions, a national spirit, and national ideals.

That two men of Scottish ancestry, who ought to be and no doubt are proud to think of Scotland as a distinct nationality and of Scotsmen as the heirs of a glorious national history, should seek to deny the right of Irishmen to regard themselves as sons of a nation distinct from Great Britain is almost unthinkable. The only hope for an improvement in the relations between the great mass of the Irish people and the central Parliament of the Empire at Westminster, lies in the frank recognition of the basic fact ignored for centuries, that Irishmen are not Englishmen and never will be, and that only through self-government will the Irish people be able to express themselves. Let us not fear for the solidarity of the Empire as a result of giving Ireland self-government. The experience of Canada will be repeated in the Green Isle. Freedom will be repaid by affection. The bonds of love will prove mightier than bars or steel. — The Globe.

CASE APPEALED.

Austin Vs. Dickinson—Will be Heard at Osgoode Hall.

Harry Austin has appealed against the decision of His Honour Judge Rogers in his case against Dr. S. S. Dickinson. It will be remembered that Dr. Dickinson sued Austin for $10.00 for professional services. Austin entered a counter claim of $300, the value of a mare which Mr. Austin claimed he lost through the negligence of Dr. Dickinson. The counter claim was dismissed and Dr. Dickinson was given judgment for the amount of his claim.

M. Austin has now appealed from this decision and the appeal will be heard at Osgoode Hall this week. Mr. Chisholm is representing Dr. Dickinson, and Mr. Field for Mr. Austin.—Port Hope Guide.

More Immigrants Are Expected

Mr. F. W. Might, the local immigration officer, is expecting some new arrivals towards the end of the week. They are for the greater part married men, with small families, and experienced men.

This season has not been as was anticipated, a heavy one, in the province of Ontario. Reports from all parts, would indicate that very few have wended their way into Ontario this spring. It is believed that many have gone west.

One man may be parted from another, but there is no dividing us from ourselves.

Mr. W. Burgess, of Belmont, gave us a call on Saturday.

The annual meeting of the Sunday School of the Methodist Church was held on Wednesday night last, when the business for the year just closed was reviewed, and the officers elected for the year upon which we have now entered. The reports showed the school in a flourishing condition. Mr. B. F. Doxsee is superintendent, and Mr. Charles Jones, teacher of the organized Adult Bible Class. This class is very enthusiastic and is doing excellent work.

Thursday last was observed at Westwood as "Fish Day," and a great number from this vicinity drove over and came home well laden [illegible]. This is an annual event looked forward to with great anticipation.

Witch's Spell Was Broken

LONDON, May 13—How a family in Dorsetshire was "bewitched" and how they broke the spell by consulting a "white witch" is told in the Dorset County Chronicle.

The scene of the "bewitching" was the Village of Higher Bockhampton, the "Upper Molstock" of Thomas Hardy's Wessex novels, where Mr. Hardy himself was born.

In the cottage next to Mr. Hardy's birthplace lived, until a week or so ago, a carter, with his family, including his wife, a daughter of fifteen, two sons, and a young man said to be the girl's sweetheart.

The girl became ill, and a Dorchester doctor was consulted. The girl became hysterical, and screamed and struggled, when her sweetheart was asked to find lodgings elsewhere. Her elder sister, Sarah, who was living some way off, was fetched home to soothe and nurse her.

But Sarah also was taken mysteriously ill and became rigid, and unable to move hand or foot. Throughout one night," the story proceeds, "the whole place was—alive with screams and yells. The girl who had first taken ill declared with every symptom of alarm, that five ill-looking persons who had overlooked her were standing outside the house and 'glowering' in at her through the window. She could see them plainly!"

Callers who were going home happened to look back over their shoulders and saw an eerie light come out of the carters house past through the wicket gate and glide up the lane and on to the heath.

The perturbed father consulted a witch doctor, witch finder, or white witch.

"The witch doctor, having received full particulars, declared that unless the whole family, bag and baggage, goods and chattels were out of the house by half-past five on Saturday afternoon, the two girls would die.

"The father was driven over to Broadmayne, where he heard of an empty cottage, and was able to hire it. He then went into Dorchester and made arrangements for the insurance of the furniture, and all was made ready for the evacuation of the luckless house before daybreak.

In a closed conveyance all the members of the 'wisht' family were summarily bundled and forthwith driven to Broadmayne.

"All the injunctions given by the witch [illegible] were observed scrupulously. No soul uttered a word during the journey. The young man rode close beside his sweetheart and the two sisters sat back to back, and were not to turn their heads to look at each other.

"They got to their new abode some time before the arrival of the household furniture. When they heard the approach of the cart the father said to his daughtr: "You must go into the next room now.' And she was able to get up and walk into the room as well as any of the others.

"The spell was broken."

Clergyman Endorses Cure Of Nervous Prostration

Four Doctors Had Failed—Hope Given Up

Mrs. E. T. Ford, 55 McGee Street, Toronto, Ont., states:—"Some time ago I was ill from nervous prostration and for many weeks was in a very serious condition. I was treated by four different doctors without receiving any benefit from their treatment. I had quite given up hope when one day my husband saw Dr. Chase's advertisement, and it seemed so to suit my case that I bought a box of Nerve Food. I improved so rapidly that I continued using the Nerve Food, and I am thankful to say, it worked a complete cure. Since that time, we have never been without it in the house, and I gladly recommend it to all my neighbors."

Her Pastor's Endorsement

Rev. G. M. Holmes, Pastor of Eastern Ave. Baptist Church, Toronto, writes:—"I have known Mrs. Ford as a member of my church for over two years, and know that any statement she would make would be correct."

It was very difficult for me to do my housework, and I felt very miserable, I doctored but did not receive any benefit until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This medicine proved of wonderful benefit to me, building up the system and restoring health and strength. I always feel now that if I do get run down I can depend on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to make me strong and well.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

RECORD CROWD IS EXPECTED WHEN THE LID IS PRIED OFF TO-MORROW

Louie Schettler Has Been Selected by Manager Blount to Pitch Opening Game Against London

OPENING CEREMONIES

Judging by the enthusiasm being shown all over the City, the opening of the Canadian League season, in Peterborough, to-morrow, promises to be a record breaker. The mortality among grand mothers, which is a usual attendant upon the ushering in of a new baseball year will not be so great as in other seasons, because of the half holiday proclamation of Mayor Buller, but the attendance, nevertheless, should come close to the Riverside Park high mark, if it does not surpass the figure set up on May 24th, last year.

The Blountmen will get an enthusiastic welcome. Although they were beaten three in a row at Erie, after winning the opening game, the fans are not worrying much about dropping a few games at this stage, and they will be out there to-morrow pulling for a win over Doc Reisling's London Tecumsehs. At that the Petes bring home a better record than in any other year from the first road trip. Last year and in 1912 they came back to face the opening ceremonies without having won a game.

There will be many new players in the Peterborough squad when they line up for the inspection of the home guard fans to-morrow. The only old members are pitcher Sterling, Belting Cresswell and Tracey; outfielders Swartz and Fox and third baseman Joe Byrne. Manager Blount, Pitcher Schettler, Catchers Miller, Ryberg, and Kelly, outfielder Wilcox, First-baseman Gorman, Second Baseman King and Short Stop Price, are all new to Peterborough fans.

Pitcher Louie Schettler has been selected by Manager Blount to do the heaving for the Bountmen in the opening game. The choice will be a popular one with local fandom, as they are all anxious to see the Youngstown boy in action. Miller will be unable to catch and either Kelly or Ryberg will don the mask and pad. To the Examiner to-day Manager Blount announced his batting order as follows:

Blount, m.
Fox, r. f.
King, 2nd b.
Gorman, 1 b.
Swarts or Wilcox, l.f.
Byrne, 3b.
Price, s. s.
Kelly or Ryberg, c.
Schettler, p.
Sterling, p.
Tracey, p.
Cresswell, p.
Belting, p.

If Bobby Heck does not work for London today he will undoubtedly be selected by Doc. Reisling to twirl for London. It will be one merry battle between Shettler and Heck to-morrow.

London's batting order will be about as follows:

Linneborn, 2 b.
Long, l. f.
Lamy, m.
Bierbauer, 1 b.
Whitcraft, s. s.
Reidy, r. f.
Mullen, 3 b.
Danford or Snyder, c.
Heck,
Steiger,
Beebee,
Hammond,
Reisling,

Umpire Bedford will handle the indicator.

Opening Ceremonies.

Arrangements are now completed for the opening. The automobile parade will commence at the Market Square and, headed by the 57th Regimental Band, will proceed to Riverside Park, by way of George and Hunter streets. Mayor Buller will endeavour to pitch the first ball over the plate and the two ball clubs will show how badly they march by, doing the lock step across the fied.

The weather man says fine and milder and if he comes through with that brand there is nothing to it but one grand crowd that will jam the stands and bleachers and overflow into the field.

BASEBALL COMMENTS

The Saints are certainly hitting a hard luck streak. Five postponements in the first week of the season comes pretty close to a Canadian League record. And the only day it was possible to play Midge Craven's Railroaders were bumped twice.

Now that Thompson is located with the Brooklyn Feds, no one will be surprised to find Nemo Nasher bobbing up some where on the Gilmour circuit.

"What's the use of playing?" says Shag,
We have already captured the rag,
We won two in a row,
It's all over and so
They might as well hand us the flag."

Murphy the rookie who is trying to fill Doolan's shoes in the short field position on the Philies is very dear, thereby robbing the fans of their privilege of telling him just how bad he looks to them.

Sketches of The Blountmen

JOS. A. BYRNE, Infielder

Born at Philadelphia, in the year 1891. Height 5 feet 10 inches. Weight 165 lbs.

"Joe" played semi-professional ball before joining the Ocean City team of the Seashore League in the year 1911.

In 1912 he played with the Wilmington Club of the Tri-State League until he joined the Peterborough Club on June 20th of that year.

Joe has been with the club ever since, and is showing his best form this spring, in both fielding and hitting. If he continues his present class should lead the third sackers in the League this season.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

Hamilton Spectator: There is one lock of hair on the head of Bill Mellroy's poodle b- which he can be lifted up. As the dog was born in Peterborough, that particular lock of hair is known as the lift lock.

BRANTFORD, May 12—There is a possibility that Eddie Wright, last year the third-sacker for the St. Thomas team, will be seen in a Brant uniform shortly. Eddie has been with Providence in the International League for the spring months, and has been making good there. McIntyre, outfielder, and Bauman, the regular third baseman, who have been out with injuries, are now back again and there are chances that Wright will be sent back to class "B," as the other two men are working well.

Eddie would like to come back to Brantford if he should be relegated to the minors again, as he wants to play under Deneau, and the Brantford club is negotiating for his release to the Brants.

Brantford, May 12—Some further changes in the make-up of the Brants were announced by Manager Deneau to-day. With the arriva of Infielder Roth all worry about the keystone sack fas settled and it became necessary to dispense with one of the infielders already on the roster. Beltz was the man on whose head the axe fell, and he received his walking ticket last evening. He will not long be out of a job, however, as several other Canadian League teams are after him.

Since coming to Brantford Beltz has played grand ball in the field, handling the ball fast and neatly, but he has proved weak with the hickory, and Manager Deenau is determined to strengthen this department of the team's work without further oss of time. It is more than likely that Beltz will go to Hamilton, replacing Dudley at third base, the latter probably going to outfield. When the Athletics were here last week Manager Yates asked Beltz to communicate with him in event of the Brants letting him out, and last night the second sacker wired Yates at Erie.

Deneau is now awaiting the arrival of Johnny Nelson, last year's third sacker, to complete the infield. He is also negotiating for the services of a couple of pitchers. For the opening at Hamilton on Thursday he will probaby use Gero, who defeated the Athletics in the opening game here.

Toronto Mail and Empire: The Canadian League are having their troubles in getting down to business owing to the rainy weather, all games again being postponed yesterday for the second day in succession. These lay-offs hurt the clubs, more especially those who have not rounded into condition. Take the Beavers, for instance. They have not even become acquainted with each other yet, let alone reached their playing stride. In London Saturday one of the bleacherites asked Outfielder Load who was pitching for the Beavers when Schaeffer took the mound, but he couldn't answer the question.

Toronto Mail and Empire: President McCaffery certainly did some hustling after he bought the Berlin franchise in the Canadian league, which included Pitchers Auld and Schaeffer, and a set of old uniforms. To-day the Beavers have eighteen players signed up, and everyone with the exception of Ort, have youth and speed on their side, and are all prospects for higher company. If I get two players out of the Beavers at the end of the season who are ripe for Class AA company the investment will more than repay me," remarked Mr. McCaffery.

BALL TEAM HERE TO-DAY

The heavy rain which poured down on St. Thomas during the past few days, not only prevented yesterday's game, but made it impossible to play to-day, and the result was that the Blountmen blew in a day ahead of time, arriving on the 12:58 C.P.R. train this morning. There were nineteen in the party including Secretary Dobson and Mrs. Blount and Mrs. Schettler.

The squad took advantage of the day's rest at home by a workout at Riverside Park this afternoon.

The boys are not a bit disheartened by their three reverses at Erie. "We will be out there to-morrow giving them a battle," is what the players say, and Manager Blount is equally cheerful.

The little leader when seen by The Examiner this morning, said that his team is by no means in mid-summer form yet. The cold weather ever since they opened training has been against the team, and a few days of warm weather should work wonders. "We were ahead in all three games we lost," said Curly, "but we played some pretty bad baseball and kicked the game away after we had a lead."

The players who arrived home are: Pitchers Schettler, Sterling, Belting, Cresswell and Tracey; Catchers Miller, Ryberg and Kelly; Infielders Gorman, King, Price and Byrne; Outfield hands with the fans all day to-Wilcox.

The old guard have been busy shaking hands with the fans alal day to-day.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR BALL GAME

For the convenience of the fans who wish to dodge the crowd at the gate at Riverside Park to-morrow, the Peterborough Ball Club has arranged to put tickets on sale at The Examiner Office and at Collins' Cigar Store. These will be admission tickets, and grandstand tickets will have to be secured at the grounds. The admission tickets will be on sale this evening and to-morrow morning.

English Writer's Review Of The 51st Football Season

W. Pickford, writing in the Athletic News, Manchester, reviewing the fifty-first season since football was officially organised, says the game maintains its attractiveness for the public.

A very good judge said to me the other day that the great need of the immediate future was to make more and better accommodation for spectators. Of course, that means money, but it is, at any rate, one good result of the limitation of wages and the check given to reckless rivalry that many of the clubs have been able to find cash for the purpose of ground improvements. At the same time transfer fees, some of which do not appear to have been justified by results, have been a heavy drain.

Another controversy, that as to what is the real football, has been settled, for the present at any rate, by the triumph of the Scottish style. The curious part of it is that when you see either method played at its best it is just as fascinating as the other. It was an object lesson in brainy combination to watch the Scottish eleven in the second half of the International at Glasgow. The main work was done by the three inside forwards, and it was nearly the perfection of cool, subtle, and skilful play.

Those of us who are more familiar with the speedy and furious tactics commonly employed in England, look on the Scottish forward game as slow. So it is, and moreover it has the demerit of lacking something in final goal work; but it is remarkably spectacular, and undoubtedly suits the more abstruse temperament of the Scottish. I still prefer the sweeping, open game, but it is obvious that this season the men have not been found to play it properly.

The Jubilee.

The historic event of the season, though it perhaps had little effect on the game itself, was the attainment of the Football Association's Jubilee. It brought home to us for the first time, and in a remarkable manner, the solidarity of the game all over the world. That may be said to have been its leading feature. With the solitary exceptions of Bohemia, the Amateur F. A., and every national and local body of Association football in the world joined in the important functions. Since then the A.F.A. have joined the Association under a scheme that would seem to give its members scope for enthusiasm for the sort of football they want. In the past, ever since professionalism was legislated, a section of the clubs has never ceased to chafe at being attached to it.

Now those who hold exclusive views have a sphere in which they can operate, and at the same time gratify a laudable desire on the part of some of them to meet professional teams in friendly rivalry. We may yet see the Corinthians renew their palmy days, and we shall no longer take the field in amateur Internationals with the suggestion that England is not fully represented. Nevertheless due and ample credit must be paid to the loyal amateurs of the F. A., who have so splendidly maintained the high standard of amateur football.

A Good Feeling.

The rapproachement to the Amateur F.A. has been paralleled by a distinctly good feeling between the big Leagues and the governing body. It is often contended that the interests of the two are inimical. At any rate not a few critics seem to lose no chance of stirring up strife if it were possible. But the solid common-sense of all parties has been against it. The Leagues have a very important work to do, as they supply in the main the great football programmes of the year. They also deal almost exclusively with the paid element in the sport, so far as professionalism is a whole-time employment.

Subject to the main principles that affect all players alike, the Leagues are in a better position to deal with such matters than the Association. That was proved by the difficulties that the F. A had to face when it had the carrying out of financial regulations, as compared with the present easy working of the same under direct League control. It must not be forgotten that the F.A., as the authority in the game, is necessarily bound to be in the position at times of the punisher of offences.

Discipline is necessary, and so long as it is rightly imposed with equal justice to all, the geenral sense of the football community is at the back of the Association.

TAILOR BILLS OF ROYALTY

Tailors of Paris say that Alfonso of Spain is the tailor's ideal of the finest crowned head of Europe, because his extravagant taste in fancy vests, silk hats, garters, and vests often leads to riotous designs, which cost $100 each. He will pay $30 for a silk hat which he wears only twice.

Every year he orders three magnificent pairs of garters with platinum buckles at $200 a pair.

King George V. spends less on his clothes than any other monarch.

The King orders twenty-five lounge and morning suits every year, paying $50 a-piece, and twenty-five shooting costumes at $40 each. He pays $60 each for his winter overcoats, and $50 for his light overcoats. He ties cost him from $5 to $10 a-piece. He never wears a suit more than twenty times.

The Kaiser's only sartorial extravagance is in yachting costumes, although he orders twenty-four suits at a time.

The Tsar has a superb collection of fur-lined overcoats, which cost $5,000 annually to keep up, and he spends more than $600 yearly for winter gloves. His ordinary lounge suits run up to $15,000 annually.

He gives his old clothes to a valet; Alfonse tells his and pockets the money; King George B. hands his to Queen Mary for charities; the proceeds of the sale of his left-offs the Kaiser also gives to charity.

BRITISH BUTLER PASSES.

National Type Vanishing From the British Empire.

The British butler is rapidly disappearing into the shadowy past, which is so closely peopled with the ghosts of personalities. The reasons of his extinctions are not far to seek. In fact, they were fully explained in the daily press the other day. People are limiting their extravagances in the old way in order to have more for the new.

The butler was no ordinary servant. He did not work by himself. An autocrat, and retinue of servants to administer to his wants, he was a luxury, and now in an age when even the least decorative luxuries have become necessities, he is going. The comparatively cheaply paid parlour maid is taking his place. She can carve and she can valet, and she requires no retinue. The butler is going out.

All this is a sign of the times, and like most signs of the times, very sad. The present generation just knows the butler because he was a great figure in the pageant of its youth, and we remember the people who dominated us in our childhood. But the generation of to-morrow will have no greater knowledge of the butler than of those romantic couriers who rode through the pages of Fielding and Smollett and Richardson, and who are to-day as dead as a doornail or any other article of domestic utility which never possessed a spark of life.

RAISING THE STANDARD

Realizing that the police force of the Canadian Pacific was not high enough in standard to correspond with the general high standard of the officers of the Company, Mr. George Rury, vice-president of Western Lines, decided that he would raise the standard accordingy. But how to do it was the question. He must have a company of men who would rank equal to the police force of the cities where the company operates. It would have to be composed of a type of men above reproach in sobriety, morality and discipline. There were only two places to get such a body of men; from the Imperial army or from the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. Another and equally important object would be attained at the same time. It would foster the Imperial idea, and as the Canadian Pacific is the Imperial highway so would the guardians of that highway be an Imperial police force.

So the task was started, and the standard was set. To-day the Company has a body of gatemen and policemen of stations and grounds that is a credit to the company and is a direct link of Imperial unity. Only men having an honourable discharge from either the Imperial army or from the Royal Northwest Mounted Police are eligible.

It is no small job to police the buildings and grounds of a large railway terminal. On western lines of the Canadian Pacific extending from Lake Superior to the Pacific Ocean, there is now a police force of army veterans. Each one has served his term of enlistment; each has the service medal, and each one has a discharge from either the Imperial army or from the Royal Northwest Mounted Police without the shadow of a blemish. Now, when you see an officer on duty at any of the stations wearing the uniform of the company, he will also have a little ribbon on his left breast. It is a duplicate of the ribbon that carries the medal he has earned by distinguished service in the army of Great Britain or in the R.N.W.M.P.

Standing always on dress parade these men have become the recognized authority of the station grounds, and the men who never get impatient They are always ready to supplement the work of city or provincial officers wherever possible, and to protect the public is their main object. When His Royal Highness the Governor General of Canada visited the west two years ago he complimented the management on the excellence of their police force, and he recognized several men on the force by having seen them in the Imperial army. It is really an Imperial police force, men schooled in rendering all the help in their power for the preservation of peace and could be easily solidified into a unit of Imperial defence. The uniform, including the cap, is of special design, passed upon by the vice-president, and many requests have been recived from other railways for the pattern. The Canadian Pacific police force is now one of the great outstanding features of that great railway.

EARLY ENGLISH HOUSES MOSTLY WOODEN HUTS.

English common people for centuries made their homes in wooden huts of one room. When a family increased in number or wealth another hut was built to it, or rather a lean-to was added, and another and another as needs required. Sometimes they followed a straight line, other times they were built out from the central hut at various angles. The roofs of these huts were thatched. In the centre was left an opening for the fumes and smoke of the fire to escape. The fire was always built in a hollow in the centre of the room.

Beds were straw, often a shake-down in a corner. Occasionally the straw was held in a frame like the ribs of a ship.

Houses built by the Saxon knights were much more pretentious. They were big halls, like the Roman atrium, with a lofty roof thatched with slate or wood shingles. This floor was hard clay. In the middle was a great fire of dry wood. The thin, acrid smoke from the fire escaped through an opening in the roof directly above the hearth.

Around the fire were long benches on which hearthsmen and visitors sat when not fighting or at work, and talked and drank the long hours through. The tables were long boards on trestles. At night, like the less prosperous folks, the floor was strewn with straw and host and visitors slept together.

Man Was Given Marching Orders

Another transient trader, or peddler was rounded up yesterday by an officer of the Retail Merchants' Association, and was found to be selling pictures, but as he was an old man, and admitted to the Chief that he was only about to start, he was given marching orders to get right out of Town at once. No charge was thereore laid.

The Secretary of the Association is of the opinion that the public should know that there are a lot of ladies going around from door to door taking orders for a medical book, and stating that they are nurses from the Health Association. Many people are liable to be misled by this statement, as there is a public Board of Health, but these persons are in no way connected with it, being strangers in the City.

There is also a gang of photographers at work in the City, going from house to house, and taking pictures. They then bring round the proof, and are becoming very insistent in selling these pictures afterwards. These are the men who defied the Transient Traders and Peddlers by-law by arranging with a local photographer to work under his name.

Waited in Vain

BALTIMORE, May 13.—After fitting out the house she intended to make her future home, buying her wedding trousseau and inviting 40 persons to witness the ceremony, Miss Magdalena Ess, 20 years old, a pretty German girl, of Locust Point, declares her husband-to-be failed to materialize.

Miss Ess says she waited at the Church, Forth Avenue and Hull Street, for half an hour, only to find that her intended husband, George Barth, 22 years old, was not going to carry out his promise to wed her.

She asked the police to arrest Barth, but was told her only redress lay in a breach of promise suit.

CONTEMPLATE SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Ill., May 13.—That at the present moment there are some twelve thousand persons in Cook County, which includes the City of Chicago, who are contemplating suicide, and that he can within a reasonable degree of accuracy determine the number of Chicagoans who will meet with violent deaths within the next twelve months, is the assertion of Coroner Hoffman in his biennial report for 1913 just completed.

The report gives a record of 10,992 deaths in Chicago of which Coroner Hoffman asserts "nearly one-half could have been avoided by a comprehensive crusade of education on the lines of public safety."

WEDDING BELLS

BISSONNETTE—McGRATH.

Yesterday in St. Peter's Church a pretty wedding took place, when the Rev. Dean McColl united in marriage Mr. Fred Bissonette and Miss Nellie McGrath, daughter of Mr. John McGrath, Otonabee. They were attended by Mr. Fredenburg and Miss Hefernan, a cousin of the bride.

McINTOSH—GOSELIN

They were attended by Miss Kathleen Hargrove and Mr. Romeo Desautel.

After the ceremony the newly married couple repaired to the home of the bride where a wedding repast was served.

ROOKSBY—ARNOTT.

At the rectory of All Saints' Church this afternoon at 3:30, Mr. Smith Rooksby, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Elizabeth Arnott, of Peterborough. The wedding was an exceedingly quiet one, being performed in the presence of only the immidiate relatives and friends. Rev. R. J. Grobb performed the ceremony. The couple left on the local this afternoon for Grand Rapids, where they will reside.

SUSPENSION APPROVED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Ont., May 13.—It is understood here to-day that the suspension of Father Loiselle, of River Canard, by the Diocesan Court, here, in connection with his charges against Bishop Fallon, respecting the bilingual methods, has been temporarily approved by the ecclesiastical authorities at Rome, on the grounds of discipline. It will be necessary, however, for Bishop Fallon's court to forward a complete record of the proceedings to Rome, for final adjudication there.

PLEA FOR BOY SCOUTS

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In your issue of to-day I notice that it is posible the Peterborough Scouts may not be called upon to take part in the programme in connection with the visit of the Duke of Connaught. His Roya Highness, being the Chief Scout of Canada, it is only right that the boys should be asked to take part in the reception of their Chief. It is evident that the small number of Scouts in the City is the drawback, but might I ask what the City has ever done to further the movement? And does the Reception Committee think that in sounding the death knell of the Scout movement in this City that they are doing honour to His Royal Highness. It appears as if the City would rather bury the movement in which His Royal Highness is so keenly interested, than allow him to discover its indifference. Peterborough without a Scout is better than Peterborough with one troop?

The Scout movement stands for patriotism, a love of country, good citizenship, and a high moral standard, and ought to be encouraged, instead of trampled upon. I am perfectly convinced that His Royal Highness would not like to think there were no Boy Scouts in Peterborough. I am

FOUND WIFE DEAD

BROOKLYN, May 13—Early in the morning a man rushed into the Bedford Avenue Police Station, shouting incoherently: "My wife, my wife." Policemen Wrightman and Cummings thought that the man was demented and took him to an ante room.

By dint of much questioning, they learned that he is Henry Aquilar of 173 North Seventh street, and that he found that his wife, Sarah Aquilar was dead in bed.

She had given birth to triplets a few days previously. Neighbours came over to the Aquilar apartments and took charge of the three little boys, who were lying asleep beside their dead mother. The couple were married about two years ago and had no other children.

AMBY KANE IN THE COLONIAL LEAGUE

Amby Kane, last year the manager of the Brantford Red Sox, is this year manager of the Taunton Club in the Colonial League, a new organization in Massachusetts. He had with him trying out Del Orcutt, Hadley, Clearmont and himself who were with last year's Red Sox, and Kusamaul, a big fellow who tried out with St. Thomas. The Taunton papers claim that the team looks good, and that Orcutt, who has been out of shape, is rounding to nicely. Hadley will be retained for sure, as will Clarmont if he will sign up. In a practice game of regulars vs. Yannigans, Kane played right field and got one hit in three, Orcutt had two out of three and scored three runs, while Claremont allowed but one hit in two innings.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

To-morow the stock market is expected to reflect specialty improvement, but the general list awaits Washington advices. The tone of sentiment exhibited to our reporters show an under current of strong optimism. While it seems to be the impression that the general market is in a waiting attitude and that speculations are confined in the active issues to a trading area, the bullishness underlying is apparent. Much activity is promised in various quarters and pools are reported to be preparing for improvement later on. Eliminate Washington and the market would go up; that seems to be the feelings in both bearish and bullish circles.

There is very little to be said in the matter of specific gossip during the present dullness, but it is understood that the buying is good in Union Pacific, Reading, C.P.R., Lehigh Valley and Erie, and some of the specialties order are under the market, according to floor information, but there is no inclination to bid for stocks.

American stocks in London were irregular and rather heavy without important changes. General market shows slight improvement. Consols remain unchanged. On any slight dip you can still buy all the active issues for a few points' rise.
